The Rev. Dr. BURNS supported the resolution, and pointed out what he conceived to be the causes of apparent failure referred to in it. These were—first, that it was only a short time since the cause was launched upon society; secondly, the previous conviction of all classes of persons, including nearly the whole of the medical profession, that alcoholic drinks were not only useful, but absolutely necessary to health and longevity; third, the universal prevalence of the drinking customs of society; and fourth, the immense capital and amazing amount of influence employed in the traffic in alcohol, and which stood in direct antagonism to the working out of the temperance principles (hear). But much had been done both abroad and at home; a great many drunkards had been reclaimed; a great many more had been placed in circumstances of absolute preservation; a great moral institution had been reared, which held a high place in the world—a great many edifices had been erected for the exclusive purpose of advocating their principles—a temperance literature had been formed, and some thousands of temperance readers had been created, while the cause of temperance had given a mighty impulse to many other movements of the day (hear, hear). Moreover, it had effected a great change in public opinion. They had the testimony of two thousand of the most eminent medical men, by whom the physiological question had been settled for ever. Look, too, at the respect paid to the cause by statesmen and writers of the day, at the fine manifestation in the Great Exhibition—an Exhibition free from alcoholic excitement (cheers). In such a landscape there were surely many green spots—many things to cheer and to inspire (hear). On the other hand, there were certainly some things to regret. He, for one, had never dreamed that after 15 years' struggle the Church of Christ would be in the same inglorious position as it was in the present day (hear, hear). He was grieved and surprised that the help they had rendered to other societies was not reciprocated, and that some were in positive antagonism to them. He referred to the Sunday-school Union, and the mournful exhibition displayed at their recent anniversary, when every reference to teetotalism was treated with ridicule and contempt (hear, hear). The speaker then related the facts connected with the impugned statistics of Mr. Smithies, in relation to the number of juvenile criminals of both sexes, who were found suffering various degrees of imprisonment and discipline in gaols and penitentiaries, and stated that a public challenge had been given to the Sunday-school Union to meet and discuss the subject in that hall (cheers). He alluded also to the painful statements made by Mr. Sherman at the December Temperance Demonstration, as to the number of children in the Sunday-schools connected with his congregation who were known to have turned out drunkards; and quoted from an entry made by the chaplain of the Bridewell prison in his minute-book, "that if it were not for the influence of alcoholic drink his prison might be closed" (hear). Believing that temperance was physically, mentally, socially, nationally, morally, and spiritually good, he would urge firmness and constancy upon all its friends (cheers).

The Rev. G. W. MCCREE moved, and the Rev. R. G. MASON seconded, the third resolution, which was:—

"That it is highly desirable to extend the sphere of the society's operations, by bringing the subject before persons who have hitherto paid little attention to it, and as far as possible, to lay before the general reader the reasons which may be adduced in favour of total abstinence from all intoxicating drinks; and to this end it is of great importance to make use of the public press, and both by London and provincial newspapers, as the ordinary channels through which intelligent persons can be reached, to make known the arguments and facts which may lead them to support this great movement."

The Doxology was then sung, and the meeting separated.

SAFFRON-HILL.

On Monday evening, the 5th ult., a meeting was convened in the Good Samaritan Temperance Hall, Little Safron-hill, preparatory to the formation of a "Band of Hope," as a branch of the Harp-alley Temperance Society.—Mr. Vanderkiste, who presided, said that he could speak of intemperance and of total abstinence from his own personal knowledge of the evils resulting from the one, and the benefits resulting from the other. He had seen much of the evil resulting from the drunkenness of parents as one great means of depriving the children of education, and of the benefit of parental counsel and example. Among the class called "unhappy females," also, he had traced the fearful consequences resulting from the use of strong drink. Hence he was anxious to have Bands of Hope formed, that those principles might be instilled into their minds in early life which might preserve them from the temptations to the use of strong drink, by which they were sure to be surrounded. He related a very affecting case of a young woman he had met with in the street, who acknowledged that the use of strong drink had led to her seduction. She stated, amongst other things connected with her early life, that she had been for some time a scholar, and afterwards a teacher, in a Sabbath-school.—Mr. Hodgson presented some facts illustrating the practicability and efficiency of the Band of Hope principle. He related several instances of children having clearly understood and resolutely kept the pledge of total abstinence; and also in which they had been successful advocates of the practice in their own families, among their parents, playmates, and others.—Mr. T. B. Smithies addressed the young present on the importance of their joining "Bands of Hope." The rule of the society was, that no child should be allowed to sign the pledge till he or she had first asked the parent's leave; but he believed that if the children related to their parents what they heard at such meetings as the present, and behaved properly, few parents would refuse their consent. There were many instances in which children had been the means of reclaiming drunken parents. He related some cases of great distress in families, occasioned by the use of strong drink, and also in which total abstinence had been the means of restoring peace and comfort.—Mr. S. Cutton stated the pleasing progress which had been made at Plaistow in the formation of "Bands of Hope," and urged the parents present to bring their children, without delay, to have their names enrolled. Some striking instances had occurred in which children had kept their pledge, notwithstanding strong temptations to break it.—Mr. J. W. Green said that the "Bands" now forming in so many parts of the kingdom encouraged the "Hope" that the next generation would be more sober than the present. The friends and promoters of temperance were anxious to have children and youth with them—first, because they would, by that means, be preserved from practices which endangered the health, intellectual improvement, moral character, and social comfort of so large a portion; and, secondly, because in them the societies would find valuable auxiliaries to aid them in tract distribution, in making known the meetings, in collecting pledges, in obtaining funds, and for other purposes. But, in order to insure the consistency of the children, they must have the parents too—otherwise, all the efforts of temperance advocates might be entirely frustrated by the indulgence of the parents in the drinking customs of the land.—After a few remarks from the Chairman, the meeting broke up.

SELBY.

On Tuesday, May 6, the Teetotalers held their sixth and last working men's demonstration for this season, in the Victoria Room, which was crowded.—Ten working men gave their testimony in favour of Total Abstinence, and of their determination to abide by the principle which had done them so much good. The speeches of the working men have told upon the audience, and numbers of their fellow workmen have been induced to "sign the pledge." One of the working men stated that he could go nowhere in the town without hearing of teetotalism.—Mr. Morrell, who presided, interspersed the whole with several statistical facts and anecdotes, and expressed a wish that every minister of religion in the town had been present to hear some of the working men who had been accustomed to "loudly sing the drunkard's song," but which was now changed to one of praise and prayer.—The same evening the "Band of Hope" met in the same room, which was nearly filled with young teetotalers, and a copy of the "Youth's Temperance Journal" was given to each, after addresses from Messrs. Mann and Morrell.

LINCOLN.

The working men of this city have originated a new temperance society, which is designated the "Sons of Temperance Working Men's Association." It has been in active operation for about three months, during which time it has accomplished much good, not only in the reformation of many, but also in reviving the members of the old society, the greater part of whom aid the new effort to spread the principles of Temperance. Success has so far attended the efforts which have been made; the weekly meetings have been well attended by mechanics, &c.—about 150 new signatures have been obtained, besides the names of many others who were members of the original society. A "Band of Hope" has been recently established, and it is looked upon as the forerunner of a sober generation. During the last month two lectures have been delivered to the members and friends—one "On Self-improvement, its importance, and the means of attaining it," by Rev. K. S. Short, the other by Rev. C. C. Nutter, "On the Great Exhibition of 1851, its probable results, industrial, social, and moral."

MANCHESTER.

On May 9th Mr. James Teare, of Preston, lectured in the Wesleyan Association School-room, Lever-street to a crowded and deeply attentive audience. He commenced by stating that he had been a teetotaler for twenty years, the greater part of which time he had been engaged in its public advocacy, and had visited every county in England. He was happy to tell them that the principles of Teetotalism were taking deep root in the minds of the people. Those who drank intoxicating drinks now were either ashamed of the practice, and would not drink in public, or they gave some apology for doing so. He said that in the manufacture of ale, porter, &c., there were 3,000,000 quarters of good grain consumed, which would keep 3,000,000 of people in bread for twelve months. Bread was much cheaper now than in 1846, and one reason was that many persons had ceased to drink intoxicating liquors; hence less good grain was wasted, a larger quantity was in the market, and the price was always regulated by the quantity. He explained the cause of the Americans having so much more grain than we; this was attributable to the extent to which Teetotalism prevailed there—for there 5,000 distilleries had been closed, and 10,000 liquor merchants driven out. In conclusion, he alluded to the speech made by Mr. Hume in the House of Commons, in the course of which he said that "he wished to see the Excise totally abolished, except the duties on spirits; that he was desirous of repealing the Malt-duty, for he believed that much of the drunkenness of his own country particularly was owing to the increased price of malt liquor, which drove the people to drink spirits. He (Mr. Hume) believed that the introduction of a cheap beverage like malt liquor would lead to habits of sobriety and good order among the people, and would induce them to dispense with spirits." Mr. Teare said he had certainly given Mr. Hume credit for more sense and judgment; but if there was to be "free trade" in the manufacture and sale of beer, then farewell to domestic peace, to the spread of Christianity and education, either secular or religious; for, instead of having an extension of all these, we should have to enlarge our prisons, increase our workhouses, and multiply our infirmaries and lunatic asylums.—A vote of thanks was given to Mr. Teare for his able lecture.

Advertisements, and articles intended for insertion, should be addressed to the Editor, 335, Strand, London; also, all orders for the Stamped Edition, with remittance for the amount, in postage-stamps, or Post-office orders, to John Cassell, as above.

The TEETOTAL TIMES AND ESSAYIST may be had of B. L. Green, 62, Paternoster-row, London; Ward, 54, do.; Abel Heywood, Manchester; Kershaw, Leeds; Menzies, Edinburgh; Gallie, Glasgow; and all Booksellers.

NATIONAL GREATNESS AND TOTAL ABSTINENCE.

[From "The Greatness of the British Empire traced to its Sources," by BENJAMIN PARSONS; just published as a portion of "John Cassell's Library."]

"BY TEMPERANCE we mean total abstinence from all intoxicating drinks. We know that many will demur to this use of the term; but still we must maintain that our application of the word is correct. The Latin tempero, from which we derive the expression, is used by Virgil and others in the sense of 'abstinence.' The Greek word for temperance has the same signification; the idea is that of self-government, and implies the moderate use of what will do us good, but total abstinence from everything which will injure us. Philosophy, science, and common sense tell us that this is the true meaning of true temperance. The total abstainers of the country have been much ridiculed, because, in another designation which they bear, they are said to have adopted an outlandish word. The name to which we allude is 'Teetotalism.' Here, again, our opponents are at fault. In some parts of the country 'teetotal' is a superlative, derived from 'total,' and used as a term of stronger import. To be tee-totally ruined or undone implies entire destruction, beyond the hope of recovery. We need not say that this mode of strengthening a term, by doubling its initial letter, or by prefixing a syllable, is of very ancient date, and perfectly sanctioned by the classics of antiquity. The Hebrews did it; and the Greeks adopted it in the formation of their perfect tenses. The Saxons had a similar custom, and the Germans and others retain the same usage to this day. The proceeding seems very natural. Not only a child, but even learned men, will repeat an exclamation, a word, or sentence, when they are under the influence of wonder, or wish to be emphatic. The teetotalers may, therefore, be pardoned if they have assumed a name in conformity to the oldest of the nations, and perfectly sanctioned by the classics and literary men. Granted, the term is a provincialism; yet it ought not to be condemned on that account as outlandish. Some of the persons who deery this appellation are as loud in their denunciation of all epithets derived from Latin and Greek, and make a loud demand for pure Saxon; while others repudiate the Teutonic portion of our tongue as unfit to form a scientific nomenclature. We agree with neither the one nor the other. An expressive term is all we want to denominate any new discovery, invention, or pursuit, and this we are at liberty to borrow from any of the resources at hand. The temperance men have the same licence as their brethren; and they have adopted a word derived from the Latin, but greatly strengthened by the reduplication of its first letter; and they have applied this epithet to one of the greatest reformations of modern times.

"To some it may appear strange that in a section of this work on the advantages which the nation has derived from science, we should introduce Total Abstinence at all; but the matter is not hard of solution. Temperance is a chemical and physiological, as well as a moral question. It refers to health, intellect, and religion, and shows to what an extent each of these may suffer from diet, and especially from the beverages we use. Some of our greatest citizens have fallen through intemperance. We might mention poets, philosophers, eloquent men, senators, merchants, and ministers of religion, who sacrificed all their usefulness to their love of strong drink. And not only drunkenness has produced sad havoc among us, but the moderate use of these poisonous liquors has been far more destructive. Of course every drunkard comes from the ranks of the professed sober drinkers; but this is not all, nor, indeed, a thousandth part of the evil. Those who boast that they can take these beverages without harm are among the most deluded of the victims of the bottle. The feeling that they cannot do without them is one of the greatest proofs they can have that the mischief is begun. Disease has commenced its fatal ravages on their digestive organs and nerves, and rendered them the poor dependent slaves of the tankard, the decanter, or the spirit stand; and, perhaps, to these must now be added the pipe, the cigar, and the snuff-box. The medicine-chest, also, and the physician, are, it is not unlikely, supposed to be equally essential to the existence of these unhappy and trembling dyspeptics. The devastation also continues; for every remedy used is an aggravation of the evil. Well has the wise man said, "Wine is a mocker," for these poor deluded moderate drinkers are its dupes every day. It professes to relieve them, but carries on its deadly work under the fatal mask. How many strong men have we seen with every nerve shattered, and every muscle shaking, through what they have called the temperate use of these destructive drinks! We have known them obliged to leave the mart, the counter, and the pulpit; we have seen them languish under liver affections, jaundice, dyspepsy, intestinal complaints, nervousness, congestion of the brain, paralysis, brain fevers, melancholy, madness, and apoplexy, and then go to the grave years before they had run out their course, or done the work which God raised them up to accomplish. And we lament to say that such has been the end of numbers of the choicest spirits in our land. Men who might have blessed their country, the world, and the Church, for half a century longer with their wisdom, eloquence, and example, have been hurried by their own vitiated appetite from all their usefulness to the bar of God, to give an account of their suicidal diet and drink.

"Never, perhaps, was this evil more prevalent than now. It pervades all classes of society; it is the scourge of the great and the wealthy; the destroying angel of the middle classes; the demon of the social circle; the bane of the Church; and the pest of the working classes. What volumes the lunatic asylum could furnish respecting this tremendous woe! How many of the masses are clothed in rags, lie upon straw, and feed on the coarsest food, with not half enough of that to satisfy the cravings of hunger, and all because of their love of drink. These liquors ruin our most promising Sunday-school children; annually seduce hundreds of our Church members; make husbands worse than lions and tigers; sink wives below swine; and people our madhouses, hospitals, unions, gaols, and penal colonies. There is hardly a person hung but the crime is more or less connected with these poisons. So far are we now advanced in intelligence and morality that were these liquors abandoned, our police, magistrates, and judges, would have scarcely anything to do. Among the multitude, also, as well as among the wealthier classes, moderation is not only the parent of drunkenness, but of deterioration of character, nervousness, indigestion, liver complaints, paralysis and premature death; so that here is an evil and a crime more extensive and fatal than any other which pervades the land, debases our citizens, and shortens human life. In consequence of its ravages we are threatened with the destiny of Egypt, Babylon, Bagdat, and other kingdoms, states, and cities, which have fallen through dissipation.

"One pleasing discovery which physiology has brought to light respecting the human body is the number of safety-valves which are almost everywhere placed for the preservation of our health and life! and it is gratifying to observe that in our national resources arising from the bounties of Providence, or the studies and toils of our forefathers, we have a remedy for every danger which may hang over us, and whenever we will we may avail ourselves of its sovereign virtue. In this consists, we had almost said, the very core and essence of our greatness. Some nations cannot help themselves if they would. They have not the means if they had the will; but we lack nothing but the will. Our ancestors have enriched us with everything we can possibly require to rescue ourselves from impending ills, and to perfect the work which they so nobly began. This is the case with respect to intemperance, and our destructive moderate use of intoxicating poisons. Chemistry and physiology give us their light, and religion adds her prohibition. The beverage is a poison. This has been shown by chemistry; it is proved by analysis, and the physiologist has tracked it through the system, and shown its deadly influence on the stomach, the liver, the intestines, the heart, the muscles, the nerves, and the brain. It has also been demonstrated that whatever affects the brain affects the mind, the will, and the moral power. Here, then, is the case as far as science is concerned. But reason advances a step further, and tells us that to plunge ourselves into disease and shorten our days for the sake of a poisonous luxury is madness; and then religion adds her authority to reason and common sense, and commands us, in the name of our duty to GOD and man, and of our responsibility at the bar of the ETERNAL, to abstain from everything which would curtail our days, abridge our usefulness, or injure our fellow citizens. Intoxicating drinks are therefore, most emphatically condemned, and must be abandoned. Of this we have no more doubt than that the sun will rise to-morrow. To suppose that the Anglo-Saxons, men distinguished by discernment, the love of self, the love of life, liberty, intelligence, and virtue, will continue to torment, ruin, and poison themselves from age to age, until they have brought their country to desolation, is an insinuation and a reflection which we should be sorry to entertain. It is true that here, as in the reformation begun by Wickliffe, the Puritans, Independents, and others, the struggle may be protracted. It may be proper that temperance and drunkenness, abstinence and moderation, should for a while exist side by side, and engage in many a fray, that they may give a complete view of their principles, and the working of the two opposite systems; but in the end, science, reason, and religion will prevail, and a people no longer unnerved by these poisons will rise up in all the majesty of physical health, intellectual vigour, moral energy, and independency of resolve, and will avail themselves of all the resources which the Constitution supplies to sweep the last vestige of corruption and despotism from the land, and obtain that millennium of liberty, prosperity, and glory, for which their forefathers sighed, toiled, and died. And then it shall be universally acknowledged that our abstinence or teetotalism was one of the main sources of our national greatness."

Thus far from the volume. These remarks might be greatly amplified. The money, the property, the wholesome food, the talent, the intellect, the moral character every year sacrificed by these drinks is the heaviest calamity that befalls our land. A nation cannot rise without literature, science, art, liberty, morals, and religion. Take away these, and what use are the richest resources? Many savages have more of the comforts of life within their reach than our island naturally presents; but then they do not avail themselves of them. Strong drink reduces myriads of our countrymen to the condition of these barbarians. Their manners are no better—often not so good; and their real comforts frequently not so many. Only look at their dwellings, their furniture, and their food. The home of a drunkard is worse than the wigwam of an Indian. Hence, intoxicating drink is the vandal among us, retarding civilisation, and bringing back the ages of barbarism. We have seen ministers' sons, deacons' sons, pious church members' sons, thus reduced to a physical condition far below the New Hollander; the father drank the poison, preached the poison, taught his child to love the poison, and the poison sunk him below the beasts that perish. Here was the sin of the parent visited upon the child with a witness; and yet it was so natural, that it required no extraordinary interpositions of the cause to bring it about.

Intemperance has justly been called "The curse of Britain;" but we may say more: we may assert that "Moderation is England's curse." Here you have the source of the evil. All drunkards come from the ranks of the moderate drinkers: but this is not all, moderation destroys its thousands annually. Look at the bills of mortality, and how many myriads from twenty to sixty have died through their boasted sober drinking. Look at the bankrupt list; go to the dispensary, the hospital, the union, the gaol, the madhouse, and learn how many are in each of these places, through what was called moderation. Read the catalogue of superannuations, men at forty or forty-five craving pensions, and a nurse, and all through the daily sober glass; and you are driven to the conclusion that the greatest foe to national health, intelligence, prosperity, happiness, and sound morality, is this deceitful cup.

But we need not enlarge on this point. Our love of these poisons has cost us more millions than has ever been imagined; for not merely is there the money actually paid down for the liquor, but there is the time, and, above all, the talent and the character which have been sacrificed. Here all will allow that our loss is incalculable. Granted that we are already great, yet who can tell what we might have been but for this direful scourge? To keep such a bane among us is an impeachment of our humanity, patriotism, and Christianity, because we show that we love a vile poison better than we love ourselves, our brothers, our country, or the Redeemer.

CHOLERA.—Of the many hundreds of persons who died of cholera in Plymouth and Devonport in the summer of 1849, down to nearly the close of its prevalence, only one, as far as ascertained, was a member of an abstinence society, although during that period there were from 3,000 to 4,000 pledged abstainers in those towns.—Hon. Judge Marshall.

THE REV. ROWLAND HILL ON THE EFFECTS OF DRUNKENNESS.

If you wish to be always thirsty, be a drunkard; for the oftener and more you drink, the oftener and more thirsty you will be.

If you seek to prevent your friends raising you in the world, be a drunkard; for that will defeat all their efforts.

If you would effectually counteract your own attempts to do well, be a drunkard, and you will not be disappointed.

If you wish to repel the endeavours of the whole human race to raise you to character, credit, and prosperity, be a drunkard, and you will most assuredly triumph.

If you are determined to be poor, be a drunkard, and you will soon be ragged and penniless.

If you would wish to starve your family, be a drunkard; for that will consume the means of their support.

If you would be imposed on by knaves, be a drunkard; for that will make their task easy.

If you would wish to be robbed, be a drunkard, which will enable the thief to do it with more safety.

If you would wish to blunt your senses, be a drunkard, and you will soon be more stupid than an ass.

If you would become a fool, be a drunkard, and you will soon lose your understanding.

If you wish to unfit yourself for rational intercourse, be a drunkard; for that will render you wholly unfit for it.

If you are resolved to kill yourself, be a drunkard, that being a sure mode of destruction.

If you would expose both your folly and your secrets, be a drunkard, and they will soon run out as the liquor runs.

If you think you are too strong, be a drunkard, and you will soon be subdued by so powerful an enemy.

If you would get rid of your money without knowing how, be a drunkard, and it will vanish insensibly.

If you would have no resource when past labour but a workhouse, be a drunkard, and you will be unable to provide any.

If you are determined to expel all comfort from your house, be a drunkard, and you will soon do it effectually.

If you would be always under strong suspicion, be a drunkard; for, little as you think it, all agree that those who steal from themselves and families will rob others.

If you would be reduced to the necessity of shunning your creditors, be a drunkard, and you will soon have reason to prefer the by-paths to the public streets.

If you would be a dead weight on the community and cumber the ground, be a drunkard; for that will render you useless, helpless, burdensome, and expensive.

If you would be a nuisance, be a drunkard; for the approach of a drunkard is like that of a dunghill.

If you would be hated by your family and friends, be a drunkard, and you will soon be more than disagreeable.

If you would be a pest to society, be a drunkard, and you will be avoided as infectious.

If you do not wish to have your faults reformed, consent to be a drunkard, and you will not care for good advice.

If you would smash windows, break the peace, get your names broken, tumble under carts and horses, and be locked up in watch-houses, be a drunkard, and it will be a range if you do not succeed.

If you wish all your prospects in life to be clouded, be a drunkard, and they will soon be dark enough.

If you would destroy your body, be a drunkard, as drunkenness is the mother of disease.

If you mean to ruin your soul, be a drunkard, that you may be excluded from heaven.

Finally, if you are determined to be utterly destroyed, in estate, body, and soul, be a drunkard, and you will soon know that it is impossible to adopt a more effectual means to accomplish your—end.

THE CENSUS.

THE REMINISCENCES OF AN ENUMERATOR.

SIR:—It has been observed, if any one is desirous of forming a correct judgment on the "condition-of-the-people question," he must in the current of his inquiries direct his special attention to the contents of the Temperance periodicals. The "Census Returns" constitute an important item in such question, and I therefore conclude that the following reminiscences may not inappropriately appear in the pages of the TEE-TOTAL TIMES.

Having been duly enrolled one of Her Majesty's royal army of 30,000 enumerators, for the purpose of visiting the domiciles of her liege and true subjects in the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, in order to make the Census returns, and now having fulfilled my mission, I certainly do not feel disposed, after having travelled from Dan to Beersheba, to cry "all is barren." It is true that the remuneration was by no means lavish for the labours involved; but my philosophy helped me in the matter, for I knew this to be the generally prevalent principle of all the subaltern situations in both Church and State.

But even the direct duties of the office were not devoid of interest and instruction in their fulfilment. My district lay amongst the poorer classes, great numbers of them emigrants from the Emerald Isle, and the greater portion of them entirely ignorant of the nature of my mission; and yet, after having had to visit upwards of 200 of these families, I bear my testimony with pleasure that I was not discourteously received by any one of them. Though many of them were destitute of scholarly learning, intelligence and good sense were frequently manifest in their inquiries as to the objects and uses of a Census. And when, in a kind of running commentary, I briefly explained to them its purposes by such familiar statements, as that when the number of the population was known, with the amount of bread-stuffs produced in the country, and the quantity of corn and cattle brought in from abroad, it enabled the Government to know to what extent the people were provided with food—that if there were plenty it might be expected to be cheap, and in case of a scarcity that they might in time make provision for more—and so with every other article of family consumption;—that when the present returns were compared with the former, they would probably show that life was more extended, and, therefore, more valuable; and that this lengthened life would indicate that the people in the mass were better in circumstances, better fed, and better clothed; and, from the increased number of new houses, had more comfortable homes—and so it would evidence that the people were more virtuous, temperate, and happy;—and that, when length of life in connection with the various trades and professions was contrasted, it would be seen which were detrimental and which others were favourable to health and long life; and that all this, and much more important and useful information, was to be obtained from the little trouble of their putting down their names and trades and ages upon the paper which I had to leave;—suchlike explanatory remarks, hurriedly given in the course of my canvass, appeared to shed a new light and to waken up a new interest among many of them, and they seemed anxious to render the information as correctly as possible. The Irish were generally my most inquisitive interrogators, and their apt remarks in reply showed how readily and fully they appreciated the objects of a census. One woman, indeed, was afraid that the purpose might be an arrangement for sending them back, while another pettishly replied that they could not be sent to a worse place; but, observing at the same time a large plate of wheaton bread, very thickly overlaid with butter, standing on the table before me, I pointed to it, and they smiled assent, when I said, it was quite possible to send them where they might not fare so well, nor have such plenteous wholesome food; and, with such providence, they should learn the lesson of a grateful contentment.

From the low state of education in my district, I calculated upon much trouble in making up my schedules, for the Government officials had been wary enough not to annex the penalty to non-filling up, but to the act of refusal to give information—making it wisely enough the duty of the enumerator to draw up the schedule. But I had much less to do than I expected. A neighbourly feeling had generally prevailed, and they had had the kindness and forethought to do for each other what was needful to do. On examining their returns, the term visitor frequently occurred among the Irish families; and on inquiry I was amused to learn that it meant permanent residents who could not afford to pay for their lodgings, and who were not, in consequence, expected to pay. However inconvenient such cases might be, they were by no means uncommon among them; and seeing that such cases were the product of that simple good-heartedness so frequently found amongst the poor, I contemplated the primitive feeling with a deepened satisfaction; and I thought how desirable it was that these latent feelings of our nature should be nourished and cherished amongst such people; that their bickerings and their strife should be ended, that a common kindness be made to reign in its stead. Would it not be more so were the beautiful precepts of Christian love taught to them at their own firesides, instead of being so exclusively held forth from the mere fashionable rostrums of our congregated assemblies. One old man was like to prove an exception to my rule, he most determinedly assuring me that he would neither sign nor say. King David, he said, had sinned in such matter before, and brought a plague upon the people; and though he was an old man now, he had never known the census taken but it had been followed by a pestilence; he, therefore, made a point of conscience of the matter, and would have no hand in bringing such guilt and evil upon the land. However, in due time I found the items of the paper fully entered, and I was enabled to perfect my returns.

There were three things which were very apparent in the course of my visitations. First, The deficient state of education, and that more so amongst the Irish than either the English or the Scotch; but it is gratifying to reflect that a sure and certain change is in progression, from the fact that there are half-a-million of scholars annually in process of receiving an effective education in the Government schools of Ireland; and the rising up of 500,000 properly educated men and women annually in the midst of their population must, in a few years, produce a mighty beneficial change. Second, The neglected and dirty condition of the Irish dwellings. But even to them, comfortless as they appeared to me, I thought they must be a state of progressive improvement when compared with the mud hovels they had probably left behind them. By their intercourse with the habitudes of the people, of whom they now form no inconsiderable part, by their intermixed marriages and relationships, they will most assuredly slowly and imperceptibly graduate into a better state of being and doing. The third was, that such visitations could not fail to impress upon the most cursory observer the correctness of our respected townsman, Mr. Doubleday's "Theory of Population;" for while they were as warrens as to children, there were in proportion but few old people amongst them. And I met but one, in a population of upwards of 800, who had crossed the bounds of a century of years, and the state of helpless, childlike, and almost unconscious existence into which she had lapsed, was eminently calculated to impress the lesson of the preacher, "to redeem the time," make the most of life in all its great objects and purposes and true enjoyments, "before the years draw nigh when thou shalt say, I have no pleasure in them."

And now for the moral of my narrative. I have said nothing of the vice and intemperance of the poor. The want of providence and domestic management among them; strong and healthy women who had neither list nor thought to cleanse their dwellings; and the want of industrial habits amongst the able-bodied men, though perfectly aware that vice and poverty act and re-act, and alternate as cause and effect to the prolific production and perpetuation of squalor and wretchedness. I thought—before we so unequivocally condemn—if I had some of our sanitary reformers with me, I should endeavour to enforce this truth, that something more is needed to be done for this class of people than the "washing the outside of the platter," in cleansing of our public streets and lanes, that some judicious machinery is required to enter their dwellings, to white-wash their walls, scrub their floors, wash their tables, and clean their windows; not only to tell them what to do, but to show them how to do it; and how such efforts and cleansings would minister to their domestic comforts and enjoyment. Until they are thus practically taught, they cannot have a conception of the thing nor how to attain it, and it would be absurd to expect that they should strive after it. Having thus cleansed their dwellings, I thought, had I the power of the Exchequer Chancellor, I would repeal the Soap-tax, so that they might most thoroughly cleanse their persons, and abrogate the knowledge taxes, so that they might enlighten their minds. And could I have got the attention of our clergy and ministers, I would have taught them the lesson of domiciliary visitations; so that, by the loveliness of Christian precept teaching by example, they might have improved their hearts. And I would, in conclusion, enforce the duty of universal courtesy and kindness upon all; in our manufactories and workshops, upon masters towards men; upon workmen towards labourers, and others that are under them; towards relatives and strangers; so that, by a more general cultivation of the socialities and immunities of life, we may ameliorate the condition and secure the permanent happiness of all. Alas, alas! how vain the thought, while drink, strong drink rules predominant in the social customs of every class of British society. It requires the probe of Teetotalism to reach the core of the disease, and the only available and effectual remedy is to be found in the prescription—ABSTAIN. So end the reminiscences, lessons, and reflections of an humble ENUMERATOR.

Newcastle, June 12, 1851.

THE WAYSIDE SPRING.

OH! a sacred thing is the wayside spring,
That runneth so clear and bright—
That floweth along, a gladsome thing,
Nor stayeth by day or night;
Where the thirsty reaper laves his brow
When the harvest time is nigh,
And the herdsman leads his kine to bow
Where its sparkling waters lie.

Wert thou a gem in the mystic clime
Of some hidden cave of earth?
Was not the sun of the bright spring time
Shining upon thy birth?
For in winter thou flowest as clear and free
As beneath the summer sky—
A king, if one upon earth may be,
Of immortality!

A blessing be on thee, wayside spring,
That givest health to all—
To the flowers that spring—the leaves that cling,
Where the crystal waters fall:
Thy pebbly grot makes glad the spot
When summer flowers are fled;
Fount of the green sward, that dieth not
In thy clear and pearly bed.

EXTRACTS FROM THE DIARY OF A BAPTIST MINISTER.

JUNE.

"WENT to visit a sick workman. I found him confined to his bed, and in great poverty. He did not display any desire to obtain 'the common salvation.' And no wonder. Strong drink has seared his conscience. It has made him forget God, and now it 'biteth like a serpent, and stingeth like an adder.' But an unsaved soul is not the only evil inflicted upon him by strong drink. It has made him a pauper. For twenty years, at least, he has had constant employment at twenty-five shillings a week. He has been ill for three weeks, and now has not a penny of his own! Had he been an abstainer, he might have had fifty pounds in the savings bank; as it is, he is dependent upon charity. Having suitably addressed him, read some appropriate portions of the Scriptures, and prayed with him, I left his wretched home resolved to be more zealous in teaching working men the wisdom of temperance principles."

"A man came to my house. 'I want to see if I can sign the pledge here.' My wife came to my study, and told me a rough, wild-looking man wished to sign the pledge. I requested her to send him up. When he came in, I recognised him as a man whom I had once visited. 'Ah! sir, if I had only taken your advice, it would have saved me ten pounds, and a week's drunkenness.' He signed the pledge, and, after I had exhorted him to pray to God for grace and strength to keep his pledge, he departed."

"Received a request to visit a family in a very wretched street. It was to see a young thief. I went. The house was dark and filthy; the room in which the family lived, a scene of disorder and dirt. A woman was sitting on a broken chair, and did not move to give me another. Sitting down, uninvited, I said, 'I have come to see your boy. What has he done?' 'What has he done?' There he is—look at him—what has he done? Oh, the young rascal, he steals everything. He takes his shoes and sells them; he breaks into the closets and gets out all the bits o' clothes, and sells them for sixpence. He's a young villain—he is. Did he not break open Murphy's door, and steal the bed-clothes? Aye, he did; sure he did. And his father bate him for it. He's a thief—that's what he is. Why, don't we thrash him, and starve him, and send him to the police, but it's of no use—not a bit of it, master—your reverence.' And yet this child is only nine years of age!" THE PARENTS ARE DRUNKARDS.

"Called to see a poor woman who has begun to attend our preaching services. 'What induced you to come?' 'Well, sir, my husband; he has been a gay man, sir,—heard you speak at a Temperance Meeting, and he thought he would like to hear you preach. He came one Sunday, and when he returned from the chapel, he said he should take me with him next time. And we came, sir, and, O, sir, your sermon was such a comfort to me.' 'And your husband; how is he?' 'He intends coming, sir, and I hope God will do him good.' We then engaged in religious discourse, and, after reading the Scriptures and prayer, I left, promising to return to see the husband. May God make me a blessing to this household!"

"During some ministerial calls I met with a person who has been addicted to drinking. He would get drunk, fight, come home laden with mud, beat his wife, and then tumble into bed. He is now a total abstainer, and attends our chapel. His wife signed the pledge in my book, and said, 'We never were happier than we are now, and I am coming to hear you preach, sir.' I told them how much I rejoiced in their well-doing, and made some remarks on the importance of adding to their temperance—godliness. I then gave them a religious book, and went on my way thanking God, and taking courage."

"I am about to lay down my pen. It is time to make a few visits. I am sure to meet with some drunkards. What shall I do? Pass them by? Would my Master have done so? Counsel them to drink a little? Would not this be folly? What, then, is my duty? To urge them to repent, to declare the gospel unto them, to tell them it is their interest and duty to abstain from all intoxicating drinks, to show them the example, and to pray with them, that God may give them grace to 'live soberly, righteously, and godly in the present world.' Lord! help me to do this! Thine shall be the glory! AMEN, and AMEN!"

INTEMPERANCE AND IDIOCY.

SOME years ago the Legislature of Massachusetts appropriated a sum of money, to be expended under the direction of Dr. Howe, Superintendent of the Asylum for the Blind in South Boston, to make experiments in the instruction of idiots. In his report to the Legislature, he estimates the number of idiots in Massachusetts at between twelve and fifteen hundred. "It may be assumed as certain," he says, "that, in all cases where children are born idiotic, the fault lies with the parent." While we should be slow to make such a sweeping assertion, it is probably true as a general principle. From the best data that can be obtained, Dr. Howe concludes that three-fourths of all idiots are born of intemperate parents. The following, among other cases mentioned in his report, present a painful illustration of these facts:—

"No. 58. H. C. F., aged 33. His mother was extremely intemperate for several years before his birth, * * * and died of delirium tremens. Muscular vigour is impaired by a singular affection of his nervous system, which gives him the air, gait, and appearance of a drunken man. He seems to have inherited from his mother a strong resemblance to her acquired habit of body. He trips and staggers in his walk. * * * The motions of his muscles are suddenly checked, his jaw is arrested in the act of chewing, his lips in the act of speaking, or, if walking, and the stoppage is considerable, he stumbles, perhaps falls down. Sometimes he remains insensible for a minute or two, and is afterwards utterly unconscious of what passed. More often the command of one muscle, or of one side, is lost for an instant, and he is obliged to hitch and wriggle along with the others. Thus the poor creature drags himself about, a living monument of his mother's shame."

"No. 129. Abner H., aged 33. When a boy he had a passion for burrowing in the earth like a rabbit. He still, at times, will wander off into the woods, dig a hole as for a cellar, collect wood, and go on for days with this occupation, until discovered and brought home. The general appearance of these idiots (for A. has a sister idiotic), is said to be remarkably like that of their parents when they were in their long debaucheries."

Of all the long, lank, lean, and miserable retinue that follow in the wake of the sale and use of intoxicating liquors, what is there that can compare with idiocy—the blotting out of the mind of the unborn infant? What parent can taste the fatal bowl when he contemplates such a result? What trafficker can look on this picture and not shudder? No wonder the miserable retailer and consumer of alcohol, in the delirium of drunkenness, sees ghosts, hobgoblins, and spiteful devils hovering round him, eager to avenge those whom he has deprived of property, of reputation, of reason, and even of mind itself.

WATER.—Dr. Mainwaring asserts that water is the most wholesome drink, the most suitable for human nature, answering all the purposes of common drinks; it is a drink that is a rule to itself, and requires little caution in the use of it, since none will be tempted to drink more of it than he needs. In the primitive ages of the world, water drinkers were the longest livers by hundreds of years; not so often sick or complaining as we are.

GRAND TEETOTAL DEMONSTRATION OF ALL NATIONS, 1851.

FROM a CIRCULAR just issued we learn that the Committee for conducting various Teetotal Demonstrations during the period of the Great Industrial Exhibition, have made the following arrangements:—

As it is expected that many leading members and advocates from various parts of the kingdom, as well as from America and other distant nations, will be in the Metropolis about the end of July, the Committee have determined upon holding a Conference, for the purpose of receiving reports of the progress of the Temperance cause, and for the discussion of such questions as may be deemed of importance to its more rapid progress. For this purpose they have engaged the Lecture Hall of the Literary and Scientific Institution, Aldersgate-street, for two days—namely, Thursday, July 31, and Friday, August 1. SAMUEL BOWLY, Esq., of Gloucester, is expected to preside. The terms of admission will be the production of a card of membership.

On Sunday, August 3, arrangements are making for sermons to be preached in numerous places of worship.

On Monday, August 4, a meeting will take place in Exeter Hall, at six o'clock in the evening. LAWRENCE HEYWORTH, Esq., M.P., in the chair. The object of this meeting is to give a hearty welcome to our teetotal brethren and sisters who may visit the Metropolis at that period. A select company of the celebrated Welsh Choristers are expected to sing some of their popular melodies. The admission to the Hall to be free.

On Tuesday Morning, August 5, it is intended to assemble in Hyde-park, near the entrance at Hyde-park-corner, Piccadilly, at nine o'clock, there to form a regular line up to the south entrance of the Crystal Palace (ready to enter as soon as the doors are opened). The Committee recommend that all present on this occasion—as well, indeed, as at all the large meetings to be held at that period—wear a neat sprig of white roses in the button-hole of the left breast; and to preserve uniformity, and to save expense, these sprigs are provided by the Committee, and will be furnished to the members at threepence each. These may be had of Mr. Tweedie, bookseller, North Wellington-street, Strand, of the Secretaries or Committees at the various places of meeting, and at Exeter Hall on the Monday evening. As the friends, after visiting the Exhibition, will probably be scattered, no aggregate meeting will be held on Tuesday evening, but special meetings will be held in the British School-room, Harp-alley, Farringdon-street; Hawkstone Hall, Waterloo-road; and Fitzroy Hall, Little Portland-street, opposite the Polytechnic Institution, Regent-street.

On Wednesday Morning, August 6, a Public Breakfast Meeting will be held in the London Tavern, Bishopsgate-street, when J. S. BUCKINGHAM, Esq., will preside; and several eminent advocates, chiefly from America, are expected to address those present. Breakfast will be ready at nine o'clock precisely. Tickets 2s. 6d. each.

The Surrey Zoological Gardens are engaged for the remainder of Wednesday; to be opened at one o'clock in the afternoon. Admission, 1s. Several societies will walk in procession, but without music or regalia, from their respective halls. In addition to the very numerous attractions provided by the managers of the Gardens, the Welsh Choristers and the Shapeotts' Saxehorn Band are engaged by the Committee.

At the meeting to be held in the Gardens during the afternoon for the advocacy of Teetotalism, it is intended to present two documents for approval and adoption: first, a loyal address to Her Majesty, Queen Victoria; and secondly, a memorial or petition to the House of Commons, praying for inquiry as to the state of existing laws in reference to the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors, and other matters connected with the progress of the Temperance movement.

On Thursday, August 7, St. Martin's Hall, Long-acre, has been engaged for another opportunity of hearing the Welsh Choristers, and for the advocacy of Teetotal principles. It is expected that the chair will be occupied by JOSEPH LIVESSEY, Esq., of Preston, and that the meeting will be addressed by several "men of Preston."

The Lecture Hall, Chapel-place, Great Suffolk-street, Borough, and also the Good Samaritan Hall, Little Saffron-hill, will be open on this evening at eight o'clock.

Friday, August 8, will be devoted to a steam-boat excursion, and a meeting at Gravesend.

The Committee suggest the advantage of any London excursions which may be contemplated, taking place, if possible, on this day.

In addition to these arrangements for the larger demonstrations, the Committee have advertised the principal Temperance halls and rooms in the metropolis and suburbs, as places where meetings are regularly held on the evenings specified, and where the respective committees will rejoice to receive the visits of strangers from the provinces or from distant lands, who may favour them with their presence and advocacy; or their names and addresses will be forwarded by the Committee, if entered upon their Registry at No. 59, Fleet-street. A list of the principal places appeared in our last number.

We need scarcely tell our readers that in making these arrangements the Committee have incurred great responsibilities, both as to personal effort and pecuniary liabilities; and considering these, together with the greatness of the occasion, we regard it as the duty of all Teetotalers to second the efforts of the Committee—first, by rendering them all the personal aid they can in diffusing information and exciting interest as to the arrangements they have made—in preserving order at the larger meetings, in promoting the sale of tickets for the public breakfast and the Zoological gardens; and, secondly, in obtaining donations to the fund opened for carrying out the proposed objects. Admitting that some of these demonstrations may, by strenuous effort, be made to cover their own expenses, there are others which, in consequence of free admissions, &c., must necessarily leave a large deficiency. The expense of duly advertising the meetings, and the incidentals connected with holding them, will be no inconsiderable item, to say nothing of a liberal distribution of tracts at all the larger gatherings, a work to which we are glad to find the Committee attach great importance, as an instrumentality by which lasting good may be effected. As such a splendid opportunity for promoting our salutary principles has never occurred in the history of Teetotalism, and may not occur again for years, the members of our societies will surely feel bound to exert themselves to the very utmost to make these demonstrations worthy of the principle—worthy of the occasion—and worthy of being recorded as forming an important era in the history of the Temperance Reformation.

In order to facilitate the collection of donations from members and friends, collecting cards are prepared, which the Secretaries will readily forward in any number that may be required.

The next monthly meeting of the Committee and Delegates will be held on Friday evening, July the 4th, at half-past seven o'clock precisely, in the Good Samaritan Hall, Little Saffron-hill, near Clerkenwell-green.

STATE OF THE JUVENILE POPULATION.

IN our last Number we informed our readers that the proprietor of the Standard of Freedom had resolved to send a SPECIAL COMMISSIONER to conduct a series of investigations in the manufacturing districts of Lancashire, &c., into the state of the Juvenile Population; with a view to ascertain, as far as practicable, the influence of Sabbath-school instruction upon their condition and character. That commissioner has visited Manchester, Salford, and Bolton, and the result of his investigations has been made known in letters of considerable length, in the numbers of the Standard of Freedom for June 7, 14, and 21. The inquiries have been conducted, we can confidently state, with the greatest impartiality, and, certainly, with no desire to underrate Sunday-school instruction as to its importance or general utility. Yet he has made some frightful disclosures;—some of them, we are sorry to say, in reference to young persons of both sexes—some of them mere children—precocious in vice, and constant frequenters of those hotbeds of vice, drinking saloons, low theatres, &c., and, at the same time, constant attendants at Sunday-schools. We commend these statements to the serious perusal of all patrons, superintendents, and teachers of Sunday-schools—to the Committee of the SUNDAY-SCHOOL UNION—to the Rev. JOHN BURNETT—and to all who profess to regard the statistics published in the "Voices from Prisons and Penitentiaries" as unworthy of notice, as "trumped up," or as "a hoax" practised upon well-meaning but greatly "duped" gentlemen. It becomes all who desire that Sunday-school instruction should accomplish its intended object to look a little more after their pupils, and especially to warn them against the seductions of such haunts of infamy as we have named. The Commissioner ascertained that teachers, as well as children, were frequenters of these places, and that, in most cases, STRONG DRINK was a chief attraction.

BIRMINGHAM, we understand, is the next place to be visited by the Commissioner. Other large towns will probably be visited also; but as these inquiries must necessarily incur considerable expense, we put it to the secretaries and committees of temperance societies in most large towns whether it is not in their power to render essential service in this matter, by instituting such inquiries in their respective localities as may lead to a knowledge of the real state of things. If they do this, and furnish us with the results, we will take care that their reports shall be duly published.

TESTIMONY OF RESPECT TO JOHN CASSELL, ESQ.

THE Committee by whom the recent series of large temperance meetings in Exeter Hall was conducted, have determined on inviting the friends of the Temperance Movement to an evening party, as a token of respect to John Cassell, Esq., by whom the above-named demonstrations were projected, and through whose exertions, mainly, they have been brought to a successful termination. The meeting will take place at the LONDON TAVERN, Bishopsgate-street, on Monday evening, July 14th. Refreshments will be ready at six o'clock, and after tea the chair will be taken by LAWRENCE HEYWORTH, Esq., M.P. The meeting will be addressed, on given topics, by the Rev. W. FORSTER, of Kentish-town; THOMAS BEGGS, Esq., and other competent speakers. As the admission will be by tickets only, and as but a limited number of tickets will be issued, an early application will be necessary. The names of the persons from whom tickets may be obtained, will be found in our advertising columns.

WHAT GOOD HAVE TEETOTAL SOCIETIES EFFECTED?

THERE are several topics to which we might turn the attention of our readers, the right apprehension of which tends to strengthen our position, such as the fearful destruction of so much good wholesome food in the manufacture of these pernicious liquors; their evil effects on the body, soul, character, and condition of man—the poverty, crime, lunacy, disease, and death generated by them—their blighting influence on the church and the world, all of which are well attested by the page of history and the observation of all discerning men. We leave these, however, and other kindred topics, as matters for future discussion, only remarking how much the right understanding of them will be facilitated by a practical subjection to our principle. When persons study the higher doctrines of religion before they attend to its simple principles and obvious duties, they are not likely to make much progress in religious knowledge; we believe that many of our statements and opinions appear erroneous for the same reason. Let present convictions be complied with—present duty attended to—and future enlightenment on subjects which are now but dimly discerned will break in upon the mind like the light of day, and will give strength and stability to the moral principle which originated the movement. We cannot all think alike on all subjects, but the Christian and the philanthropist may act alike in this. The evil against which we contend is great, but, through the divine blessing, and the use of appropriate means, it may be overcome.

After so many years' experience of the practical working of the abstinence society, it would hardly be doing it justice merely to exhibit its principle, and to plead for its adoption, without already appealing to the good already effected by means of it; for however satisfactory may be our defence of its principle, we must not refuse the favourable testimony that experience and observation furnish as to its practice. Its success has not been equal to the wishes of its friends, nor to the expectation they cherished at the time it was first put in operation; but for this they blame it not. The evil it has had to combat is one deeply embedded in the very heart of our social system. The prejudices, prepossessions, and practices of our people are all opposed to it. The vice of intoxication is fostered and fed by popular but corrupting customs, and even the sweet civilities of life are made its advocates and abettors. Courtesy and kindness, friendship and hospitality, with the best intentions in the world, are daily giving it currency, and thus helping it onward in its fatal progress. Good people who patronise strong drink encourage its manufacture, sale, and use, and are, therefore, accessory to the propagation of intemperance. They forget that the frequent use of alcoholic drinks is all that is needed to make a drunkard, and that, while engaged in what they consider an act of kindness, they may be guilty of the most cruel act that one man can perpetrate on another. So long as the religious and the respectable among us keep up the drinking customs, all efforts to reform our country will be greatly impeded. If our society had only the public-house to contend with it would soon diminish drunkenness, and leave these houses little to do; but domestic drinking is that which, in many cases, gives the drunkard his first lessons—teaches him to regard drinking as a virtuous and happy indulgence—brings out the first lineaments of his character, and sends him forth to get finished in the tap-room and the tavern.

When we therefore see what our society has had, and still has, to contend with, we need not wonder at the position it occupies, after twenty years of domestication amongst us. We must not, however, estimate the good done by it, by that alone which meets the eye. For one drunkard that it has reformed, we believe it has prevented a hundred persons from contracting that vice, and from all the moral pollutions that are its concomitants. Although the number of reformed inebriates is not so great as we desire, many such have died sober men, and humble Christians, and some such are still alive, trophies to our cause, and blessings to society. But besides the direct benefit accruing from our movement, much collateral good has flowed from it. No one can do good without getting good, and much talent and worth has been elicited and cherished by means of it. It has also drawn public attention to our national vice—singled it out of the catalogue of our social sins—exhibited to general inspection its insidious beginning, its imperceptible progress, its fatal termination. It has traced this virulent disease to its apparently harmless origin, the single glass, the friendly dram, the cup of kindness, that reputable tasting which custom sanctions and public opinion approves—that measured moderation which goes on for a while with a smoothness that excites no suspicion, and which puts on its iron chain so imperceptibly that the victim feels it not until he is a ruined man. Abstinence societies have explained the rationale of intemperance in its compound character, as a disease and a sin; they have pointed out the properties of alcohol, its effects on the human body, and through it on the mind and soul of man, deranging the nervous system, exciting the passions, blunting the moral sensibilities, deadening the conscience, and by a deluding influence, peculiar to this class of poisons, leading the whole man, body, soul, and spirit, to ruin, and making him the more confident the more he needs moral power. Alcohol is now reckoned a suspicious character by many of his former friends. His power is not now universally acknowledged. His right to reign, or even to live, has been called in question, and many hundred of thousands, in this and other lands, have cast off their allegiance to him. A man may now sit at the festive board without doing him homage, and go home from the hospitality of a friend with all his faculties entire, without being stared at as singularly sober. So far as our principles have been embraced, either in this or other countries, so far has good been done; and were all Christians to embrace them, (and where would be the harm of it?) the beneficial effect on the country, the community, the family, the individual, and, above all, on the church of the living God, would be such as no tongue could tell, no pen describe. Reader, see that you do your part in bringing about this blessed consummation. "He that knoweth to do good, and doeth it not, to him it is sin."—From an admirable tract, just issued by the Scottish Temperance League, entitled "The principle and practical operation of Teetotalism," by R. Kettle, Esq.

"OH! DON'T LOOK AT MY MOTHER!"

God grant that I may never witness another such a soul-harrowing spectacle! I had just left the chamber of affliction—a bedside bright with the irradiations of glory, when I was startled in the midst of deep musings by frantic screaming. On hastening up an obscure passage from whence the cries proceeded, I observed a human being, huddled up in a corner, leaning against a shattered wall, the remnant of an old house in ruins. She was clad in a ragged gown, besmeared with filth and blood, exposed to the northern blast and drizzling rain; her knotted hair hung wildly over her head, which was partially enveloped in her lap. I discovered, however, a frightful bruise on the left cheek, which had closed the eye above, and a wide gash was under the other, from which the blood was trickling down.

As I gazed upon this wreck of humanity, my heart sunk within me. She was a mother; by her side stood a barefooted, thinly attired, half-starved little girl, with an intelligent countenance, who, on perceiving my fixed eye, threw her skeleton arms around her parent's neck, and endeavoured to screen her from observation, exclaiming, in tones most plaintive: "Oh! don't look at my mother!"

"Why not, my dear child?" I inquired.

"Because," said the poor girl, while crying, "mother is such a drunkard, that I am ashamed for any one to look upon her."

"Is your father kind?" I asked.

"He is dead, sir. He threw himself overboard, and was drowned, on his way to transportation for a crime he committed when in a state of drunkenness. We had such a happy home before mother and father took to drinking."

The imbruted parent, on hearing this exposure, struck the innocent girl upon the head, which staggered her to the ground, and shouted vociferously,—

"I will have more gin; if you don't get some I will murder you."

On gently remonstrating with the wretched inebriate on her inhumanity and intemperance, she looked up into my face, and stammered forth from her quivering and blistered lips sentiments too profane for repetition. With some difficulty I dragged her to her desolated tenement. Three days afterwards she died in a state of furious delirium, raving for drink—a mass of bloated putrescence.

That woman was formerly a devoted Sabbath-school teacher, and distinguished for personal and intellectual attractions. Five years after her marriage with one of the best of men, the domestic hearth was the sacred sanctuary, the mother's knee the holy altar where the story of a Saviour's love was impressed upon the opening mind of her first-born child. But, alas! the subtle serpent—strong drink—gained access to their earthly Eden, and entwined its iniquitous folds around the sweet endearments of social enjoyment. The Sabbath soon lost all its sacredness, and home all its sweetness, and depravity, crime, misery, suicide, and ignominious death followed in rapid succession!

Christian mothers and daughters of England, can you, after this melancholy narrative, continue to drink a liquor which can thus transform your sex into the very personifications of vice and woe, and cause a child to blush at its mother's iniquity and shame?

JOHN H. ESTERBROOKE.

THE NUTTY FLAVOUR.—The Rev. T. P. Hunt, of Wyoming, Pennsylvania, writes—"While I lectured in Philadelphia, I became acquainted with a man who was extensively engaged in making wines, brandy, &c. Through my influence he abandoned the horrid traffic. He informed me that, in order to produce the "nutty flavour," for which Madeira was so much admired, he put a bag of "cockroaches" into the liquor, and let it remain there, until the cockroaches were dissolved. If any wine-drinker doubts it, he can soon settle the question by an experiment.—Boston (U.S.) Christian Times.

TEETOTAL OPERATIONS.

WESTMINSTER.

A grand gathering of the City of Westminster Band of Hope took place in the Temperance Hall, Broadway, on the 30th ult. The Rev. Isaac Henson, a fugitive slave, presided. The following sentiments were ably spoken to:—"The child's duty," by Mr. A. Duffy; "The mother's duty," by Mr. John H. Esterbrooke; "The teacher's duty," by Mr. W. Harper. Some effective recitations were delivered by children of the Band. The Temperance Choral Society added much to the interest of the evening by their excellent singing. At the close of the proceeding a juvenile deputation presented an address to the rev. chairman, welcoming him in the spirit of brotherhood, and strongly protesting against the atrocious wickedness of American slavery, the reading of which created extraordinary sensation throughout the dense assembly. The rev. gentleman, on rising to reply, was applauded for some minutes, and appeared to be deeply affected. He gratefully acknowledged the document—to which was appended the signatures of 700 children—as one of the noblest presentations he had ever received, and as an expressive tribute of their affection and British patriotism.—The juvenile movement is making cheering progress in this extensive locality.

BRISTOL TOTAL ABSTINENCE FETE.

The members and friends of the above society held their annual fête at the Zoological Gardens, on Whit-Tuesday, which, notwithstanding the very unfavourable weather, was attended by several thousands of people. The juvenile teetotals, composing what are called the "Bands of Hope," assembled as usual in Portland-square, and, despite the rain, had a respectable appearance. From Portland-square they marched to Queen-square, where they were joined by the Bedminster "Band of Hope," which, with its new banners, &c., formed a very attractive portion of the procession. From Queen-square they proceeded in the most direct route to the gardens, where they arrived about twelve o'clock, and, apparently indifferent to the wet, betook themselves to their accustomed amusements, which were continued with unabated zeal till notice was given to quit in the evening.

To vary the proceedings, as well as to have an opportunity of disseminating total abstinence principles, public meetings were held, the first of which took place at three o'clock.

The chair was taken by Mr. Handel Cossham, of Wickwar. After a temperance hymn had been sung,

The CHAIRMAN said he was one of those who thought man ought to enjoy himself, and that God designed he should do so; everything in this world indicated such to be the will of God. But what was it that on these festive occasions interfered with man's enjoyment? Strong drink (hear, hear). As he came to that meeting he passed two or three clubs which met in public-houses, around the doors of which were a number of young people who were thus receiving an education which would in all probability become to them a curse in this life, and a greater curse in death. Speaking of clubs he perhaps might be permitted to mention a rather startling fact connected with them. These clubs were supported chiefly by those who acknowledged the importance of providing in health for a time of sickness, and yet it had transpired that more than one-sixth of the whole amount subscribed was spent in intoxicating liquors. Drink appeared to be interwoven with everything. Births, deaths, marriages, and christenings were all celebrated with drink: in short when a man came into the world they washed him with drink, and when he died they washed him out. It was used in connection with their religious services and holidays. Now, he was not one to object to holidays; indeed, he should like to have them oftener, and one great reason why the working classes could not have a holiday more frequently was because they spent in drink that which would have enabled them to obtain a day's rational pleasure. Amengst the many evils connected with the drinking usages of the country was the fact that upwards of 1,050,000 acres of land were employed in producing the materials for the manufacture of intoxicating liquors. If this were sown with wheat it would produce, supposing each acre yielded  $4\frac{1}{2}$  quarters, which was about the average, 4,725,000 quarters, or 37,800,000 bushels; and supposing each bushel made 64 lbs. of bread, it would be sufficient to supply 4,148,715 persons with that article every week. Now this cut both ways; it not only diminished the means of securing food, but it lessened the portion of land employed in the production of that food, which therefore became more scarce, and consequently dearer. There was much talk now-a-days about reform. He was an advocate for reform, but he did not believe that any social or political reformation could be effected until they got rid of intoxicating liquors. There was a strong connection between drink and crime; 90 per cent. of all the cases which came before the judges were connected with drink. From 1812 to 1818 the number of criminals was 11,305, whilst from 1826 to 1832 the number was 21,796, or nearly double. During that time the population had increased only one-third; and how then did they account for this increase of crime? Why thus, in the first period there were only about five million gallons of spirits consumed, whilst in the second period the number consumed was nearly ten million gallons. The cause was then apparent, and the effect was seen in the increased number of criminals; and they might as well attempt to get rid of the latter without removing the former as to blow a feather against the wind. Again, the custom interfered very prejudicially with the labours of the Sabbath-school teacher. A gentleman named Smithies, whose attention had been drawn to the subject, ascertained that more than 50 per cent. of the persons committed to prison had been in a Sabbath-school for a period of nearly three years. Sabbath-school teachers were engaged in a glorious work, and he would therefore call upon them to join the ranks of the Total Abstinents, and thus prevent their labours from being nullified by intemperance (cheers). The custom was kept up entirely by the moderate drinkers; it was they who made it respectable. Did the man who was seen rolling in the streets tend to make drinking respectable? (Cheers.) No; it was the gentleman who drank his half-pint of wine and was never seen drunk. He was happy to say that he had never drunk a drop of intoxicating liquors in his life; he was born a teetotaler, and he hoped to die one; and yet he was as capable of performing the duties devolving upon him as most men who drank.

The Rev. WM. GRIFFITH, Wesleyan, had been a teetotaler for fifteen years, and could bear his testimony to the advantages of the total abstinence principle. He was not ashamed to avow his principles, and he hoped the day was not far distant when the cause would be generally advocated by the ministers of the Gospel (cheers).

Mr. J. GRAY, of Bath, a reformed drunkard, had signed the pledge nearly fifteen years ago, and since that time he had been much improved in every respect. Before he became a teetotaler he was accused of starving his wife and family, and when he signed the pledge it was said that he was going to the other extreme, and about to starve himself. After 14½ years' trial, he was able to stand before them in perfect health, and quite a capable of doing his work as any man amongst them.

The meeting then adjourned till six in the evening, the "juveniles" taking advantage of the interval to hold a meeting in another part of the garden, when several addresses were delivered upon the importance of the total abstinence principle being inculcated on the young. The mischief intemperance was working amongst the juvenile population of large cities was forcibly pointed out, and Sabbath-school teachers were especially urged to join in the efforts now being made to abolish so injurious a custom.

At the adjourned meeting in the evening the chair was taken by

The Rev. W. WHITEHEAD, vicar of Chard, and magistrate of the county of Somerset. The rev. chairman said he had been a minister of the Gospel for upwards of forty years, and a magistrate for upwards of thirty years, and he could with confidence assure them, both as a clergyman and a magistrate, that in the whole course of his experience he had not found so great an enemy to the diffusion and influence of the Gospel as the drinking habits of the people of this country (hear, hear). He would go further, and say he had never yet found so decided an enemy as strong drink to the peace and good order of society, and that the drinking usages of the people were indeed and in truth the foster-fathers of the greatest portion of the crime prevailing amongst us. Three-fourths of the crime which disturbed the peace of their streets and filled their gaols with criminals and their cottages with mourning and destitution, sprang from the detestable habit of intoxication. Further, he would say—and he said it fearless of contradiction—that Infidelity and Socialism, a mere formalism, and a total indifference to religion, was engendered with the habit of intemperance which so extensively prevailed. Many were the means resorted to to cry down the advocates of the only method that had yet been found effectual, under God's blessing, of stemming the torrent of corruption, but he entreated all who heard him to meet such opposition in a charitable and Christian spirit. There were many estimable men who were called moderate drinkers; but there was evil in even the moderate use of intoxicating liquors, inasmuch as the temptation to run into excess was often too great to be resisted, and offered, besides, a bad and pernicious example. This was especially true as regarded the lower classes, who were extremely liable to be influenced by the habits which prevailed among those who were above them, and therefore it was incumbent on the higher orders of society, if they would truly estimate the responsibilities of their position, to become total abstainers. It was said that they could not enjoy the pleasures of society without indulging in drink, but where, he would ask, would they find men more cheerful than amongst teetotalers? He believed the total abstinence principle would become progressive. A wonderful change had taken place in the drinking habits of the people, especially within the last twenty years. In America especially was this observable, for there many anniversaries of the literary and scientific institutions, as well as many others, were celebrated without the use of intoxicating drinks. He believed that a fiat had gone forth under the hand of the Almighty to effect entirely the revolution at which the Total Abstinence Society aimed. Until it conquered, the cause of harmony and peace amongst nations would be at a stand-still; the security for peace between families and individuals would be wanting; the noble cause of education which their opponents were constantly, though inconsistently, talking of, would languish; their industrial energies would be blighted, and the fruits of their industry never attained (cheers).

The Rev. W. GALE, Vicar of Pylle, Somerset, believed the curse of drunkenness afforded the greatest obstacle to the spread of the gospel, to the diffusion of moral philanthropy, and to the sanitary improvement of the condition of the people. He would not recommend to his people the adoption of the total abstinence principle till he had tried it himself, but, having practised it for some time, he found himself so much better, both mentally and physically—in mind as well as in pocket—that he could not do less than advise others to adopt it also. He had been a teetotaler six years, and every day confirmed him in his adhesion to the practice of abstinence. Some thought it a sacrifice to sign the pledge, but he had not found it so; for, on the contrary, he had found himself much benefited by it, and could now look upon and enjoy the beauties of nature with much greater pleasure than formerly (cheers).

Mr. GRAY, of Bath, again addressed the meeting, and gave them a sketch of his life. Formerly himself and family were dependent upon the parish, but soon after becoming a total abstainer he paid back the money he had received (cheers). He regarded total abstinence as the only means by which the working-classes could elevate themselves, and he therefore urged upon his fellow working-men the duty of signing the pledge.

Mr. J. ADDLESHAW observed that little was left him to do upon the present occasion save to recapitulate the principles laid down by the previous speakers. The first principle noticed was that intemperance was an evil; second, that it was a great evil and prevailed to a very large extent throughout the country; that it was not an evil which existed once, but it existed now and was doing its work of ruin in every part of the land. There was not a single city, town, or village where the destroyer had not entered, or where its effects were not discernible. Another principle laid down was, that drunkenness and all the poverty and crime which it produced, were not caused by the drunkard, but by the moderate drinker. He wished to impress upon their minds the fact that intemperance was a self-created evil, and was produced entirely by the drinking customs of the country; that it did not originate in the natural depravity of the human heart, but that it was created, generated, and fostered by the use of intoxicating liquors, and consequently they had it in their own power to dry up the source from whence it sprang, and thus bring to a termination not merely the intemperance of this nation, but of the world. Another principle which had been laid down was, that total abstinence was practical—that it could be adopted not only without inconvenience, but with positive advantage. He believed this opinion was rapidly gaining ground. There were very few people now who would venture to assert that they could not live without drink, for they would be ashamed to confess their physical inferiority; but now they substituted another excuse, and said they drank but very little—they were very near being teetotalers, but they had not signed the pledge. They drank but very little, and that merely as a medicine (laughter).

Thanks were then voted to the Chairman, who, in acknowledging the compliment, pointed out several cases which had come to his own knowledge as a magistrate, as illustrations of the crime and social and domestic misery which drunkenness produced. He assured them of his deep sympathy with the cause, and sincerely hoped and believed it would go on and prosper.

BOSTON, LINCOLNSHIRE.

"In the year 1834 a society was formed for counteracting the effects of drunkenness by the discontinuance of ardent spirits. This, however, was found to be inoperative, and no barrier was raised to the spread of drunkenness. In the year 1837 the total abstinence principle was adopted, and this society established. During the years that have elapsed since that time the good effects of the labours of this society eternity will alone unfold. The moderate drinker has in numerous instances been stopped in his downward career, the drunkard saved from his disgraceful position, the Church of Christ has received fresh strength, and health, happiness, and peace have been diffused by this ennobling principle. During the past year the committee have availed themselves of the utmost of their means to make known and extend the blessings of total abstinence. "The Temperance Monthly Visitor," a monthly tract journal of facts, anecdotes, and argument, has paid twelve thousand visits to most of the houses in the town, and this silent messenger has been an efficient worker. The labours of that noble specimen of the benefits of Teetotalism, Edward Fisher, in February last, were signally useful; the songs and talented lectures of E. P. Hood have also awakened our zeal and energy; and the lectures of Robert Gray Mason and John Blow have done good service. But the most signal success has been achieved by those working men whose zeal was awakened and whose activity was aroused by the visit of Edward Fisher. Their praiseworthy diligence in devoting time, money, and talents to the cause of true temperance has wrought wonders among the working classes, and their self-denying labours have brought an unprecedented number of converts to our principle. In order more successfully to combat strong drink, the committee have united with these hard-working sons of labour; and though in this union the Boston Teetotal Society will become extinct, yet, like the Phoenix, it rises from its ashes, and takes an active stand in the ranks of the Boston Teetotal League."—From the Report for 1850-1851, just published.

ELVASTON, DERBY.

The Temperance Society of this place held their anniversary on Whit-Monday. Nearly 100 partook of tea, &c. A public meeting was afterwards held. Mr. Barron, with other friends, addressed the meeting. Choruses from Handel were sung at intervals by the Derby Temperance Philharmonic Choir. On the Friday following the Band of Hope were regaled with tea, plum cake, &c., and each member who had stood firm for twelve months was presented with a medal. After singing several melodies, and the delivery of an address from Mr. Bugby, of Derby, they separated highly delighted with their entertainment.

WAKEFIELD.

On Whit-Monday and Tuesday the Wakefield Temperance Society celebrated their seventeenth anniversary. On the evening of the first-mentioned day a working man's demonstration took place in the Music Saloon, when the addresses were delivered by several reformed drunkards, who were listened to with deep attention by those present. On Tuesday evening a public tea was given in the same place, which, considering the inclement state of the weather, was well attended. The number was greatly increased after tea. Mr. Alderman Harrison was called to the chair. Able and interesting speeches were delivered by the chairman, Rev. W. Calcroft, Mr. J. P. Hodgson, Rev. B. Skinner (Huddersfield), Mr. Field (Dewsbury), Mr. Glover, of the National Temperance Association, Mr. Henry Dunnill (Manchester), &c.

BURNLEY.

Some of the enlightened inhabitants of this town have formed a Society for the Suppression of Vice. There is plenty of work for such an organisation. The town contains 45 public-houses, 65 beer-shops, and 25 tap-rooms—135 places in which "the seven plagues" are sold. Between seventy and eighty thousand pounds are annually spent in those houses. In 21 tap-rooms, 19 beer-shops, and 18 lodging-houses, women of an immoral character are kept. In sad contrast to these facts are the means of public improvement. The town contains only three institutions for the diffusion of knowledge, 15 places of worship, and 36 schools—the cost of the whole amounting to the yearly sum of £5,700. We trust the society will soon improve this lamentable state of things.

SCOTLAND.

GLASGOW.—On the evening of June 15, the Rev. Hugh Riddell, of Bellshill, delivered a discourse in Blackfriars-street Chapel (the Rev. F. Ferguson's), on the subject of total abstinence from intoxicants. The main design of the discourse was to elucidate the course which Christianity prescribes to its disciples in relation to the pernicious drinking customs of the world. To the major proposition—"Can a Christian consistently countenance the present drinking customs of society?"—Mr. Riddell gave a negative answer, and proceeded to draw his conclusion by an enforcement of the leading and fundamental principles of Christianity, so clearly heralded by the angels on the plains of Bethlehem, and comprehended in their annunciation of "Peace on earth, and good-will to men." He held that the drinking customs of this country are subversive of the gospel design, which plainly implies, nay necessitates, the promotion of a supreme regard to God and good-will towards man made in the image of God. He combated the various objections of moderate drinkers, showing that a continuance in the use of intoxicating liquors is traceable to one of three sources—prejudice, self-interest, or appetite. By a powerful and succinct system of logical deduction, which traced the greater part of the crime, demoralisation, and misery existing in this country to the use of stimulating drinks as a beverage, he brought, to every reflecting mind the forcible conviction that total abstinence is the only antidote to Britain's curse. The chapel was respectably filled by an attentive auditory.

EDINBURGH.—The weekly meeting of the Total Abstinence Society of this city was held in Roxburgh-place Chapel on June 17, the chair being occupied by the president of the society, Mr. John Anderson. The Rev. William Reid, of Lothian-road Church, delivered an able address. Mr. McDonald concluded in a short address, after which sixty persons took the pledge.

HAWICK.—A new temperance hotel has been opened in the Market-place here, by Mr. Wm. Inglis. On Monday evening, June 10, a social meeting was held for the purpose of encouraging the proprietor of the establishment in his efforts to supply the public in this respect. Mr. R. Michie occupied the chair. After spending an agreeable evening, the meeting passed a vote of thanks to Mr. Inglis for the way in which he had fitted up his establishment.

AMERICAN TEMPERANCE UNION.

The anniversary of this society was held at the Broadway Tabernacle (in New York) on Thursday. The speakers were Rev. H. S. Carpenter, of New York; Rev. Mr. Cleveland, of Providence; Rev. Mr. Chambers, of Philadelphia; and Rev. Dr. Ting.

The report read by the Rev. John Marsh, Cor. Sec., commenced with an allusion to the fact that each successive age has been marked by some great work of God for the good of men. To that age belongs the Temperance Reformation. Whether there has been an advance or decline in the year past, it is difficult to determine, and is of little comparative consequence. Are we right? Is the reform demanded? Are the means adapted to the end? Is God in all his physical and moral laws for us? These are the great inquiries. The magnitude of the evil is appalling; but not more than is the success of operations in the half century now closed astounding and cheering.—The report alluded to the extent of the traffic, with its frightful results. In the cities of the State of New York are 7,000 liquor shops, selling, at a fair estimate, twenty-five million dollars' worth of liquor each year, besides the traffic in towns and villages—sending 70,000 paupers into the almshouses of the State, and in a single year (1849) more than 36,000 into the prisons for crimes committed when under the influence of intoxication. In New York city are 4,425 licensed, and 750 unlicensed houses, 3,897 open on the Sabbath; and here, in four-and-a-half years, ending December, 1850, have been committed 36,675 persons for drunkenness; 20,190 for intoxication and disorderly conduct; 11,847 for vagrancy; 13,896 for assault and battery; 20,202 for disorderly conduct;—in all 111,360 (for the most part victims of intemperance), exclusive of many in the higher classes, seldom seen drunk in the streets or taken to the Tombs. Other states and cities present similar statistics. Yet millions have burst the chains, and the traffic is now frowned upon, detested, abhorred, driven into shades and dens. Churches and Legislatures are arraying themselves against it as a nuisance and a curse; and the people are demanding protection by the laws of prohibition.

In the great conflict with this monster vice, the A. T. Union and its auxiliaries have not been inactive. More than 60,000 journals and 209,000 Youth's Temperance Advocates, have been issued from the office. Home and foreign missionaries and two Legislatures have been supplied gratuitously with the journal, and a large number of Sunday-schools at the west with the Advocate. A new edition of the Permanent Documents has been issued, and several impressive four-page tracts, 4,000 of the Half-century Tribute to the cause have been distributed, and numerous sermons and lectures delivered. Collections and donations, 1,525.35 dollars. Ten auxiliary State societies have held their annual meetings, and reported much efficient action. One new State society has been organised in Iowa. The temperance orders report a favourable condition. The sons of temperance number 300,000. The temperance advocacy and press have both been able and efficient. Temperance legislation has advanced beyond any former year. Two decidedly stringent and prohibitory bills were reported to the last New York Legislature, but were laid over. In Iowa an entirely prohibitory statute has passed, and all drinking places are to be broken up as nuisances. The new Constitution of Michigan precludes all future license of the traffic by the Legislature. The Legislature of Illinois and Ohio have forbidden all sales to be drunk on the premises; and the constitutional Convention of Ohio have given it to the people to say, at the ballot-box in June next, whether any licence shall hereafter be granted in the state. Vermont has decided once and again at the ballot-box against licence, and recently the Legislature have passed a strong prohibitory statute. Delaware has made all Sunday liquor traffic a criminal offence; and a bill is before the Legislature of Massachusetts making the exhibition of the implements of drunkenness evidence of sale. The report affirms that Christianity has not been brought to bear as it should upon intemperance; but clerical and church action have been in many cases prompt and vigorous, especially at the west among the home missionaries, faithfully labouring to resist the unceasing flood. The spirit ration remains in the navy; better would it have been to have kept the "colt and the cat," and thrown overboard the hogshead. But in the Congress, Independence, and other ships of war, ninety in a hundred refuse their grog. Merchant ships, whalers, and coasters, nearly all sail on temperance principles; and, as a result of temperance, few shipwrecks happen, disorder is unknown, and a million dollars are now deposited in the Seamen's Saving Bank in New York.

The report from foreign countries is favourable. The consumption in Great Britain, in a single year, of 22,952,011 gallons of home spirits, 4,044,758 of rum, 435,139,965 of small beer, 2,185,500 of brandy, and 6,135,546 of wine, at a cost of sixty million pounds sterling, resulting in a frightful amount of pauperism, crime, and death, is creating alarm. Organised societies have been brought into powerful action. Large temperance demonstrations have been made. The Press has thrown out its million appeals. Public opinion is changing. Distinguished men are looking upon the temperance cause as the hope of the nation. The Naval Lord-Admiral has reduced the spirit rations one-half, and taken it entirely from all under 18. The Chancellor of the Exchequer acknowledges an increased consumption of coffee, tea, and cocoa, and a decrease of drinks which intoxicate. Distinguished medical men are advocating total abstinence; and as a great index of progress, into the Crystal Palace for the Industrial Exhibition no wines, spirits, or beer are suffered, and the contractors are required to supply glasses of water gratis to all visitors—a temperance lecture for the world. In Sweden the cause prospers under the patronage of the King and Queen. In Norway, the advocacy of a Mr. Anderson has been very successful. In the Netherlands there are 6,023 pledged abstainers. Liberia excludes all spirituous liquors. In South Africa, Cape Town, Port Natal, are flourishing societies. At the Sandwich Islands no reverse. In British America the cause is unsurpassed; 220,000 French and Irish Catholics, and 40,000 Protestants, stand pledged to temperance in Lower Canada. In Upper Canada 35,000 are members of the Order of Sons. At St. John's is a population of 30,000; 12,000 are pledged men. In Nova Scotia ten counties are without licence. Strenuous efforts are making for stringent legislation. 4,500 have united with the Order of Sons. The report concluded with a resolution on the magnitude of the work committed to men of this age; the wonderful advance already made; the adaptedness of the means employed; the folly of discouragement; the value of right juvenile training; importance of tracts, and the right improvement of this the forming age of our country. Three pioneers of temperance have fallen in the year—Pond, of Maine; Few, of Rhode Island; and the venerable Calvin Chapin, of Connecticut. The committee ask for the co-operation of the public, and the means of carrying forward their operations.

BRIBERY AND TREATING AT ELECTIONS.

A TRACT on this subject has been written by our distinguished friend, JOHN DUNLOP, Esq., and published in a very cheap form, for extensive circulation, by the committee of the Scottish Temperance League. We trust that its circulation may assist in preventing the recurrence of the outrages which have disgraced more than one recent election. We make room for two or three extracts:—

"The drinking customs and usages which seem to predominate on electioneering occasions are sickening to the better part of our people, and tend to degrade us in the eyes of other nations. 'Tis pity that the purity of suffrage, and the honourable intelligence that ought to actuate voters in important national choices, should be mingled up with and absorbed in such exceptionable habitudes and practices.

"That a true and real advance of political liberty and intellectual improvement holds place among our people simultaneously with extensive inebriation throughout the land, seems a supposition strange and inconsistent. Such unreal verisimilitude ought to be suspected. Well wishers to their country should search into this subject; and it would be desirable that the public did not leave to chance and the currency of events this deleterious propensity to voluptuous debasement. On the contrary, a strong and effective cure should immediately be administered and persevered in. Some few of our working men are absolutely soaring above former experience in science, domestic prudence, sobriety, and piety. But are not the great mass settling deeper and deeper into a lower stage, and this principally through the desolating influence of dangerous drinking customs? We are apt to suppose that British virtue is of so true a temper, that it will sustain all circumstances of deterioration. This is mere national presumption. It ought to be remembered that very general intemperance will tell upon the public morals of any people; and morality once gone, the soundest political condition soon becomes altered and degraded."

"Among the other evils that bribery and treating produce in the country, is the expense of election. The supposed necessity of this kind of profusion prevents many men of moderate fortune from offering their services in Parliament; although from their worth, their abilities, their intelligence, and generous zeal, they might be inestimable conservators of present public good, and promoters of further and future advantage. The Treating Act 7 and 8 Wm. III. c. 4, bases its preamble chiefly upon this assumption.

"It is not absolutely necessary to success that voters should be treated with strong drink. There are cases where candidates have been returned without any expense of this kind; as for instance, in late elections for the burghs of Derby and Sheffield. It is extremely probable that an arrangement among election committees might, without great difficulty, put an end to this crying evil. Candidates might possibly find (nay, in some cases, have found) that the supposed necessity of intoxicating drink at elections is a mere chimera. But the public ought certainly to make a stand against it. And they have it in their power to achieve great changes. Custom is by no means an unchangeable element, and can be altered by the use of proper means, though Lord Bacon justly calls it the chief magistrate of human life.

"Agreements have been entered into between chairmen of committees at borough elections, whereby intoxicating drink was excluded, to the great advantage of all parties. And in county elections, rooms for the refreshment of voters coming from a distance might easily be hired without reference to public-houses at all, and intoxicating liquor excluded from the repasts, without real danger to the success of the candidates.

"It is to be remembered that he who bribes is likely to be bribed; that when once the honourable sensibilities of pure election have been blunted towards the voter, they are the less likely to remain vivid in the case of the successful but corrupting member. He that buys a seat is more likely to sell his constituents.

"In conclusion, we would earnestly recommend that, in each constituency, all those who view this subject in a serious light should unite together, and pledge themselves to withhold their votes from those candidates who shall open drinking-houses at elections, or bribe the electors otherwise with intoxicating drink. This would strongly draw public attention to the subject; and, moreover, would countenance patriotic candidates in refusing to adopt such inexpedient and expensive practices."

WHY ALCOHOL IS DANGEROUS.

At a recent meeting of the Charleston, S. C., Temperance Society, Dr. Robertson delivered a very instructive and interesting lecture on the subject of alcohol used as a beverage. He observed that there is a good deal of confusion and error in many minds on this point. On the one hand, the votary of total abstinence, when alcohol is prescribed to him as a medicine, is unduly alarmed and distressed at the idea of violating his pledge. On the other, the opponents of the cause are just as mistakingly apt to triumph and indulge in their sarcasms when they hear of the article being employed in this way by pledged men. But Dr. R., set the whole truth on this matter in a very clear and satisfactory light. He remarked that it is exactly on account of its medicinal qualities that alcohol is so dangerous and dreadful a beverage for ordinary use; and vice versa, it is just because it is so dangerous a beverage, that it is also a powerful medicine.—Opium is a most powerful and blessed medical agent when judiciously applied; can we therefore argue that it would be a safe article for daily use as a beverage? On the contrary, its effects, when so employed, are most disastrous, as every year's experience but too sadly proclaims. And this, he maintained, was precisely the principle which involved the employment of alcohol. He learnedly set forth the specific action of this article on the brain and nervous system.

LORD BYRON'S CONFESSION.—Lord Byron makes the following admission:—"The effect of wine upon me is to make me gloomy—gloomy at the very moment it is taken; but it never makes me gay."

INTOXICATION AND DISEASE.—Dr. Trotter says, "Intoxicating liquors in all their forms, and however disguised, are the most productive cause of disease with which I am acquainted."

Advertisements, and articles intended for insertion, should be addressed to the Editor, 335, Strand, London; also, all orders for the Stamped Edition, with remittance for the amount, in postage-stamps, or Post-office orders, to John Cassell, as above.

The Teetotal Times and Essayist may be had of B. L. Green, 62, Paternoster-row, London; Ward, 64, do.; Abel Heywood, Manchester; Kershaw, Leeds; Menzies, Edinburgh; Gallie, Glasgow; and all Booksellers.

EXPEDIENCY-MEN AND THEIR ABANDONMENT OF TEETOTALISM.

[BY BENJAMIN PARSONS.]

