

Practical tips for virtual facilitation: Lessons from the Lancashire Next Generation GP team

Nicola Cooper-Moss, Aaron Poppleton, Kirstie Caine, Amy Boydell-Smith, Umesh Chauhan

Why?

- Peer-led leadership programme to energise, engage and empower early-career GPs/trainees.
- Transition from physical events to virtual delivery during the COVID-19 pandemic.

Who?

- 90 participants (45 GPs, 45 trainees)
- Manchester – Lancashire collaboration
- Local and national leaders
- Mentor from NHS Leadership Academy

Participant feedback

"Oh my! Where do I start! It was an amazing, thought provoking and eye opening session. It helped me reflect and think more about my strengths and how to use them in everyday life"

"Great session once again ... Really valuable to hear different personalities and perspectives of leadership and potential opportunities"

"The Q+A is always useful - it allows direct interaction with the speaker. It's nice to speak to someone who has a general overview of the NHS and the future of GP"

Top tips to emerge from transition to virtual delivery

What next?

- Further analysis of feedback on completion of the programme in July 2021.
- The lessons learnt will be used to shape future programmes with virtual elements.
- Continued community building and relationship development using a variety of social media platforms.