OUR age is one of expediency. There seems little disposition in the minds of a large number of persons to investigate first principles, and base their actions on the firm foundation of truth. You are continually told that people do not like argumentation; that they cannot and will not put up with a full and clear exposition of the principles that ought to actuate them, or the result to which they would lead. Even Christianity, in many places, must not be fully preached, nor the Bible clearly expounded. There is a great prejudice, we are told, against plain-dealing, and therefore much mental reservation is needed in all preachers and public speakers. It is expedient, they say, to keep back even a part of the Gospel: Why offend people by telling them the truth, when they would be much better pleased with a one-sided view of it? A gentleman lately said, that more than half of Christendom would be frightened at Christianity if they duly considered whether it would conduct them. Poor Constantine changed his faith in a state of happy ignorance; a mere bird's eye view of the Gospel would have frightened him back again into Paganism. The world is heathenish enough now; but were we to deduct from professing Christians all those who, in our day, assume the name without understanding even the simplest first principles of the Bible, we should reduce the Church to a little flock indeed.

And the same may be said of almost everything. The origin, the principles, and the consequences of our varied actions are but little understood. Expediency is our polar-star; and having that in view, we dismiss all further inquiry. We were moved to this line of remark from knowing that a number of our teetotal friends are mere expediency-men and women. They do not abstain from strong drinks because they are poisonous, and positively injurious to health, in all cases and under all circumstances. They even imagine states of society where there would be no need of Teetotalism, because there would be no drunkards, and all who used these liquors would be so very moderate that it would not be worth while to abstain. And, besides, they have strong impressions in favour of the idea that the Scriptures sanction the use of these liquors; and, further, if they do not, yet many believe they do, and would be offended at total abstinence if you rightly expounded the Word of God.

We never had any faith in the stability of the temperance of these people, and we have often seen them give way. We were lately dining in public with some of these gentlemen, and on two several occasions we saw ministers who formerly stood on our platforms and advocated our cause, regaling themselves with their beer, wine, &c. They took these liquors medicinally, of course! The doctors said they must do so; for, as they asserted, total abstinence would have killed them. We were particularly struck that in each case, these deserters from our camp, were "expediency-men." Observation of some years' standing has convinced us, that unless men build their faith and their practice on the truth, they cannot be relied upon. Truth means reality. It is a strong, firm, substantial, immovable, everlasting thing; and when it is allowed to enter the soul, and influence its thoughts and affections, it gives its own firmness and durability to the actions and character of the individual. The apostles and martyrs were filled, inspired, impelled, and guided by truth, and nothing could move them. You might hang them, burn them, or throw them to the lions, but you must have annihilated their spirits before you could destroy the truth which was in them, and which had become, as it were, part and parcel of their immortal selves. Now you can never make such true, solid, and substantial men as these, out of expediency. Expediency is a fickle, shifting, weathercock kind of thing, on which you can place no dependence. It is altogether the creature of circumstances. You can never predict beforehand how any man will act who is led by expediency. He may be with you, or against you to-morrow, just as the wind may blow. On the contrary, an individual who knows the truth, and is resolved to stand by it, is a certain man. You can trust him anywhere and everywhere, and can foretell how he will act under all circumstances, with the same exactitude that you can calculate the rising and setting of the sun.

These true men and women are the persons we need to carry on Teetotalism, because we shall then have persons on whom we can depend. We can never say how your expediency folks will act. They will drink or abstain, according to the uncertain and fickle principle that guides them; so that it becomes a query whether their names are worth putting on our books. They are, after all, not real members. A pain in the head, or the toe, a sneer from the parson, a word from the doctor, or a mere hint from the old nurse, who likes a drop herself, will slay all their Teetotalism. To have total abstainers, who will stand firm, it is necessary that a few simple facts should be engraven on their inmost souls, and especially this, namely,—

THAT ALL INTOXICATING LIQUORS ARE, AS THE NAME IMPLIES, DESTRUCTIVE POISONS. Now, a poison is that which wages war with human life; and all chemists, physiologists, and medical men, who understand their profession, are agreed that alcohol is such a substance; and we know also that this alcohol is the intoxicating principle in all fermented liquors, whether beer, cider, or porter, home or foreign wine, gin, rum, brandy, hollands, or whisky. It is true other drugs of a stupifying character may be used, but still they are for the most part of a deleterious character. We need not tell our readers, for the thousandth time, that "intoxication" comes from "toxicon," a "poison," and that therefore an "intoxicated man" means "a poisoned man;" and, in the great majority of cases, he has drunk the beer, wine, or whatever it may be, for the sake of the poison that was in it. Alcohol, it should be further observed, is a stimulant and a narcotic—that is, it raises us very high and sinks us very low. First, it drives the wheels of nature too fast, and then, to some extent, it paralyses their power, so that they move too slowly, and therefore those who use these liquors never can be in a healthy state. Their spirits are too much elated, or too much depressed.

It may be added further, that alcohol is a liquid fire, and has a most injurious effect upon the digestive organs, the liver, the intestines, and all the vessels through which it flows. Hence all moderate as well as immoderate drinkers are troubled with indigestion, or some internal disease. The truth of this assertion is demonstrated by all the tipplers with whom you converse, or whose bodies have been subjected to a post mortem examination. Here, then, is a fact—a great truth—to guide our conduct. Alcohol is a poison; it wages war with life; no man or woman can use it without injury: and therefore it is our duty at all times, and under all circumstances, to abstain from its use. Let these principles be engraved on the soul, and you have a fixed, a settled rule for action; for as long as people act according to them, they will avoid intoxicating liquors as they would arsenic, or any other deadly substance. Here, also, there is no room for expediency. It shuts out all ideas about different constitutions, peculiar diseases, and so on, and renders a man proof against temptation, against the parson, the doctor, and the nurse, and makes him a teetotaler for life. He who builds on this foundation can be depended upon. He knows the truth, and the truth has made him firm and free.

To the fact just stated, it is objected that if alcohol is a poison, it is slow in its operations, and does not, like Prussic acid, kill at once. We are not about to deny this fact, and, in our opinion, it strengthens our cause. Who ever heard of a sane man proposing to kill himself ten or twenty years hence? The self-murderer or suicide is as guilty of his own death if he destroy himself at the end of fifty years as if he sacrificed himself now. Murder is murder, whether effected by a tedious or instantaneous process, only that the former case is attended with more pain, and may also be conducted so clandestinely and deceptively as to beguile others to imitate our conduct. The moderate drinker kills himself by inches; but all the time he is doing it he boasts of the benefit he is deriving from his poisonous cups, and inveigles others into the snare in which he has entangled himself. He destroys his wife and children, and does so under the delusion of doing them good; so that when he appears at the bar of God, he will have to account for the destruction of several lives beside his own. No moderate drinker perishes alone in his iniquity.

We are continually seeing, hearing, and reading of the destructive consequences of moderate drinking. We have just come from the sick-bed of the poor paralytic, who is laid low by this poison, and yet he has all along boasted of the advantages that he and others derived from beer, cider, and other stimulants. We have just been dining with the alderman, who will drink to keep up his health, but whose hand trembles like an aspen-leaf from the paralyzing effects of his moderate glass. We have only a few days left the minister and apostate teetotaler, who has for weeks been taking beer and wine for physic, and yet complains to everybody of his several maladies. The other day we dined with another person who had deserted our cause; and just as he had done boasting of the benefits he had derived from bitter ale, and the perfect health he enjoyed, asked for a glass of water, that he might take his dinner-pill, because, as he informed us, his digestive organs could not do their work without being spurred on by this second confection of drug! But we could fill volumes with examples of the baneful effects of alcohol taken "as a medicine," and used in "great moderation."

We refer to this subject here because we feel assured that, until we ground Teetotalism on its own solid base, we shall continually be annoyed, grieved, injured, and betrayed by defaulters. The writer of these remarks has introduced them here because they have been the support of his own temperance constancy for the last sixteen years. Many cases have occurred in which his conduct has been brought to the test, especially in examples of disease, where the wily suggestion, that intoxicating liquors were necessary as a medicine, has been plied with all its force. But the fact that alcohol is a poison—that the teetotaler who may be ill would have been worse but for his Teetotalism, and that such a poison, even in the form of physic, would retard rather than hasten the recovery of the patient—has always prevailed; and he believes that until his brother teetotalers thus fortify themselves with truth, they will have their principles shaken, and be in constant danger of being seduced from their steadfastness by falling into the vile snare of expediency.

STRIKE THE IRON WHILE IT'S HOT.

A TEMPERANCE APPEAL.

Men of mind be up and doing,
In this cause of truth and love;
Aid us in this work of progress,
See, "the world is on the move."
Urge not lowliness of station—
Come from palace or from cot,
You can aid our mighty movement—
"Strike the iron while it's hot!"

Think not of procrastinating,
For 'tis fraught with danger deep;
Boast not what ye'll do to-morrow,
Do it ere to-night ye sleep.
Deal a sturdy blow for freedom,
Snap your shackles on the spot,
Joys unnumbered ye may grasp now—
"Strike the iron while it's hot."

Ye who fondly love your little,
Cast that "little drop" away;
If the act were universal,
'Twere indeed a glorious day;
But the hour is fast approaching!
When the world shall know no sot;
Haste, then, lone one and benighted—
"Strike the iron while it's hot!"

Strike the iron while it's hot, boys,
Strike it while ye've yet a chance—
Strike it with a steady nerve, boys,
Lest your blow should glide askance;
Hit it home—aye, hit it stoutly,—
Till a victor quit it not;
It must yield beneath your prowess—
"Strike the iron while it's hot!"

EIGHT FAMILIES IN ONE TOWN.—The following startling statements relate to eight different families in a single town. The parents were moderate drinkers! Can heads of families read these facts without concern? The first one had a child, a daughter. A great sum was expended on her education. She died from the effects of strong drink. The second had an only son. He was educated with great care and at great expense, but was killed by wine. The third had four sons and one daughter. The daughter is a drunkard, and one son has gone to a drunkard's grave. The fourth had three sons. One died of intemperance, one was killed in a duel, and the other is a drunkard. The fifth had one son who killed himself by drinking, and two step-sons are drunkards on wine. The sixth had five sons. Two are dead through intemperance, and another is a drunkard. The seventh had five sons. Four are drunkards, and one, through the influence of liquor, is an idiot. The eighth had five sons and three nephews. Four of the sons have been killed by alcohol, and the fifth is a drunkard; and the three nephews are in the drunkard's grave.—N. Y. Casket.

A ROOT OF BITTERNESS.

ADDRESSED TO MOTHERS.

By JANET HAMILTON, Longlone, Lanarkshire.

"The 'mothers' have eaten sour grapes, and the children's teeth are set on edge."

A GOOD MOTHER is, unquestionably, the most necessary, powerful, and beneficial agent to whom God has entrusted the charge of young humanity. I am now, however, about to reverse the picture, and to dwell, not on the lights of the piece, but on its sombre shades; to speak of mothers who, through the influence of the enticing cup which inebriates, have strangely forgotten their calling, their duty, and their truest privilege.

The inspired penman, when exhorting to industry and foresight, exclaimed, "Go to the ant, thou sluggard, consider her ways, and be wise;" so we would say to intemperate, ignorant, and indolent mothers, "Go to the walk of the common barndoor fowl; observe how fondly and faithfully she follows out and fulfills all the strong and beautiful maternal instincts with which nature has endowed her, and how wholly divested of all selfish feeling is this poor bird when rearing her young; for let the wind blow and the rain fall, and how soon are her sheltering wings extended to cover, and her naked breast to warm them; nor heeds she the drenching of her own scanty plumage, while affording them warmth and security. How bravely she stands on the defensive for them, and how boldly she faces those enemies before whom, but a little while ago, she would have fled in terror. With what constant and eager industry she searches out and lays before them the most suitable and agreeable food, and by a peculiar note warns them from taking up anything hurtful."

But here we drop the comparison, and make an appeal,—not to the heart of the intemperate mother, for that is withered and dead; nor to her conscience, for that is seared as with a hot iron; nor to her feelings, for they are blunted and brutalised;—but we appeal to all who love their kind, to all who have had occasion frequently to witness, and, perhaps, to feel, the appalling horrors which attend the progress, and follow in the train of that most degraded and most pestilent of all criminals—the drunken mother of a young family.

Yes, we appeal to all for their deepest commiseration in behalf of the wretched, neglected, and perishing children of such mothers; and if we would rightly describe the sad condition of these little outcasts, we must feel that "there are words of deeper sorrow than the wail above the dead;" for, although she who daily caused her children to pass through the fire to the Moloch of intemperance, may have stumbled into the drunkard's grave in the mid-time of her days, still amongst the survivors of the wrecked family there may have been some young females—we will take one, for instance, who, in time, has become a wife and mother; and, perhaps, the remembrance of the miseries she witnessed and endured in her youth, may deter her from entering on the path which her infatuated mother pursued to the death. Yet how is she otherwise qualified for discharging her important trust? for from her young and untutored mind no mother's hand ever lifted the veil of ignorance, to admit the light of heaven into its recesses. How, then, can she enlighten the minds of her children? How can she instruct them in the knowledge and love of that God whose name she never heard fall from the lips of her mother, except in the form of an imprecation? How can she teach them to avoid sin, and fear its punishment; she, who during her childhood, was never told what sin really was, nor taught to fear any punishment save the fierce curses and cruel blows of her intoxicated mother, when she had failed to procure for her, either by some ingenious artifice, or lying imposition, the means of gratifying her depraved appetite? But how shall we address that class of mothers whose ears are impervious to every call which would tend to arouse them from their apathetic indolence to the active discharge of those imperious duties which they owe to their husbands, their children, and themselves?

And here we will not dwell upon the physical sufferings and privations of the little creatures who owe their existence to such mothers; for it needs but to observe the unhealthy pallor of their complexions, the clotted eyes, the matted hair, and we feel assured that these are indeed the children of the sluttish and indolent mother. And oh! that the evil and bitter consequences entailed on a family by the mother indulging in such a course of selfish indolence and pernicious neglect, might reach no farther than the infliction of such bodily pains and penalties as result from her mal-practices in the management or mismanagement of her house and children! But, truly, the evil ends not here, and the worst is yet to come; for although the delicate infant in her hands will probably be early taken away from the evil to come, yet the more robust have survived all the perils of such an infancy, and have arrived at that age when the reasoning powers begin to expand and the young mind feels the first cravings of mental appetite, and incessantly groping about, and inquiring its way to some point on which it may fix its staggering ideas, and the soft and guileless heart lies open, ready to receive its first and most indelible impressions either for good or evil. But now, where, O where, is the plastic and guiding hand of the mother to bend, to lead, to train the green and tender twig, till by the divine blessing, like Joseph, it becomes a fruitful bough, whose branches run over the wall! Alas! for such children; there is no mother at home, for her place is occupied by one who has no stronger claim to that title than this, that she is a female of the human species surrounded by her young; still she is a fair specimen of this class of mothers amongst whom, sad to say, are many individuals who are neither ignorant nor incapable of performing the duties of a mother, either in a physical or moral sense; but having become callous to all the claims of duty, they feel none of that deep and all-engrossing interest which a true mother takes in all that pertains to her offspring. The careless and indolent mother cares for none of these things, and so her children perish for lack of knowledge! They may prow all day about the streets in bad company; they may be principal actors in every scene of juvenile mischief and wickedness; and yet the mother takes no note of all this, and why? simply because, like Mrs. M'Clarty, "She canna be fash'd."

But it is time to drop the curtain upon these sad and unlovely, yet real, representations of character; and before making my exit, my dear countrywomen and sisters in the bond of womanhood, I would beg your forbearance, if I have seemed too rude and severe in my blunt and unpolished strictures upon that portion of married females who indulge in depraved, careless, and idle habits. But "faithful are the wounds of a friend;" and indeed it is a friendly hand which points the finger of reproof at the delinquencies too frequently exhibited in the character and practice of many of my sex. And here I must express my ardent wish that the same friendly hand could point out and assist in applying a remedy for the rankling and disabling, and yet hitherto neglected wounds inflicted on woman in her social position by the laws and usages of society. I will not now trust myself to the discussion of this subject, but when that time comes, as come it must and will, when woman's true place and position in the social, moral, and intellectual scale shall be fully recognised, it will be acknowledged that, when rightly directed and well applied, the moral power, influence, and intelligence of the working mother is the most necessary, most important, and efficient of all the requisites of a truly sound and useful education for the children of the working classes.

And now a word at parting with you, my dear sisters, ye working mothers of Britain, who are true-hearted, right-minded, and steadfast in duty. We are "lowly, very lowly," in the general estimation of the great, the learned, and the wise, who, with some honourable exceptions, seem to have formed a somewhat Turkish opinion relative to our mental powers and moral capacity. But let us, my sisters, each in her own domestic circle, in all the relations of mothers, wives, daughters, and sisters, adapt our humbler powers to the task of working out the practice of those duties which all admit devolve upon us; and while we are sometimes painfully straining up the steep and thorny path of duty, and are sensible of our weakness, and feel the weight and importance of the duties imposed upon us, let us cherish a hope that now, when the powers of light and knowledge are in arms against the powers of darkness and crime, our country will call us to our place by her side in the struggle; and the words of that call will be—

"BRITAIN EXPECTS EVERY MOTHER TO DO HER DUTY."

DO LABOURERS NEED STRONG DRINK ?

THERE surely must be some means of checking the prevalence of tippling. No doubt there is a means at once simple, economical, and effectual, and that is, not to drink intoxicating liquors at all. Every other means, as far as society at large is concerned, has failed, and will continue to fail; and the only wonder is, that any sensible or observant individual viewing the weakness and sensuality of human nature on the one hand, and the insidiously-tempting nature of alcoholic liquors on the other, should expect anything but failure. If, then, the continuance of manufacturing and using these drinks, is to subject us to the fearful evils which it would be all but impossible adequately to describe, it becomes a matter of no trifling interest to inquire how far such articles are necessary for carrying on the operations of agriculture, for which purpose they are still considered essential, by many of those who are engaged in farming. Considering how heavily the evils arising out of our drinking customs fall upon the farmer, in the shape of poor and county rates, accidents to men and horses, abused or neglected cattle, slighted labour, and grumbling labourers, &c., I have been surprised that the subject has not been more often alluded to, not so much in a moral, as in an economical point of view; for surely these are times in which no means of improving the moral and physical condition of the employed, or of lessening the inconvenience and cost of cultivation to the employer, ought to be neglected. Permit me, then, to state to such of your readers as need the information, that it is now proved, by long and extensive experience, that the most arduous labour, either in the workshop or the field, can be performed not only as well, but better on the average, without intoxicating drinks than with them; indeed, I presume very few but ignorant or ill-informed persons will venture to question the truth of this statement. The enlightened Christian philanthropist need not hesitate long in pronouncing a judgment upon the wisdom or the humanity of destroying every year millions of bushels of wholesome food, to deluge the country with needless temptations, under which thousands continue to fall, and all this to gratify one sensual appetite, which in the long-run rather lessens than increases the intellectual and social enjoyments of life.—S. Bowly in the Agricultural Gazette.

WHO PAYS THE TAXES?—A very respectable person in Paisley, sixty years of age, who has been during life always considered a regularly temperate individual, has been in the constant habit of using spirits and tobacco. This person has a written account of the quantities used by him during life, and he lately stated that on examination he found that the duty paid by him on these two articles alone, amounted to the handsome sum of £370 sterling.

INSTRUCTIVE PAPERHANGINGS.

Though many improvements have within these few years been made in the designs or subjects of wall-papers, yet much remains to be done. Instead of the unmeaning combinations of strange forms, and of groups and wreaths of flowers which the goddess Flora must laugh at, why should not paperstainers choose for "patterns" historical episodes, or colonial scenery subjects? There are many passages in the life of our Great Alfred which might be made the subject of mural cartoons for the "million." There are, too, many views of places in our colonies which might be represented on the paper used for covering the walls of the houses of the humbler classes of society. "Walls have ears," says the proverb; they might, by the employment of such subjects, and with the aid of artists, be said to have tongues; and their muriloquence (to coin a word) would be a thing to be admired in England. Similar subjects might be used for "transparent blinds," to a much greater extent than at present, for public institutions, hotels, and for those clubs for sober men, coffee-palaces.

May I profit by this occasion of writing to you to say something in connexion with temperance, and a vast number of your readers? Notwithstanding the increase of temperance societies, and the improved habits (in regard to drinking) of the working classes of Great Britain, still fourteen millions of pounds are annually spent in gin alone! Now this is the precise sum which Mr. Asa Whitney requires for the construction of his Atlantic and Pacific Ocean Junction Railway. If the working men of England would abstain from gin drinking for seven years they might become the proprietors of that or a similar railroad. Yes, sir, half a million of men connected with building and its subsidiary trades, by saving a penny a day for seven years, could form more than half this great work, and each contributor might have, at the end of that time, fifty acres of land. A penny-raised capital, great enough to complete so gigantic an undertaking, might at first seem a dream of the imagination of a Bedlamite; but so would have been deemed, at one time, our penny post, our parliamentary railway trains, penny steamboats, penny savings' banks, penny cyclopedias, and other penny matters. We live in a penny era: and rely upon it, sir, that it is possible to carry out this penny suggestion.

OPITEK.

—Builder.

DISEASES OF INTEMPERANCE.

STATISTICAL SOCIETY OF LONDON.

At a meeting on the 16th of June, the Right Hon. Lord Overstone, president, in the chair, a paper was read by Mr. F. G. P. Neison on the "Rate of Mortality among Persons of Intemperate Habits."

Mr. Neison commenced his paper by explaining that the primary reason for collecting the data then brought forward, was to apply the results to life assurance operations, and he had consequently only included well marked cases of intemperance, and not brought into his observations mere occasional drinkers, or what is termed generous or "free livers."

Throughout the whole of the tables the mortality shown was frightfully high. In the 61115 years of life, to which the observation extended, 357 deaths had taken place; but if these lives had been subjected to the same rate of mortality as the general population of England and Wales, the number of deaths would have been 110 only, or less than one-third. At the term of life 21—30, the mortality was upwards of five times that of the general community; and in the succeeding twenty years it was above four times greater, the difference becoming gradually less and less. One intemperate person of age 20 has an equal chance of living 16.6 years; one of 30 years of age, 13.8; and one of 40 years, 11.6 years; while a person of the general population of the country would have an equal chance of living 44.2, 36.5, and 28.8 years respectively.

Some curious results were shown in the influence of the different kinds of drink on the duration of life, beer drinkers averaging 21.7 years, spirit drinkers 16.7, and those who drank both spirits and beer indiscriminately 16.1 years. These results, however, were not more curious than those connected with the different classes of persons. The average duration of life after the commencement of intemperate habits among mechanics, working and labouring men, was 18 years; traders, dealers, and merchants, 17; professional men and gentlemen, 15; and females, 14 years only. But perhaps the most curious circumstance disclosed was the remarkable similarity between the proportion of crime in the sexes to the proportion of deaths from assigned causes of intemperance. It was shown that the tendency to crime in the male sex is nearly five times greater than that of the female, or more strictly in the relation of 336 to 1,581, while the ratio of deaths to the population, from assigned intemperate causes at age 20 and upwards are in the relation of 8,011 to 36,769—a most remarkable agreement, the difference being under 24 per cent.

The principal cause of death among intemperate lives was shown to be from head diseases (nervous system), the number of deaths having been 97, of which 57 are recorded under the head of "delirium tremens," from diseases of the respiratory organs 82, and nearly the same number from liver disease and dropsy.

Mr. Neison concluded by giving an estimate of the number of drunkards in England and Wales, from which it appeared that the number of males was 53,583, and females 11,223, making a total of 64,806, which gives one drunkard to every 74 of the male population, one to every 434 of the female, and one in 145 of both sexes. The following abstract shows the proportion as shown at different ages:—

Ages.	Males, one in	Females, one in
21—30	176	755
31—40	80	545
41—50	57	297
51—60	52	226
61—70	64	298
71—80	253	1,812

Among persons addicted to decidedly intoxicating habits, 3,182 males and 671 females die yearly in England and Wales, or 3,853 of both sexes.

RESULTS OF TRUE RELIGION.—If the Christian religion was universally practised, all privations from want and poverty would cease. If every man obeyed the command, "Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself" (Matt. v.), where would want and distress be found? Drunkenness, one of the greatest of all causes of want and misery, would certainly cease. Would intoxicating drinks be known? All useless expenditure would be avoided, and present waste poured into one common fund, which would amply provide for the poor and needy. But, again, who would need charity, if all were sober, industrious, and frugal Christians? God is pledged to bless such a nation. Famine he reserves for his enemies. But if charity was needed, he who had to give would willingly and joyfully give, and pour therewith many a blessing on his poor brother's soul. Want there could be none, when God has promised to bestow all blessings and plenty to the "righteous nation" (Deut. xxviii.)—The Sabbath. By R. W. Vanderkiste, City Missionary.

"A SLIGHT ELEVATION!"

At the assizes held on the Western Circuit, at Devizes, on the 16th ult., a man named James Gilbert was indicted for maliciously cutting and wounding John Rickson, with intent to do him grievous bodily harm. It appeared that on the 10th of June the parties had been at a club. As the prosecutor was returning home in the evening he overtook the prisoner, who was walking with two young women. The prosecutor said he was not tipsy, he was not affected, but he was what was called "in liquor." The prosecutor said to one of the girls, "Harriet, we will walk home happy together to-night if you like." The girl said, "Very well, John, so we will." The prisoner said, "What business hast thee here, thee great carter fellow?" Prosecutor said, "I don't trouble about thee." They then went on, the prosecutor following. Gilbert came back when they had proceeded about half a mile, and said, "What hast thee got to say against me?" Prosecutor said, "Nothing, and I don't care for you." The prisoner then struck Rickson with some sharp instrument on the nose and on the head. The nose was very bloody afterwards, and a knife was seen in the hand of the prisoner. The peculiar part of the case now comes. The jury having found the prisoner guilty of a common assault, Lord Campbell stated "he approved of the verdict. A little recreation was quite proper, and perhaps a slight elevation was not to be found fault with, but persons must not have recourse to the knife. The prisoner must be imprisoned and kept to hard labour for three months." Surely a dignitary of the English bench must have seen that "a slight elevation" had often ended in the misery and ruin of a life. At any rate, there was no need for his lordship to say that it was not to be found fault with. A recommendation of drunkenness was the last thing we should have expected in an English court of law. How Lord Campbell came so far to forget himself, we really cannot imagine, but such speeches will not tend to enhance the dignity of the ermine. Happily, such speeches are as strange as they are discreditable. We trust we shall never hear again of a nobleman, high in rank and dignity, proclaiming from his official seat, that "a little elevation," even when it leads to a breach of the peace, "is not to be found fault with."—Standard of Freedom.

A BREWER VERSUS INTEMPERANCE.

At a meeting for the formation of a Freehold Land Society, recently held at Burton, Mr. Taylor, and some other speakers, dwelt on the importance of temperance as one great means of enabling working men to join such societies. Mr. BASS, M.P., the chairman of the meeting (and also a brewer) in acknowledging the vote of thanks presented to him, said, "The meeting would have observed that Mr. Taylor and the other speakers had spoken of the almost impracticability of accomplishing their object unless steadiness and sobriety were observed. Due allowance had also been made by them to the trade of the town" (the manufacture of "Burton Ale"). "They (the brewers) would not have it supposed that they agreed or wished to uphold the hideous vice of drunkenness (hear, hear)—they were opposed to intemperance. The brewers of Burton had for some years past succeeded in brewing a beverage, which was now largely consumed at home and abroad, and which happily tended more to cheer than inebriate. In his opinion no class of tradesmen was benefited by drunkenness, for from that source flowed bad servants, bad debts, and bankruptcy, and as a brewer he felt quite certain that his real interests went along with the temperate enjoyment, rather than with the abuse of the good things of this life. He would advise all men who could not take it in moderation to become teetotalers; but on the other hand, if they could conduct themselves with decency and not abuse it, he should say let them enjoy those things God has provided for us"

X TO OUR READERS. X

It is now somewhat more than five years since the first number of the TEETOTAL TIMES was issued. The object of the Proprietor was, in the first place, to keep up his intercourse with his Teetotal brethren in various parts of the kingdom through an interesting and instructive medium, and, at the same time, to develop the principles, and to exhibit the progress and triumphs of Teetotalism,—a system endeared to him by numerous considerations, and which the imperative claims of increasing mercantile concerns prevented him from advocating personally, as he had been wont. This medium of mutual communication it has afforded him much pleasure to keep open to the present time; and though the TEETOTAL TIMES has at no period been profitable as a commercial speculation, it has, nevertheless, been the means of spreading important information to an almost indefinite extent. A large gratuitous circulation throughout the United Kingdom, the British colonies, and America; a remuneration to the writers of original articles; together with the cost of printing in a style superior to that of most penny publications, has rendered it anything but a “paying” concern. This, however, might not have interfered with its continuance for some time to come, had not the increasing demands of business, and of extensive literary undertakings rendered its discontinuance indispensable. A proposition having been made of merging the TEETOTAL TIMES, and another temperance periodical, in the “National Temperance Chronicle,” the organ of the National Temperance Society, the Proprietor has agreed to that proposition, and the TEETOTAL TIMES will from this day be discontinued.

To the numerous subscribers, the occasional contributors, and those generous friends who have assisted in times past to promote the gratuitous circulation of the TEETOTAL TIMES, the Proprietor hereby tenders his grateful thanks. It is not without reluctance that he and the Editor bid them farewell! It is, however, his determination, through the medium of the numerous publications over which he exercises control, to avail himself of every opportunity of propelling the Temperance Movement; a movement to which he himself owes much, and the progress of which he believes to be essential to the true elevation of the working classes, the prosperity of the nation, and the spread of pure and undefiled religion.

TEETOTAL DEMONSTRATIONS.

WE need scarcely direct attention to the gatherings of Teetotalers from all parts of the United Kingdom, from America, &c., announced on our first page. It is confidently expected that the attendance on all occasions will be large, and that the proceedings will be worthy of the occasion.

“VOICES FROM PRISONS AND PENITENTIARIES. ADDRESSED TO THE SUPERINTENDENTS, TEACHERS, AND SUPPORTERS OF SUNDAY-SCHOOLS.”

WE are happy to find that this pamphlet is still being extensively circulated, and that it has brought many teachers of Sunday-schools to think seriously on the subject of total abstinence from strong drinks, both for their own personal benefit, and as an important instrumentality. The Committee of the Lewes Juvenile Temperance Society are placing a copy in the hands of every Sunday-school teacher in Lewes, together with a copy of a tract entitled, “Teetotalism a Qualification for a Sabbath-school teacher.” In some of the London districts a similar mode has been adopted. The “Voices,” and the letters publishing in the Standard of Freedom, are drawing considerable attention to the importance of connecting instruction in temperance with instruction in other branches of Christian morality.

A SUGGESTION FOR ASSISTING THE SPREAD OF TEETOTALISM.

To the True Temperance Reformers,—

I have long felt anxious to promote the practice of visiting by the members of our societies. I am convinced that this is one of the most important means that can be used for diffusing our principles, and gaining access to all classes of drinkers. By this means those may be reclaimed who never attend our meetings; even the most degraded may thus, by instruction and admonition, kindly given, be greatly benefited. At present the Temperance agency is almost confined to a very limited number who are speakers; but, in the practice of visiting, every teetotaler, male and female, has a wide sphere of influence for good. The difficulty hitherto felt by most of our members has been the want of something with which to introduce themselves. I have endeavoured to remove this difficulty by getting set up a form of bills suited for the purpose, and which I propose supplying, without any profit, at the bare cost of printing and paper. With a few of these in his hand a visitor can introduce himself into the houses of the people without any difficulty. I can assure my teetotal friends that they have only to try the plan in order to be convinced that it is calculated to do great good, and that hitherto the progress of the cause has been retarded by the want of this powerful means of success. If every staunch teetotaler would only give two hours each week to this work, Sunday or workday, not a family in the kingdom need be unvisited or untaught. The cost of these bills is so unprecedentedly low, that should any committee decline to supply them, there is scarcely an individual that could not do this for himself. A hundred a week for each person would be sufficient, the cost of which would be only a penny. If some hearty teetotalers, well known in each town, would purchase a ream, for the purpose of supplying others in small quantities at cost price, he would be rendering a valuable assistance, and materially forwarding the cause of Temperance visitation.

Each ream of double crown paper contains 16,000 bills, and are charged, prepaid, uncut, 13s. 4d. per ream, being equal to 1d. per 100, or 10d. per 1000.

In addition to using these bills for visiting, they are sold, uncut, at the Temperance Meetings at 4d. per sheet, containing 32 tracts, leaving a profit of 7s. 6d. upon the ream. Of course they are adapted for general distribution as well as visiting.

A sheet of select Temperance Poetry, of the same size, is in the press, to be sold at the same price.—I am, yours,

J. LIVESY.

Address — Bowness, Windermere, or Preston, Lancashire.

The last number

WHAT STOPS THE WAY?

A FEW months ago all Fleet-street was blocked up, from Temple Bar to Farringdon street; and the occupants of every carriage, cab, and omnibus, were compelled to exercise their patience to an unusual extent. When I saw this dense mass of carriages, of which, in coming down Ludgate-street, I had a good view, my past experience led me immediately to form a conjecture as to the cause of the stoppage. But I said to myself, I will not be uncharitable. I will not form a hasty conclusion; but as I pass through Fleet-street I will see whether it is some brewer's dray that stops the way. And sure enough it was. I had not gone far before I came to four of these unwieldy wagons, some filled with large casks and others with small barrels. On former occasions I have permitted a few thoughts to pass through my mind, and there was an end of the matter; but now, having my pen in my hand for friendly converse with my readers, I will place upon record some of those thoughts, in order that other persons may the more fully carry them out.

London has recently witnessed the anniversaries of all kinds of religious societies and benevolent institutions; a sort of grand Exhibition of industry of philanthropic labour. In their reports they all tell the same story. They have not done so much good as they could have wished, either in instructing the ignorant or elevating the fallen at home, or in converting the heathen abroad; and they have not obtained that amount of pecuniary support to which they think themselves entitled. The world has not derived all the benefit which might have been anticipated from the millions of copies of the Word of God now in circulation. Heathen lands do not show that progress that might have been expected, from the number of missionaries employed; and of the converts from heathen idolatry many are perverted by other evils to which they are exposed. Children brought up at daily and Sunday-schools have too frequently caused disappointment to those who have watched over their conduct. Notwithstanding all the clergy, dissenting ministers, and city missionaries, and all the religious tracts distributed by the various societies, infidelity is rampant, and to a large portion of the population the Lord's-day is the especial day for seeking their own pleasure and all kinds of dissipation.

It is, however, too clear from the Reports, and the speeches delivered by the movers and seconders of resolutions, that the writers and speakers are at a loss to know what it is that prevents the success for which they have laboured. How then is it? Ye vans filled with Bibles, containing that Word which, when properly delivered and rightly received, shall not return void, but shall prosper in that for which it was sent; ye omnibuses full of missionaries ready to preach glad tidings to all lands; ye chariots bearing the brave men who go forth for the destruction of oppression and slavery; ye carriages filled with men of peace, carrying the banner of good-will and brotherly love to all nations, why halt ye? Who stops the way? IT IS THE BREWER'S DRAY.
—National Temperance Chronicle.

PUBLIC-HOUSE SIGN-BOARDS.

By S. W.

"THE RISING SUN."

THE corner house of most streets is more decorated and imposing than the generality of other houses. Large "sign-boards" and flashing "titles" tell its character and object. All classes of personages are here held up to attract the travellers' attention—Kings, Queens, Nobles, Statesmen, Generals, Admirals, and others of less note, are employed to distinguish and title the house. The different branches of art, with objects from nature, are also pressed into this mode of advertising the "splendid," the "sparkling," and the "unequaled" ales, which are retailed within. To point out the inconsistencies of some of these titles is the object of this paper.

The observant mind cannot fail to notice the strange incongruity of these sign-boards, with the real design of the house. It is strikingly so with the one we have selected for the subject of these remarks, "The Rising Sun." Perhaps there is no object in nature more glorious and cheering than the waking up of the "King of day,"—

"When from the chambers of the east,
His morning race begins."

With what thrilling emotions of exulting delight do we gaze upon his first tinselling of the eastern horizon. The shadows of twilight gently fade, the murky clouds loom away, and fleecy folds of light appear tinged with the amber of his spreading rays. Anon the heavens brighten, and his golden crest appears, capping the hills, illuming the vales, and filling the plains with glorious light. Onward travels the monarch of day, till the azure arch of heaven glows—the spangling landscape glistens with the dewdrop, and the invigorating atmosphere is vocal with the merry lays of the winged choir, whose animating music his presence seems to inspire. Oh! who but he whose saddened life has passed in ceaseless toil "from weary chime to chime" in some cellar of our London courts and alleys has not felt the most enrapturing sensations enkindled in his soul by the rising sun! Thousands of our fellow beings have never seen the grand unveiling of the orb of day except as it is tawdrily aped over the door of a public-house. Where is artistic skill so foolishly displayed as in this attempt to depict the inimitably sublime!

And what title is more glaringly inconsistent to place upon a house? Is the "Rising Sun" indicative of the light, and strength, and joy of the "Real Cognac," the "Old Tom," and the "Entire?" Do such sign-boards predicate the good resulting from the use of these liquid poisons? Take a peep into one of these houses, and see if there be any analogy between Nature's brightest work, and the effects produced by the flowing tankard and the sparkling glass. Do you behold in the beaming rays of intelligence—the healthful freshness—the cheerful aspects of peace and joy flowing from the polished pewter pot—any resemblance to the light, and life, and joy-giving rays of the Rising Sun? "Light, health, peace, and joy seen in a public-house!" say you. "Can you seriously expect such phenomena?" We see volumes of whirling smoke issuing from a burning narcotic, poisoning the air, and inflating the lungs with noxious effluvia. We discover darkened forms—shapes of humanity like so many gloomy familiars of a Spanish inquisition. "Health in a public-house!" We oftener behold spectral impersonations of living disease, whose purple pimpled visages are unearthly and revolting—whose eyes gaze listlessly on vacancy, or flash with the exciting drug with unnatural and feverish brightness, and whose limbs tremble as with the helpless decrepitude of age. "Peace in a public-house!" There the tongue is emphatically "set on fire of hell;" there the worst and deadliest passions burst into tumultuous antagonism; there man loses his dignity, and fiercely preys upon his fellow. "Joy in a public-house!" If the ribald song and sensual jest, the blasphemous oath and senseless bursts of uproarious laughter—if vociferating bravados, empty cant, and coarse jargon be joy, then it exists in quantum sufficit; but if the compressed lip and downcast eye—if the care-cast brov and surly mien be indices of the absence of joy, then look sometimes in the public-house, but oftener in the drunkard's home, and there all is joyless, sickening, and sad.

And yet the sign of the "Rising Sun" would indicate to us that light, health, peace, and joy were found within! Shameless mockery—blasphemous mimicry of the handiworks of GOD. Such sign-boards are an insult to common sense, and a libel on the works of Nature. When will public taste correct these public "make-believes"—when? Why, when the working man's mind shall be led to see the delusion, and withdraw his patronage from such whitened walls and painted sepulchres. "Call things by their proper names," and if the owners of public-houses wish to designate them by objects from Nature, let them select something more analogous—such as the "Whirlpool," the "Gulf," the "Shoals," or the "Quick Sands." Such titles would be more in character, and more clearly indicate the consequences to which they lead.

We have seen a public-house with a title far more appropriate and becoming than the Rising Sun—it is "THE SHADES." They are all "Shades"—shades where misery is generated, where vice reigns, where disease revels, and where Satan himself abides!

SPIRITS IN HOT CLIMATES.

EXTRACT from a letter by the late Robert Southey to his brother, Lieutenant Southey, who was proceeding with his ship to the West Indies. The letter is dated Dec. 31st, 1803:—"Adapt your living to the climate you are going to, and abstain almost wholly from wine and spirits. General Peche, an East Indian officer, with whom we dined on Christmas-day, told me that in India the officers who were looking out for preferment, as a majority, &c., and who kept lists of all above them, always marked those who drank any spirits in a morning with an X, and reckoned them for nothing. 'One day,' said he 'when we were about to march at day-break, I and Captain _____ were in my tent, and we saw a German of our regiment; so I said we'd try him. We called to him, said it was a cold morning, and asked him if he would drink a glass to warm him. I got him a full beaker of brandy and water; and he drank it off. When he was gone, I said: Well, what d'ye think; we may cross him, may'nt we? Oh yes, said he, cross him by all means. And the German did not live twelve months.' But the natives of all hot countries invariably abstain from spirits, as deadly."—Southey's Life, Vol. 2, p. 245.

THE DOINGS OF RUM!

JAMES RYAN, living on the flats, near the Cleveland canal, got into an affray with some fellows up the tow-path, in which he got considerably bruised and beaten. He was labouring under the excitement of liquor, and maddened, it is said, with jealous rage towards his wife, both of which causes operated to produce the quarrel in which he got badly worsted. In this exasperated mood he went home, accompanied by a single individual, it being about twelve at night; and on entering the house, his wife, frightened at his bloody clothes and angry appearance, fled to a near neighbour's, leaving their only child, a bright little boy, about three years' old, asleep on the foot of the bed. Ryan, in a rage, seized the gun from under the bed, and swearing vengeance on some one who he declared was standing between him and his wife, discharged it apparently at random. The man who accompanied him home had hold of him at the time, and soon succeeded in wrenching the gun from his hands. Some minutes after this mêlée it was discovered that the bed was on fire, occasioned by the burning wadding from the gun; and in extinguishing the flame, the dead body of the child was found! It was lying in a quiet sleep, with its face to the wall. The contents of the gun had passed through its head from the back of its ear out at its forehead, and so near was the muzzle that unburned powder was found in the wound. We visited the house, and a more wretched picture of rum's doings we never saw. There sat the wife, with her eyes blackened by blows from her rum-maddened husband. Beside her was her only child, but yesterday a promising, prattling boy, a corpse; the house in an uproar, and its wall stained with blood; and the partner of her miseries in the dungeon of a prison. Surely, "truth is stranger than fiction."

TEETOTAL OPERATIONS.

FITZROY TEETOTAL ASSOCIATION.

This association undertook its annual excursion on Monday, June 26, to South End, by the Gem steam-packet, on which occasion, though the weather for several days previous had been very unpropitious, they were favoured with beautiful weather, and a goodly company, amounting to 540, among whom were several old and tried friends of the cause. After enjoying themselves amidst the varied scenery of the place and the adjacent villages, the inhabitants of which were supplied with information on the temperance subject, the company left for London, which they reached soon after dusk, expressing their satisfaction with the day's proceedings.

At the weekly meeting, on Tuesday evening, July 8, in the society's hall, Portland-street, Marylebone, Mr. Partridge, of Manchester, gave his testimony in regard to his practice of Teetotalism. He was in his 68th year, fifteen of which he had been a Teetotaler, and performed hard work; had come to London with fourteen friends, some of whom were then present, to see the Exhibition; and when he returned he was not afraid of finding his cottage in possession of the landlord for arrears of rent—for his cottage was his own, and he possessed five others also. Teetotalism might not do to all the same that it had done for him; but it would teach them to husband their savings, and provide for their own families instead of those of others.—Mr. Robert Lowery followed, and delivered a powerful address on the political economy of the temperance reformation. The question of supply and demand, wages and labour, and the influence of the temperance cause in reference to these, was dealt with in plain and unmistakable language, and was listened to with eager attention by a numerous audience. At the close, several signed the pledge.

GLOUCESTER.

Last month presented to the inhabitants of Gloucester most gratifying proofs of the progress of temperance in that city not hitherto famous for abstinence from intoxicating liquors. The example set by two or three zealous and consistent advocates of temperance is gradually working its good, and the list of parties pledged to total abstinence in Gloucester largely increases every year. The most prominent of the disciples of Teetotalism in Gloucester is Mr. Samuel Bowly, a respected member of the Society of Friends, who on this occasion gave his annual parties at his farm in the suburbs of Gloucester. Monday was devoted to a tea meeting under a spreading marquee on the grounds, to manly and athletic sports, afterwards winding up with the delivery of addresses on the advantages of temperance and the evils of drunkenness. About 500 persons took tea on Monday evening, and some 1,000 children on Tuesday. The speakers on Monday were Mr. Bowly and the Rev. Arthur O'Neill, of Birmingham. This gentleman was formerly a student of medicine, and went out to one of the Islands of the Archipelago to practices, but found no patients: the people, he said, were temperate, but attributed the majority of the diseases and a large proportion of the casualties in hospitals to indulgence in alcoholic beverages. The speaker at great length dwelt on the evil effects of intemperance on the body, and followed up with some remarks on the effects of intemperance on the mind. The address was listened to with deep attention, and at its close Mr. Bowly followed, blaming the aristocracy for not encouraging the movement in behalf of temperance. He also said it was a disgrace to the city of Gloucester that it did not provide for the recreation of the working classes after labour. The assembly of children on Tuesday evening was a most gratifying one.

DEVIZES.

Last month the members of the Devizes Temperance Society held their annual festival in the grounds belonging to the Devizes Castle. The day having been set apart as a general holiday in celebration of Her Majesty's coronation, the number present was greater than has attended any similar meeting for many years past; and never, perhaps, had the teetotalers of Devizes so much encouragement in the noble but arduous work they have undertaken. The Market-Lavington Teetotal Brass Band, whose performances have obtained great and well-merited applause, were in attendance throughout the day. In the afternoon Mr. Inwards delivered an address in the open air. At five o'clock a large tent was filled to overflowing by the holders of tea-tickets, and this part of the day's proceedings being concluded, the amusements were resumed till a summons of the brass band brought the promenaders again within the tent. The President, G. W. Anstie, Esq., in a few words, introduced the business of the evening. He said he rejoiced that the general holiday afforded them so good an opportunity of promoting the important object they had in view; and no class of Her Majesty's subjects would more readily celebrate her coronation than the teetotalers of this country. It was an additional accession to their pleasure to be favoured with the presence of two Christian missionaries, each of whom had laboured till very recently in the West Indies.

Rev. HENRY HURD, Wesleyan missionary, from Grenada, then said that, thirteen years ago, he went to the West Indies as a Wesleyan missionary, and while there he had seen the fearful effects of intemperance, especially among his own countrymen. It was generally thought in this country that the West India Islands were exceedingly deleterious to the European constitution. This was true, but he felt convinced that the great mortality among Europeans arose from the drinking habits of the country. There was a great improvement in this respect, and hence the mortality was not so great. He had noticed young men who had come from Europe to fill situations as planters and merchants—he had marked their course—at first they attended the house of God on the Sabbath, but after a time they gradually gave up, and finally abandoned it altogether. And what was the cause? Why they had fallen into the drinking and other habits of the country. When men were temperate they enjoyed better health; an instance might be mentioned. When the railway was being made in Jamaica, a number of English labourers were imported, many of whom were total abstainers. Now though they had to work all day in low swampy land, filled with deadly miasmas, not one had sickened and died. Was not that an argument in favour of total abstinence? (Cheers.) When stationed in Tobago, he began to think seriously upon the subject, and resolved, for the sake of example, to abstain from all intoxicating drinks. He did so, and finding that he could go through his arduous labours with much greater comfort, ease, and enjoyment than before, he resolved to try to induce others to abstain also. A meeting was called in the Wesleyan chapel, a lecture was delivered, and that night many persons came forward and signed the pledge which he drew up for the occasion. Among the number was a man of education and respectable talents, but who was grossly intemperate. He was vastly improved after this.—Mr. Hurd next referred to the establishment of the Total Abstinence Society in Barbadoes. This Society, he said, was established through the instrumentality of Colonel Reid, the Governor of the Windward Islands, and now one of the Commissioners of the Crystal Palace. At first the number was small, but it had wonderfully increased. Many thousands, he believed, had signed the pledge in Barbadoes. The Society was formed in Bridge Town, where meetings were held every week. The labours of the Committee were extended to other parts of the island. Soon a branch Society was formed in the parish of St. Thomas, and another at Speights Town. Then a juvenile association was formed, and had been the means of great good; and then a ladies' association. An agent had also been employed, principally through the munificence of Colonel Reid, and tracts had been distributed in great number. A more energetic band of teetotalers was not to be found than in Barbadoes. They worked hard, and they were always at work. In no other way could the cause advance. A meeting once a year would do but little good—they must have meetings in different parts of the town every week. He then briefly adverted to St. Vincent, where a society had been established, through the instrumentality of the Hon. H. M'Dows Grant. This gentleman had visited America, and on one occasion, while dining at a public hotel with a great number of persons, he discovered that he was the only person present who drank intoxicating liquor. When he called for something all eyes were turned towards him, and he felt much confused. This led to serious thought upon the subject, which led to his conversion to the ranks of total abstinence. A more enlightened and gifted advocate the society never had. Many men of note had joined the Society in St. Vincent, and were working hard for its advancement. Nor were the ministers of religion behind the rest. When he went to the West Indies he did not know one who abstained altogether from intoxicating drinks, but now he was glad to say nearly all were total abstainers—and they found that they could study better, and preach better, and labour harder without the use of stimulating drinks. He might also mention that these societies had been the means of great good in a moral and religious point of view. Drunkards seldom attended the house of God, but many, very many, had done so since their abandonment of strong drink, and many had become consistent members of the Church of Jesus Christ.

Rev. PHILIP H. CORNFORD, Baptist Missionary from Jamaica, said: When first I united myself with those who pursue the Temperance Reformation, it was not with a view to my own welfare, but for the purpose of promoting the good of those who are degraded and ruined by the use of intoxicating drinks. This with me has ever been the chief argument for the Teetotal Association; and to this especially do I consider Christians bound to pay regard. But I have reaped personal benefits where they were unsought, and therefore have said I have special obligations to appear amongst you. I may say I owe my life to the practice of Teetotalism. When, with this peculiarity, I first arrived in Jamaica, I was looked at very much as a "rara avis in terris," a strange kind of being, fit to be gazed at as a curiosity; and one doctor after another gravely assured me "it would never do in the West Indies." Indeed, so great was the horror of cold water at one time prevailing in Jamaica, that frequently the youngest children were not allowed to drink it, unless it had first been qualified with one or two teaspoonfuls of rum. And I have heard of a gentleman who, on his return, after a residence of twelve years in the island, was questioned as to the quality of its springs, replying, "Really I know nothing about it, for I never once tasted the water!" In process of time our principles gradually advanced, and we could number not a few missionaries of various denominations, and some goodly total abstinence societies. But everywhere, with scarcely an exception, our chief enemies were the doctors. Strange, indeed, did it appear to us, that those who so well knew the results of such a practice should so commonly be guilty of drunkenness. One who resided not far from me, said to some of his friends:—"I know all about it. I know as well the state of my stomach and liver as if I could see them. I know the effect the rum produces; and that it will finish me in about (mentioning a certain number) so many weeks. But I cannot help it." He died within a week of the time he predicted. Another (Dr. Tuthill) went to Jamaica, a highly respectable man. He was generally esteemed for many excellent qualities, as well as accounted the most skilful surgeon on the island. His associations, however, gradually led him into habits of intoxication, which he frequently bewailed, and often strove against. At length, being intoxicated, in the parish of St. John's, his companions saturated him with rum in their drunken frolic, and set fire to him, which caused his death. Another that I knew was, under similar circumstances, severely injured by being thrown down a long flight of stone steps. Yet are these men so perfectly enslaved by their degrading habits, that they appear beyond rescue; bound in iron fetters, and chained in their evil habits. Often have they reminded me of a well-authenticated anecdote of a gentleman in Scotland, whose friends, perceiving the growth of drinking habits, resolved on a grand effort for his deliverance. He was led to a social party composed entirely of friends bent on securing his welfare in this particular. The subject at length was brought forward. Friend after friend remonstrated and appealed, until at length advancing to the table he said:—"Could you set the brandy before me here, and open the door of hell before me there! Were you to assure me that, by taking this, I should be pledged into that, for the life of me I could not help taking it!" Oh! how fearful is that power which, often imperceptibly, thus entangles a man to his utter destruction. The speaker then referred to the increased average duration of missionary life since the extension of temperance principles in Jamaica, and to the testimony of the medical attendant, after some years of experience and observation: "had it not been for your total abstinence you would have been in your grave long ago!" Several societies had been formed in the Island, some of which enjoyed considerable prosperity, whilst a variety of circumstances indicated the dying away of prejudices against cold water, and its hope of favour not only as a beverage, but also as a curative power in cases of disease. The meeting was afterwards addressed by Mr. Inwards. At the close of the meeting several persons requested to sign the pledge; but, as it was growing late, they were referred to a meeting to be held a few days after in the Town-hall, when the Rev. B. Parsons was engaged to deliver a lecture.

NOTTINGHAM.

A new society has recently been formed in this place under the title of the "Nottingham Christian Temperance Society." Among its rules are the following:—

"1. The object of this society will be to diffuse as extensively as possible the principle of abstinence from all intoxicating drinks: it will endeavour to effect this by employing personal agency, holding public meetings, giving lectures, and circulating tracts.

"2. This society shall consist of persons who shall sign the following declaration:—"I agree to abstain from all intoxicating liquors as a beverage, and in all suitable ways to discountenance their use."

"3. All officers of this society shall be accredited members of the Evangelical Christian Churches, members of the society, subscribers to its funds, and free from the habit of using tobacco, snuff, or opium."

FILLEIGH.

The Filleigh Teetotal Society held their eighth anniversary on Wednesday the 9th ult. A large building attached to the model farm of the Earl Fortescue was kindly lent, by his lordship, for the occasion, in which a tea was provided, of which about 320 partook. The day was delightful; the assembled multitude was apparently cheerful and happy; and in consequence of the excellent arrangements, the entire absence of those baneful, useless, and mischief-making drinks, everything connected with the meeting passed off in a satisfactory manner. The public meeting was commenced soon after tea, when the claims of the society were very ably advocated by Messrs. Reed and Hoidge, Bible Christian ministers, and by Mr. Blackmore, Baptist minister, of South Molton, who kindly came to our assistance. Many of the arguments adduced by the speakers in favour of the principles of total abstinence were well calculated to convince; and ten persons were induced to adopt our principles. The proceedings of the day were much enlivened by the efficient performance of the Filleigh band, whose services were engaged for the occasion.

SCALBY.

This delightful little village, situate about three miles from Scarborough, once contained some very dissolute drunken characters, whose families suffered severely in consequence. The cause of temperance has been introduced, and several of the villagers have taken the pledge, and established a society for the suppression of drunkenness; their zeal is most ardent, and no doubt can be entertained of the ultimate success of their philanthropic undertaking; some of the worst are already pledged men. Meetings are held in the school-room, near the church, once a fortnight, or on all fitting occasions, where total abstinence is advocated by them and their friends from Scarborough. The Rev. Charles Parker, primitive Methodist minister, has delivered to them a very interesting lecture on the uselessness of alcoholic drinks as beverages, and the tendency of total abstinence from them, to raise the social, moral, and physical condition of man. The rev. lecturer was listened to with much attention by a crowded audience; at the conclusion, he urged them to proceed "onward" in the work they had begun, and in due time they would reap the reward of their praiseworthy exertions.

LIVERPOOL.

On the 8th of July the various temperance societies, Rechabite tents, Sons of Temperance, &c., celebrated their anniversary by a procession, festival, &c. The members met at their clubhouses, and afterwards in the Old Haymarket, where the procession was formed. A number of beautiful banners, emblems, mottoes, &c., were displayed, and the Highland costume of a large number of the members of the Caledonian tents added variety to the scene. It was estimated that not fewer than three thousand persons walked in procession, and upwards of two hundred pounds were taken at the entrance to the Zoological Gardens. There were eight excellent bands of music in the procession. The order of the procession was as follows:—Six marshals on horseback, the conductors appointed by the Festival Committee, then the banner of the Rechabite district, the officers and representatives of the Rechabite council, in three open carriages, with postillions, the officers and members of the Rechabite tents, which were followed by the members of several other societies; after which came a great number of carriages filled with ladies and gentlemen, among whom was Mr. John Hockings, known as the celebrated Birmingham blacksmith. After passing through a number of the principal streets, the procession reached the Zoological Gardens about three o'clock, when the first part of the entertainment announced to take place in the concert-hall was given. The company then dispersed through the grounds to view the various objects of interest with which the gardens abound. Tea, coffee, &c., were supplied on the green. Shortly after six o'clock, the company assembled in the concert hall to hear the second part of the entertainment; after which the company again dispersed through the grounds, and amused themselves in a variety of ways. There was a grand illumination of the total abstinence coat of arms on a stand opposite the centrifugal railway, after which the band struck up "Auld Lang Syne," and the company separated a little after ten o'clock, every one appearing to be more delighted than another with the treat which they had enjoyed.—On Wednesday evening a numerous meeting of the friends of total abstinence chiefly composed of the working classes, was held at the Concert-hall, Lord Nelson-street. The Rev. Francis Bishop, who occupied the chair, congratulated the meeting upon the success which had attended the procession and gala of the previous day. He thought great good would result to the temperance cause from what had then taken place. Addresses were then delivered by Mr. Darby, of Brinby-hall, Mr. Brown, Mr. Hockings, &c., and after voting thanks to the chairman, the meeting separated shortly after ten o'clock.

GUERNSEY.

On Mid-summer-Day the "Guernsey Band of Hope" held their first procession and tea festival. The children of both sexes assembled in the afternoon on the large lawn at the back of the Marine Hotel, Glatney-esplanade, to the number of above 500. They were accompanied by the officers and superintendents of the society. The children were all ready by two o'clock, the hour fixed for starting, all of them being well dressed, each wearing flowers or rosettes. They sung one of their melodies; after which they started, headed by a banner-bearer on horseback, and the whole of the band of the 1st Regiment of Royal Guernsey Militia, and the two bagpipers of the depot of the 72nd Highlanders. The procession proceeded to a field near Prince Albert's-road, where, with 200 adult visitors, they sat down to tea. After tea the children amused themselves till they were called and formed into a square, where they sang several of their melodies. They then proceeded to their respective homes, not a little delighted with their day's enjoyment.

JERSEY.

On the 25th of June, the Princess Royal steamer left Guernsey at two o'clock in the morning, with a large party of Teetotalers of that island and Alderney, and arrived here between five and six o'clock. On landing they were entertained to an excellent breakfast, at the hall, provided for them by the society here. In the afternoon a very imposing procession of the two societies took place, and after passing through the principal streets of the town returned to the Town-hall and partook of tea; and after tea speeches were delivered by Dr. Collenete, President of the Guernsey Society, Mr. Wilcox, and others; as the conclusion of which several signatures were obtained to the Pledge of Abstinence. On the day following, the Guernsey and Alderney brethren took a drive to the principal parts of the island—they occupied twenty-two carriages. They returned to town at one o'clock, and embarked at three o'clock on board the Princess Royal steamer, which vessel they had expressly hired for the occasion, for their respective islands, amidst welcomes and great cheering, the band of the militia also playing on leaving the harbour.

SCOTLAND.

The anniversary of the Scottish Temperance League was celebrated at Glasgow. Sermons were preached here on Sabbath as follows:—In St. Peter's and the Tron Established Churches, by the Rev. T. C. Wilson, Dunkeld; in St. Luke's and St. Mark's Free Churches, by the Rev. R. Caldwell, Erskine; in Erskine and Gordon-street United Presbyterian Churches, by the Rev. George Paterson, East Linton; in Great Hamilton-street Reformed Presbyterian Church, by the Rev. John Kay, Airdrie; in St. John's and St. Andrew's Episcopal Churches, by the Rev. Thomas Spencer, M.A., London; in Nile-street and West George-street Independent Churches, by the Rev. Alexander Hannay, Dundee; in Ebenezer Independent Chapel, and East Regent-street Evangelical Union Chapel, by the Rev. Gilbert McCallum, Neilston; and in East Regent-street Baptist Chapel, and Eglinton-street United Presbyterian Church, by the Rev. Francis Johnston, Edinburgh. Six of the discourses were preached in the forenoon, the same number in the afternoon, and four in the evening. The congregations which usually assembled in the various places of worship were augmented by groups of abstainers from different parts of the country, as well as from various districts of the city. The number of persons who listened to the discourses could not be less than 10,000.

The annual public meeting was held in the Trades' Hall on Monday evening. Robert Kettle, Esq., President of the League, occupied the chair, and addresses were delivered by the Rev. Thomas Spencer, M.A., London, on the "Temperance Movement considered in reference to the principles of Moral Philosophy;" by the Rev. Alex. Hannay, Dundee, on the "Comparative Merits of the Abstinence Society and the Scottish Association for the Suppression of Drunkenness;" and by the Rev. James Robertson, Portsburgh, Edinburgh, on the "Necessity of including Abstinence in the proposed measures for elevating the Social, Moral, and Spiritual Condition of the Masses." About 180 members and friends of the League met at breakfast in the Trades'-hall on Tuesday morning. The Rev. William Reid presided, and brief addresses were given by Mr. George Johnstone, Edinburgh; Mr. William Marshall, Dundee; Rev. George Blyth, late of Jamaica; Rev. F. Ferguson, Aberdeen; Lieutenant-Colonel Shaw; Mr. Dawson, editor of the Kelso Chronicle; Mr. Simpson, Mr. Annan, and others.

At eleven o'clock the members and delegates, to the extent of 120, re-assembled for the transaction of business. Mr. Kettle occupied the chair and the Secretary read the annual report, which commenced by stating that the operations of the league during the past year had been more than usually extensive and successful. An increase of membership had taken place to the extent of 600 individuals and 166 societies, the present number of individual members being 2,525, and of auxiliary societies 199. Five travelling agents had been employed, who had addressed upwards of eight hundred public meetings, and had in various ways exerted themselves to promote the interests of the league. Twenty-five sermons had been preached in Glasgow, and about 100 addresses had been given at country meetings and soirees by the league's staff of gratuitous lecturers. The publication department had been sustained with unimpaired efficiency, the number of copies of publications issued from the office having been 601,250, comprising 7,285,000 pages; and the financial affairs had been so far improved, that the deficiency of £73, which existed at last annual meeting, have been made up, and there was now a balance of £127 in favour of the association. The report concluded by reviewing the present state of the Temperance Movement in Scotland, which was shown to wear an exceedingly hopeful aspect. The Juvenile Movement, the abstinence societies in connexion with the Established, Free, and United Presbyterian Churches, and the Scottish Association for the Suppression of Drunkenness, were briefly referred to, and the conductors of the newspaper press were complimented for the liberality with which the Temperance question is now treated in their columns. The Treasurer's financial statement, of which an abstract was given, showed that the income and expenditure for the year amounted to £1,723 4s. 6d. The report and Treasurer's statement were unanimously approved. Several resolutions were adopted by the meeting. The first related to the extension of the agency department, which was cordially approved of, and a special fund was originated to enable the directors to employ six agents during the next year. A motion approving of legislative interference for the suppression of the strong drink traffic was negatived by a majority of 67 to 17.

RECENT PUBLICATIONS.

THE GLORY AND THE SHAME OF BRITAIN. £100 Prize Essay. Religious Tract Society, Paternoster-row.

The Committee of the Religious Tract Society have lately offered two prizes of £100 and £50 for the best and next best essays on the condition of the working classes of Great Britain.

As we have on former occasions felt it our duty to animadvert in strong terms on the want of decided opposition to the drinking usages of society in some of the publications of this otherwise excellent society, so we have much pleasure in the case of the work before us—which is from the pen of Mr. Dunckley, of Pendleton—in laying before our readers the decided testimony in favour of total abstinence which the volume contains.

The following passage presents a plain enunciation of sober truth :—

"The chief faults which vitiate the expenditure of the working classes are two—needless outlay and unsound remedies. Intoxicating drinks present us with a striking instance of the former. In a heavily-taxed country the voluntary tax for the purchase of noxious beverages exceeds the sum of all the taxes paid into the Exchequer. So large is this item of social expenditure, that the saving involved in a general adoption of the principle of total abstinence would be equivalent to an entire repeal of taxation, or the extinction, in sixteen years, of the National Debt. The people of England maintain more than 100,000 houses for the sale of intoxicating liquors, and spend an average of £600 annually in the support of each. Every thirty families support their beer-shop, every three hundred their place of worship. Beer-houses and dram-shops are most plentiful in the poorest districts; they are there to be met with at every turn, startling us by the contrast of their mock splendour with the general squalor and dinginess of the scene. Here poverty is changed, not for itself, but for others, into finery and wealth. A constant succession of wretched votaries is kept up at these demon-temples, who receive in return for their offerings a draught of the enchanted cup. Pale, haggard, and hoary, they totter in—the youth in whose face consumption has fixed its mark; the aged sot, whose disgusting aspect forbids a second view; the child, whose mother awaits him yonder, and who pauses on the threshold to steal a draught for himself. The number of these establishments, and the expensive means adopted to win custom, are proofs of the wealth they subtract from the pockets of the poor. How much better if the money expended in maintaining their gilded paraphernalia were spent in the purchase of food and clothing! What joy would such a diversion of expenditure occasion in a thousand starving homes!"—pp. 20, 21.

We are pleased to find the principle of total abstinence undisguisedly adopted in this publication by the committee of the Religious Tract Society; and we ask every member of the committee, as fellow-labourers in the great field of Christian philanthropy, whether each is adopting practically what he endorses in these sentiments. Otherwise we charge the omission home as a gross and flagrant dereliction of duty and of common sense : " unto him that knoweth to do good, and doeth it not, unto him is it sin."

We presume that the Committee of the Religious Tract Society aspire to consistency, and to be the exemplars, as well as the preceptors, of the human race; otherwise they have forgotten some of the first principles enunciated in the Scriptures of God, and in their varied comments thereon, and have forgotten also to imitate that Divine Redeemer, who has left us an example that we should follow in his steps.—1 Peter ii. 21.

AN EARNEST PLEA FOR THE REIGN OF TEMPERANCE AND PEACE, as conducive to the Prosperity of Nations; submitted to the Visitors of the Great Exhibition, in which are collected the rich Treasures of Art and Industry from all quarters of the Globe. Accompanied by documents in proof of the Statement of Principles involved. By JAMES S. BUCKINGHAM. London: Jackson, Angel-street, St. Martin's-le-Grand.

THE contents of this elegant little volume are as follows:—First, an Address to the British and Foreign Visitors to the Great Exhibition. In this, the injurious properties of strong drinks—the injuries they have inflicted on individuals and communities,—the origin, object, and progress of the Temperance Movement—its beneficial results, and the duty of advancing it in its course, are briefly but compendiously stated. Secondly, an "Appeal to the British People, and especially to the Opulent and Influential, on the Greatest Reform yet to be accomplished." That reform is, the abandonment of all intoxicating drinks, which is urged upon all classes of the community by a series of the most powerful motives. Thirdly, the speech of Mr. Buckingham on the Extent, Causes, and effects of Drunkenness, delivered in the House of Commons June 3, 1834; followed by the Parliamentary Report of the Select committee, which Mr. Buckingham succeeded in obtaining, as the result of his speech and the discussion which ensued. This speech and the report are invaluable, as containing the marrow of the Temperance question: we rejoice greatly at finding them thus reprinted. Besides the above, the volume contains an article, entitled, "War and Bloodshed! or Arbitration and Peace;" a speech delivered at the Peace Convention held at Brussels; some lines on the "Horrors of War;" an "Early Proposal for a Mutual Exhibition and Interchange of the Productions of England and France;" and a coloured diagram, illustrating the proportions paid for the support of religious and benevolent societies, for poor-rates, for government taxes, and for drinking and smoking taxes. It will be readily seen, therefore, that the volume is one of considerable interest; containing matter with which every teetotaler should be well acquainted, and which he should endeavour extensively to circulate.

We are glad to find that a fund has been raised for the purpose of presenting the volume gratuitously to a number of the Exhibitors at the Crystal Palace. From a list of contributions now before us, we judge that this benevolent project will be carried out to a considerable extent. The possessors of the volume will be furnished with a body of important truths which may lead to personal practices of unspeakable benefit; and they will be able, also, on their return to their several localities, to introduce the subject to their friends and neighbours, as well as to the numerous workmen in their employ.

We rejoice to find, from the public prints, that an adjustment of Mr. Buckingham's claim for compensation for the mischief done to his literary property in India, by an arbitrary act of the East India Company, has, at length, been made; and that the Government and the Company have unitedly agreed to pay him £400 per annum. How far this may be regarded as a just compensation, it is impossible for us to say; it will, at least, yield him support in his declining years, at the same time that it is an acknowledgment of the justice of his claim, which some persons have thought proper to deny.

HYDROPATHIC STATISTICS; or a Lecture on Hydro-pathy, delivered November 26, 1850, at the Polytechnic Institution. By WALTER JOHNSON, M.D. London: Simpkin, Marshall, and Co.

To all persons interested in the hydropathic system, this lecture will be very acceptable. It contains a concise and clear statement of the system, and testimonials of high respectability as to its efficiency.

THE GREAT EXHIBITION OF ALL NATIONS.—By R. W. VANDERKISTE.

THIS is a spiritual improvement of a passing event, and a useful addition to the "thousand and one" Tracts, Essays, Sermons, &c., to which the world's great gathering has given rise. Mr. Vanderkiste is evidently a man deeply imbued with the importance of Bible truth, and one who is anxious to bring home religion to the "business and bosoms" of all men. We recommend his seasonable tract to the attention of our readers.

WORK FOR ALL.

BRETHREN, arise! there's work for all;
No more inactive stand,
While human beings daily fall
'Neath Strong Drink's ruthless hand.

Say not, "I have no influence,
My circle is so small;"
But labour on with diligence,
Drunkards to disenthral.

All may not have the gift of speech,
The tongue of eloquence,
Instructive homilies to preach
On Total Abstinence.

Yet there is work for all to do,
While on this world's wide field;
Each may some noble task pursue,
Some potent weapon wield.

There's work for all—both rich and poor—
Illiterate and wise;
While drunkards lie at ruin's door,
Unable to arise;—

'Till Mercy stretches forth her hands
To raise them from the mire;
'Till Temperance plucks the burning brands
From the consuming fire!

Uprouse ye, then! reclaim the lost;
Do all the good ye can;
March boldly on—a mighty host—
To slay the foe of man.

Anne's-place, Hackney-road.

WILLIAM DREW.

THE DOINGS OF STRONG DRINK.—Amidst all the evils of human life, no cause of disease has so wide a range, or so large a share, as the use of spirits. Spirituous liquors destroy more lives than the sword; war has its intervals of destruction, but spirits operate at all times and seasons upon human life.

MURDER.—"I have no more doubt," said a reclaimed distiller in America, "that I have killed a hundred men, than if I had taken a gun and shot them, and had seen every one of them fall dead at my feet."

THE TEETOTAL TIMES AND ESSAYIST may be had of B. L. Green, 62, Paternoster-row, London; Ward, 54, do.; Abel Heywood, Manchester; Kershaw, Leeds; Menzies, Edinburgh; Gallie, Glasgow; and all Booksellers.

THE
TEETOTAL TIMES
AND ESSAYIST.

PUBLISHED MONTHLY.

No. I. NEW SERIES.]

JERSEY, JANUARY, 1848.

[PRICE ONE PENNY.]

ILLUSTRATED BOOKS FOR PRESENTS.

Now ready, price 1s. 6d., cloth, or half-bound 1s. 8d.

THE TEACHER'S OFFERING FOR 1847,

PROFUSELY Illustrated with Engravings, Music, &c.

Also, the new number for January, 1848, with many Engravings, price One Penny.

In two elegant volumes, price 12s. cloth, gilt.

COBBIN'S CHILD'S COMMENTATOR

on the HOLY SCRIPTURES. A new and beautiful edition. Illustrated with many superior Engravings.

"A book eminently attractive to the young. It is valuable as omitting nothing in the whole range of biblical knowledge that can be considered important."—Union Mag.

MARY AND HER MOTHER. Scriptural

Stories for Children. Fifth Edition. Beautifully illustrated. 18mo. 3s. cloth.

ANIMALS ; their Food and Instincts.

With many superior Engravings. 16mo. 3s. 6d. cloth.

TRIMMER'S HISTORY of the ROBINS.

With many Cuts, by Bewick. Sixteenth Edition, 18mo, 2s. cloth.

MORAL FABLES and PARABLES. By the Rev. I. COBBIN, M.A. With numerous Engravings on Wood. A New Edition. 32mo, 1s. cloth.

THE YOUTH'S BIBLE CYCLOPEDIA.

Illustrated with upwards of 120 new and beautiful Engravings. 16mo, 3s. 6d. cloth.

SPRING, SUMMER, AUTUMN, WINTER.

By ROBERT MUDIE. In four elegant volumes, 18mo, price 3s. 6d. cloth.

THE HEAVENS, THE EARTH, THE

AIR; THE SEA. By R. MUDIE. Each, price 3s. 6d. cloth.

HISTORY of DOTTY FAITHFUL. An interesting and instructive Narrative. Second Edition. 18mo, 6d.

ASTRONOMICAL CARDS, in Question and Answer; adapted to interest and assist the Youthful Student in the sublime Science of Astronomy. Fifty-six Cards, in a neat case, 3s. 6d.

WARD and Co., Paternoster-row.

NATIONAL PROVIDENT INSTITUTION,

48, Gracechurch-street, London,

For MUTUAL ASSURANCE ON LIVES, ANNUITIES, &c.

DIRECTORS.

WILLIAM CASH, Esq.	SAMUEL H. LUCAS, Esq.
THOMAS CASTLE, Esq.	C. LUSHINGTON, Esq., M.P.
W. MILLER CHRISTY, Esq.	JOHN ST. BAREE, Esq.
EDWARD CROWLEY, Esq.	SAMUEL SMITH, Esq.
JOHN FELTHAM, Esq.	WILLIAM TYLER, Esq.
ROBT. M. HOLBORN, Esq.	SAMUEL WILSON, Esq.
ROBERT INGHAM, Esq.	Alderman.

PHYSICIANS.

J. T. CONQUEST, M.D., F.R.S.
THOMAS HODGKIN, M.D.

BANKERS.

Messrs. BROWN, JANSON, and Co.

SOLICITORS.

Messrs. HARDWICK and DAVIDSON.

CONSULTING ACTUARY.

CHARLES ANSELL, Esq., F.R.S.

SECRETARY.

JOSEPH MARSH, Esq.

The TWELFTH ANNUAL MEETING of the Members of this Institution was held at the London Tavern on Wednesday the 15th inst., which was numerously attended. The Chair was occupied by Samuel Hayhurst Lucas, Esq., the Chairman of the Board of Directors, who congratulated the Meeting on the astonishing progress the Institution had made, and upon the prospect of its becoming, at no distant period, one of the largest Life Assurance Companies in the Metropolis.

It will be seen, by the Report, that although its Establishment only dated 12 years since, the number of Policies issued, and the income arising from the premiums thereon are unusually large; whilst the amount paid for deaths is very small, compared with the business effected.

The following are some Extracts from the TWELFTH ANNUAL REPORT:—

On presenting their Twelfth Annual Statement of the affairs of the Institution, the Directors have much pleasure in reporting a large increase of business during the last year.

Notwithstanding the commercial embarrassment which, for the greater part of that time, has prevailed throughout the country, the Assurances effected are considerably more numerous, and to a much larger amount than those of any former year.

In the last twelve months, 1,234 Policies have been issued, the annual Premiums on which amount to £21,722: 0s. 8d., and 133 proposals for Life Assurance have been declined.

The receipts and disbursements, up to the 20th November last, have been duly audited, and the capital stock of the Institution, as exhibited in the Auditors' Report, is £367,172: 16s.; being an increase, since the last statement, of £67,497: 3s. 8d.

The Annual Income is now £111,113: 13s. The claims paid on account of deaths during the year amount to £18,914: 18s.; and the sum of £23,493: 15s. 8d. is due under this head, not yet claimed.

The period having arrived when, in accordance with the 29th rule, the surplus funds which have accrued since the last division of profits, in 1842, are to be equitably apportioned among all the members, the Actuary of the Institution, Charles Ansell, Esq., is now engaged on the investigation of its assets and liabilities, and in making the requisite calculations for that purpose.

The Directors anticipate a satisfactory result, and expect to be able, in the course of next month, to communicate to each member the bonus assigned to his or her policy, either by an addition to the principal sum assured, or by an equivalent reduction of the periodical premium.

The following statement shows the progress of the Institution since its commencement.

Years ending.	No. of Policies issued.	Annual Income.	Amount of Capital.
20th Nov. 1836	616	£8,021 12 2	£10,736 3 0
" " 1837	435	14,600 0 0	31,592 10 5
" " 1838	459	19,934 19 4	46,855 0 10
" " 1839	490	25,497 4 2	61,959 10 10
" " 1840	494	31,051 10 10	90,545 13 9
" " 1841	357	36,357 1 4	114,993 2 4
" " 1842	364	39,360 9 7	139,806 1 7
" " 1843	703	44,219 17 0	167,079 11 2
" " 1844	732	55,037 9 2	202,162 1 9
" " 1845	911	70,819 14 5	241,460 13 3
" " 1846	1005	38,940 8 2	329,675 12 4
" " 1847	1234	111,113 13 0	367,172 16 0
Total Number...	7790

(Signed on behalf of the Directors),

S. H. LUCAS, Chairman.
JOSEPH MARSH, Secretary.

London, 14th December, 1847.

At the above meeting a ballot was taken to supply the three vacancies in the Board of Directors, occasioned by the retirement of C. P. Bousfield, Esq., and John Bradbury, Esq., and the appointment of Dr. Hodgkin as Medical Officer, when the Chairman announced the election to have fallen on Robert Major Holborn, Esq., Samuel Wilson, Esq., Alderman, and Edward Crowley, Esq.

Just Published, second Edition (enlarged), price 6d.

THE HISTORY OF THE ORIGIN AND SUCCESS OF THE ADVOCACY OF THE PRINCIPLE OF TOTAL ABSTINENCE FROM ALL INTOXICATING LIQUORS. By JAMES TEARE, one of the Originators of the Total Abstinence System.

"This unpretending narrative presents such an example of the power of personal energy, as, apart from Christian missions or horrid war, is no where to be found."—Christian Witness.

"This useful matter-of-fact publication ought by all means to be bought and read by the whole community of teetotallers."—Bristol Temperance Herald.

"This is a desideratum in temperance literature. It rescues from obscurity the real origin of total abstinence. James Teare was the first who made a total abstinence speech; his honesty and faithfulness are proverbial, and therefore great reliance can be placed in his statements."—Hull Temperance Pioneer.

"This is the production of an individual well qualified, from his early and long continued connexion with the Temperance cause, to furnish the public with all the particulars associated with the origin and progress of that system, which has conferred upon millions of the human family an amount of good, social, moral, and religious, the full value of which eternity alone can reveal."—National Temperance Advocate.

London: C. Gilpin, Bishopsgate Street.

LITTLE TRACTS FOR LITTLE FOLK ON TEMPERANCE.

EACH contains four pages, and is neatly printed in 32mo., on good paper. Price Sixpence per 100, or 4s. 6d. per 1000, sorted.

- |   |   |
|---|---|
| 1. The British Idol.  | 14. The Woes of the Drunkard.                 |
| 2. Water Drinkers   | 15. Some things that Children should not do.  |
| 3. An Example set us by the Heathen.                                | 16. The White Slave.                          |
| 4. Some reasons why little Boys and Girls should become Abstainers. | 17. The doings of Strong Drink.               |
| 5. Things to be thought upon.                                       | 18. Lucy Lee, the little Temperance Reformer. |
| 6. Going down the Ladder.   | 20. What have I got to do with the Drunkard?  |
| 7. Speeches of Hottentots at a Temperance Meeting.                  | 21. The Reformed Father.                      |
| 8. The Fatal Glass.   | 22. The Man who could take care of himself.   |
| 9. The Praises of Water.  | 23. Dickie Walker, or the progress of Ruin.   |
| 10. The Happy Morn.   | 24. Plain Things for Little Readers.          |
| 11. Anecdotes.  |   |
| 12. The Life Boat.  |   |
| 13. The Destroyer.  |   |

These tracts, consisting principally of short, simple, and truthful narratives, are commended to the friends of the Temperance cause, as specially suitable for distribution among the Young. They are written and published with an earnest desire that the principles of Total Abstinence from Intoxicating Drinks may obtain a firm hold on those who are yet in the morning of life.

The Series will continued, and the Publisher will be most happy to receive aid from those who feel with him on the important subject.

BENJAMIN L. GREEN, 63, PATERNOSTER ROW.

TEMPERANCE PROVIDENT INSTITUTION,

39, MOORGATE STREET, LONDON.

TRUSTEES.

Robert Warner, Esq.
Edward Webb, Esq.

Rev. W. R. Baker.
Richard Barrett, Jun., Esq.

THE SEVENTH ANNUAL MEETING will be held, pursuant to the 33rd Rule, on Friday the 7th January, at 3 o'clock precisely, to receive the Director's Report, &c.

EXAMPLES OF BENEFITS.

At the age of 20, a man may secure £100. at death by a saving of ninepence per week.

At 30, the same sum for elevenpence per week.

At 40, the same for fifteenpence per week.

It is by these small savings that the continued happiness of a family may be permanently and easily secured.

Any sum may be Assured from £20 to £2000.

The rates for all ages can be had (gratis) on application, and will be sent post free to any address.

TO TEMPERANCE ASSOCIATIONS AND SOCIETIES.

A GENTLEMAN who has followed the profession of medicine and surgery, and who has lectured on the Temperance Question for the last ten years, written works on the subject, and laboured in the capacity of a lay preacher in connexion with a religious denomination, is desirous to devote his time to the promotion of the Abstinence principle. Possessing an extensive acquaintance with human nature, and a knowledge of the Temperance Question in all its bearings, he is desirous to obtain an engagement as a Temperance Town Missionary, or Country Lecturer. A small salary required. For testimonials, references, &c., address:—"D. M., Post office, Birmingham.

SUITABLE PRESENT FOR YOUTH.

Just published, in one volume 18mo., cloth lettered, price 2s., or bound in silk, gilt edges, price 3s.

THE JEWISH EXILE; or, Religion exemplified in the Life and Character of Daniel. By Rev. JOHN KENNEDY, A.M., Stepany.

Thirteenth Thousand. Cheap Edition, demy 8vo, price 2s.

ANTI-BACCHUS; An Essay on the Crimes, Diseases, and other Evils connected with the Use of Intoxicating Drinks. By the Rev. B. PARSONS.

"We conjure our readers to give this volume an attentive, candid perusal, from a decided conviction that, in proportion as its circulation is promoted, and its contents are impartially read, will be stayed one of the most dreadful evils that ever afflicted the human race."—Methodist New Connexion Magazine.

Recently published, demy 12mo, cloth lettered, price 1s. 6d.

TEMPERANCE AND TEETOTALISM. Being a Candid Inquiry into the Lawfulness or Unlawfulness of using Distilled and Fermented Liquors; conducted on the grounds of Scripture, Philosophy, and Expediency, but especially Scripture. With an Appendix. By J. H. BARROW, Independent Minister, Market Drayton.

Recently published, price 6d.

THE SCRIPTURAL CLAIMS OF TEETOTALISM. Addressed to British Christians. By NEWMAN HALL, B. A.

"It is good neither to eat flesh nor to drink wine, nor anything whereby thy brother stumbleth, or is offended, or is made weak."—St. Paul.

London: JOHN SNOW, Paternoster Row.

NEW SERIES OF THE TEMPERANCE GAZETTE.

On January 1st, 1848, will be Published, No. 1., price One Penny. (POST FREE).

THE TEMPERANCE GAZETTE; a Monthly Journal of Moral and Social Progress.

CONTRIBUTORS:—Dr. Bowring, M.P.; J. Babirnie, M.A., M.D.; D.D. Gourley, M.D.; Rev. H. Gwyther, M.A.; Rev. J. Clay, M.A., Chaplain Preston Gaol; Henry Clapp, Esq. (United States), &c. &c. &c.

Extract from a private letter of the Rev. W. Hodgson, M.A., Incumbent of Christchurch, Colne:

"I am very much pleased with the Gazette. It is a valuable periodical. What it is to be when improved I do not know, but I hope it will have, as it deserves, a very extensive circulation."

The Gazette will contain 24 large demy octavo pages; be closely printed on good paper, and in clear type; and be delivered at the houses of Subscribers, FREE, for 1s. per annum, payable in advance. To Secretaries of Temperance Societies, Booksellers, and News Agents, a liberal allowance will be made.

All orders and advertisements, with remittances in post-office orders or penny postage stamps, to be sent to RICHARD WARRLEN, West Bromwich.

N.B.—Agents wanted.

NEW TOWN SCHOOL, LEIGHTON BUZZARD, BEDS. MR. WRIGHT receives into his Establishment a limited number of YOUNG GENTLEMEN, who enjoy the privileges and comforts of a private family. Terms, twenty guineas and upwards, according to age.

REFERENCES can be given to gentlemen who have entrusted Mr. Wright with the care of their sons.

N.B.—Mr. W. is on the Committee of the Leighton Temperance Society.

PRIZE ESSAYS ON THE SABBATH by WORKING MEN.—A Prize of £25 will be given to the best Essay, and a Prize of £15 to the next best Essay, and a Prize of 10l. to the third best Essay on the TEMPORAL ADVANTAGES OF THE SABBATH to the LABOURING CLASSES, and the consequent importance of preserving its rest from all the encroachments of unnecessary labour.

The Competitors must be working men, in the strict sense of the expression, and in writing the Essays must accept of no assistance from others. The Essays must be short, not exceeding twice the length of one of the "Sabbath Tracts for the Times," now in course of publication.

All the Essays must be forwarded to David Robertson, Esq., Bookseller, Glasgow, before the 1st of March next, accompanied with a sealed letter. A motto must be placed on each Essay, and also named in the letter.

The Adjudicators are to be—Robert Kettle, Esq., Glasgow. Alex. Swan, Esq., Folkestone. D. F. Oakey, Esq., London. Who have themselves been working men.

Copies of the "Sabbath Tracts for the Times" may be obtained gratuitously by competitors on application to Messrs. Partridge and Oakey, Paternoster-row, London, where any further information may be obtained upon the subject.

ASSORTED TEETOTAL TRACTS. Packs containing 150 pages of the most useful tracts, enclosed in a neat wrapper. SIXPENCE each.

W. BRITAIN, 54, Paternoster Row.

COFFEES OF THE FINEST GROWTHS, AND OF SURPASSING STRENGTH AND RICHNESS, WITHIN THE REACH OF EVERY FAMILY IN THE UNITED KINGDOM.

JOHAN CASSELL'S COFFEES have become truly celebrated, in consequence of their unrivalled qualities. They possess a beautiful mellow flavour, combined with great strength. The difficulty of obtaining good Coffee is a source of complaint in every part of the kingdom; it is only to be had in a few principal towns, and then at a price which places it out of the reach of the majority. Convinced that the people of England, Scotland and Ireland, regard it as a desideratum to have the finest growths of Coffee the world produces, placed within their reach at reasonable prices, JOHN CASSELL has determined upon appointing AGENTS in every town and village, who for that purpose will be regularly supplied with fresh roasted and fresh ground Coffees, carefully packed in lead, in quantities of from two ounces to one pound, so as effectually to preserve their strength and aroma.

Every lover of a cup of good Coffee, therefore, need only apply to the Agents of JOHN CASSELL, to have his desire fully gratified. Let these Coffees but be introduced into a Family, and their constant use is certain. And what can be a greater luxury, in connection with Domestic Economy, than to have Coffee of the true mountain flavour at a reasonable rate? FRANCE has long been noted for the excellence and perfection in which this article is supplied; and JOHN CASSELL is determined that the people of England shall possess equal facilities with their Gallic neighbours, for obtaining Coffees which cannot be surpassed, in any country, for either mellowness, flavour, or strength.

The following are the PRICES at which JOHN CASSELL'S Coffees are supplied, in two ounce, quarter, half, or pound packages:—

John Cassell's Coffee, No. 1. . . . .	1s. 4d.
An excellent article.
John Cassell's Coffee, No. 2. . . . .	1s. 8d.
Cannot fail to give great satisfaction, being a combination of the choicest growths of Jamaica.
John Cassell's Coffee, No. 3. . . . .	2s. 0d.
To every connoisseur in Coffee, this will prove a treat, combining the finest mountain growths of both Jamaica and Turkey.

TWO THOUSAND AGENTS WANTED

FOR THE SALE OF JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEES.

THESE COFFEES, both on account of quality and price, are certain to command a very large sale. Besides this, measures will be taken to make every Family throughout the kingdom, as far as possible, acquainted with the fact, that they have the opportunity of purchasing articles of the qualities above stated, from an AGENT in their own locality. It may safely be asserted, therefore, that few Agencies are more desirable, to persons who wish to make a valuable addition to their business, than the sale of JOHN CASSELL'S Coffees. It will be seen that, independent of the Commission allowed, the general trade of the Agent is certain to be benefited by the number of new customers who will be attracted to his place of business, and in consequence of his name being kept before the public, by means of advertisements, &c., as the Agent for JOHN CASSELL'S Coffees.

PRIVATE INDIVIDUALS having a respectable connexion, will do well to obtain this Agency, as there is no trouble attending it, the Coffees being weighed and packed in lead, ready for delivery. Applications for terms, &c., must be made direct to JOHN CASSELL, Abchurch Lane, London.

PROTESTANT DISSENTERS' ALMANACK.

UNPRECEDENTED SALE!

NO ALMANACK representing the principles of a particular class, has ever occasioned such an extensive demand in so short a space of time, as the PROTESTANT DISSENTERS' ALMANACK. The highest encomiums have already been pronounced upon it by the public press. The following are specimens:—

"We cannot too strongly recommend this very cheap and admirable Almanack. It contains a vast mass of valuable matter, of special interest to Nonconformists."—Patriot.

"It is not only a perfectly unique production, but its appearance is a significant sign of the times."—Nonconformist.

"Decidedly the best and cheapest Almanack that we have seen. Altogether the affair is perfectly unique, and must stand, we think, unrivalled."—Christian Record.

PRICE THREEPENCE.—London, J. Snow, Paternoster Row; Edinburgh, Ziegler, South Bridge; Glasgow, Gal- lie, Buchanan Street, and all booksellers.

THE TEETOTAL ESSAYIST; or Monthly Temperance Standard, for 1847. London: W. Brittain, Paternoster-Row.

This may now be had complete, price ONE SHILLING.

CONTENTS:

Teetotalism essential to the Elevation of the Working Classes. By D. G. PAINE.

The Temperance Movement in its important bearings on the Sanitary condition of the People. By THOMAS BEGGS.

Total Abstinence from strong drinks important to Female Honour and Happiness. By D. G. PAINE.

Tom Rudge and his friend; shewing what Tom lost by "that last glass of Brandy and Water." By Mrs. S. C. HALL.

Appeal to Females, in behalf of the Total Abstinence movement. By Dr. E. NOTT, President of Union College, New York.

The Worn Thinable; a Story of Woman's Duty and Woman's Influence. By Mrs. S. C. HALL.

Important Medical Testimony; with several hundred signatures.

Christian Duty; or the importance of the Temperance Reformation in connexion with the maintenance and spread of Christianity. By F. W. WHEELER, Missionary.

The Moral Obligation of Total Abstinence. By EVAN JONES.

Intemperance the Antagonist of Education. By W. R. BAKER.

The Duty of Sabbath School Teachers, in regard to Total Abstinence. By EVAN JONES.

Reasons why Sabbath School Teachers should be Teetotals. By MICHAEL YOUNG.

Bearings of the Temperance question on the interest of the Young. By W. REID.

The Drinking system and Juvenile Delinquency. By THOMAS BEGGS.

Aids to the Evangelical Alliance in its enquiry as to the connexion between Infidelity and Teetotalism. With testimonies from upwards of SEVENTY Ministers and Gentlemen.

The Evils of Moderate Drinking. By EVAN JONES.

The Inconsistency of those Christians and Philanthropists who sanction the use of Intoxicating Liquors. By D. G. PAINE.

Address to Moderate Drinkers. By ELIHU BURRIT.

The Temperance Movement:—its past history—present position—future prospects and connexion with other great movements of the age. By THOMAS BEGGS.

It will be seen that this forms the most interesting and important publication that has ever been issued from the Temperance Press. As but very few sets remain on hand, an early application will be necessary. A copy will be sent, post free, to any person remitting twelve postage stamps, to JOHN CASSELL, Budge-Row, London.

TWELFTH THOUSAND.

INTEMPERANCE THE IDOLATRY OF
BRITAIN. By the Rev. W. R. BAKER, author of "The Curse of Britain," &c. It is admitted by the most eminent of the religious reviewers, as well as by all who have read it, that there never was a work upon the Temperance Question more calculated to carry conviction to the mind of a thoughtful reader as the danger and iniquity of the drinking system. That it may have a very extensive circulation, this new and revised edition is published at THREEPENCE:—the price of the former editions was 3s. 6d. The usual allowance will be made to Societies, or persons taking a quantity.

DR. NOTT'S LECTURES.

NATURE AND PROVIDENCE

REPLYING TO THE QUESTION
WHAT IS THE DUTY OF MAN IN RELATION TO THE USE OF INTOXICATING LIQUORS. In four eloquent and powerful LECTURES, by ELIPHALET NOTT, D.D., LL.D., President of Union College, New York. Carefully revised, with an Appendix. In 32 very closely printed pages, crown octavo. Price ONE PENNY.

THE BEST OF MEN SOMETIMES IN
ERROR. By ARCHDEACON JEFFREYS, of Bombay. The object of this incomparable Essay is to show that the advocates of the Total Abstinence System have the full warrant of Scripture for their labour of mercy and love. The style in which this sentiment is reasoned is such as to carry conviction to all who profess to be influenced by the law of love. 1s. 4d. per 100.

LIVESEY'S famous MALT LECTURES. Including a complete exposure of the great delusion as to the properties of Malt Liquors. Formerly published at Sixpence. A new edition for ONE PENNY.

W. BRITAIN, 54, Paternoster Row.

SUNDAY SCHOOL PRIZE TRACTS.

Just Published, price 1s. 4d. per 100.

THE IMPORTANCE of the TEMPERANCE MOVEMENT, in its bearings on SUNDAY SCHOOLS.
THE YOUNG, THE HOPE OF THE TEMPERANCE REFORMATION.

Other Tracts on the same subject are in preparation.

B. L. GREEN, 62, Paternoster Row, London.

DR. CHEYNE'S

COUGH AND PULMONIC LOZENGES.

THESE LOZENGES are the most pleasant and efficacious remedy that can be employed for the removal of coughs. To those who are afflicted with difficulty of breathing or a redundancy of phlegm, they give instant relief by causing free expectoration. They arrest, in its incipient stages, that fearful result of our variable atmosphere, consumption; and far diseases of the pulmonary organs, a more safe and salutary remedy cannot be applied. For aged persons they are invaluable, and none whose lungs are in the least degree susceptible of cold, ought to be without them. They afford relief in every case of cough, and where there is no physical disorganization, they will affect a cure.

AFFECTIONS OF THE THROAT.

Many persons suffer greatly from the irritation produced on the mucous membranes of the Trachea, the Bronchial vessels, and the air-cells of the lungs, by the inhalation of cold, damp, or foggy atmospheres. These membranes are far more sensitive in some persons than in others. Hence, under sudden alternations of heat and cold, or on the approach even of the slightest change in the external air, a tickling, painful cough, and laboured respiration is sure to ensue, and if neglected, to prove fatal. Under these circumstances, Dr. Cheyne's Lozenges will prove eminent service, by strengthening the lungs to resist the effect of sudden changes, by blunting the acrimony of the humours and by allaying the irritation which produces that painful spasmodic effort, familiarly termed coughing.

HOARSENESS.

The most unpleasant, painful and disqualifying result of taking cold, may be removed by the use, even for a short time, of Dr. Cheyne's Lozenges. Hence, public speakers, singers, &c., will find them of peculiar advantage.

ASTHMA.

This painful disease of the lungs may be greatly mitigated in its effects by the use of Dr. Cheyne's Lozenges. In cases of moist asthma, they will prevent that soreness, which is the result of constant expectoration; and in cases of dry or nervous asthma, they will promote that degree of expectoration by which the painful coughing may be greatly prevented or most materially relieved.

TO ATTENDANTS ON PUBLIC WORSHIP.

Nothing can be more annoying to a congregation, than to have persons present in a place of worship who are afflicted with a noisy, harassing cough. It is most distressing to the individual afflicted, and its attempts to stifle it often increase the irritation and the pain; while to those who conduct the worship, it is a source of inconceivable embarrassment, and of great nervous excitement. All these inconveniences may at once be obviated by persons furnishing themselves with a few of Dr. Cheyne's Cough and Pulmonic Lozenges.

TO PERSONS IN GENERAL.

Few individuals seem aware of the vast importance of checking a cough in its incipient stages. That which at first would yield to a mild remedy, if neglected, soon preys upon the lungs, acrid humours increase, and even powerful medicines fail to appease the cough. Here the value and importance of Cheyne's Cough and Pulmonic Lozenges is most apparent. By their use a check will at once be given to the progress of disease. The irritation being allayed, and free expectoration being promoted, the various membranes will speedily resume their wonted tone, and those fatal diseases, of which a slight cough is but too often the forerunner, may be averted. No person ought to be without a remedy that is at the same time portable, agreeable, and efficacious. A couple of these Lozenges placed in the mouth when going into either a cold or heated atmosphere or as soon as the slightest tickling in the throat and fauces is experienced, would prevent a vast amount of pain and inconvenience. One important principal in Dr. Cheyne's Lozenges is, that they may be taken without any fear of disordering the stomach. On the contrary, they operate as a tonic, and materially strengthen the digestive organs.

CAUTION.—As a variety of Lozenges, Wafers, and Tablets are advertised containing ingredients of an injurious nature, the public are particularly requested to ask for DR. CHEYNE'S COUGH AND PULMONIC LOZENGES, and to observe that the words "DR. CHEYNE'S COUGH LOZENGES," are engraved on the Government Stamp, which, with Directions for Use is.

Sold in Boxes at 1s. 1d. and 2s. 9d. each.

LONDON AGENTS: Messrs. Sutton, 10, Bow Church-yard; Barclay's, 95, Farringdon-street; Edwards, 67, St. Paul's Churchyard; Dietrichsen & Co., 63, Oxford Street; Sanger, 150, Oxford Street; Willoughby, 95, Bishopsgate Street Without; Johnstone, 68, Cornhill, and by at least one Agent in every part of the United Kingdom.

Printed and Published for the Proprietor, by RICHARD GOSSET, at his Office, No. 20, Queen-Street, St. Helier's, Jersey; and WILLIAM BRITAIN, 11, Paternoster-Row, London.

SATURDAY, January 1, 1848.

THE

TEETOTAL TIMES

AND ESSAYIST.

PUBLISHED MONTHLY.

[II. NEW SERIES.]

JERSEY, FEBRUARY, 1848.

[PRICE ONE PENNY.]

EXTENSION OF LIFE ASSURANCE.

(From the Post Magazine.)

FROM the reports read, and statements made, at the Annual Meetings of Life Assurance Associations, which have been held during the last month, it is gratifying to find, notwithstanding that the year just closed has been marked by difficulties, embarrassments, and afflictions, almost without parallel in the history of this country, there has been no falling off in the business of these valuable Institutions. Indeed, in several instances there has been considerable acceleration in the rate of increase in the number of lives insured, in comparison with former years. Of this, we have a striking illustration in the report of the Directors of the National Provident Institution. The business for the year is thus set forth.—

"In the last twelve months 1,234 Policies have been issued, the Annual Premiums on which amount to £21,722 0s. 4d., and 133 proposals for Life Assurance have been declined.

"The Receipts and Disbursements, up to the 20th of November last, have been duly audited, and the Capital Stock of the Institution, as exhibited in the Auditors' Report, is £367,172: 16s. 0d., being an increase, since the last statement, of £67,497: 3s. 8d.

"The Annual Income is now £111,113: 14s. 0d.

"The Claims paid on account of Deaths during the year amount to £18,914 18s. 0d., and the sum of £3,493 15s. 8d. is due under this head, not yet claimed."

The extent of the increase, however, will be better shown by the following statement of the progress of the Institution from its commencement, twelve years ago, appended to the report.

Years ending.	No. of Policies issued.	Annual Income.	Amount of Capital.
1836	616	£8,021 12 2	£10,736 3 0
" 1837	435	14,600 0 0	31,592 10 5
" 1838	459	19,934 19 4	46,855 0 10
" 1839	490	25,497 4 2	64,959 10 10
" 1840	494	31,051 10 10	90,545 13 9
" 1841	357	36,357 1 4	114,993 2 4
" 1842	354	39,360 9 7	139,806 1 7
" 1843	703	44,219 17 0	167,079 11 2
" 1844	722	55,037 9 2	202,162 1 9
" 1845	911	70,819 14 5	241,460 13 3
" 1846	1095	88,940 8 2	229,675 12 4
" 1847	1234	111,113 13 0	367,172 16 0
Total Number...	7799

So large a number of Policies as 1,234 issued in a single year by an office is without precedent; and it is to be observed that this was taken place in a year of great pecuniary pressure, and in the midst of great endeavours made by Offices started within the last year or four years, and the corresponding exertions of old offices to maintain their relative superiority. It is to be observed, too, that the sums insured exceed the usual average—as the premium each, dividing the amount by the number of Policies, is nearly £8; shewing that the average sum insured in each case, regarding the age of the assured, must be about £750. As the office has issued at the rate of six such Policies daily, throughout the entire year—a powerful indication of the increasing knowledge which the public are gaining of the benefits of Life Assurance. The National Provident is a Mutual Office, the profits of which are apportioned every five years. The year just closed rounds up one of these cycles: and Mr. Ansell, Actuary, is now engaged in making the requisite calculations for the apportionment.

ILLUSTRATED BOOKS FOR PRESENTS.

Now ready, price 1s. 6d., cloth, or half-bound 1s. 8d.

THE TEACHER'S OFFERING FOR 1847,

PROFUSELY Illustrated with Engravings, Music, &c.

* Also, the new number for January, 1848, with many Engravings, price One Penny.

In two elegant volumes, price 12s. cloth, gilt.

COBBIN'S CHILD'S COMMENTATOR on the HOLY SCRIPTURES. A new and beautiful edition. Illustrated with many superior Engravings.

"A book eminently attractive to the young. It is valuable as omitting nothing in the whole range of biblical knowledge that can be considered important."—Union Mag.

MARY AND HER MOTHER. Scriptural Stories for Children. Fifth Edition. Beautifully illustrated. 18mo. 3s. cloth.

ANIMALS; their Food and Instincts. With many superior Engravings. 16mo, 3s. 6d. cloth.

TRIMMER'S HISTORY of the ROBINS. With many Cuts, by Bewick. Sixteenth Edition, 18mo, 2s. cloth.

MORAL FABLES and PARABLES. By the Rev. I. COBBIN, M.A. With numerous Engravings on Wood. A New Edition. 32mo, 1s. cloth.

THE YOUTH'S BIBLE CYCLOPEDIA. Illustrated with upwards of 120 new and beautiful Engravings. 16mo, 3s. 6d. cloth.

SPRING, SUMMER, AUTUMN, WINTER. By ROBERT MUDIE. In four elegant volumes, 18mo, price 3s. 6d. cloth.

THE HEAVENS, THE EARTH, THE AIR; THE SEA. By R. MUDIE. Each, price 3s. 6d. cloth.

HISTORY of DOTTY FAITHFUL. An interesting and instructive Narrative. Second Edition. 18mo, 6d.

ASTRONOMICAL CARDS, in Question and Answer; adapted to interest and assist the Youthful Student in the sublime Science of Astronomy. Fifty-six Cards, in a neat case, 3s. 6d.

WARD and Co., Paternoster-row.

IPSWICH JUVENILE TEMPERANCE

BOOKS. There are 32 Books, 32mo., with wood cuts. IPSWICH TEMPERANCE TRACTS.

There are 89 Tracts, NINE of WHICH ARE JUST PRINTED—several with wood cuts. Of Books ten thousand packets, and of Tracts nine million pages have been issued. Both Books and Tracts are sold in sixpenny packets separately or assorted.

The assorted Books are comprised in two—the Tracts in four packets. 50 packets of either delivered in London for a guinea, sent by Post Office Order to Richard Dykes Alexander, Ipswich, of whom a Catalogue may be had.

Simpkin and Marshall, London.

SUNDAY SCHOOL PRIZE TRACTS.

Just Published, price 1s. 4d. per 100.

THE IMPORTANCE of the TEMPERANCE MOVEMENT, in its bearings on SUNDAY SCHOOLS.

THE YOUNG, THE HOPE OF THE TEMPERANCE REFORMATION.

Other Tracts on the same subject are in preparation.

B. L. Green, 62 Paternoster Row, London.

Just Published, second Edition (enlarged), price 6d.

THE HISTORY OF THE ORIGIN AND SUCCESS OF THE ADVOCACY OF THE PRINCIPLE OF TOTAL ABSTINENCE FROM ALL INTOXICATING LIQUORS.

By JAMES TEARE, one of the Originators of the Total Abstinence System.

This unpretending narrative presents such an example of the power of personal energy, as, apart from Christian missions or horrid war, is no where to be found.—Christian Witness.

"This useful matter-of-fact publication ought by all means to be bought and read by the whole community of teetotalers."—Bristol Temperance Herald.

"This is a desideratum in temperance literature. It rescues from obscurity the real origin of total abstinence. James Teare was the first who made a total abstinence speech; his honesty and faithfulness are proverbial, and therefore great reliance can be placed in his statements."—Hull Temperance Pioneer.

"This is the production of an individual well qualified, from his early and long continued connexion with the Temperance cause, to furnish the public with all the particulars associated with the origin and progress of that system, which has conferred upon millions of the human family an amount of good, social, moral, and religious, the full value of which eternity alone can reveal."—National Temperance Advocate.

London: C. Gilpin, Bishopsgate Street.

LITTLE TRACTS FOR LITTLE FOLK ON TEMPERANCE.

EACH contains four pages, and is neatly printed in 32mo., on good paper. Price Sixpence per 100, or 4s. 6d. per 1000, sorted.

- |   |   |
|---|---|
| 1. The British Idol.  | 14. The Woes of the Drunkards                 |
| 2. Water Drinkers.  | 15. Some things that Children should not do.  |
| 3. An Example set us by the Heathen.                                | 16. The White Slave.                          |
| 4. Some reasons why little Boys and Girls should become Abstainers. | 17. The doings of Strong Drink.               |
| 5. Things to be thought upon.                                       | 18. Lucy Lee, the little Temperance Reformer. |
| 6. Going down the Ladder.   | 20. What have I got to do with the Drunkard?  |
| 7. Speeches of Hottentots at a Temperance Meeting.                  | 21. The Reformed Father.                      |
| 8. The Fatal Glass.   | 22. The Man who could take care of himself.   |
| 9. The Praises of Water.  | 23. Dickie Walker, or the progress of Ruin.   |
| 10. The Happy Morn.   | 24. Plain Things for Little Readers.          |
| 11. Anecdotes.  |   |
| 12. The Life Boat.  |   |
| 13. The Destroyer.  |   |

These tracts, consisting principally of short, simple, and truthful narratives, are commended to the friends of the Temperance cause, as specially suitable for distribution among the Young. They are written and published with an earnest desire that the principles of Total Abstinence from Intoxicating Drinks may obtain a firm hold on those who are yet in the morning of life.

The Series will continued, and the Publisher will be most happy to receive aid from those who feel with him on the important subject.

BENJAMIN L. GREEN, 62, PATERNOSTER ROW.

PROVIDENT INSTITUTION,

39, MOORGATE STREET, LONDON.

TRUSTEES.

Robert Warner, Esq.
Edward Webb, Esq.

Rev. W. R. Baker.
Richard Barrett, Jun., Esq.

THE SEVENTH ANNUAL MEETING

will be held, pursuant to the 33rd Rule, on Friday the 7th January, at 3 o'clock precisely, to receive the Director's Report, &c.

EXAMPLES OF BENEFITS.

At the age of 20, a man may secure £100, at death by a saving of ninepence per week.

At 30, the same sum for elevenpence per week.

At 40, the same for fifteenpence per week.

It is by these small savings that the continued happiness of a family may be permanently and easily secured.

Any sum may be Assured from £20 to £2000.

The rates for all ages can be had (gratis) on application, and will be sent post free to any address.

TO TEMPERANCE ASSOCIATIONS AND SOCIETIES.

A GENTLEMAN who has followed the profession of medicine and surgery, and who has lectured on the Temperance Question for the last ten years, written works on the subject, and laboured in the capacity of a lay preacher in connexion with a religious denomination, is desirous to devote his time to the promotion of the Abstinence principle. Possessing an extensive acquaintance with human nature, and a knowledge of the Temperance Question in all its bearings, he is desirous to obtain an engagement as a Temperance Town Missionary, or Country Lecturer. A small salary required. For testimonials, references, &c., address:—"D. M., Post office, Birmingham.

A SUITABLE PRESENT FOR YOUTH.

Just published, in one volume 18mo, cloth lettered, price 2s., bound in silk, gilt edges, price 3s.

THE JEWISH EXILE; or, Religion exemplified in the Life and Character of Daniel. By Rev. JOHN KENNEDY, A.M., Stepney.

Thirteenth Thousand. Cheap Edition, demy 8vo, price 2s.

ANTI-BACCHUS; An Essay on the Crimes, Diseases, and other Evils connected with the Use of Intoxicating Drinks. By the Rev. B. PARSONS.

"We conjure our readers to give this volume an attentive candid perusal, from a decided conviction that, in proportion as its circulation is promoted, and its contents are impartially read, will be stayed one of the most dreadful evils that ever afflicted the human race."—Methodist New Connexion Magazine.

Recently published, demy 12mo, cloth lettered, price 1s. 6d.

TEMPERANCE AND TEETOTALISM.

Being a Candid Inquiry into the Lawfulness or Unlawfulness of using Distilled and Fermented Liquors; conducted on the grounds of Scripture, Philosophy, and Expediency, but especially Scripture. With an Appendix. By J. H. BARROW, Independent Minister, Market Drayton.

Recently published, price 6d.

THE SCRIPTURAL CLAIMS OF TEETOTALISM. Addressed to British Christians. By NEWMAN HALL, B. A.

"It is good neither to eat flesh nor to drink wine, nor anything whereby thy brother stumbleth, or is offended, or is made weak."—St. Paul.

London: JOHN SNOW, Paternoster Row.

THE TEMPERANCE GAZETTE.

This day is published, No. 2, price one penny, post free, of

THE TEMPERANCE GAZETTE: A

Monthly Journal of Moral and Social Progress. It contains amongst other highly interesting and important articles, one by H. Clapp, Jun., Esq., on the Reformation of Man, and another by W. Gordon, M.D., F.L.S., entitled "Strong Drink not strengthening." The following is a list of the other original articles—The World as it is;—Tipton, its moral and sanitary condition;—Revelations of Ireland;—Eustace and Clara;—The Reformed Village;—The Contrast;—The Irish Crisis;—Review;—POETRY, Lament of the Widowed Inebriate;—Faith, by R. S. S. Andros;—Thoughts of Parting, by H. Clapp;—Progress of the cause;—Important Intelligence in connection with the Temperance Movement; together with a variety of other matter bearing on the moral or social condition of the people.

THE TEMPERANCE GAZETTE is the cheapest and most extensively circulated temperance periodical in the world. It contains 24 demy 8vo. pages, is closely printed, with new type, on the best paper, and can be had for 1s. per annum payable in advance, or 5 monthly parcels at 9d. per dozen.

All orders must be sent to MR. RICHARD WAKELIN, WEST BROOMWICH.

NEW TOWN SCHOOL, LEIGHTON BUZZARD, BEDS.

MR. WRIGHT receives into his Establishment a limited number of YOUNG GENTLEMEN, who enjoy the privileges and comforts of a private family. Terms, twenty guineas an upwards, according to age.

REFERENCES can be given to gentlemen who have entrusted Mr. Wright with the care of their sons.

N.B.—Mr. W. is on the Committee of the Leighton Temperance Society.

PRIZE ESSAYS on the SABBATH

WORKING MEN.—A Prize of £25 will be given to the best Essay, and a Prize of £15 to the next best Essay, and a Prize of 10l. to the third best Essay on the TEMPORAL ADVANTAGES OF THE SABBATH TO THE LABOURING CLASSES, and the consequent importance of preserving its rest from all the encroachments of unnecessary labour.

The Competitors must be working men, in the strict sense of the expression, and in writing the Essays must accept of no assistance from others. The Essays must be short, not exceeding twice the length of one of the "Sabbath Tracts for the Times" now in course of publication.

All the Essays must be forwarded to David Robertson, Esq. Bookseller, Glasgow, before the 1st of March next, accompanied with a sealed letter. A motto must be placed on each Essay, as also named in the letter.

The Adjudicators are to be—Robert Kettle, Esq., Glasgow; Alex. Swan, Esq., Folkestone. D. F. Oakley, Esq., London.

Who have themselves been working men.

Copies of the "Sabbath Tracts for the Times" may be obtained gratuitously by competitors on application to Messrs. Partridge and Oakley, Paternoster-row, London, where any further information may be obtained upon the subject.

ASSORTED TEETOTAL TRACTS. Pack

ets containing 100 pages of the most useful tracts, enclosed in a neat wrapper. SIXPENCE each.

W. BRITAIN, 54, Paternoster Row, London.

COFFEES OF THE FINEST GROWTHS, AND OF SURPASSING STRENGTH AND RICHNESS, WITHIN THE REACH OF EVERY FAMILY IN THE UNITED KINGDOM.

JOHAN CASSELL'S COFFEES have become truly celebrated, in consequence of their unrivalled qualities. They possess a beautiful mellow flavour, combined with great strength. The difficulty of obtaining good Coffee is a source of complaint in every part of the kingdom; it is only to be had in a few principal towns, and then at a price which places it out of the reach of the majority. Convinced that the people of England, Scotland and Ireland, regard it as a desideratum to have the finest growths of Coffee the world produces, placed within their reach at reasonable prices, JOHN CASSELL has determined upon appointing AGENTS in every town and village, who for that purpose will be regularly supplied with fresh roasted and fresh ground Coffees, carefully packed in lead, in quantities of from two ounces to one pound, so as effectually to preserve their strength and aroma.

Every lover of a cup of good Coffee, therefore, need only apply to the Agents of JOHN CASSELL, to have his desire fully gratified. Let these Coffees but be introduced into a Family, and their constant use is certain. And what can be a greater luxury, in connection with Domestic Economy, than to have Coffee of the true mountain flavour at a reasonable rate? FRANCE has long been noted for the excellence and perfection in which this article is supplied; and JOHN CASSELL is determined that the people of England shall possess equal facilities with their Gallic neighbours, for obtaining Coffees which cannot be surpassed, in any country, for either mellowness, flavour, or strength.

The following are the PRICES at which JOHN CASSELL'S Coffees are supplied, in two ounce, quarter, half, or pound packages:—

John Cassell's Coffee, No. 1. . . . .	1s. 4d.
An excellent article.
John Cassell's Coffee, No. 2. . . . .	1s. 8d.
Cannot fail to give great satisfaction, being a combination of the choicest growths of Jamaica.
John Cassell's Coffee, No. 3. . . . .	2s. 0d.

To every connoisseur in Coffee, this will prove a treat, combining the finest mountain growths of both Jamaica and Turkey.

TWO THOUSAND AGENTS WANTED

FOR THE SALE OF JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEES.

THESE COFFEES, both on account of quality and price, are certain to command a very large sale. Besides this, measures will be taken to make every Family throughout the kingdom, as far as possible, acquainted with the fact, that they have the opportunity of purchasing articles of the qualities above stated, from an AGENT in their own locality. It may safely be asserted, therefore, that few Agencies are more desirable, to persons who wish to make a valuable addition to their business, than the sale of JOHN CASSELL'S Coffees. It will be seen that, independent of the Commission allowed, the general trade of the Agent is certain to be benefited by the number of new customers who will be attracted to his place of business, and in consequence of his name being kept before the public, by means of advertisements, &c., as the Agent for JOHN CASSELL'S Coffees.

PRIVATE INDIVIDUALS having a respectable connexion, will do well to obtain this Agency, as there is no trouble attending it, the Coffees being weighed and packed in lead, ready for delivery. Applications for terms, &c., must be made direct to JOHN CASSELL, Abchurch Lane, London.

PROTESTANT DISSENTERS' ALMANACK.

THIRTY FOURTH THOUSAND!

NO ALMANACK representing the principles of a particular class, has ever occasioned such an extensive demand in so short a space of time, as the PROTESTANT DISSENTERS' ALMANACK. The highest encomiums have already been pronounced upon it by the public press. The following are specimens:—

"We cannot too strongly recommend this very cheap and admirable Almanack. It contains a vast mass of valuable matter, of special interest to Nonconformists."—Patriot.

"It is not only a perfectly unique production, but its appearance is a significant sign of the times."—Nonconformist.

"Decidedly the best and cheapest Almanack that we have seen. Altogether the affair is perfectly unique, and must stand, we think, unrivalled."—Christian Record.

PRICE THREEPENCE.—London, J. Snow, Paternoster Row; Edinburg, Ziegler, South Bridge; Glasgow, Gallie, Buchanan Street, and all booksellers.

THE TEETOTAL ESSAYIST; or
Monthly Temperance Standard, for 1847. London: W. Britain, Paternoster-Row.
 This may now be had complete, price ONE SHILLING.

CONTENTS:

Teetotalism essential to the Elevation of the Working Classes. By D. G. PAINE.
 The Temperance Movement in its important bearings on the Sanitary condition of the People. By THOMAS BEGGS.
 Total Abstinence from strong drinks important to Female Honour and Happiness. By D. G. PAINE.
 Tom Rudge and his friend; shewing what Tom lost by "that last glass of Brandy and Water." By Mrs. S. C. HALL.
 Appeal to Females, in behalf of the Total Abstinence movement. By Dr. E. NOTT, President of Union College, New York.
 The Worn Thimble; a Story of Woman's Duty and Woman's Influence. By Mrs. S. C. HALL.
 Important Medical Testimony; with several hundred signatures.
 Christian Duty; or the importance of the Temperance Reformation in connexion with the maintenance and spread of Christianity. By F. W. WHEELER, Missionary.
 The Moral Obligation of Total Abstinence. By EVAN JONES.
 Intemperance the Antagonist of Education. By W. R. BAKER.
 The Duty of Sabbath School Teachers, in regard to Total Abstinence. By EVAN JONES.
 Reasons why Sabbath School Teachers should be Teetotals. By MICHAEL YOUNG.
 Bearings of the Temperance question on the interest of the Young. By W. RETD.
 The Drinking system and Juvenile Delinquency. By THOMAS BEGGS.
 Aids to the Evangelical Alliance in its enquiry as to the connexion between Infidelity and Teetotalism. With testimonies from upwards of SEVENTY Ministers and Gentlemen.
 The Evils of Moderate Drinking. By EVAN JONES.
 The Inconsistency of those Christians and Philanthropists who sanction the use of Intoxicating Liquors. By D. G. PAINE.
 Address to Moderate Drinkers. By ELIHU BURRITT.
 The Temperance Movement—its past history—present position—future prospects and connexion with other great movements of the age. By THOMAS BEGGS.
 It will be seen that this forms the most interesting and important publication that has ever been issued from the Temperance Press. As but very few sets remain on hand, an early application will be necessary. A copy will be sent, post free, to any person remitting twelve postage stamps, to JOHN CASSELL 22, Abchurch Lane, London.

TWELFTH THOUSAND.

INTEMPERANCE THE IDOLATRY OF
BRITAIN. By the Rev. W. R. BAKER, author of "The Curse of Britain," &c. It is admitted by the most eminent of the religious reviewers, as well as by all who have read it that there never was a work upon the Temperance Question more calculated to carry conviction to the mind of a thoughtful reader as the danger and iniquity of the drinking system. That it may have a very extensive circulation, this new and revised edition is published at THREEPENCE—the price of the former editions was 2s. 6d. The usual allowance will be made to Societies, or persons taking a quantity.

DR. NOTT'S LECTURES.

NATURE AND PROVIDENCE.

REPLYING TO THE QUESTION
WHAT IS THE DUTY OF MAN IN RELATION TO THE USE OF INTOXICATING LIQUORS. In four eloquent and powerful LECTURES, by ELIHU NOTT, D.D., L.L.D., President of Union College, New York. Carefully revised, with an Appendix. In 32 very closely printed pages, crown octavo. Price ONE PENNY.

THE BEST OF MEN SOMETIMES IN
ERROR. By ARCHDEACON JEFFREYS, of Bombay. The object of this incomparable Essay is to show that the advocates of the Total Abstinence System have the full warrant of Scripture for their labour of mercy and love. The style in which this sentiment is reasoned is such as to carry conviction to all who profess to be influenced by the law of love. 1s. 4d. per 100.

LIVESEY'S famous MALT LECTURES.
 Including a complete exposure of the great delusion as to the properties of Malt Liquors. Formerly published at Sixpence. A new edition for ONE PENNY.

W. BRITAIN, 54, Paternoster Row, London.

TO JOURNEMEN CHAIR MAKERS.

WANTED, a steady active young man, who understands rush and cane seat chair making, one who is a Teetotaler; constant employment may be had. Apply to Mr. J. CABOT, Peter Street, Jersey.

DR. CHEYNE'S

COUGH AND PULMONIC LOZENGES.

THE merits of this agreeable and efficacious remedy for colds, coughs, hoarseness, difficulty of breathing, and asthmatic and consumptive complaints, are daily made more and more apparent. All persons suffering from the above, or similar complaints, will do well immediately to test the efficacy of these Lozenges. They give instant relief, by promoting free expectoration, and preventing an undue accumulation of phlegm, at the same time that they allay the sensation of tickling in the throat, and fear of suffocation, and prevent those violent paroxysms of coughing, which are so distressing and dangerous. These Lozenges may be taken without any fear of disordering the stomach. On the contrary, they operate as a tonic, and materially strengthen the digestive organs.

HOARSENESS.

This most unpleasant, painful and disqualifying affliction, whether it be the result of taking cold, or of an over-exertion of the voice, may be removed, in a short space of time, by the use of DR. CHEYNE'S COUGH AND PULMONIC LOZENGES. They contain ingredients which act beneficially on the organs of the voice, and hence public speakers, singers and others, will derive unspeakable benefit from their use.

ASTHMA.

This painful disease of the lungs, whether produced by excessive heat, violent exercise, stimulating diet, or exposure to cold and unhealthy atmospheres, may be very considerably mitigated in its effects, by the use of DR. CHEYNE'S COUGH AND PULMONIC LOZENGES. In cases of inoist asthma, they will counteract the effects of constant expectoration; and in cases of dry or nervous asthma, they will promote that degree of expectoration by which the painful coughing may be greatly prevented or most materially relieved. One of these Lozenges put into the mouth before going out into the cold or fog, will, in most cases, prevent a painful paroxysm.

TO ATTENDANTS ON PUBLIC WORSHIP.

Nothing can be more annoying to a congregation, than to have persons present in a place of worship who are afflicted with a noisy, harassing cough. It is most distressing to the individual afflicted, and its attempts to stifle it often increase the irritation and the pain: while to those who conduct the worship, it is a source of inconceivable embarrassment, and of great nervous excitement. All these inconveniences may at once be obviated by persons furnishing themselves with a few of Dr. Cheyne's Cough and Pulmonic Lozenges.

TESTIMONIALS.

The following are among the most recent testimonials as to the value and efficacy of Dr. Cheyne's Cough and Pulmonic Lozenges:—

From the Rev. J. Crampin, Baptist Minister, Stretham, Isle of Ely.
 "I am compelled to say that after nearly twenty years public speaking, I have never yet met with anything so effectually easing to the chest—so unlogging to the lungs—and so clearing to the voice, as Dr. Cheyne's Cough and Pulmonic Lozenges. I have used but one Box, but such is their pleasantness and usefulness, that I would not be without them for ten times their cost."

To Mr. J. Eerington, Church-street, Gainsborough.
 "Sir,—I have been afflicted for years with a bad cough. I could not sleep at night, and sometimes coughed to that degree, that the neighbours thought I should burst a blood vessel. I was induced to try a box of Dr. Cheyne's Lozenges which was purchased at your shop; and after taking ten Lozenges, my cough left me. I give you leave to publish this statement for the benefit of others."—Blyton, near Gainsborough. "JANE HUNT."

CAUTION.—As a variety of Lozenges, Wafers, and Tablets are advertised, containing ingredients of an injurious nature, the public are particularly requested to ask for DR. CHEYNE'S COUGH AND PULMONIC LOZENGES, and to observe that the words "DR. CHEYNE'S COUGH LOZENGES," are engraved on the Government Stamp, which, with Directions for Use, is wrapped round each Box.

Sold in Boxes at 1s. 1<sup>1</sup>/<sub>2</sub>d. and 2s. 9d. each.

By at least one Agent in every Town throughout the United Kingdom.

TO TEETOTAL SURGEONS.

THE ONLY TEETOTAL SURGEON in the Island of Jersey, having been appointed to the Government Works in the Island, a vacancy now occurs for a Teetotal Surgeon wishing to avail himself of this opportunity of establishing himself in practice; a respectable house and shop, occupied by the present Surgeon, to be let, as also a small stock which can be had advantageously. For further particulars apply, by letter pre-paid, to Mr. T. A. SMITH, Temperance Hall, Jersey.

Printed and Published for the Proprietor, by RICHARD GOSSET, at his Office, No. 20, Queen-Street, St. Helier's, Jersey; and WILLIAM BRITAIN, 11, Paternoster-Row, London.

TUESDAY, February 1, 1848.

THE
TEETOTAL TIMES
AND ESSAYIST.

PUBLISHED MONTHLY.

No. III. NEW SERIES.]

JERSEY, MARCH, 1848.

[PRICE ONE PENNY.]

W. BRITTAİN, 54, PATERNOSTER ROW, LONDON,

BEGS to direct the attention of the Public to the following list of eminent STANDARD WORKS now on sale by him, at prices defying competition. The whole are neatly bound in cloth, gilt lettered, demy 12mo., and form handsome Library Volumes. A Trade List of 150 Works, will be sent to Booksellers on receipt of a Postage Stamp.

Robertson's History of America.....	s. d.
History of Scotland.....	2 6
Clarke's Travels in Russia, Tartary, and Turkey.....	2 0
The Romance of Real Life.....	1 6
Travels in Mexico, during 1843 and 1844.....	1 6
The complete Works of Robert Burns, with Life, &c.....	2 6
Self-Control, by Mrs. Brunton.....	2 0
Brydone's Travels through Sicily and Malta.....	1 6
Wanderings of a Pilgrim, by Dr. Cheever.....	1 6
Smith's Wealth of Nations.....	2 6
The Disputed Inheritance, by Dumas.....	1 6
Morris' Travels through Turkey, Greece, Egypt, and Arabia Petraea, to the Holy Land.....	1 6
Humphrey Clinker, by Smollett.....	1 6
Life in America, or the Wigwam and the Cabin.....	1 6
Tristram Shandy, by Sterne.....	1 6
Johnson's Lives of the Poets.....	2 6
Life on the Ocean, or Thirty Years at Sea.....	1 6
Johnson's Complete English Dictionary, in one large Vol., of nearly 800 pages, only.....	3 6
The History of the United States, from their first Settlement as Colonies, to the campaign of 1814.....	2 0
The Fool of Quality, or Henry Earl of Moreland.....	2 0
The Adventures of Robinson Crusoe, with cuts, demy 18mo.....	1 6

Various other STANDARD WORKS are in preparation for this New Library Edition.

TAKE NOTICE !!!

Reissue of the Teetotalers' Companion, commencing Feb. 26, 1848.

THIS most valuable and handsome work, illustrated with Dr. Sewell's coloured plates of the stomach, will appear in the same style and at the same price as before, viz:—in weekly numbers, at 2d. each; monthly parts, 9d. each. The complete work may also be had handsomely bound in cloth for 8s.; or with the Wine Question, 9s. 6d.

"A Treasury, a Storehouse, an Encyclopædia of the subject."
—Christian Witness.
London: Attall and Co., 25, Paternoster-Row, and all Booksellers.

Post Free, Price One Penny, or One Shilling Per Annum.

THE TEMPERANCE GAZETTE.

THIS Periodical has now reached a circulation of 15,000. No. III., to be published on the 1st of March will contain amongst other original articles, one by Dr. Gourley on "THE OLD LADIES OF THE PROFESSION," and another by Henry Clapp, Esq., on "AMERICAN TEETOTAL ORGANIZATION."

Retail Agents for London—Brittain, Paternoster Row; Woodley, Aldermanbury, Postern, City.
All orders and advertisements must be sent to Richard Wakelin, West Bromwich.

THE TEETOTAL ESSAYIST; or
Monthly Temperance Standard, for 1847. London: W. Brittain, Paternoster-Row.

This may now be had complete, price ONE SHILLING.

CONTENTS:

Teetotalism essential to the Elevation of the Working Classes. By D. G. PAINE.

The Temperance Movement in its important bearings on the Sanitary condition of the People. By THOMAS BEGGS.

Total Abstinence from strong drinks important to Female Honour and Happiness. By D. G. PAINE.

Tom Rudge and his friend; shewing what Tom lost by "that last glass of Brandy and Water." By Mrs. S. C. HALL.

Appeal to Females, in behalf of the Total Abstinence movement. By Dr. E. NOTT, President of Union College, New York.

The Worm Thimble; a Story of Woman's Duty and Woman's Influence. By Mrs. S. C. HALL.

Important Medical Testimony; with several hundred signatures.

Christian Duty; or the importance of the Temperance Reformation in connexion with the maintenance and spread of Christianity. By F. W. WHEELER, Missionary.

The Moral Obligation of Total Abstinence. By EVAN JONES.

Intemperance the Antagonist of Education. By W. R. BAKER.

The Duty of Sabbath School Teachers, in regard to Total Abstinence. By EVAN JONES.

Reasons why Sabbath School Teachers should be Teetotalers. By MICHAEL YOUNG.

Bearings of the Temperance question on the interest of the Young. By W. REID.

The Drinking system and Juvenile Delinquency. By THOMAS BEGGS.

Aids to the Evangelical Alliance in its enquiry as to the connexion between Inebriety and Teetotalism. With testimonies from upwards of SEVENTY Ministers and Gentlemen.

The Evils of Moderate Drinking. By EVAN JONES.

The Inconsistency of those Christians and Philanthropists who sanction the use of Intoxicating Liquors. By D. G. PAINE.

Address to Moderate Drinkers. By ELIHU BURRITT.

The Temperance Movement:—its past history—present position—future prospects and connexion with other great movements of the age. By THOMAS BEGGS.

It will be seen that this forms the most interesting and important publication that has ever been issued from the Temperance Press. As but very few sets remain on hand, an early application will be necessary. A copy will be sent, post free, to any person remitting twelve postage stamps, to JOHN CASSELL 22, Abchurch Lane, London.

ILLUSTRATED BOOKS FOR PRESENTS.

Now ready, price 1s. 6d., cloth, or half-bound 1s. 8d.

THE TEACHER'S OFFERING FOR 1847,
PROFUSELY illustrated with Engravings, Music, &c.

* Also, the new number for January, 1848, with many Engravings, price One Penny.

In two elegant volumes, price 12s. cloth, gilt.

COBBIN'S CHILD'S COMMENTATOR
on the HOLY SCRIPTURES. A new and beautiful edition. Illustrated with many superior Engravings.

"A book eminently attractive to the young. It is valuable as omitting nothing in the whole range of biblical knowledge that can be considered important."—Union Mag.

MARY AND HER MOTHER. Scriptural Stories for Children. Fifth Edition. Beautifully illustrated. 18mo. 3s. cloth.

ANIMALS; and their Food and Instincts. With many superior Engravings. 16mo, 3s. 6d. cloth.

MORAL FABLES and PARABLES. By the Rev. I. COBBIN, M.A. With numerous Engravings on Wood. A New Edition. 32mo, 1s. cloth.

THE YOUTH'S BIBLE CYCLOPÆDIA
Illustrated with upwards of 120 new and beautiful Engravings. 16mo, 3s. 6d. cloth.

SPRING, SUMMER, AUTUMN, WINTER.
By ROBERT MUDIE. In four elegant volumes, 18mo, price 3s. 6d. cloth.

THE HEAVENS, THE EARTH, THE AIR, THE SEA. By R. MUDIE. Each, price 3s. 6d. cloth.

ASTRONOMICAL CARDS, in Question and Answer; adapted to interest and assist the Youthful Student in the sublime Science of Astronomy. Fifty-six Cards, in a neat case, 3s. 6d.

WARD and Co., Paternoster-row.

JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEES,

OF SURPASSING STRENGTH AND RICHNESS OF FLAVOUR.

THE object of JOHN CASSELL in appointing AGENTS in every locality throughout the United Kingdom, is to afford every facility to Families for the purchase of Coffees of truly rich and mellow-flavoured mountain growths; and this, not at exorbitant rates, but at prices ordinarily paid for very inferior descriptions. The enormous demand already created, demonstrates that the inhabitants of those towns into which these delicious Coffees have been introduced, duly appreciate the effort which JOHN CASSELL has made to supply an article of the character above stated, and which enters so largely into the consumption of every Family.

The following are the PRICES at which any quantity, from two ounces to one pound, may be obtained:—

John Cassell's Coffee, No. 1. . . . . 1s. 4d.

An excellent article.

John Cassell's Coffee, No. 2. . . . . 1s. 8d.

Cannot fail to give great satisfaction, being a combination of the choicest growths of Jamaica, possessing richness, strength, and flavour.

John Cassell's Coffee, No. 3. . . . . 2s. 0d.

To every connoisseur in Coffee, this will prove a treat, combining the finest mountain growths of both Jamaica and Turkey.

OBSERVE.—Every packet of JOHN CASSELL'S Coffee bears his signature, without which none is genuine.

“GOOD COFFEE!” WHAT IS IT?

It is not that bitter, stringent article which grows on the wilds of Ceylon; nor is it merely an article of a light, pleasant flavour, but destitute of strength. It is a combination of the world's MOUNTAIN GROWTH, and possesses the following qualities: strong but mellow, having a rich aromatic fragrance and flavour. To have really good Coffee, the best mountain growths must be selected, and judiciously combined, by an experienced hand: they must be roasted upon scientific principles, so that the vegetable oil may not be injured, but the berry retain those properties which render a good cup of Coffee so pleasant to the palate, and so exhilarating to the nervous system. It is because they possess these qualities in the highest degree, that JOHN CASSELL'S Coffees are in such great repute. Let all who wish to obtain such articles in perfection purchase these Coffees, and their constant patronage will be secured.

A SUPPLY ADEQUATE TO THE DEMAND.

There was, for a short time, a difficulty in supplying the numerous and large orders daily sent in from every part of the kingdom. To meet every exigency, however, powerful machinery has been put into requisition. The Roasting, Dressing, Grinding, and Packing of JOHN CASSELL'S Coffees are conducted on the most approved scientific principles, and with wonderful despatch. Each Package forms a handsome Catty, lined with lead, so that the aroma and essential oil,—which constitute the excellence of a cup of really good Coffee,—are most effectually preserved. Hence, these Coffees will be found both pleasant to the taste, and exhilarating to the nervous system.

THE AGENCY FOR JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE.

It is the intention of JOHN CASSELL to appoint TWO THOUSAND AGENTS throughout the United Kingdom, and by that means to keep up a constant supply of fresh roasted and fresh ground Coffee, in packets containing from two ounces to one pound each, securely packed in lead, so as effectually to preserve their strength and aroma. Persons desirous of securing this valuable Agency are requested to make immediate application. JOHN CASSELL is sorry that disappointment has been experienced in numerous instances, by persons who have not succeeded in obtaining the Agency. This has arisen from the circumstance of numerous applications coming from the same town or locality; and it is a principle with JOHN CASSELL not to appoint a second Agent who may, in the least degree, interfere with the interest of the first.

All applications to be addressed to JOHN CASSELL, ABCHURCH-LANE, LONDON.

LIST OF CONTRIBUTIONS ALREADY MADE TO THE TESTIMONIAL TO MR. BUCKINGHAM.

	£.	s.	d.
H. R. H. the Prince Albert	25	0	0
H. R. H. the Duke of Cambridge	25	0	0
The Earl of Devon	25	0	0
Sir George Larpent, Bart.	25	0	0
James Matheson, M.P.	25	0	0
William Dimsdale Child, Esq.	25	0	0
Peter Wickens Fry, Esq.	10	0	0
Lord Sandon, M.P.	5	0	0
R. S. Holford, Esq.	5	0	0
H. S. Westmacott, Esq.	5	0	0
Joseph Saville, Esq.	5	0	0
Rev. Dr. Spranger	5	0	0
G. P. Naylor, Esq.	5	0	0
Lord Dudley Stuart, M.P.	5	0	0
J. M. Morgan, Esq.	5	0	0
Thomas Evans, Esq.	5	0	0
Rev. J. S. Howson	5	0	0
Rev. John Jarrett	5	0	0
The Lord Bishop of St. David's	5	0	0
Thomas Ensor, Esq.	10	0	0
Captain Osborne Foley, R. N.	5	0	0
Henry Wilon, Esq.	5	0	0
Jeremiah Smith, Esq.	10	0	0
Rev. C. S. Hassells	5	0	0
Joseph Anderson, Esq.	10	0	0
Samuel Courtauld, Esq.	5	0	0
George Courtauld, Esq.	5	0	0
Francis Seaman, Esq.	10	0	0
Henry Wymouth, Esq.	5	0	0
David Veasey, Esq.	5	0	0
John Nichollets, Esq.	7	7	0
J. Elliot Square, Esq.	4	4	0
George Woodhouse, Esq.	5	5	0
James Simpson, Esq.	4	4	0
James Muspratt, Esq.	10	10	0
J. F. Ledsam, Esq.	5	5	0
James Torkington, Esq.	7	7	0
Wynn Ellis, Esq., M.P.	5	5	0
Daniel Gaskell, Esq.	17	17	0
Greig Thomson, Esq.	2	2	0
Edward Austin, Esq.	5	5	0
John Harman, Esq.	10	10	0
Charles Richardson, Esq.	5	5	0
Messrs. Vizard and Leman	5	5	0
Rev. Septimus Ramsay	3	3	0
John Kerrich, Esq.	5	5	0
W. de Capel Brooke, Esq.	5	5	0
Rev. Cecil Greene	1	1	0
Nicholas Earle, Esq.	3	3	0
Captain Chamberlayne, R.N.	1	1	0
Joseph James Forrester, Esq.	5	5	0
F. G. West, Esq.	1	1	0
Dr. W. F. Cumming	3	3	0
B. Clifford Lloyd, Esq.	1	1	0
William Evans, M.P.	5	5	0
The Earl Fortescue	10	10	0
The Duke of Cleveland	5	5	0
Lord Ashburton	10	10	0
Rev. T. Surridge	5	0	0
Joshua Satterfield, Esq.	6	6	0
F. V. Woodhouse, Esq.	5	5	0
Thomas Evans, Esq.	5	5	0
Rev. C. H. Rooper	6	6	0
Sir A. de Capel Brooke	3	3	0
Rev. F. Vincent	4	4	0
R. Oglander, Esq.	2	2	0
John Grenside, Esq.	4	4	0
Gen. Sir Wm. G. Davy	5	5	0
James Hertz, Esq.	9	9	0
Issac Unthank, Esq.	5	5	0
C. Augustus Helm, Esq.	5	5	0
Robert Milligan, Esq.	5	5	0
J. O. Bacchus, Esq.	7	7	0
Robert Heywood, Esq.	5	5	0

	£.	s.	d.
Rev. E. Larken	5	5	0
Sir John Kennaway, Bart.	4	4	0
F. T. White, Esq.	6	6	0
James Painter, Esq.	2	2	0
Henry Payne, Esq.	3	3	0
G. Morgan Smith, Esq.	3	3	0
Dr. W. Beattie	2	2	0
G. R. Morgan, Esq.	6	6	0
Captain J. G. Green, R.N.	3	3	0
Dr. Duesbury	3	3	0
John Watkins Brett, Esq.	5	5	0
General Blake	3	3	0
John Smith, Esq.	2	2	0
John Gwynne, Esq.	3	3	0
R. W. Taylor, Esq.	2	2	0
Rev. James Pearson	1	1	0
Henry S. Laycock, Esq.	3	3	0
Charles Bray, Esq.	2	2	0
John N. Foster, Esq.	5	5	0
Major Agnew	1	1	0
George Masters, Esq.	2	2	1
Rev. John Banister	2	12	6
Thomas Twining, jun., Esq.	1	1	0
Joseph Whitaker, Esq.	2	2	0
Rev. C. W. Davy	2	2	0
James Taylor, Esq.	2	2	0
T. A. Shaw, Esq.	5	5	0
Mr. Margracia Loudon	1	1	0
Dr. Quin	3	3	0
Admiral Hawtayne	3	3	0
George Gregory, Esq.	5	5	0
John Morison, Esq.	1	1	0
Peter Gardner, Esq.	3	3	0
The Baron Von Andlau	1	1	0
Dr. William Beattie	2	2	0
W. A. Munn, Esq.	1	1	0
William Janson, jun., Esq.	2	2	0
Sir Moses Montefiore, Bart.	5	5	0

Subscriptions continue to be received at the Bank of Messrs. RANSOM and Co., in the name and to the account of the EARL OF DEVON, as President and Treasurer of the Testimonial Fund.

DEVON, President and Treasurer.

THE HISTORY OF THE ORIGIN AND SUCCESS OF THE ADVOCACY OF THE PRINCIPLE OF TOTAL ABSTINENCE FROM ALL INTOXICATING LIQUORS.

By JAMES TEARE, one of the Originators of the Total Abstinence System.

This unpretending narrative presents such an example of the power of personal energy, as, apart from Christian missions or horrid war, is no where to be found.—Christian Witness.

"This useful matter-of-fact publication ought by all means to be bought and read by the whole community of teetotalers."—Bristol Temperance Herald.

"This is a desideratum in temperance literature. It rescues from obscurity the real origin of total abstinence. James Teare was the first who made a total abstinence speech; his honesty and faithfulness are proverbial, and therefore great reliance can be placed in his statements."—Hull Temperance Pioneer.

"This is the production of an individual well qualified, from his early and long continued connexion with the Temperance cause, to furnish the public with all the particulars associated with the origin and progress of that system, which has conferred upon millions of the human family an amount of good, social, moral, and religious, the full value of which eternity alone can reveal."—National Temperance Advocate.

London: C. Gilpin, Bishopsgate Street.

TO TEMPERANCE ASSOCIATIONS AND SOCIETIES.

A GENTLEMAN who has followed the profession of medicine and surgery, and who has lectured on the Temperance Question for the last ten years, written works on the subject, and laboured in the capacity of a lay preacher in connexion with a religious denomination, is desirous to devote his time to the promotion of the Abstinence principle. Possessing an extensive acquaintance with human nature, and a knowledge of the Temperance Question in all its bearings, he is desirous to obtain an engagement as a Temperance Town Missionary, or Country Lecturer. A small salary required. For testimonials, references, &c., address:—"D. M., Post office, Birmingham."

DR. CHEYNE'S COUGH AND PULMONIC LOZENGES.

THE merits of this agreeable and efficacious remedy for colds, coughs, hoarseness, difficulty of breathing, and asthmatic and consumptive complaints, are daily made more and more apparent. All persons suffering from the above, or similar complaints, will do well immediately to test the efficacy of these Lozenges. They give instant relief, by promoting free expectoration, and preventing an undue accumulation of phlegm, at the same time that they allay the sensation of tickling in the throat, and fear of suffocation, and prevent those violent paroxysms of coughing, which are so distressing and dangerous. These Lozenges may be taken without any fear of disordering the stomach. On the contrary, they operate as a tonic, and materially strengthen the digestive organs.

HOARSENESS.

This most unpleasant, painful and disqualifying affliction, whether it be the result of taking cold, or of an over-exertion of the voice, may be removed, in a short space of time, by the use of DR. CHEYNE'S COUGH AND PULMONIC LOZENGES. They contain ingredients which act beneficially on the organs of the voice, and hence public speakers, singers and others, will derive unspeakable benefit from their use.

ASTHMA.

This painful disease of the lungs, whether produced by excessive heat, violent exercise, stimulating diet, or exposure to cold and unhealthy atmospheres, may be very considerably mitigated in its effects, by the use of DR. CHEYNE'S COUGH AND PULMONIC LOZENGES. In cases of moist asthma, they will counteract the effects of constant expectoration; and in cases of dry or nervous asthma, they will promote that degree of expectoration by which the painful coughing may be greatly prevented or most materially relieved. One of these Lozenges put into the mouth before going out into the cold or fog, will, in most cases, prevent a painful paroxysm.

TO ATTENDANTS ON PUBLIC WORSHIP.

Nothing can be more annoying to a congregation, than to have persons present in a place of worship who are afflicted with a noisy, harassing cough. It is most distressing to the individual afflicted, and its attempts to stifle it often increase the irritation and the pain; while to those who conduct the worship, it is a source of inconceivable embarrassment, and of great nervous excitement. All these inconveniences may at once be obviated by persons furnishing themselves with a few of Dr. Cheyne's Cough and Pulmonic Lozenges.

TESTIMONIALS.

The following are among the most recent testimonials as to the value and efficacy of Dr. Cheyne's Cough and Pulmonic Lozenges:—

From the Rev. J. Crampin, Baptist Minister, Stretham, Isle of Ely.
"I am compelled to say that after nearly twenty years public speaking, I have never yet met with anything so effectually easing to the chest—so unobscuring to the lungs—and so clearing to the voice, as Dr. Cheyne's Cough and Pulmonic Lozenges. I have used but one Box, but such is their pleasantness and usefulness, that I would not be without them for ten times their cost."

To Mr. J. Everington, Church-street, Gainsborough.

"Sir,—I have been afflicted for years with a bad cough. I could not sleep at night, and sometimes coughed to that degree, that the neighbours thought I should burst a blood vessel. I was induced to try a box of Dr. Cheyne's Lozenges which was purchased at your shop; and after taking ten Lozenges, my cough left me. I give you leave to publish this statement for the benefit of others."—Blyton, near Gainsborough. "JANE HUNT."

CAUTION.—As a variety of Lozenges, Wafers, and Tablets are advertised, containing ingredients of an injurious nature, the public are particularly requested to ask for Dr. CHEYNE'S COUGH AND PULMONIC LOZENGES, and to observe that the words "DR. CHEYNE'S COUGH LOZENGES," are engraved on the Government Stamp, which, with Directions for Use, is wrapped round each Box.

Sold in Boxes at 1s. 1/3d. and 2s. 9d. each.

By at least one Agent in every Town throughout the United Kingdom.

IPSWICH JUVENILE TEMPERANCE BOOKS. There are 32 Books, 32mo., with wood cuts. IPSWICH TEMPERANCE TRACTS.

There are 89 Tracts, NINE OF WHICH ARE JUST PRINTED—several with wood cuts. Of Books ten thousand packets, and of Tracts nine million pages have been issued. Both Books and Tracts are sold in sixpenny packets separately or assorted.

The assorted Books are comprised in two—the Tracts in four packets. 50 packets of either delivered in London for a guinea, sent by Post Office Order to Richard Dykes Alexander, Ipswich, of whom a Catalogue may be had.

Simpkin and Marshall, London.

TO JOURNEYMEN CHAIR MAKERS.

WANTED, a steady active young man, who understands rush and cane seat chair making, one who is a Teetotaler; constant employment may be had.

Apply to Mr. J. CABOT, Peter Street, Jersey.

LITTLE TRACTS FOR LITTLE FOLK ON TEMPERANCE.

EACH contains four pages, and is neatly printed in 32mo., on good paper. Price Sixpence per 100, or 4s. 6d. per 1000, sorted.

- |   |   |
|---|---|
| 1. The British Idol.  | 14. The Woes of the Drunkards                 |
| 2. Water Drinkers.  | 15. Some things that Children should not do.  |
| 3. An Example set us by the Heathen.                                | 16. The White Slave.                          |
| 4. Some reasons why little Boys and Girls should become Abstemious. | 17. The doings of Strong Drink.               |
| 5. Things to be thought upon.                                       | 18. Lucy Lee, the little Temperance Reformer. |
| 6. Going down the Ladder.   | 20. What have I got to do with the Drunkard?  |
| 7. Speeches of Hottentots at a Temperance Meeting.                  | 21. The Reformed Father.                      |
| 8. The Fatal Glass.   | 22. The Man who could take care of himself.   |
| 9. The Praises of Water.  | 23. Dickie Walker, or the progress of Ruin.   |
| 10. The Happy Morn.   | 24. Plain Things for Little Readers.          |
| 11. Anecdotes.  |   |
| 12. The Life Boat.  |   |
| 13. The Destroyer.  |   |

These tracts, consisting principally of short, simple, and truthful narratives, are commended to the friends of the Temperance cause, as specially suitable for distribution among the Young. They are written and published with an earnest desire that the principles of Total Abstinence from Intoxicating Drinks may obtain a firm hold on those who are yet in the morning of life.

The Series will continued, and the Publisher will be most happy to receive aid from those who feel with him on the important subject.

BENJAMIN L. GREEN, 62, PATERNOSTER ROW.

A SUITABLE PRESENT FOR YOUTH.

Just published, in one volume 18mo, cloth lettered, price 2s., bound in silk, gilt edges, price 3s.

THE JEWISH EXILE; or, Religion exemplified in the Life and Character of Daniel. By Rev. JOHN KENNEDY, A.M. Steppny.

Thirteenth Thousand. Cheap Edition, demy 8vo, price 2s.

ANTI-BACCHUS; An Essay on the Crimes, Diseases, and other Evils connected with the Use of Intoxicating Drinks. By the Rev. B. PARSONS.

"We conjure our readers to give this volume an attentive, candid perusal, from a decided conviction that, in proportion as its circulation is promoted, and its contents are impartially read, will be stayed one of the most dreadful evils that ever afflicted the human race."—Methodist New Connexion Magazine.

Recently published, demy 12mo, cloth lettered, price 1s. 6d.

TEMPERANCE AND TEETOTALISM.

Being a Candid Inquiry into the Lawfulness or Unlawfulness of using Distilled and Fermented Liquors; conducted on the grounds of Scripture, Philosophy, and Expediency, but especially Scripture. With an Appendix. By J. H. BARROW, Independent Minister, Market Drayton.

Recently published, price 6d.

THE SCRIPTURAL CLAIMS OF TEETOTALISM. Addressed to British Christians. By NEWMAN HALL, B. A.

"It is good neither to eat flesh nor to drink wine, nor anything whereby thy brother stumbleth, or is offended, or is made weak."—St. Paul.

London: JOHN SNOW, Paternoster Row.

Single copies of the TEETOTAL TIMES AND ESSAYIST will be sent regularly, post free, to every Subscriber of ONE SHILLING, per annum, in advance. Societies and individuals desirous of availing themselves of this very economical and efficient mode of advocating Teetotalism will be supplied with copies at 6s. per hundred, which will be sent to them free, either in parcels, or in single copies, to persons whose name may be furnished. Thus a subscription of three shillings will ensure the sending of important information to fifty individuals, or to one hundred, if six shillings be subscribed.

TO POSTMASTERS.

This Journal is privileged to be sent postage free to every part of the United Kingdom, and we have the authority of the Secretary of the General Post Office for stating "that Agents may be employed in Great Britain and Ireland, for the sale of JERSEY Newspapers; and that such Newspapers may be forwarded by Post to any extent, either singly, or in parcels, provided the parcel is open at the ends. They may afterwards be reposed for any part of the United Kingdom, free of Postage, and for such of the Colonies to which there are Mail Packets, but in the latter case the reposing must take place within seven days after the date of publication of the Newspaper."

Printed and Published for the Proprietor, by RICHARD GOSSET, at his Office, No. 20, Queen-Street, St. Helier's, Jersey; and WILLIAM BRITAIN, 11, Paternoster-Row, London.

TUESDAY, March, 1, 1843.

THE
TEETOTAL TIMES
AND ESSAYIST.

PUBLISHED MONTHLY.

No. IV. NEW SERIES.]

JERSEY, APRIL, 1848.

[PRICE ONE PENNY.]

CONFERENCE OF MINISTERS OF RELIGION, AT MANCHESTER, TO PROMOTE THE TEMPERANCE REFORMATION.

THE following arrangements have been made for the above important event, viz:—ON SUNDAY, APRIL 9th, 1848: Sermons on behalf of the cause, will be preached in several of the principal Chapels, by Ministers from America, and distant parts of England.—ON MONDAY EVENING, APRIL 10th. Temperance Meetings will be held in many parts of Manchester, and the surrounding district.—ON TUESDAY, APRIL 12th. The Committee of Management will meet at Two o'Clock in the afternoon, in the Ante-room of the Athenaeum, to arrange the business for the Conference; which will open in the Lecture Theatre of the above Institution, on Wednesday Morning at Nine o'Clock.—ON WEDNESDAY EVENING, APRIL 12th. There will be a GRAND DEMONSTRATION IN THE FREE TRADE HALL, the doors to be opened at half-past Six o'Clock, and the chair to be taken at Seven precisely.—ON FRIDAY AFTERNOON, APRIL 13th, at Five o'Clock, a SOIREE will be given to the Ministers, in the Corn Exchange. Tickets: 1s. Each.

N. B.—Visitors will be admitted by ticket to the various Meetings, on the following terms:—To the Sittings of Conference, Sixpence each day; or a ticket to admit one person to all the Sittings, may be procured for One Shilling.

FREE TRADE HALL.—Reserved Seats One Shilling, Second Seats Sixpence, the remaining part of the Hall FREE.

Further particulars will be sent by post, to all the Ministers who have engaged to be at the Conference.

These arrangements have been made to secure the comfort of visitors. Parties at a distance who intend to visit Manchester, upon this interesting occasion, will do well to procure tickets for the several Meetings; which may be had on application, (with a remittance in postage-stamps, or money to the value of the tickets required,) to Mr. Robert Jones, 27, Clarendon Street, Oxford-Street, Manchester.

As the arrangements for this Meeting, will involve considerable expense, the Committee of the British Association, urgently solicit the aid of the friends of the cause throughout the Kingdom.

Subscriptions will be thankfully received, and duly acknowledged, by JAMES BACKHOUSE, Esq., Treasurer; and Mr. F. HOPWOOD, Secretary of the Association, at the Office, 3, Low Ousegate, York.

Just Published, price 3d.,

THE AGE THAT'S COMING, or the Model Parish the Hope of the Nation; by PETER BURNE, author of the "Teetotaler's Companion," and "The Concordance of Scripture and Science on the Wine Question."

"In the countries I have visited, I never saw a city or a village yet, where miseries were not in proportion to the number of public houses."—Goldsmith.

London: Arthur Hall & Co., and all Booksellers.

Recently Published, price 6d., 2nd edition,

AMY OF THE PEAK, or the Triumph of a Principle.

"It is indeed a precious jewel, encased in harmonious verse."—Thobald Matther.

"... Abounds in lofty sentiments."—Temp. Lever.

Also, Just Published, price 3s. 6d. with a frontispiece,

JOYS AND SORROWS. By the Author of "Amy of the Peak."

"... This delightful volume. It is a gem."—Nat. Tem. Adv.
London: CHARLES GILPIN, 5, Bishopsgate-Street-Without, and may be ordered of any bookseller.

CONFERENCE OF TEMPERANCE ADVOCATES.

IT is proposed to hold a Conference of Temperance Advocates, in the month of September next, at LEICESTER. For the carrying out of this object, a Committee has been appointed, and a Circular to Advocates and Societies issued. The design of the Convention is to afford an opportunity for the ploughers of the ground and the tillers of the soil to spend a week together in fraternal consultation on the History, Prospects and Requirements of the Temperance Movement. The Leicester Society will provide free accommodation for all Advocates who may be invited by the Conference Committee or recommended by Societies. A liberal Subscription has also been commenced towards the necessary expenses. Full particulars will be given in future Advertisements; or should any Advocates or Societies be overlooked in the distribution of the circulars, information will be given in reply to applications addressed to the Secretaries 26, Granby-street, Leicester.

JOHN BABINGTON, A.M., Rector of Cossington
President.

Leicester, March 14, 1848.

Price 2d., or by Post 3d.

CAUTIONS & TESTIMONY AGAINST ODD FELLOWSHIP, by H. MUDGE, Surgeon, Bodmin.

Also, price 2s. or by post 2s. 6d., by the same Author.

EXPOSURE OF ODD FELLOWSHIP; showing its immoral tendency and bankrupt circumstances, and containing as well a large amount of information on the subject of Friendly Societies.

WHITTAKER, London; LIDDELL, Bodmin.

TO THE FRIENDLY BOTANIC SOCIETIES.

Just Published, 2nd Edition,

DR. STEVENS'S NEW WORK, entitled MEDICAL REFORM, or Physiology and Botanic practice for the people. This work consists of a perfect digest, or complete collection of the most recent discoveries, with all the recipes, preparations, and specific modes of treatment known in the celebrated THOMSONIAN SYSTEM of America; the whole illustrated with cuts of the human system, and the principal herbs employed, including also the life of Thomson. Handsomely bound, price 7s. To be had of the author, 7, Osmaston Street, Derby.

N. B.—A liberal per-centage allowed to all agents, to whom full particulars of the work will be sent upon enclosing a postage stamp to the author.

The work sent to all parts of the country, carriage free.

TWELFTH THOUSAND.

INTEMPERANCE THE IDOLATRY OF

BRITAIN. By the Rev. W. R. BAKER, author of "The Curse of Britain, &c." It is admitted by the most eminent of the religious reviewers, as well as by all who have read it that there never was a work upon the Temperance Question more calculated to carry conviction to the mind of a thoughtful reader as the danger and iniquity of the drinking system. That it may have a very extensive circulation, this new and revised edition is published at THREEPENCE:—the price of the former editions was 2s. 6d. The usual allowance will be made to Societies, or persons taking a quantity.

LIVESEY'S famous MALT LECTURES.

Including a complete exposure of the great delusion as to the properties of Malt Liquors. Formerly published at Sixpence. A new edition for ONE PENNY.

W. BRITAIN, 54, Paternoster Row, London.

JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEES, OF SURPASSING STRENGTH AND RICHNESS OF FLAVOUR.

THE object of JOHN CASSELL in appointing AGENTS in every locality throughout the United Kingdom, is to afford full facility to Families for the purchase of Coffees of truly rich and mellow-flavoured mountain growths; and this, not at exorbitant rates, but at prices ordinarily paid for very inferior descriptions. The enormous demand already created, demonstrates that the inhabitants of those towns into which these delicious Coffees have been introduced, duly appreciate the effort which JOHN CASSELL has made to supply an article of the character above stated, and which enters so largely into the consumption of every Family.

The following are the PRICES at which any quantity, from two ounces to one pound, may be obtained:—

John Cassell's Coffee, No. 1. . . . .	1s. 4d.
An excellent article.
John Cassell's Coffee, No. 2. . . . .	1s. 8d.
Cannot fail to give great satisfaction, being a combination of the choicest growths of Jamaica, possessing richness, strength, and flavour.
John Cassell's Coffee, No. 3. . . . .	2s. 0d.

To every connoisseur in Coffee, this will prove a treat, combining the finest mountain growths of both Jamaica and Turkey.

OBSERVE.—Every packet of JOHN CASSELL'S Coffee bears his signature, without which none is genuine.

“GOOD COFFEE!” WHAT IS IT?

It is not that bitter, stringent article which grows on the wilds of Ceylon; nor is it merely an article of a light, pleasant flavour, but destitute of strength. It is a combination of the world's MOUNTAIN GROWTHS, and possesses the following qualities: strong but mellow, having a rich aromatic fragrance and flavour. To have really good Coffee, the best mountain growths must be selected, and judiciously combined, by an experienced hand: they must be roasted upon scientific principles, so that the vegetable oil may not be injured, but the berry retain those properties which render a good cup of Coffee so pleasant to the palate, and so exhilarating to the nervous system. It is because they possess these qualities in the highest degree, that JOHN CASSELL'S Coffees are in such great repute. Let all who wish to obtain such articles in perfection purchase these Coffees, and their constant patronage will be secured.

A SUPPLY ADEQUATE TO THE DEMAND.

There was, for a short time, a difficulty in supplying the numerous and large orders daily sent in from every part of the kingdom. To meet every exigency, however, powerful machinery has been put into requisition. The Roasting, Dressing, Grinding, and Packing of JOHN CASSELL'S Coffees are conducted on the most approved scientific principles, and with wonderful despatch. Each Package forms a handsome Catty, lined with lead, so that the aroma and essential oil,—which constitute the excellence of a cup of really GOOD COFFEE,—are most effectually preserved.

THE AGENCY FOR JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE.

A considerable number of AGENTS have already been appointed, as will be seen from the list subjoined. It is the intention of JOHN CASSELL to increase their number to Two Thousand, so as to keep up a constant supply of fresh roasted and fresh ground Coffee. Persons desirous of securing this valuable Agency are requested to make immediate application. JOHN CASSELL is sorry that disappointment has been experienced in numerous instances, by persons who have not succeeded in obtaining the Agency. This has arisen from the circumstance of numerous applications coming from the same town or locality; and it is a principle with JOHN CASSELL not to appoint a second Agent who may, in the least degree, interfere with the interest of the first.

AGENTS ALREADY APPOINTED.

Alford, J. G. Leachman, Grocer.	Auchtermuchty, D. Jamieson, Burnside.	Alstonfield, J. Hambleton, Grocer.
Atherstone, James Keen, Chemist.	Alnwich, John Hughes, Queen Street.	Aberdeen, J. Leask, 54, Green.
Abergavenny, Mrs. Seth Evans, Frogmore Street.	Arbroath, J. Miller, High Street.	Bradford, J. Pratt, 33, Ivegate.
Axminster, Thomas Hutchings.	Aberystwith, J. Morgan, 14, Great Darkgate Street.	Bradford, W. and J. R. Thackeray, 17, Vicar Lane.
Aberayron D. Griffiths, Rock Street.		Burgedin, Welshpool, J. P. Pugh.

(For remainder of Agents names, see another Page.)

Brigstock, William Leigh.
 Bedale, Thomas Taylor, Bookseller.
 Brecon, J. Williams, Ship Street.
 Brecon, T. Evans, Watergate.
 Bury, D. Thomas, 16, Agur Street.
 Bermondsey, J. Fielder, New Church Street.
 Bristol, E. Hunt, 58, Castle Street.
 Bawtry, Thomas Nettleship.
 Barton-on-Humber, H. J. Tomlinson.
 Buxton, John Barnsley.
 Blandford, James Hobbs.
 Burslem, Miss E. Booth, Newcastle Street.
 Bangor, S. Roberts, Post Office Place.
 Burley, J. Holden.
 Boston, J. K. Bull, Pen Street.
 Birmingham, H. Kenway, Moor Street.
 Birmingham, J. Barnett, Smithfield.
 " Thomas Howell, Per-shore Road.
 " Davidson, 65, Islington.
 Burnley, T. Greenalt.
 Brompton Road, Ambs Hayes.
 Banbridge, John Love.
 Bishop-Auckland, J. R. Bainbridge.
 Blaina Iron Works, Rev. W. Roberts.
 Bewdley, R. Lea, Severn Side.
 Brandon, J. Maizey, High Street.
 Belturbet, Thomas Gillon.
 Bromham, George Webb, Love Lane.
 Brighton, J. Champion, 44, Francis Street.
 Blanchland, E. Widd.
 Bidford, J. Wilkes, Grocer, Tower Hill.
 Belfast, A. Montgomery, Jun., 27, Donegal Street.
 Bangor, Co. Down, W. Crosbie.
 Brynsienkin, R. Parry, Draper and Grocer.
 Bath, W. Young, Lambridge Buildings.
 Cleckheaton, J. N. Woodcock, Market Place.
 Canterbury, A. Sabine, 36, High Street.
 Chelmsford, C. Brown, Bookseller.
 Chudleigh, R. Humphries.
 Camden Town, W. Edwards, 8, Francis Terrace.
 Coverdale, J. Clarke, Horsehouse.
 Cheadle, F. Hordem and Son.
 Cuminestown, W. Tennant.
 Congleton, S. Boyce, Jun., Milk Street.
 Coventry, H. Emery, Bond Street.
 Calfied, E. Barcham.
 Chiteroe, Berry and Co.
 Carmarthen, J. Lloyd, Cross.
 Colchester, J. Payne, 17, Trinity Street.
 Churchill, H. Hiscocks.
 Colne, Henry Ward.
 Chelsea, Messrs. Purdom & Co., King's Road.
 Clifton, J. Lewis.
 Comptown, J. Montgomery.
 Cookstown, John Glasgow.
 Cardigan, E. Matthias, Grocer, &c.
 Coleford, J. Clarke, Tea Dealer.
 Devizes, J. Abraham, Market Place.
 Durham, Messrs. Scawin and Monks.

Deal, G. Wellden.
 Deveron, J. Tregaskis.
 Delgelly, J. Jones, Liverpool House.
 Downham, J. Wright.
 Devynnock, J. James and Son.
 Darlaston, W. Maddock.
 Dinas Mowddwy, R. Evans.
 Dearham Bridge, T. Rigg.
 Darlington, W. Heron.
 Dundee, P. Farquharson, Chemist.
 Drumquin, J. Wood, Grocer.
 Edinburgh, Andrew Smaill, 19, Char-Street.
 Edinburgh, D. Reoch, 20, Union Place.
 Edinburgh, R. Mc. Cousland, Law-market.
 Eye, J. Kitton, Grocer.
 Edgeley, R. Turner, 7, Booth Street.
 Edenfield, A. Hall, Chemist.
 Exeter, R. C. Wilkinson, North Street.
 Edlesborough, C. Thorne.
 Eccleshall, Mrs. Williams, Post Office.
 Ecclefechan, J. Little.
 Finchdean, J. Price.
 Forres, N.B., J. Gill.
 Greenock, W. Anderson, Grocer.
 Gunis Lake, S. S. Gimblett.
 Greenside, R. Gibson.
 Great Missenden, S. Price.
 Guisborough, Rt. Gill, Tea Dealer.
 Glasgow, Messrs. P. Walker and Co., 65, Jamaica Street.
 " Daniel Dunn, 44 & 46, Cowcadens Street.
 Glynvill, Joseph Parsons, Baker and Tea Dealer.
 Heckmondwicke, T. Turner.
 Huddersfield J. Senior, Albion Street
 " J. Swann, 20, Cross Church St.
 Hull, F. Richardson, 44, Upper Union Street, Pottery.
 Hitchin, E. Jordan.
 Horncastle, P. Roney, Draper.
 Hochliffe, H. Bird, Grocer.
 Heanor, J. Holmes.
 Hooknorton, A. M. Gibbs.
 Handborough, Thomas Weller.
 Hartlepool, S. A. Fleetham, Grocer.
 Hoyland Nether, H. Kay.
 Hexham, J. Murton.
 Hungerford, J. Phelps.
 Ilminster, G. L. Williams.
 Irvine, J. Dickie.
 Innerleithem, W. Renwick.
 Johnshaven, George Davidson.
 Keighley, Thomas Clarke.
 Kidderminster, G. Friend, Ten Towns Messenger Office.
 Kilwinning, Hugh Anderson, Victu-alling Society.
 Knaresborough, G. D. Thomas.
 Killaloe, A. Thompson, Post Office.
 Leeds, J. Bapty, 71, West Street.
 Leighton Buzzard, C. B. Sell.
 Langholme, Wm. Little.
 Lynn, F. A. Richardson, Chemist.
 Llanfyllin, Thomas Byner.
 Llanelly, H. J. Howell, Hall Street.
 Longton, George Nixon, Wood Street.
 Lockerly, Wm. Southwell.
 Linton, J. Sergeant.
 Liverpool, Nichols & Co., 9, Paradise Street.

Liverpool, H. Thompson, 71, Falk-ner Street.
 Lancaster, G. Sandwith, 3, Common Garden Street.
 Louth, Barrett & Co., Grocers.
 Londonderry, James Osborne & Co., Ship Quay Street.
 " W. Finley, Butcher Street.
 Leith, J. Kilgour, Tolbooth Wynd.
 Liskard, Thomas Broad, Grocer, Church Street.
 Largs, J. Adams, 22, Main Street.
 Langham, J. George, Grocer, &c.
 Llanelly, J. Jones, Grocer.
 Macclesfield, James Warren, 5, Ches-ter Gate.
 Monmouth, W. Jenkins, Monnow Street.
 Middleboro' by Tees, H. Bland.
 Middlewich, Luke Jackson.
 Modbury, George Prideaux.
 March, J. Palmer, High Street.
 Market Weighton, C. B. Sissons.
 Madeley, Thomas Molinuex, Grocer.
 Maryport, J. Heslop, Confectioner.
 Manchester, F. Allsop, 263, Great Ancoats Street.
 Minchinhampton, W. Nichols.
 Monkwearmouth, J. C. Brumwell, Church Street.
 Mold, J. Bill, Hugh Street.
 Mayfield, A. Miller, Grocer.
 Minera, Aaron Francis.
 Mareham le fen, B. R. Chapman.
 Mansfield, E. Hett, Confectioner, near Market Place.
 Monmouth, W. Jenkins, Bookseller, Monnow Street.
 Norwich, T. W. Sadler, St. Benedict Street.
 Nottingham, A. Goodlife, Bride-smith Gate.
 Northiam, Wm Ranger.
 Nimeaton, Thomas Garratt.
 Newborough, Escu Davis.
 Newtonards, Josh. Bennett.
 Newtonburgaland, L. Hayes.
 North Shields, B. Morgan.
 Newry, Abuthnot and Co., Grocers, Hill Street.
 " Quinn & Co., Grocers.
 Newton, Stewart P. Mc.Crea.
 Otley, T. Walker.
 Ospridge, G. Epps.
 Old Deer, J. Lawrence.
 Plymouth, Samuel Smith, 2, East Street.
 Pontefract, Thomas Monkman, New-gate.
 Perth, John Hay, County Place.
 Pentre, John Hughes.
 Portadown, John Kenahan.
 Pinner, Abraham Church.
 Pulteney, Daniel Walters.
 Peterboro, Wm. Pentney, Book-seller.
 Plymouth, S. Smith, Druggist, 2, East Street.
 Parkstone, J. Street.
 Peasmarsh, T. Filmer, Tea Dealer.
 Princes End, W. Fisher, Tea Dealer.
 Redruth, W. J. Corin.
 Ringwood, Burgess, Market Place.
 Rye, James Noakes, Mint Street.

Rawtenstall, Thomas Hargreaves, Longholme.
 Rochdale, John Holt, 165, Yorkshire Street.
 Rastrick, Henry Bently.
 Ryde, Wm. Norman.
 Ripley, Robert Moss.
 Ruthen, John H. Williams.
 Raphoc, C. Kilpatrick.
 Reading, J. Quilch, 15, Oxford Street
 Randalstown, J. Stevenson, Grocer.
 Sligo, M. Wilson, 1, Ratcliffe Street.
 Stoke Newington, C. Read.
 Staithe, Wm. Pinder.
 South Petherton, S. Hebditch.
 St. Columb, John Walkey.
 St. Austell, J. H. Drew.
 Skirlough, Robert Robinson.
 Sutton-on-Trent, B. Johnson.
 Stafford, John Allwood.
 Skelton, T. Taylor.
 Sturry, Jas. Pysden.
 Swaffham, Thomas Bunn.
 Spalding, Benjamin Rhodes.

Stoke-on-Trent, Ramley.
 Sharnford, R. Thacker.
 Scorton, George Willis.
 Sanquhar, J. Colvin.
 Sea View, E. W. Mathews.
 St. Ives, Thomas Cogar.
 Swinefleet, F. Faulding.
 Stockton-on-Tees, J. Willan.
 Salisbury, J. Fulford, Tea Dealer, Catherine Street.
 Southwick, C. Brumwell, Druggist.
 Sunderland, J. Young, 209, High Street.
 Sandwich, S. Taylor, Grocer, King Street.
 Torrington, J. D. Bastard.
 Tredgar, J. Lewis, Post Office.
 Tattershall, H. Souby, Grocer and Draper.
 Thurso, Messrs. Lowe and Monro.
 Tyn-y-Grois, Wm. Williams.
 Tregaron, Edward Evans.
 Towcester, J. D. Hurfurt, Bookseller.
 Tavistock, J. Dickson.

Towyn, T. Lloyd.
 Talgarth, R. Jones.
 Tillicultry, J. Cowie, Merchant.
 Thurrock, Thomas Winnett.
 Upleatham, M. Rowell.
 Upper Mill, Joseph Platt.
 Weldon, John Cooper.
 Wilsden, Jacob Scott.
 Wallop, T. Neil.
 West Bromwich, W. Shorthouse, Hill Top.
 Watlington, John Green.
 Welton, John Smith.
 Worcester, John Ranford, York St.
 Wallingford, C. J. Venimore.
 Westbury, Ann Howell.
 Waltham-le-Willows, G. H. Newson.
 Yarmouth, Samuel Ives, Howard St.
 Yniscedwyn, J. Bowen.
 Youghal, E. and A. Merrick, Main Street.
 Yetholm, R. Laidlow, Tea Dealer, &c.

All applications to be addressed to JOHN CASSELL, ABCHURCH-LANE, LONDON.

TESTIMONIAL to MR. BUCKINGHAM.

The friends of Mr. Buckingham, desirous of following up the step taken by the Members of the British and Foreign Institute, who have subscribed to present to him a TESTIMONIAL of their respect for his character, and acknowledgment of his services, invite the public at large to assist them in the accomplishment of their object.

The amount of the Testimonial will be devoted to the creation of a Public Lecture Room in London, for Mr. Buckingham's use and benefit, in which he may have an opportunity of following up those literary and philanthropic labours, to which the greater portion of his life has been devoted in India and in England, and for his faithful conduct; in which, it is well known that he has suffered large pecuniary losses, for which he has never been compensated.

Besides the peculiar services rendered by Mr. Buckingham to the cause of Free Trade, in advocating the opening of India and China to British commerce, at a time when its principles and advantages were far less generally understood than at present, there is scarcely any public movement connected with political, moral, or social reform, in which he has not taken an active part, both by his pen and his tongue, in Parliament during the six years in which he represented Sheffield, and in public meetings elsewhere; especially in pleading for the rights of seamen against the cruel and unjust practice of impressment; for freedom to the slave; for parks, museums, libraries, and schools for the working classes and the poor; for a revision of our unequal system of taxation; for the suppression of duelling in England, and widow-burning in India; and, above all, for the promotion of education, temperance, benevolence, and peace.

Mr. Buckingham has lived to see almost all the great objects for which he has written and spoken for the last thirty years accomplished; but is now, with advancing age and, necessarily, declining vigour, without an adequate provision for that period of life which he must speedily pass. Among the millions of hearers and readers who have derived pleasure from his lectures and writings, and among the thousands who are reaping the benefits of his public labours and private sacrifices, it ought not to be difficult to raise a sum, without inconveniencing any party by large payments, that should at once testify a nation's gratitude, and give honour and satisfaction to one to whom it is due.

Mr. Buckingham, it is well known, has no desire to pass even his old age in idleness; nor would he, it is believed, accept of any pecuniary advantage on condition of labouring no longer for the public good. Both the conviction of its being a duty, and the habit of enjoying it as a pleasure, confirm him in the wish to do this as long as he may live; and all that is asked for him by his friends, and those who take an interest in his welfare, is, that he shall be placed in a position to do this efficiently, without the anxieties and toil of the wandering life which is now his only resource for subsistence.

It can hardly be doubted, that the country generally will readily assist towards the accomplishment of so just, so reasonable, and so useful a mode of uniting compensation for past services with the means of securing and facilitating future labours for the public good. Other labourers in the field of commercial and social reform have been magnificently rewarded by the public at large; and it is hoped that one of the earliest, steadiest, and most persevering of these labourers, who, in addition to thirty years of almost incessant activity, has also made larger pecuniary sacrifices for the promotion of the public interests than any of his contemporaries, will not be neglected or forgotten.

	£	s.	d.
Amount advertised in our last.....	553	0	6
SUBSCRIPTIONS SINCE RECEIVED.
The Temperance Society of Dundee.....	5	5	0
Patrick Watson, Esq., Dundee.....	1	1	0
Robert Appleby, Esq., Stockton-on-Tees.....	5	5	0
The Temperance Society of Paisley.....	5	5	0
Thomas Arthur Hope, Esq., Liverpool.....	10	10	0
William Rathbone, Esq., Liverpool.....	5	5	0
Sir Arnold J. Knight, Liverpool.....	5	5	0
Richard Rathbone, Esq., Liverpool.....	5	5	0
Richard Vaughan Yates, Esq., Liverpool.....	5	5	0
The Peace Society of Liverpool.....	5	5	0
Rev. J. S. Nowson, Liverpool.....	5	5	0
James Muspratt, Esq., Liverpool.....	10	10	0
Edward Baines, jun., Leeds.....	5	5	0
Richard Cobden, M.P.....	10	10	0
John Bright, M.P.....	5	5	0
John Cassell, London.....	5	5	0
M. M. Monro, Esq., Enfield.....	1	0	0
Subscriptions continue to be received at the Bank of Messrs. Ransom and Co., in the name and for the account of the Earl of Devon, as President and Treasurer of the Testimonial Fund; and also at the office of the "Teetotal Times."
DEVON, President and Treasurer. J. W. BRETT, Honorary Secretary.
2, Hanover-square.

Single copies of the TEETOTAL TIMES AND ESSAYIST will be sent regularly, post free, to every Subscriber of ONE SHILLING, per annum, in advance. Societies and individuals desirous of availing themselves of this very economical and efficient mode of advocating Teetotalism will be supplied with copies at 6s. per hundred, which will be sent to them free, either in parcels, or in single copies, to persons whose name may be furnished. Thus a subscription of three shillings will ensure the sending of important information to fifty individuals, or to one hundred, if six shillings be subscribed.

TO POSTMASTERS.

This Journal is privileged to be sent postage free to every part of the United Kingdom, and we have the authority of the secretary of the General Post Office for stating "that Agents may be employed in Great Britain and Ireland, for the sale of JERSEY Newspapers; and that such Newspapers may be forwarded by Post to any extent, either singly, or in parcels, provided the parcel is open at the ends. They may afterwards be re-posted for any part of the United Kingdom, free of Postage, and for such of the Colonies to which there are Mail Packets, but in the latter case the re-posting must take place within seven days after the date of publication of the Newspaper."

Printed and Published for the Proprietor, by RICHARD GOSSET at his Office, No. 20, Queen-Street, St. Helier's, Jersey; and WILLIAM BRITAIN, 54, Paternoster-Row, London.

SATURDAY, April 1, 1848.

THE

TEETOTAL TIMES

AND ESSAYIST.

PUBLISHED MONTHLY.

No. V. NEW SERIES.]

JERSEY, MAY, 1848.

[PRICE ONE PENNY.]

“THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM.”

To the Friends of RELIGIOUS, POLITICAL, and COMMERCIAL FREEDOM throughout the world—to all who are opposed to INTOLERANCE, the GIBBET, INTEMPERANCE, WAR, and all other systems which degrade, demoralize, brutalize and destroy Mankind.

FRIENDS:—

On Friday, July 2, it is my intention to issue the first Number of a new WEEKLY PAPER, to be entitled, “THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM.” It will be printed on paper of the utmost dimensions allowed by law, and larger than the double sheet of the Times newspaper; price 4½d. per Number, or 4s. 9d. per Quarter, paid in advance.

In making this announcement I rely with the fullest confidence upon the support of those friends of the TEMPERANCE REFORMATION throughout the United Kingdom who sympathize with me in my political views; and, assisted by them, I hope to carry on this undertaking with vigour and success, gigantic though it may appear. I design the Standard of Freedom to be not only the advocate of entire Liberty of Conscience, and the complete disenthralment of RELIGION from the control of the Civil Power;—of the POLITICAL rights of the People, just representation and equitable taxation;—freedom of COMMERCE from all injurious monopolies and imposts;—but, also, the strenuous and dauntless advocate of the TEMPERANCE REFORMATION, as the most important, astonishing and salutary movement of the age in which we live. For this purpose I shall secure the aid of the most intelligent writers on the Temperance Question: writers who can so exhibit and enforce its claims, as to commend it to the judgment, the conscience, and the affections of all Christian and Philanthropic men.

Such a medium of communication with the public has long been accounted a desideratum. The Friends of Temperance justly regard it as the greatest reformation that has dawned upon the world since the introduction of Christianity. They know how intimately it is connected with the success and utility of all the great Institutions of our country—with the true elevation and happiness of the people, in all their Social, Political and Religious relations. They are satisfied that unless the population of a country be strictly sober, Trade and Commerce cannot greatly flourish—full Political Freedom cannot be safely enjoyed—Social and Domestic Comfort can be held by no secure tenure—while vital Religion must languish, and be materially obstructed in its progress through the world. TEETOTALISM,—as it is technically termed,—is regarded by its friends as a moral Railway for the more rapid transit of those powerful engines, Education—Sanitary Reform—the amelioration of the Criminal Code—the enlargement of the Elective Franchise—the abolition of Slavery—Peace—Christian Missions—and every instrumentality by which poverty, crime and misery may be banished from the earth. Hence they have frequently expressed their desire that wider scope might be afforded for the exhibition of the Temperance system, in all its comprehensiveness, splendour and blessedness. For, zealously and successfully as its numerous advocates have employed themselves, it is still a melancholy fact that this mighty system, pregnant as it is with innumerable blessings, has not hitherto received that support from the PUBLIC PRESS which it may legitimately claim. If the doings of Teetotalers have occasionally been chronicled, it has been,—with some few honourable exceptions,—more with a design to hold them up to contempt, than to cheer them on in their arduous course.

A medium of communication with the Public, such as the Friends of Temperance have so long wished for, I have now the honour of announcing; and it is for them to determine whether they will adequately support a WEEKLY JOURNAL issued by one of themselves. I need scarcely state, that I have been connected with the Temperance Movement for thirteen years. In addition to an unflinching advocacy of its principle in various parts of the Kingdom, I have sent forth, during the last two years, a very large amount of Temperance literature, at the lowest possible rate of charge. Besides my monthly periodical the “Teetotal Times,” which has obtained an unprecedented circulation, I have issued nearly two hundred thousand copies of the “Teetotal Essayist,” containing Original Essays on the chief bearings of our great question, for most of which I paid Premiums of TEN POUNDS each. I have also issued many hundred thousand Tracts, Essays, and other publications,—many of them gratuitously, through which a vast amount of information has been communicated to Christian Ministers, Magistrates, Gentlemen, and others, who otherwise would have known little or nothing of our principles or operations.

I speak not thus boastingly, but to remind you that I have not been an uninterested or inactive member of your Body.

At the same time, however, that TEMPERANCE will receive its due share of attention, the STANDARD OF FREEDOM will be, to all intents and purposes, A NEWSPAPER. All the striking events which may occur from week to week, throughout the world, will be duly recorded and arranged; in a compendious and instructive form. The Original LEADING ARTICLES will embrace every topic of real interest, and will be written in a vigorous, terse and sparkling style, so as to fix the attention of the reader, and arouse his most serious thoughts.—As a FAMILY PAPER, it will not be surpassed for interest and utility. Literature and Science; Arts and Manufactures; Agriculture, Trade, and Commerce, will receive appropriate notice; so that, altogether, it will prove, in the strict sense of the term, a PAPER FOR THE PEOPLE; a Journal devoted to their social, political, moral and religious elevation.

The Standard of Freedom, be it remembered, will be larger than the double Times newspaper. And to make its contents in every respect worthy the support of all who are attached to the principles of Religious, Political and Commercial Freedom, a powerful staff of writers, at a heavy weekly expense independent of the Editorship, is engaged, so that the intelligence and talent developed in the various topics discussed, will be unsurpassed by any portion of the London Press.

If it be asked, how can complete success be secured for such a gigantic undertaking, I answer, by every individual who wishes it success, exerting himself with promptitude and perseverance to render that success certain. To this end every Subscriber for a copy will powerfully contribute; or two or three may unite to take a copy, and thus lend their valuable support. Friends and acquaintances may also be induced to become Subscribers; while every Temperance Reading Room and Committee Room, and every Temperance Hotel and Coffee House may be furnished with a copy. These are modes of assisting me which are easy of adoption, and which, if not neglected, will materially contribute to the success of the undertaking, and to the speedier triumph of the great cause with which we are identified.

In CONCLUSION, then, allow me to urge you to make the enterprize in which I have embarked your own. As the friends of unqualified Temperance, you have had to exhibit no ordinary energy and decision of character and procedure. Let but a measure of that energy and decision be displayed in behalf of the Standard of Freedom, and around it will continually rally a noble host of the good and great, while its onward progress will denote the march of Intelligence, Peace, and Temperance, and of every humanizing and Godlike system.

JOHN CASSELL.

•• All communications to be addressed to JOHN CASSELL, 22, Abchurch Lane, London.

Enlarged Edition.—Seventh Thousand.
THE HISTORY OF THE ORIGIN AND SUCCESS OF THE ADVOCACY OF THE PRINCIPLE OF TOTAL ABSTINENCE FROM ALL INTOXICATING LIQUORS.—By JAMES TEARE, one of the originators of the Total Abstinence System.

"It is, we think, a shame to any man, not to have made himself acquainted with the rise of the great temperance reform of this country; and from whom could so faithful a sketch be expected as from the pen of one whose fidelity is above all suspicion." "This history will remain a record to be consulted in future times, when this great English Apostrophe shall be gathered to his fathers."—National Temperance Chronicle.

"We would ask, is every teetotaler's library furnished with a copy?—if not, then it is incomplete."—Bristol Temperance Herald.

LONDON:—Charles Gilpin, Bishopgate-street Without; and all Booksellers.—PRICE SIXPENCE.

TEMPERANCE HOTEL, LONDON.
PERSONS VISITING LONDON will find comfortable accommodation at WATT'S TEMPERANCE HOTEL, 17, Catherine-street, Strand, near Somerset House. The Times and Morning Post newspapers to be disposed of next morning at half-price.—Please copy the address.

IPSWICH JUVENILE TEMPERANCE BOOKS. There are 32 Books, 3s. 6d., with wood cuts. IPSWICH TEMPERANCE TRACTS.

There are 100 Tracts, TWENTY OF WHICH ARE JUST PRINTED—several with wood cuts. Of Books ten thousand packets, and of Tracts nine million pages have been issued. Both Books and Tracts are sold in sixpenny packets separately or assorted.

The assorted Books are comprised in two—the Tracts in four packets. 50 packets of either delivered in London for a guinea, sent by Post Office Order to Richard Dykes Alexander, Ipswich, of whom a Catalogue may be had.

Simpkin and Marshall, London.

This day is published, price THREEPENCE.
THE CHRISTIAN ASPECT OF TEETOTALISM. By Rev. SAMUEL G. GREEN, B.A. Taunton. Benjamin L. Green, 62, Paternoster Row, London.

TO TEMPERANCE SOCIETIES.
SOCIETIES WISHING TO ENGAGE MRS. STAMP, may communicate with Dr. COLLENETTE, Guernsey.

THE TEETOTAL ESSAYIST; or Monthly Temperance Standard, for 1847. London: W. Brittain, Paternoster-Row.

This may now be had complete, price ONE SHILLING.

CONTENTS:

Teetotalism essential to the Elevation of the Working Classes. By D. G. PAINE.

The Temperance Movement in its important bearings on the Sanitary condition of the People. By THOMAS BEGGS.

Total Abstinence from strong drinks important to Female Honour and Happiness. By D. G. PAINE.

Tom Rudge and his friend; shewing what Tom lost by "that last glass of Brandy and Water." By Mrs. S. C. HALL.

Appeal to Females, in behalf of the Total Abstinence movement. By Dr. E. NOTT, President of Union College, New York.

The Worn Thimble; or a Story of Woman's Duty and Woman's Influence. By Mrs. S. C. HALL.

Important Medical Testimony; with several hundred signatures.

Christian Duty; or the importance of the Temperance Reformation in connexion with the maintenance and spread of Christianity. By F. W. WHEELER, Missionary.

The Moral Obligation of Total Abstinence. By EVAN JONES.

Intemperance the Antagonist of Education. By W. R. BAKER.

The Duty of Sabbath School Teachers, in regard to Total Abstinence. By EVAN JONES.

Reasons why Sabbath School Teachers should be Teetotalers. By MICHAEL YOUNG.

Bearings of the Temperance question on the interest of the Young. By W. REID.

The Drinking system and Juvenile Delinquency. By THOMAS BEGGS.

Aids to the Evangelical Alliance in its enquiry as to the connexion between Infidelity and Teetotalism. With testimonies from upwards of SEVENTY Ministers and Gentlemen.

The Evils of Moderate Drinking. By EVAN JONES.

The Inconsistency of those Christians and Philanthropists who sanction the use of Intoxicating Liquors. By D. G. PAINE.

Address to Moderate Drinkers. By ELIHU BURRITT.

The Temperance Movement:—its past history—present position—future prospects and connexion with other great movements of the age. By THOMAS BEGGS.

It will be seen that this forms the most interesting and important publication that has ever been issued from the Temperance Press. As but very few sets remain on hand, an early application will be necessary. A copy will be sent, post free, to any person remitting twelve postage stamps, to JOHN CASSELL, 22, Abchurch Lane, London.

JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEES,

OF SURPASSING STRENGTH AND RICHNESS OF FLAVOUR.

THE object of JOHN CASSELL in appointing AGENTS in every locality throughout the United Kingdom, is to afford full facility to Families for the purchase of Coffees of truly rich and mellow-flavoured mountain growths; and this, not at exorbitant rates, but at prices ordinarily paid for very inferior descriptions. The enormous demand already created, demonstrates that the inhabitants of those towns into which these delicious Coffees have been introduced, duly appreciate the effort which JOHN CASSELL has made to supply an article of the character above stated, and which enters so largely into the consumption of every Family.

The following are the PRICES at which any quantity, from two ounces to one pound, may be obtained:—

John Cassell's Coffee, No. 1. . . . . 1s. 4d.

An excellent article.

John Cassell's Coffee, No. 2. . . . . 1s. 8d.

Cannot fail to give great satisfaction, being a combination of the choicest growths of Jamaica, possessing richness, strength, and flavour.

John Cassell's Coffee, No. 3. . . . . 2s. 0d.

To every connoisseur in Coffee, this will prove a treat, combining the finest mountain growths of both Jamaica and Turkey.

OBSERVE.—Every packet of JOHN CASSELL'S Coffee bears his signature, without which none is genuine.

“GOOD COFFEE!” WHAT IS IT?

It is not that bitter, stringent article which grows on the wilds of Ceylon; nor is it merely an article of a light, pleasant flavour, but destitute of strength. It is a combination of the world's MOUNTAIN GROWTHS, and possesses the following qualities: strong but mellow, having a rich aromatic fragrance and flavour. To have really good Coffee, the best mountain growths must be selected, and judiciously combined, by an experienced hand: they must be roasted upon scientific principles, so that the vegetable oil may not be injured, but the berry retain those properties which render a good cup of Coffee so pleasant to the palate, and so exhilarating to the nervous system. It is because they possess these qualities in the highest degree, that JOHN CASSELL'S Coffees are in such great repute. Let all who wish to obtain such articles in perfection purchase these Coffees, and their constant patronage will be secured.

A SUPPLY ADEQUATE TO THE DEMAND.

There was, for a short time, a difficulty in supplying the numerous and large orders daily sent in from every part of the kingdom. To meet every exigency, however, powerful machinery has been put into requisition. The Roasting, Dressing, Grinding, and Packing of JOHN CASSELL'S Coffees are conducted on the most approved scientific principles, and with wonderful despatch. Each Package forms a handsome Catty, lined with lead, so that the aroma and essential oil,—which constitute the excellence of a cup of really GOOD COFFEE,—are most effectually preserved.

THE AGENCY FOR JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE.

A considerable number of AGENTS have already been appointed. It is intended to increase their number to Two Thousand, so as to keep up a constant supply of fresh roasted and fresh ground Coffee. Persons desirous of securing this valuable Agency are requested to make immediate application. JOHN CASSELL is sorry that disappointment has been experienced in numerous instances, by persons who have not succeeded in obtaining the Agency. This has arisen from the circumstance of numerous applications coming from the same town or locality; and it is a principle with JOHN CASSELL not to appoint a second Agent who may, in the least degree, interfere with the interest of the first.

All applications to be addressed to JOHN CASSELL, ABCHURCH-LANE, LONDON.

[Proprietors of Newspapers who will insert the two following Advertisements, on forwarding the copy of their Paper containing them, shall receive THREE COPIES of the Ritual of Freemasonry, FREE, by Post.]

PEOPLE'S EDITION,---THIRD THOUSAND,

CLOTH, 2s. 6d. ;---

A RITUAL AND ILLUSTRATIONS OF FREEMASONRY, and the ODD FELLOWS' and ORANGE SOCIETIES, with numerous Engravings of the Signs of Brotherhood, &c. ; also an account of the KIDNAPPING and MURDER of WILLIAM MORGAN, who divulged the ridiculous and profane usages of the Freemasons,—BY A TRAVELLER IN THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

The Publisher has published this Edition at this greatly reduced price to make this ridiculous and profane secret public, with a view to induce its abandonment.

"The work, though some of its details are staggering, bears internal marks of authenticity; such as cannot, we think, create doubts in any minds, excepting those of a very sceptical order; and the disclosures it makes are such as cannot fail to produce a conviction of the ill-tendency of such institutions, in all well-disciplined and serious minds.—The numerous plates it contains aid the general impression of disgust the descriptions are calculated to give. We knew not till now, that anything so complete on the subjects discussed had ever met the public eye; all seems to be thrown open to view—and the sight is one at which the heart sickens. In some ceremonies, Holy Scripture is so used and perverted, as to render it shocking and impious—a reverence for the sacred volume compels us to make the statement."—Methodist New Connexion Magazine.

"We had no idea that 'Freemasonry' was such a compound of folly and profaneness.—All who wish to become acquainted with the works of darkness, perpetrated by Freemasons, Odd Fellows, and Orangemen, will find abundant information in this volume. Unless shame has ceased to be the companion of folly and guilt, we should suppose that this exposure will go far to annihilate their disgraceful existence."—Christian Advocate.

"This is a remarkable production, and must, for many reasons, command a large amount of public attention.—We have examined this volume with feelings of painful interest; and we recommend the reflecting public to read it soon and with care.—Universe

Sent post free, by Thorne, Shebbear, Devon, on receipt of 36 Postage stamps.—Unpaid letters not attended to.—Prospectus and Notices of the work sent on receipt of a Postage stamp.

JUST PUBLISHED ;—2 vols. 8vo. Cloth, 10s., (less than half the original Price.)—

THE HISTORY OF THE CHURCH AND COURT OF ROME; from the establishment of Christianity under Constantine to the present time. A new Edition, Enlarged and Corrected.—By the Rev. H. C. O'DONNOGHUE, A.M.

"It is a valuable digest of most important information, on a topic which is every day exciting the serious and prayerful attention of all classes of the Reformed community. We most cordially wish unbounded success to the undertaking."—Wesleyan Methodist Magazine.

"We do not remember any other work which contains so condensed and complete a history of Romanism; it is desirable that a copy of it should be in the Library of every Sabbath school, and that it should have a very extensive circulation."—Wesleyan Association Magazine.

"It embraces a comprehensive and well-digested narrative of the Romish Church. We feel warranted in cordially commending the work to the favourable attention of our readers."—Watchman.

"The corruption of Christianity on its union with the state under Constantine, the introduction of clerical celibacy, of Monarchism, and all the long train of corrupt usages and unsound doctrines, and the long succession of crafty and tyrannical assumptions which led to the full establishment of the papal power as it existed in the year 606, are narrated with great perspicuity, truthfulness, and impartiality.—A highly acceptable narrative, and one that will, if received as it deserves, be extensively read."—Wesleyan.

"We heartily recommend the work, as containing, in a small compass, and at a small cost, a clear and comprehensive digest of the evils of popery, which should have a place in every Family, Circuit, and Sunday school Library."—Bible Christian Magazine.

THORNE, SHEBBEAR :—PARTRIDGE & OAKEY, —J. MASON, LONDON.

TWELFTH THOUSAND.

INTEMPERANCE THE IDOLATRY OF BRITAIN. By the Rev. W. R. BAKER, author of "The Curse of Britain, &c." It is admitted by the most eminent of the religious reviewers, as well as by all who have read it that there never was a work upon the Temperance Question more calculated to carry conviction to the mind of a thoughtful reader as the danger and iniquity of the drinking system. That it may have a very extensive circulation, this new and revised edition is published at THREEPENCE;—the price of the former editions was 2s. 6d. The usual allowance will be made to Societies, or persons taking a quantity.

DR. NOTT'S LECTURES.

NATURE AND PROVIDENCE.

REPLYING TO THE QUESTION

WHAT IS THE DUTY OF MAN IN RELATION TO THE USE OF INTOXICATING LIQUORS. In four eloquent and powerful LECTURES, by ELIPHALET NOTT, D.D., L.L.D., President of Union College, New York. Carefully revised, with an Appendix. In 32 very closely printed pages, crown octavo. Price ONE PENNY.

THE BEST OF MEN SOMETIMES IN

ERROR. By ARCHDEACON JEFFREYS, of Bombay. The object of this incomparable Essay is to show that the advocates of the Total Abstinence System have the full warrant of Scripture for their labour of mercy and love. The style in which this sentiment is reasoned is such as to carry conviction to all who profess to be influenced by the law of love. 1s. 4d, per 100.

LIVESEY'S famous MALT LECTURES.

Including a complete exposure of the great delusion as to the properties of Malt Liquors. Formerly published at Sixpence. A new edition for ONE PENNY.

W. BRITAIN, 54, Paternoster Row, London.

Single copies of the TEETOTAL TIMES AND ESSAYIST will be sent regularly, post free, to every Subscriber of ONE SHILLING, per annum, in advance. Societies and individuals desirous of availing themselves of this very economical and efficient mode of advocating Teetotalism will be supplied with copies at 6s. per hundred, which will be sent to them free, either in parcels, or in single copies, to persons whose name may be furnished. There a subscription of three shillings will ensure the sending of important information to fifty individuals, or to one hundred, if six shillings be subscribed.

TO POSTMASTERS.

This Journal is privileged to be sent postage free to every part of the United Kingdom, and we have the authority of the Secretary of the General Post Office for stating "that Agents may be employed in Great Britain and Ireland, for the sale of JERSEY Newspapers; and that such Newspapers may be forwarded by Post to any extent, either singly, or in parcels, provided the parcel is open at the ends. They may afterwards be re-posted for any part of the United Kingdom, free of Postage, and for such of the Colonies to which there are Mail Packets, but in the latter case the re-posting must take place within seven days after the date of publication of the Newspaper."

Printed and Published for the Proprietor, by RICHARD GOSSET, at his Office, No. 20, Queen-Street, St. Helier's, Jersey; and WILLIAM BRITAIN, 54, Paternoster-Row, London.

MONDAY, May 1, 1848.

THE
TEETOTAL TIMES
AND ESSAYIST.

PUBLISHED MONTHLY.

NO. VI. NEW SERIES.]

JERSEY, JUNE, 1848.

[PRICE ONE PENNY.]

THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM.

BJENAMIN LEPARD GREEN, 62, Paternoster Row, will be happy to supply the above Newspaper. Those who are desirous of favouring him with their orders, should send them immediately, as there is every appearance of an extraordinary demand. Terms, 4s. 9d. per Quarter paid in advance.

THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM.

THE FRIENDS OF POLITICAL, COMMERCIAL AND RELIGIOUS LIBERTY who are desirous of taking this Paper, are respectfully informed that WILLIAM BRITAIN, will be happy to execute all orders which may be entrusted to him, with promptitude and regularity. The price of the "Standard of Freedom" will be 4d. per number, or 4s. 9d. per Quarter paid in advance.

Temperance Depot, 54, Paternoster Row London.

THE NEW WEEKLY JOURNAL,

THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM.

THE Inhabitants of Manchester and its vicinity are respectfully informed, that ABEL HEYWOOD, Oldham Street, has made arrangements for supplying the "Standard of Freedom"; a Journal which for the clear and vigorous enunciation of the great principles of Liberty; Political, Commercial and Religious, will not be surpassed by any of the Metropolitan Journals. Price 4d. per Number, or 4s. 9d. per Quarter paid in advance.

MRS. STAMP.

THE SERVICES OF THIS DISTINGUISHED ADVOCATE OF TEMPERANCE, may be obtained on application to Mr. JOHN DAVIES, Builder, 128, Lillington-street, Vauxhall, Bride Road; Westminster; or at her town residence, No. 2, Rutland Street, Sydney Square, Commercial Road, Whitechapel.

* The Lectures and Addresses delivered by Mrs. STAMP have been eminently useful, in the Metropolis, in various part of the Country, and in the Channel Islands, where great additions have been made to the Society.

TO TEMPERANCE SOCIETIES.

SOCIETIES WISHING TO ENGAGE MRS. STAMP, may communicate with Dr. COLLENETTE, Guernsey.

WANTED—AS COACHMAN AND GROOM.

A YOUNG MAN, unmarried and a Teetotaler, who perfectly understands his business and the management of horses. None need apply who cannot be furnished with an unexceptionable character. Apply by letter to F., at No. 5, Bishopgate-street, Without, London.

IPSWICH JUVENILE TEMPERANCE BOOKS. There are 32 Books, 32mo., with wood cuts.

IPSWICH TEMPERANCE TRACTS.

There are 100 Tracts, TWENTY OF WHICH ARE JUST PRINTED—several with wood cuts. Of Books ten thousand packets, and of Tracts nine million pages have been issued. Both Books and Tracts are sold in sixpenny packets separately or assorted.

The assorted Books are comprised in two—the Tracts in four packets. 50 packets of either delivered in London for a guinea, sent by Post Office Order to Richard Dykes Alexander, Ipswich, of whom a Catalogue may be had.

Simplin and Marshall, London.

Just published, price 3d.

THE AGE THATS COMING; or the MODEL PARISH the hope of the nation; by PETER BURNE, Author of the "Teetotalers Companion."

"In the Countries I have visited I never saw a city, or a village yet, where miseries were not in proportion to the number of Public Houses."—Goldsmith.

London, Arthur Hall and Co., and all Booksellers.

Now ready, containing 70 closely printed pages, price 8d.

THE great Medical Discussion on Teetotalism held at Dunrow on the evenings of the 20th and 21st of April 1847, between R. E. Grindrod L.L.D., and William Cock, Esq. M.R.C.S., and J. Coventry Esq. M.R.C.S. London: Hall and Co., Paternoster-Row; Ipswich, Burton, and all booksellers.

Price 2d. or by post 3d.

CAUTIONS AND TESTIMONY AGAINST ODD FELLOWSHIP, by H. MUDGE, Surgeon, Bodmin.

Also, price 2s. or by post 2s. 6d., by the same author,

EXPOSURE OF ODD FELLOWSHIP;

Showing its immoral tendency and bankrupt circumstances, and containing as well a large amount of information on the subject of Friendly Societies.

WHITTAKER, London; LIDDELL, Bodmin.

THE TEETOTAL ESSAYIST; or Monthly

Temperance Standard, for 1847. London: W. Brittain, Paternoster-Row.

This may now be had complete, price ONE SHILLING.

CONTENTS:

Teetotalism essential to the Elevation of the Working Classes. By D. G. PAINE.

The Temperance Movement in its important bearings on the Sanitary condition of the People. By THOMAS BEGGS.

Total Abstinence from strong drinks important to Female Honour and Happiness. By D. G. PAINE.

Tom Rudge and his friend; shewing what Tom lost by "that last glass of Brandy and Water." By Mrs. S. C. HALL.

Appeal to Females, in behalf of the Total Abstinence movement. By Dr. E. NOTT, President of Union College, New York.

The Worn Thimble; a Story of Woman's Duty and Woman's Influence. By Mrs. S. C. HALL.

Important Medical Testimony; with several hundred signatures.

Christian Duty; or the importance of the Temperance Reformation in connexion with the maintenance and spread of Christianity. By F. W. WHEELER, Missionary.

The Moral Obligation of Total Abstinence. By EVAN JONES.

Intemperance the Antagonist of Education. By W. R. BAKER.

The Duty of Sabbath School Teachers, in regard to Total Abstinence. By EVAN JONES.

Reasons why Sabbath School Teachers should be Teetotalers. By MICHAEL YOUNG.

Bearings of the Temperance question on the interest of the Young. By W. REID.

The Drinking system and Juvenile Delinquency. By THOMAS BEGGS.

Aids to the Evangelical Alliance in its enquiry as to the connexion between Infidelity and Teetotalism. With testimonies from upwards of SEVENTY Ministers and Gentlemen.

The Evils of Moderate Drinking. By EVAN JONES.

The Inconsistency of those Christians and Philanthropists who sanction the use of Intoxicating Liquors. By D. G. PAINE.

Address to Moderate Drinkers. By ELIHU BURRITT.

The Temperance Movement—its past history—present position—future prospects and connexion with other great movements of the age. By THOMAS BEGGS.

It will be seen that this forms the most interesting and important publication that has ever been issued from the Temperance Press. As but very few sets remain on hand, an early application will be necessary. A copy will be sent, post free, to any person remitting twelve postage stamps, to JOHN CASSELL, 22, Abchurch Lane, London.

PROSPECTUS OF A NEW WEEKLY JOURNAL,
“THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM;”

THE ADVOCATE OF
 POLITICAL, COMMERCIAL AND RELIGIOUS LIBERTY, EQUITABLE TAXATION AND RETRENCHMENT.

NEVER was there a time which more urgently required energetic and appropriate representatives in the public press than that in which we live. If all that has been hitherto accomplished for truth, and freedom, and progress, have found fit echoes, there is a wider field and a more peremptory necessity for that onward-encouraging voice which is to prepare the way for their future, peaceful, but vast development. We must start anew from the goal which has been already won. We must move with the tide, which is now advancing with such majestic and accelerated power. Everywhere the people are awakened—or awaking—feeling their strength—asserting their rights—establishing their liberties; and the people of this country, always first and foremost in the enduring struggle for all that honours and exalts a nation—the people of this country will be faithful to their noble mission.

But to prevent the aberrations of the thoughtless, and to counteract the schemes of the unworthy, a broad foundation must be laid on which the intelligent, the patriotic and the religious may raise the social edifices of reform and good government. The basis of coming legislation must be honest union and cordial co-operation between the middle classes who enjoy political privileges, and the toiling multitudes who are excluded from them. Their interests are common,—so should their action be! The complete emancipation of commerce from what remains of restriction and monopoly,—the disenthralment of religion from the fetters of the state,—the re-arrangement of our unjust and unequal taxation,—the diminution of our enormous public burthens,—the shortening of Parliaments,—the more effectual protection of the voter from undue dictation and the seductions of bribery; but above all, and as the security for all,—the great extension of the suffrage, are alike among the demands and the necessities of the times.

To be agreed as to the ends in view, and unanimous as to the means of accomplishment, are the first elements of successful effort. Our duty is, not to endanger the cause of truth and liberty by words and works of violence, but to associate that cause with the energies of wisdom and the might of irresistible argument,—to enlist in its services all knowledge and virtue and intelligence,—to avail ourselves of every honest auxiliary which a busy and inquiring age places at our disposal,—to connect with our labours all exertions for human improvement,—to assist in the attainment of political power all that are worthy of its exercise, and as speedily as may be to make all men worthy.

The path has been straightened before us. The valleys once filled with the enslaved and the humbled have been exalted, and the mountains have been brought low, where feudalism erected its standard of oppression, and a priestly hierarchy unfurled its intolerant banners. From his pride of place many a usurper has been compelled to descend, while redeemed millions have entered, and are entering upon their inheritance. The influence of will upon will has been enfeebled,—that of understanding upon understanding has been strengthened. The pillars of old authority are shaking. Inquiry is busy with the work of emancipation. Hence the sharp controversies which have at the same time instructed and improved the people. Hence the creation of a sounder public judgment, and a stronger popular power; an advancing education, exhibited in the various institutions for the instruction of every class of society; a humanising philosophy demanding a reform of our penal code, and the abolition of the punishment of death; a higher morality, displayed in the great temperance movement—these, and a hundred other noble purposes, characteristic of the age, have been elevating the individual, and slowly, but surely, preparing the community for important social and political changes.

As such changes are foreseen by the observing,—supported by the enlightened,—desired by the patriotic,—and necessitated by the irresistible current of events,—it is proposed to give them a new & a courageous ORGAN—one that shall present all the good that has been effected in the past, and march with the foremost of those who demand for the future that our institutions shall harmonise with the growing knowledge and liberalism of the era, and be marked by progress,—peaceful, but efficient progress.

On Saturday, July 1, JOHN CASSELL proposes to publish the first number of a Weekly Newspaper, to be called

“THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM.”

The price will be 4½d., or 4s. 9d. per quarter paid in advance. It will be printed on the largest sized paper allowed by law, exceeding the double sheet of the Times newspaper. Bearing the date of Saturday, it will be published on Friday evening, in time for the post, and will communicate the latest intelligence down to the hour of going to press. A Second Edition will be published on the Saturday morning for delivery in the metropolis, and to be forwarded by the morning mails of that day.

In the bold and faithful advocacy of every principle by which the freedom and happiness of society can be advanced—in the truthful and unflinching exposure of every abuse by which freedom is wronged and happiness impeded,—“THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM” will never be found wanting. Freedom—political, commercial, and religious freedom,—to these its homage will be paid, and its services devoted.

POLITICAL FREEDOM;

ADEQUATE REPRESENTATION, RETRENCHMENT, AND EQUITABLE TAXATION.

In the political field, a wide diffusion of political power—a great augmentation of the electoral body, will be insisted on as the only means for calming a growing agitation, and satisfying a justifiable discontent. While the powers of legislation are held by those who represent, not the interests of a wise economy, but of a wasteful expenditure—while the members sent by small constituencies can by their numbers annul the votes and drown the voices of those who convey the opinions of the largest electoral assemblies—while the conduct of the House of Commons demonstrates that the Reform Bill has failed to accomplish the objects it proposed, having given no adequate securities for peace, economy, or good government—while aristocratic influence has again possessed itself of the strong-

JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEES, OF SURPASSING STRENGTH AND RICHNESS OF FLAVOUR.

THE object of JOHN CASSELL in appointing AGENTS in every locality throughout the United Kingdom, is to afford full facility to Families for the purchase of Coffees of truly rich and mellow-flavoured mountain growths; and this, not at exorbitant rates, but at prices ordinarily paid for very inferior descriptions. The enormous demand already created, demonstrates that the inhabitants of those towns into which these delicious Coffees have been introduced, duly appreciate the effort which JOHN CASSELL has made to supply an article of the character above stated, and which enters so largely into the consumption of every Family.

The following are the PRICES at which any quantity, from two ounces to one pound, may be obtained:—

John Cassell's Coffee, No. 1. An excellent article.	1s. 4d.
John Cassell's Coffee, No. 2. Cannot fail to give great satisfaction, being a combination of the choicest growths of Jamaica, possessing richness, strength, and flavour.	1s. 8d.
John Cassell's Coffee, No. 3. To every connoisseur in Coffee, this will prove a treat, combining the finest mountain growths of both Jamaica and Turkey.	2s. 0d.

OBSERVE.—Every packet of JOHN CASSELL'S Coffee bears his signature, without which none is genuine.

THE AGENCY FOR JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE.

A considerable number of AGENTS have already been appointed. It is intended to increase their number to Two Thousand, so as to keep up a constant supply of fresh roasted and fresh ground Coffee. Persons desirous of securing this valuable Agency are requested to make immediate application. JOHN CASSELL is sorry that disappointment has been experienced in numerous instances, by persons who have not succeeded in obtaining the Agency. This has arisen from the circumstance of several applications coming from the same town or locality; and it is a principle with JOHN CASSELL not to appoint a second Agent who may, in the least degree, interfere with the interest of the first.

All applications to be addressed to JOHN CASSELL, ABCHURCH-LANE, LONDON.

WHITMONDAY EXCURSION, BY SPECIAL TRAIN.

TO IPSWICH AND BACK IN ONE DAY, 135 MILES.

THE directors of the INDEPENDENT ORDER OF REHABITÉS have much pleasure in informing their Friends and the Public that they have engaged a special train for their FOURTH ANNUAL EXCURSION, which will take place on WHITMONDAY, June 12th, 1848, to the important county town and sea-port of IPSWICH.

For the accommodation of the Company, Tea will be provided in the Temperance Hall at 4 o'clock. Tickets, 1s. each. Children under 12, Half-price.

The train will leave the Shoreditch Station at half-past 8 in the Morning, and will leave Ipswich at 7 in the Evening, thus allowing 8 hours to spent in Ipswich.

Tickets for the whole journey, 5s.—Children under 12, Half-price.

TO BE HAD OF

ASHDOWN, 20, George-street, Oxford-street.
 TOPLIS, 12, Grey-ct.-pl. Westminster.
 ANSCOMBE, 1, Vivian-terrace, Chelsea.
 BRITAIN, 53, Paternoster-row.
 HINCKLEY, Temperance-hotel, Blackman-st., Borough.

KNIGHT, Temperance-hotel, Broadway, Westminster.
 HART'S Hotel, Aldersgate-st.
 JACOBS, Temperance-hall, Gt. Carlisle-st. Portman-market.
 WAITS, Coffee-house, Catherine-st., Strand.
 T. A. SMITH, 10, Botwell-terrace, Lambeth.
 WILSON AND CAMPBELL, Blackfriars-road.

TEMPERANCE EXCURSION TO SOUTHEND AND BACK.

ON MONDAY, JUNE 26th, by that fast packet "THE COMET," under the direction of the Fitzroy Teetotal Association, to leave Hungerford Market Pier, at half-past 8 precisely, Southwark Bridge a quarter to nine, then proceed direct to Southend where the company will land for a considerable time. Meetings will be held on board and land. Vocal and instrumental music. Intoxicating drink is most strictly prohibited. Tickets 3s. each, pier dues included. Children under 12, 1s. 6d. May be had of Messrs. Miller, 23, Duke Street, Oxford St.; Pewis, Blackfriars Road; Draper, 88, Titchfield St.; Hart, 159, Aldersgate St.; Esterbrook, 3, Upper Crown St., Westminster; Chesham, 89, Leonard St., Shoreditch. An early application is requested, as the number is restricted.

Recently published, 2nd edition, price 6d.

AMY OF THE PEAK, or THE TRIUMPH OF PRINCIPLE.

"It is indeed a precious jewel encased in harmonious verse."—Theobald Mathew.

"Abounds with lofty sentiments."—Temperance Lever.

Also, just published, price 3s. 6d. with a frontispiece,

JOYS AND SORROWS, by the Authoress of Amy of the Peak.

"This delightful volume. It is a gem."—National Temperance Advocate.

London:—C. GILPIN, Bishopsgate.

Publishing on the 1st of every month, price one penny, post free.

THE TEMPERANCE GAZETTE; A MONTHLY JOURNAL OF MORAL AND SOCIAL PROGRESS. It contains 24 closely printed double-column pages, and is one of the cheapest, if not the cheapest periodical in the United Kingdom. Dr. Rowling, Dr. Bateman, Dr. Gordon, Dr. Gourley, and H. Clappe, Esq., of the "Lynn (W S) Pioneer" are numbered amongst its contributors.

A specimen No. will be sent gratis on the address of the party requiring it being forwarded to Mr. Richard Wakelin, West Bromwich, to whom all ORDERS and ADVERTISEMENTS should be addressed.

London: W. Brittain, Paternoster-row and all Booksellers.

LIVESEY'S famous MALT LECTURES.

including a complete exposure of the great delusion as to the properties of Malt Liquors. Formerly published at Sixpence. A new edition for ONE PENNY.

W. BRITAIN, 54, Paternoster Row, London.

CHEAP SODA WATER AND GINGER BEER.

SEND THE ADVERTISER TWENTY-FIVE POSTAGE STAMPS, who will return you, post free, a recipe by which you can make the best SODA WATER without machinery and with little trouble; also, a recipe by which you can make the very best GINGER BEER which will keep in a beautiful state for many months. Address J. WHITLEY, Mr. Tisdales, 5, Church Street, Kensington, London.

holds from which it appeared to have been dislodged,—there is no hope, there can be no hope for the interests, the paramount and permanent interests of the people, until these interests are really, and truly, and directly represented in parliament. It will be only then that the corruption and intimidation which are now polluting and controlling the whole electoral system can be checked; it will be only then that the representative will be made responsible to his constituents, and his constituents be protected in the exercise of their rights; it will be then alone that the extension of public benefits will bring with it the proper distribution of public burthens—that the weak will be relieved from their intolerable portion by its fair transfer to the shoulders of the strong—that effect will be given to a rigid and searching financial reform—that services will be recompensed, not according to the influence and rank of the functionary, but the value of the duties done—in a word, that the revenues of the state will be collected on principles of equity, and disbursed on principles of economy. A nation should, indeed, dispose of the best services of its best citizens, but it should obtain them at the smallest cost.

COMMERCIAL FREEDOM.

Commercial freedom, aided by a mighty organization originating among the middle and manufacturing classes, but finally embracing the working multitudes has begun its career of triumphs. But the territory that has been gained from restriction, prohibition, and monopoly must be maintained and made the point of departure for other conquests. There still exist many impediments to freedom of interchange both at home and abroad. They must be removed. Many markets are inaccessible to us, whether as buyers or sellers. They must be reached. The genius of free trade is not national, it is universal. It represents the interests not of a people, but of mankind. It bears in one hand the cornucopia of prosperity, and in the other the olive-branch of peace. It will be both the duty and delight of "THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM" to aid its progress.

RELIGIOUS FREEDOM.

As the champion of religious liberty, "THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM" will occupy high and unmissable ground. It will contend for the inalienable right of every human being to form, to express, to advance every opinion which does not enroach upon the rights of others. It will claim for religion, in all her forms and complexions, more than the privilege to be heard. Her rights exist not by sufferance or toleration—they are superior in man's control. They must not be subjected to the humiliation of state interference, still less to the degradation of state patronage. The eye of the law should see, the language of the law should recognize, no sectarian distinctions, whether of penalty or preference. The emancipation of religion from the frowns and favours of the state should be absolute and entire. The religious conscience must be kept sacred from all intrusion, accessible only to HIM to whom alone it is responsible. Connected with the right to profess and proclaim our own religious convictions, is the protection against being taxed for the support of the religious creeds of others, or of being required to conform to their observance. Than this there is no more intolerable intolerance. The true interests of religion—the honour and glory and spread of Christianity—will be alike served by shaking off the chains which have enthralled them.

PHILANTHROPY AND MORALS.

And not only to the great topics already enumerated will be the columns of "THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM" be dedicated. While every political evil that can be removed, and every political good that can be accomplished, shall in turn pass in review, misery in all shapes—of ignorance, intemperance, poverty, slavery, and vice—has claims upon us, and will be duly regarded.

AS A WEEKLY NEWSPAPER,

"THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM" will be distinguished by the copiousness and accuracy of its intelligence. It will be in every sense of the word a Newspaper, recording all the striking and important events that shall have transpired through the week, excluding nothing but what is calculated to minister to a morbid and worthless curiosity. With regard to its literary character, no expense will be spared to sustain it by an Editorial Staff embracing first-rate talent in every department:—in short, the most ample arrangements have been made to prevent its being surpassed by any portion of the Metropolitan Press.

AS A FAMILY PAPER,

"THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM" will aim to blend the useful with the interesting. Domestic Economy, Literature and Science, Arts and Manufactures, Agriculture, Trade and Commerce, State of the Markets, will receive appropriate notice; so that it will prove, in the strict sense of the term, A PAPER FOR THE PEOPLE—a Journal devoted to their social, political, and moral elevation.

In such honourable labours the co-operation will not be wanting of those who love their country and their race—those who in all the paths of reform, whether legislative or religious, are from evil pressing forward.

"And better thence again, and better still.
To good,

To them we confide our purposes—to them we look for our reward.

All Communications for "THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM" must be directed "To the Editors, 335, Strand." Post-office and money-orders must be made payable to JOHN CASSELL: to whom also Advertisements may be sent, directed as above.

Orders for "THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM" will be received by all newsvenders in town and country.

Printed and Published for the Proprietor, by RICHARD COSSET, at his Office, No. 20, Queen-Street, St. Helier's, Jersey; and WILLIAM BRITAIN, 54, Paternoster-Row, London.

THURSDAY, June 1, 1848.

TEETOTAL TIMES

AND ESSAYIST.

PUBLISHED MONTHLY.

No. VII. NEW SERIES.]

JERSEY, JULY, 1848.

[PRICE ONE PENNY.

THE TEETOTAL ESSAYIST; or Monthly Temperance Standard, for 1847. London: W. Brittain, Paternoster-Row.

This may now be had complete, price ONE SHILLING.

CONTENTS:

- Teetotalism essential to the Elevation of the Working Classes. By D. G. PAINE.
- The Temperance Movement in its important bearings on the Sanitary condition of the People. By THOMAS BEGGS.
- Total Abstinence from strong drinks important to Female Honour and Happiness. By D. G. PAINE.
- Tom Rudge and his friend; shewing what Tom lost by "that last glass of Brandy and Water." By Mrs. S. C. HALL.
- Appeal to Females, in behalf of the Total Abstinence movement. By Dr. E. NOTT, President of Union College, New York.
- The Worn Thimble; a Story of Woman's Duty and Woman's Influence. By Mrs. S. C. HALL.
- Important Medical Testimony; with several hundred signatures.
- Christian Duty; or the importance of the Temperance Reformation in connexion with the maintenance and spread of Christianity. By F. W. WHEELER, Missionary.
- The Moral Obligation of Total Abstinence. By EVAN JONES.
- Intemperance the Antagonist of Education. By W. R. BAKER.
- The Duty of Sabbath School Teachers, in regard to Total Abstinence. By EVAN JONES.
- Reasons why Sabbath School Teachers should be Teetotalers. By MICHAEL YOUNG.
- Bearings of the Temperance question on the interest of the Young. By W. REID.
- The Drinking system and Juvenile Delinquency. By THOMAS BEGGS.
- Aids to the Evangelical Alliance, in its enquiry as to the connexion between Infidelity and Teetotalism. With testimonies from upwards of SEVENTY Ministers and Gentlemen.
- The Evils of Moderate Drinking. By EVAN JONES.
- The Inconsistency of those Christians and Philanthropists who sanction the use of Intoxicating Liquors. By D. G. PAINE.
- Address to Moderate Drinkers. By ELIHU BURRITT.
- The Temperance Movement:—its past history—present position—future prospects and connexion with other great movements of the age. By THOMAS BEGGS.
- It will be seen that this forms the most interesting and important publication that has ever been issued from the Temperance Press. As but very few sets remain on hand, an early application will be necessary. A copy will be sent, post free, to any person remitting twelve postage stamps, to JOHN CASSELL, 32, Abchurch Lane, London.

THE JULY Number of THE WATER

CURE JOURNAL & HYGIENE MAGAZINE contains: On Stimulating Drinks; their mode of action, and Uses. By Dr. Madden; The Physiological Effects of Alcoholic Drinks. By A. Progressist; The Physiology of Man. By Dr. M'Leod; Some Observations on Catarrhal affections. By John Gibbs, Esq.; Cases of Ophthalmia, Liver Complaint, Chronic Diarrhoea, and inflammation of the lungs successfully treated at the New York Water Cure Establishment; Erysipelas cured by Hydropathy. By Dr. Bauer; &c.—Edited by W. MACLEOD, M.D., F.R.C.P.E., &c.—Published monthly, price 6d, stamped 7d.

London, Groombridge and Sons, Paternoster Row; and Gadsby, Bouverie Street.

Now ready, cheap Editions of Dr. E. Johnson's Works. LIFE, HEALTH AND DISEASE; 12th thousand, foolscap 8vo, cloth neat, 2s. 6d.

RESULTS of Hydropathy; or Constipation

not a Disease of the Bowels; Indigestion not a Disease of the Stomach; with numerous cases of cure, and observations on the Treatment generally. Second thousand, foolscap 8vo, cloth neat, 2s. 6d. Hydropathy; its Theory, Principles, and Practice; illustrated with numerous cases of cure. Third thousand; nine Engravings, post 8vo, sewed, 2s. 6d. The Library Editions are still on Sale.

London: Simpkin and Co.; Ipswich: Burton.

DR. CHEYNE'S

COUGH AND PULMONIC LOZENGES.

THESE LOZENGES are the most pleasant and efficacious remedy that can be employed for the removal of coughs. To those who are afflicted with difficulty of breathing, or a redundancy of phlegm, they give instant relief, by causing free expectoration. They arrest, in its incipient stages, that fearful result of our variable atmosphere, consumption; and for diseases of the pulmonary organs, a more safe and salutary remedy cannot be applied. For aged persons they are invaluable, and none, whose lungs are in the least degree susceptible of cold, ought to be without them. They afford relief in every case of cough, and where there is no physical disorganization, they will effect a cure.

HOARSENESS.

This most unpleasant, painful and disqualifying result of a taking cold, may be removed by the use, even for a short time, of Dr. Cheyne's Lozenges. Hence, public speakers, singers, &c. will find them of peculiar advantage.

ASTHMA.

This painful disease of the lungs may be greatly mitigated in its effect, by the use of Dr. Cheyne's Lozenges. In cases of moist asthma, they will prevent that soreness which is the result of constant expectoration, and in cases of dry or nervous asthma, they will promote that degree of expectoration by which the painful coughing may be greatly prevented, or most materially relieved.

TO ATTENDANTS ON PUBLIC WORSHIP.

Nothing can be annoying to a congregation than to have persons present in a place of worship who are afflicted with a noisy harassing cough. It is most distressing to the individual afflicted and his attempts to stifle it often increase the irritation and the pain; while to those who conduct the worship it is a source of inconceivable embarrassment, and of great nervous excitement. All these inconveniences may at once be obviated by persons furnishing themselves with a few of Dr. Cheyne's Cough and Pulmonic Lozenges.

TO PERSONS IN GENERAL.

Few individuals seem aware of the vast importance of checking a cough in its incipient stages. That which at first would yield to a mild remedy, if neglected, soon preys upon the lungs, acrid humours increase, and even powerful medicines fail to appease the cough. Here the value and the importance of Dr. Cheyne's Cough and Pulmonic Lozenges is most apparent. By their use a check will at once be given to the progress of disease. The irritation being promoted, the various membranes will speedily resume their tone, and those fatal diseases, of which a slight cough is but too often the forerunner, may be averted. No person ought to be without a remedy that is at the same time portable, agreeable, and efficacious. A couple of these Lozenges placed in the mouth, when going, into either a cold or heated atmosphere, or as soon as the slightest tickling in the throat and fauces is experienced, would prevent a vast amount of pain and inconvenience. One important principle in Dr. Cheyne's Lozenges is that they may be taken without any fear of disordering the stomach. On the contrary, they operate as a tonic, and materially strengthen the digestive organs.

CAUTION.—As a variety of Lozenges, Wafers, and Tablets are advertised, containing ingredients of an injurious nature, the public are particularly requested to ask for DR. CHEYNE'S COUGH AND PULMONIC LOZENGES, and to observe that the words "DR. CHEYNE'S COUGH LOZENGES," are engraved on the Government Stamp, which, with Directions for Use, is wrapped round each Box.

Sold in Boxes at 1s. 1d. and 2s. 9d. each, By Messrs. Sutton, 10, Bow Church-yard; Barclay's, 95, Farringdon-street; Edwards, 67, St. Paul's Church-yard; Dietrichsen and Co., 63, Oxford-street; Sanger, 150, Oxford-street; Willoughby, 95, Bishopgate-street Without; Johnson, 68, Cornhill; King, 34, Napier-street, Hoxton; Bolton and Co., York; Raimie and Co., Edinburgh; and by at least one Agent in every Town throughout the United Kingdom.

JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEES, OF SURPASSING STRENGTH AND RICHNESS OF FLAVOUR.

THE object of JOHN CASSELL in appointing AGENTS in every locality throughout the United Kingdom, is to afford full facility to Families for the purchase of Coffees of truly rich and mellow-flavoured mountain growths; and this, not at exorbitant rates, but at prices ordinarily paid for very inferior descriptions. The enormous demand already created, demonstrates that the inhabitants of those towns into which these delicious Coffees have been introduced, duly appreciate the effort which JOHN CASSELL has made to supply an article of the character above stated, and which enters so largely into the consumption of every Family.

The following are the PRICES at which any quantity, from two ounces to one pound, may be obtained:—

- |   |         |
|---|---------|
| John Cassell's Coffee, No. 1. An excellent article.   | 1s. 4d. |
| John Cassell's Coffee, No. 2. Cannot fail to give great satisfaction, being a combination of the choicest growths of Jamaica, possessing richness, strength, and flavour. | 1s. 8d. |
| John Cassell's Coffee, No. 3. To every connoisseur in Coffee, this will prove a treat, combining the finest mountain growths of both Jamaica and Turkey.                  | 2s. 0d. |

OBSERVE.—Every packet of JOHN CASSELL'S Coffee bears his signature, without which none is genuine.

THE AGENCY FOR JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE.

A considerable number of AGENTS have already been appointed. It is intended to increase their number to Two Thousand, so as to keep up a constant supply of fresh roasted and fresh ground Coffee. Persons desirous of securing this valuable Agency are requested to make immediate application. JOHN CASSELL is sorry that disappointment has been experienced in numerous instances, by persons who have not succeeded in obtaining the Agency. This has arisen from the circumstance of several applications coming from the same town or locality; and it is a principle with JOHN CASSELL not to appoint a second Agent who may, in the least degree, interfere with the interest of the first.

All applications to be addressed to JOHN CASSELL, ABCHURCH-LANE, LONDON.

THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM,
NEW WEEKLY NEWSPAPER, the
Champion of Temperance, Commercial, Political and Religious Liberty, price 4d. or 4s. 9d. per quarter, paid in advance. All other Daily and Weekly Newspapers supplied.
Books and Magazines sent post free to all parts of the United Kingdom, on receipt of 6d. in addition to the price of the same, by JOHN HOLDING WOOLEY, 9, Aldermanbury, Postern, City, London.

THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM.

BENJAMIN LEPARD GREEN, 62, Paternoster Row, will be happy to supply the above Newspaper. Those who are desirous of favouring him with their orders, should send them immediately, as an extraordinary demand has been created. Terms, 4s. 9d. per Quarter paid in advance.

THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM.

THE FRIENDS OF POLITICAL, COMMERCIAL AND RELIGIOUS LIBERTY who are desirous of taking this Paper, are respectfully informed that WILLIAM BRITAIN, will be happy to execute all orders which may be entrusted to him, with promptitude and regularity. The price of the "Standard of Freedom" is 4d. per number, or 4s. 9d. per Quarter paid in advance.

Temperance Depot, 54, Paternoster Row London.

THE NEW WEEKLY JOURNAL,
THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM.

THE Inhabitants of Manchester and its vicinity are respectfully informed, that ABEL HEYWOOD, Oldham Street, has made arrangements for supplying the "Standard of Freedom; a Journal which for the clear and vigorous enunciation of the great principles of Liberty, Political, Commercial and Religious, is not surpassed by any of the Metropolitan Journals." Price 4d. per Number, or 4s. 9d. per Quarter paid in advance.

TWELFTH THOUSAND.

INTEMPERANCE THE IDOLATRY OF BRITAIN. By the Rev. W. R. BAKER, author of "The Curse of Britain," &c. It is admitted by the most eminent of the religious reviewers, as well as by all who have read it, that there never was a work upon the Temperance Question more calculated to carry conviction to the mind of a thoughtful reader as the danger and iniquity of the drinking system. That it may have a very extensive circulation, this new and revised edition is published at THREEPENCE:—the price of the former editions was 2s. 6d. The usual allowance will be made to Societies, or persons taking a quantity.

DR. NOTT'S LECTURES.

NATURE AND PROVIDENCE.

REPLYING TO THE QUESTION WHAT IS THE DUTY OF MAN IN RELATION TO THE USE OF INTOXICATING LIQUORS. In four eloquent and powerful LECTURES, by ELIPHALET NOTT, D.D., L.L.D., President of Union College, New York. Carefully revised with an appendix. In 32 very closely printed pages, crown octavo. Price ONE PENNY.

LIVESEY'S famous MALT LECTURES. enclosing a complete exposure of the great delusion as to the properties of Malt Liquors. Formerly published at Sixpence. A new edition for ONE PENNY.

W. BRITAIN, 54, Paternoster Row, London.

Price 2d. or by post 3d.

CAUTIONS AND TESTIMONY AGAINST ODD FELLOWSHIP, by H. MUDGE, Surgeon, Bodmin.

Also, price 2s. or by post 2s. 6d., by the same author,

EXPOSURE OF ODD FELLOWSHIP; Showing its immoral tendency and bankrupt circumstances, and containing as well a large amount of information on the subject of Friendly Societies.

WHITTAKER, London; LIDDELL, Bodmin.

PROSPECTUS OF A NEW WEEKLY JOURNAL,

“THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM;”

THE ADVOCATE OF

POLITICAL, COMMERCIAL AND RELIGIOUS LIBERTY, EQUITABLE TAXATION AND RETRENCHMENT.

NEVER was there a time which more urgently required energetic and appropriate representatives in the public press than that in which we live. If all that has been hitherto accomplished for truth, and freedom, and progress, have found fit echoes, there is a wider field and a more peremptory necessity for that onward-encouraging voice which is to prepare the way for their future, peaceful, but vast development. We must start anew from the goal which has been already won. We must move with the tide, which is now advancing with such majestic and accelerated power. Everywhere the people are awakened—or awaking—feeling their strength—asserting their rights—establishing their liberties; and the people of this country, always first and foremost in the enduring struggle for all that honours and exalts a nation—the people of this country will be faithful to their noble mission.

But to prevent the aberrations of the thoughtless, and to counteract the schemes of the unworthy, a broad foundation must be laid on which the intelligent, the patriotic and the religious may raise the social edifices of reform and good government. The basis of coming legislation must be honest union and cordial co-operation between the middle classes who enjoy political privileges, and the toiling multitudes who are excluded from them. Their interests are common,—so should their action be! The complete emancipation of commerce from what remains of restriction and monopoly,—the disenthralment of religion from the fetters of the state,—the re-arrangement of our unjust and unequal taxation,—the diminution of our enormous public burthens,—the shortening of Parliaments,—the more effectual protection of the voter from undue dictation and the seductions of bribery; but above all, and as the security for all,—the great extension of the suffrage, are alike among the demands and the necessities of the times.

To be agreed as to the ends in view, and unanimous as to the means of accomplishment, are the first elements of successful effort. Our duty is, not to endanger the cause of truth and liberty by words and works of violence, but to associate that cause with the energies of wisdom and the might of irresistible argument,—to enlist in its services all knowledge and virtue and intelligence,—to avail ourselves of every honest auxiliary which a busy and inquiring age places at our disposal,—to connect with our labours all exertions for human improvement,—to assist in the attainment of political power all that are worthy of its exercise, and as speedily as may be to make all men worthy.

The path has been straightened before us. The valleys once filled with the enslaved and the humbled have been exalted, and the mountains have been brought low, where feudalism erected its standard of oppression, and a priestly hierarchy unfurled its intolerant banners. From his pride of place many a usurper has been compelled to descend, while redeemed millions have entered, and are entering upon their inheritance. The influence of will upon will has been enfeebled,—that of understanding upon understanding has been strengthened. The pillars of old authority are shaking. Inquiry is busy with the work of emancipation. Hence the sharp controversies which have at the same time instructed and improved the people. Hence the creation of a sounder public judgment, and a stronger popular power; an advancing education, exhibited in the various institutions for the instruction of every class of society; a humanising philosophy demanding a reform of our penal code, and the abolition of the punishment of death; a higher morality, displayed in the great temperance movement—these, and a hundred other noble purposes, characteristic of the age, have been elevating the individual, and slowly, but surely, preparing the community for important social and political changes.

As such changes are foreseen by the observing,—supported by the enlightened,—desired by the patriotic,—and necessitated by the irresistible current of events,—it is proposed to give them a new & a courageous ORGAN—one that shall present all the good that has been effected in the past, and march with the foremost of those who demand for the future that our institutions shall harmonise with the growing knowledge and liberalism of the era, and be marked by progress,—peaceful, but efficient progress.

On Saturday, July 1, JOHN CASSELL published the first number of a Weekly Newspaper, called

“THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM.”

The price is 4½d., or 4s. 9d. per quarter paid in advance. It is printed on the largest sized paper allowed by law, exceeding the double sheet of the Times newspaper. Bearing the date of Saturday, it is published on Friday evening, in time for the post, and communicates the latest intelligence down to the hour of going to press. A Second Edition is published on the Saturday morning for delivery in the metropolis, and to be forwarded by the morning mails of that day.

In the bold and faithful advocacy of every principle by which the freedom and happiness of society can be advanced—in the truthful and unflinching exposure of every abuse by which freedom is wronged and happiness impeded,—“THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM” will never be found wanting. Freedom—political, commercial, and religious freedom,—to these its homage will be paid, and its services devoted.

POLITICAL FREEDOM;

ADEQUATE REPRESENTATION, RETRENCHMENT, AND EQUITABLE TAXATION.

In the political field, a wide diffusion of political power—a great augmentation of the electoral body, will be insisted on as the only means for calming a growing agitation, and satisfying a justifiable discontent. While the powers of legislation are held by those who represent, not the interests of a wise economy, but of a wasteful expenditure—while the members sent by small constituencies can by their numbers annul the votes and drown the voices of those who convey the opinions of the largest electoral assemblies—while the conduct of the House of Commons demonstrates that the Reform Bill has failed to accomplish the objects it proposed, having given no adequate securities for peace, economy, or good government—while aristocratic influence has again possessed itself of the strongholds from which it appeared to have been dislodged,—there is no hope, there can be no hope for the interests, the paramount and permanent interests of the people, until these interests are really, and truly, and directly represented in parliament. It will be only then that the corruption and intimidation which are now polluting and controlling the whole electoral system can be checked; it will be only then that the representative will be made responsible to his constituents, and his constituents be protected in the exercise of their rights; it will be then alone that the extension of public benefits will bring with it the proper distribution of public burthens—that the weak will be relieved from their intolerable portion by its fair transfer to the shoulders of the strong—that effect will be given to a rigid and searching financial reform—that services will be recompensed, not according to the influence and rank of the functionary, but the value of the duties done—in a word, that the revenues of the state will be collected on principles of equity, and disbursed on principles of economy. A nation should, indeed, dispose of the best services of its best citizens, but it should obtain them at the smallest cost.

COMMERCIAL FREEDOM.

Commercial freedom, aided by a mighty organization originating among the middle and manufacturing classes, but finally embracing the working multitudes has begun its career of triumphs. But the territory that has been gained from restriction, prohibition, and monopoly must be maintained and made the point of departure for other conquests. There still exist many impediments to freedom of interchange both at home and abroad. They must be removed. Many markets are inaccessible to us, whether as buyers or sellers. They must be reached. The genius of free trade is not national, it is universal. It represents the interests not of a people, but of mankind. It bears in one hand the cornucopia of prosperity, and in the other the olive-branch of peace. It will be both the duty and delight of "THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM" to aid its progress.

RELIGIOUS FREEDOM.

As the champion of religious liberty, "THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM" will occupy high and unmitigable ground. It will contend for the inalienable right of every human being to form, to express, to advance every opinion which does not encroach upon the rights of others. It will claim for religion, in all her forms and complexions, more than the privilege to be heard. Her rights exist not by sufferance or toleration—they are superior in man's control. They must not be subjected to the humiliation of state interference, still less to the degradation of state patronage. The eye of the law should see, the language of the law should recognize, no sectarian distinctions, whether of penalty or preference. The emancipation of religion from the frowns and favours of the state should be absolute and entire. The religious conscience must be kept sacred from all intrusion, accessible only to Him to whom alone it is responsible. Connected with the right to profess and proclaim our own religious convictions, is the protection against being taxed for the support of the religious creeds of others, or of being required to conform to their observance. Than this there is no more intolerable intolerance. The true interests of religion—the honour and glory and spread of Christianity—will be alike served by shaking off the chains which have enthralled them.

PHILANTHROPY AND MORALS.

And not only to the great topics already enumerated will be the columns of "THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM" be dedicated. While every political evil that can be removed, and every political good that can be accomplished, shall in turn pass in review, misery in all shapes—of ignorance, intemperance, poverty, slavery, and vice—has claims upon us, and will be duly regarded.

AS A WEEKLY NEWSPAPER,

"THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM" will be distinguished by the copiousness and accuracy of its intelligence. It will be in every sense of the word a News-paper, recording all the striking and important events that shall have transpired through the week, excluding nothing but what is calculated to minister to a morbid and worthless curiosity. With regard to its literary character, no expense will be spared to sustain it by an Editorial Staff embracing first-rate talent in every department:—in short, the most ample arrangements have been made to prevent its being surpassed by any portion of the Metropolitan Press.

AS A FAMILY PAPER,

"THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM" will aim to blend the useful with the interesting. Domestic Economy, Literature and Science, Arts and Manufactures, Agriculture, Trade and Commerce, State of the Markets, will receive appropriate notice; so that it will prove, in the strict sense of the term, A PAPER FOR THE PEOPLE—a Journal devoted to their social, political, and moral elevation.

In such honourable labours the co-operation will not be wanting of those who love their country and their race—those who in all the paths of reform, whether legislative or religious, are from evil pressing forward

"To good,
"And better thence again, and better still.

To them we confide our purposes—to them we look for our reward.

All Communications for "THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM" must be directed "To the Editors, 335, Strand." Post-office and money-orders must be made payable to JOHN CASSELL: to whom also Advertisements may be sent, directed as above.

Orders for "THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM" will be received by all newsvenders in town and country.

Printed and Published for the Proprietor, by RICHARD GOSSET, at his Office, No. 20, Queen-Street, St. Helier's, Jersey.

THURSDAY, July 1, 1843.

THE
TEETOTAL TIMES
AND ESSAYIST.

PUBLISHED MONTHLY.

No. VIII. NEW SERIES.]

JERSEY, AUGUST, 1848.

[PRICE ONE PENNY.]

THE PEOPLE'S ALMANACK FOR 1849.

SHORTLY WILL BE PUBLISHED,

WITH CHARACTERISTIC ENGRAVINGS.

THE BEST AND CHEAPEST ALMANACK EVER PUBLISHED.

BESIDES the usual Calendar, it will contain a mass of matter, deeply interesting to every class of the community, in connexion with Political, Commercial, and Religious Freedom. It will fully justify its claim to the title of THE PEOPLE'S ALMANACK, and will form a useful Family Companion. It will be neatly printed on thirty-two pages, crown octavo, and will be sold for ONE PENNY.

To be had of all Booksellers.

* * A liberal allowance will be made to the Trade, who are requested to send in their orders immediately, as they will be supplied according to their rotation.

W. BRITAIN, PATERNOSTER ROW, LONDON.

THE TEETOTAL ESSAYIST; or Monthly Temperance Standard, for 1847. London: W. Britain, Paternoster-Row.

This may now be had complete, price ONE SHILLING.

CONTENTS:

Teetotalism essential to the Elevation of the Working Classes. By D. G. PAINE.
The Temperance Movement in its important bearings on the Sanitary condition of the People. By THOMAS BEGGS.
Total Abstinence from strong drinks important to Female Honour and Happiness. By D. G. PAINE.
Tom Rudge and his friend; shewing what Tom lost by "that last glass of Brandy and Water." By Mrs. S. C. HALL.
Appeal to Females, in behalf of the Total Abstinence movement. By Dr. E. NOTT, President of Union College, New York.
The Worn Thimble; a Story of Woman's Duty and Woman's Influence. By Mrs. S. C. HALL.
Important Medical Testimony; with several hundred signatures.
Christian Duty; or the importance of the Temperance Reformation in connexion with the maintenance and spread of Christianity. By F. W. WHEELER, Missionary.
The Moral Obligation of Total Abstinence. By EVAN JONES.
Intemperance the Antagonist of Education. By W. R. BAKER.
The Duty of Sabbath School Teachers, in regard to Total Abstinence. By EVAN JONES.
Reasons why Sabbath School Teachers should be Teetotalers. By MICHAEL YOUNG.
Bearings of the Temperance question on the interest of the Young. By W. REID.
The Drinking system and Juvenile Delinquency. By THOMAS BEGGS.
Aids to the Evangelical Alliance in its enquiry as to the connexion between Infidelity and Teetotalism. With testimonies from upwards of SEVENTY Ministers and Gentlemen.
The Evils of Moderate Drinking. By EVAN JONES.
The Inconsistency of those Christians and Philanthropists who sanction the use of Intoxicating Liquors. By D. G. PAINE.
Address to Moderate Drinkers. By ELIHU BURRITT.
The Temperance Movement:—its past history—present position—future prospects and connexion with other great movements of the age. By THOMAS BEGGS.
It will be seen that this forms the most interesting and important publication that has ever been issued from the Temperance Press. As but very few sets remain on hand, an early application will be necessary. A copy will be sent, post free, to any person remitting twelve postage stamps, to JOHN CASSELL, 22, Abchurch Lane, London.

TWELFTH THOUSAND.

INTEMPERANCE THE IDOLATRY OF BRITAIN. By the Rev. W. R. BAKER, author of "The Curse of Britain," &c. It is admitted by the most eminent of the religious reviewers, as well as by all who have read it, that there never was a work upon the Temperance Question more calculated to carry conviction to the mind of a thoughtful reader as the danger and iniquity of the drinking system. That it may have a very extensive circulation, this new and revised edition is published at THREEPENCE:—the price of the former editions was 2s. 6d. The usual allowance will be made to Societies, or persons taking a quantity.

DR. NOTT'S LECTURES.

NATURE AND PROVIDENCE.

REPLYING TO THE QUESTION WHAT IS THE DUTY OF MAN IN RELATION TO THE USE OF INTOXICATING LIQUORS. In four eloquent and powerful LECTURES, by ELIHALET NOTT, D.D., L.L.D., President of Union College, New York. Carefully revised with an appendix. In 32 very closely printed pages, crown octavo. Price ONE PENNY.

THE BEST OF MEN SOMETIMES IN ERROR. By ARCHDEACON JEFFREYS, of Bombay. The object of this incomparable Essay is to show that the advocates of the Total Abstinence System have the full warrant of Scripture for their labour of mercy and love. The style in which this sentiment is reasoned is such as to carry conviction to all who profess to be influenced by the law of love. 1s. 6d. per 100.

LIVESEY'S famous MALT LECTURES. enclosing a complete exposure of the great delusion as to the properties of Malt Liquors. Formerly published at Sixpence. A new edition for ONE PENNY.

W. BRITAIN, 54, Paternoster Row, London.

SUNDAY SCHOOL PRIZE TRACTS.

Just Published, price 1s. 4d. per 100.

THE IMPORTANCE of the TEMPERANCE MOVEMENT, in its bearings on SUNDAY SCHOOLS. THE YOUNG, THE HOPE OF THE TEMPERANCE REFORMATION.

Other Tracts on the same subject are in preparation.

P. L. GREEN, 62, Paternoster Row, London.

THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM.

THE PROPRIETOR TO THE PUBLIC.

THE difficulties connected with an effort, however auspicious the circumstances under which it may be made, to establish a Journal that shall assume to itself a place among the more favoured Metropolitan Journals of the day, are well known to all who are acquainted with the condition of the periodical Press. To those difficulties the Proprietor of "THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM" was himself no stranger when he determined on its becoming a candidate for public approbation and support. It was with the full conviction that his enterprise was one which demanded gigantic effort that he entered upon his work. His expectation of success, however, was sufficiently sanguine to counteract any apprehension this conviction was calculated to produce. He believed that among his countrymen would be found a sufficient number to appreciate and sustain any well-directed attempt to increase the power of that portion of the Press which is devoted to the preservation of our liberties; and he was resolved that nothing should be wanting, on his part, which might be necessary to such an endeavour. It is with feelings of no ordinary exultation he is now able to say that his anticipations have been far more than realized. Although obstacles and discouragements have been thrown in his way, and from quarters when he least expected them; and although channels, on which he had placed great reliance in giving publicity to his project have been arbitrarily closed against him—he may affirm that success has already crowned his effort, which is almost unprecedented in the history of newspaper adventure. The melancholy predictions of failure uttered by some have been completely falsified; and if he may judge from the very numerous and warm expressions of approval he has received from wholly unknown and disinterested parties, there is every prospect that "THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM" will not speedily be lowered from its present proud position.

The Proprietor designed that it should be

A NEWSPAPER,

which, without danger of its spreading any sort of moral infection, might be admitted into

EVERY FAMILY;

and, at the same time, that it should be nothing less than a potent and uncompromising Organ for maintaining and disseminating the great principles of

POLITICAL, COMMERCIAL, AND RELIGIOUS FREEDOM.

To this worthy mission it will constantly be devoted; and if ever there was a time when it was specially requisite that those principles should be well understood, and widely proclaimed, it is the present. Those internal convulsions by which nations have been rent and desolated, and sometimes destroyed, may be traced to two main causes—the reluctance on the part of Governments to make concessions to popular liberty, when concessions are loudly called for; and to ignorance on the part of the people, as to wherein true FREEDOM consists. In consequence of such reluctance, the oppressed have had recourse to violence to throw off the yoke of their oppressors; and in consequence of such ignorance, the people have not been satisfied with their own rightful emancipation, but have become ferocious anarchists, or tyrants, more selfish and unreasonable than the men whose despotism they combined to overthrow. It is necessary, then, not only that FREEDOM should be contended for, whenever its just claims are resisted, but that the people should be brought to entertain such enlightened and comprehensive views upon the subject of FREEDOM, as, while guarding them from yielding to a base and servile bondage, will not suffer them to mistake disorder and licentiousness for Liberty.

But FREEDOM is not the only requisite to good government. A people may pay too dearly even for their Liberties. An extravagant expenditure must of necessity press somewhere, and no financial system can prevent it from pressing most heavily upon the working millions. That our own Government has long been, and still is, so shamefully lavish of the public money, cannot be doubted. Its whole outlay is regulated by no just and considerate regard to the sufferings of those who are struggling for a bare subsistence, but by an aristocratic scale of profusion. Hence the necessity of constantly insisting on in all departments of the State.

RETRENCHMENT AND ECONOMY

Whatever revenue may be necessary to the effective working of a wise and equitable administration, no loyal subject would ever refuse to bear his part in raising; but "THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM" will always be found to direct its utmost influence against every description of wastefulness, and particularly that entire system of Governmental Jobbing by which individuals and classes are unjustly maintained and enriched at the expense of the people.

JOHN CASSELL, PROPRIETOR.

All communications for "THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM" must be directed "To the Editors, 335, Strand." Post-office and money-orders must be made payable to JOHN CASSELL; to whom also Advertisements may be sent, directed as above.

Orders for "THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM" will be received by all newsvenders in town and country.

JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEES, OF SURPASSING STRENGTH AND RICHNESS OF FLAVOUR.

THE object of JOHN CASSELL in appointing AGENTS in every locality throughout the United Kingdom, is to afford every facility to Families for the purchase of Coffees of truly rich and mellow-flavoured mountain growths; and this, not at exorbitant rates, but at prices ordinarily paid for very inferior descriptions. The enormous demand already created, demonstrates that the inhabitants of those towns into which these delicious Coffees have been introduced, duly appreciate the effort which JOHN CASSELL has made to supply an article of the character above stated, and which enters so largely into the consumption of every Family.

The following are the PRICES at which any quantity, from two ounces to one pound, may be obtained:—

John Cassell's Coffee, No. 1. An excellent article.	1s. 4d.
John Cassell's Coffee, No. 2. Cannot fail to give great satisfaction, being a combination of the choicest growths of Jamaica, possessing richness, strength, and flavour.	1s. 8d.
John Cassell's Coffee, No. 3. To every connoisseur in Coffee, this will prove a treat, combining the finest mountain growths of both Jamaica and Turkey.	2s. 0d.

OBSERVE.—Every packet of JOHN CASSELL'S Coffee bears his signature, without which none is genuine.

“GOOD COFFEE!” WHAT IS IT?

It is not that bitter, stringent article which grows on the wilds of Ceylon: nor is it merely an article of a light, pleasant flavour, but destitute of strength. It is a combination of the world's MOUNTAIN GROWTH, and possesses the following qualities: strong, but mellow, having a rich aromatic fragrance and flavour. To have really good Coffee, the best Mountain growths must be selected, and judiciously combined by an experienced hand: they must be roasted upon scientific principles, so that the vegetable oil may not be injured, but the berry retain those properties which render a good cup of Coffee so pleasant to the palate, and so exhilarating to the nervous system. It is because they possess these qualities in the highest degree, that JOHN CASSELL'S Coffees are in such great repute. Let all who wish to obtain such articles in perfection purchase these Coffees, and their constant patronage will be secured.

A SUPPLY ADEQUATE TO THE DEMAND.

There was, for a short time, a difficulty in supplying the numerous and large orders daily sent in from every part of the kingdom. To meet every exigency, however, powerful machinery has been put in requisition. The Roasting, Dressing, Grinding, and Packing, of JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEES are conducted on the most approved scientific principles, and with wonderful despatch. Each package forms a handsome Catty, lined with lead, so that the aroma and essential oil,—which constitute the excellence of a cup of really good Coffee,—are most effectually preserved. Hence, these Coffees will be found both pleasant to the taste, and exhilarating to the nervous system.

THE AGENCY FOR JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE.

A considerable number of AGENTS have already been appointed. It is the intention of JOHN CASSELL to increase their number to Two Thousand, so as to keep up a constant supply of fresh roasted and fresh ground Coffee. Persons desirous of securing this valuable Agency are requested to make immediate application. JOHN CASSELL is sorry that disappointment has been experienced in numerous instances, by persons who have not succeeded in obtaining the Agency. This has arisen from the circumstance of numerous applications coming from the same town or locality; and it is a principle with JOHN CASSELL not to appoint a second Agent who may, in the least degree, interfere with the interest of the first.

All applications to be addressed to JOHN CASSELL, ABCHURCH-LANE, LONDON.

A WEEKLY TEMPERANCE NEWSPAPER.

ON SATURDAY September 2nd, will be published the First Number of "THE CAUSE OF THE PEOPLE; A Weekly Temperance and General Newspaper." It will contain a record of all passing events, and will exhibit and support the temperance cause as the cause of the people. It will be the cheapest, and aim to be the best FAMILY NEWSPAPER published.

Price three halfpence.

Enclose 1s. 6d. in a pre-paid letter, and The Cause of the People will be sent to you for thirteen weeks, post free.

All contributions, orders and communications, must be sent to Mr. Richard Wakelin, West Bromwich.

IMPORTANT & VALUABLE AGENCY.

By the outlay of a very small amount of capital, an Agency may be obtained for the sale of PACKET TEAS and COFFEES, which cannot but prove highly remunerative. The Agency may be taken for the TEAS or COFFEES separately. For particulars apply to Baker and Co., Ranelagh Road, Thames Bank, London.

THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM,

NEW WEEKLY NEWSPAPER, the

Champion of Temperance, Commercial, Political and Religious Liberty, price 4d. or 4s. 9d. per quarter, paid in advance. All other Daily and Weekly Newspapers supplied.

Books and Magazines sent post free to all parts of the United Kingdom, on receipt of 6d. in addition to the price of the same, by JOHN HOLDING WOODLEY, 9, Aldermanbury, Postern, City, London.

THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM.

BENJAMIN LEPARD GREEN, 62, Paternoster Row, will be happy to supply the above Newspaper. Those who are desirous of favouring him with their orders, should send them immediately, as an extraordinary demand has been created. Terms, 4s. 9d. per Quarter paid in advance.

THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM.

THE FRIENDS OF POLITICAL, COMMERCIAL AND RELIGIOUS LIBERTY who are desirous of taking this Paper, are respectfully informed that WILLIAM BRITAIN, will be happy to execute all orders which may be entrusted to him, with promptitude and regularity. The price of the "Standard of Freedom" is 4d. per number, or 4s. 9d. per Quarter paid in advance.

Temperance Depot, 54, Paternoster Row London.

THE NEW WEEKLY JOURNAL,
THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM.

THE Inhabitants of Manchester and its vicinity are respectfully informed, that ABEL HEYWOOD, Oldham Street, has made arrangements for supplying the "Standard of Freedom: a Journal which for the clear and vigorous enunciation of the great principles of Liberty, Political, Commercial and Religious, is not surpassed by any of the Metropolitan Journals. Price 4d. per Number, or 4s. 9d. per Quarter paid in advance.

Now ready, cheap Editions of Dr. E. Johnson's Works. LIFE, HEALTH AND DISEASE; 12th thousand, foolscap 8vo, cloth neat, 2s. 6d.

RESULTS of Hydropathy; or Constipation not a Disease of the Bowels; Indigestion not a Disease of the Stomach; with numerous cases of cure, and observations on the Treatment generally. Second thousand, foolscap 8vo, cloth neat, 2s. 6d. Hydropathy; its Theory, Principles, and Practice; illustrated with numerous cases of cure. Third Thousand; nine Engravings, post 8vo, sewed, 2s. 6d. The Library Editions are still on Sale.

London: Simpkin and Co.; Ipswich: Burton.

Price 2d. or by post 3d.

CAUTIONS AND TESTIMONY AGAINST ODD FELLOWSHIP, by H. MUDGE, Surgeon, Bodmin.

Also, price 2s. or by post 2s. 6d., by the same author.

EXPOSURE OF ODD FELLOWSHIP;

Showing its immoral tendency and bankrupt circumstances, and containing as well a large amount of information on the subject of Friendly Societies.

WHITTAKER, London; LIDDELL, Bodmin.

DR. CHEYNE'S

COUGH AND PULMONIC LOZENGES.

THE merits of this agreeable and efficacious remedy for colds, coughs, hoarseness, difficulty of breathing, and asthmatic and consumptive complaints, are daily made more and more apparent. All persons suffering from the above, or similar complaints, will do well immediately to test the efficacy of these Lozenges. They give instant relief, by promoting free expectoration, and preventing an undue accumulation of phlegm, at the same time that they allay the sensation of tickling in the throat, and fear of suffocation, and prevent those violent paroxysms of coughing, which are so distressing and dangerous. These Lozenges may be taken without any fear of disordering the stomach. On the contrary, they operate as a tonic, and materially strengthen the digestive organs.

AFFECTIONS OF THE THROAT.

Many persons suffer greatly from the irritation produced on the mucous membranes of the Trachea, the Bronchial vessels, and the air-cells of the lungs, by the inhalation of cold, damp, or foggy atmospheres. These membranes are far more sensitive in some persons than in others. Hence, under sudden alternations of heat and cold, or on the approach even of the slightest change in the external air, a tickling, painful cough, and laboured respiration is sure to ensue, and if neglected, to prove fatal. Under these circumstances, Dr. Cheyne's Lozenges will prove eminent service, by strengthening the lungs to resist the effect of sudden changes, by blunting the acrimony of the humours and by allaying the irritation which produces that painful spasmodic effort, familiarly termed coughing.

HOARSENESS.

This most unpleasant, painful and disqualifying result of taking cold, may be removed by the use, even for a short time, of Dr. Cheyne's Lozenges. Hence, public speakers, singers, &c., will find them of peculiar advantage.

ASTHMA.

This painful disease of the lungs may be greatly mitigated in its effect, by the use of Dr. Cheyne's Lozenges. In cases of moist asthma, they will prevent that soreness which is the result of constant expectoration, and in cases of dry or nervous asthma, they will promote that degree of expectoration by which the painful coughing may be greatly prevented, or most materially relieved.

TO ATTENDANTS ON PUBLIC WORSHIP.

Nothing can be annoying to a congregation than to have persons present in a place of worship who are afflicted with a noisy harassing cough. It is most distressing to the individual afflicted, and his attempts to stifle it often increase the irritation and the pain; while to those who conduct the worship it is a source of inconceivable embarrassment, and of great nervous excitement. All these inconveniences may at once be obviated by persons furnishing themselves with a few of Dr. Cheyne's Cough and Pulmonic Lozenges.

TESTIMONIALS.

The following are among the most recent testimonials as to the value and efficacy of Dr. Cheyne's Cough and Pulmonic Lozenges—

From the Rev. J. Crampin, Baptist Minister, Stretham, Isle of Ely.

"I am compelled to say that after nearly twenty years public speaking, I have never yet met with anything so effectually easing to the chest—so unclogging to the lungs—and so clearing to the voice, as Dr. Cheyne's Cough and Pulmonic Lozenges. I have used but one Box, but such is their pleasantness and usefulness, that I would not be without them for ten times their cost."

To Mr. J. Eeerington, Church-street, Gainsborough.

"Sir,—I have been afflicted for years with a bad cough. I could not sleep at night, and sometimes coughed to that degree, that the neighbours thought I should burst a blood vessel. I was induced to try a box of Dr. Cheyne's Lozenges which was purchased at your shop; and after taking ten Lozenges, my cough left me. I give you leave to publish this statement for the benefit of others."—Blyton, near Gainsborough. "JANE HUNT."

CAUTION.—As a variety of Lozenges, Wafers, and Tablets are advertised, containing ingredients of an injurious nature, the public are particularly requested to ask for DR. CHEYNE'S COUGH AND PULMONIC LOZENGES, and to observe that the words "DR. CHEYNE'S COUGH LOZENGES," are engraved on the Government Stamp, which, with Directions for Use, is wrapped round each Box.

Sold in Boxes at 1s. 1d. and 2s. 9d. each.

By Messrs. Sutton, 10, Bow Church-yard; Barclay's, 95, Farringdon-street; Edwards, 67, St. Paul's Church-yard; Dietrichsen and Co., 63, Oxford-street; Sanger, 150, Oxford-street; Willoughby, 95, Bishopgate-street Without; Johnson, 68, Cornhill; King, 34, Napier-street, Hoxton; Bolton and Co., York; Raimie and Co., Edinburgh; and by at least one Agent in every Town throughout the United Kingdom.

Printed and Published for the Proprietor, by RICHARD GOESET, at his Office, No. 20, Queen-street, St. Helier's, Jersey.

TUESDAY, August 1, 1848.

THE
TEETOTAL TIMES
AND ESSAYIST.

PUBLISHED MONTHLY.

NO. IX. NEW SERIES.]

JERSEY, SEPTEMBER, 1848.

[PRICE ONE PENNY.

THE BEST & CHEAPEST ALMANACK EVER PUBLISHED.

NOW READY,

THE PEOPLE'S ALMANACK FOR 1849;

WITH CHARACTERISTIC ENGRAVINGS.

BESIDES the usual Calendar, it contains a mass of matter deeply interesting to every class of the community, in connexion with Political, Commercial, and Religious Freedom. Among the articles are, an Address to the People of England—Lord John Russell and his finality system, with an engraving—Distribution of the soil—The poor man's share of taxation—War and strong drink—Abuses of the Church—Statistics of Great Britain—Intemperance and cholera—Cost of the Civil Government—Cost of justice—Inequalities of taxation—Inequalities of the representation—The Royal bill of fare—Co-operation, its nature and advantages—Evils of war—Failure of physical force—Valuable domestic recipes, &c., &c. The contents fully justify its claim to the title of THE PEOPLE'S ALMANACK. It is printed from good clear type on good paper; it contains thirty-two pages, crown octavo, and is sold for

ONE PENNY!

* * A liberal allowance made to the Trade, who are requested to send in their orders immediately, as the demand is great, and they will be supplied in rotation.

LONDON:—Brittain, Paternoster-row; Cleave, Shoe-lane; and Berger, Holywell-street, Strand.

Price 2d. or by post 3d.

CAUTIONS AND TESTIMONY AGAINST ODD FELLOWSHIP, by H. MUDGE, Surgeon, Bodmin.

Also, price 2s. or by post 2s. 6d., by the same author,

EXPOSURE OF ODD FELLOWSHIP;

Showing its immoral tendency and bankrupt circumstances, and containing as well a large amount of information on the subject of Friendly Societies. WHITTAKER, London; LIDDELL, Bodmin.

£1000 FOR SALE AT THE FIRST MEETING.

"THOSE WHO POSSESS CAPITAL MAY INVEST IT WITH GREAT ADVANTAGE AND PROFIT TO THEMSELVES IN CONSULTING THE CONVENIENCES AND DISPENSING COMFORTS TO THEIR POORER BRETHREN."—PRINCE ALBERT.

ISLINGTON, HORNSEY & HIGHGATE

BUILDING AND INVESTMENT ASSOCIATION. Shares £120. Subscription 10s. Entrance Fee 2s. 6d. No Redemption Fee. No fine on withdrawal. Fixed Law Charges. The First subscription will be due and payable on Monday Oct. 18th, 1848, from 7 to 9 o'clock p.m. when £1000 will be offered to the members. For List of Patrons, Trustees and Directors see Prospectus, which may be obtained by remitting a postage stamp to the Manager, Mr. THOS. RIDDELL, 40, Gibson Square, Islington.

* * Ladies and Minors are admissible as Members.

IMPORTANT TO ALL SMOKERS.

Just Published, Price 5d., by post 6d.

THE EVIL CONSEQUENCES OF THIS pernicious and destructive habit fully pointed out in a small "Pamphlet." With the opinions of celebrated Physicians on the subject. Every Smoker should be in possession of this very valuable information, and particularly the Sickly Smoker.

Address to "Marshall," Post Office, Buckland, near Dover, Kent.

P. S. Please to enclose a sixpence in preference to stamps.

NOTICE TO ADVERTISERS.

THE PROTESTANT DISSENTER'S ALMANACK FOR 1849.—All ADVERTISEMENTS intended for this Almanack ought to be sent immediately to the Publisher, JOHN SNOW, Paternoster-row. The sale for 1848 was upwards of THIRTY-FIVE THOUSAND copies. A circulation of TWENTY THOUSAND is guaranteed to Advertisers. A more desirable medium for advertising Schools, Life Assurance Offices, Literature, and General Business, cannot be presented.

To be Published by Subscription, in 1 Vol. cloth boards, Price 2s. 6d.; Superior Copies, 3s. 6d.

ESSAYS IN PROSE AND VERSE, by W. A. PALLISTER. The Author of these Essays belongs to the Working Class. His principal aim in these Essays, is the furtherance of the Temperance Reformation; and he trusts they will be acceptable, not only to members of Temperance Societies, but also to others, to whom popular movements have a philosophic interest, as phenomena illustrating the spirit and tendency of the age; and to that larger number of the thoughtfully benevolent, who delight to foster the intellectual and moral aspirations of the class to which the Author belongs.

"These Essays and Poems richly deserve to be placed in a more permanent form. They expound and illustrate the principles, objects, and worth of the Temperance Reformation, in an earnest and eloquent style. They are calculated to convince the sceptical and arouse the half-hearted. The volume is well entitled to the support of Temperance Reformers throughout the kingdom."—Mr. John Andrew, Jun.

"We are glad to learn that our friend W. A. Pallister, who by his contributions has so frequently enriched our pages, is about to collect his Temperance Essays, for publication in a neat volume. Without offence to our numerous and talented contributors, we trust we may be permitted to say, that many of our best articles have been written by him. We hope Mr. P. will meet with the support which his long attachment and services to the cause of temperance merits."—Editors National Temperance Advocate.

Similar expressions of opinion have been given by others familiar with the Author's Essays, including Dr. Lees; Thos. Beaumont, Esq., M.R.C.S., Bradford.

Leeds; W. H. Walker.

The New Weekly Family Newspaper! Price Three-Halfpence, (Post Free.)

ON SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 2nd, the 1st Number will be Published, of the CAUSE OF THE PEOPLE, A Weekly Temperance and General Newspaper.

THE CAUSE OF THE PEOPLE will advocate the great cause of Temperance, and will attempt to prove that while the drinking system is silently but surely undermining the national character and resources—the physical and moral health of the people—it directly tends to make the working classes more poor, wretched, and dependant, than any other system by which they are oppressed—fitting them to become the ready and servile tools of tyrants—and, at the same time, preventing them from obtaining such Political Institutions, Laws, and Privileges, as would place within their reach those facilities for the acquirement of property, political eminence, intellectual cultivation, moral development, physical amelioration and domestic enjoyment, which the rich possess, but from which the poor, in the present order of things, are almost, if not altogether, excluded.

THE CAUSE OF THE PEOPLE will support all measures calculated to promote the well being of the people, by whatever party brought forward; and any well written political article will be inserted, let the writer be Tory, Whig, Radical, or Chartist. The reader will thus have an opportunity of hearing all sides, and of judging for himself.

Articles on the Currency; Good Wages, and how to obtain them; the Peace Question; the Law of Primogeniture; the Franchise; Domestic Economy; the state of the Markets, and of Trade, will be inserted in THE CAUSE OF THE PEOPLE.

All Communications must be addressed, and Post Office Orders made payable, to RICHARD WAKELIN, West Bromwich.

Enclose 1s. 6d. in a prepaid letter to the above address, and the "Cause of the People" will be sent to you for 13 weeks, POST FREE. Early orders are respectfully solicited.

To be had of all Booksellers and News Agents.

Agent for London: W. BRITAIN, Paternoster Row.

Agents wanted—Commission 2s per Cent.

LIVESEY'S famous MALT LECTURES,

Including a complete exposure of the great delusion as to the properties of Malt Liquors. Formerly published at Sixpence. A new edition for ONE PENNY.

W. BRITAIN, 54, Paternoster Row, London.

THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM.

THE ADVOCATE OF
POLITICAL, COMMERCIAL AND RELIGIOUS LIBERTY, EQUITABLE TAXATION AND RETRENCHMENT.

It must be obvious to every attentive observer of the times in which we live, that they are pregnant with the most momentous events. All reflecting men are thoroughly convinced that a current has set in which may be guided, but which it is impossible to resist; and that, although our own country has not been visited by the convulsions which have changed the destinies of other parts of Europe, the elements which cause such convulsions are not wanting among ourselves. It becomes, then, every patriot to be awake, and to consecrate himself to the task of endeavouring so to direct the tide of public opinion, that it shall eventuate the greatest possible amount of prosperity, not only to the British Empire, but to the whole human family. To this end is devoted: and no expense nor effort is spared to render it a powerful and worthy instrument for this glorious object.

“THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM”

AS A WEEKLY NEWSPAPER,

it is distinguished by the copiousness and accuracy of its intelligence. Its grand mission, however, is to promote the cause of liberty, of just and rational liberty. As the advocate of

POLITICAL FREEDOM,

it will aim to unite the middle and humbler classes in a temperate, but firm and uncompromising effort to secure such an extension of the suffrage as shall cause the Commons House of Parliament to become a real, and not, as it is now, a false and deceptive representation of the people. With regard to

COMMERCIAL FREEDOM,

its creed will be that of the Cobden school; and its columns will present unquestionable evidence that no truce will be held with monopolies and class interests of any description; nor with any imposts or restrictions that in any way cripple enterprise, burden industry, or interfere with the rights of either capital or labour. Upon the subject of it will know no law but that of the New Testament; and no arbiter, on earth, but that of Conscience. It will treat all meddling, on the part of civil authorities, with religious opinion, or acts of worship, as both foolish and unrighteous usurpation; as not only opposed to the authority of the supreme Lawgiver, but as tending to destroy the very nature of religion, which is a voluntary homage rendered to the commands of God, and not of man.

RELIGIOUS FREEDOM

The claim of the TEMPERANCE MOVEMENT will be duly regarded.

THE VAST IMPORTANCE OF EMIGRATION,

and the numerous inquiries made upon the subject by parties about to emigrate, have induced the Proprietor to enter into arrangements for devoting a portion of his journal to correct and authentic information useful and valuable to the Emigrant. This department is under the superintendence of an able and experienced Editor, who has at his command every resource for giving sound, practical advice, as well as furnishing satisfactory answers to all suitable inquiries from those about to Emigrate. Neither expense nor exertion will be spared to render this part of the paper both full and complete.

“THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM”

is of the largest dimensions allowed by law, being beyond the size of the double Times. The price—4½d., or 4s. 9d. per quarter, paid in advance.

THREE EDITIONS are published; the first on FRIDAY AFTERNOON, in time for the Mails of that evening; the second at an early hour on SATURDAY MORNING, for town and country circulation; and the third edition at three o'clock on SATURDAY AFTERNOON, containing the latest intelligence up to the hour of going to press.

All communications for “THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM” must be directed “To the Editors, 335, Strand.” Post-office and money-orders must be made payable to JOHN CASSELL; to whom also Advertisements may be sent, directed as above.

Orders for “THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM” will be received by all news-venders in town and country.

JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEES.

THE celebrity which those delicious COFFEES have attained is quite unparalleled. The enormous demand created for them throughout Great Britain and Ireland is a sufficient indication of the manner in which they are appreciated by those individuals and families who have made trial of them. The excellence of the COFFEES imported by JOHN CASSELL, and sold by his Agents, consists in their great strength, combined with a rich and mellow flavour, peculiar to the world's finest growths. At the same time they are sold at prices usually charged for very inferior articles. The following are the PRICES at which any quantity, from two ounces to one pound, may be obtained :—

John Cassell's Coffee, No. 1. An excellent article. . . . .	1s. 4d.
John Cassell's Coffee, No. 2. Cannot fail to give great satisfaction, being a combination of the choicest growths of Jamaica, possessing richness, strength, and flavour. . . . .	1s. 8d.
John Cassell's Coffee, No. 3. To every connoisseur in Coffee, this will prove a treat, combining the finest mountain growths of both Jamaica and Turkey. . . . .	2s. 0d.

Each Package forms a handsome Catty, lined with lead, so that the aroma and essential oil,—which constitute the excellence of a cup of really good Coffee,—are most effectually preserved.

“GOOD COFFEE!” WHAT IS IT?

It is not that bitter, stringent article which grows on the wilds of Ceylon; nor is it merely an article of a light, pleasant flavour, but destitute of strength. It is a combination of the world's MOUNTAIN GROWTHS, and possesses the following qualities: strong, but mellow, having a rich aromatic fragrance and flavour. To have really good Coffee, the best mountain growths must be selected, and judiciously combined, by an experienced hand: they must be roasted upon scientific principles, so that the vegetable oil may not be injured, but the berry retain those properties which render a good cup of Coffee so pleasant to the palate, and so exhilarating to the nervous system. It is because they possess these qualities in the highest degree, that JOHN CASSELL'S Coffees are in such great repute. Let all who wish to obtain such articles in perfection purchase these Coffees, and their constant patronage will be secured.

THE AGENCY FOR JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE.

A considerable number of Agents have already been appointed, and Agents will be appointed to those Towns in which there is not one at present. Persons desirous of securing this valuable Agency, are requested to make immediate application. To meet the constantly increasing demand, powerful machinery has been put in requisition, so that no disappointment may be experienced. The Agents will thus be able to keep up a constant supply of fresh COFFEE of first rate quality.

“A PEEP AT THE MONSTER COFFEE ESTABLISHMENT.—There has recently sprung up in the metropolis, an establishment which bids fair to rival that of Messrs. Barclay and Co., the great brewers, in extent. It is however erected for a very different purpose, namely, to supply the inhabitants of the United Kingdom with Coffees fully equal in quality to those which have been justly celebrated on the Continent. We refer to the premises on which John Cassell's Coffees are dressed, roasted, ground, and packed. A stranger, who observed the machinery in operation and the number of hands employed, would scarcely credit the fact that one individual could, in so brief a space of time, have created a demand sufficient to keep such a vast concern in full operation. On one floor is seen a row of furnaces with roasting apparatus, on an improved principle, under the care of an able superintendent. In the grinding department a number of mills of large dimensions, worked by a powerful steam-engine, are pouring forth from morning till night, a continued stream, as it were, of Coffee, which fills the premises and vicinity with its aromatic fragrance. Then there is the packing department; to this the Coffee is taken fresh from the mills, and is immediately made up with astonishing dispatch into very neat packages, encased in tinfoil, so that the strength and flavour are most effectually preserved. The ingenious process by which these beautiful packages are made up it is difficult to describe. Numerous other hands are busily employed in consigning large parcels to every part of the United Kingdom. And thus the public have the opportunity of obtaining truly delicious Coffees, in all their freshness.”—London Mercury.

☞ All applications for this valuable AGENCY to be made direct to JOHN CASSELL, ABCHURCH-LANE, LONDON, or the Wholesale Agents as above.

THE TEETOTAL ESSAYIST; or Monthly Temperance Standard, for 1847. London: W. Brittain, Paternoster-Row.

This may now be had complete, price ONE SHILLING.

CONTENTS:

Teetotalism essential to the Elevation of the Working Classes. By D. G. PAINE.

The Temperance Movement in its important bearings on the Sanitary condition of the People. By THOMAS BEGGS.

Total Abstinence from strong drinks important to Female Honour and Happiness. By D. G. PAINE.

Tom Rudge and his friend; shewing what Tom lost by "that last glass of Brandy and Water." By Mrs. S. C. HALL.

Appeal to Females, in behalf of the Total Abstinence movement. By Dr. E. NOTT, President of Union College, New York.

The Worn Thimble; a Story of Woman's Duty and Woman's Influence. By Mrs. S. C. HALL.

Important Medical Testimony; with several hundred signatures.

Christian Duty; or the importance of the Temperance Reformation in connexion with the maintenance and spread of Christianity. By E. W. WHEELER, Missionary.

The Moral Obligation of Total Abstinence. By EVAN JONES.

Intemperance the Antagonist of Education. By W. R. BAKER.

The Duty of Sabbath School Teachers, in regard to Total Abstinence. By EVAN JONES.

Reasons why Sabbath School Teachers should be Teetotals. By MICHAEL YOUNG.

Bearings of the Temperance question on the interest of the Young. By W. REID.

The Drinking system and Juvenile Delinquency. By THOMAS BEGGS.

Aids to the Evangelical Alliance in its enquiry as to the connexion between Infidelity and Teetotalism. With testimonies from upwards of SEVENTY Ministers and Gentlemen.

The Evils of Moderate Drinking. By EVAN JONES.

The Inconsistency of those Christians and Philanthropists who sanction the use of Intoxicating Liquors. By D. G. PAINE.

Address to Moderate Drinkers. By ELIHU BURRITT.

The Temperance Movement;—its past history—present position—future prospects and connexion with other great movements of the age. By THOMAS BEGGS.

It will be seen that this forms the most interesting and important publication that has ever been issued from the Temperance Press. As but very few sets remain on hand, an early application will be necessary. A copy will be sent, post free, to any person remitting twelve postage stamps, to JOHN CASSELL, 22, Abchurch Lane, London.

TWELFTH THOUSAND.

INTEMPERANCE THE IDOLATRY OF

BRITAIN. By the Rev. W. R. BAKER, author of "The Curse of Britain," &c. It is admitted by the most eminent of the religious reviewers, as well as by all who have read it, that there never was a work upon the Temperance Question more calculated to carry conviction to the mind of a thoughtful reader as the danger and iniquity of the drinking system. That it may have a very extensive circulation, this new and revised edition is published at THREEPENCE:—the price of the former editions was 2s. 6d. The usual allowance will be made to Societies, or persons taking a quantity.

DR. NOTT'S LECTURES.

NATURE AND PROVIDENCE,

REPLYING TO THE QUESTION WHAT IS THE DUTY OF MAN IN RELATION TO THE USE OF INTOXICATING LIQUORS. In four eloquent and powerful LECTURES, by ELIPHALET NOTT, D.D., LL.D., President of Union College, New York. Carefully revised with an appendix. In 32 very closely printed pages, crown octavo. Price ONE PENNY.

THE BEST OF MEN SOMETIMES IN ERROR. By ARCHDEACON JEFFREYS, of Bomlay. The object of this incomparable Essay is to show that the advocates of the Total Abstinence System have the full warrant of Scripture for their labour of mercy and love. The style in which this sentiment is reasoned is such as to carry conviction to all who profess to be influenced by the law of love. 1s. 6d. per 100.

SUNDAY SCHOOL PRIZE TRACTS.
Just Published, price 1s. 4d. per 100.

THE IMPORTANCE of the TEMPERANCE MOVEMENT, in its bearings on SUNDAY SCHOOLS, THE YOUNG, THE HOPE OF THE TEMPERANCE REFORMATION.

Other Tracts on the same subject are in preparation.
E. L. GREEN, 62, Paternoster Row, London.

THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM.

BENJAMIN LEOPARD GREEN, 62, Paternoster Row, will be happy to supply the above Newspaper. Those who are desirous of favouring him with their orders, should send them immediately, as an extraordinary demand has been created. Terms, 4s. 9d. per Quarter paid in advance.

DR. CHEYNE'S

COUGH AND PULMONIC LOZENGES.

THE merits of this agreeable and efficacious remedy for colds, coughs, hoarseness, difficulty of breathing, and asthmatic and consumptive complaints, are daily made more and more apparent. All persons suffering from the above, or similar complaints, will do well immediately to test the efficacy of these Lozenges. They give instant relief, by promoting free expectoration, and preventing an undue accumulation of phlegm, at the same time that they allay the sensation of tickling in the throat, and fear of suffocation, and prevent those violent paroxysms of coughing, which are so distressing and dangerous. These Lozenges may be taken without any fear of disordering the stomach. On the contrary, they operate as a tonic, and materially strengthen the digestive organs.

AFFECTIONS OF THE THROAT.

Many persons suffer greatly from the irritation produced on the mucous membranes of the Trachea, the Bronchial vessels, and the air-cells of the lungs, by the inhalation of cold, damp, or foggy atmospheres. These membranes are far more sensitive in some persons than in others. Hence, under sudden alternations of heat and cold, or on the approach even of the slightest change in the external air, a tickling, painful cough, and laboured respiration is sure to ensue, and if neglected, to prove fatal. Under these circumstances, Dr. Cheyne's Lozenges will prove eminent service, by strengthening the lungs to resist the effect of sudden changes, by blunting the acrimony of the humours and by allaying the irritation which produces that painful spasmodic effort, familiarly termed coughing.

HOARSENESS.

This most unpleasant, painful and disqualifying result of taking cold, may be removed by the use, even for a short time, of Dr. Cheyne's Lozenges. Hence, public speakers, singers, &c., will find them of peculiar advantage.

ASTHMA.

This painful disease of the lungs may be greatly mitigated in its effect, by the use of Dr. Cheyne's Lozenges. In cases of moist asthma, they will prevent that soreness which is the result of constant expectoration, and in cases of dry or nervous asthma, they will promote that degree of expectoration by which the painful coughing may be greatly prevented, or most materially relieved.

TO ATTENDANTS ON PUBLIC WORSHIP.

Nothing can be annoying to a congregation than to have persons present in a place of worship who are afflicted with a noisy harassing cough. It is most distressing to the individual afflicted, and his attempts to stifle it often increase the irritation and the pain; while to those who conduct the worship it is a source of inconceivable embarrassment, and of great nervous excitement. All these inconveniences may at once be obviated by persons furnishing themselves with a few of Dr. Cheyne's Cough and Pulmonic Lozenges.

TESTIMONIALS.

The following are among the most recent testimonials as to the value and efficacy of Dr. Cheyne's Cough and Pulmonic Lozenges:—

From the Rev. J. Crampin, Baptist Minister, Stretham, Isle of Ely.

"I am compelled to say that after nearly twenty years public speaking, I have never yet met with anything so effectually easing to the chest—so unobnoxious to the lungs—and so clearing to the voice, as Dr. Cheyne's Cough and Pulmonic Lozenges. I have used but one Box, but such is their pleasantness and usefulness, that I would not be without them for ten times their cost."

To Mr. J. Eberington, Church-street, Gainsborough.

"Sir, I have been afflicted for years with a bad cough. I could not sleep at night, and sometimes coughed to that degree, that the neighbours thought I should burst a blood vessel. I was induced to try a box of Dr. Cheyne's Lozenges, which was purchased at your shop, and after taking ten Lozenges, my cough left me. I give you leave to publish this statement for the benefit of others."—Elyton, near Gainsborough. "JANE HUNT."

CAUTION.—As a variety of Lozenges, Wafers, and Tablets are advertised, containing ingredients of an injurious nature, the public are particularly requested to ask for DR. CHEYNE'S COUGH AND PULMONIC LOZENGES, and to observe that the words "DR. CHEYNE'S COUGH LOZENGES," are engraved on the Government Stamp, which, with Directions for Use, is wrapped round each Box.

Sold in Boxes at 1s. 11d. and 2s. 9d. each.

By Messrs. Sutton, 10, Bow Church-yard; Barelay's, 95, Farringdon-street; Edwards, 67, St. Paul's Church-yard; Dietrichsen and Co., 63, Oxford-street; Sauser, 150, Oxford-street; Wiloughby, 95, Bishopgate-street Without; Johnson, 68, Cornhill; King, 34, Napier-street, Hoxton; Eulton and Co., York; Raines and Co., Edinburgh; and by at least one Agent in every Town throughout the United Kingdom.

Printed and Published for the Proprietor, by RICHARD GOSSET, at his Office, No. 20, Queen-street, St. Helier's, Jersey.

FRIDAY, September 1, 1848.

THE
TEETOTAL TIMES
AND ESSAYIST.

PUBLISHED MONTHLY.

No. X. NEW SERIES.]

JERSEY, OCTOBER, 1848.

[PRICE ONE PENNY.]

PROTESTANT DISSENER'S ALMANACK.

On the 1st of November, will be published, price THREEPENNY.
THE PROTESTANT DISSENER'S ALMANACK FOR 1849.—This will form the cheapest and most interesting Almanack for Nonconformists ever published. Besides the usual Calendar, full of information as to the births and deaths of eminent men, and of historical events, tide tables, sun's rising and setting, and all matters pertaining to Almanacks, it will contain a series of ably written original articles on Religious Liberty—the separation of Church and State—State Endowments of English and Irish Churches—Regium Donum, &c. Also copious and correct statistics of the various Protestant Dissenting Denominations, and other important information as to Benevolent and Religious Institutions, obtained expressly for this Almanack from the most authentic sources. This Almanack, independent of Advertisements, will contain sixty-four closely printed pages, in crown octavo, proving its claim to be one of the cheapest Almanacks ever published.

TO ADVERTISERS.—The sale of the Protestant Dissenter's Almanack for 1848, was THIRTY-FIVE THOUSAND copies. A circulation of TWENTY THOUSAND is guaranteed to Advertisers. A more desirable medium for advertising Schools, Life Insurance Offices, Literature and General business, cannot be presented. Advertisements must be sent immediately to the publisher. None can be received after October 10.

JOHN SNOW, 35, PATERNOSTER ROW, LONDON.

IMPORTANT TO EMIGRANTS.

Shortly will be published, price THREEPENNY,

THE EMIGRANT'S ALMANACK AND DIRECTORY for 1849. This important publication will be compiled by the Editors of that portion of the "Standard of Freedom," entitled "The Emigrant's Informant." They have had placed at their command every resource, so that the information given may be fully relied on. The Almanack, in addition to the matter common to Almanacks, will contain a compendious mass of information, of the greatest possible moment to all who intend to emigrate, or who feel interested in the question of emigration.

A limited number of ADVERTISEMENTS will be admitted; these must be forwarded immediately. A circulation of TEN THOUSAND is guaranteed to Advertisers.

Published at the Office of the "Standard of Freedom," 335, Strand, London, and to be had of all Booksellers and News Venders.

THE BEST & CHEAPEST ALMANACK EVER PUBLISHED.

Now Ready,

THE PEOPLE'S ALMANACK FOR 1849;

WITH CHARACTERISTIC ENGRAVINGS.

BESIDES the usual Calendar, it contains a mass of matter deeply interesting to every class of the community, in connexion with Political, Commercial, and Religious Freedom. Among the articles are, an Address to the People of England—Lord John Russell and his finality system, with an engraving—Distribution of the soil—The poor man's share of taxation—War and strong drink—Abuses of the Church—Statistics of Great Britain—Intemperance and cholera—Cost of the Civil Government—Cost of justice—Inequalities of taxation—Inequalities of the representation—The Royal bill of fare—Co-operation, its nature and advantages—Evils of war—Failure of physical force—Valuable domestic recipes—List of Fairs, &c. The contents fully justify its claim to the title of THE PEOPLE'S ALMANACK. It is printed from good clear type on good paper; it contains thirty-two pages, crown octavo, and is sold for

ONE PENNY!

*A liberal allowance made to the Trade, who are requested to send in their orders immediately, as the demand is great, and they will be supplied in rotation.

LONDON:—Brittain, Paternoster-row; Cleave, Shoe-lane; and Berger, Holywell-street, Strand.

Price 2d. or by post 3d.

CAUTIONS AND TESTIMONY AGAINST ODD FELLOWSHIP, by H. MUDGE, Surgeon, Bodmin.

Also, price 2s. or by post 2s. 6d., by the same author,

EXPOSURE OF ODD FELLOWSHIP:

Showing its immoral tendency and bankrupt circumstance, and containing as well a large amount of information on the subject of Friendly Societies. WHITTAKER, London; LIDDELL, Bodmin.

TO THE TEETOTALERS AND TEMPERATE INHABITANTS OF GREAT BRITAIN.

ON SATURDAY, Sept. 23, a Warehouse was opened at 47, LUDGATE HILL, in furtherance of your cause, recommending the leaf which produces the beverage that "cheers, but does not inebriate," at 3s. 6d. or 4s. per lb., which produces a decoction of TEA, good enough for any family in the kingdom, and COFFEE at 1s. 4d. and 1s. 6d., rich and rare, against all the patents that have been taken out for doing a great many wonderful things to this delicious berry. Black Tea, from 2s. 10d. to 4s.; Green do. from 3s. to 6s. Coffee, from 9d. to 1s. 6d. For cash net, orders by post or carriers will command the best attention. Your most obedient servants, 47, Ludgate Hill. FRYER and Co.

This day is published, price 2s. 6d., (by post, 3s.) with an Engraving of the Improved Steam Bath,

ATMOPATHY and HYDROPATHY; or how to prevent and cure Diseases by the application of Steam and Water, by DAVID ROSS, of Manchester.

The Author has wrought the most amazing cures in upwards of 40 towns in England, as well as in the sister country, many of which are stated in the work.

LONDON: Simpkin, Marshall and Co. IPSWICH: Burton; and all Booksellers.

ISLINGTON, HORNSEY, & HIGHGATE

BUILDING and INVESTMENT ASSOCIATION. Share, £120. Subscription, 10s. Entrance, 2s. 6d. No Redemption Fee. No fine on withdrawal.

N.B. The FIRST SUBSCRIPTION MEETING is postponed till November 1848.

THOS. RIDDELL, Secretary, 46, Gibson Square, Islington.

MISSIONARY OR TEMPERANCE COLLECTING BOXES.

Handsome Covers for Boxes printed in gold, to form an ornament for the parlour table or mantel-piece, may be had post-free at 6s. 6d. per doz. Single specimens of the covers will be sent in return for eight postage stamps, or one of the boxes mounted and varnished for 30 postage stamps. The title on these covers being "Temperance Society," they are available for any part of the country; but societies ordering not less than 50, can have the name of their own society printed without extra charge.

Orders with remittances, to be addressed to Mr. T. B. Smithies, Secretary Temperance Society, York.

BETTER TIMES.

ALL WHO WISH FOR BETTER TIMES

should read "THE AGE THAT'S COMING," a new work on the Social and Moral condition of the British nation, present and prospective, by PETER BURNS, Price 3d.

London: Hall and Co., 25 Paternoster Row, and all booksellers.

In a few days will be published, Price 6d.

INTEMPERANCE, THE PESTILENCE OF THE AGE, and the duties of the Christian Citizen of the World in the midst of this Pestilence.

London: CHARLES GILPIN; Carlisle: I. F. WHITTRIDGE, and H. SCOTT.—Newcastle: T. BARKAS, and all Booksellers.

THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM;

THE ADVOCATE OF
POLITICAL, COMMERCIAL AND RELIGIOUS LIBERTY, EQUITABLE TAXATION AND RETRENCHMENT.

It must be obvious to every attentive observer of the times in which we live, that they are pregnant with the most momentous events. All reflecting men are thoroughly convinced that a current has set in which may be guided, but which it is impossible to resist; and that, although our own country has not been visited by the convulsions which have changed the destinies of other parts of Europe, the elements which cause such convulsions are not wanting among ourselves. It becomes, then, every patriot to be awake, and to consecrate himself to the task of endeavouring so to direct the tide of public opinion, that it shall eventuate the greatest possible amount of prosperity, not only to the British Empire, but to the whole human family. To this end is devoted: and no expense nor effort is spared to render it a powerful and worthy instrument for this glorious object.

“THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM”

AS A WEEKLY NEWSPAPER,

it is distinguished by the copiousness and accuracy of its intelligence. Its grand mission, however, is to promote the cause of liberty, of just and rational liberty. As the advocate of

POLITICAL FREEDOM,

it aims to unite the middle and humbler classes in a temperate, but firm and uncompromising effort to secure such an extension of the suffrage as shall cause the Commons House of Parliament to become a real, and not, as it is now, a false and deceptive representation of the people. With regard to

COMMERCIAL FREEDOM,

its creed that of the Cobden school; and its columns present unquestionable evidence that no truce will be held with monopolies and class interests of any description; nor with any imposts or restrictions that in any way cripple enterprise, burden industry, or interfere with the rights of either capital or labour. Upon the subject of it owns no law but that of the New Testament; and no arbiter, on earth, but that of Conscience. It treats all meddling, on the part of civil authorities, with religious opinion, or acts of worship, as both foolish and unrighteous usurpation; as not only opposed to the authority of the supreme Lawgiver, but as tending to destroy the very nature of religion, which is a voluntary homage rendered to the commands of God, and not of man.

RELIGIOUS FREEDOM

THE TEMPERANCE MOVEMENT.

The claims of this movement are duly regarded, and its intimate connexion with other great movements clearly pointed out.

THE VAST IMPORTANCE OF EMIGRATION,

and the numerous inquiries made upon the subject by parties about to emigrate, have induced the Proprietor to enter into arrangements for devoting a portion of his journal to correct and authentic information useful and valuable to the Emigrant. This department is under the superintendence of an able and experienced Editor, who has at his command every resource for giving sound, practical advice, as well as furnishing satisfactory answers to all suitable inquiries from those about to Emigrate. Neither expense nor exertion will be spared to render this part of the paper both full and complete.

“THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM”

is of the largest dimensions allowed by law, being beyond the size of the double Times. The price—4½d., or 4s. 9d. per quarter, paid in advance.

THREE EDITIONS are published; the first on FRIDAY AFTERNOON, in time for the Mails of that evening; the second at an early hour on SATURDAY MORNING, for town and country circulation; and the third edition at three o'clock on SATURDAY AFTERNOON, containing the latest intelligence up to the hour of going to press.

All communications for “THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM” must be directed “To the Editors, 335, Strand.” Post-office and money-orders must be made payable to JOHN CASSELL; to whom also Advertisements may be sent, directed as above.

Orders for “THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM” will be received by all newsvenders in town and country.

JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEES.

THE celebrity which these delicious COFFEES have attained is quite unparalleled. The enormous demand created for them throughout Great Britain and Ireland is a sufficient indication of the manner in which they are appreciated by those individuals and families who have made trial of them. The excellence of the COFFEES imported by JOHN CASSELL, and sold by his Agents, consists in their great strength, combined with a rich and mellow flavour, peculiar to the world's finest growths. At the same time they are sold at prices usually charged for very inferior articles. The following are the PRICES at which any quantity, from two ounces to one pound, may be obtained :—

John Cassell's Coffee, No. 1. An excellent article, . . . . .	1s. 4d.
John Cassell's Coffee, No. 2. Cannot fail to give great satisfaction, being a combination of the choicest growths of Jamaica, possessing richness, strength, and flavour. . . . .	1s. 8d.
John Cassell's Coffee, No. 3. To every connoisseur in Coffee, this will prove a treat, combining the finest mountain growths of both Jamaica and Turkey. . . . .	2s. 0d.

Each Package forms a handsome Catty, lined with lead, so that the aroma and essential oil,—which constitute the excellence of a cup of really good Coffee,—are most effectually preserved.

“GOOD COFFEE!” WHAT IS IT?

It is not that bitter, stringent article which grows on the wilds of Ceylon; nor is it merely an article of a light, pleasant flavour, but destitute of strength. It is a combination of the world's MOUNTAIN GROWTHS, and possesses the following qualities: strong, but mellow, having a rich aromatic fragrance and flavour. To have really good Coffee, the best mountain growths must be selected, and judiciously combined, by an experienced hand: they must be roasted upon scientific principles, so that the vegetable oil may not be injured, but the berry retain those properties which render a good cup of Coffee so pleasant to the palate, and so exhilarating to the nervous system. It is because they possess these qualities in the highest degree, that JOHN CASSELL'S Coffees are in such great repute. Let all who wish to obtain such articles in perfection purchase these Coffees, and their constant patronage will be secured.

THE AGENCY FOR JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE.

A considerable number of Agents have already been appointed, and Agents will be appointed to those Towns in which there is not one at present. Persons desirous of securing this valuable Agency, are requested to make immediate application. To meet the constantly increasing demand, powerful machinery has been put in requisition, so that no disappointment may be experienced. The Agents will thus be able to keep up a constant supply of fresh COFFEE of first rate quality.

“A PEEP AT THE MONSTER COFFEE ESTABLISHMENT.—There has recently sprung up in the metropolis, an establishment which bids fair to rival that of Messrs. Barclay and Co., the great brewers, in extent. It is however erected for a very different purpose, namely, to supply the inhabitants of the United Kingdom with Coffees fully equal in quality to those which have been justly celebrated on the Continent. We refer to the premises on which John Cassell's Coffees are dressed, roasted, ground, and packed. A stranger, who observed the machinery in operation and the number of hands employed, would scarcely credit the fact that one individual could, in so brief a space of time, have created a demand sufficient to keep such a vast concern in full operation. On one floor is seen a row of furnaces with roasting apparatus, on an improved principle, under the care of an able superintendent. In the grinding department a number of mills of large dimensions, worked by a powerful steam-engine, are pouring forth from morning till night, a continued stream, as it were, of Coffee, which fills the premises and vicinity with its aromatic fragrance. Then there is the packing department; to this the Coffee is taken fresh from the mills, and is immediately made up with astonishing dispatch into very neat packages, encased in tinfoil, so that the strength and flavour are most effectually preserved. The ingenious process by which these beautiful packages are made up it is difficult to describe. Numerous other hands are busily employed in consigning large parcels to every part of the United Kingdom. And thus the public have the opportunity of obtaining truly delicious Coffees, in all their freshness.”—London Mercury.

☞ All applications for this valuable AGENCY to be made direct to JOHN CASSELL, ABCHURCH-LANE, LONDON, or the Wholesale Agents as above.

To be Published by Subscription, in 1 Vol. cloth boards, Price 2s. 6d.; Superior Copies, 3s. 6d.

ESSAYS IN PROSE AND VERSE, by W. A. PALLISTER. The Author of these Essays belongs to the Working Class. His principal aim in these Essays, is the furtherance of the Temperance Reformation; and he trusts they will be acceptable, not only to members of Temperance Societies, but also to others, to whom popular movements have a philosophic interest, as phenomena illustrating the spirit and tendency of the age; and to that larger number of the thoughtfully benevolent, who delight to foster the intellectual and moral aspirations of the class to which the Author belongs.

"These Essays and Poems richly deserve to be placed in a more permanent form. They expound and illustrate the principles, objects, and worth of the Temperance Reformation, in an earnest and eloquent style. They are calculated to convince the sceptical and arouse the half-hearted. The volume is well entitled to the support of Temperance Reformers throughout the kingdom."—Mr. John Andrew, Jun.

"We are glad to learn that our friend W. A. Pallister, who by his contributions has so frequently enriched our pages, is about to collect his Temperance Essays, for publication in a neat volume. Without offence to our numerous and talented contributors, we trust we may be permitted to say, that many of our best articles have been written by him. We hope Mr. P. will meet with the support which his long attachment and services to the cause of temperance merits."—Editors National Temperance Advocate.

Similar expressions of opinion have been given by others familiar with the Author's Essays, including Dr. Lees; Thos. Beaumont, Esq., M. R. C. S., Bradford. Leeds; W. H. Walker.

THE TEETOTAL ESSAYIST; or Monthly Temperance Standard, for 1847. London: W. Brittain, Paternoster-Row.

This may now be had complete, price ONE SHILLING.

CONTENTS:

Teetotalism essential to the Elevation of the Working Classes. By D. G. PAINE.

The Temperance Movement in its important bearings on the Sanitary condition of the People. By THOMAS BEGGS.

Total Abstinence from strong drinks important to Female Honour and Happiness. By D. G. PAINE.

Tom Rudge and his friend; shewing what Tom lost by "that last glass of Brandy and Water." By Mrs. S. C. HALL.

Appeal to Females, in behalf of the Total Abstinence movement. By Dr. E. NORTON, President of Union College, New York.

The Worn Thimble; a Story of Woman's Duty and Woman's Influence. By Mrs. S. C. HALL.

Important Medical Testimony; with several hundred signatures.

Christian Duty; or the importance of the Temperance Reformation in connexion with the maintenance and spread of Christianity. By F. W. WHEELER, Missionary.

The Moral Obligation of Total Abstinence. By EVAN JONES.

Intemperance the Antagonist of Education. By W. R. BAKER.

The Duty of Sabbath School Teachers, in regard to Total Abstinence. By EVAN JONES.

Reasons why Sabbath School Teachers should be Teetotalers. By MICHAEL YOUNG.

Bearings of the Temperance question on the interest of the Young. By W. REID.

The Drinking system and Juvenile Delinquency. By THOMAS BEGGS.

Aids to the Evangelical Alliance in its enquiry as to the connexion between Infidelity and Teetotalism. With testimonies from upwards of SEVENTY Ministers and Gentlemen.

The Evils of Moderate Drinking. By EVAN JONES.

The Inconsistency of those Christians and Philanthropists who sanction the use of Intoxicating Liquors. By D. G. PAINE.

Address to Moderate Drinkers. By ELIHU BURRITT.

The Temperance Movement:—its past history—present position—future prospects and connexion with other great movements of the age. By THOMAS BEGGS.

It will be seen that this forms the most interesting and important publication that has ever been issued from the Temperance Press. As but very few sets remain on hand, an early application will be necessary. A copy will be sent, post free, to any person remitting twelve postage stamps, to JOHN CASSELL, 22, Abchurch Lane, London.

SUNDAY SCHOOL PRIZE TRACTS.

Just Published, price 1s. 4d. per 100.

THE IMPORTANCE of the TEMPERANCE MOVEMENT, in its bearings on SUNDAY SCHOOLS. THE YOUNG, THE HOPE OF THE TEMPERANCE REFORMATION.

Other Tracts on the same subject are in preparation.

B. L. GREEN, 62, Paternoster Row, London.

LIVESEY'S famous MALT LECTURES, including a complete exposure of the great delusion as to the properties of Malt Liquors. Formerly published at Sixpence. A new edition for ONE PENNY.

W. BRITAIN, 54, Paternoster Row, London.

DR. CHEYNE'S

COUGH AND PULMONIC LOZENGES.

THE fame of these Lozenges is fully established as the most pleasant and efficacious remedy that can be employed for the removal of coughs. To the asthmatic, or those who are afflicted with a difficulty of breathing, or a redundancy of phlegm, they give instant relief, by causing free expectoration. They allay the irritation attendant on all affections of the throat, and strengthen the lungs to resist the effects of sudden changes. They remove hoarseness and greatly improve the voice. They arrest, in its incipient stages, that fearful result of our variable atmosphere, consumption; and for diseases of the pulmonary organs, a more safe and salutary remedy cannot be applied. For aged persons they are invaluable, and none, whose lungs are in the least degree susceptible of cold, ought to be without them. They afford relief in every case of cough, and where there is no physical disorganization they will effect a cure.

From the numerous TESTIMONIALS as to the value and efficacy of Dr. Cheyne's Cough and Pulmonic Lozenges, the following are selected:—

From Mr. John Noble, Bookseller, Agent at Boston.

Boston, March 18, 1848.

DEAR SIR,—A gentleman has just communicated to me such a remarkable cure of spasmodic asthma, of many years standing, that I forward it to you for publication. He has frequently been laid aside from his business, and during the last winter was confined to his house for nine weeks, during which time he could not lie down in bed. Being induced to try Dr. Cheyne's Cough and Pulmonic Lozenges, he has experienced from them such a cure as he did not think possible. During six weeks that he has taken these invaluable Lozenges, his health has been better than for the last ten years. He can now lie down and sleep comfortably, enjoying his rest in bed from eight or nine at night until five in the morning. Instead of being confined to his room or bed, he says—"I can now walk all round my farm, and attend to my business, with ease and comfort. I consulted many of the most eminent medical practitioners in the neighbourhood without avail; nothing ever made an impression on my complaint until I tried these Lozenges."

I asked for a Testimonial, but he said, "Having four medical men relatives, he could not allow his name to be published." However, I obtained his permission to furnish this statement, which is nearly verbatim as delivered by him. Hoping this "plain, unvarnished tale" may stimulate other sufferers to try this valuable remedy, I remain, dear Sir, truly yours,

To the Proprietor of Cheyne's Lozenges. JOHN NOBLE.

From the Rev. J. Crampin, Baptist Minister, Stratham, Isle of Ely.

"I am compelled to say that after nearly twenty years public speaking, I have never yet met with anything so effectually easing to the chest—so unlogging to the lungs—and so clearing to the voice, as Dr. Cheyne's Cough and Pulmonic Lozenges. I have used but one Box, but such is their pleasantness and usefulness, that I would not be without them for ten times their cost."

To Mr. J. Eberington, Church-street, Gainsborough.

"Sir,—I have been afflicted for years with a bad cough. I could not sleep at night, and sometimes coughed to that degree, that the neighbours thought I should burst a blood vessel. I was induced to try a box of Dr. Cheyne's Lozenges which was purchased at your shop, and after taking ten Lozenges, my cough left me. I give you leave to publish this statement for the benefit of others."—Mlyton, near Gainsborough. "JANE HUNT."

CAUTION.—As a variety of Lozenges, Wafers, and Tablets are advertised, containing ingredients of an injurious nature, the public are particularly requested to ask for DR. CHEYNE'S COUGH AND PULMONIC LOZENGES, and to observe that the words "DR. CHEYNE'S COUGH LOZENGES," are engraved on the Government Stamp, which, with Directions for Use, is wrapped round each Box.

Sold in Boxes at 1s. 1d. and 2s. 9d. each.

By Messrs. Sutton, 10, Bow Church-yard; Barclay's, 95, Farringdon-street; Edwards, 67, St. Paul's Church-yard; Dietrichsen and Co., 63, Oxford-street; Sanger, 150, Oxford-street; Johnson, 68, Cornhill; King, 34, Napier-street, Hoxton; Bolton and Co., York; Raimes and Co., Edinburgh; and by at least one Agent in every Town throughout the United Kingdom.

Printed and Published for the Proprietor, by RICHARD GOSSET, at his Office, No. 20, Queen-Street, St. Helier's, Jersey.

MONDAY, October 2, 1848.

THE

TEETOTAL TIMES

AND ESSAYIST.

PUBLISHED MONTHLY.

No. XI. NEW SERIES.]

JERSEY, NOVEMBER, 1848.

[PRICE ONE PENNY.]

TO PROTESTANT DISSENTERS.

THE PROTESTANT DISSENTER'S ALMANACK FOR 1849, price THREEPENNY, is now ready for delivery. Besides the usual Calendar, and other information peculiar to Almanacks, it contains a number of original articles in illustration and defence of Nonconformist principles. Among these are the following:—Retrospect of 1848—Political Dissenters—Who is the Head of the Church—Grand State error of a State Church—Amount of property devoted to the State Church—Collateral machinery of a State Church—State Church a main cause of National infidelity—The State Church a monstrous failure—The Endowed Charities of England—The English Regium Donum—Irish ditto—Who will oppose the Endowment of the Irish Popish Priests. Also, copious extracts from celebrated authors, on Civil and Religious Liberty. List of Independent and Baptist Churches in London and the suburbs—British Anti State Church Association—The May Meetings—State of Education in England and Wales—Denominational Statistics (including the various Branches of Wesleyan Methodists)—Religious and Benevolent Institutions—Concluding Address to Protestant Dissenters.

THIRTY-FIVE THOUSAND Copies were sold of the Protestant Dissenter's Almanack for 1848. The impression for 1849, in addition to the original articles enumerated above, contains the largest compendium of Denominational Statistics, obtained from authentic sources, ever yet published; and the whole will be found deeply interesting to Protestant Dissenters of every denomination.

LONDON:—John Snow, 35, Paternoster Row; EDINBURGH, Zeigler, South Bridge; GLASGOW, Gallie, Buchanan-street; and may be had of all Booksellers.

IMPORTANT TO EMIGRANTS.

Just published, price THREEPENNY,

THE EMIGRANT'S ALMANACK AND DIRECTORY FOR 1849. This important publication will be compiled by the Editors of that portion of the "Standard of Freedom," entitled "The Emigrant's Informant." They have had placed at their command every resource, so that the information given may be fully relied on. The Almanack, in addition to the matter common to Almanacks, will contain a copious mass of information, of the greatest possible moment to all who intend to emigrate, or who feel interested in the question of emigration. A limited number of ADVERTISEMENTS will be admitted; these must be forwarded immediately. A circulation of TEN THOUSAND is guaranteed to Advertisers.

Published at the Office of the "Standard of Freedom," 335, Strand, London, and to be had of all Booksellers and News Venders.

THE BEST & CHEAPEST ALMANACK EVER PUBLISHED.

NOW READY.

THE PEOPLE'S ALMANACK FOR 1849;

WITH CHARACTERISTIC ENGRAVINGS.

BESIDES the usual Calendar, it contains a mass of matter deeply interesting to every class of the community, in connexion with Political, Commercial, and Religious Freedom. Among the articles are, an Address to the People of England—Lord John Russell and his finality system, with an engraving—Distribution of the soil—The poor man's share of taxation—War and strong drink—Abuses of the Church—Statistics of Great Britain—Intemperance and cholera—Cost of the Civil Government—Cost of justice—Inequalities of taxation—Inequalities of the representation—The Royal bill of fare—Co-operation, its nature and advantages—Evils of war—Failure of physical force—Valuable domestic recipes—List of Fairs, &c. The contents fully justify its claim to the title of THE PEOPLE'S ALMANACK. It is printed from good clear type, on good paper; it contains thirty-two pages, crown octavo, and is sold for ONE PENNY!

* * A liberal allowance made to the Trade, who are requested to send in their orders immediately, as the demand is great, and they will be supplied in rotation.

LONDON:—Britain, Paternoster-row; Cleave, Shoe-lane; and Berger, Holywell-street, Strand.

THE TEETOTALER'S COMPANION.

THIS SPLENDID WORK, with Dr. SEWALL'S coloured plates of the Stomach, is being REISSUED in Weekly Numbers, 2d. each, and parts 9d. each. The work may be had complete, bound in cloth, for 8s., or with Appendix on the Wine Question, 9s. 6d. LONDON:—Hall and Co., Paternoster Row, and may be had of all Booksellers.

TEMPERANCE PUBLICATIONS.

IMPORTANT ESSAY.

BACCHUS: An Essay on the Nature, Causes, Effects and Cure of Intemperance. By RALPH BARNES GRINDROD, LL.D. SECOND EDITION, carefully revised and greatly enlarged. The first edition of this invaluable Essay received the prize of ONE HUNDRED SOVEREIGNS from the Committee of the New British and Foreign Temperance Society. This second edition, which contains at least one-third new matter, was published at 7s. and has been in great request. A few copies may now be had at the reduced price of Five shillings, bound in cloth.

LIVESEY'S famous MALT LECTURES, including a complete exposure of the great delusion as to the properties of Malt Liquors. Formerly published at Sixpence. A new edition for ONE PENNY. W. BRITAIN, 51, Paternoster Row, London.

THE TEETOTAL ESSAYIST; or Monthly Temperance Standard, for 1847. London: W. Britain, Paternoster-Row.

This may now be had complete, price ONE SHILLING.

CONTENTS:

- Teetotalism essential to the Elevation of the Working Classes. By D. G. PAINE.
- The Temperance Movement in its important bearings on the Sanitary condition of the People. By THOMAS BEGGS.
- Total Abstinence from strong drinks important to Female Honour and Happiness. By D. G. PAINE.
- Tom Rudge and his friend; shewing what Tom lost by "that last glass of Brandy and Water." By Mrs. S. C. HALL.
- Appeal to Females, in behalf of the Total Abstinence movement. By Dr. E. NOTT, President of Union College, New York.
- The Worn Thimble; a Story of Woman's Duty and Woman's Influence. By Mrs. S. C. HALL.
- Important Medical Testimony; with several hundred signatures.
- Christian Duty; or the importance of the Temperance Reformation in connexion with the maintenance and spread of Christianity. By F. W. WHEELER, Missionary.
- The Moral Obligation of Total Abstinence. By EVAN JONES.
- Intemperance the Antagonist of Education. By W. R. BAKER.
- The Duty of Sabbath School Teachers, in regard to Total Abstinence. By EVAN JONES.
- Reasons why Sabbath School Teachers should be Teetotalers. By MICHAEL YOUNG.
- Bearings of the Temperance question on the interest of the Young. By W. REID.
- The Drinking system and Juvenile Delinquency. By THOMAS BEGGS.
- Aids to the Evangelical Alliance in its enquiry as to the connexion between Inidelity and Teetotalism. With testimonies from upwards of SEVENTY Ministers and Gentlemen.
- The Evils of Moderate Drinking. By EVAN JONES.
- The Inconsistency of those Christians and Philanthropists who sanction the use of Intoxicating Liquors. By D. G. PAINE.
- Address to Moderate Drinkers. By ELIHU BURRITT.
- The Temperance Movement:—its past history—present position—future prospects and connexion with other great movements of the age. By THOMAS BEGGS.
- It will be seen that this forms the most interesting and important publication that has ever been issued from the Temperance Press. As but very few sets remain on hand, an early application will be necessary. A copy will be sent, post free, to any person remitting twelve postage stamps, to JOHN CASSELL, 22, Abchurch Lane, London.

THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM;

THE ADVOCATE OF
POLITICAL, COMMERCIAL AND RELIGIOUS LIBERTY, EQUITABLE TAXATION AND RETRENCHMENT.

It must be obvious to every attentive observer of the times in which we live, that they are pregnant with the most momentous events. All reflecting men are thoroughly convinced that a current has set in which may be guided, but which it is impossible to resist; and that, although our own country has not been visited by the convulsions which have changed the destinies of other parts of Europe, the elements which cause such convulsions are not wanting among ourselves. It becomes, then, every patriot to be awake, and to consecrate himself to the task of endeavouring so to direct the tide of public opinion, that it shall eventuate the greatest possible amount of prosperity, not only to the British Empire, but to the whole human family. To this end is devoted: and no expense nor effort is spared to render it a powerful and worthy instrument for this glorious object.

“ THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM ”

AS A WEEKLY NEWSPAPER,

it is distinguished by the copiousness and accuracy of its intelligence. Its grand mission, however, is to promote the cause of liberty, of just and rational liberty. As the advocate of

POLITICAL FREEDOM,

it aims to unite the middle and humbler classes in a temperate, but firm and uncompromising effort to secure such an extension of the suffrage as shall cause the Commons House of Parliament to become a real, and not, as it is now, a false and deceptive representation of the people. With regard to

COMMERCIAL FREEDOM,

its creed that of the Cobden school; and its columns present unquestionable evidence that no truce will be held with monopolies and class interests of any description; nor with any imposts or restrictions that in any way cripple enterprise, burden industry, or interfere with the rights of either capital or labour. Upon the subject of it owns no law but that of the New Testament; and no arbiter, on earth, but that of Conscience. It treats all meddling, on the part of civil authorities, with religious opinion, or acts of worship, as both foolish and unrighteous usurpation; as not only opposed to the authority of the supreme Lawgiver, but as tending to destroy the very nature of religion, which is a voluntary homage rendered to the commands of God, and not of man.

RELIGIOUS FREEDOM

THE TEMPERANCE MOVEMENT.

The claims of this movement are duly regarded, and its intimate connexion with other great movements clearly pointed out.

THE VAST IMPORTANCE OF EMIGRATION,

and the numerous inquiries made upon the subject by parties about to emigrate, have induced the Proprietor to enter into arrangements for devoting a portion of his journal to correct and authentic information useful and valuable to the Emigrant. This department is under the superintendence of an able and experienced Editor, who has at his command every resource for giving sound, practical advice, as well as furnishing satisfactory answers to all suitable inquiries from those about to Emigrate. Neither expense nor exertion will be spared to render this part of the paper both full and complete.

“ THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM ”

is of the largest dimensions allowed by law, being beyond the size of the double Times. The price—4½d., or 4s. 9d. per quarter, paid in advance.

THREE EDITIONS are published; the first on FRIDAY AFTERNOON, in time for the Mails of that evening; the second at an early hour on SATURDAY MORNING, for town and country circulation; and the third edition at three o'clock on SATURDAY AFTERNOON, containing the latest intelligence up to the hour of going to press.

All communications for “THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM” must be directed “To the Editors, 335, Strand.” Post-office and money-orders must be made payable to JOHN CASSELL; to whom also Advertisements may be sent, directed as above.

Orders for “THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM” will be received by all newsvenders in town and country.

MUTUAL EMIGRATION AND COLONIZATION SOCIETY.

PLAN.

THE British Mutual Emigration and Colonization Society will consist of an unlimited number of members of £21 each, £1 of each share to defray necessary expenses. This sum can be paid at once, or in subscriptions of 4s. 6d. per week per share. The object is to form a colony in the most eligible part of Australia, or several colonies, as the wants of the members may require. Each member will be entitled on every share to twenty acres of land and a free passage. Although it will be a permanent institution, it will have no further claim upon its members after their engagements are fully paid up.

The society, on being established, will at once employ a competent surveyor, one well acquainted with the appliances of the colony, to secure a tract of country of forty or fifty quarter miles in an eligible part of Australia, or smaller portions in various parts, taking care that they shall be contiguous to a sea-port, near a navigable river or main-road, with facilities for the construction of dwellings and the formation of roads. The land will then be mapped out into plots of 20, 30, 40, 60, 80, and 100 acres, so as to suit the requirements of the holders of one, two, four, or eight shares, as the case may be. On the most convenient part of each colony will be fixed the town or settlement. The original value of the land would at once be greatly increased, for wherever a population has settled the upset price of the land has been doubled or trebled, and thus in the course of a few years, as the colonies become populous, and the land brought into a high state of cultivation, the proprietors would be in possession of estates worth five or ten times their first cost, and of constantly increasing value. The land secured to each member will remain so in perpetuity without any risk of litigation or disturbance. The holder of one share, for example, will be entitled to twenty acres of land, very probably by his arrival in the colony it might have raised in value to £2 per acre. The owner of two shares will be entitled to a free passage for himself and wife, and forty acres of land, which, at the same ratio of increase, would be worth £80. Every additional share would entitle the holder to a passage for one person, and an extra twenty acres of land. The accomplishment of this object will be easy, nor is it necessary that any delay should arise. As soon as the requisite number of persons (250) desirous of proceeding at once to the colony are enrolled, a vessel will be chartered, and a surveyor sent out with the first body of emigrants, to decide upon a suitable tract of country, and the sum of £5,000 at once be paid to the Government Commissioners. As the Government are desirous of promoting emigration, and appropriate the revenue from the sale of lands to that object there can be no doubt that on the society obtaining its charter, a tract of country can be obtained upon a guarantee being given that it should be occupied by a population of one statute adult to every 20 acres within a given time.

The committee and trustees in the first instance propose, previous to obtaining a charter of incorporation, acting as the agents of the members, simply to avail themselves to the utmost extent of the arrangements and powers at the disposal of the Colonial Secretary and Emigration Commissioners, which will enable them to carry out the plan of allowing twenty acres of land and a free passage to every statute adult, for every £21 paid.

A local agent will be appointed in every Town in the United Kingdom; and to facilitate the payment of weekly subscriptions, each member must pay 2s. 6d. per share per annum to the local agent for transacting the business; or the payments can be made monthly direct to the office, per Post-office order.

Persons desirous of availing themselves of the advantages offered by this society, may apply directly to the office, 39, Moorgate-street, enclosing twelve postage stamps to defray the expense of correspondence. A printed form will be forwarded to each applicant which, on being returned to the secretary duly filled up, will be laid before the committee.

Detailed prospectuses are now published by Charles Gilpin, 5, Bishopsgate-street Within, and may be had on application to Mr. Thomas Beggs, at the Mutual Emigration and Colonization Society's Office, 39, Moorgate-street, London, and of all booksellers.

JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEES.

THE celebrity which these delicious COFFEES have attained is quite unparalleled. The enormous demand created for them throughout Great Britain and Ireland is a sufficient indication of the manner in which they are appreciated by those individuals and families who have made trial of them. The excellence of the COFFEES imported by JOHN CASSELL, and sold by his Agents, consists in their great strength, combined with a rich and mellow flavour, peculiar to the world's finest growths. At the same time they are sold at prices usually charged for very inferior articles. The following are the PRICES at which any quantity, from two ounces to one pound, may be obtained:—

John Cassell's Coffee, No. 1. An excellent article.	1s. 4d.
John Cassell's Coffee, No. 2. Cannot fail to give great satisfaction, being a combination of the choicest growths of Jamaica, possessing richness, strength, and flavour.	1s. 8d.
John Cassell's Coffee, No. 3. To every connoisseur in Coffee, this will prove a treat, combining the finest mountain growths of both Jamaica and Turkey.	2s. 0d.

Each Package forms a handsome Catty, lined with lead, so that the aroma and essential oil,—which constitute the excellence of a cup of really good Coffee,—are most effectually preserved.

THE AGENCY FOR JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE.

A considerable number of Agents have already been appointed, and Agents will be appointed to those towns in which there is not one at present.

THESE COFFEES, both on account of quality and price, are certain to command a very large sale. Besides this, measures are taken to make every family throughout the kingdom, as far as possible, acquainted with the fact, that they have the opportunity of purchasing articles of the qualities above stated, from an agent in their own locality. It may safely be asserted, therefore, that few Agencies are more desirable, to persons who wish to make a valuable addition to their business, than the sale of John Cassell's Coffees. Independent of the Commission allowed, the general trade of the Agent is certain to be benefited by the number of new customers who will be attracted to his place of business, and in consequence of his name being kept before the public, by means of advertisements, &c., as the Agent for John Cassell's Coffees.

Private Individuals having a respectable connexion, will do well to obtain this Agency, as there is no trouble attending it, the Coffees being weighed and packed in lead, ready for delivery. Applications for terms, &c., must be made direct to John Cassell, Abchurch-lane, London.

DR. CHEYNE'S

COUGH AND PULMONIC LOZENGES.

THE fame of these Lozenges is fully established as the most pleasant and efficacious remedy that can be employed for the removal of coughs. To the asthmatic, or those who are afflicted with a difficulty of breathing, or a redundancy of phlegm, they give instant relief, by causing free expectoration. They allay the irritation attendant on all affections of the throat, and strengthen the lungs to resist the effects of sudden changes. They remove hoarseness and greatly improve the voice. They arrest, in its incipient stages, that fearful result of our variable atmosphere, consumption; and for diseases of the pulmonary organs, a more safe and salutary remedy cannot be applied. For aged persons they are invaluable, and none, whose lungs are in the least degree susceptible of cold, ought to be without them. They afford relief in every case of cough, and where there is no physical disorganization they will effect a cure.

From the numerous TESTIMONIALS as to the value and efficacy of Dr. Cheyne's Cough and Pulmonic Lozenges, the following is selected:—

From Mr. John Noble, Bookseller, Agent at Boston.
Boston, March 18, 1848.

DEAR SIR,—A gentleman has just communicated to me such a remarkable cure of spasmodic asthma, of many years standing, that I forward it to you for publication. He has frequently been laid aside from his business, and during the last winter was confined to his house for nine weeks, during which time he would not lie down in bed. Being induced to try Dr. Cheyne's Cough and Pulmonic Lozenges, he has experienced from them such a cure as he did not think possible. During six weeks that he has taken these invaluable Lozenges, his health has been better than for the last ten years. He can now lie down and sleep comfortably, enjoying his rest in bed from eight or nine at night until five in the morning. Instead of being confined to his room or bed, he says—"I can now walk all round my farm, and attend to my business, with ease and comfort. I consulted many of the most eminent medical practitioners in the neighbourhood without avail; nothing ever made an impression on my complaint until I tried these Lozenges."

I asked for a Testimonial, but he said, "Having four medical men relatives, he could not allow his name to be published." However, I obtained his permission to furnish this statement, which is nearly verbatim as delivered by him. Hoping this "plain, unvarnished tale" may stimulate other sufferers to try this valuable remedy, I remain, dear Sir, truly yours,

To the Proprietor of Cheyne's Lozenges. JOHN NOBLE.

CAUTION.—As a variety of Lozenges, Wafers, and Tablets are advertised, containing ingredients of an injurious nature, the public are particularly requested to ask for Dr. CHEYNE'S COUGH AND PULMONIC LOZENGES, and to observe that the words "DR. CHEYNE'S COUGH LOZENGES," are engraved on the Government Stamp, which, with Directions for Use, is wrapped round each Box.

Sold in Boxes at 1s. 1/4d. and 2s. 9d. each.

By Messrs. Sutton, 10, Bow Church-yard; Barclay's, 95, Farringdon-street; Edwards, 67, St. Paul's Church-yard; Dietrichsen and Co., 63, Oxford-Street; Sanger, 150, Oxford-street; Johnson, 68, Cornhill; King, 34, Napier-street, Hoxton; Bolton and Co., York; Raimes and Co., Edinburgh; and by at least one Agent in every Town throughout the United Kingdom.

Printed and Published for the Proprietor, by RICHARD GOSSET, at his Office, No. 29, Queen-Street and 37, Hill Street, St. Helier's, Jersey.

WEDNESDAY, November 1, 1848.

THE
TEETOTAL TIMES
AND ESSAYIST.

PUBLISHED MONTHLY.

NO. XII. NEW SERIES.]

JERSEY, DECEMBER, 1848.

[PRICE ONE PENNY.

TO PROTESTANT DISSENTERS.

THE PROTESTANT DISSENTER'S ALMANACK FOR 1849, price THREEPENCE, is now ready for delivery. Besides the usual Calendar, and other information peculiar to Almanacks, it contains a number of original articles in illustration and defence of Nonconformist principles. Among these are the following:—Retrospect of 1848—Political Dissenters—Who is the Head of the Church—Grand State error of a State Church—Amount of property devoted to the State Church—Collateral machinery of a State Church—State Church a main cause of National infidelity—The State Church a monstrous failure—The Endowed Charities of England—The English Regium Donum—Irish ditto—Who will oppose the Endowment of the Irish Popish Priests. Also, copious extracts from celebrated authors, on Civil and Religious Liberty. List of Independent and Baptist Chapels in London and the suburbs—British Anti State Church Association—The May Meetings—State of Education in England and Wales—Denominational Statistics (including the various Branches of Wesleyan Methodists)—Religious and Benevolent Institutions—Concluding Address to Protestant Dissenters.

THIRTY-FIVE THOUSAND Copies were sold of the Protestant Dissenter's Almanack for 1848. The impression for 1849, in addition to the original articles enumerated above, contains the largest compendium of Denominational Statistics, obtained from authentic sources, ever yet published; and the whole will be found deeply interesting to Protestant Dissenters of every denomination.

LONDON:—John Snow, 35, Paternoster Row; EDINBURGH, Zeigler, South Bridge; GLASGOW, Gallie, Buchanan-street; and may be had of all Booksellers.

THE BEST & CHEAPEST ALMANACK EVER PUBLISHED.
NOW READY,

THE PEOPLE'S ALMANACK FOR 1849;
WITH CHARACTERISTIC ENGRAVINGS.

BESIDES the usual Calendar, it contains a mass of matter deeply interesting to every class of the community, in connexion with Political, Commercial, and Religious Freedom.—Valuable domestic recipes—List of Fairs, &c. The contents fully justify its claim to the title of THE PEOPLE'S ALMANACK. It is printed from good clear type on good paper; it contains thirty-two pages, crown octavo, and is sold for

ONE PENNY!

* * * A liberal allowance made to the Trade.

LONDON:—B. L. Green, 1 Paternoster-row; Cleave, Shoe-lane; and Berger, Holywell-street, Strand.

Just published, Price Threepence,

THE EMIGRANTS' ALMANACK and DIRECTORY FOR 1849. Every person about to emigrate, or interested in the subject of emigration, should consult this Almanack. Besides the matter usually contained in Almanacks, are articles on the following important subjects:—Fields for Emigration, North America, Australia, British Colonies, United States—Who should emigrate?—Choice of a Colony—First Steps to be Taken—Embarkation—Conduct on Board—Treatment of Sea Sickness—Conduct of Emigrants—How Land is to be Had—A Man of Small Means, How Shall I invest—Chances of the Labourer and Mechanic in America—Australia, Demand for Labourers, &c.—Regulations to be Observed by Emigrants—Cost of Passage—Price of Provisions, &c., in Various Colonies—Fares and Routes to the Far West, &c.—Rates of Postage—and a fund of interesting and miscellaneous matter.

LONDON: C. GILPIN, 5, Bishopsgate-street Without; B. L. GREEN, Paternoster-row; Dublin: W. Curry and Co.; and all booksellers.

TO YOUTHS' TEMPERANCE COMMITTEES, AND SUNDAY-SCHOOL TEACHERS.

On the 1st of January, 1849, will be Published, under the superintendence of the Committee of the British Association for the Promotion of Temperance, No. 1, Volume II. of the Monthly Periodical, entitled—

THE SUNDAY-SCHOOL AND YOUTHS' TEMPERANCE JOURNAL,

Price One Halfpenny per No., or 4s. per 100, paid in advance.

THIS periodical is issued from the Isle of Man, from which it can be sent FREE BY POST to all parts of the United Kingdom. It will be printed on better paper than that hitherto used, with a clear type, and will contain 16 pages the size of the "Christian's Penny Magazine," conducted by Dr. Campbell. The outside leaves will form a cover, and will be used for notices and advertisements connected with juvenile movements, leaving 12 pages to be devoted to useful and instructive matter, adapted to Sunday scholars and young teetotalers generally. The editorial department is under the care of a literary gentleman of influence and long standing in the temperance world, and also of extensive experience in education; and the friends of the rising race are assured that no efforts will be spared to render this little messenger of truth acceptable and instructive to those for whom it is specially designed.

The hope of the Temperance Reformation is now, in a great measure, centered in the young; and the encouraging success which has attended the formation of "Bands of Hope," and other similar organizations for training youth in the path of sobriety, renders it important that the good work, thus auspiciously begun, should be strengthened and consolidated by every available means. In furtherance of this object the YOUTHS' TEMPERANCE JOURNAL was begun, and with this aim it will be continued; and the friends of the cause have only to give their earnest co-operation, in order to produce a harvest of good both abundant and lasting.

This Journal, during the present year, has attained a very extensive circulation; but as there is a large field of operation almost wholly unoccupied by any work of a similar character, the Committee are convinced that with little effort its sale may be greatly extended.

Sunday-school superintendents and teachers are urged to make arrangements for supplying a copy to every scholar in their respective schools, and Youths' Temperance Committees should promote its circulation at all their meetings.

The following will be the Scale of Prices for 1849, ALWAYS required to be PAID IN ADVANCE:—

1 copy per month,	3d.	—	per year,	6d.
6 copies do.	3d.	do.	3s.
13 do. do.	6d.	do.	6s.
26 do. do.	1s.	do.	12s.
50 do. do.	2s.	do.	24s.
100 do. do.	4s.	do.	48s.

The usual allowance made to the trade; and Temperance Committees, Sunday-school Superintendents, and others, taking 50 copies and upwards, will be allowed a discount of 12½ per cent.

CHARGE FOR ADVERTISEMENTS.

Five lines, across the entire page, 3s. 6d.; and 4d. for each additional line.

Agents and others are requested to prepare for next year's orders. All orders for the ensuing year, accompanied by a post-office order or postage stamps, must be sent to Mr. John Cunliffe, Temperance Hall, Bolton, not later than the 15th of December.

This day is published, with an Engraving of a Domestic Steam Bath, price 2s. 6d., or by post from Ipswich, 3s.

ATMOPATHY AND HYDROPATHY; or how to cure Diseases by STEAM and WATER, with a Chapter shewing the remarkable efficacy of Steam in the cure of ASIATIC CHOLERA, with testimonials and cases, by DAVID ROSS, of Manchester. London: Simpkin, Marshall, and Co., Ipswich, J. M. Burton, and may be had by order of all booksellers.

WORKS BY THE REV. SAMUEL DUNN, OF NOTTINGHAM.

D ICTIONARY of the GOSPELS, with Lessons. For Bible and Catechumen Classes. Third Edition, with Map, price 2s.; to the Classes, 18s. per dozen. Lessons for Five Months, 2d. each, or 8s. per 100.

MEMOIRS of MR. TATHAM, and of WESLEYAN METHODISM in NOTTINGHAM. 3s. 6d.

MEMOIRS of SEVENTY-FIVE DIVINES, and EIGHTY OUTLINES of SERMONS. 5s.

GOSPELS HARMONIZED, and COMMENTARY, 10s. 6d.; to Catechumen Classes, at 5s. 3d.

London: Tegg, Mason.

"THE PEOPLE'S RECORD."

ON SATURDAY, January 5th, 1849, will be published, a Weekly Newspaper, AS LARGE AS THE LAW WILL ALLOW,

TO BE ENTITLED

THE PEOPLE'S RECORD,

PRICE THREEPENCE.

The new Journal will be conducted by the Editor of the Christian Record, and will advocate the principles of freedom—politically, commercially, and ecclesiastically.

"THE CHRISTIAN RECORD,"

Published every Tuesday.

A Family Newspaper, sixteen pages, or forty-eight columns. Price TWO PENCE.

(From the Editor of the British Banner.)

"Many of its Leaders, for brilliance, pertinence, and point, are equal to those of the best portions of the London Press."

"THE PENNY RECORD."

Published every Thursday.

This popular and widely-circulated Paper contains TWENTY-FOUR PAGES OF INTERESTING MATTER, BEAUTIFULLY PRINTED IN A NEW TYPE, FOR ONE PENNY!

Such a Penny Paper, with regard to size, has never yet been published in the Kingdom.

(From the Patriot.)

"It is certainly the cheapest, and one of the best of our periodicals. Nowhere else can we find so much, and so much good matter for a penny."

Advertisements for each of these Journals will command an extensive circulation. The scale of prices is as follows:—Eight lines and under, 2s.; for each additional line, 2d.; and half-price for every subsequent insertion. Advertisements inserted in any one of the papers, may be repeated in either of the others at half-price, or in both, at twice the charge.

Enclose two shillings and fifteen stamps for the People's; two shillings and two stamps for the Christian, (which may be done in half a sheet of note paper, for a penny stamp); or one shilling and one stamp for the Penny, in a post-paid letter, addressed to the Editor of the Record, Jersey, and the paper will be regularly forwarded for 13 weeks. Postage stamps may be enclosed for single copies.

*Orders for the People's must reach us at the latest on the 3rd January.

London Agent: Benjamin L. Green, 62, Paternoster Row.

"THE TEMPERANCE CYCLOPEDIA."

In one handsome volume, illustrated with Dr. Sewall's celebrated Coloured Plates of the Stomach, royal 8vo, cloth, price 8s.; with the Wine Question, 9s. 6d.; it is also RE-ISSUED in Nos. 2d. each, and in Parts 3d. each.

THE TEETOTALER'S COMPANION;

being an Exposition of the Evils resulting from the general custom of drinking intoxicating liquors, with the benefits that would result from the national adoption of total abstinence. By PETER BURNE.

"We have before called attention to this work, while in the course of publication. It is now finished, and constitutes the most copious, various, complete, and systematic view of the great subject anywhere to be found. Instead of the quaint and paltry title, 'The Teetotaler's Companion,'—no pocket 'companion' truly; it would require a bag to carry it about,—as we believe we formerly hinted, it ought to have been designated, 'THE TEMPERANCE CYCLOPEDIA.' Both the matter and the form of the work are of a character to sustain an appellation of such dignity. The royal size, the large and leaded type, with the marginal headings and notation, give the volume a rich and splendid aspect. While Mr. Burne has performed his part in a manner which entitles him to the thanks of his country, Mr. Burton also has amply sustained him by his highly workmanlike typography."—Christian Witness, November 1848.

London: Arthur Hall and Co. Ipswich: Burton.

In a few days will be published, price 6d.

INTEMPERANCE, THE PESTILENCE
OF THE AGE, and the duties of the Christian Citizen of the World in the midst of this Pestilence.

London: CHARLES GILPIN; Carlisle: I. F. WHITRIDGE, and H. SCOTT.—Newcastle: T. BARRAS, and all Booksellers.

WANTED IMMEDIATELY,

By the Greenock Total Abstinence Society, a Missionary duly qualified to advocate the principles of the Society and to visit the different districts of the town. Salary £50 per annum. Satisfactory references required. Apply to ARCHD. M'KINNON, Secretary.
55, Cathcart-street, Greenock, November, 1848.

TEMPERANCE PUBLICATIONS.

IMPORTANT ESSAY.

BACCHUS: An Essay on the Nature, Causes, Effects and Cure of Intemperance. By RALPH BARNES GRINDROD, LL.D. SECOND EDITION, carefully revised and greatly enlarged. The first edition of this invaluable Essay received the prize of ONE HUNDRED SOVEREIGNS from the Committee of the New British and Foreign Temperance Society. This second edition, which contains at least one-third new matter, was published at 7s. and has been in great request. A few copies may now be had at the reduced price of Five shillings, bound in cloth.

LIVESEY'S famous MALT LECTURES,

including a complete exposure of the great delusion as to the properties of Malt Liquors. Formerly published at Sixpence. A new edition for ONE PENNY.

B. L. GREEN, Paternoster Row, London.

Price 2d. or by post 3d.

CAUTIONS AND TESTIMONY AGAINST ODD FELLOWSHIP, by H. MUDGE, Surgeon, Bodmin.

Also price 2s. or by post 2s. 6d., by the same author.

EXPOSURE OF ODD FELLOWSHIP;

Showing its immoral tendency and bankrupt circumstances, and containing as well a large amount of information on the subject of Friendly Societies. WHITTAKER, London; LIDDELL, Bodmin.

THE TEETOTAL ESSAYIST; or Monthly

Temperance Standard, for 1847. London: B. L. Green, Paternoster-Row.

This may now be had complete, price ONE SHILLING.

CONTENTS:

Teetotalism essential to the Elevation of the Working Classes. By D. G. PAINE.

The Temperance Movement in its important bearings on the Sanitary condition of the People. By THOMAS BEGGS.

Total Abstinence from strong drinks important to Female Honour and Happiness. By D. G. PAINE.

Tom Rudge and his friend; shewing what Tom lost by "that last glass of Brandy and Water." By MRS. S. C. HALL.

Appeal to Females, in behalf of the Total Abstinence movement. By Dr. E. NORT, President of Union College, New York.

The Worn Thimble; or a Story of Woman's Duty and Woman's Influence. By MRS. S. C. HALL.

Important Medical Testimony; with several hundred signatures.

Christian Duty; or the importance of the Temperance Reformation in connexion with the maintenance and spread of Christianity. By F. W. WHEELER, Missionary.

The Moral Obligation of Total Abstinence. By EVAN JON S.

Intemperance the Antagonist of Education. By W. H. BAKER

The Duty of Sabbath School Teachers, in regard to Total Abstinence. By EVAN JONES.

Reasons why Sabbath School Teachers should be Teetotalers. By MICHAEL YOUNG.

Bearings of the Temperance question on the interest of the Young. By W. REID.

The Drinking system and Juvenile Delinquency. By THOMAS BEGGS.

Aids to the Evangelical Alliance in its enquiry as to the connexion between Infidelity and Teetotalism. With testimonies from upwards of SEVENTY Ministers and Gentlemen.

The Evils of Moderate Drinking. By EVAN JONES.

The Inconsistency of those Christians and Philanthropists who sanction the use of Intoxicating Liquors. By D. G. PAINE.

Address to Moderate Drinkers. By ELIHU BURRITT.

The Temperance Movement:—its past history—present position—future prospects and connexion with other great movements of the age. By THOMAS BEGGS.

It will be seen that this forms the most interesting and important publication that has ever been issued from the Temperance Press. As but very few sets remain on hand, an early application will be necessary. A copy will be sent, post free, to any person remitting twelve postage stamps, to JOHN CASSELL, 22, Abchurch Lane, London.

THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM;

THE ADVOCATE OF
POLITICAL, COMMERCIAL AND RELIGIOUS LIBERTY, EQUITABLE TAXATION AND RETRENCHMENT.

It must be obvious to every attentive observer of the times in which we live, that they are pregnant with the most momentous events. All reflecting men are thoroughly convinced that a current has set in which may be guided, but which it is impossible to resist; and that, although our own country has not been visited by the convulsions which have changed the destinies of other parts of Europe, the elements which cause such convulsions are not wanting among ourselves. It becomes, then, every patriot to be awake, and to consecrate himself to the task of endeavouring so to direct the tide of public opinion, that it shall eventuate the greatest possible amount of prosperity, not only to the British Empire, but to the whole human family. To this end is devoted: and no expense nor effort is spared to render it a powerful and worthy instrument for this glorious object.

" THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM "

AS A WEEKLY NEWSPAPER,

it is distinguished by the copiousness and accuracy of its intelligence. Its grand mission, however, is to promote the cause of liberty, of just and rational liberty. As the advocate of

POLITICAL FREEDOM,

it aims to unite the middle and humbler classes in a temperate, but firm and uncompromising effort to secure such an extension of the suffrage as shall cause the Commons House of Parliament to become a real, and not, as it is now, a false and deceptive representation of the people. With regard to

COMMERCIAL FREEDOM,

its creed that of the Cobden school; and its columns present unquestionable evidence that no truce will be held with monopolies and class interests of any description; nor with any imposts or restrictions that in any way cripple enterprise, burden industry, or interfere with the rights of either capital or labour. Upon the subject of it owns no law but that of the New Testament; and no arbiter, on earth, but that of Conscience. It treats all meddling, on the part of civil authorities, with religious opinion, or acts of worship, as both foolish and unrighteous usurpation; as not only opposed to the authority of the supreme Lawgiver, but as tending to destroy the very nature of religion, which is a voluntary homage rendered to the commands of God, and not of man.

RELIGIOUS FREEDOM

THE TEMPERANCE MOVEMENT.

The claims of this movement are duly regarded, and its intimate connexion with other great movements clearly pointed out.

THE VAST IMPORTANCE OF EMIGRATION,

and the numerous inquiries made upon the subject by parties about to emigrate, have induced the Proprietor to enter into arrangements for devoting a portion of his journal to correct and authentic information useful and valuable to the Emigrant. This department is under the superintendence of an able and experienced Editor, who has at his command every resource for giving sound, practical advice, as well as furnishing satisfactory answers to all suitable inquiries from those about to Emigrate. Neither expense nor exertion will be spared to render this part of the paper both full and complete.

" THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM "

is of the largest dimensions allowed by law, being beyond the size of the double Times. The price—4½d., or 4s. 9d. per quarter, paid in advance.

THREE EDITIONS are published; the first on FRIDAY AFTERNOON, in time for the Mails of that evening; the second at an early hour on SATURDAY MORNING, for town and country circulation; and the third edition at three o'clock on SATURDAY AFTERNOON, containing the latest intelligence up to the hour of going to press.

All communications for "THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM" must be directed "To the Editors, 335, Strand." Post-office and money-orders must be made payable to JOHN CASSELL; to whom also Advertisements may be sent, directed as above.

Orders for "THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM" will be received by all newsvenders in town and country.

JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEES.

THE celebrity which these delicious COFFEES have attained is quite unparalleled. The enormous demand created for them throughout Great Britain and Ireland is a sufficient indication of the manner in which they are appreciated by those individuals and families who have made trial of them. The excellence of the COFFEES imported by JOHN CASSELL, and sold by his Agents, consists in their great strength, combined with a rich and mellow flavour, peculiar to the world's finest growths. At the same time they are sold at prices usually charged for very inferior articles. The following are the PRICES at which any quantity, from two ounces to one pound, may be obtained:—

John Cassell's Coffee, No. 1. An excellent article.	1s. 4d.
John Cassell's Coffee, No. 2. Cannot fail to give great satisfaction, being a combination of the choicest growths of Jamaica, possessing richness, strength, and flavour.	1s. 8d.
John Cassell's Coffee, No. 3. To every connoisseur in Coffee, this will prove a treat, combining the finest mountain growths of both Jamaica and Turkey.	2s. 0d.

Each Package forms a handsome Catty, lined with lead, so that the aroma and essential oil,—which constitute the excellence of a cup of really good Coffee,—are most effectually preserved.

THE AGENCY FOR JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE.

A considerable number of Agents have already been appointed, and Agents will be appointed to those towns in which there is not one at present.

THESE COFFEES, both on account of quality and price, are certain to command a very large sale. Besides this, measures are taken to make every family throughout the kingdom, as far as possible, acquainted with the fact, that they have the opportunity of purchasing articles of the qualities above stated, from an agent in their own locality. It may safely be asserted, therefore, that few Agencies are more desirable, to persons who wish to make a valuable addition to their business, than the sale of John Cassell's Coffees. Independent of the Commission allowed, the general trade of the Agent is certain to be benefited by the number of new customers who will be attracted to his place of business, and in consequence of his name being kept before the public, by means of advertisements, &c., as the Agent for John Cassell's Coffees.

Private Individuals having a respectable connexion, will do well to obtain this Agency, as there is no trouble attending it, the Coffees being weighed and packed in lead, ready for delivery. Applications for terms, &c., must be made direct to John Cassell, Abchurch-lane, London.

DR. CHEYNE'S

COUGH AND PULMONIC LOZENGES.

THE fame of these Lozenges is fully established as the most pleasant and efficacious remedy that can be employed for the removal of coughs. To the asthmatic, or those who are afflicted with a difficulty of breathing, or a redundancy of phlegm, they give instant relief, by causing free expectoration. They allay the irritation attendant on all affections of the throat, and strengthen the lungs to resist the effects of sudden changes. They remove hoarseness and greatly improve the voice. They arrest, in its incipient stages, that fearful result of our variable atmosphere, consumption; and for diseases of the pulmonary organs, a more safe and salutary remedy cannot be applied. For aged persons they are invaluable, and none, whose lungs are in the least degree susceptible of cold, ought to be without them. They afford relief in every case of cough, and where there is no physical disorganization they will effect a cure.

From the numerous TESTIMONIALS as to the value and efficacy of Dr. Cheyne's Cough and Pulmonic Lozenges, the following is selected:—

*From Mr. John Noble, Bookseller, Agent at Boston.
Boston, March 18, 1848.*

DEAR SIR,—A gentleman has just communicated to me such a remarkable cure of spasmodic asthma, of many years standing, that I forward it to you for publication. He has frequently been laid aside from his business, and during the last winter was confined to his house for nine weeks, during which time he could not lie down in bed. Being induced to try Dr. Cheyne's Cough and Pulmonic Lozenges, he has experienced from them such a cure as he did not think possible. During six weeks that he has taken these invaluable Lozenges, his health has been better than for the last ten years. He can now lie down and sleep comfortably, enjoying his rest in bed from eight or nine at night until five in the morning. Instead of being confined to his room or bed, he says—"I can now walk all round my farm, and attend to my business, with ease and comfort. I consulted many of the most eminent medical practitioners in the neighbourhood without avail; nothing ever made an impression on my complaint until I tried these Lozenges."

I asked for a Testimonial, but he said, "Having four medical men relatives, he could not allow his name to be published." However, I obtained his permission to furnish this statement, which is nearly verbatim as delivered by him. Hoping this "plain, unvarnished tale" may stimulate other sufferers to try this valuable remedy, I remain, dear Sir, truly yours,

To the Proprietor of Cheyne's Lozenges. JOHN NOBLE.

CAUTION.—As a variety of Lozenges, Wafers, and Tablets are advertised, containing ingredients of an injurious nature, the public are particularly requested to ask for Dr. CHEYNE'S COUGH AND PULMONIC LOZENGES, and to observe that the words "DR. CHEYNE'S COUGH LOZENGES" are engraved on the Government Stamp, which, with Directions for Use, is wrapped round each Box.

Sold in Boxes at 1s. 1/4d. and 2s. 9d. each.

By Messrs. Sutton, 10, Bow Church-yard; Barclay's, 25, Farringdon-street; Edwards, 67, St. Paul's Church-yard; Dietrichsen and Co., 63, Oxford-street; Sanger, 150, Oxford-street; Johnson, 68, Cornhill; King, 34, Napier-street, Hoxton; Bolton and Co., York; Raimes and Co., Edinburgh; and by at least one Agent in every Town throughout the United Kingdom.

Printed and Published for the Proprietor, by RICHARD GOSSET, at his Office, No. 20, Queen-street and 37, Hill Street, St. Helier's, Jersey.

FRIDAY, December 1, 1848.

THE
TEETOTAL TIMES
AND ESSAYIST.

PUBLISHED MONTHLY.

No. XIII. NEW SERIES.]

JERSEY, JANUARY, 1849.

[PRICE ONE PENNY.]

TO PROTESTANT DISSENTERS.

THE PROTESTANT DISSENTER'S ALMANACK FOR 1849, price THREEPENNY, is now ready for delivery. Besides the usual Calendar, and other information peculiar to Almanacks, it contains a number of original articles in illustration and defence of Nonconformist principles. Among these are the following:—Retrospect of 1848—Political Dissenters—Who is the Head of the Church—Grand State error of a State Church—Amount of property devoted to the State Church—Collateral machinery of a State Church—State Church a main cause of National infidelity—The State Church a monstrous failure—The Endowed Charities of England—The English Regium Donum—Irish ditto—Who will oppose the Endowment of the Irish Popish Priests. Also, copious extracts from celebrated authors, on Civil and Religious Liberty. List of Independent and Baptist chapels in London and the suburbs—British Anti State Church Association—The May Meetings—State of Education in England and Wales—Denominational Statistics (including the various Branches of Wesleyan Methodists)—Religious and Benevolent Institutions—Concluding Address to Protestant Dissenters.

THIRTY-FIVE THOUSAND Copies were sold of the Protestant Dissenter's Almanack for 1848. The impression for 1849, in addition to the original articles enumerated above, contains the largest compendium of Denominational Statistics, obtained from authentic sources, ever yet published; and the whole will be found deeply interesting to Protestant Dissenters of every denomination.

LONDON:—John Snow, 35, Paternoster Row; EDINBURGH, Zeigler, South Bridge; GLASGOW, Gallie, Buchanan-street; and may be had of all Booksellers.

THE BEST & CHEAPEST ALMANACK EVER PUBLISHED.
NOW READY,

THE PEOPLE'S ALMANACK FOR 1849;
WITH CHARACTERISTIC ENGRAVINGS.

BESIDES the usual Calendar, it contains a mass of matter deeply interesting to every class of the community, in connexion with Political, Commercial, and Religious Freedom.—Valuable domestic recipes—List of Fairs, &c. The contents fully justify its claim to the title of THE PEOPLE'S ALMANACK. It is printed from good clear type on good paper; it contains thirty-two pages, crown octavo, and is sold for

ONE PENNY!

* * A liberal allowance made to the Trade.

LONDON:—B. L. Green, Paternoster-row; Cleave, Shoe-lane; and Berger, Holywell-street, Strand.

Just Published, Price Threepence.

THE EMIGRANTS' ALMANACK AND DIRECTORY FOR 1849. Every person about to emigrate, or interested in the subject of emigration, should consult this Almanack. Besides the matter usually contained in Almanacks, are articles on the following important subjects:—Fields for Emigration, North America, Australia, British Colonies, United States—Who should emigrate?—Choice of a Colony—First Steps to be Taken—Embarcation—Conduct on Board—Treatment of Sea Sickness—Conduct of Emigrants—How Land is to be Had—A Man of Small Means, How Shall I invest—Chances of the Labourer and Mechanic in America—Australia, Demand for Labourers, &c.—Regulations to be observed by Emigrants—Cost of Passage—Price of Provisions, &c., in Various Colonies—Fares and Routes to the Far West, &c.—Rates of Postage—and a fund of interesting and miscellaneous matter.

London: C. GILPIN, 5, Bishopsgate-street Without; B. L. GREEN, Paternoster-row; Dublin: W. Curry and Co.; and all booksellers.

DR. CHEYNE'S

COUGH AND PULMONIC LOZENGES.

THE fame of these Lozenges is fully established as the most pleasant and efficacious remedy that can be employed for the removal of coughs. To the asthmatic, or those who are afflicted with a difficulty of breathing, or a redundancy of phlegm, they give instant relief, by causing free expectoration. They allay the irritation attendant on all affections of the throat, and strengthen the lungs to resist the effects of sudden changes. They remove hoarseness and greatly improve the voice. They arrest, in its incipient stages, that fearful result of our variable atmosphere, consumption; and for diseases of the pulmonary organs, a more safe and salutary remedy cannot be applied. For aged persons they are invaluable, and none, whose lungs are in the least degree susceptible of cold, ought to be without them. They afford relief in every case of cough, and where there is no physical disorganization they will effect a cure.

From the numerous TESTIMONIALS as to the value and efficacy of Dr. Cheyne's Cough and Pulmonic Lozenges, the following is selected:—

From Mr. John Noble, Bookseller, Agent at Boston.

Boston, March 18, 1848.

DEAR SIR.—A gentleman has just communicated to me such a remarkable cure of spasmodic asthma, of many years standing, that I forward it to you for publication. He has frequently been laid aside from his business, and during the last winter was confined to his house for nine weeks, during which time he could not lie down in bed. Being induced to try Dr. Cheyne's Cough and Pulmonic Lozenges, he has experienced from them such a cure as he did not think possible. During six weeks that he has taken these invaluable Lozenges, his health has been better than for the last ten years. He can now lie down and sleep comfortably, enjoying his rest in bed from eight or nine at night until five in the morning. Instead of being confined to his room or bed, he says—"I can now walk all round my farm, and attend to my business, with ease and comfort. I consulted many of the most eminent medical practitioners in the neighbourhood without avail; nothing ever made an impression on my complaint until I tried these Lozenges."

I asked for a Testimonial, but he said, "Having few medical men relatives, he could not allow his name to be published." However, I obtained his permission to furnish this statement, which is nearly verbatim as delivered by him. Hoping this "plain, unvarnished tale" may stimulate other sufferers to try this valuable remedy. I remain, dear Sir, truly yours,

To the proprietor of Cheyne's Lozenges. JOHN NOBLE.

CAUTION.—As a variety of Lozenges, Wafers, and Tablets are advertised, containing ingredients of an injurious nature, the public are particularly requested to ask for DR. CHEYNE'S COUGH AND PULMONIC LOZENGES, and to observe that the words "DR. CHEYNE'S COUGH LOZENGES," are engraved on the Government Stamp, which, with Directions for Use, is wrapped round each Box.

Sold in Boxes, at 1s. 1½d. and 2s. 9d. each.

By Messrs. Sutton, 10, Bow Church-yard; Barclay's, 95, Farringdon-street; Edwards, 67, St. Paul's Church-yard; Dietrichsen and Co., 63, Oxford-street; Sanger, 150, Oxford-street; Johnson, 68, Cornhill; King, 34, Napier-street, Hoxton; Bolton and Co., York; Raines and Co., Edinburgh; and by at least one Agent in every Town throughout the United Kingdom.

LIVESEY'S famous MALT LECTURES,

including a complete exposure of the great delusion as to the properties of Malt Liquors. Formerly published at Sixpence. A new edition for ONE PENNY.

B. L. GREEN, Paternoster Row, London.

SIXTEENTH THOUSAND.

INTEMPERANCE THE IDOLATRY OF BRITAIN. By the Rev. W. R. BAKER, author of "The Curse of Britain," &c. It is admitted by the most eminent of the religious reviewers, as well as by all who have read it, that there never was a work upon the Temperance Question more calculated to carry conviction to the mind of a thoughtful reader as the danger and iniquity of the drinking system. That it may have a very extensive circulation, this new and revised edition is published at THREEPENCE—the price of the former editions was 2s. 6d. The usual allowance will be made to Societies, or persons taking a quantity.

DR. NOTT'S LECTURES.

NATURE AND PROVIDENCE,

REPLYING TO THE QUESTION WHAT IS THE DUTY OF MAN IN RELATION TO THE USE OF INTOXICATING LIQUORS. In four eloquent and powerful LECTURES, by ELIPHALET NOTT, D.D., L.L.D., President of Union College, New York. Carefully revised with an appendix. In 32 very closely printed pages, crown octavo. Price ONE PENNY.

THE BEST OF MEN SOMETIMES IN ERROR. By ARCHDEACON JEFFREYS, of Bombay. The object of this incomparable Essay is to show that the advocates of the Total Abstinence system have the full warrant of Scripture for their labour of mercy and love. The style in which this sentiment is reasoned is such as to carry conviction to all who profess to be influenced by the law of love. 1s. 4d. per 100.

SUNDAY SCHOOL PRIZE TRACTS.

Just Published, price 1s. 4d. per 100.

THE IMPORTANCE of the TEMPERANCE MOVEMENT, in its bearings on SUNDAY SCHOOLS. THE YOUNG, THE HOPE OF THE TEMPERANCE REFORMATION.

THE CHRISTIAN'S SPIRITUAL SONG BOOK, containing 500 spiritual songs adapted to popular tunes. By the Rev. JOHN STAMP. Embossed cambric, 1s. 6d.

TEMPERANCE HYMNS AND SONGS; devotional, moral, and social. Selected and revised by J. W. GREEN. Embossed leather, 1s.: stiff paper covers, 6d.

THE TEETOTALER'S HYMN BOOK; selected and revised by J. W. GREEN. ONE PENNY.

ADDRESS TO THE MEMBERS OF TOTAL ABSTINENCE SOCIETIES, on the duty which they owe to themselves, to their fellow-members, and to the community at large. By J. W. GREEN. Third edition, enlarged. Price ONE PENNY.

B. L. GREEN, 62, Paternoster Row.

TEMPERANCE PUBLICATIONS.

IMPORTANT ESSAY.

BACCHUS: An Essay on the Nature, Causes, Effects and Cure of Intemperance. By RALPH BARNES GRINOROD, LL.D. SECOND EDITION, carefully revised, and greatly enlarged. The first edition of this invaluable Essay received the prize of ONE HUNDRED SOVEREIGNS from the Committee of the New British and Foreign Temperance Society. This second edition, which contains at least one-third new matter, was published at 7s. and has been in great request. A few copies may now be had at the reduced price of Five shillings, bound in cloth.

THIS DAY, price 3d., or by post from Ipswich for 5 stamps, ALCOHOL: WHAT IT DOES, AND WHAT IT CANNOT DO: or the influence of Alcoholic Drinks on the nutrition of the body, and in the production of Disease, by WALTER JOHNSON, M.B., with an appendix by EDWARD JOHNSON, M.D., author of "Life, Health and Disease." London: Simpkin, Marshall and Co.; Ipswich: J. M. Burton.

Price 2d., or by post 3d.

CAUTIONS AND TESTIMONY AGAINST ODD FELLOWSHIP, by H. MUDGE, Surgeon, Bodmin.

Also price 2s. or by post 2s. 6d., by the same author.

EXPOSURE OF ODD FELLOWSHIP; Showing its immoral tendency and bankrupt circumstances, and containing as well a large amount of information on the subject of Friendly Societies.

WHITTAKER, London; LIDDELL, Bodmin.

THE INHABITANTS OF GREENOCK and vicinity may now obtain JOHN CASSELL'S CELEBRATED COFFEES OF WILLIAM ANDERSON, Grocer, &c., 45, Cathcart-street, who is appointed WHOLESALE AGENT for their sale. As the sale of these Coffees may be undertaken in connexion with any other business, individuals will find it advantageous to engage in the same. For particulars apply as above.

THE TEETOTAL ESSAYIST; or Monthly Temperance Standard, for 1847. London: B. L. Green, Paternoster-Row.

This may now be had complete, price ONE SHILLING.

CONTENTS:

Teetotalism essential to the Elevation of the Working Classes. By D. G. PAINE.

The Temperance Movement in its important bearings on the Sanitary condition of the People. By THOMAS BEGGS.

Total Abstinence from strong drinks important to Female Honour and Happiness. By D. G. PAINE.

Tom Rudge and his friend; shewing what Tom lost by "that last glass of Brandy and Water." By Mrs. S. C. HALL.

Appeal to Females, in behalf of the Total Abstinence movement. By Dr. E. NOTT, President of Union College, New York.

The Worn Thimble; a Story of Woman's Duty and Woman's Influence. By Mrs. S. C. HALL.

Important Medical Testimony; with several hundred signatures.

Christian Duty; or the importance of the Temperance Reformation in connexion with the maintenance and spread of Christianity. By F. W. WHEELER, Missionary.

The Moral Obligation of Total Abstinence. By EVAN JONES.

Intemperance the Antagonist of Education. By W. R. BAKER.

The Duty of Sabbath School Teachers in regard to Total Abstinence. By EVAN JONES.

Reasons why Sabbath School Teachers should be Teetotalers. By MICHAEL YOUNG.

Bearings of the Temperance question on the interest of the Young. By W. REID.

The Drinking system and Juvenile Delinquency. By THOMAS BEGGS.

Aids to the Evangelical Alliance in its enquiry as to the connexion between Infidelity and Teetotalism. With testimonies of upwards of SEVENTY Ministers and Gentlemen.

The Evils of Moderate Drinking. By EVAN JONES.

The Inconsistency of those Christians and Philanthropists who sanction the use of Intoxicating Liquors. By D. G. PAINE.

Address to Moderate Drinkers. By ELIHU BURRITT.

The Temperance Movement:—its past history—present position—future prospects and connexion with other great movements of the age. By THOMAS BEGGS.

It will be seen that this forms the most interesting and important publication that has ever been issued from the Temperance Press. As but very few sets remain on hand, an early application will be necessary. A copy will be sent, post free, to any person remitting twelve postage stamps, to JOHN CASSELL, 22, Abchurch Lane, London.

"THE PEOPLE'S RECORD."

ON SATURDAY, January 6th, 1849, will be published, a Weekly Newspaper, AS LARGE AS THE LAW WILL ALLOW,

TO BE ENTITLED

THE PEOPLE'S RECORD,

PRICE THREEPENCE,

The new Journal will be conducted by the Editor of the Christian Record, and will advocate the principles of freedom—politically, commercially, and ecclesiastically.

"THE CHRISTIAN RECORD,"

Published every Tuesday.

A Family Newspaper, sixteen pages, or forty-eight columns. Price TWO PENNY.

(From the Editor of the British Banner.)

"Many of its Leaders, for brilliance, pertinence, and point, are equal to those of the best portions of the London Press."

"THE PENNY RECORD."

Published every Thursday.

This popular and widely-circulated Paper contains TWENTY-FOUR PAGES OF INTERESTING MATTER, BEAUTIFULLY PRINTED IN A NEW TYPE, FOR ONE PENNY!

Such a Penny Paper, with regard to size, has never yet been published in the Kingdom.

(From the Patriot.)

"It is certainly the cheapest, and one of the best of our periodicals. Nowhere else can we find so much, and so much good matter for a penny."

Advertisements for each of these Journals will command an extensive circulation. The scale of prices are as follows:—Eight lines and under, 2s.; for each additional line, 2d.; and half-price for every subsequent insertion. Advertisements inserted in any one of the papers, may be repeated in either of the others at half-price, or in both, at twice the charge.

Enclose two shillings and fifteen stamps for the People's; two shillings and two stamps for the Christian, (which may be done in half a sheet of note paper, for a penny stamp); or one shilling and one stamp for the Penny, in a post-paid letter, addressed to the Editor of the Record, Jersey, and the paper will be regularly forwarded for 13 weeks. Postage stamps may be enclosed for single copies.

* * * Orders for the People's must reach us at the latest on the 3rd January.

London Agent: Benjamin L. Green, 62, Paternoster Row.

THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM;

THE ADVOCATE OF
POLITICAL, COMMERCIAL AND RELIGIOUS LIBERTY, EQUITABLE TAXATION AND RETRENCHMENT.

It must be obvious to every attentive observer of the times in which we live, that they are pregnant with the most momentous events. All reflecting men are thoroughly convinced that a current has set in which may be guided, but which it is impossible to resist; and that, although our own country has not been visited by the convulsions which have changed the destinies of other parts of Europe, the elements which cause such convulsions are not wanting among ourselves. It becomes, then, every patriot to be awake, and to consecrate himself to the task of endeavouring so to direct the tide of public opinion, that it shall eventuate the greatest possible amount of prosperity, not only to the British Empire, but to the whole human family. To this end is devoted: and no expense nor effort is spared to render it a powerful and worthy instrument for this glorious object.

“THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM”

AS A WEEKLY NEWSPAPER,

it is distinguished by the copiousness and accuracy of its intelligence. Its grand mission, however, is to promote the cause of liberty, of just and rational liberty. As the advocate of

POLITICAL FREEDOM,

it aims to unite the middle and humbler classes in a temperate, but firm and uncompromising effort to secure such an extension of the suffrage as shall cause the Commons House of Parliament to become a real, and not, as it is now, a false and deceptive representation of the people. With regard to

COMMERCIAL FREEDOM,

its creed that of the Cobden school; and its columns present unquestionable evidence that no truce will be held with monopolies and class interests of any description; nor with any imposts or restrictions that in any way cripple enterprise, burden industry, or interfere with the rights of either capital or labour. Upon the subject of it owns no law but that of the New Testament; and no arbiter, on earth, but that of Conscience. It treats all meddling, on the part of civil authorities, with religious opinion, or acts of worship, as both foolish and unrighteous usurpation; as not only opposed to the authority of the supreme Lawgiver, but as tending to destroy the very nature of religion, which is a voluntary homage rendered to the commands of God, and not of man.

RELIGIOUS FREEDOM

THE TEMPERANCE MOVEMENT.

The claims of this movement are duly regarded, and its intimate connexion with other great movements clearly pointed out.

THE VAST IMPORTANCE OF EMIGRATION,

and the numerous inquiries made upon the subject by parties about to emigrate, have induced the Proprietor to enter into arrangements for devoting a portion of his journal to correct and authentic information useful and valuable to the Emigrant. This department is under the superintendence of an able and experienced Editor, who has at his command every resource for giving sound, practical advice, as well as furnishing satisfactory answers to all suitable inquiries from those about to Emigrate. Neither expense nor exertion will be spared to render this part of the paper both full and complete.

“THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM”

is of the largest dimensions allowed by law, being beyond the size of the double Times. The price—4½d., or 4s. 9d. per quarter, paid in advance.

THREE EDITIONS are published; the first on FRIDAY AFTERNOON, in time for the Mails of that evening; the second at an early hour on SATURDAY MORNING, for town and country circulation; and the third edition at three o'clock on SATURDAY AFTERNOON, containing the latest intelligence up to the latest hour of going to press.

All communications for “THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM” must be directed “To the Editors, 335, Strand.” Post-office and money-orders must be made payable to JOHN CASSELL; to whom also Advertisements may be sent, directed as above.

Orders for “THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM” will be received by all newsvenders in town and country.

JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEES.

THE celebrity which these delicious COFFEES have attained is quite unparalleled. The enormous demand created for them throughout Great Britain and Ireland is a sufficient indication of the manner in which they are appreciated by those individuals and families who have made trial of them. The excellence of the COFFEES imported by JOHN CASSELL, and sold by his Agents, consists in their great strength, combined with a rich and mellow flavour, peculiar to the world's finest growths. At the same time they are sold at prices usually charged for very inferior articles. The following are the PRICES at which any quantity, from two ounces to one pound, may be obtained:—

John Cassell's Coffee, No. 1. An excellent article.	1s. 4d.
John Cassell's Coffee, No. 2. Cannot fail to give great satisfaction, being a combination of the choicest growths of Jamaica, possessing richness, strength, and flavour.	1s. 8d.
John Cassell's Coffee, No. 3. To every connoisseur in Coffee, this will prove a treat, combining the finest mountain growths of both Jamaica and Turkey.	2s. 0d.

Each Package forms a handsome Catty, lined with lead, so that the aroma and essential oil,—which constitute the excellence of a cup of really good Coffee,—are most effectually preserved.

THE AGENCY FOR JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE.

A considerable number of Agents have already been appointed, and Agents will be appointed to those towns in which there is not one at present.

THESE COFFEES, both on account of quality and price, are certain to command a very large sale. Besides this, measures are taken to make every family throughout the kingdom, as far as possible, acquainted with the fact, that they have the opportunity of purchasing articles of the qualities above stated, from an agent in their own locality. It may safely be asserted, therefore, that few Agencies are more desirable, to persons who wish to make a valuable addition to their business, than the sale of John Cassell's Coffees. Independent of the Commission allowed, the general trade of the Agent is certain to be benefited by the number of new customers who will be attracted to his place of business, and in consequence of his name being kept before the public, by means of advertisements, &c., as the Agent for John Cassell's Coffees.

Private Individuals having a respectable connexion, will do well to obtain this Agency, as there is no trouble attending it, the Coffees being weighed and packed in lead, ready for delivery. Applications for terms, &c., must be made direct to John Cassell, Abchurch-lane, London.

JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEES.

JOHNSON, 209, HIGH-STREET, SUNDERLAND, informs the inhabitants of Sunderland, and of the counties of Durham and Northumberland, that he is appointed WHOLESALE AGENT for this district for the sale of JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEES. Persons desiring of selling the same are requested to make application as above.

THE INHABITANTS of BIRMINGHAM and the vicinity are respectfully informed that HENRY KENWAY, 100, MOO-STREET, has been appointed WHOLESALE AGENT for the sale of JOHN CASSELL'S CELEBRATED COFFEES. Any person willing to undertake the Agency for the sale of these Coffees, which may be attended in connexion with any other business, may have every particular by applying to H. Kenway.

JOHN CASSELL'S CELEBRATED COFFEES.

THE PIM GOODBODY & Co., have accepted the WHOLESALE AGENCY for the sale of the above choice Coffees. Families will find it greatly to their advantage to purchase these, as they are warranted superior in quality, and at the prices usually charged for inferior articles. Persons willing to sell these Coffees may obtain the terms of Agency by applying to Goodbody and Co., 32, Westmoreland-street, Dublin.

THE SUBSCRIBER respectfully informs the inhabitants of CORK that JOHN CASSELL has appointed him WHOLESALE AGENT for the sale of his COFFEES, which have been so long celebrated for their strength and delicious flavour. Any individuals in the district desirous of undertaking the sale of these Coffees may obtain the terms, and every particular by applying to JOHN TODHUNTER, No. 16, Patrick-street.

JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEES.

ALEXANDER MONTGOMERY, jun., 27, DONEGAL-STREET, BELFAST, has been appointed WHOLESALE AGENT for the sale of JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEES, which have attained such great celebrity for their strength, flavour, and delicious properties. Families may be supplied as above; and persons willing to engage in the Agency may obtain every particular from A. Montgomery, jun.

Single copies of the TERTOTAL TIMES AND ESSAYIST will be sent regularly, post free, to every Subscriber of ONE SHILLING per annum, in advance. Societies and individuals desirous of availing themselves of this very economical and efficient mode of advocating Teetotalism will be supplied with copies at 6s. per hundred, which will be sent to them free, either in parcels, or in single copies, to persons whose names may be furnished. Thus a subscription of three shillings will ensure the sending of important information to fifty individuals, or to one hundred, if six shillings be subscribed.

TO POSMATSTERS.

This Journal is privileged to be sent postage free to every part of the United Kingdom, and we have the authority of the Secretary of the General Post Office for stating "that Agents may be employed in Great Britain and Ireland, for the sale of JURSEY Newspapers; and that such Newspapers may be forwarded by Post to any extent, either singly, or in parcels, provided the parcel is open at the ends. They may afterwards be reposted for any part of the United Kingdom, free of Postage, and for such of the Colonies, to which there are Mail Packets, but in the latter case the reposting must take place within seven days after the date of publication of the Newspaper.

Printed and Published for the Proprietor, by RICHARD GOSSET, at his Office, No. 20, Queen Street, and 37, Hill Street, St. Helier's, Jersey.

MONDAY, January 1, 1849.

THE
TEETOTAL TIMES
AND ESSAYIST.

PUBLISHED MONTHLY.

No. XIV. NEW SERIES.]

JERSEY, FEBRUARY, 1849.

[PRICE ONE PENNY.

THE SOCIAL, INTELLECTUAL, AND MORAL CONDITION OF THE WORKING CLASSES.

A PRIZE OF FIFTY POUNDS is hereby offered for the best ESSAY on the above subject. The work will be expected to contain a brief, but comprehensive, statement of the present condition of the people, and the great importance of its being improved and elevated. It is required, also, that it should fairly and candidly discuss the adaptation or deficiency of the means now employed for that purpose, and propose a well-digested scheme of remedial measures; such measures to have especial reference to the Temperance Movement—Ragged Schools—Educational and Mechanics' Institutions—the Press—and the best means of bringing Religious Influence to bear more immediately and directly on the bulk of the population.

The ESSAY must be written in a terse, lucid, and comprehensive style. In order that it may be widely circulated, its length should not exceed 150 pages of Bourgeois, Demy Octavo; and its price, when published, should not exceed ONE SHILLING.

The Manuscripts to be sent in on or before May 1st, 1849, addressed to JOHN SNOW, 35, Paternoster-row. The Manuscripts must be signed with some peculiar initial, with a sealed note containing the real name and address of the writer; such note not to be opened till the determination of the Adjudicators is known.

The names of the Adjudicators will shortly be announced.

Just out, price 3d., to be had by order of all Booksellers, and from Ipswich, for 5 stamps,

ALCOHOL: WHAT IT DOES; AND WHAT IT CANNOT DO, or the influence of Alcoholic Drinks on the Nutrition of the body and in the production of Disease. By WALTER JOHNSON, M.B., with an appendix by EDWARD JOHNSON, M.D., author of Life, Health and Disease.

LONDON: SIMPKIN, MARSHALL, AND Co. Ipswich: J. M. BURTON.

“THE TEMPERANCE CYCLOPÆDIA.”

In one handsome volume, illustrated with Dr. Sewall's celebrated Coloured Plates of the Stomach, royal 8vo. cloth, price 8s. with the Wine Question, 9s. 6d.; it is also RE-ISSUED in Nos. 2jd. each, and in Parts 9d. each.

THE TEETOTALER'S COMPANION; being an Exposition of the Evils resulting from the general custom of drinking intoxicating liquors, with the benefits that would result from the national adoption of total abstinence. By PETER BURNE.

“We have before called attention to this work, while in the course of publication. It is now finished, and constitutes the most copious, various, complete, and systematic view of the great subject anywhere to be found. Instead of the quaint and paltry title ‘The Teetotaler's Companion,’—no pocket ‘companion’ truly; it would require a bag to carry it about,—as we believe we formerly hinted, it ought to have been designated ‘THE TEMPERANCE CYCLOPÆDIA.’ Both the matter and the form of the work are of a character to sustain an appellation of such dignity. The royal size, the large and leaded type, with the marginal headings and notation, give the volume a rich and splendid aspect. While Mr. Burne has performed his part in a manner which entitles him to the thanks of his country, Mr. Burton also has amply sustained him by his highly workmanlike typography.”—Christian Witness, November 1848.

LONDON: Arthur Hall and Co. Ipswich: Burton.

JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEES.

JOHN YOUNG, 209, HIGH-STREET, SUNDERLAND, informs the inhabitants of Sunderland, and of the counties of Durham and Northumberland, that he is appointed WHOLESALE AGENT for this district for the sale of JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEES. Persons desiring of selling the same are requested to make application as above.

THE PROTESTANT DISSENTER'S ALMANACK FOR 1849, price THREEPENCE. Besides the usual Calendar, and other information peculiar to Almanacks, it contains a number of original articles in illustration and defence of Nonconformist principles. Among these are the following:—Retrospect of 1848—Political Dissenters—Who is the Head of the Church—Grand State error of a State Church—Amount of property devoted to the State Church—Collateral machinery of a State Church—State Church a main cause of National infidelity—The State Church a monstrous failure—The Endowed Charities of England—The English Regium Donum—Irish ditto—Who will oppose the Endowment of the Irish Popish Priests. Also, copious extracts from celebrated authors, on Civil and Religious Liberty. List of Independent and Baptist chapels in London and the suburbs—British Anti State Church Association—The May Meetings—State of Education in England and Wales—Denominational Statistics (including the various Branches of Wesleyan Methodists)—Religious and Benevolent Institutions—Concluding Address to Protestant Dissenters.

THIRTY-FIVE THOUSAND Copies were sold of the Protestant Dissenter's Almanack for 1848. The impression for 1849, in addition to the original articles enumerated above, contains the largest compendium of Denominational Statistics, obtained from authentic sources, ever yet published; and the whole will be found deeply interesting to Protestant Dissenters of every denomination.

LONDON:—John Snow, 35, Paternoster Row; EDINBURGH, Zeigler, South Bridge; GLASGOW, Gallie, Buchanan-street; and may be had of all Booksellers.

THE TEETOTAL ESSAYIST; or Monthly Temperance Standard, for 1847. London: B. L. Green, Paternoster-Row.

This may now be had complete, price ONE SHILLING.

This forms the most interesting and important publication that has ever been issued from the Temperance Press. As but very few sets remain on hand, an early application will be necessary. A copy will be sent, post free, to any person remitting twelve postage stamps, to JOHN CASSELL, 22, Abchurch Lane, London.

THE BEST & CHEAPEST ALMANACK EVER PUBLISHED. PRICE ONE PENNY.

THE PEOPLE'S ALMANACK FOR 1849;

WITH CHARACTERISTIC ENGRAVINGS.

BESIDES the usual Calendar, it contains a mass of matter deeply interesting to every class of the community, in connexion with Political, Commercial, and Religious Freedom.—Valuable domestic recipes—List of Fairs, &c. The contents fully justify its claim to the title of THE PEOPLE'S ALMANACK. It is printed from good clear type on good paper, and contains thirty-two pages, crown octavo.

* A liberal allowance made to the Trade.

LONDON:—B. L. Green, Paternoster-row; Cleave, Shoe-lane; and Berger, Holywell-street, Strand.

Just Published, Price Threepence.

THE EMIGRANTS' ALMANACK and DIRECTORY FOR 1849. Every person about to emigrate, or interested in the subject of emigration, should consult this Almanack.

Besides the matter usually contained in Almanacks, are articles on the following important subjects:—Fields for Emigration, North America, Australia, British Colonies, United States—Who should emigrate?—Choice of a Colony—First Steps to be Taken—Embarkation—Conduct on Board—Treatment of Sea Sickness—Conduct of Emigrants—How Land is to be Had—A Man of Small Means, How Shall I invest—Chances of the Labourer and Mechanic in America—Australia, Demand for Labourers, &c.—Regulations to be observed by Emigrants—Cost of Passage—Price of Provisions, &c., in Various Colonies—Fares and Routes to the Far West, &c.—Rates of Postage—and a fund of interesting and miscellaneous matter.

LONDON: C. GILPIN, 5, Bishopsgate-street Without; B. L. GREEN, Paternoster-row; Dublin: W. Curry and Co.; and all booksellers.

A NEW WESLEYAN FAMILY NEWSPAPER.

ON MONDAY, JANUARY 8, 1849, was published THE WESLEYAN TIMES (No. I.), TO BE CONTINUED WEEKLY, PRICE 5d.

At the time this Paper was started there was but one newspaper addressed expressly to the vast body of the Wesleyans, the various sections of which constitute a population of nearly 2,000,000. But it is certain that that only existing Wesleyan newspaper has not represented the opinions, nor spoken the sentiments, of the body at large; and it has recently been declared that there is no absolutely official organ of the body. The ground, therefore, was open and free to any organ which should embody the feeling and the intelligence of the whole community; and the projectors of the Wesleyan Times resolved to occupy this ground, and to furnish the Wesleyan people with a worthy representative of their sentiments and opinions. In accordance with its title, they intend to look with Christian eyes on the times past, present, and to come—but especially the present. To take events as they rise; the spirit of improvement as it advances; urging, at the same time, the necessity of the Wesleyans keeping pace with the age in which they live, in intellectual cultivation, in morals, in purity, and in acts of benevolence; not omitting to treat with a strong hand every measure that endangers the liberty of the connexion and of the individual, whether from within or without. To meet each necessity the WESLEYAN TIMES is projected. Its leading features will be that of taking up and dispassionately discussing all matters relating to the body; advocating the maintenance of Wesleyan Institutions; and seeking a wise, righteous, and liberal administration of its laws, as far as those laws are supported by the Sacred Records. Abuses will be fearlessly exposed, and such measures advocated as will be conducive to the welfare of the Wesleyan Community. It will be of no party, as such—bearing in mind, however, the words of an advocate of Methodism, that—"A man of no party is a man of no principle, and a man of mere party is a man of lost principle." In short, as far as Methodism is concerned, it will seek to extend and consolidate the system best adapted to promote the evangelization of the world—a system which the venerable Wesleys left as the legacy of their followers. It will not, however, confine its range to Wesleyanism, but extend it to the various branches of the Methodist family, at home and abroad. Knowing no fear, it will seek no favour, except that which an organ of "Justice, Love, and Truth" may claim. As it will discuss the great religious questions of the day in a spirit of fairness and Catholicity, and in harmony with the venerable man who said, we are "the friends of all, and the enemies of none." Its columns will be enriched from time to time with articles on various points of theology; sketches of sermons from the most eminent of the old divines, &c., so as to render it a valuable treasury to both the public Teacher and the private Christian. It will be the firm and unflinching friend of the Voluntary System—and of Evangelical Truth, the foe to Popery, and its offspring Puseyism. As it will array itself on the side of civil, political, and religious liberty; including in its range of advocacy a judicious retrenchment of national expenditure; the reduction of taxation; and, in order to an extension of the franchise, the elevation of the masses. These are points that will be, to the fullest and most zealous extent, argued and supported in its columns—earnestly contending for the greatest amount of good at the smallest possible expense. As

A WESLEYAN JOURNAL,

A RELIGIOUS JOURNAL,

A POLITICAL JOURNAL,

A SOCIAL JOURNAL,

it will aid the great schemes in operation for the advancement and elevation of society at large,—as Temperance Societies, Maternal Associations, Sunday Schools, Catechumen Institutions, Ragged Schools, Mechanics' Institutes, Benevolent, Religious Tract, and Missionary Societies; with every laudable object and institution seeking the amelioration of mankind, and uniting them in the bonds of peace all over the world, into the sublime sentiment of THE BROTHERHOOD OF MAN. As

A LITERARY JOURNAL,

it will contain Reviews of Books, Sketches of Ministerial Character, including Biographical Notices of eminent men in the literary, scientific, and political world, with extracts from new works, &c., &c. As it will present a full synopsis of all the news of the week, political and religious, foreign and domestic. A careful digest will be made of the debates in Parliament during the session; and a record of all of moment that transpires in the course of the week; a paper such as a parent can with confidence place in the hands of his children and the family circle. As its facilities will be more than ordinary, as it will be published on Monday afternoon, in time for the evening, conveying with it the Corn, Produce, Grocery, Cattle, and other Metropolitan Markets of Friday, Saturday, and Monday, together with all the Country Markets up to that date. Special attention will be given to this feature, in order to enhance its value to country dealers. Money, Stock, and Share Markets will also receive the greatest care and attention. In a word, the proprietors of the WESLEYAN TIMES are resolved to produce a paper in every respect worthy of the Wesleyan body, and thus place it in a position of intelligence and mutual communication on all topics and interests of the day, inferior to that of no other portion of the British community.

A FAMILY JOURNAL,

A COMMERCIAL JOURNAL,

The WESLEYAN TIMES will contain 16 pages, or 64 columns, and will be printed on the largest sheet allowed by law. Price 5d. per copy; or 5s. 3d. a quarter, to be paid in advance.

London: Published by JOHN HARRISON, at the Office, East Temple Chambers, 2, Whitefriars-street, Fleet-street. Post Office Orders to be made payable to the Proprietor, JOHN KAYE.

A CATALOGUE OF IPSWICH
TEMPERANCE PUBLICATIONS.

ALL these, whether Books, Tracts, or Hand-bills or Notice Papers, are sold in SIXPENNY PACKETS. Fifty Packets of either will be delivered to any address in London, for a Guinea, sent by Post Office Order to Richard Dykes Alexander, Ipswich; or they may be had of any Bookseller in the country, through Simpkin, Marshall, and Co., Stationers' Hall Court, London.

IPSWICH JUVENILE TEMPERANCE BOOKS,
ALL WITH PICTURES.

Thirty-two in number, in two assorted Packets.
No. 1-1 to 16. No. 2-17 to 32.

HAND-BILLS FOR PUBLIC MEETINGS.

Nine inches by six. On the back of each is a Temperance Tract. Fifty for Sixpence.

NOTICE PAPERS.

With the same form as the Hand-bills. The opinions of eminent persons on Teetotalism on the back of each. Two Hundred for Sixpence.

IPSWICH TEMPERANCE TRACTS.

Those Tracts marked with an * have PICTURES. Pages.

1 The Doctor Scrutinized, or for what purposes do Physicians prescribe Alcoholic Beverages? By R. D. Alexander, F.L.S., 122 thousand.....	8
2 Striking Facts, 84 thousand.....	2
3 Maker and Vender, 44 thousand.....	2
4 Our Creed, 52 thousand.....	2
5 Adulterated Beer, 34 thousand.....	4
6 Adulterated Wine, 40 thousand.....	4
7 The Malster, 37 thousand.....	4
8 Go Geel what I have felt, 53 thousand.....	2
9 Facts are Stubborn Things, 53 thousand.....	2
*10 The Spirit Dealer, 35 thousand.....	2
11 Christian Teetotalism, 70 thousand.....	2
12 The Trade, 33 thousand.....	4
13 Alcohol, 33 thousand.....	4
14 The Town of Ipswich, 33 thousand.....	4
*15 Song of the Water Drinker, 37 thousand.....	2
16 Stimulation not Strength, 30 thousand.....	8
17 Farmer Woodman's Speech, 41 thousand.....	4
*18 The Beer Barrel Examined, 33 thousand.....	8
19 Teetotal Recipes, 38 thousand.....	4
*20 Speech of J. J. Gurney, 30 thousand.....	4
21 Pity the Poor Drunkard, 49 thousand.....	2
22 The Fool's Pence, 25 thousand.....	8
23 Why am I a Teetotaler? 26 thousand.....	2
*24 Dost thou smoke, Bill? 34 thousand.....	4
25 William the Laudanum Drinker, 30 thousand.....	4
26 The Ox Discourse.....	4
27 Letter to the Clergy, by a Brother Clergyman, 21 thousand.....	20
28 Common Sense, 20 thousand.....	20
29 Ralph the Soldier.....	4
30 Testimony of Eminent Physicians, 30 thousand.....	4
31 The Working Man, 35 thousand.....	20
32 Is I not happy? by Hugh Stowell, 30 thousand.....	4
33 David the Shoemaker, 49 thousand.....	4
34 The Drunken Couple, 48 thousand.....	2
35 Confessions of a Drunkard, 29 thousand.....	4
36 Master Tailor, 20 thousand.....	2
37 The Fatal Gift, 36 thousand.....	4
38 Poor Sandy.....	8
39 Use and Abuse, by Archdeacon Jeffreys, 34 thousand.....	2
40 The Schoolmaster.....	2
41 Water is best, by J. J. Gurney, 37 thousand.....	4
42 Cobbett's Advice.....	4
43 Take a Public House.....	4
*44 A Sailor's Yarn.....	4
45 Moderate Drinking Calmly Considered.....	12
46 The Pledge.....	4
47 John Jarvis, or the Pledge Signed.....	12
*48 The Fifteen Friends.....	4
49 Sunday School Teachers, 22 thousand.....	12
50 Sunday School Children, 40 thousand.....	12
*51 Money better than Beer, 37 thousand.....	4
*52 Little Mary; or a Daughter's Love.....	8
53 Philosophy of Temperance, by R. D. Trall, M.D.....	20
54 Love to Man, or an Appeal to the Pious.....	20
*55 The Young Woman's Tract.....	12
56 The Young Man's Tract.....	16
57 Dr. Campbell's Testimony, 18 thousand.....	8
58 Why Sign the Pledge? 40 thousand.....	2
59 The Poor Man's House Repaired.....	4
60 The Mother's Tract.....	8
61 The High Price of Food.....	4
62 Ladies' Tract Societies.....	8
63 The Praise of Water, 25 thousand.....	2
64 Important Calculations.....	2
*65 The Farm Servant, 25 thousand.....	2
66 Teetotalism Declining, 15 thousand.....	2
*67 The Reformed Drunkard, 20 thousand.....	8

68 The Recruit of the British Legion.....	8
69 No. 1 of Temperance Anecdotes.....	12
70 No. 2 ditto.....	12
71 No. 3 ditto.....	12
72 No. 4 ditto.....	12
73 Luke Husler, or "I did not like to say No.".....	8
74 The Drunkard's Wife.....	8
75 The Unexplored Island.....	4
76 Ancient Wines; by R. D. Alexander.....	8
77 Influence of Example, 15 thousand.....	2
*78 The Victim of Excitement.....	20
*79 My Medical Adviser does not approve of Teetotalism.....	4
*98 The Restoration.....	8

The following have been published in the year 1848.

81 The Use of Intoxicating Drinks explained, by Archdeacon Jeffreys.....	12
*82 Drink and be Happy.....	4
83 The Five Nips.....	4
84 The Honest Spirit Dealer's Advertisement.....	2
85 Seven Years' Experience of a Reclaimed Drunkard.....	2
*86 The Education of the Drunkard, with 5 pictures.....	12
*87 A Word with Serious People, by John Bright, M.P.....	4
*88 Guide to Glendalough.....	4
*89 Bridget Larkins.....	4
90 The Contrast.....	2
91 Tobacco a Cause of Intemperance.....	2
*92 The Wedding Night.....	12
*93 My Chapel.....	4
*94 The Best Men sometimes err, by Archdeacon Jeffreys.....	8
*95 The Testimonies of Eight Judges.....	2
*96 The Drunkard in Rags.....	2
*97 The Farmer and the Labourer—a Dialogue.....	4
*98 The Gloucestershire Farmer.....	4
*99 Strong Drink and Infidelity; or the Last Illness of William Chapman.....	8
100 Catalogue of Temperance Publications.....	4
101 The Hertfordshire Farmer, 10 thousand.....	2
*102 Sunday Schools and Strong Drink.....	4
103 Confessions of a Publican.....	2
104 Peter Levison, or the Ruined Minister.....	4
105 Testimony of John Angell James, 10 thousand.....	2
*106 I do not drink Wine, 10 thousand.....	2
*107 Self-Imposed Burdens, 10 thousand.....	2
*108 The Craving of a Drunkard.....	8
*109 Richard H—, or the Poor Orphan Boy.....	4
*110 Loss of Seven Fishermen.....	8
111 A Temperance Catechism for Sunday Schools.....	8
112 The Mail Coachman.....	2
113 The Reformed Family. By Anne Jane Carlile.....	4
114 Licensing Day at Bolton.....	4
115 The Stomach of a Drunkard.....	4
116 Intemperance and Ragged Schools.....	4
117 Delirium Tremens.....	4

The following have been published in the year 1849.

118 The Fire-Escape and the Ship in Danger.....	4
119 The Sabbath Morn, or an Address to Young Persons on Total Abstinence. By Mary Buchanan.....	4
*120 Can a Christian keep a Public House—A Dialogue.....	2
121 The Aged Friend.....	2
*122 The Village of Newbridge.....	2
123 The Mirror of Intemperance.....	4
*124 Alcohol, what it does, and what it cannot do, or the Influence of Alcoholic Drinks on the nutrition of the Body, and in the production of Disease. By Walter Johnson, M.B., with an Appendix by Edward Johnson, M.D.....	44

Assorted Packets: No. 1 containing 1 to 30—No. 2, 31 to 53—No. 3, 54 to 72—No. 4, 73 to 100—No. 5, 101 and upwards.

* * * LOAN TRACT COVERS IN SHILLING PACKETS.

25 VOLUMES CONTAINING THE FIRST 100 TRACTS, PRICE 3s.

SIXTEENTH THOUSAND.

INTEMPERANCE THE IDOLATRY OF BRITAIN. By the Rev. W. R. BAKER, author of "The Curse of Britain," &c. It is admitted by the most eminent of the religious reviewers, as well as by all who have read it, that there never was a work upon the Temperance Question more calculated to carry conviction to the mind of a thoughtful reader as the danger and iniquity of the drinking system. That it may have a very extensive circulation, this new and revised edition is published at THREEPENCE—the price of the former editions was 2s. 6d. The usual allowance will be made to Societies, or persons taking a quantity.

THE CHRISTIAN'S SPIRITUAL SONG BOOK, containing 500 spiritual songs adapted to popular tunes. By the Rev. JOHN STAMP. Embossed cambric, 1s. 6d.

TEMPERANCE HYMNS AND SONGS; devotional, moral, and social. Selected and revised by J. W. GREEN. Embossed leather, 1s.: stiff paper covers, 6d.

THE TEETOTALER'S HYMN BOOK; selected and revised by J. W. GREEN. ONE PENNY. B. L. GREEN, 62, PATERNOSTER ROW.

THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM

Is one of the largest Weekly Newspapers published in England. It contains an immense quantity of letter-press, whilst its price is only 4½d. per copy, or 4s. 9d. per quarter paid in advance.

THE OPENING OF PARLIAMENT.

Arrangements will be made to give a complete Analysis of the Debates for which purpose special reporters will be engaged. As the forthcoming session will be one of stirring interest, no efforts will be spared to make the Standard of Freedom a faithful and trustworthy guide in all political and ecclesiastical affairs.

The great question of Financial Reform—Direct versus Indirect Taxation—The Peace Movement—The Temperance Reformation—The Abolition of Capital Punishment, with everything included in Civil, Commercial, and Religious Freedom, will be vigorously and constantly advocated in its columns. The state of the Markets down to the time of publication, will be faithfully reported; the Corn, Cattle, Produce, Grocery and other Markets, both Metropolitan and Provincial; as well as the Money, Stock, and Share Markets. As a FAMILY NEWSPAPER the Standard of Freedom will be distinguished by the variety, interest, copiousness, and accuracy of its intelligence.

THREE EDITIONS are published; the first on FRIDAY AFTERNOON, in time for the Mails of that evening; the second at an early hour on SATURDAY MORNING, for town and country circulation; and the third edition at three o'clock on SATURDAY AFTERNOON, containing the latest intelligence up to the hour of going to press.

All communications for "THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM" must be directed to the Editors, 335, Strand, London. Post-office and money-orders must be made payable to JOHN CASSELL; to whom also Advertisements may be sent, directed as above.

Orders for "THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM" will be received by all newsvenders in town and country.

JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEES.

THE celebrity which these delicious COFFEES have attained is quite unparalleled. The enormous demand created for them throughout Great Britain and Ireland is a sufficient indication of the manner in which they are appreciated by those individuals and families who have made trial of them. The excellence of the COFFEES imported by JOHN CASSELL, and sold by his Agents, consists in their great strength, combined with a rich and mellow flavour, peculiar to the world's finest growths. At the same time they are sold at prices usually charged for very inferior articles. The following are the PRICES at which any quantity, from two ounces to one pound, may be obtained:—

John Cassell's Coffee, No. 1. An excellent article.	1s. 4d.
John Cassell's Coffee, No. 2. Cannot fail to give great satisfaction, being a combination of the choicest growths of Jamaica, possessing richness, strength, and flavour.	1s. 8d.
John Cassell's Coffee, No. 3. To every connoisseur in Coffee, this will prove a treat, combining the finest mountain growths of both Jamaica and Turkey.	2s. 0d.

Each Package forms a handsome Catty, lined with lead, so that the aroma and essential oil,—which constitute the excellence of a cup of really good Coffee,—are most effectually preserved.

A considerable number of Agents have already been appointed, and Agents will be appointed to those towns in which there is not one at present.

Private Individuals having a respectable connexion, will do well to obtain this Agency, as there is no trouble attending it, the Coffees being weighed and packed in lead, ready for delivery. Applications for terms, &c., must be made direct to John Cassell, Abchurch-lane, London.

THE
TEETOTAL TIMES
AND ESSAYIST.

PUBLISHED MONTHLY.

No. XV. NEW SERIES.]

JERSEY, MARCH, 1849.

[PRICE ONE PENNY.]

Now ready, in demy 8vo., containing 32 pages, price 2d.,
THE GREAT MILITARY AND NAVAL PARLIAMENT; being an Analysis of both our Houses of Parliament: showing, from a careful examination of the Red-Books of the Aristocracy themselves, the true secret of the constant increase in our Military and Naval expenditure, in a STANDING MAJORITY in both Houses of nearly 300 members directly connected with the war system. No such dissection of our Legislative body has hitherto been made; and it may safely be said that no man, till he has gone over this list of 700 Members of Parliament connected with the military system by appointment, marriage, or consanguinity, is at all aware of the real character of the body that governs us.

Published at the Office of the STANDARD OF FREEDOM, 335, Strand: CHARLES GILPIN, Bishopsgate-street; and to be had of all Booksellers.

LIVERPOOL FINANCIAL REFORM TRACTS.

Just published, price 1d. each.

THE LIVERPOOL FINANCIAL REFORM TRACTS.

No. 1.—CIVIL LIST.

No. 2.—PENSION LIST.

No. 3.—TAXATION.

No. 4.—THE ARMY, ORDINANCE, COMMISSARIAT, NAVY, COLONIES.

No. 5.—Ditto. Ditto.

No. 6.—THE NATIONAL BUDGET for 1849, by RICHARD COBDEN, Esq., M.P., in a letter to Robertson Gladstone, Esq., President of the Financial Reform Association of Liverpool: with a report of the Public Meeting held at the Concert Hall, Liverpool, December 20, 1848, at which the Budget was announced to the Nation.

No. 7.—THE ARMY, ORDINANCE, COMMISSARIAT, NAVY, COLONIES. The Army Clothing, together with Major-Gen. Sir Wm. Napier's attack on the Association, and their Reply.

No. 8.—THE WOODS, FORESTS, and ESTATES of the CROWN.

No. 9.—THE DEAD WEIGHT of the ARMY.

No. 10.—THE NAVY.

No. 11.—SIR W. MOLESWORTH ON THE COLONIES.

No. 12.—Ditto. Ditto.

Published at the office of the STANDARD OF FREEDOM, 335, Strand, London.

Liverpool: Published by the ASSOCIATION, North John-street, by SMITH, ROBERTSON, and Co., Lord-street; and Sold by all Booksellers. London: the trade Supplied by SIMPSON, MARSHALL and Co., Stationers' Hall-court, GEORGE VICKERS, Holywell-street, Strand; GROOMBRIDGE and SOSS, Paternoster-row; EPINGHAM WILSON, Royal Exchange; H. BINKS, 85, Aldersgate-st; CHARLES GILPIN, 5, Bishopsgate-street. Dublin: by GILPIN, Dame-street, Manchester; ABEL HEYWOOD, Edinburgh; J. MENZIES, Prince's-street. Glasgow, GALLIE, Buchanan-street.

JUVENILE DEPRAVITY, £100 PRIZE ESSAY.

Nearly ready, price 5s. in one vol., Post 8vo.

THE PRIZE ESSAY ON JUVENILE DEPRAVITY by the Rev. H. Worsley, A.M., Eastern Rectory, Suffolk. Adjudicators, Dr. Harris, of Cheshunt; the Rev. James Sherman, of Surrey Chapel; and Dr. Vaughan, of Harrow. The Essay comprises the following topics:—The fearful and growing extent of Juvenile Crime—its connexion with the Intemperance of Parents.—EDUCATION and other remedies examined. London:—Charles Gilpin, 5, Bishopsgate-street Without; and may be had through all Booksellers.

THE WESLEYAN TIMES.

THIS PAPER is rapidly rising in the estimation of Wesleyan Ministers and members, and the demand for it is steadily increasing. It is one of the largest Weekly Newspapers published in the Kingdom, and the most talented writers in the Connexion are engaged to furnish original articles on all subjects calculated to promote the prosperity of the Wesleyan body. Published every Tuesday morning, price 5d., or 5s. 3d. per quarter, paid in advance. Post-office Orders to be made payable to JOHN KAYE, at the Office, East Temple Chambers, 2, Whitefriars-street, Fleet-street, London.

NATIONAL TEMPERANCE SOCIETY.

PRIZE ESSAYS ON TEETOTALISM.

THE COMMITTEE of the National Temperance Society, in order to promote the objects to which it is devoted, offer two Prizes, one of £30 and the other of £10, for the best Essays on the Principles and Practice of Total Abstinence from all intoxicating drinks.

The Prizes to be competed for by either MEN OR WOMEN AMONG THE WORKING-CLASSES.

The Essays must shew that the general spread of Temperance principles, would tend to the Physical, Mental, Social and Religious elevation of the working-classes, embracing the following propositions:—

1st. The practicability of Teetotalism in the performance of labour.

2nd. The extent to which the disuse of strong drinks would increase the demand for useful labour, and promote the expenditure of the money in food, clothing, furniture, &c.

3rd. The value of Temperance in promoting the comfort and happiness of the homes of the working-classes.

4th. The adaptation of Temperance principles to render the working-man independent of charitable relief.

5th. The extent to which the example of Teetotal parents would promote the moral and religious well-being of families, by affording parents the means of sending their children to school.

6th. The practical working of the drinking-usages and customs in manufactories, workshops and elsewhere.

The names of the adjudicators will be announced at a future time.

The Essays, which must not exceed forty-six 8vo. pages, to be sent under cover, accompanied with a sealed letter enclosing the real name and address of the writer, on or before the 1st of September, 1849, to the Secretary of the National Temperance Society, 11, Tokenhouse Yard.

The Committee, also, offer a further prize of £10 for the best Essay, on the most efficient means of conducting Temperance Societies, with the view of accelerating, and giving permanence to the Teetotal Abstinence Reformation. This Essay must not exceed thirty-two 8vo. pages, and is open to competition by writers of all classes. To be sent, in by the 1st of July, to the office of the National Temperance Society, and the adjudication to be made under the direction of the Committee.

ISAAC DOWSEY, Secretary.

11, Tokenhouse Yard, 22nd February, 1849.

Just Published, Price Three-pence.

THE EMIGRANTS' ALMANACK and DIRECTORY FOR 1849. Every person about to emigrate, or interested in the subject of emigration, should consult this Almanack. Besides the matter usually contained in Almanacks, are articles on the following important subjects:—Fields for Emigration, North America, Australia, British Colonies, United States—Who should emigrate?—Choice of a Colony—First Steps to be Taken—Embarkation—Conduct on Board—Treatment of Sea Sickness—Conduct of Emigrants—How Land is to be Had—A Man of Small Means, How Shall I invest—Chances of the Labourer and Mechanic in America—Australia, Demand for Labourers, &c.—Regulations to be observed by Emigrants—Cost of Passage—Price of Provisions, &c., in Various Colonies—Fares and Routes to the Far West, &c.—Rates of Postage—and a fund of interesting and miscellaneous matter.

London: C. GILPIN, 5, Bishopsgate-street Without; E. L. GREEN, Paternoster-row; Dublin: W. Curry and Co.; and all booksellers.

Just out, price 3d., to be had by order of all Booksellers, and from Ipswich, for 5 stamps.

ALCOHOL: WHAT IT DOES; AND

WHAT IT CANNOT DO, or the influence of Alcoholic Drinks on the Nutrition of the body and in the production of Disease. By WALTER JOHNSON, M.B., with an appendix by EDWARD JOHNSON, M.D., author of Life, Health and Disease.

London: SIMPSON, MARSHALL, AND Co. Ipswich: J. M. BURTON.

The Great Financial Reform Movement.

REDUCTION OF £10,000,000 TAXES.

"THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM"

has been distinguished, from its first publication, for its able and uncompromising advocacy of FINANCIAL REFORM. It has laid bare our present governmental system of expenditure, exhibiting alike its recklessness, and the inefficient mode of its application. The House of Parliament has been anatomized, and the true secret revealed as to the purpose for which the treasures and energies of the people have been exacted, namely, the support of our aristocratic law-makers, and their brothers, sons, cousins, and numerous relations and dependencies. The talent and fidelity it has displayed in the cause of Liberty, Political, Commercial, and Religious, has elevated the "STANDARD OF FREEDOM" to the position of one of the leading journals of the day. Its conductors are determined that it shall maintain that position, and that neither labour nor expense shall be spared to render it the true and faithful representative of all the advocates of

FINANCIAL REFORM AND RETRENCHMENT.

In addition to original leading articles, a regular WEEKLY SYNOPSIS is given of the operations of Financial Reformers throughout the kingdom, as well as of the progress of the

INTERNATIONAL ARBITRATION MOVEMENT.

Independently of the PARLIAMENTARY PROCEEDINGS of the Week, the "STANDARD OF FREEDOM" contains a digest of all the news and events of the world, and accurate reports of all the MARKETS, Metropolitan and Provincial.

Being one of the largest newspapers published, it contains an immense amount of letter-press; and presents such a copious variety of intelligence as to make it one of the most readable and interesting papers published.

There are THREE EDITIONS of the "STANDARD OF FREEDOM": a COUNTRY EDITION on Friday Evening, for delivery in the Provinces early on Saturday morning: a TOWN EDITION on Saturday Morning, in time for the morning Mails; and a THIRD EDITION is issued at three o'clock, containing the Saturday markets, and the latest intelligence, foreign and domestic, down to the hour of going to press.

All communications for the "STANDARD OF FREEDOM" to be addressed to the Editors, 335, Strand, London. Post-office and Money-orders to be made payable to JOHN CASSELL; to whom, also, ADVERTISEMENTS may be sent, directed as above.

Orders for the "STANDARD OF FREEDOM" will be received by all Newsvenders in Town and Country.

THE PROTESTANT DISSENTER'S AL-
MANACK FOR 1849, price THREEPENCE. Besides the usual Calendar, and other information peculiar to Almanacks, it contains a number of original articles in illustration and defence of Nonconformist principles. Among these are the following:—Retrospect of 1848—Political Dissenters—Who is the Head of the Church—Grand State error of a State Church—Amount of property devoted to the State Church—Collateral machinery of a State Church—State Church a main cause of National infidelity—The State Church a monstrous failure—The Endowed Charities of England—The English Regium Donum—Irish ditto—Who will oppose the Endowment of the Irish Popish Priests. Also, copious extracts from celebrated authors, on Civil and Religious Liberty. List of Independent and Baptist chapels in London and the suburbs—British Anti State Church Association—The May Meetings—State of Education in England and Wales—Denominational Statistics (including the various Branches of Wesleyan Methodists)—Religious and Benevolent Institutions—Concluding Address to Protestant Dissenters.

The largest compendium of Denominational Statistics, obtained from authentic sources, ever yet published. The whole will be found deeply interesting to Protestant Dissenters of every denomination.

LONDON:—John Snow, 35, Paternoster Row; EDINBURGH, Zeigler, South Bridge; GLASGOW, Gallie, Buchanan-street; and may be had of all Booksellers.

THE BEST & CHEAPEST ALMANACK EVER PUBLISHED.

PRICE ONE PENNY.

THE PEOPLE'S ALMANACK FOR 1849;
 WITH CHARACTERISTIC ENGRAVINGS.

BESIDES the usual Calendar, it contains a mass of matter deeply interesting to every class of the community, in connexion with Political, Commercial, and Religious Freedom.—Valuable domestic recipes—List of Fairs, &c. The contents fully justify its claim to the title of THE PEOPLE'S ALMANACK. It is printed from good clear type on good paper, and contains thirty-two pages, crown octavo.

* A liberal allowance made to the Trade.
 LONDON:—B. L. Green, Paternoster-row; Cleave, Shoe-lane; and Berger, Holywell-street, Strand.

THE SOCIAL, INTELLECTUAL, AND MORAL CONDITION OF THE WORKING CLASSES.

A PRIZE OF FIFTY POUNDS is hereby offered for the best ESSAY on the above subject. The work will be expected to contain a brief, but comprehensive, statement of the present condition of the people, and the great importance of its being improved and elevated. It is required, also, that it should fairly and candidly discuss the adaptation or deficiency of the means now employed for that purpose, and propose a well-digested scheme of remedial measures; such measures to have especial reference to the Temperance Movement—Ragged Schools—Educational and Mechanics' Institutions—the Press—and the best means of bringing Religious Influence to bear more immediately and directly on the bulk of the population.

The ESSAY must be written in a terse, lucid, and comprehensive style. In order that it may be widely circulated, its length should not exceed 150 pages of Bourgeois, Demy Octavo; and its price, when published, should not exceed ONE SHILLING.

The Manuscripts to be sent in on or before May 1st, 1849, addressed to JOHN SNOW, 35, Paternoster-row. The Manuscripts must be signed with some peculiar initial, with a sealed note containing the real name and address of the writer; such note not to be opened till the determination of the Adjudicators is known.

The Adjudicators are the Rev. THOMAS SPENCER, A.M., Bath; EDWARD SWAINE, Esq., and EDWARD MITALL, Esq., of London.

Price 2d., or by post 3d.

CAUTIONS AND TESTIMONY AGAINST ODD FELLOWSHIP, by H. MUDGE, Surgeon, Bodmin.

Also price 2s. or by post 2s. 6d., by the same author.

EXPOSURE OF ODD FELLOWSHIP; Showing its immoral tendency and bankrupt circumstances, and containing as well a large amount of information on the subject of Friendly Societies.

WHITTAKER, London; JIDDELL, Bodmin.

A CATALOGUE OF IPSWICH
TEMPERANCE PUBLICATIONS.

ALL these, whether Books, Tracts, or Hand-bills or Notice Papers, are sold in SIXPENNY PACKETS. Fifty Packets of either will be delivered to any address in London, for a Guinea, sent by Post Office Order to Richard Dykes Alexander, Ipswich; or they may be had of any Bookseller in the country, through h Simpkin, Marshall, and Co., Stationers' Hall Court, London.

IPSWICH JUVENILE TEMPERANCE BOOKS,

ALL WITH PICTURES.

Thirty-two in number, in two assorted Packets.
No. 1—1 to 16. No. 2—17 to 32.

HAND-BILLS FOR PUBLIC MEETINGS,

Nine inches by six. On the back of each is a Temperance Tract. Fifty for Sixpence.

NOTICE PAPERS,

With the same form as the Hand-bills. The opinions of eminent persons on Teetotalism on the back of each. Two Hundred for Sixpence.

IPSWICH TEMPERANCE TRACTS.

Those Tracts marked with an * have PICTURES. Pages.

1 The Doctor Scrutinized, or for what purposes do Physicians prescribe Alcoholic Beverages? By R. D. Alexander, F.L.S., 122 thousand	8
2 Striking Facts, 84 thousand	2
3 Maker and Vender, 44 thousand	2
4 Our Creed, 52 thousand	2
5 Adulterated Beer, 31 thousand	4
6 Adulterated Wine, 40 thousand	4
7 The Malster, 37 thousand	4
8 Go Gal what I have felt, 53 thousand	4
9 Facts are Stubborn Things, 53 thousand	2
*10 The Spirit Dealer, 35 thousand	2
11 Christian Teetotalism, 70 thousand	2
12 The Trade, 33 thousand	4
13 Alcohol, 33 thousand	4
14 The Town of Ipswich, 33 thousand	4
*15 Song of the Water Drinker, 37 thousand	2
16 Stimulation not Strength, 30 thousand	8
17 Farmer Woodman's Speech, 41 thousand	4
*18 The Beer Barrel Examined, 33 thousand	8
19 Teetotal Recipes, 38 thousand	4
*20 Speech of J. J. Gurney, 30 thousand	4
21 Pity the Poor Drunkard, 49 thousand	2
22 The Fool's Pence, 25 thousand	8
23 Why am I a Teetotaler? 26 thousand	2
*24 Dost thou smoke, Bill? 34 thousand	4
25 William the Laudanum Drinker, 30 thousand	4
26 The Ox Discourse	4
27 Letter to the Clergy, by a Brother Clergyman, 21 thousand	20
28 Common Sense, 20 thousand	20
29 Ralph the Soldier	4
30 Testimony of Eminent Physicians, 30 thousand	4
31 The Working Man, 35 thousand	20
32 Is I not happy? by Hugh Stowell, 30 thousand	4
33 David the Shoemaker, 49 thousand	4
34 The Drunken Couple, 48 thousand	2
35 Confessions of a Drunkard, 29 thousand	4
36 Master Tailor, 30 thousand	2
37 The Fatal Gift, 36 thousand	4
38 Poor Sandy	8
39 Use and Abuse, by Archdeacon Jeffreys, 34 thousand	2
40 The Schoolmaster	2
41 Water is best, by J. J. Gurney, 37 thousand	4
42 Cobbett's Advice	4
43 Take a Public House	4
*44 A Sailor's Yarn	4
45 Moderate Drinking Calmly Considered	12
46 The Pledge	4
*47 John Jarvis, or the Pledge Signed	12
*48 The Fifteen Friends	4
49 Sunday School Teachers, 22 thousand	12
50 Sunday School Children, 40 thousand	12
*51 Money better than Beer, 37 thousand	4
*52 Little Mary; or a Daughter's Love	8
53 Philosophy of Temperance, by R. D. Trall, M.D.	20
54 Love to Man, or an Appeal to the Pious	20
*55 The Young Woman's Tract	12
56 The Young Man's Tract	16
57 Dr. Campbell's Testimony, 18 thousand	8
58 Why Sign the Pledge? 40 thousand	2
59 The Poor Man's House Repaired	4
60 The Mother's Tract	4
61 The High Price of Food	4
62 Ladies' Tract Societies	8
63 The Praise of Water, 25 thousand	2
64 Important Calculations	2
*65 The Farm Servant, 25 thousand	2
66 Teetotalism Declining, 15 thousand	8
*67 The Reformed Drunkard, 20 thousand	8

68 The Recruit of the British Legion	8
69 No. 1 of Temperance Anecdotes	13
70 No. 2 ditto	12
71 No. 3 ditto	12
72 No. 4 ditto	12
73 Luke Husler, or "I did not like to say No."	8
74 The Drunkard's Wife	8
75 The Unexplored Island	4
76 Ancient Wines; by R. D. Alexander	8
77 Influence of Example, 15 thousand	2
*78 The Victim of Excitement	20
*79 My Medical Adviser does not approve of Teetotalism	4
*98 The Restoration	8

The following have been published in the year 1848.

81 The Use of Intoxicating Drinks explained, by Archdeacon Jeffreys	12
*82 Drink and be Happy	4
83 The Five Nips	4
84 The Honest Spirit Dealer's Advertisement	2
85 Seven Years' Experience of a Reclaimed Drunkard	2
*86 The Education of the Drunkard, with 5 pictures	12
*87 A Word with Serious People, by John Bright, M.P.	4
*88 Guide to Glendalough	4
*89 Bridget Larkins	4
90 The Contrast	2
91 Tobacco a Cause of Intemperance	2
*92 The Wedding Night	12
*93 My Chapel	4
*94 The Best Men sometimes err, by Archdeacon Jeffreys	8
*95 The Testimonies of Eight Judges	2
*96 The Drunkard in Bags	2
*97 The Farmer and the Labourer—a Dialogue	4
*98 The Gloucestershire Farmer	4
*99 Strong Drink and Infidelity; or the Last Illness of William Chapman	8
100 Catalogue of Temperance Publications	4
101 The Hertfordshire Farmer, 10 thousand	2
*102 Sunday Schools and Strong Drink	4
103 Confessions of a Publican	2
104 Peter Levison, or the Ruined Minister	4
105 Testimony of John Angell James, 10 thousand	2
*106 I do not drink Wine, 10 thousand	2
*107 Self-Imposed Burdens, 10 thousand	2
*108 The Craving of a Drunkard	8
*109 Richard H—, or the Poor Orphan Boy	4
*110 Loss of Seven Fishermen	8
111 A Temperance Catechism for Sunday Schools	8
112 The Mail Coachman	2
113 The Reformed Family. By Anne Jane Carlile	4
114 Licensing Day at Bolton	4
115 The Stomach of a Drunkard	4
116 Intemperance and Ragged Schools	4
117 Delirium Tremens	4

The following have been published in the year 1849.

118 The Fire-Escape and the Ship in Danger	4
119 The Sabbath Morn, or an Address to Young Persons on Total Abstinence. By Mary Buchanan	4
*120 Can a Christian keep a Public House—A Dialogue	2
121 The Aged Friend	2
*122 The Village of Newbridge	2
123 The Mirror of Intemperance	4
*124 Alcohol, what it does, and what it cannot do, or the Influence of Alcoholic Drinks on the nutrition of the Body, and in the production of Disease. By Walter Johnson, M.B., with an Appendix by Edward Johnson, M.D.	44

Assorted Packets: No. 1 containing 1 to 30—No. 2, 31 to 53—No. 3, 54 to 72—No. 4, 73 to 100—No. 5, 101 and upwards.
* * LOAN TRACT COVERS IN SHILLING PACKETS.

VOLUMES CONTAINING THE FIRST 100 TRACTS, PRICE 3s.

SIXTEENTH THOUSAND.

INTEMPERANCE THE IDOLATRY OF BRITAIN. By the Rev. W. R. BAKER, author of "The Curse of Britain," &c. It is admitted by the most eminent of the religious reviewers, as well as by all who have read it, that there never was a work upon the Temperance Question more calculated to carry conviction to the mind of a thoughtful reader as the danger and iniquity of the drinking system. That it may have a very extensive circulation, this new and revised edition is published at THREEPENCE—the price of the former editions was 2s. 6d. The usual allowance will be made to Societies, or persons taking a quantity.

THE CHRISTIAN'S SPIRITUAL SONG-BOOK, containing 500 spiritual songs adapted to popular tunes. By the Rev. JOHN STAMP. Embossed cambric, 1s. 6d.

TEMPERANCE HYMNS AND SONGS; devotional, moral, and social. Selected and revised by J. W. GREEN. Embossed leather, 1s.; stiff paper covers, 6d.

THE TEETOTALER'S HYMN BOOK; selected and revised by J. W. GREEN. ONE PENNY.
B. L. GREEN, 62, Paternoster Row.

The largest Coffee Establishment in the Empire,

No. 80, FENCHURCH-STREET.

JOHN CASSELL,

To meet the increased and unparalleled demand for his COFFEE, has opened an Establishment, which for its extent, and its capabilities for supplying to the people of Great Britain with the above article, stands unrivalled. It has long been a source of complaint, that while the inhabitants of almost every town in the kingdom could obtain JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE from the appointed Agents, equal facilities have not been afforded to FAMILIES in the METROPOLIS. To meet the exigency of the case, and to enable all to purchase an article so justly celebrated and so eagerly sought after, the above named extensive premises have been opened, in addition to the present warehouses. JOHN CASSELL sends out no inferior quality. The following are the prices at which his COFFEES may be obtained:—

- JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, No. 1. . . . . 1s. 4d.
An excellent Article.
- JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, No. 2. . . . . 1s. 8d.
Cannot fail to give great satisfaction, being a combination of the choicest growths of Jamaica, possessing richness, strength, and flavour.
- JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, No. 3. . . . . 2s. 0d.
To every Connoisseur in Coffee this will prove a treat, combining the finest mountain growth of both Jamaica and Turkey.

Any quantity of the above may be had, in quarter or half-pounds, or in one, two, or three pound packages, or canisters; every one of which bears a fac-simile of JOHN CASSELL'S signature, and without which none are genuine.

Never in the history of the Coffee trade has that article become so celebrated, and entered so extensively into the consumption of Families throughout the United Kingdom, as JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEES. Whoever introduced they have given entire satisfaction, and their use has been continued. The patronage bestowed upon these Coffees has not arisen from their being sent out as "patented" articles, but simply from their intrinsic excellency; and this is in consequence of their being selected from the world's finest growths, and combining great strength, free from bitter pungency, a rich mellowness, and a delicious aromatic flavour.

FORWARDING OF ORDERS.

Families desirous of being supplied with JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEES, but to whom it is not convenient to call at the establishment for the purpose of giving their orders personally, are respectfully requested to forward the same by post. Their orders will be promptly executed, and delivered, FREE OF CHARGE, to all places within six miles of the General Post-office.

TEAS OF THE FINEST DESCRIPTIONS,

4s., 4s. 6d., 5s., 5s. 6d. per pound. The same rule is observed by JOHN CASSELL in reference to TEAS as to COFFEES, namely, to send out no low or inferior articles.

THE PROVINCIAL TOWNS.

JOHN CASSELL has an agent in almost every town throughout England, Scotland, and Ireland, from whom families can be supplied. His Coffees are so celebrated, that any family, by the least enquiry, may learn who is the agent appointed for the town in which they reside. Agents will be appointed in those towns where there is not one already. Applications for the same to be made as above.

TEMPERANCE PUBLICATIONS.

IMPORTANT ESSAY.

BACCHUS: An Essay on the Nature, Causes, Effects, and Cure of Intemperance. By RALPH BARNES GRINDROD, LL.D. Second Edition, carefully revised and greatly enlarged. The first edition of this invaluable Essay received the prize of ONE HUNDRED SOVEREIGNS from the Committee of the New British and Foreign Temperance Society. This second edition, which contains at least one-third new matter, was published at 7s. and has been in great request. A few copies may now be had at the reduced price of Five Shillings, bound in cloth.

THE TETOTAL ESSAYIST; or Monthly Temperance Standard, for 1847. London: B. L. Green, Paternoster-Row.

This may now be had complete, price ONE SHILLING. This forms the most interesting and important publication that has ever been issued from the Temperance Press. As but very few sets remain on hand, an early application will be necessary. A copy will be sent, post free, to any person remitting twelve postage stamps, to JOHN CASSELL, 22, Abchurch Lane, London.

THE YOUNG, THE HOPE OF THE TEMPERANCE REFORMATION.

ADDRESS TO THE MEMBERS OF TOTAL ABSTINENCE SOCIETIES, on the duty which they owe to themselves, to their fellow-members, and to the community at large. By J. W. GREEN. Third edition, enlarged. Price ONE PENNY. B. L. GREEN, Paternoster Row, London.

LIVESEY'S famous MALT LECTURES, including a complete exposure of the great delusion as to the properties of Malt Liquors. Formerly published at Sixpence. A new edition for ONE PENNY.

THE BEST OF MEN SOMETIMES IN ERROR. By ARCHDEACON JEFFREYS, of Bombay. The object of this incomparable Essay is to show that the advocates of the Total Abstinence system have the full warrant of Scripture for their labour of mercy and love. The style in which this sentiment is reasoned is such as to carry conviction to all who profess to be influenced by the law of love. 1s. 4d. per 100.

B. L. GREEN, Paternoster Row, London.

TO POSTMASTERS.

This Journal is privileged to be sent postage free to every part of the United Kingdom, and we have the authority of the Secretary of the General Post Office for stating "that Agents may be employed in Great Britain and Ireland, for the sale of JERSEY Newspapers; and that such Newspapers may be forwarded by Post to any extent, either singly, or in parcels, provided the parcel is open at the ends. They may afterwards be reposted for any part of the United Kingdom, free of Postage, and for such of the Colonies, to which there are Mail Packets, but in the latter case the reposting must take place within seven days after the date of publication of the Newspaper."

Printed and Published for the Proprietor, by RICHARD GOSSET, at his Office, No. 20, Queen Street, and 37, Hill Street, St. Helier's, Jersey.

THURSDAY, March 1, 1849.

THE

TEETOTAL TIMES

AND ESSAYIST.

PUBLISHED MONTHLY.

No. XVI. NEW SERIES.]

JERSEY, APRIL, 1849.

[PRICE ONE PENNY.

IMPORTANT TO TEMPERANCE COMMITTEES. DR. WARHAM'S LECTURES.

THE friends of the temperance cause can have an opportunity of hearing Mr. Warham's lectures, for he kindly proposes devoting the 3 following months, April, May, and June next, to the delivery of them gratuitously to those Societies who may be desirous to avail themselves of his services; as well as at festivals. He only requires his Travelling Expenses paid, and that these may be made as light as possible, an early application from the societies will be desirable. The lectures will be popular, critical, and physiological, on true temperance principles, illustrated by Upwards of 300 Drawings (part of them large Transparent, costly Coloured ones) and furnish a most impressive picture of the havoc wrought by strong drink upon the delicate organism of man. Including "The Bottle," being correct copies of the 8 Plates by Mr. G. Cruikshank, (40 inches by 60 each); the various Coats of Arms—the Temperate, the Moderate, and the Drunkard's; with a large variety of Printed Mottoes; forming a Picture Gallery of Science, Health, and Disease. Address—Mr. W. Warham, Surgeon, Newcastle-under-Lyme, Staffordshire.

LIVERPOOL FINANCIAL REFORM PAPERS, ADAPTED FOR GENERAL CIRCULATION.

THE COUNCIL of the Liverpool Financial Reform Association, inform the Secretaries of Associations throughout the kingdom, that it is their intention to issue a series of four page tracts, uniform with their series now in the course of publication, and adapted for general and gratuitous circulation.

To distinguish these publications from the regular series of Tracts, they will be issued under the name of the Liverpool Financial Reform Papers. The following are now ready:—

THE WOODS AND FORESTS.
CIVIL LIST.

COSTLINESS OF THE ARMY AND NAVY.

Price 1s. 4d. per 100. A liberal discount to Financial Reform Associations, sending their orders direct to JOHN CASSELL, Standard of Freedom office, 335, Strand, London; or to Mr. W. Foulkes, Secretary to the Financial Reform Association, Harrington Chambers, North John Street, Liverpool.

LIVERPOOL FINANCIAL REFORM TRACTS.

Just published, price 1d. each,

THE LIVERPOOL FINANCIAL REFORM TRACTS.

- No. 1.—CIVIL LIST.
- No. 2.—PENSION LIST.
- No. 3.—TAXATION.
- No. 4.—THE ARMY, ORDNANCE, COMMISSARIAT, NAVY, COLONIES.
- No. 5.—Ditto.
- No. 6.—THE NATIONAL BUDGET for 1849, by RICHARD COBDEN, Esq., M.P., in a letter to Robertson Gladstone, Esq., President of the Financial Reform Association of Liverpool: with a report of the Public Meeting held at the Concert Hall, Liverpool, December 20, 1848, at which the Budget was announced to the Nation.
- No. 7.—THE ARMY, ORDNANCE, COMMISSARIAT, NAVY, COLONIES. The Army Clothing, together with Major-Gen. Sir Wm. Napier's attack on the Association, and their Reply.
- No. 8.—THE WOODS, FORESTS, and ESTATES of the CROWN.
- No. 9.—THE DEAD WEIGHT OF THE ARMY.
- No. 10.—THE NAVY.
- No. 11.—SIR W. MOLESWORTH ON THE COLONIES.
- No. 12.—Ditto.

Published at the office of the STANDARD OF FREEDOM, 335, Strand, London.

Liverpool: Published by the ASSOCIATION, North John-street, by SMITH, ROBERTSON, and Co., Lord-street; and Sold by all Booksellers. London; the trade Supplied by SIMPKIN, MARSHALL and Co., Stationers' Hall-court; GEORGE VICKERS, Holywell-street, Strand; GROOMBRIDGE and SONS, Paternoster-row; EFFINGHAM WILSON, Royal Exchange; H. BINKS, 85, Aldersgate-st.; CHARLES GILPIN, 5, Bishopsgate-street. Dublin: by GILPIN, Dame-street, Manchester; ABEL HRYWOOD, Edinburgh; J. MENZIES, Prince's-street. Glasgow, GALLIE, Buchanan-street,

TEMPERANCE HOTEL and BOARDING HOUSE, SCARBOROUGH.

THOMAS WHITTAKER begs to inform his numerous friends throughout the kingdom, with whom he has had the happiness of becoming acquainted, during a period of Fourteen years service in the Temperance cause, that he has taken the above House, lately occupied by JOHN ANDREW, jun., which for cleanliness, elegance, and comfort, is equal to a First Rate Hotel.

T. W. hopes that all who honour him with their good wishes, will inform those of their friends who may desire to visit this lovely watering place, that they may enjoy all the comforts of a home, combined with due economy; being freed from the necessity of taking wine, as is the custom at ordinary Hotels. The House itself is well situated, and neither diligence nor expense will be spared to secure the comfort and enjoyment of those who may favour the Establishment with their patronage.

N.B.—T. WHITTAKER has many friends in business who may render him good service by recommending his House to those Commercial Gentlemen who may wait upon them for orders. He is determined that as a Commercial, as well as FAMILY Hotel, it shall maintain the character of first rate.

THE PROTESTANT DISSENTER'S AL-

MANACK FOR 1849, price THREEPENCE. Besides the usual Calendar, and other information peculiar to Almanacks, it contains a number of original articles in illustration and defence of Nonconformist principles. Among these are the following:—Retrospect of 1848—Political Dissenters—Who is the Head of the Church—Grand State error of a State Church—Amount of property devoted to the State Church—Collateral machinery of a State Church—State Church a main cause of National infidelity—The State Church a monstrous failure—The Endowed Charities of England—The English Regium Donum—Irish ditto—Who will oppose the Endowment of the Irish Popish Priests. Also, copious extracts from celebrated authors, on Civil and Religious Liberty. List of Independent and Baptist chapels in London and the suburbs—British Anti State Church Association—The May Meetings—State of Education in England and Wales—Denominational Statistics (including the various Branches of Wesleyan Methodists)—Religious and Benevolent Institutions—Concluding Address to Protestant Dissenters.

The largest compendium of Denominational Statistics, obtained from authentic sources, ever yet published. The whole will be found deeply interesting to Protestant Dissenters of every denomination.

LONDON:—John Snow, 35, Paternoster Row; EDINBURGH, Zeigler, South Bridge; GLASGOW, Gallie, Buchanan-street; and may be had of all Booksellers.

"THE TEMPERANCE CYCLOPEDIA."

In one handsome volume, illustrated with Dr. Sewall's celebrated Coloured Plates of the Stomach, royal 8vo. cloth, price 8s.; with the Wine Question, 9s. 6d.; it is also RE-ISSUED in Nos. 2d. each, and in Parts 9d. each.

THE TEETOTALER'S COMPANION;

Tbeing an Exposition of the Evils resulting from the general custom of drinking intoxicating liquors, with the benefits that would result from the national adoption of total abstinence. By PETER BURNE.

"We have before called attention to this work, while in the course of publication. It is now finished, and constitutes the most copious, various, complete, and systematic view of the great subject anywhere to be found. Instead of the quaint and paltry title 'The Teetotaler's Companion,'—no pocket 'companion' truly; it would require a bag to carry it about,—as we believe we formerly hinted, it ought to have been designated 'THE TEMPERANCE CYCLOPEDIA.' Both the matter and the form of the work are of a character to sustain an appellation of such dignity. The royal size, the large and leaded type, with the marginal headings and notation, give the volume a rich and splendid aspect. While Mr. Burne has performed his part in a manner which entitles him to the thanks of his country, Mr. Burton also has amply sustained him by his highly workmanlike typography."—Christian Witness, November 1848.

London: Arthur Hall and Co. Ipswich: Burton.

"THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM"

TO THE SUBSCRIBERS.

DURING the last few months, and, indeed, from the commencement of our labours, we have received numerous communications from our friends, expressing the warmest approval of our journal, with valuable suggestions for rendering it of still greater service to the popular cause. These suggestions we have been anxious to adopt as far as possible. Under present circumstances, however, it is not in our power to give to all of them their full effect without materially injuring ourselves, a result which we are sure that none of our supporters would for a moment desire. After mature deliberation, we have come to the conclusion that it is our duty to make a trifling increase in the price of the paper, that our readers may be furnished with accurate, early, and full information on all subjects affecting the well-being of society. The improvements we contemplate will be chiefly comprised in the following departments:—

COMMERCIAL INFORMATION.

As the STANDARD OF FREEDOM has been so extensively honoured with the confidence and support of the trading and mercantile community, we are determined to render it replete with every variety of commercial information, and to present our readers from week to week with the latest and most complete reports of the state of the markets and prices in general, in every department of trade and commerce. In short, no effort on our part shall be wanted to make our market intelligence worthy of reference by every man of business.

GENERAL POLITICAL MOVEMENTS.

The importance of the political movements now in operation on the continent of Europe renders correct information as to their nature and extent indispensably necessary to the English public. These stupendous events will tell far and wide on the destinies of man, and must be correctly represented, that their legitimate results may be produced. We have, therefore, determined, in order to furnish our readers with a trustworthy record of what is passing on the continent, to have our own FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE, which will be furnished by parties of acknowledged ability and integrity, and having at their command the best sources of information.

FINANCIAL REFORM, AND REDUCTION OF NATIONAL EXPENDITURE.

We are now entering upon a struggle which is destined to form an important epoch in the history of the British nation. The energies of society have been paralyzed by the enormous pressure of our system of taxation. An important movement has commenced in favour of FINANCIAL REFORM AND REDUCTION OF NATIONAL EXPENDITURE. In this subject the STANDARD OF FREEDOM has taken, and will continue to take, the liveliest interest, and will be anxious to promote its claims by untiring and vigorous advocacy. The success which has already attended our labours, and those of other parties in this great conflict, has been most gratifying. The obstacles with which Financial Reform has to contend are formidable, as will be seen from the constitution of our Naval, Military, and State-Church Parliament. Only a strong and emphatic expression of public opinion can overcome them. Public opinion is the only power which can compel our rulers to abandon their career of waste and extravagance. But that opinion must be formed principally by means of the Press, the agency of which must be extensively employed by the friends of popular progress. So far as we are concerned, they will give currency to their principles and effect to their wishes.

OCCASIONAL SUPPLEMENTAL SHEETS.

To accomplish these and other improvements, and to meet the wishes of numerous readers, we shall occasionally resort to the issue of SUPPLEMENTAL SHEET, so that ample space may be devoted to all the great and patriotic movements of the day. To meet the outlay attendant upon such arrangements, we have decided to comply with the urgent request of many of our subscribers, by raising the price of the paper to FIVE-PENCE per copy or FIVE SHILLINGS AND FIVE-PENCE per quarter, paid in advance. This alteration will commence with our number for March 31, that paper being the first in the third quarter of our issue. The STANDARD OF FREEDOM will henceforth be printed on superior paper; so that in appearance, quantity and quality, the advantage we propose to the public will be considerable in proportion to the small outlay by which it will be secured.

Our FIRST SUPPLEMENT will be issued with the number for SATURDAY, MARCH 31, and will contain thirty-two columns of closely-printed matter, uniform in size with the STANDARD OF FREEDOM, comprising an elaborate analysis of the

HISTORY AND PROGRESS OF TAXATION AS DEVELOPED IN ITS RELATION TO

- |  |  |
|--|--|
| 1st. THE CROWN AND ARISTOCRACY.2dly. THE PEOPLE.3rdly. THE EXECUTIVE.4thly. THE ARMY AND NAVY.5thly. THE DIPLOMATIC STAFF. | 6thly. THE NATIONAL DEBT.7thly. SINECURES, PENSIONS, and RETIRING SALARIES; and8thly. TO LOCAL TAXATION. |
|--|--|

It is intended thus to exhibit to the nation, in one striking view, the wonderful GROWTH OF TAXATION in Great Britain, from its simple and necessary scale to its present exorbitant and ruinous excess.

The "STANDARD OF FREEDOM" being one of the largest newspapers published, contains an immense amount of letter-press; and presents such a copious variety of intelligence as to make it one of the most readable and interesting papers published.

There are THREE EDITIONS of the "STANDARD OF FREEDOM;" a COUNTRY EDITION on Friday Evening, for delivery in the Provinces early on Saturday morning; a TOWN EDITION on Saturday Morning, in time for the morning Mails; and a THIRD EDITION is issued at three o'clock, containing the Saturday markets, and the latest intelligence, foreign and domestic, down to the hour of going to press.

All communications for the "STANDARD OF FREEDOM" to be addressed to the Editors, 335, Strand, London. Post-office and Money-orders to be made payable to JOHN CASSELL; to whom, also, ADVERTISEMENTS may be sent, directed as above. Orders will be received by all Newsvenders in Town and Country.

THE SOCIAL, INTELLECTUAL, AND MORAL CONDITION OF THE WORKING CLASSES.

A PRIZE OF FIFTY POUNDS is hereby offered for the best ESSAY on the above subject. The work will be expected to contain a brief, but comprehensive, statement of the present condition of the people, and the great importance of its being improved and elevated. It is required, also, that it should fairly and candidly discuss the adaptation or deficiency of the means now employed for that purpose, and propose a well-digested scheme of remedial measures; such measures to have especial reference to the Temperance Movement—Ragged Schools—Educational and Mechanics' Institutions—the Press—and the best means of bringing Religious Influence to bear more immediately and directly on the bulk of the population.

The ESSAY must be written in a terse, lucid, and comprehensive style. In order that it may be widely circulated, its length should not exceed 150 pages of Bourgeois, Demy Octavo; and its price, when published, should not exceed ONE SHILLING.

The Copyright of the successful Essay to be the property of Donor of the Prize.

The Manuscripts to be sent in on or before May 1st, 1849, addressed to JOHN SNOW, 35, Paternoster-row. The Manuscripts must be signed with some peculiar initial, with a sealed note containing the real name and address of the writer; such note not to be opened till the determination of the Adjudicators is known.

The Adjudicators are the Rev. THOMAS SPENCER, A.M., Bath; EDWARD SWAINE, Esq., and EDWARD MIALI, Esq., of London.

NATIONAL TEMPERANCE SOCIETY.

PRIZE ESSAYS ON TEETOTALISM.

THE COMMITTEE of the National Temperance Society, in order to promote the objects to which it is devoted, offer two Prizes, one of £20 and the other of £10, for the best Essays on the Principles and Practice of Total Abstinence from all intoxicating drinks.

The Prizes to be competed for by either MEN OR WOMEN AMONG THE WORKING-CLASSES.

The Essays must show that the general spread of Temperance principles, would tend to the Physical, Mental, Social and Religious elevation of the working-classes, embracing the following propositions:—

- 1st. The practicability of Teetotalism in the performance of labour.
- 2nd. The extent to which the abuse of strong drinks would increase the demand for useful labour, and promote the expenditure of the money in food, clothing, furniture, &c.
- 3rd. The value of Temperance in promoting the comfort and happiness of the homes of the working-classes.
- 4th. The adaptation of Temperance principles to render the working-man independent of charitable relief.
- 5th. The extent to which the example of Teetotal parents would promote the moral and religious well-being of families, by affording parents the means of sending their children to school.
- 6th. The practical working of the drinking-usages and customs in manufactories, workshops and elsewhere.

The names of the adjudicators will be announced at a future time.

The Essays, which must not exceed forty-six 8vo. pages, to be sent under cover, accompanied with a sealed letter enclosing the real name and address of the writer, on or before the 1st of November, 1849, to the Secretary of the National Temperance Society, 11, Tokenhouse Yard.

The Committee, also, offer a further prize of £10 for the best Essay, on the most efficient means of conducting Temperance Societies, with the view of accelerating, and giving permanence to the Teetotal Abstinence Reformation. This Essay must not exceed thirty-two 8vo. pages, and is open to competition by writers of all classes. To be sent in by the 1st of September, to the office of the National Temperance Society, and the adjudication to be made under the direction of the Committee.

ISAAC DOXSEY, Secretary

11, Tokenhouse Yard, 22nd Mar ch 8th, 1849.

TEMPERANCE PUBLICATIONS.

SIXTEENTH THOUSAND.

INTEMPERANCE THE IDOLATRY OF BRITAIN. By the Rev. W. R. BAKER, author of "The Curse of Britain," &c. It is admitted by the most eminent of the religious reviewers, as well as by all who have read it, that there never was a work upon the Temperance Question more calculated to carry conviction to the mind of a thoughtful reader as the danger and iniquity of the drinking system. That it may have a very extensive circulation, this new and revised edition is published at THREEPENCE:—the price of the former editions was 2s. 6d. The usual allowance will be made to Societies, or persons taking a quantity.

THE TEETOTALER'S HYMN BOOK; selected and revised by J. W. GREEN. ONE PENNY. B. L. GREEN, 62, Paternoster Row.

TEMPERANCE PUBLICATIONS.

THE TEETOTAL ESSAYIST; or Monthly Temperance Standard, for 1847. London: B. L. GREEN, Paternoster-Row. This may now be had complete, price ONE SHILLING.

CONTENTS:

Teetotalism essential to the Elevation of the Working Classes. By D. G. PAINE.

The Temperance Movement in its important bearings on the Sanitary condition of the People. By THOMAS BEGGS.

Total Abstinence from strong drinks important to Female Honour and Happiness. By D. G. PAINE.

Tom Rudge and his friend; shewing what Tom lost by "that last glass of Brandy and Water." By Mrs. S. C. HALL.

Appeal to Females, in behalf of the Total Abstinence movement. By Dr. E. NORR, President of Union College, New York.

The Worn Thimble; a Story of Woman's Duty and Woman's Influence. By Mrs. S. C. HALL.

Important Medical Testimony; with several hundred signatures.

Christian Duty; or the importance of the Temperance Reformation in connexion with the maintenance and spread of Christianity. By F. W. WHEELER, Missionary.

The Moral Obligation of Total Abstinence. By EVAN JONES.

Intemperance the Antagonist of Education. By W. R. BAKER.

The Duty of Sabbath School Teachers in regard to Total Abstinence. By EVAN JONES.

Reasons why Sabbath School Teachers should be Teetotalers by MICHAEL YOUNG.

Bearings of the Temperance question on the interest of the Young. By W. REID.

The Drinking system and Juvenile Delinquency. By THOMAS BEGGS.

Aids to the Evangelical Alliance in its enquiry as to the connexion between Infidelity and Teetotalism. With testimonies of upwards of SEVENTY Ministers and Gentlemen.

The Evils of Moderate Drinking. By EVAN JONES.

The Inconsistency of those Christians and Philanthropists who sanction the use of Intoxicating Liquors. By D. G. PAINE.

Address to Moderate Drinkers. By ELIHU BURRITT.

The Temperance Movement:—its past history—present position—future prospects and connexion with other great movements of the age. By THOMAS BEGGS.

This forms the most interesting and important publication that has ever been issued from the Temperance Press. As but very few sets remain on hand, an early application will be necessary. A copy will be sent, post free, to any person remitting twelve postage stamps, to JOHN CASSELL, 23, Abchurch Lane, London.

SUNDAY SCHOOL PRIZE TRACTS.

Just Published, price 1s. 4d. per 100.

THE IMPORTANCE of the TEMPERANCE MOVEMENT, in its bearings on SUNDAY SCHOOLS.

LIVESEY'S famous MALT LECTURES,

including a complete exposure of the great delusion as to the properties of Malt Liquors. Formerly published at Sixpence. A new edition for ONE PENNY.

THE YOUNG, THE HOPE OF THE TEMPERANCE REFORMATION.

ADDRESS to the MEMBERS of TOTAL ABSTINENCE SOCIETIES, on the duty which they owe to themselves, to their fellow-members, and to the community at large. By J. W. GREEN. Third edition, enlarged. Price ONE PENNY. B. L. GREEN, Paternoster Row, London.

THE CHRISTIAN'S SPIRITUAL SONG BOOK, containing 500 spiritual songs adapted to popular tunes. By the Rev. JOHN STAMP. Embossed cambric, 1s. 6d.

TEMPERANCE HYMNS AND SONGS; devotional, moral, and social. Selected and revised by J. W. GREEN. Embossed leather, 1s.; stiff paper covers, 6d.

THE BEST OF MEN SOMETIMES IN ERROR. By ARCHIDRACON JEFFERYS, of Bombay. The object of this incomparable Essay is to show that the advocates of the Total Abstinence system have the full warrant of Scripture for their labour of mercy and love. The style in which this sentiment is reasoned is such as to carry conviction to all who profess to be influenced by the law of love. 1s. 4d. per 100.

B. L. GREEN, 62, Paternoster Row, London.

Price 2d., or by post 3d.

CAUTIONS AND TESTIMONY AGAINST ODD FELLOWSHIP, by H. MUDGE, Surgeon, Bodmin.

Also price 2s. or by post 2s. 6d., by the same author

EXPOSURE of ODD FELLOWSHIP; Showing its immoral tendency and bankrupt circumstances, and containing as well a large amount of information on the subject of Friendly Societies.

WHITTAKER, London; LIDDELL, Bodmin.

The largest Coffee Establishment in the Empire,

No. 80, FENCHURCH-STREET.

JOHN CASSELL,

To meet the increased and unparalleled demand for his COFFEE, has opened an Establishment, which for its extent, and its capabilities for supplying to the people of Great Britain with the above article, stands unrivalled. It has long been a source of complaint, that while the inhabitants of almost every town in the kingdom could obtain JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE from the appointed Agents, equal facilities have not been afforded to FAMILIES in the METROPOLIS. To meet the exigency of the case, and to enable all to purchase an article so justly celebrated and so eagerly sought after, the above named extensive premises have been opened, in addition to the present warehouses. JOHN CASSELL sends out no inferior quality. The following are the prices at which his COFFEES may be obtained:—

JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, No. 1. . . . . Is. 4d.

An excellent Article.

JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, No. 2. . . . . Is. 8d.

Cannot fail to give great satisfaction, being a combination of the choicest growths of Jamaica, possessing richness, strength, and flavour.

JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, No. 3. . . . . 2s. 0d.

To every Connoisseur in Coffee this will prove a treat, combining the finest mountain growth of both Jamaica and Turkey.

Any quantity of the above may be had, in quarter or half-pounds, or in one, two, or three pound packages, or canisters; every one of which bears a fac-simile of JOHN CASSELL'S signature, and without which none are genuine.

Never in the history of the Coffee trade has that article become so celebrated, and entered so extensively into the consumption of Families throughout the United Kingdom, as JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEES. Wherever introduced they have given entire satisfaction, and their use has been continued. The patronage bestowed upon these Coffees has not arisen from their being sent out as "patented" articles, but simply from their intrinsic excellency; and this is in consequence of their being selected from the world's finest growths, and combining great strength, free from bitter pungency, a rich mellowness, and a delicious aromatic flavour.

FORWARDING OF ORDERS.

Families desirous of being supplied with JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEES, but to whom it is not convenient to call at the establishment for the purpose of giving their orders personally, are respectfully requested to forward the same by post. Their orders will be promptly executed, and delivered, FREE OF CHARGE, to all places within six miles of the General Post-office.

TEAS OF THE FINEST DESCRIPTIONS,

4s., 4s. 6d., 5s., 5s. 6d. per pound. The same rule is observed by JOHN CASSELL in reference to TEAS as to COFFEES, namely, to send out no low or inferior articles.

THE PROVINCIAL TOWNS.

JOHN CASSELL has an agent in almost every town throughout England, Scotland, and Ireland, from whom families can be supplied. His Coffees are so celebrated, that any family, by the least enquiry, may learn who is the agent appointed for the town in which they reside. Agents will be appointed in those towns where there is not one already. Applications for the same to be made as above.

NEW WORK ON HYDROPATHY.

A Prospectus and Specimen of a Work now in the Press, entitled the DOMESTIC PRACTICE OF HYDRO-PATHY, by Dr. E. Johnson, Author of "Life, Health and Disease," will be sent post free on application to Mr. J. M. Burton, Publisher, Ipswich.

JUVENILE DEPRAVITY, £100 PRIZE ESSAY.

Nearly ready, price 5s. in one vol., Post 8vo.

THE PRIZE ESSAY ON JUVENILE DEPRAVITY by the Rev. H. Worsley, A.M., Eastern Rectory, Suffolk. Adjudicators, Dr. Harris, of Cheshunt; the Rev. James Sherman, of Surrey Chapel; and Dr. Vaughan, of Harrow. The Essay comprises the following topics:—The fearful and growing extent of Juvenile Crime:—its connexion with the Intemperance of Parents.—EDUCATION and other remedies examined.

London:—Charles Gilpin, 5, Bishopsgate Without; and may be had through all Booksellers.

Just Published, Price Threepence.

THE EMIGRANTS' ALMANACK and DIRECTORY FOR 1849. Every person about to emigrate, or interested in the subject of emigration, should consult this Almanack. Besides the matter usually contained in Almanacks, are articles on the following important subjects:—Fields for Emigration, North America, Australia, British Colonies, United States—Who should emigrate?—Choice of a Colony—First Steps to be Taken—Embarkation—Conduct on Board—Treatment of Sea Sickness—Conduct of Emigrants—How Land is to be Had—A Man of Small Means, How Shall I invest—Chances of the Labourer and Mechanic in America—Australia, Demand for Labourers, &c.—Regulations to be observed by Emigrants—Cost of Passage—Price of Provisions, &c., in Various Colonies—Fares and Routes to the Far West, &c.—Rates of Postage—and a fund of interesting and miscellaneous matter.

London: C. GILPIN, 5, Bishopsgate-street Without; B. L. GREEN, Paternoster-row; Dublin: W. Curry and Co.; and all booksellers.

Printed and Published for the Proprietor, by RICHARD GOSSETT at his Office, No. 20, Queen Street, and 37, Hill Street, St. Helier's, Jersey.

MONDAY, March 2, 1849.

THE

TEETOTALTIMES

AND ESSAYIST.

PUBLISHED MONTHLY.

No. XVII.—NEW SERIES.]

LONDON, MAY, 1849.

{ Price One Penny.
{ Stamped, Twopence.

NATIONAL TEMPERANCE SOCIETY.

THE ANNUAL MEETING will be held at EXETER HALL, on Thursday evening, May 24th, at six, p.m. SAMUEL BOWLEY, Esq., of Gloucester, has kindly consented to preside. The attendance of all persons interested in the Temperance reformation is respectfully requested.

ISAAC DOXEY, Secretary.

11, Tolleshouse-yard, April 19, 1849.

IMPORTANT TO TEMPERANCE COMMITTEES.

DR. WARHAM'S LECTURES.

THE Friends of the Temperance Cause can have an opportunity of hearing Mr. Warham's Lectures, for he kindly proposes devoting the three following months, April, May, and June next, to the delivery of them gratuitously to those Societies who may be desirous to avail themselves of his services; as well as at festivals. He only requires his Travelling Expenses paid, and that these may be made as light as possible, an early application from the societies will be desirable. The Lectures will be popular, critical, and physiological, on true temperance principles, illustrated by upwards of 300 Drawings (part of them large, transparent, costly coloured ones), and furnish a most impressive picture of the havoc wrought by strong drink on the delicate organism of man; including "The Bottle," being correct copies of the Eight Plates by Mr. G. Cruikshank (10 inches by 60 each); the various Coats of Arms—the Temperate, the Moderate, and the Drunkard's; with a large variety of Printed Mottoes, forming a Picture Gallery of Science, Health, and Disease.—Address—Mr. W. Warham, Surgeon, Newcastle-under-Lyme Staffordshire.

TO TEMPERANCE SOCIETIES.

THE ADVERTISER hereby offers his services to any Temperance Society about to engage an AGENT or TOWN MISSIONARY. Owing to physical debility, caused entirely by his present occupation, he is recommended to remove; he therefore wishes for a suitable engagement. Testimonials, as to character and abilities can be given. Address, pre-paid, to B. S., care of George Mountain, No. 8, Queen's-lane, Cambridge.

JUVENILE DEPRAVITY. £100 PRIZE ESSAY.

Now ready, in 1 vol., post 8vo, price 5s.,

THE PRIZE ESSAY ON JUVENILE DEPRAVITY. By the Rev. H. WORSLEY, A.M., Easton Rectory, Suffolk. To this essay on Juvenile Depravity, as connected with the causes and practices of Intemperance; and the effectual barrier opposed by them to education, the above prize of £100 was awarded by the adjudicators—Dr. Harris, of Cheshunt; the Rev. James Sherman, Surrey Chapel; and Dr. Vaughan, of Harrow.

Now ready, in 1 vol., 8vo, price 5s.,

AN INQUIRY INTO THE EXTENT AND CAUSES OF JUVENILE DEPRAVITY. Dedicated by special permission to the Right Hon. the Earl of Carlisle. By THOMAS BEGGS, late Secretary of the Health of Towns Association, and author of "Lectures on the Moral Elevation of the People." London: CHARLES GILPIN, 5, Bishopsgate-street Without, and may be ordered through any Bookseller.

Now ready, with Portrait of the Author, and fifteen Engravings, 8vo., 584 pages, cloth 12s.,

THE DOMESTIC PRACTICE OF HYDRO-PATHY, by Dr. E. JOHNSON; containing a description and the appropriate treatment of nearly one hundred of the most common diseases, acute and chronic; their nature, causes, and symptoms; minute instructions and cautions for enabling persons to prosecute the treatment with safety and efficacy at their own houses; and a FORM OF REPORT to enable patients to state their cases with something of professional accuracy and precision. The work will also be issued periodically, in 12 parts, 1s. each; commencing May 15th.

London: SIMPKIN, MARSHALL, and CO.; Ipswich: J. M. BURTON; and by order of all Booksellers.

EXTRAORDINARY EXCURSION to GRAVESEND, SHEERNESS, and SOUTHEND, to visit Her Majesty's Guard Ship, and land for three hours, on WHIT TUESDAY, May 29th, 1849, on board the VESPER. Tickets, 2s. each; apply early, as the numbers are limited. To be had of Mr. J. B. Esterbrook, 52, Whisken-street, Clerkenwell; Mr. Lofts, 8, Waterloo-terrace, Commercial-road East; Mr. Tatler, 36, King-street, Camden-town; Mr. Grocer, 5, White Hart-piece, Kennington-lane; Mr. Mullins, 3, Tyler-street, Regent-street; Mr. Rowe, 3, Mount Pleasant, Woolwich; or at the Star Packet Office, Fenchurch-street. The Vessel will leave Hungerford at twenty minutes past Eight; Dyers'-hall, London-bridge, at half-past Eight; Tunnel Pier, quarter to Nine; Brunswick Pier, Blackwall, quarter past Nine; Waterman's Pier, Woolwich, half-past Nine. J. B. ESTERBROOKE, Manager.

IMPROVEMENT OF THE SOCIAL, INTELLECTUAL, AND MORAL CONDITION OF THE WORKING CLASSES.

A PRIZE OF FIFTY POUNDS is hereby offered for the best ESSAY on the above subject.

The Essay will be expected to contain:—

1. A brief but comprehensive statement of the PRESENT CONDITION of the PEOPLE, physical, social, political, and moral, drawn from authentic sources, for the purpose of ascertaining how far it is necessary or important that their condition should be improved.

2. A review of the MEANS HITHERTO EMPLOYED for the ELEVATION and IMPROVEMENT of the WORKING CLASSES, with a fair and candid discussion of the adaptation or deficiency of those means; and if deficient, from whence that deficiency arises—whether from imperfect knowledge of the real condition of the people, or from want of due sympathy with them, or from the difficulty of the case, or from the unsuitableness or imperfection of the means themselves.

In the examination of these instrumentalities, especial reference is to be made to the Temperance Movement; its adaptation as a remedy for the evils of Intemperance; the difficulties presented to its progress by the numerous temptations to profligacy, such as Gin Shops, Beer Shops, Saloons, Musical Concerts, &c.; and the apathy, and even opposition, of avowed philanthropists and Christian Ministers and Professors; and an Inquiry into the Influence of the Total Abstinence principle to improve the physical, social, and moral condition of the Labouring portion of the population; also, Ragged Schools, Educational and Mechanics' Institutions, Sanitary Regulations, the Press, and the efforts now making to bring Religious Influence to bear more immediately and directly on the bulk of the population.

3rd, and chiefly, A WELL-DIGESTED SCHEME of PRACTICAL and PRACTICABLE REMEDIAL MEASURES.

The Competitors may be of any class in society. The Essay must be written in a lucid, terse, compendious, and practical style. The copyright of the successful essay to be at the control of the donor of the prize. Any profits arising from the sale, after the necessary expenses of printing and publishing are defrayed, to be handed to the successful competitor. In order that it may be widely circulated, its length should not exceed from 100 to 125 pages, demy octavo, and its price when published should not exceed One Shilling.

The manuscripts to be sent in on or before July 1st, 1849, addressed to JOHN SNOW, 35, Paternoster-row. The manuscripts must be signed with some peculiar initial, with a sealed note containing the real name and address of the writer; such note not to be opened till the determination of the adjudicators is known.

The adjudicators are Rev. Thomas Spencer, A.M., Bath; Edward Swaine, Esq.; and Edward Miall, Esq., of London.

TO TEMPERANCE SOCIETIES.

AN AGENT of the TEMPERANCE SOCIETY will be happy to accept an engagement as a MISSIONARY. Satisfactory testimonials may be obtained from various Associations, Metropolitan and Provincial, in which the Advertiser has laboured as Agent and as Missionary, in addition to testimonials from the Society on whose behalf he is at present labouring. Address, "MISSIONARY," Minard's Temperance Hotel, Plymouth.

A CATALOGUE OF IPSWICH
TEMPERANCE PUBLICATIONS.

ALL these, whether Books, Tracts, or Hand-bills or Notice Papers, are sold in SIXPENNY PACKETS. Fifty Packets of either will be delivered to any address in London, for a Guinea, sent by Post-office Order to Richard Dykes Alexander, Ipswich; or they may be had of any Bookseller in the country through Simpkin, Marshall and Co., Stationers-hall-court, London.

IPSWICH JUVENILE TEMPERANCE BOOKS,
ALL WITH PICTURES.

Thirty-two in number, in two ASSORTED PACKETS.
No. 1—1 to 16. | No. 2—17 to 32.

HAND-BILLS FOR PUBLIC MEETINGS.

Nine inches by six. On the back of each is a Temperance Tract. Fifty for Sixpence.

NOTICE PAPERS.

With the same form as the Hand-bills. The opinions of eminent persons on Teetotalism on the back of each. Two Hundred for Sixpence.

IPSWICH TEMPERANCE TRACTS.

Those Tracts marked with an * have Pictures.

	Pages.
1 The Doctor Scrutinized, or for what purposes do Physicians prescribe Alcoholic Beverages? By R. D. Alexander, F.L.S., 122 thousand	8
2 Striking Facts, 81 thousand	2
3 Maker and Vender, 44 thousand	2
4 Our Creed, 52 thousand	2
5 Adulterated Beer, 31 thousand	4
6 Adulterated Wine, 40 thousand	4
7 The Maltster, 37 thousand	4
8 Go Feel what I have felt, 53 thousand	4
9 Facts are Stubborn Things, 53 thousand	2
*10 The Spirit Dealer, 35 thousand	2
11 Christian Teetotalism, 70 thousand	2
12 The Trade, 33 thousand	4
13 Alcohol, 33 thousand	4
14 The Town of Ipswich, 33 thousand	4
*15 Song of the Water Drinker, 37 thousand	2
16 Stimulation not Strength, 30 thousand	8
17 Farmer Woodman's Speech, 41 thousand	4
*18 The Beer Barrel Examined, 33 thousand	8
19 Teetotal Recipes, 38 thousand	4
*20 Speech of J. J. Gurney, 30 thousand	4
21 Pity the Poor Drunkard, 49 thousand	2
22 The Fool's Pence, 25 thousand	8
23 Why am I a Teetotaler? 26 thousand	2
*24 Dost thou Smoke, Bill? 34 thousand	4
25 William, the Laudanum Drinker, 30 thousand	4
26 The Ox Discourse	4
27 Letter to the Clergy, by a Brother Clergyman, 21 thousand	20
28 Common Sense, 20 thousand	20
29 Ralph the Soldier	4
30 Testimony of Eminent Physicians, 30 thousand	4
31 The Working Man, 35 thousand	20
32 Is I not happy? by Hugh Stowell, 30 thousand	4
33 David, the Shoemaker, 49 thousand	4
34 The Drunken Couple, 48 thousand	4
35 Confessions of a Drunkard, 29 thousand	4
36 Master Tailor, 29 thousand	2
37 The Fatal Gift, 36 thousand	4
38 Poor Sandy	8
39 Use and Abuse, by Archdeacon Jeffries, 34 thousand	2
40 The Schoolmaster	2
41 Water is best, by J. J. Gurney, 37 thousand	4
42 Cobbett's Advice	4
43 Take a Public-house	4
*44 A Sailor's Yarn	4
45 Moderate Drinking Calmly Considered	12
46 The Pledge	4
*47 John Jarvis, or the Pledge Signed	12
*48 The Fifteen Friends	4
49 Sunday-School Teachers, 29 thousand	12
50 Sunday-School Children, 40 thousand	12
*51 Money better than Beer, 37 thousand	4
*52 Little Mary, or a Daughter's Love	8
53 Philosophy of Temperance, by R. D. Trall, M.D.	20
54 Love to Man, or an Appeal to the Pious	20
*55 The Young Woman's Tract	12
56 The Young Man's Tract	16
57 Dr. Campbell's Testimony, 18 thousand	8

58 Why sign the Pledge? 40 thousand	2
59 The Poor Man's House Repaired	4
60 The Mother's Tract	4
61 The High Price of Food	4
62 Ladies' Tract Societies	8
63 The Praise of Water, 25 thousand	2
64 Important Calculations	2
*65 The Farm Servant, 25 thousand	2
66 Teetotalism Declining, 15 thousand	8
*67 The Reformed Drunkard, 20 thousand	8
68 The Recruit of the British Legion	8
69 No. 1 of Temperance Anecdotes	12
70 No. 2 ditto	12
71 No. 3 ditto	12
72 No. 4 ditto	12
73 Luke Husler; or, "I did not like to say No."	8
74 The Drunkard's Wife	8
75 The Unexplored Island	4
76 Ancient Wines, by R. D. Alexander	8
77 Influence of Example, 15 thousand	2
*78 The Victim of Excitement	20
*79 My Medical Adviser does not approve of Teetotalism	4
*80 The Restoration	8

The following have been published in the year 1848.

81 The Use of Intoxicating Drinks explained, by Archdeacon Jeffries	12
*82 Drink and be Happy	4
83 The Five Nips	4
84 The Honest Spirit Dealer's Advertisement	2
85 Seven Years' Experience of a Reclaimed Drunkard	2
*86 The Education of the Drunkard, with 5 pictures	12
*87 A Word with Serious People, by John Bright, M.P.	4
*88 Guide to Glendalough	4
*89 Bridget Larkins	4
90 The Contrast	2
91 Tobacco a Cause of Intemperance	2
*92 The Wedding Night	12
*93 My Chapel	4
*94 The Best Men sometimes Err, by Archdeacon Jeffries	4
*95 The Testimonies of Eight Judges	2
*96 The Drunkard in Rags	2
*97 The Farmer and the Labourer—a Dialogue	4
*98 The Gloucestershire Farmer	4
*99 Strong Drink and Infidelity; or the Last Illness of Wm. Chapman	8
100 Catalogue of Temperance Publications	4
101 The Hertfordshire Farmer, 10 thousand	2
*102 Sunday Schools and Strong Drink	4
103 Confessions of a Publican	2
104 Peter Levison, or the Ruined Minister	4
105 Testimony of John Ansell James, 10 thousand	2
*106 I do not drink Wine, 10 thousand	2
*107 Self-Imposed Burdens, 10 thousand	2
*108 The Craving of a Drunkard	8
*109 Richard H—, or the Poor Orphan Boy	4
*110 Loss of Seven Fishermen	4
111 A Temperance Catechism for Sunday Schools	8
*112 The Mail Coachman, 10 thousand	4
113 The Reformed Family, By Anne Jane Carille	4
114 Licensing Day at Bolton	4
115 The Stomach of a Drunkard	4
116 Intemperance and Ragged Schools	4
*117 Delirium Tremens	4

The following have been published in the year 1849.

118 The Fire-Escape and the Ship in Danger	4
119 The Sabbath Morn, or an Address to Young Persons on Total Abstinence, By Mary Buchanan	4
*120 Can a Christian keep a Public House—A Dialogue	4
121 The Aged Friend	2
*122 The Village of Newbridge	2
123 The Mirror of Intemperance	4
*124 Alcohol, what it does, and what it cannot do, or the Influence of Alcoholic Drinks on the nutrition of the Body, and in the production of Disease. By Walter Johnson, M.B., with an Appendix by Edward Johnson, M.D.	44
125 Barley, Malt, and Beer Question; or, What shall we do with the Barley. By Dr. F. R. Lees	8
126 Keep away from the Public House	4
127 Poor William—the Wine and Spirit Merchant	8
128 The Hearer to his Minister	4
129 The Merchant's Dream; or, Warning of Remorse	4
130 Address to Females	2
*131 History of J. B. Gough of America	48
132 Lever's Lecture on the Properties of Malt Liquor	34
*133 My Mother's Gold Ring	4
*134 Miraculous Deliverance	4
135 The Drunkard's Dream	2
*136 Archibald Prentice's Speech on Sanitary and Social Means to Political Ends	8

Assorted Packets: No. 1 containing 1 to 30—No. 2, 31 to 53—No. 3, 54 to 72—No. 4, 73 to 100—No. 5, 101 to 126—No. 6, 127 and upwards.

* * * Loan Tract Covers in Shilling Packets.

23 Volumes containing the first 100 Tracts, Price 3s.

THE HISTORY OF THE PROGRESS OF TAXATION.

ON SATURDAY, MAY the 5th, 1849, will be published the SECOND SUPPLEMENT, to the
STANDARD OF FREEDOM,

Which ought to be attentively read by every tax-payer throughout the United Kingdom. It will contain:—

THE ANNALS OF INDIRECT TAXATION.—This chapter will present—First. An Historical View of our Excise and Customs; shewing that since the burden of taxation was transferred from Property to Industry successive Governments have revelled in extravagance and corruption.—Secondly. The effects of Indirect Taxation upon the Happiness of the people; upon the Working Classes, Trade and Industry, and the Agricultural interest.—Thirdly. The further influence of Indirect Taxation and Governmental wasteful extravagance upon the Intellectual and Moral Condition of the People, and upon the progress of Civilization and Religion throughout the world.

THE HISTORY OF THE WOODS AND FORESTS.—This chapter will show that not only have the Aristocracy thrown the burden of Taxation upon the People, but that they have robbed the Crown and People of property which formerly yielded the Royal Revenue. In addition to the exposure of this wholesale plunder of the Nation, will be revealed the manner in which the People's property (under the name of "Crown Lands") is now managed, not for the Nation's benefit, but to satisfy the cravings of a host of privileged aristocrats.

THE HISTORY OF OUR COLONIAL LEGISLATION.—Extent, Population, and Commerce of the Colonies of the British Empire. How the account stands between England and her Colonies. Our System of Colonial Government. The Cost of the System. Expenditure on account of Colonial Civil Establishments. Military Expenditure, including Ordnance and Commissariat. Naval Expenditure. Comparative cost of Government in the United States.

THE DIPLOMATIC STAFF.—In this chapter will be stated the annual Cost of this Staff; the Cost of Separate Embassies; the Cost of Special Jobs; Ambassadors' Pensions, &c. In comparison, or contrast, will be stated, the Cost of the Diplomatic Staff of the United States of America; and it will be shown that the lavish expenditure indulged in by our Government is by no means necessary to increase or maintain its moral influence.

LOCAL OR DELEGATED TAXATION.—It will be demonstrated that the people are not only overburdened by imperial taxation, but that by Parliament delegating to public bodies and corporations the power to tax the community, ad infinitum, the people are compelled to pay, in the shape of Local Taxes, such as Water-rates, Poor-rates, Highway-rates, Paving, Lighting, and Church-rates, an overwhelming amount for which no just equivalent is received, and which, in addition to Indirect and Government Taxes, is paralysing industry, and crushing to the earth all classes of the trading community.

CONCLUSION.—TAXATION AND REPRESENTATION.—Under this head it will be shown, that by the perversion of the Representative Constitution the Aristocracy were enabled to commence the National Debt and maintain the present system of extravagant expenditure; and that, under the Reform Act, those who are most TAXED are not REPRESENTED at all. Also, that in proportion as the people are taxed are they prevented from attaining their political rights and privileges.

From communications from all parts of the kingdom, we believe that some thousands of persons were disappointed in obtaining our last Supplement. All persons desirous of obtaining the STANDARD OF FREEDOM AND SUPPLEMENT OF THE 5TH OF MAY are recommended to give their orders without delay to the nearest Newsvender, as the sale is expected to be very much greater even than our recent Supplementary sheet.

TO NEWSVENDERS THROUGHOUT THE UNITED KINGDOM.

SUPPLEMENT to the STANDARD OF FREEDOM — The History of the progress of Taxation.—A Bill detailing the Contents of the above is now ready, and will be forwarded, free by post, to any Newsmen, by applying at the Office of the STANDARD OF FREEDOM, 335, Strand, London.

TO ADVERTISERS.

THE CIRCULATION of the STANDARD OF FREEDOM, with the SUPPLEMENT, comprising the History of the Progress of Taxation, for Saturday, May 5, 1849, will be to the utmost extent that can be printed by the most rapid machinery. Advertisements intended for this Number are requested to be forwarded immediately, as a given space only, which is now nearly filled up, can be allotted for this purpose. The STANDARD OF FREEDOM is the most widely-circulated weekly Newspaper amongst the trading community now published, and is, therefore, the most valuable medium for giving extensive publicity to the announcements of Life Assurance Offices, Booksellers, Publishers, and all parties engaged in trade and mercantile business.—Office, 335, Strand, London.

FOR SUMMER WEAR.—The Thin Gutta Percha Soles are strongly recommended. They not only resist all wet and moisture, thus preserving the health of the wearer, but being so much thinner than leather, they are extremely light and cool for summer wear.

NOTICE.

The Gutta Percha Company beg to state that when the soles are applied according to their "Directions to Shoemakers," it is impossible for them to come off until worn through, and they therefore urge the public to employ those only who will "warrant" them to adhere. This notice is necessary in consequence of interested parties having intentionally fixed the soles on imperfectly.

TO EMIGRANTS, CAPTAINS, &c.

No one should leave England without providing himself with a stock of Gutta Percha Soles and Solution. The ease with which these soles can be applied in countries where no shoemaker can be found—their power of keeping the feet perfectly dry, thus preserving the body from coughs, colds, &c., in lands where medical advice cannot be had—and their great durability and cheapness, render them invaluable to all who propose sailing to distant countries. Gutta Percha Wash-basins, Chamber-bowls, Bottles, Flasks, &c., are admirably suited for ship-board and emigrants, as they can so readily be converted into life-buoys in the event of a shipwreck.

TO ARCHITECTS, &c.

In consequence of the extraordinary power possessed by Gutta Percha Tubing for propelling sound, it is admirably adapted for conveying messages, &c., in Dwelling Houses, Hotels, Warehouses, Mills, &c. This Tubing is also valuable for conveying Gas, Water, and as Refuse Pipes, being unaffected by acids, alkalies, grease, &c., and not so subject to incrustation or affected by the frost as metal pipes.

MILL BANDS.

The increasing demand for the Gutta Percha strapping for driving-bands, lathe-straps, &c., fully justifies the strong recommendations they have everywhere received.

PUMP BUCKETS, CLACKS, &c.

Few applications of Gutta Percha appear likely to be of such extensive use to Manufacturers, Engineers, &c., as the substitution of it for leather in pump-buckets, valves, &c. These buckets can be had of any size and thickness, without any seam or raised joint. They are unaffected by acids, grease, alkalies, &c. Cold water will never soften them, and they are consequently much more durable than leather, and also cheaper.

GUTTA PERCHA PICTURE FRAMES AND ORNAMENTS.

In imitation of the finest wood carving, suitable for the decoration of houses, cabinet work, &c.

GUTTA PERCHA CRICKET-BALLS

are superior to any others yet invented. They are never softened by the grass, however wet, and being made without any stitching, are not liable to rot like the leather ones.

GUTTA PERCHA BOUNCING BALLS

may be had in every variety of colour.

GUTTA PERCHA CLOTHES-LINES.

Being unaffected by the weather, they may be left out in the open air without sustaining injury.

GUTTA PERCHA WINDOW-BLIND CORD

is easily joined by heating the ends. Does not contract and expand like the ordinary cord. It may be had of various colours.

Every other variety of Gutta Percha articles, such as Brackets, Pen-trays, Inkstands, Medallions, Surgical Instruments, Vases, Trays, Watch-stands, Cups, Flasks, Lathe Bands, Clothes-line, Cricket and Bouncing Balls, Pump Buckets, Galvanic Batteries, Chamber-bowls, Washing-basins, Cash-bowls, Ornamental Flower-pots and Stands, Soap-dishes, Electric Telegraph Wire, &c., are manufactured at Wharf-road, City-road, London, and sold by their dealers in town and country.

THE LARGEST COFFEE ESTABLISHMENT IN THE EMPIRE.

No. 80, FENCHURCH-STREET.

JOHN CASSELL,

To meet the increased and unparalleled demand for his COFFEE, has opened an Establishment, which, for its extent and its capabilities for supplying the people of Great Britain with the above article, stands unrivalled. It has long been a source of complaint, that while the inhabitants of almost every town in the kingdom could obtain JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE from the appointed Agents, equal facilities have not been afforded to FAMILIES in the METROPOLIS. To meet the exigency of the case, and to enable all to purchase an article so justly celebrated and so eagerly sought after, the above-named extensive premises have been opened, in addition to the present warehouses. JOHN CASSELL sends out no inferior quality. The following are the prices at which his COFFEES may be obtained:—

JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, No. 1.	1s. 4d.
An excellent Article.
JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, No. 2.	1s. 8d.
Cannot fail to give great satisfaction, being a combination of the choicest growths of Jamaica, possessing richness, strength, and flavour.
JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, No. 3.	2s. 0d.
To every Connoisseur in Coffee this will prove a treat, combining the finest mountain-growth of both Jamaica and Turkey.

Any quantity of the above may be had, in quarter or half pounds, or in one, two, or three pound packages, or canisters; every one of which bears a fac-simile of JOHN CASSELL'S signature, and without which none are genuine.

Never in the history of the Coffee trade has that article become so celebrated, and entered so extensively into the consumption of Families throughout the United Kingdom, as JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEES. Wherever introduced they have given entire satisfaction, and their use has been continued. The patronage bestowed upon these Coffees has not arisen from their being sent out as "patented" articles, but simply from their intrinsic excellency; and this is in consequence of their being selected from the world's finest growths, and combining great strength, free from bitter pungency, a rich mellowness, and a delicious aromatic flavour.

FORWARDING OF ORDERS.

Families desirous of being supplied with JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEES, but to whom it is not convenient to call at the establishment for the purpose of giving their orders personally, are respectfully requested to forward the same by post. Their orders will be promptly executed, and delivered, FREE OF CHARGE, to all places within six miles of the General Post-office.

THE PROVINCIAL TOWNS.

JOHN CASSELL has an agent in almost every town throughout England, Scotland, and Ireland, from whom families can be supplied. His Coffees are so celebrated, that any family, by the least inquiry, may learn who is the agent appointed for the town in which they reside. Agents will be appointed in those towns where there is not one already. Applications for the same to be made as above.

LIVERPOOL FINANCIAL REFORM TRACTS.

Just Published, price 1d. each.

THE LIVERPOOL FINANCIAL REFORM TRACTS.

- No. 1.—CIVIL LIST.
- No. 2.—PENSION LIST.
- No. 3.—TAXATION.
- No. 4.—The ARMY, ORDNANCE, COMMISSARIAT, NAVY, COLONIES.
- No. 5.—Ditto, Ditto.
- No. 6.—The NATIONAL BUDGET for 1849, by RICHARD CODDEN, Esq., M.P., in a Letter to Robertson Gladstone, Esq., President of the Financial Reform Association of Liverpool; with a Report of the Public Meeting held at the Concert Hall, Liverpool, December 20, 1848, at which the Budget was announced to the Nation.
- No. 7.—The ARMY, ORDNANCE, COMMISSARIAT, NAVY, COLONIES. The Army Clothing, together with Major-Gen. Sir Wm. Napier's attack on the Association, and their Reply.
- No. 8.—The WOODS, FORESTS, and ESTATES of the CROWN.
- No. 9.—The DEAD WEIGHT of the ARMY.
- No. 10.—The NAVY.
- No. 11 & 12.—Sir W. MOLESWORTH on the COLONIES.
- No. 13.—The NAVY.

Published at the Office of the STANDARD OF FREEDOM, 335, Strand, London.

Liverpool: Published by the ASSOCIATION, North John-street; by SMITH, ROGERSON, and Co., Lord-street; and Sold by all Booksellers. London: The Trade Supplied by SIMPKIN, MARSHALL, and Co., Stationers' Hall-court; GEORGE VICKERS, Holywell-street, Strand; EFFINGHAM WILSON, Royal Exchange; H. BINKS, 85, Aldersgate-street; CHARLES GILPIN, 5, Bishopsgate-street, Dublin; by GILPIN, Dame-street, Manchester; ABEL HEYWOOD, Edinburgh; J. MENZIES, Prince's-street.

Now ready, in demy 8vo., containing 32 pages, price 2d.,

THE GREAT MILITARY AND NAVAL

PARLIAMENT; being an Analysis of both our Houses of Parliament: showing, from a careful examination of the Red-Books of the Aristocracy themselves, the true secret of the constant increase in our Military and Naval expenditure, in a STANDING MAJORITY in both Houses of nearly 300 members directly connected with the war system. No such dissection of our Legislative body has hitherto been made; and it may safely be said that no man, till he has gone over this list of 700 Members of Parliament connected with the military system by appointment, marriage, or consanguinity, is at all aware of the real character of the body that governs us.

Now ready, in demy 8vo., containing 40 pages, price 3d.,

OUR GREAT STATE-CHURCH PARLIAMENT; an

Analysis of both Houses of Parliament: showing that there are in the two Houses 700 direct holders and dealers in Churches and Church influence, with a STANDING MAJORITY of 154 devoted to the maintenance of the present Ecclesiastical system. In a former publication, entitled the "Great Military and Naval Parliament," it is shown that the Government, both of the Cabinet and the Senate, consists of a majority of soldiers. In the present work another view is taken of them, and they are now presented again as proprietors of the State-church.

Published at the Office of the STANDARD OF FREEDOM, 335, Strand; CHARLES GILPIN, Bishopsgate-street; and to be had of all Booksellers.

Printed by WILLIAM CATHRALL, of 59, Albany-road, Camberwell, Surrey, at his Printing Office, 335, Strand, London.

TUESDAY, May 1, 1849.

THE
TEETOTAL TIMES
AND ESSAYIST.

PUBLISHED MONTHLY.

No. XVIII.—NEW SERIES.]

LONDON, JUNE, 1849.

{ Price One Penny.
! Stamped, Twopence.

THE TEMPERANCE EXCURSION for 1849, on MONDAY, June 25th, to SOUTHEND, landing for several hours, by that splendid packet the "EMERALD," under the direction of the Fitzroy Teetotal Association, from London-bridge, at Nine o'Clock precisely, calling at Greenwich and Black-wall piers. Tickets, 2s. each; children under twelve, 1s. 6d.; to be had of Messrs. Miller, 33, Duke-street, and 268, Oxford-street; Draper, 88, Titchfield-street; Tweedie, 3, Falcon-street, City; Wilson and Co., 51, Blackfriars-road; Coles, Greenwich; J. H. Esterbrooke, 2, Upper Crown-street, St. James's-park; Hadland, 24, Rives-terrace, Maiden-lane. The number is limited.

N.B. The packet company have specially agreed that no intoxicating drinks are to be sold on board, and the introduction of such are strictly forbidden.

METROPOLITAN and HOME COUNTIES' FREEHOLD LAND SOCIETY, established in connexion with the Metropolitan Financial and Parliamentary Reform Association.

PRESIDENT.

Sir Joshua Walsmsley, M.P.

VICE-PRESIDENTS.

Richard Cobden, Esq., M.P. | Joseph Hume, Esq., M.P.

Offices, 11, Poultry, London.

The REGISTER is now OPEN for the Enrolment of Members, and copies of the prospectus may be obtained at the offices, or by application to the Secretary, to whom all communications are to be addressed.

By order,

ROBERT RUSSELL, Hon. Sec. pro temp.

Offices, 11, Poultry, May 21, 1849.

Just published,

THE TEMPERANCE CERTIFICATE.

Neatly printed in Colours, 1s.; Tinted, 4d.; and White, 3d.

It is a beautifully engraved Pledge Card, with a Wreath combining the Rose, Shamrock, and Thistle, interspersed with Temperance Mottos, mounted upon which is the Temperance Coat of Arms.

London: WHITTAKER and CO., and B. L. GREEN, Manchester: R. HOLKER, 237, Great Ancoats-street. Leeds: JOHN KERSHAW, Cow-market. Huddersfield: WATERS HARDY, Market-place.

A liberal allowance to Temperance Secretaries.

PROTESTANT DISSENTERS' ALMANACK FOR 1849
THIRTIETH THOUSAND.

THE PROTESTANT DISSENTERS' ALMANACK, Price 3d., is now Ready, containing, besides the usual Calendar and other information pertaining to Almanacks—Eclipses—Weather Table—Liberty of Conscience—Retrospect of 1848—Separation of Church and State—State Churchism—Political Dissenters—Opposition to Anti-State Church Principle—Civil Authority Anti-Christian—Who is Head of the Church?—National Hypocrisy—Freedom of Mind—Error of a State Church—State Incorporation of Christianity—Property of State Church—Political Churches—Important Divorce—Machinery of State Church—Government and Education—State Church cause of Infidelity—Endowment of Seats—Civil Magistrate's Office—State Church a Failure—State Endowments—The True Church—Endowed Charities—Apostolical Succession—Prelates had Councillors—English Regium Donum—Precious Prolific Seed—Nonconformity a blessing—Irish Regium D. num—Persecution Anti-Christian—Value of Time—Opposition to Endowment of Popish Priests—Royal Family, Ministers, &c.—Tide Tables—Stamps and Taxes—List of Chapels—Post-office Regulations—Anti-State Church Association—May Meetings—State of Education—Denominational Statistics—England: Congregationalists, Baptists, Methodists, Presbyterians, Unitarians, and Catholics—Scotland—Wales—Nonconformist Chapels—Various Institutions—Concluding Address.

London: JOHN SNOW, 35, Paternoster-row. Edinburgh: ZEIGLER, South Bridge. Glasgow: GALLIE, Buchanan-street; and may be had of all Booksellers.

IMPROVEMENT OF THE SOCIAL, INTELLECTUAL, AND MORAL CONDITION OF THE WORKING CLASSES.

A PRIZE OF FIFTY POUNDS is hereby offered for the best ESSAY on the above subject.

The Essay will be expected to contain:—

1. A brief but comprehensive statement of the PRESENT CONDITION of the PEOPLE, physical, social, political, and moral, drawn from authentic sources, for the purpose of ascertaining how far it is necessary or important that their condition should be improved.

2. A review of the MEANS HITHERTO EMPLOYED for the ELEVATION and IMPROVEMENT of the WORKING CLASSES, with a fair and candid discussion of the adaptation or deficiency of those means; and if deficient, from whence that deficiency arises—whether from imperfect knowledge of the real condition of the people, or from want of due sympathy with them, or from the difficulty of the case, or from the unsuitableness or imperfection of the means themselves.

In the examination of these instrumentalities, especial reference is to be made to the Temperance Movement; its adaptation as a remedy for the evils of intemperance; the difficulties presented to its progress by the numerous temptations to prodigality, such as Gin Shops, Beer Shops, Saloons, Musical Concerts, &c.; and the apathy, and even opposition, of avowed philanthropists and Christian Ministers and Professors; and an inquiry into the Influence of the Total Abstinence principle to improve the physical, social, and moral condition of the Labouring portion of the population; also, Ragged Schools, Educational and Mechanics' Institutions, Sanitary Regulations, the Press, and the efforts now making to bring Religious Influence to bear more immediately and directly on the bulk of the population.

3rd, and chiefly, A WELL-DIGESTED SCHEME of PRACTICAL and PRACTICABLE REMEDIAL MEASURES.

The Competitors may be of any class in society. The Essay must be written in a lucid, terse, compendious, and practical style. The copyright of the successful essay to be at the control of the donor of the prize. Any profits arising from the sale, after the necessary expenses of printing and publishing are defrayed, to be handed to the successful competitor. In order that it may be widely circulated, its length should not exceed from 100 to 125 pages, demy octavo, and its price when published should not exceed One Shilling.

The manuscripts to be sent in on or before July 1st, 1849, addressed to JOHN SNOW, 35, Paternoster-row. The manuscripts must be signed with some peculiar initial, with a sealed note containing the real name and address of the writer; such note not to be opened till the determination of the adjudicators is known.

The Adjudicators are—the Rev. THOMAS SPENCER, A.M., Bath; EDWARD SWAINE, Esq.; and EDWARD MIALI, Esq., of London.

THE DOMESTIC PRACTICE of HYDRO-PATHY, by Dr. E. JOHNSON.—The periodical issue of this work in Monthly Parts commenced on the 15th of May. The First Part, containing 56 pages, price 1s., will convey a good idea of the character and extent of the work.

London: SIMPKIN, MARSHALL, and CO.; and may be had by order of any Bookseller in the United Kingdom.

Just Published, Price Threepence,

THE EMIGRANT'S ALMANACK for 1849.

Every person about to emigrate, or interested in the subject of emigration, should consult this Almanack. Besides the matter usually contained in Almanacks, are articles on the following important subjects:—Fields for Emigration, North America, Australia, British Colonies, United States—Who should Emigrate?—Choice of a Colony—First Steps to be Taken—Embarkation—Conduct on Board—Treatment of Sea Sickness—Conduct of Emigrants—How Land is to be Had—A Man of Small Means, How Shall I Invest—Chances of the Labourer and Mechanic in America—Australia, Demand for Labourers, &c.—Regulations to be Observed by Emigrants—Cost of Passage—Price of Provisions, &c., in Various Colonies—Fares and Routes to the Far West, &c.—Rates of Postage—and a fund of interesting miscellaneous matter.

London: C. GILPIN, 5, Bishopsgate-street Without; B. L. GREEN, Paternoster-row; and all Booksellers.

TEMPERANCE PUBLICATIONS.

THE TEETOTAL ESSAYIST; or, MONTHLY TEMPERANCE STANDARD, for 1847. Price One Shilling.

CONTENTS:—

Teetotalism essential to the Elevation of the Working Classes. By D. G. Paine.
 The Temperance Movement in its important bearings on the Sanitary Condition of the People. By Thomas Beggs.
 Total Abstinence from Strong Drinks important to Female Honour and Happiness. By D. G. Paine.
 Tom Rudge and his Friend; showing what Tom lost by "that last Glass of Brandy-and-water." By Mrs. S. C. Hall.
 Appeal to Females in behalf of the Total Abstinence Movement. By Dr. E. Nott, President of Union College, New York.
 The Worn Thimble; a Story of Woman's Duty and Woman's Influence. By Mrs. S. C. Hall.
 Important Medical Testimony; with several hundred signatures. Christian Duty; or the importance of the Temperance Reformation in connexion with the maintenance and spread of Christianity. By F. W. Wheeler, Missionary.
 The Moral Obligation of Total Abstinence. By Evan Jones.
 Intemperance the Antagonist of Education. By W. R. Baker.
 The Duty of Sabbath School Teachers in regard to Total Abstinence. By Evan Jones.
 Reasons why Sabbath School Teachers should be Teetotalers. By Michael Young.
 Bearings of the Temperance Question on the Interest of the Young. By W. Reid.
 The Drinking System and Juvenile Delinquency. By Thomas Beggs.
 Aids to the Evangelical Alliance in its inquiry as to the Connexion between Infidelity and Teetotalism. With testimonies of upwards of Seventy Ministers and Gentlemen.
 The Evils of Moderate Drinking. By Evan Jones.
 The Inconsistency of those Christians and Philanthropists who sanction the use of Intoxicating Liquors. By D. G. Paine.
 Address to Moderate Drinkers. By Elihu Burritt.
 The Temperance Movement:—its past history—present position—future prospects and connexion with other great movements of the age. By Thomas Beggs.
 This forms the most interesting and important publication that has ever been issued from the Temperance Press. As but very few sets remain on hand, an early application will be necessary.

Sixteenth Thousand.

INTEMPERANCE the IDOLATRY of BRITAIN.

By the Rev. W. R. BAKER, author of the "Curse of Britain," &c. It is admitted by the most eminent of the religious reviewers, as well as by all who have read it, that there never was a work upon the Temperance Question more calculated to carry conviction to the mind of a thoughtful reader as the danger and iniquity of the drinking system. That it may have a very extensive circulation, this new and revised edition is published at threepence:—the price of the former editions was 2s. 6d. The usual allowance will be made to societies, or persons taking a quantity.

LIVESEY'S FAMOUS MALT LECTURES, including a complete exposure of the great delusion as to the properties of Malt Liquors. Formerly published at Sixpence. A new edition for ONE PENNY.

THE BEST OF MEN SOMETIMES IN ERROR. By ARCHDEACON JEFFREYS, of Bombay. The object of this incomparable Essay is to show that the advocates of the Total Abstinence system have the full warrant of Scripture for their labour of mercy and love. The style in which this sentiment is reasoned is such as to carry conviction to all who profess to be influenced by the law of love. 1s. 4d. per 100.

SUNDAY SCHOOL PRIZE TRACTS.

Price 1s. 4d. per 100.

THE IMPORTANCE of the TEMPERANCE MOVEMENT, in its bearings on Sunday Schools.

THE YOUNG, the HOPE of the TEMPERANCE REFORMATION.

THE CHRISTIAN'S SPIRITUAL SONG BOOK, containing 500 spiritual songs adapted to popular tunes. By the Rev. JOHN STAMP. Embossed cambric, 1s. 6d.

TEMPERANCE HYMNS and SONGS; Devotional, Moral, and Social. Selected and revised by J. W. GREEN. Embossed leather, 1s.; stiff paper covers, 6d.

THE TEETOTALER'S HYMN-BOOK. Selected and revised by J. W. GREEN. 1d.

B. L. GREEN, 62, Paternoster-row.

Price 2d., or by post 3d.

CAUTIONS and TESTIMONY against ODD FELLOWSHIP. By H. MUDGE, Surgeon, Bodmin.

Also, price 2s., or by post 2s. 6d., by the same author,

EXPOSURE of ODD FELLOWSHIP; showing its immoral tendency and bankrupt circumstances, and containing as well a large amount of information on the subject of Friendly Societies.

WHITTAKER, London; LIDDELL, Bodmin.

Price 1s., on imperial plate paper.

THE HORRORS of DRUNKENNESS.

Illustrated by Four beautiful Etchings—1st. The Upas Tree. 2nd. The Drunkard's Home. 3rd. The Raving Maniac and the Drivelling Fool; by George Cruikshank, Esq., author of "The Bottle." And 4th. The Drunkard's Life, by D. McDonald, Esq. With a Dedication to the men of Preston, ample description of the Plates, statistics of Drunkenness, &c., by John O'Neil, author of "The Blessings of Temperance," &c.

London: TWEEDIE, 3, Falcon-street, City, and to be had of all Booksellers.

N.B.—An inferior Edition, price 6d.

IPSWICH TEMPERANCE TRACTS.—

Those Tracts marked with an * have Pictures.

The following have been published in the year 1848. Pages.

81 The Use of Intoxicating Drinks explained, by Archdeacon Jeffreys.....	12
*82 Drink and be Happy.....	4
83 The Five Nips.....	4
84 The Honest Spirit Dealer's Advertisement.....	2
85 Seven Years' Experience of a Reclaimed Drunkard.....	2
*86 The Education of the Drunkard, with 5 pictures.....	12
*87 A Word with Serious People, by John Bright, M.P.....	4
*88 Guide to Glendalough.....	4
*89 Bridget Larkins.....	4
90 The Contrast.....	2
91 Tobacco a Cause of Intemperance.....	2
*92 The Wedding Night.....	12
*93 My Chapel.....	4
*94 The Best Men sometimes Err, by Archdeacon Jeffreys.....	8
*95 The Testimonies of Eight Judges.....	2
*96 The Drunkard in Rags.....	2
*97 The Farmer and the Labourer—a Dialogue.....	4
*98 The Gloucestershire Farmer.....	4
*99 Strong Drink and Infidelity; or the Last Illness of Wm. Chapman.....	8
100 Catalogue of Temperance Publications.....	4
101 The Hertfordshire Farmer, 10 thousand.....	4
*102 Sunday Schools and Strong Drink.....	4
103 Confessions of a Publican.....	4
104 Peter Levison, or the Ruined Minister.....	4
105 Testimony of John Anzell James, 10 thousand.....	2
*106 I do not drink Wine, 10 thousand.....	2
*107 Self-Imposed Burdens, 10 thousand.....	2
*108 The Craving of a Drunkard.....	8
*109 Richard H—, or the Poor Orphan Boy.....	4
*110 Loss of Seven Fishermen.....	8
111 A Temperance Catechism for Sunday Schools.....	8
*112 The Mail Coachman, 10 thousand.....	4
113 The Reformed Family. By Anne Jane Carlile.....	4
114 Licensing Day at Bolton.....	4
115 The Stomach of a Drunkard.....	4
116 Intemperance and Ragged Schools.....	4
*117 Delirium Tremens.....	4

The following have been published in the year 1849.

118 The Fire-Escape and the Ship in Danger.....	4
119 The Sabbath Morn, or an Address to Young Persons on Total Abstinence. By Mary Buchanan.....	4
*120 Can a Christian keep a Public House—A Dialogue.....	4
121 The Aged Friend.....	2
*122 The Village of Newbridge.....	2
123 The Mirror of Intemperance.....	4
*124 Alcohol, what it does, and what it cannot do, or the Influence of Alcoholic Drinks on the nutrition of the Body, and in the production of Disease. By Walter Johnson, M.B., with an Appendix by Edward Johnson, M.D.....	44
125 Barley, Malt, and Beer Question; or, What shall we do with the Barley. By Dr. F. R. Lees.....	8
126 Keep away from the Public House.....	4
127 Poor William—the Wine and Spirit Merchant.....	8
128 The He-aver to his Minister.....	4
129 The Merchant's Dream; or, Warning of Remorse.....	4
130 Address to Females.....	2
*131 History of J. B. Gough of America.....	48
132 Leverey's Lecture on the Properties of Malt Liquor.....	34
*133 My Mother's Gold Ring.....	4
*134 Miraculous Deliverance.....	4
135 The Drunkard's Dream.....	2
*136 Archibald Prentice's Speech on Sanitary and Social Means to Political Ends.....	8

Assorted Packets: No. 1 containing 1 to 30—No. 2, 31 to 53—No. 3, 54 to 72—No. 4, 73 to 100—No. 5, 101 to 126—No. 6, 127 and upwards.

** Loan Tract Covers in Shilling Packets.

 Volumes containing the first 100 Tracts, Price 3s.

Ipswich: RICHARD DYKES ALEXANDER; or they may be had of any Book-eller in the country through SIMPKIN, MARSHALL, and CO., Stationers-hall-court, London.

JOHN KAYE'S WORSDELL'S PILLS.

UNPARALLELED as a Family Medicine, and for their efficacy in purifying the blood, and freeing the human system from every form of disease. The following testimonials illustrate and confirm this; and they are only specimens of thousands which have been borne to the wonderful health-restoring Pills.

MR. KAYE, Sir,—For upwards of twenty years I have been the subject of great pain and trouble from bile on the stomach with dreadful sickness and headache, for the cure of which I applied to a number of medical men, but all to no purpose. I was advised to try Kaye's Worsdell's Pills, and having found myself much better after taking two small boxes, I was encouraged to persevere. I have taken about six boxes, and am now quite cured. You will oblige me by making the above case public.

Wroughton, near Swindon.

ANN HINDER.

MR. BOWEN, High-street, Stonehouse, near Plymouth, was afflicted with inflammation on the chest; he consulted many medical gentlemen in the neighbourhood without effect. After taking two boxes of the Vegetable Restorative Pills he was restored to health and enabled to attend to his accustomed labour.

JOHN BAINBRIDGE, of Number Garth, Sunderland, has experienced a wonderful cure from the use of your Vegetable Restorative Pills. He had an abscess near his eye, four upon his legs and thighs, and one of his arms was rendered useless. He was twice in the Infirmary, on one occasion for fifteen weeks, after which the doctor said there was no hope but in amputation; to this, however, he would not consent. A friend gave him an order for some Pills, that he might give them a fair trial. After taking ten boxes a perfect cure was effected, and he had got to work again. As he had been afflicted four years (for fifteen weeks he was never out of bed, and suffered the most excruciating pains), he is very thankful to a kind Providence for putting it into the mind of this gentleman to assist him to obtain this valuable medicine, which he himself had not the means of procuring.

CAUTION.

To prevent fraud, the Honourable the Commissioners of Stamps have ordered the words "WORSDELL'S PILLS, by JOHN KAYE," to be engraved on the Government Stamp; and as further protection, Mr. Kaye's arms, and a fac-simile of his signature, are printed on the Directions wrapped round each box, and to imitate which is felony; and the public are requested to obtain the pills from their Agents.

Sold in Boxes at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., and 4s. 6d. each, by Messrs. Sutton, 10, Bow Church-yard; Barclay's, 95, Farringdon-street; Edwards, 67, St. Paul's Church-yard; Dietrichsen and Co., 63, Oxford-street; Sanger, 150, Oxford-street; Willoughby, 95, Bishopsgate-street Without; Johnson, 68, Cornhill; King, 34, Napier-street, Hoxton; and by at least one Agent in every Town throughout the Kingdom.

DR CHEYNE'S COUGH and PULMONIC

LOZENGES.—The merits of this agreeable and efficacious remedy for colds, coughs, hoarseness, difficulty of breathing, and asthmatic and consumptive complaints, are daily made more and more apparent. All persons suffering from the above, or similar complaints, will do well immediately to test the efficacy of these Lozenges. They give instant relief, by promoting free expectoration, and preventing an undue accumulation of phlegm, at the same time that they allay the sensation of tickling in the throat, and ease of suffocation, and prevent those violent paroxysms of coughing, which are so distressing and dangerous. These Lozenges may be taken without any fear of disordering the stomach. On the contrary, they operate as a tonic, and materially strengthen the digestive organs.

TESTIMONIALS.

The following are among the most recent testimonials as to the value and efficacy of Dr. Cheyne's Cough and Pulmonic Lozenges:—

From the Rev. J. Crampin, Baptist Minister, Streatham, Isle of Ely. "I am compelled to say that after nearly twenty years public speaking, I have never yet met with anything so effectually easing to the chest—as belonging to the lungs—and so clearing to the voice, as Dr. Cheyne's Cough and Pulmonic Lozenges. I have used but one box, but such is their pleasantness and usefulness, that I would not be without them for ten times their cost."

To Mr. J. Everington, Church-street, Gainsborough.

"Sir—I have been afflicted for years with a bad cough. I could not sleep at night, and sometimes bled to that degree that the neighbours thought I should break a blood-vessel. I was induced to try a box of Dr. Cheyne's Lozenges, which was purchased at my shop; and after taking about ten Lozenges, my cough left me. I give you leave to publish this statement for the benefit of others.—Blyton, near Gainsborough. "JANE HUNT."

CAUTION.—As a variety of Lozenges, Wafers, and Tablets are advertised, containing ingredients of an injurious nature, the public are particularly requested to ask for DR. CHEYNE'S COUGH and PULMONIC LOZENGES, and to observe that the words, "DR. CHEYNE'S LOZENGES," are engraved on the Government Stamp, which, with Directions for Use, is wrapped round each box.

Sold in Boxes at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., and 4s. 6d. each, by Messrs. Sutton, 10, Bow Church-yard; Barclay's, 95, Farringdon-street; Edwards, 67, St. Paul's Church-yard; Dietrichsen and Co., 63, Oxford-street; Sanger, 150, Oxford-street; Willoughby, 95, Bishopsgate-street Without; Johnson, 68, Cornhill; King, 34, Napier-street, Hoxton; and by at least one Agent in every town throughout the kingdom.

FOR SUMMER WEAR.—The Thin Gutta Percha Soles are strongly recommended. They not only resist all wet and moisture, thus preserving the health of the wearer, but being so much thinner than leather, they are extremely light and cool for summer wear.

NOTICE.

The Gutta Percha Company beg to state that when the soles are applied according to their "Directions to Shoemakers," it is impossible for them to come off until worn through, and they therefore urge the public to employ those only who will "warrant" them to adhere. This notice is necessary in consequence of interested parties having intentionally fixed the soles on imperfectly.

TO EMIGRANTS, CAPTAINS, &c.

No one should leave England without providing himself with a stock of Gutta Percha Soles and Solution. The ease with which these soles can be applied in countries where no shoemaker can be found—their power of keeping the feet perfectly dry, thus preserving the body from coughs, colds, &c., in lands where medical advice cannot be had—and their great durability and cheapness, render them invaluable to all who propose sailing to distant countries. Gutta Percha Wash-basins, Chamber-bowls, Bottles, Flasks, &c., are admirably suited for shipboard and emigrants, as they can so readily be converted into life-buoys in the event of a shipwreck.

TO ARCHITECTS, &c.

In consequence of the extraordinary power possessed by Gutta Percha Tubing for propelling sound, it is admirably adapted for conveying messages, &c., in Dwelling Houses, Hotels, Warehouses, Mills, &c. This Tubing is also valuable for conveying Gas, Water, and as Refuse Pipes, being unaffected by acids, alkalies, grease, &c., and not so subject to incrustation or affected by the frost as metal pipes.

MILL BANDS.

The increasing demand for the Gutta Percha strapping for driving-bands, lathe-straps, &c., fully justifies the strong recommendations they have everywhere received.

PUMP BUCKETS, CLACKS, &c.

Few applications of Gutta Percha appear likely to be of such extensive use to Manufacturers, Engineers, &c., as the substitution of it for leather in pump-buckets, valves, &c. These buckets can be had of any size and thickness, without any seam or raised joint. They are unaffected by acids, grease, alkalies, &c. Cold water will never soften them, and they are consequently much more durable than leather, and also cheaper.

GUTTA PERCHA PICTURE FRAMES AND ORNAMENTS.

In imitation of the finest wood carving, suitable for the decoration of houses, cabinet work, &c.

GUTTA PERCHA CRICKET-BALLS

are superior to any others yet invented. They are never softened by the grass, however wet, and being made without any stitching, are not liable to rot like the leather ones.

GUTTA PERCHA BOUNCING BALLS

may be had in every variety of colour.

GUTTA PERCHA CLOTHES-LINES.

Being unaffected by the weather, they may be left out in the open air without sustaining injury.

GUTTA PERCHA WINDOW-BLIND CORD

is easily joined by heating the ends. Does not contract and expand like the ordinary cord. It may be had of various colours.

Every other variety of Gutta Percha articles, such as Bracketts, Pen-trays, Inkstands, Medallions, Surgical Instruments, Vases, Trays, Watch-stands, Cups, Flasks, Lathe Bands, Clothes-line, Cricket and Bouncing Balls, Pump Buckets, Galvanic Batteries, Chamber-bowls, Washing-basins, Cask-bowls, Ornamental Flower-pots and Stands, Soap-dishes, Electric Telegraph Wire, &c., are manufactured at Wharf-road, City-road, London, and sold by their dealers in town and country.

THE LARGEST COFFEE ESTABLISHMENT IN THE EMPIRE.

No. 80, FENCHURCH-STREET.

JOHN CASSELL,

To meet the increased and unparalleled demand for his COFFEE, has opened an Establishment, which, for its extent and its capabilities for supplying the people of Great Britain with the above article, stands unrivalled. It has long been a source of complaint, that while the inhabitants of almost every town in the kingdom could obtain JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE from the appointed Agents, equal facilities have not been afforded to FAMILIES in the METROPOLIS. To meet the exigency of the case, and to enable all to purchase an article so justly celebrated and so eagerly sought after, the above-named extensive premises have been opened, in addition to the present warehouses. JOHN CASSELL sends out no inferior quality. The following are the prices at which his COFFEES may be obtained:—

JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, No. 1.	1s. 4d.
An excellent Article.
JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, No. 2.	1s. 8d.
Cannot fail to give great satisfaction, being a combination of the choicest growths of Jamaica, possessing richness, strength, and flavour.
JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, No. 3.	2s. 0d.
To every Connoisseur in Coffee this will prove a treat, combining the finest mountain-growth of both Jamaica and Turkey.

Any quantity of the above may be had, in quarter or half pounds, or in one, two, or three pound packages, or canisters; every one of which bears a fac-simile of JOHN CASSELL'S signature, and without which none are genuine.

Never in the history of the Coffee trade has that article become so celebrated, and entered so extensively into the consumption of Families throughout the United Kingdom, as JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEES. Wherever introduced they have given entire satisfaction, and their use has been continued. The patronage bestowed upon these Coffees has not arisen from their being sent out as "patented" articles, but simply from their intrinsic excellency; and this is in consequence of their being selected from the world's finest growths, and combining great strength, free from bitter pungency, a rich mellowness, and a delicious aromatic flavour.

FORWARDING OF ORDERS.

Families desirous of being supplied with JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEES, but to whom it is not convenient to call at the establishment for the purpose of giving their orders personally, are respectfully requested to forward the same by post. Their orders will be promptly executed, and delivered, FREE OF CHARGE, to all places within six miles of the General Post-office.

THE PROVINCIAL TOWNS.

JOHN CASSELL has an agent in almost every town throughout England, Scotland, and Ireland, from whom families can be supplied. His Coffees are so celebrated, that any family, by the least inquiry, may learn who is the agent appointed for the town in which they reside. Agents will be appointed in those towns where there is not one already. Applications for the same to be made as above.

LIVERPOOL FINANCIAL REFORM TRACTS.

Just Published, price 1d. each.

THE LIVERPOOL FINANCIAL REFORM TRACTS.

- No. 1.—CIVIL LIST.
- No. 2.—PENSION LIST.
- No. 3.—TAXATION.
- No. 4.—THE ARMY, ORDNANCE, COMMISSARIAT, NAVY, COLONIES.
- No. 5.—Ditto.
- No. 6.—THE NATIONAL BUDGET for 1849, by RICHARD COBDEN, Esq., M.P., in a Letter to Robertson Gladstone, Esq., President of the Financial Reform Association of Liverpool; with a Report of the Public Meeting held at the Concert Hall, Liverpool, December 20, 1848, at which the Budget was announced to the Nation.
- No. 7.—THE ARMY, ORDNANCE, COMMISSARIAT, NAVY, COLONIES. The Army Clothing, together with Major-Gen. Sir Wm. Napier's attack on the Association, and their Reply.
- No. 8.—THE WOODS, FORESTS, and ESTATES of the CROWN.
- No. 9.—THE DEAD WEIGHT of the ARMY.
- No. 10.—THE NAVY.
- No. 11 & 12.—Sir W. MOLESWORTH on the COLONIES.
- No. 13.—THE NAVY.

Published at the Office of the STANDARD OF FREEDOM, 335, Strand, London.

Liverpool: Published by the ASSOCIATION, North John-street; by SMITH, ROGERSON, and Co., Lord-street; and Sold by all Booksellers. London: The Trade Supplied by SIMPKIN, MARSHALL, and Co., Stationers' Hall-court; GEORGE VICKERS, Holywell-street, Strand; EFFINGHAM WILSON, Royal Exchange; H. BINKS, 85, Aldersgate-street; CHARLES GILPIN, 5, Bishopsgate-street. Dublin: by GILPIN, Dame-street. Manchester: ABEL HEYWOOD. Edinburgh: J. MENZIES, Prince's-street.

Now ready, in demy 8vo., containing 32 pages, price 3d.,

THE GREAT MILITARY AND NAVAL

PARLIAMENT; being an Analysis of both our Houses of Parliament; showing, from a careful examination of the Red-Books of the Aristocracy themselves, the true secret of the constant increase in our Military and Naval expenditure, in a STANDING MAJORITY in both Houses of nearly 300 members directly connected with the war system. No such dissection of our Legislative body has hitherto been made; and it may safely be said that no man, till he has gone over this list of 700 Members of Parliament connected with the military system by appointment, marriage, or consanguinity, is at all aware of the real character of the body that governs us.

Now ready, in demy 8vo., containing 40 pages, price 3d.,

OUR GREAT STATE-CHURCH PARLIAMENT;

an Analysis of both Houses of Parliament; showing that there are in the two Houses 700 direct holders and dealers in Churches and Church influence, with a STANDING MAJORITY of 154 devoted to the maintenance of the present Ecclesiastical system. In a former publication, entitled the "Great Military and Naval Parliament," it is shown that the Government, both of the Cabinet and the Senate, consists of a majority of soldiers. In the present work another view is taken of them, and they are now presented again as proprietors of the State-church.

Published at the Office of the STANDARD OF FREEDOM, 335, Strand; CHARLES GILPIN, Bishopsgate-street; and to be had of all Booksellers.

Printed by WILLIAM CATHRALL, of 59, Albany-road, Camberwell, Surrey, at his Printing Office, 335, Strand, London.

FRIDAY, June 1, 1849.

THE
TEETOTAL TIMES
AND ESSAYIST.

PUBLISHED MONTHLY.

No. XIX.—NEW SERIES.]

LONDON, JULY, 1849.

(Price One Penny.
Stamped, Twopence.)

TO be SOLD, with immediate possession, that well-known and old-established business, HART'S TEMPERANCE HOTEL and COMMERCIAL BOARDING-HOUSE, Aldersgate-street, London.

This Business offers a most advantageous opportunity to a party who can command some capital, and wishes to put it to good account. The premises are well situated, being in the centre of the Metropolis, and within a minute's walk of the General Post-office and principal mercantile establishments. It is in good repair, and held on lease at a moderate rent, and contains twenty Bed-rooms; a light, pleasant, and commodious Commercial-room; an Assembly-room capable of holding 150 persons, with folding-doors, to form two large committee-rooms, which is well let to various societies; a very lofty, handsome, and well-frequented Coffee and Dining room, with boxes; and a large, well-drained Kitchen, fitted up with steam and everything necessary to carry on a large and profitable trade. It has been in the occupation of the present proprietor 14 years, and is only sold in consequence of his retiring from the business.—Applications by letter, post paid, may be addressed to him as above.

YOU MAY ALL DO AWAY WITH ALCOHOL NOW. Every Teetotaler should know how to make the celebrated LEMON SYRUP, for the most beautiful and cheapest beverage ever offered to the public as a substitute for alcoholic poison. It is a wholesome and pleasant drink, fit for both juveniles and adults, and is worthy a place on the tables of princes or peasants. It has been introduced to persons of all classes, Teetotalers, Moderation men, and Drunkards, and all agree that it is the best substitute they ever tasted. Four pint-and-half bottles of the pure Syrup will make 76 half-pints of XX. It takes twenty-five minutes to make it, and costs only 2s. 7d. A full Recipe will be sent, post free, to any person on forwarding, with their address, thirty-one postage stamps to the advertiser, J. WHITLEY, at Mr. Tisdals, 5, Church-street, Kensington, London.

TESTIMONIAL TO MR. T. A. SMITH.

A NUMBER of FRIENDS of the TEMPERANCE MOVEMENT, wishing to mark their appreciation of the great services rendered to Teetotalism by the zealous and scientific advocacy of Mr. T. A. SMITH, during a period of fourteen years, have determined upon presenting that gentleman with a Testimonial, to consist of Electrical and Chemical Apparatus, &c., to enable him to prosecute his labours of benevolence upon a scale more commensurate with his talents; for which purpose WM. CASH, Esq., has kindly consented to act as treasurer. Believing that Teetotalers generally would gladly contribute towards making this Testimonial worthy of Mr. T. A. Smith's acceptance and their own regard, the undermentioned gentlemen have engaged to receive subscriptions:—

Wm. Cash, Esq., Peckham (Treasurer); John Cassell, Esq., 80, Fenchurch-street; Dr. Gourley, 4, Euston-square; Temperance Provident Institution, 39, Moorgate-street; Rev. T. Doxsey, National Temperance Office, Token-house-yard; Mr. West, 1, Cambridge-terrace, Clapham-road; Messrs. Wilson and Campbell, Blackfriars-road; Mr. J. W. Green; Mr. Spriggs, 14, Brook-street, Lambeth; Mr. Tisdale, High-street, Kensington; Mr. Cole, Blackheath-hill, Greenwich; Mr. T. Machin, 25, Lower Kennington-lane.

June 21, 1849.

THOS. MACHIN, Secretary.

Just published, price 3d.,

THE WESLEY BANNER and REVIVAL RECORD.—Editors—Wesleyan Ministers. Communications addressed to the Rev. S. DUNN, Nottingham.

Contents of the July Number:—Calmness of Wesley—Mrs. Wesley on the Soul—Efficacy of Prayer—Two Sermons—Dixon on American Union and American Conference—The Organs of Sense—The Pope's Breast-plate—Conversation—Revivals of Religion—Qualifications for Class Leaders—Lecture on the Learning of the Antideluvians—Testimonies of Medical Men to Temperance—Natural History—Letters of C. Wesley and A. Clarke—Sketches of Eminent Persons—Reviews—Varieties.

PARTRIDGE and OAKEY, and all Booksellers.

METROPOLITAN and HOME COUNTIES' PERMANENT FREEHOLD LAND SOCIETY, Established in connection with the Metropolitan Financial and Parliamentary Reform Association.

PRESIDENT.

SIR JOSHUA WALMSLEY, M.P.

VICE-PRESIDENTS.

RICHARD COBDEN, Esq., M.P., AND JOSEPH HUME, Esq., M.P.

TREASURERS.

WILLIAM JOHN HALL, Esq., AND WILLIAM ARTHUR WILKINSON, Esq.

OFFICES—11, POULTRY, LONDON.

The chief object of this Society is to qualify its Members to vote at Elections for Counties. For that purpose the accumulated Subscriptions of the Members are employed by the Committee in purchasing Freehold Estates of Considerable extent, and the land so bought is divided into plots of sufficient value to confer the right of voting, and allotted to the Members at cost price; and by these means, owing to the great difference between the wholesale and retail prices of land, the Society is enabled to qualify its Members at less than half the expense usually incurred by individuals.

The Capital is divided into Shares of £30 each, to realize which sum each Member pays an entrance-fee of 1s., and a Monthly Subscription of 4s.; and the surplus profits will from time to time be placed to the credit of the Members, so as to shorten the period of Subscription, which, under no circumstances, will exceed ten years. Of course each Member may subscribe for several Shares, either together or separately, and take qualifications for such Counties as he may prefer; and the frequency of the purchases will also enable the Members, in a great measure, to choose the localities of their Estates in each County.

The allotments will be made at very short intervals, so as to ensure to the earlier Subscribers the full advantage of their priority, and the order of distributing the qualifications among the Members will be determined by ballot; but no Member is obliged to take an allotment of which he does not approve. The qualifications on hand will always be offered to the Members in the order in which their names are drawn from the ballot-box; and any one may, if he think fit, take several adjoining allotments out of one Estate. On the other hand, any Subscriber may decline to purchase any lot offered to him, and wait for future purchases, which may enable him to procure an Estate of a more suitable character, in a more convenient situation, or on preferable terms. Each qualification is expected to cost less than £25.

Each Member's second Subscription will become due on the twenty-eighth day after his enrolment, and each future Subscription at the expiration of every succeeding four weeks; and every Member omitting to pay his Subscription when due will incur a fine of one penny per share per week, until the arrears shall be paid; but the Committee will be empowered, on the application of any Member, to suspend his Subscriptions for a limited time without fines. Members wishing to pay their Subscriptions in advance may do so with advantage; and Subscribers desiring to withdraw from the Society will have liberty to do so, on reasonable notice.

The Franchise is now clearly within the reach of the great body of the working classes, for it may be speedily and cheaply obtained by a subscription of a shilling a week; and the success of the movement may be estimated by the fact that, during the first fifteen days, five hundred and seven Shares have been taken up at the offices of the Society alone.

Copies of the Prospectus may be obtained by application to the Secretary, to whom alone all communications are to be addressed.

By order,

H. TINDAL ATKINSON,

ROBERT RUSSELL,

Honorary Secretaries.

OFFICES, 11, POULTRY,
June 11, 1849.

Just published, price 8d. cloth or 10d. roan.

A SELECTION OF HYMNS and SONGS, suitable for Public and Social Temperance Meetings. Originally compiled by the late Rev. F. BEARDSALL. Fourth Edition, revised and enlarged.

London: HOULSTON and STONEMAN. Manchester: GEORGE HESKETH.

A CATALOGUE OF IPSWICH
TEMPERANCE PUBLICATIONS.

ALL these, whether Books, Tracts, or Hand-bills or Notice Papers, are sold in SIXPENNY PACKETS. Fifty Packets of either will be delivered to any address in London, for a Guinea, sent by Post-office Order to Richard Dykes Alexander, Ipswich; or they may be had of any Bookseller in the country through Simpkin, Marshall, and Co., Stationers-hall-court, London.

IPSWICH JUVENILE TEMPERANCE BOOKS,

ALL WITH PICTURES,

Thirty-two in number, in two ASSORTED Packets.

No. 1—1 to 16. | No. 2—17 to 32.

HAND-BILLS FOR PUBLIC MEETINGS.

Nine inches by six. On the back of each is a Temperance Tract. Fifty for Sixpence.

NOTICE PAPERS.

With the same form as the Hand-bills. The opinions of eminent persons on Teetotalism on the back of each.

Two Hundred for Sixpence.

IPSWICH TEMPERANCE TRACTS.

Those Tracts marked with an * have Pictures.

	Pages.
1 The Doctor Scrutinized, or for what purposes do Physicians prescribe Alcoholic Beverages? By R. D. Alexander, F.L.S., 122 thousand	8
2 Striking Facts, 84 thousand	2
3 Maker and Vender, 44 thousand	2
4 Our Creed, 52 thousand	2
5 Adulterated Beer, 34 thousand	4
6 Adulterated Wine, 40 thousand	4
7 The Maltster, 37 thousand	4
8 Go Feel what I have Felt, 53 thousand	2
9 Facts are stubborn Things, 53 thousand	2
*10 The Spirit Dealer, 35 thousand	2
11 Christian Teetotalism, 70 thousand	2
12 The Trade, 33 thousand	4
13 Alcohol, 33 thousand	4
14 The Town of Ipswich, 33 thousand	4
*15 Song of the Water Drinker, 37 thousand	2
16 Stimulation not Strength, 30 thousand	8
17 Farmer Woodman's Speech, 41 thousand	4
*18 The Beer Barrel Examined, 33 thousand	8
19 Teetotal Recipes, 38 thousand	4
*20 Speech of J. J. Gurney, 30 thousand	4
21 Pity the Poor Drunkard, 43 thousand	2
22 The Fool's Pence, 25 thousand	8
23 Why am I a Teetotaler? 26 thousand	2
*24 Dost thou Smoke, Bill? 34 thousand	4
25 William, the Laudanum Drinker, 30 thousand	4
26 The Ox Discourse	4
27 Letter to the Clergy, by a Brother Clergyman, 21 thousand	20
28 Common Sense, 20 thousand	20
29 Ralph the Soldier	4
30 Testimony of Eminent Physicians, 30 thousand	4
31 The Working Man, 35 thousand	20
32 Is I not happy? by Hugh Stowell, 30 thousand	4
33 David the Shoemaker, 49 thousand	4
34 The Drunken Couple, 48 thousand	2
35 Confessions of a Drunkard, 29 thousand	4
36 Master Tailor, 20 thousand	2
37 The Fatal Gift, 36 thousand	4
38 Poor Sandy	8
39 Use and Abuse, by Archdeacon Jeffries, 34 thousand	2
40 The Schoolmaster	2
41 Water is Best, by J. J. Gurney, 37 thousand	4
42 Cobbett's Advice	4
*43 Take a Public-house	4
*44 A Sailor's Yarn	4
45 Moderate Drinking Calmly Considered	12
46 The Pledge	4
*47 John Jarvis, or the Pledge Signed	13
*48 The Fifteen Friends	4
49 Sunday-School Teachers, 22 thousand	12
50 Sunday-School Children, 40 thousand	12
*51 Money better than Beer, 37 thousand	4
*52 Little Mary or a Daughter's Love	8
53 Philosophy of Temperance, by R. D. Trail, M.D.	20
54 Love to Man, or an Appeal to the Pious	20
*55 The Young Woman's Tract	12
56 The Young Man's Tract	16
57 Dr. Campbell's Testimony, 18 thousand	8
58 Why sign the Pledge? 40 thousand	8
59 The Poor Man's House Repaired	8
60 The Mother's Tract	8
61 The High Price of Food	4
62 Ladies' Tract Societies	8
63 The Praise of Water, 25 thousand	2
64 Important Calculations	2
*65 The Farm Servant, 25 thousand	2

66 Teetotalism Declining, 15 thousand	8
*67 The Reformed Drunkard, 30 thousand	8
68 The Recruit of the British Legion	8
69 No. 1 of Temperance Anecdotes	12
70 No. 2 ditto	12
71 No. 3 ditto	12
72 No. 4 ditto	12
73 Luke Husler; or, "I did not like to say No."	8
74 The Drunkard's Wife	8
75 The Unexplored Island	4
76 Ancient Wines, by R. D. Alexander	8
77 Influence of Example, 15 thousand	2
*78 The Victim of Excitement	20
*79 My Medical Adviser does not approve of Teetotalism	4
*80 The Restoration	8

The following have been published in the year 1848.

	Page.
81 The Use of Intoxicating Drinks explained, by Archdeacon Jeffries	12
*82 Drink and be Happy	4
83 The Five Nips	4
84 The Honest Spirit Dealer's Advertisement	2
85 Seven Years' Experience of a Reclaimed Drunkard	2
*86 The Education of the Drunkard, with 5 pictures	13
*87 A Word with Serious People, by John Bright, M.P.	4
*88 Guide to Glendalough	4
*89 Bridget Larkins	4
90 The Contrast	2
91 Tobacco a Cause of Intemperance	2
*92 The Wedding Night	12
*93 My Chapel	4
*94 The Best Men sometimes Err, by Archdeacon Jeffries	8
*95 The Testimonies of Eight Judges	2
*96 The Drunkard in Rags	2
*97 The Farmer and the Labourer—a Dialogue	4
*98 The Gloucestershire Farmer	4
*99 Strong Drink and Infidelity; or the Last Illness of Wm. Chapman	8
100 Catalogue of Temperance Publications	4
101 The Hertfordshire Farmer, 10 thousand	2
*102 Sunday Schools and Strong Drink	4
103 Confessions of a Publican	2
104 Peter Levison, or the Ruined Minister	4
105 Testimony of John Anzell James, 10 thousand	2
*106 I do not drink Wine, 10 thousand	2
*107 Self-Imposed Burdens, 10 thousand	2
*108 The Craving of a Drunkard	8
*109 Richard H—, or the Poor Orphan Boy	4
*110 Loss of Seven Fishermen	8
111 A Temperance Catechism for Sunday Schools	8
*112 The Mail Coachman, 10 thousand	4
113 The Reformed Family. By Anne Jane Carlile	4
114 Licensing Day at Bolton	4
115 The Stomach of a Drunkard	4
116 Intemperance and Ragged Schools	4
*117 Delirium Tremens	4

The following have been published in the year 1849.

118 The Fire-Escape and the Ship in Danger	4
119 The Sabbath Morn, or an Address to Young Persons on Total Abstinence. By Mary Buchanan	4
*120 Can a Christian keep a Public House—A Dialogue	4
121 The Aged Friend	2
*122 The Village of Newbridge	2
123 The Mirror of Intemperance	4
*124 Alcohol, what it does, and what it cannot do, or the Influence of Alcoholic Drinks on the nutrition of the Body, and in the production of Disease. By Walter Johnson, M.B., with an Appendix by Edward Johnson, M.D.	44
125 Barley, Malt, and Beer Question; or, What shall we do with the Barley. By Dr. F. R. Lees	8
126 Keep away from the Public House	4
127 Poor William—the Wine and Spirit Merchant	8
128 The Hearer to his Minister	4
129 The Merchant's Dream; or, Warning of Remorse	4
130 Address to Females	2
*131 History of J. B. Gough of America	48
132 Leverey's Lecture on the Properties of Malt Liquor	34
*133 My Mother's Gold Ring	4
134 Miraculous Deliverance	4
135 The Drunkard's Dream	2
*136 Archibald Prentice's Speech on Sanitary and Social Means to Political Ends	8

Assorted Packets: No. 1 containing 1 to 30—No. 2, 31 to 53—No. 3, 54 to 72—No. 4, 73 to 100—No. 5, 101 to 126—No. 6, 127 and upwards.

** Loan Tract Covers in Shilling Packets.

☞ Volumes containing the first 100 Tracts, Price 3s.

Just Published, price 1d. The Twentieth Thousand.

MELODIES for the CHILDREN'S TEMPERANCE SOCIETY, or BAND of HOPE. Temperance Verses adapted to popular tunes with a view to interest the Young.
London: HOULSTON and STONEMAN. Leeds: J. KERSHAW, 14, South Market.

FOR SUMMER WEAR.—The Thin Gutta Percha Soles are strongly recommended. They not only resist all wet and moisture, thus preserving the health of the wearer, but being so much thinner than leather, they are extremely light and cool for summer wear.

NOTICE.

The Gutta Percha Company beg to state that when the soles are applied according to their "Directions to Shoemakers," it is impossible for them to come off until worn through, and they therefore urge the public to employ those only who will "warrant" them to adhere. This notice is necessary in consequence of interested parties having intentionally fixed the soles on imperfectly.

TO EMIGRANTS, CAPTAINS, &c.

No one should leave England without providing himself with a stock of Gutta Percha Soles and Solution. The ease with which these soles can be applied in countries where no shoemaker can be found—their power of keeping the feet perfectly dry, thus preserving the body from coughs, colds, &c., in lands where medical advice cannot be had—and their great durability and cheapness, render them invaluable to all who propose sailing to distant countries. Gutta Percha Wash-basins, Chamber-bowls, Bottles, Flasks, &c., are admirably suited for shipboard and emigrants, as they can so readily be converted into life-buoys in the event of a shipwreck.

TO ARCHITECTS, &c.

In consequence of the extraordinary power possessed by Gutta Percha Tubing for propelling sound, it is admirably adapted for conveying messages, &c., in Dwelling Houses, Hotels, Warehouses, Mills, &c. This Tubing is also valuable for conveying Gas, Water, and as Refuse Pipes, being unaffected by acids, alkalies, grease, &c., and not so subject to incrustation or affected by the frost as metal pipes.

MILL BANDS.

The increasing demand for the Gutta Percha strapping for driving-bands, lathe-straps, &c., fully justifies the strong recommendations they have everywhere received.

PUMP BUCKETS, CLACKS, &c.

Few applications of Gutta Percha appear likely to be of such extensive use to Manufacturers, Engineers, &c., as the substitution of it for leather in pump-buckets, valves, &c. These buckets can be had of any size and thickness, without any seam or raised joint. They are unaffected by acids, grease, alkalies, &c. Cold water will never soften them, and they are consequently much more durable than leather, and also cheaper.

GUTTA PERCHA PICTURE FRAMES AND ORNAMENTS.

In imitation of the finest wood carving, suitable for the decoration of houses, cabinet work, &c.

GUTTA PERCHA CRICKET-BALLS

are superior to any others yet invented. They are never softened by the grass, however wet, and being made without any stitching, are not liable to rot like the leather ones.

GUTTA PERCHA BOUNCING BALLS

may be had in every variety of colour.

GUTTA PERCHA CLOTHES-LINES.

Being unaffected by the weather, they may be left out in the open air without sustaining injury.

GUTTA PERCHA WINDOW-BLIND CORD

is easily joined by heating the ends. Does not contract and expand like the ordinary cord. It may be had of various colours.

Every other variety of Gutta Percha articles, such as Brackets, Pen-trays, Inkstands, Medallions, Surgical Instruments, Vases, Trays, Watch-stands, Cups, Flasks, Lathe Bands, Clothes-line, Cricket and Bouncing Balls, Pump Buckets, Galvanic Batteries, Chamber-bowls, Washing-basins, Cash-bowls, Ornamental Flower-pots and Stands, Soap-dishes, Electric Telegraph Wire, &c., are manufactured at Wharf-road, City-road, London, and sold by their dealers in town and country.

TEMPERANCE MISSIONARY.

THE COMMITTEE of the LEICESTER TEMPERANCE SOCIETY are desirous of engaging a well-qualified person to act as MISSIONARY in that town.

The Committee are anxious that the gratifying progress which the Temperance Cause is making in Leicester may be continued; and they are desirous that the Missionary, whose services they propose to engage to assist them, should be thoroughly competent and experienced.

In addition to the domiciliary visitation, &c., the Agent will be expected to take part in conducting the Public Meetings of the Society.

The Committee are prepared to offer a liberal salary.—Applications, with Testimonials enclosed, to be addressed to "The Committee of the Temperance Society, 26, Granby-street, Leicester."

RE-ISSUE OF THE "TEMPERANCE GAZETTE."

This day is published, price 1d., the First Number of a New Series of

THE CENTRAL TEMPERANCE GAZETTE.—This Number contains an able article, written expressly for the GAZETTE by Dr. F. R. LEES.

THE CENTRAL TEMPERANCE GAZETTE is the same size and price as the TREETOTAL TIMES.

All Communications and Advertisements for the next Number must be addressed to Mr. R. Wakelin, Coventry.

London: W. TWEDDIE, 3, Falcon-street, Aldersgate-street, and all Booksellers.

Price 2d., or by post 3d.,

CAUTIONS and TESTIMONY against ODD FELLOWSHIP. By H. MUDGE, Surgeon, Bodmin.

Also, price 2s., or by post 2s. 6d., by the same author,

EXPOSURE of ODD FELLOWSHIP; showing its immoral tendency and bankrupt circumstances, and containing as well a large amount of information on the subject of Friendly Societies.

WHITTAKER, London; LIDDELL, Bodmin.

TEMPERANCE PUBLICATIONS.

THE TREETOTAL ESSAYIST; or, MONTHLY TEMPERANCE STANDARD, for 1847. Price One Shilling.

This forms the most interesting and important publication that has ever been issued from the Temperance Press. As but very few sets remain on hand, an early application will be necessary.

Sixteenth Thousand.

INTEMPERANCE the IDOLATRY of BRITAIN.

By the Rev. W. R. BAKER, author of the "Curse of Britain," &c. It is admitted by the most eminent of the religious reviewers, as well as by all who have read it, that there never was a work upon the Temperance Question more calculated to carry conviction to the mind of a thoughtful reader as the danger and iniquity of the drinking system. That it may have a very extensive circulation, this new and revised edition is published at Threepence—the price of the former editions was 2s. 6d.

LIVESEY'S FAMOUS MALT LECTURE, including a complete exposure of the great delusion as to the properties of Malt Liquors. Formerly published at Sixpence. A new edition for ONE PENNY.

THE BEST OF MEN SOMETIMES IN ERROR. By ARCHDEACON JEFFREYS, of Bombay. The object of this incomparable Essay is to show that the advocates of the Total Abstinence system have the full warrant of Scripture for their labour of mercy and love. 1s. 4d. per 100.

DR. NOTT'S LECTURES.

NATURE AND PROVIDENCE.—REPLYING to the QUESTION, WHAT IS the DUTY of MAN in RELATION to the USE of INTOXICATING LIQUORS? In four eloquent and powerful LECTURES. By ELIPHALET NOTT, D.D., LL.D., President of Union College, New York. Carefully revised, with an Appendix. In 32 very closely-printed pages, crown octavo, price One Penny.

SUNDAY SCHOOL PRIZE TRACTS.

Price 1s. 4d. per 100.

THE IMPORTANCE of the TEMPERANCE MOVEMENT, in its bearings on Sunday Schools.

THE YOUNG, the HOPE of the TEMPERANCE REFORMATION.

THE CHRISTIAN'S SPIRITUAL SONG-BOOK, containing 500 spiritual songs adapted to popular tunes. By the Rev. JOHN STAMP. Embossed cambric, 1s. 6d.

TEMPERANCE HYMNS and SONGS; Devotional, Moral, and Social. Selected and revised by J. W. GREEN. Embossed leather, 1s.; stiff paper covers, 6d.

THE TREETOTALER'S HYMN-BOOK. Selected and revised by J. W. GREEN. 1d.

B. L. GREEN, 62, Paternoster-row.

JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEES.

THE ESTABLISHMENT of JOHN CASSELL is the largest in the Kingdom, and the demand created for his Coffee is wholly unparalleled. This has not arisen from his professing to send out any new, peculiarly "prepared," or "patented" article, but simply from his having placed within the reach of all Families Coffees of the world's finest growths, possessing richness, mellowness, and strength of flavour not to be surpassed, and at moderate prices. It is a fact, that wherever JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEES are introduced, their continued use is secured. These Coffees are made up in sealed air-tight Packages, containing two ounces, quarter and half pounds, and also in Canisters containing one or two pounds, and, to PREVENT IMPOSITION, every Package or Canister bears the signature of "JOHN CASSELL," without which none can be genuine. The following are the prices at which they can be obtained:—

JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, No. 1, . . . . .	1s. 4d.
An excellent Article.
JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, No. 2, . . . . .	1s. 8d.
Cannot fail to give great satisfaction, being a combination of the choicest growths of Jamaica, possessing richness, strength, and flavour.
JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, No. 3, . . . . .	2s. 0d.
To every Connoisseur in Coffee this will prove a treat, combining the finest mountain-growths of both Jamaica and Turkey.

JOHN CASSELL'S FIVE SHILLING TEA.

This is a combination of the finest and most carefully-selected Teas, the produce of choice, young, and tender plants. It possesses not only strength, but a peculiar and delicious fragrance, which cannot fail to render it pleasant to the most fastidious palate and to the exquisite taste of the connoisseur. This may be had either wholly Black or Black and Green mixed. It is sold in Catty Packages only, containing from two ounces to one pound; and every package bears the signature of "JOHN CASSELL," without which none can be genuine.

No. 80, FENCHURCH-STREET.

THIRTIETH THOUSAND.

THE PROTESTANT DISSENTERS'

ALMANACK, Price 3d., for 1849, containing, besides the usual Calendar and other information pertaining to Almanacks—Liberty of Conscience—Retrospect of 1848—Separation of Church and State—State Churchism—Political Dissenters—Opposition to Anti-State Church Principle—Civil Authority Anti-Christian—Who is Head of the Church?—National Hypocrisy—Freedom of Mind—Error of a State Church—State Incorporation of Christianity—Property of State Church—Political Churches—Important Divorce—Machinery of State Church—Government and Education—State Church cause of Infidelity—Endowment of Seats—Civil Magistrate's Office—State Church a Failure—State Endowments—The True Church—Endowed Charities—Apostolical Succession—Prelates bad Councillors—English Regium Donum—Precious Proliferate Seed—Nonconformity a blessing—Irish Regium Donum—Persecution Anti-Christian—Value of Time—Opposition to Endowment of Popish Priests—Royal Family, Ministers, &c.—Anti-State Church Association—May Meetings—State of Education—Denominational Statistics:—England: Congregationalists, Baptists, Methodists, Presbyterians, Unitarians, and Catholics—Scotland—Wales—Nonconformist Chapels—Various Institutions—Concluding Address.

London: JOHN SNOW, 35, Paternoster-row. Edinburgh: ZEIGLER, South Bridge. Glasgow: GALLIE, Buchanan-street; and may be had of all Booksellers.

LIVERPOOL FINANCIAL REFORM TRACTS.

Just Published, price 1d. each,

THE LIVERPOOL FINANCIAL REFORM TRACTS.

- No. 1.—CIVIL LIST.
- No. 2.—PENSION LIST.
- No. 3.—TAXATION.
- No. 4.—The ARMY, ORDNANCE, COMMISSARIAT, NAVY, COLONIES.
- No. 5.—Ditto, Ditto.
- No. 6.—The NATIONAL BUDGET for 1849, by RICHARD COBDEN, Esq., M.P., in a Letter to Robertson Gladstone, Esq., President of the Financial Reform Association of Liverpool; with a Report of the Public Meeting held at the Concert Hall, Liverpool, December 20, 1848, at which the Budget was announced to the Nation.
- No. 7.—The ARMY, ORDNANCE, COMMISSARIAT, NAVY, COLONIES. The Army Clothing, together with Major-Gen. Sir Wm. Napier's attack on the Association, and their Reply.
- No. 8.—The WOODS, FORESTS, and ESTATES of the CROWN.
- No. 9.—The DEAD WEIGHT of the ARMY.
- No. 10.—The NAVY.
- No. 11 & 12.—Sir W. MOLESWORTH on the COLONIES.
- No. 13.—The NAVY.

Published at the Office of the STANDARD OF FREEDOM, 335, Strand, London; and sold by all Booksellers.

DR CHEYNE'S COUGH and PULMONIC

LOZENGES.—The merits of this agreeable and efficacious remedy for colds, coughs, hoarseness, difficulty of breathing, and asthmatic and consumptive complaints, are daily made more and more apparent. All persons suffering from the above, or similar complaints, will do well immediately to test the efficacy of these Lozenges. They give instant relief, by promoting free expectoration, and preventing an undue accumulation of phlegm, at the same time that they allay the sensation of tickling in the throat, and fear of suffocation, and prevent those violent paroxysms of coughing, which are so distressing and dangerous. These Lozenges may be taken without any fear of disordering the stomach. On the contrary, they operate as a tonic, and materially strengthen the digestive organs.

Sold in Boxes at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., and 4s. 6d. each, by Messrs. Sutton, 10, Bow Church-yard; Barclay's, 95, Farringdon-street; Edwards, 67, St. Paul's Church-yard; Dietrichson and Co., 63, Oxford-street; Sanger, 150, Oxford-street; Willoughby, 95, Bishopsgate-street Without; Johnson, 68, Cornhill; King, 34, Napier-street, Hoxton; and by at least one Agent in every town throughout the kingdom.

Now ready, in demy 8vo., containing 32 pages, price 2d.,

THE GREAT MILITARY AND NAVAL

PARLIAMENT; being an Analysis of both our Houses of Parliament: showing, from a careful examination of the Red-Books of the Aristocracy themselves, the true secret of the constant increase in our Military and Naval expenditure, in a STANDING MAJORITY in both Houses of nearly 300 members directly connected with the war system. No such dissection of our Legislative body has hitherto been made; and it may safely be said that no man, till he has gone over this list of 700 Members of Parliament connected with the military system by appointment, marriage, or consanguinity, is at all aware of the real character of the body that governs us.

Now ready, in demy 8vo., containing 40 pages, price 3d.,

OUR GREAT STATE-CHURCH PARLIAMENT; an

Analysis of both Houses of Parliament: showing that there are in the two Houses 700 direct holders and dealers in Churches and Church influence, with a STANDING MAJORITY of 154 devoted to the maintenance of the present Ecclesiastical system. In a former publication, entitled the "Great Military and Naval Parliament," it is shown that the Government, both of the Cabinet and the Senate, consists of a majority of soldiers. In the present work another view is taken of them, and they are now presented again as proprietors of the State-church.

Published at the Office of the STANDARD OF FREEDOM, 335, Strand; CHARLES GILPIN, Bishopsgate-street; and to be had of all Booksellers.

Printed by WILLIAM CATHRALL, of 59, Albany-road, Camberwell, Surrey, at his Printing Office, 335, Strand, London.

MONDAY, July 2, 1849.

THE
TEETOTAL TIMES
AND ESSAYIST.

PUBLISHED MONTHLY.

No. XX.—NEW SERIES.]

LONDON, AUGUST, 1849.

{ Price One Penny.
{ Stamped, Twopence.

THE WESLEYAN CONFERENCE.—

During the sittings of the Wesleyan Conference at Manchester, THE WESLEYAN TIMES will be published twice a week for three weeks, on the evenings of Monday and Wednesday of the following dates:—July 23, 25, and 30; and August 1, 6, 8, and 14. The paper of Monday, the 23rd inst., the first of the Conference series, contains Reports of the various Committees. That of Wednesday the 25th contains the election of the President and Secretary, which took place on that day. The demand will be unusually large; and to secure the seven "Conference Papers" (which will be sent by post) it is requested that 2s. 8d. in Postage Stamps be forwarded direct to the office, of THE WESLEYAN TIMES, 59, Fleet-street, London.

ADVERTISERS desirous of availing themselves of the unprecedented circulation which the above series will be sure to command, are requested to send their advertisements forthwith.

Just published, price 3d.,

THE AGE THAT'S COMING; or, The MODEL PARISH the HOPE of the NATION. By PETER BURNE, Author of the "Teetotaler's Companion."

"In the countries I have visited I never saw a city or a village yet where miseries were not in proportion to the number of public-houses."—Goldsmith.

London: ARTHUR HALL and CO., and all Booksellers.

"THE TEMPERANCE CYCLOPEDIA."

In one handsome volume, illustrated with Dr. Sewall's celebrated coloured plates of the Stomach, royal 8vo, cloth, price 8s.; with the Wine Question, 9s. 6d.; also (re-issued) in Nos., 2½d. each, and in Parts, 9d. each.

THE TEETOTALER'S COMPANION:

being an Exposition of the Evils resulting from the general custom of drinking intoxicating liquors, which are considered in a personal, domestic, and national point of view; and the custom itself, in its relation to social, moral, religious, physical, mental, commercial, and political economy; with the benefits that would result from the national adoption of total abstinence. By PETER BURNE.

"This work constitutes the most copious, various, complete, and systematic view of the great subject anywhere to be found. It ought to have been designated "The Temperance Cyclopaedia." Both the matter and form of the work are of a character to sustain an appellation of such dignity. While Mr. Burne has performed his part in a manner which entitles him to the thanks of his country, Mr. Burton also has amply sustained him by his highly workmanlike typography."—Christian Witness.

London: ARTHUR HALL and CO. Ipswich: J. M. BURTON.

Price 2d., or by post 3d.,

CAUTIONS and TESTIMONY against ODD FELLOWSHIP. By H. MUDGE, Surgeon, Bodmin.

Also, price 2s., or by post 2s. 6d., by the same author,

EXPOSURE of ODD FELLOWSHIP; showing its immoral tendency and bankrupt circumstances, and containing as well a large amount of information on the subject of Friendly Societies.

WHITTAKER, London; LIDDELL, Bodmin.

Lately published, price 3d., to be had by order of all Booksellers, and from Ipswich for five stamps,

ALCOHOL: WHAT IT DOES, and WHAT IT CANNOT DO; or the influence of Alcoholic Drinks on the Nutrition of the Body, and in the production of Disease. By WALTER JOHNSON, M.B.; with an Appendix by EDWARD JOHNSON, M.D., Author of "Life, Health, and Disease."

London: SIMPKIN, MARSHALL, and CO. Ipswich: J. M. BURTON.

Just published, price 6d., a new and correct edition,

SIX LECTURES on the PHILOSOPHY of MESMERISM. By JOHN BOVEE DODS, of Boston, U.S. London: SIMPKIN, MARSHALL, and CO. Ipswich: J. M. BURTON.

METROPOLITAN and HOME COUNTIES' PERMANENT FREEHOLD LAND SOCIETY, Established in connection with the Metropolitan Financial and Parliamentary Reform Association.

PRESIDENT.

SIR JOSHUA WALMSLEY, M.P.

VICE-PRESIDENTS.

RICHARD COBDEN, Esq., M.P., AND JOSEPH HUME, Esq., M.P.

TREASURERS.

WILLIAM JOHN HALL, Esq., AND WILLIAM ARTHUR WILKINSON, Esq.

OFFICES—11, POULTRY, LONDON.

The chief object of this Society is to qualify its Members to vote at Elections for Counties. For that purpose the accumulated Subscriptions of the Members are employed by the Committee in purchasing Freehold Estates of Considerable extent, and the land so bought is divided into plots of sufficient value to confer the right of voting, and allotted to the Members at cost price; and by these means, owing to the great difference between the wholesale and retail prices of land, the Society is enabled to qualify its Members at less than half the expense usually incurred by individuals.

The Capital is divided into Shares of £30 each, to realize which sum each Member pays an entrance-fee of 1s., and a Monthly Subscription of 4s.; and the surplus profits will from time to time be placed to the credit of the Members, so as to shorten the period of Subscription, which, under no circumstances, will exceed ten years. Of course each Member may subscribe for several Shares, either together or separately, and take qualifications for such Counties as he may prefer; and the frequency of the purchases will also enable the Members, in a great measure, to choose the localities of their Estates in each County.

The allotments will be made at very short intervals, so as to ensure to the earlier Subscribers the full advantage of their priority, and the order of distributing the qualifications among the Members will be determined by ballot; but no Member is obliged to take an allotment of which he does not approve. The qualifications on hand will always be offered to the Members in the order in which their names are drawn from the ballot-box; and any one may, if he think fit, take several adjoining allotments out of one Estate. On the other hand, any Subscriber may decline to purchase any lot offered to him, and wait for future purchases, which may enable him to procure an Estate of a more suitable character, in a more convenient situation, or on preferable terms. Each qualification is expected to cost less than £25.

Each Member's second Subscription will become due on the twenty-eighth day after his enrolment, and each future Subscription at the expiration of every succeeding four weeks; and every Member omitting to pay his Subscription when due will incur a fine of one penny per share per week, until the arrears shall be paid; but the Committee will be empowered, on the application of any Member, to suspend his Subscriptions for a limited time without fines. Members wishing to pay their Subscriptions in advance may do so with advantage; and Subscribers desiring to withdraw from the Society will have liberty to do so, on reasonable notice.

The Franchise is now clearly within the reach of the great body of the working classes, for it may be speedily and cheaply obtained by a subscription of a shilling a week; and the success of the movement may be estimated by the fact that, during the first fifteen days, five hundred and seven Shares have been taken up at the offices of the Society alone.

Copies of the Prospectus may be obtained by application to the Secretary, to whom alone all communications are to be addressed.

By order,

H. TINDAL ATKINSON,
ROBERT RUSSELL,
Honorary Secretaries.

OFFICES, 11, POULTRY,
June 11, 1849.

TEMPERANCE PUBLICATIONS.

THE TEETOTAL ESSAYIST; or, MONTHLY TEMPERANCE STANDARD, for 1847. Price One Shilling.

CONTENTS:—

Teetotalism essential to the Elevation of the Working Classes. By D. G. Paine.
 The Temperance Movement in its important bearings on the Sanitary condition of the People. By Thomas Beggs.
 Total Abstinence from Strong Drinks important to Female Honour and Happiness. By D. G. Paine.
 Tom Rudge and his Friend: showing what Tom lost by "that last Glass of Brandy-and-water." By Mrs. S. C. Hall.
 Appeal to Females in behalf of the Total Abstinence Movement. By Dr. E. Nott, President of Union College, New York.
 The Worn Thimble; a Story of Woman's Duty and Woman's Influence. By Mrs. S. C. Hall.
 Important Medical Testimony; with several hundred signatures. Christian Duty; or the importance of the Temperance Reformation in connexion with the maintenance and spread of Christianity. By F. W. Wheeler, Missionary.
 The Moral Obligation of Total Abstinence. By Evan Jones.
 Intemperance the Antagonist of Education. By W. R. Baker.
 The Duty of Sabbath-school Teachers in regard to Total Abstinence. By Evan Jones.
 Reasons why Sabbath-school Teachers should be Teetotals. By Michael Young.
 Bearings of the Temperance Question on the Interest of the Young. By W. Reid.
 The Drinking System and Juvenile Delinquency. By Thomas Beggs.
 Aids to the Evangelical Alliance in its inquiry as to the Connexion between Infidelity and Teetotalism. With testimonies of upwards of Seventy Ministers and Gentlemen.
 The Evils of Moderate Drinking. By Evan Jones.
 The Inconsistency of those Christians and Philanthropists who sanction the use of Intoxicating Liquors. By D. G. Paine.
 Address to Moderate Drinkers. By Elisha Burritt.
 The Temperance Movement:—its past history—present position—future prospects and connexion with other great movements of the age. By Thomas Beggs.
 This forms the most interesting and important publication that has ever been issued from the Temperance Press. As but very few sets remain on hand, an early application will be necessary.

Sixteenth Thousand.

INTEMPERANCE the IDOLATRY of BRITAIN.

By the Rev. W. R. BAKER, author of the "Curse of Britain," &c. It is admitted by the most eminent of the religious reviewers, as well as by all who have read it, that there never was a work upon the Temperance Question more calculated to carry conviction to the mind of a thoughtful reader as the danger and iniquity of the drinking system. That it may have a very extensive circulation, this new and revised edition is published at Three-pence;—the price of the former editions was 2s. 6d. The usual allowance will be made to societies, or persons taking a quantity.

DR. NOTT'S LECTURES.

NATURE AND PROVIDENCE.—REPLYING to the QUESTION, WHAT IS the DUTY of MAN in RELATION to the USE of INTOXICATING LIQUORS? In four eloquent and powerful LECTURES. By ELIPHALET NOTT, D.D., LL.D., President of Union College, New York. Carefully revised, with an Appendix. In 32 very closely-printed pages, crown octavo, price One Penny.

LIVESEY'S FAMOUS MALT LECTURE, including a complete exposure of the great delusion as to the properties of Malt Liquors. Formerly published at Sixpence. A new edition for ONE PENNY.

THE BEST OF MEN SOMETIMES IN ERROR.

By ARCHDEACON JEFFREYS, of Bombay. The object of this incomparable Essay is to show that the advocates of the Total Abstinence system have the full warrant of Scripture for their labour of mercy and love. The style in which this sentiment is reasoned is such as to carry conviction to all who profess to be influenced by the law of love. 1s. 4d. per 100.

SUNDAY SCHOOL PRIZE TRACTS.

Price 1s. 4d. per 100.

THE IMPORTANCE of the TEMPERANCE MOVEMENT, in its bearings on Sunday Schools.

THE YOUNG, the HOPE of the TEMPERANCE REFORMATION.

THE CHRISTIAN'S SPIRITUAL SONG-BOOK, containing 500 spiritual songs adapted to popular tunes. By the Rev. JOHN STAMP. Embossed cambric, 1s. 6d.

TEMPERANCE HYMNS and SONGS; Devotional, Moral, and Social. Selected and revised by J. W. GREEN. Embossed leather, 1s.; stiff paper covers, 6d.

THE TEETOTALER'S HYMN-BOOK. Selected and revised by J. W. GREEN. 1d.

B. L. GREEN, 62, Paternoster-row.

Just ready, price 6d.,

CONFESSIONS of a CONVERT from TEETOTALISM to TEMPERANCE. By THOMAS SMEETON, formerly Teetotal Advocate. Ipswich: J. M. BURTON. London: SIMPKIN, MARSHALL, and CO.

TO WESLEYAN LOCAL PREACHERS.

PRELIMINARY ANNOUNCEMENT.

THE PROPRIETOR of THE WESLEYAN TIMES proposes offering TWO PRIZES, of FIFTY POUNDS and TWENTY-FIVE POUNDS respectively, for the Two best ESSAYS on "THE WESLEYAN LOCAL MINISTRY—its origin, scriptural character, and adaptation to the spiritual wants of the age, exhibiting its past success and present position, with suggestions for its future and more extensive usefulness." To BE WRITTEN BY LOCAL PREACHERS ONLY. The proposer respectfully solicits letters from the brethren on the subject prior to the publication of the prospectus, which is in course of preparation. They may be addressed to the EDITORS of THE WESLEYAN TIMES, 59, Fleet-street, London.

Now ready, price 1d., in royal 8vo,

WESLEYAN METHODISM: a Review of the "Papers on Wesleyan Matters," and "The Fly-Sheets Vindicated;" with an account of the District Meeting, proceedings against the Rev. Messrs. Burdall, Dunn, Everett, and Walton: to which is added a brief notice of the fifth and last "Paper on Wesleyan Matters."

May be had at the Office of the "STANDARD OF FREEDOM," 335, Strand; and of B. L. GREEN, Paternoster-row.

THE PEOPLE'S ALMANACK for 1850

will be ready shortly.—THE BEST ALMANACK EVER PUBLISHED AT ONE PENNY.—With excellent engravings, emblematic of the Progress of Reforms, Political, Social, and Moral. Besides the usual Calendar, List of Fairs, Stamp Duties, Weather Table, &c., it will contain short original Essays on what the People of England should be as regards Freedom—Intelligence—Health—Industry—Riches—Providence for the Future—Peacefulness—Equitable Taxation—Due Representation—Sobriety—and General Happiness; with illustrative Statistics, &c. This Almanack will fully justify its claim to the title of "THE PEOPLE'S ALMANACK," forming a Compendium of the People's Privileges and Duties, and a useful Family Companion. Neatly printed on thirty-two octavo pages, price ONE PENNY.

A LIBERAL ALLOWANCE will be made to the Trade, who are requested to send in their orders IMMEDIATELY.

London: VICKERS, Holywell-street, Strand; GREEN, Paternoster-row.

JUVENILE DEPRAVITY. £100 PRIZE ESSAY.

Now ready, in 1 vol., post 8vo, price 5s.,

THE PRIZE ESSAY on JUVENILE DEPRAVITY. By the Rev. H. WORSLEY A.M., Easton Rectory, Suffolk.

To this essay on juvenile depravity, as connected with the causes and practices of intemperance, and the effectual barrier opposed by them to education, the above prize of £100 was awarded by the adjudicators, Dr. Harris, of Cheshunt; the Rev. James Sherman, Surrey Chapel; and Dr. Vaughan, of Harrow.

Now ready, in 1 vol. 8vo, price 5s.,

AN INQUIRY into the EXTENT and CAUSES of JUVENILE DEPRAVITY. Dedicated by special permission to the Right Hon. the Earl of Carlisle. By THOMAS BEGGS, late Secretary of the Health of Towns Association, and author of "Lectures on the Moral Elevation of the People."

London: CHARLES GILPIN, 5, Bishopsgate-street-without.

TESTIMONIAL TO MR. T. A. SMITH.

THOSE FRIENDS of TEETOTALISM who wish to manifest their esteem for the services of Mr. T. A. SMITH are requested to forward their Subscriptions to any of the following gentlemen, as a List of Subscriptions will appear in the TEETOTAL TIMES of next month (September):—

Wm. Cash, Esq., Peckham (Treasurer); John Cassell, Esq., 80, Fenchurch-street; Dr. Gourlay, 4, Euston-square; Temperance Provident Institution, 39, Moorgate-street; Rev. I. Duxsey, National Temperance Office, Token-house-yard; Mr. West, 1, Cambridge-terrace, Clapham-road; Messrs. Wilson and Campbell, Blackfriars-road; Mr. J. W. Green; Mr. Spriggs, 14, Brook-street, Lambeth; Mr. Tisdale, High-street, Kensington; Mr. Cole, Blackheath-hill, Greenwich; Mr. T. Machin, 25, Lower Kennington-lane.

25, Lower Kennington-lane, THOS. MACHIN, Secretary.
 July 23, 1849.

FOR SUMMER WEAR.—The Thin Gutta Percha Soles are strongly recommended. They not only resist all wet and moisture, thus preserving the health of the wearer, but being so much thinner than leather, they are extremely light and cool for summer wear.

NOTICE.

The Gutta Percha Company beg to state that when the soles are applied according to their "Directions to Shoemakers," it is impossible for them to come off until worn through, and they therefore urge the public to employ those only who will "warrant" them to adhere. This notice is necessary in consequence of interested parties having intentionally fixed the soles on imperfectly.

TO EMIGRANTS, CAPTAINS, &c.

No one should leave England without providing himself with a stock of Gutta Percha Soles and Solution. The ease with which these soles can be applied in countries where no shoemaker can be found—their power of keeping the feet perfectly dry, thus preserving the body from coughs, colds, &c., in lands where medical advice cannot be had—and their great durability and cheapness, render them invaluable to all who propose sailing to distant countries. Gutta Percha Wash-basins, Chamber-bowls, Bottles, Flasks, &c., are admirably suited for shipboard and emigrants, as they can so readily be converted into life-buoys in the event of a shipwreck.

TO ARCHITECTS, &c.

In consequence of the extraordinary power possessed by Gutta Percha Tubing for propelling sound, it is admirably adapted for conveying messages, &c., in Dwelling Houses, Hotels, Warehouses, Mills, &c. This Tubing is also valuable for conveying Gas, Water, and as Refuse Pipes, being unaffected by acids, alkalies, grease, &c., and not so subject to incrustation or affected by the frost as metal pipes.

MILL BANDS.

The increasing demand for the Gutta Percha strapping for driving-bands, lathe-straps, &c., fully justifies the strong recommendations they have everywhere received.

PUMP BUCKETS, CLACKS, &c.

Few applications of Gutta Percha appear likely to be of such extensive use to Manufacturers, Engineers, &c., as the substitution of it for leather in pump-buckets, valves, &c. These buckets can be had of any size and thickness, without any seam or raised joint. They are unaffected by acids, grease, alkalies, &c. Cold water will never soften them, and they are consequently much more durable than leather, and also cheaper.

GUTTA PERCHA PICTURE FRAMES AND ORNAMENTS.

In imitation of the finest wood carving, suitable for the decoration of houses, cabinet work, &c.

GUTTA PERCHA CRICKET-BALLS

are superior to any others yet invented. They are never softened by the grass, however wet, and being made without any stitching, are not liable to rot like the leather ones.

GUTTA PERCHA BOUNCING BALLS

may be had in every variety of colour.

GUTTA PERCHA CLOTHES-LINES.

Being unaffected by the weather, they may be left out in the open air without sustaining injury.

GUTTA PERCHA WINDOW-BLIND CORD

is easily joined by heating the ends. Does not contract and expand like the ordinary cord. It may be had of various colours.

Every other variety of Gutta Percha articles, such as Brackets, Pen-trays, Ink-stands, Medallions, Surgical Instruments, Vases, Trays, Watch-stands, Cups, Flasks, Lathe Bands, Clothes-line, Cricket and Bouncing Balls, Pump Buckets, Galvanic Batteries, Chamber-bowls, Washing-basins, Cash-bowls, Ornamental Flower-pots and Stands, Soap-dishes, Electric Telegraph Wire, &c., are manufactured at Wharf-road, City-road, London, and sold by their dealers in town and country.

THIRTIETH THOUSAND.

THE PROTESTANT DISSIDENTS'

ALMANACK, Price 3d., for 1849, containing, besides the usual Calendar and other information pertaining to Almanacks—Liberty of Conscience—Retrospect of 1848—Separation of Church and State—State Churchism—Political Dissenters—Opposition to Anti-State Church Principle—Civil Authority Anti-Christian—Who is Head of the Church?—National Hypocrisy—Freedom of Mind—Error of a State Church—State Incorporation of Christianity—Property of State Church—Political Churches—Important Divorce—Machinery of State Church—Government and Education—State Church cause of Infidelity—Endowment of Sects—Civil Magistrate's Office—State Church a Failure—State Endowments—The True Church—Endowed Charities—Apostolical Succession—Prelates bad Councillors—English Regium Donum—Precious Prolific Seed—Nonconformity a blessing—Irish Regium Donum—Persecution Anti-Christian—Value of Time—Opposition to Endowment of Popish Priests—Royal Family, Ministers, &c.—Anti-State Church Association—May Meetings—State of Education—Denominational Statistics.—England: Congregationalists, Baptists, Methodists, Presbyterians, Unitarians, and Catholics—Scotland—Wales—Nonconformist Chapels—Various Institutions—Concluding Address.

London: JOHN SNOW, 35, PATERNOSTER-ROW. Edinburgh: ZEIGLER, South Bridge. Glasgow: GALLIE, Buchanan-street; and may be had of all Booksellers.

DR. CHEYNE'S COUGH AND PULMONIC

LOZENGES.—The fame of these Lozenges is fully established as the most pleasant and efficacious remedy that can be employed for the removal of coughs. To the asthmatic, or those who are afflicted with a difficulty of breathing, or a redundancy of phlegm, they give instant relief, by causing free expectoration. They allay the irritation attendant on all affections of the throat, and strengthen the lungs to resist the effects of sudden changes. They remove hoarseness and greatly improve the voice. They arrest, in its incipient stages, that fearful result of our variable atmosphere—consumption; and for diseases of the pulmonary organs a more safe and salutary remedy cannot be applied. For aged persons they are invaluable, and none, whose lungs are in the least degree susceptible of cold, ought to be without them. They afford relief in every case of cough, and where there is no physical disorganization they will effect a cure.

From the numerous TESTIMONIALS as to the value and efficacy of Dr. Cheyne's Cough and Pulmonic Lozenges, the following are selected:—

From Mr. John Noble, Bookseller, Agent at Boston.

Boston, March 18, 1848.

DEAR SIR,—A gentleman has just communicated to me such a remarkable cure of spasmodic asthma, of many years' standing, that I forward it to you for publication. He has frequently been laid aside from his business, and during the last winter was confined to his house for nine weeks, during which time he could not lie down in bed. Being induced to try Dr. Cheyne's Cough and Pulmonic Lozenges, he has experienced from them such a cure as he did not think possible. During six weeks that he has taken these invaluable Lozenges, his health has been better than for the last ten years. He can now lie down and sleep comfortably, enjoying his rest in bed from eight or nine at night until five in the morning. Instead of being confined to his room or bed, he says:—"I can now walk all round my farm, and attend to my business, with ease and comfort. I consulted many of the most eminent medical practitioners in the neighbourhood without avail; nothing ever made an impression on my complaint until I tried these Lozenges."

I asked for a Testimonial, but he said, "Having four medical men relatives, he could not allow his name to be published." However, I obtained his permission to furnish this statement, which is nearly verbatim as delivered by him. Hoping this "plain, unvarnished tale" may stimulate other sufferers to try this valuable remedy.

I remain, dear Sir, truly yours,

JOHN NOBLE.

To the Proprietor of Cheyne's Lozenges. JOHN NOLLE.

From the Rev. J. Crampin, Baptist Minister, Strettham, Isle of Ely.

"I am compelled to say that, after nearly twenty years public speaking, I have never yet met with anything so effectually easing to the chest—so unobnoxious to the lungs—and so clearing to the voice, as Dr. Cheyne's Cough and Pulmonic Lozenges. I have used but one box, but such is their pleasantness and usefulness, that I would not be without them for ten times their cost."

To Mr. J. Everington, Church-street, Gainsborough.

"Sir,—I have been afflicted for years with a bad cough. I could not sleep at night, and sometimes coughed to that degree that the neighbours thought I should break a blood-vessel. I was induced to try a box of Dr. Cheyne's Lozenges, which was purchased at your shop; and after taking ten Lozenges, my cough left me. I give you leave to publish this statement for the benefit of others.—Blyton, near Gainsborough. "JANE HUNT."

CAUTION.—As a variety of Lozenges, Wafers, and Tablets are advertised, containing ingredients of an injurious nature, the public are particularly requested to ask for DR. CHEYNE'S COUGH AND PULMONIC LOZENGES, and to observe that the words, "DR. CHEYNE'S COUGH LOZENGES," are engraved on the Government Stamp, which, with Directions for Use, is wrapped round each box.

Sold in Boxes at 1s. 1d., and 2s. 6d., each, by Messrs. Sutton, 10, Bow Church-yard; Barclay's, 95, Farringdon-street; Edwards, 67, St. Paul's Church-yard; Dickinson and Co., 63, Oxford-street; Sanger, 150, Oxford-street; Johnson, 68, Cornhill; King, 34, Napier-street, Hoxton; Bolton and Co., York; Baines and Co., Edinburgh; and by at least one Agent in every town throughout the United Kingdom.

JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEES.

THE ESTABLISHMENT of JOHN CASSELL is the largest in the Kingdom, and the demand created for his Coffee is wholly unparalleled. This has not arisen from his professing to send out any new, peculiarly "prepared," or "patented" article, but simply from his having placed within the reach of all Families Coffees of the world's finest growths, possessing richness, mellowness, and strength of flavour not to be surpassed, and at moderate prices. It is a fact, that wherever JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEES are introduced, their continued use is secured. These Coffees are made up in sealed air-tight Packages, containing two ounces, quarter and half pounds, and also in Canisters containing one or two pounds, and, to PREVENT IMPOSITION, every Package or Canister bears the signature of "JOHN CASSELL," without which none can be genuine. The following are the prices at which they can be obtained:—

JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, No. 1, . . . . . 1s. 4d.
An excellent Article.

JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, No. 2, . . . . . 1s. 8d.
Cannot fail to give great satisfaction, being a combination of the choicest growths of Jamaica, possessing richness, strength, and flavour.

JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, No. 3, . . . . . 2s. 0d.
To every Connoisseur in Coffee this will prove a treat, combining the finest mountain-growths of both Jamaica and Turkey.

JOHN CASSELL'S FIVE SHILLING TEA.

This is a combination of the finest and most carefully-selected Teas, the produce of choice, young, and tender plants. It possesses not only strength, but a peculiar and delicious fragrance, which cannot fail to render it pleasant to the most fastidious palate and to the exquisite taste of the connoisseur. This may be had either wholly Black or Black and Green mixed. It is sold in Catty Packages only, containing from two ounces to one pound; and every package bears the signature of "JOHN CASSELL," without which none can be genuine.

No. 80, FENCHURCH-STREET.

THE LIVERPOOL FINANCIAL REFORM TRACTS,
and other Publications, Printed and Published at the Office of the STANDARD OF FREEDOM, 335, Strand.

Just published, price One Penny, No. 17 of

THE LIVERPOOL FINANCIAL REFORM TRACTS.

Subjects:—The Evils of Indirect Taxation illustrated as follow:—1. Indirect Tax upon a Commodity, such as Tea, withdraws Capital from Productive Employment. 2. The Tea Trade. 3. The Tea Duty. 4. The Tea Duty further exemplified—its deteriorating the quality of Tea. 5. The Tea Duty in relation to the Social Comfort and Morals of the Working Classes.

The LIVERPOOL FINANCIAL REFORM TRACTS No. 1 to 16 are also ready, and embrace the following subjects:—

No. 1. Civil List.—No. 2. Pension List.—No. 3. Taxation.—No. 4. The Army, Ordnance, Commissariat, Navy, Colonies.—No. 5. Ditto, ditto.—No. 6. The National Budget for 1849, by Richard Cobden, Esq., M.P.; with a Report of the Public Meeting held at the Concert Hall, Liverpool, December 20, 1848, at which the Budget was announced to the Nation.—No. 7. The Army, Ordnance, Commissariat, Navy, Colonies. The Army Clothing, together with Major-General Sir William Napier's Attack on the Association, and their Reply.—No. 8. The Woods, Forests, and Estates of the Crown.—No. 9. The Dead Weight of the Army.—No. 10. The Navy.—Nos. 11 and 12. Sir W. Molesworth on Colonial Expenditure (price Two-pence).—No. 13. The Navy.—No. 14. Miscellaneous Expenses.—No. 15. Direct Taxation.—No. 16. Expenditure of the State, and Taxation of the People: Annual Report of the Liverpool Financial Reform Association; The Council of the Liverpool Financial Reform Association; The Tenant-Farmers of the United Kingdom; Slave Trade Abolition Expenditure; The Speech of John Smith, Esq., of the "Liverpool Mercury."

Likewise, just published, price 1d.,

A SUPPLEMENTARY TRACT, contributed by a Working Man, giving an Analysis of the House of Commons—the Division on Mr. COBDEN'S Motion this Session—the Majorities, &c. Each name is given, proving that the votes tendered against Financial Reform have been those of INTERESTED parties, each of whose connexion, direct or indirect, with the Army, Navy, and other Government establishments, is clearly exhibited.

Tracts for gratuitous distribution, admirably adapted for Financial Reform Associations, are now published, at 1s. 4d. per 100. The subjects of these papers are:—The Burden of Taxation—The Woods and Forests—Costliness of the Army—The Civil List. If ordered direct by Associations, a liberal discount allowed. The Liverpool Reform Tracts are printed and published at the Office of the STANDARD OF FREEDOM, 335, Strand, London; and can be obtained through all Booksellers.

Price 3d.,

THE HISTORY and PROGRESS of TAXATION, as it relates to the Crown, the Aristocracy, and the People—History of the National Debt—Annals of the Poor-law—History of the Army and Navy—Pensions and Pensioners—Civil List, and Cost of the Executive, &c.

In October will be published, price 3d.,
"Bristling with statistics,"

THE FINANCIAL REFORM ALMANACK for 1850.
A limited space will be allotted for Advertisements, which ought to be immediately secured.

Now ready, in demy 8vo., containing 32 pages, price 2d.,

THE GREAT MILITARY and NAVAL PARLIAMENT; being an Analysis of both our Houses of Parliament: showing, from a careful examination of the Red-Books of the Aristocracy themselves, the true secret of the constant increase in our Military and Naval expenditure, in a STANDING MAJORITY in both Houses of nearly 300 members directly connected with the war system. No such dissection of our Legislative body has hitherto been made; and it may safely be said that no man, till he has gone over this list of 700 Members of Parliament connected with the military system by appointment, marriage, or consanguinity, is at all aware of the real character of the body that governs us.

Now ready, in demy 8vo., containing 40 pages, price 3d.,

OUR GREAT STATE-CHURCH PARLIAMENT; an Analysis of both Houses of Parliament: showing that there are in the two Houses 700 direct holders and dealers in Churches and Church influence, with a STANDING MAJORITY of 154 devoted to the maintenance of the present Ecclesiastical system. In a former publication, entitled the "Great Military and Naval Parliament," it is shown that the Government, both of the Cabinet and the Senate, consists of a majority of soldiers. In the present work another view is taken of them, and they are now presented again as proprietors of the State-church.

Published at the Office of the STANDARD OF FREEDOM, 335, Strand; CHARLES GILPIN, Bishopsgate-street; and to be had of all Booksellers.

The TREETOTAL TIMES and ESSAYIST may be had of B. L. Green, 62, Paternoster-row, London; Ward, 54, do.; Abel Heywood, Manchester; Kershaw, Leeds; Menzies, Edinburgh; Gallie, Glasgow; and all Booksellers.

Printed by WILLIAM CATHRAL, of 59, Albany-road, Camberwell, Surrey, at his Printing Office, 335, Strand, London.

WEDNESDAY, August 1, 1849.

THE

THE TOTAL TIMES

AND ESSAYIST.

PUBLISHED MONTHLY.

No. XXI.—NEW SERIES.]

LONDON, SEPTEMBER, 1849.

{ Price One Penny.
{ Stamped, Twopence.

IMPORTANT TEMPERANCE DEMONSTRATIONS in EXETER-HALL.

COMMITTEE OF MANAGEMENT.

T. B. SMITHIES,	J. H. ESTERBROOKE,
E. TISDELL,	J. BAILEY,
G. C. CAMPBELL,	J. PHILLIPS,
— WILSON,	W. TWEEDIE,
W. SPRIGGS,	J. P. DRAPER,
J. W. GREEN,	S. CATTON.

TREASURER AND CHAIRMAN—JOHN CASSELL, Esq.

For the purpose of presenting the claims of the Temperance Movement more fully before various sections of the community, it is intended to hold SIX PUBLIC MEETINGS in EXETER-HALL. The first meeting will be held on Monday evening, October 1, 1849, and the remainder on the first Monday evenings in the five months following. To render these meetings as attractive and influential as possible, Speakers of eminence will be invited from all parts of the kingdom, and the Addresses on each evening will be confined to some one specific view of the Temperance Question.

As a large sum, probably not less than Two Hundred Pounds, will be required to carry out this object, the Committee respectfully invite the co-operation of all who are desirous of promoting the social and moral elevation of the community. It is believed that by these meetings the attention of a large portion of the public will be secured, while the reports of the Addresses delivered will circulate information to an almost indefinite extent.

The under-mentioned subscriptions have already been received; the Committee respectfully request contributions from all who are friendly to the important project:—

John Cassell, Esq. ....	£25 0 0	John Kaye, Esq. ....	1 1 0
Joseph Eaton, Esq. ....	10 10 0	Mr. Tweedie .....	1 1 0
W. West, Esq. ....	10 0 0	Mr. Charles Gilpin. ....	1 1 0
Edward Smith, Esq.,		Mr. B. F. Green .....	£1 1 0
Sheffield .....	10 0 0	Mr. J. P. Draper .....	1 0 0
Joseph Sturge, Esq.,		Mr. J. H. Esterbrooke	1 1 0
Birmingham .....	10 0 0	Rev. W. R. Baker .....	1 1 0
Messrs. Spalding and		W. Cathrall, Esq. ....	1 1 0
Hodge .....	5 0 0	Mr. McCurrie .....	1 1 0
Mr. G. C. Campbell ..	5 0 0	Robert Warner, Esq. ....	1 1 0
Samuel Bowley, Esq. .	2 0 0	John Harrison, Esq. ....	1 1 0
Mr. Tisdell .....	2 0 0	S. C. Hall, Esq. ....	1 1 0
Mr. T. B. Smithies ..	2 0 0	Edward Lucas, Esq. ....	1 1 0
Mr. Bailey .....	2 0 0	Mr. J. Pasmore Edwards	1 1 0
Lord Dudley C. Stuart,		M. M. Monroe, Esq., Bri-
M. P. ....	1 1 0	tish College of Health	1 1 0
Mr. W. Spriggs .....	1 1 0	A Friend, by Miss Burt	0 10 0
Mr. John Snow .....	1 1 0	Mr. Blithman and
Mr. Watson .....	1 1 0	Friend .....	0 6 0
Mr. J. W. Green .....	1 1 0

Donations will be thankfully received by the Treasurer, 80, Fenchurch-street; Messrs. Wilson and Campbell, Blackfriars-road; Mr. Tweedie, 3, Falcon-street, Aldersgate-street; Mr. J. P. Draper, 88, Great Titchfield-street; Mr. E. Tisdell, High-street, Kensington; Mr. W. Spriggs, 14, Brook-street, West-square, Lambeth; Mr. S. Catton, Plaistow; or by any member of the Committee.

The FIRST MEETING will take place on Monday evening, October 1. The subject of address will be, "The Temperance Reformation in its bearing on the Moral, Social, and Political Elevation of the Labouring Classes." The Gentlemen expected to speak are—JOSEPH STURGE, Esq., of Birmingham; the Rev. THOMAS SPENCER, A.M., of Bath; HENRY VINCENT, Esq.; and Mr. T. A. SMITH, of London. The doors will be opened at half-past Five o'clock, and the Chair will be taken at Six o'clock. The admission to the Platform will be by Tickets, price (for the series of Six Meetings) 3s., or, for a single Meeting, 1s. These may be had of any of the persons named above. The admission to the Body of the Hall and the Western Gallery will be FREE.

G. C. CAMPBELL,
T. B. SMITHIES, } Hon. Secs.
J. H. ESTERBROOKE, }

TEMPERANCE STATISTICS.—The testimony of the leading medical authorities of Great Britain to the injurious effects of the use of intoxicating liquors in what is commonly called moderation, has received the most important confirmation from the actual experience of the TEMPERANCE PROVIDENT INSTITUTION, containing more than 3,000 members of all ages and in all ranks of life. The deaths in this office during more than eight years have been considerably less than half the number in other offices, and among other bodies of men. And what is extraordinary, although the office contains 600 members more than it did a year ago, the deaths during the last half-year have been actually only half as many as they were in the same period of last year; being only five out of 3,500 policies issued. The actual and expected deaths among a few of the different classes of members have been as follows:—

No. Assured.	Name.	Expected Deaths.	Actual Deaths.
328.....	Shopkeepers .....	9	6
132.....	Shoemakers .....	3	2
53.....	Painters and Plumbers.....	2	1
75.....	Bakers .....	2	1
61.....	Labourers and Farmers .....	1	0
136.....	Clerks.....	5	1
148.....	Tailors .....	3	0

THE DIVISION OF PROFITS,

or Surplus Funds, will take place at the close of next year; when every assurance effected this year will participate, according to date. Early application is therefore desirable.

Teetotallers are respectfully reminded that this is the only office in which they can assure, without having to pay for the premature deaths, which daily take place in all other offices, through the insidious poison of alcoholic beverages.

This Institution being established for the exclusive benefit of its members, is capable of securing to them the utmost possible advantages of the system of Mutual Assurance. It has also several important advantages over other offices. All particulars may be had on application, and will be sent free to any address.

Persons disposed to act as Agents are requested to write to the Secretary, Mr. THEODORE COMPTON, at the office, 39, Moorgate-street, City, London.

Just published, price 6d. each, or £2 2s. per 100.
(25 copies for 10s. 6d.)

THE EVIL EFFECTS of BEER SHOPS;

An Essay which obtained the First Prize (£20) from the "Association for the Suppression of Beer-shops," originated in Liverpool, 1818, for the purpose of procuring an Act of Parliament to prohibit the granting of any new licenses to Beer-shops, and to enact that those already granted shall continue in force only during the tenure of the present holders. By J. RUSSOM.

London: HOULSTON and STONEMAN, 65, Paternoster-row may be had of all Booksellers.

* * * The Friends of Temperance are respectfully informed, that about 200 Petitions have been presented to each House of Parliament during this Session (1849): but to ensure success, more than double that amount should be presented early next Session.

The 2nd and 3rd Prize Essays will be published shortly, at the same prices.

This day is published in demy 12mo., with Portrait, cloth lettered, price 3s. 6d.

THE CHRISTIAN PHILOSOPHER

TRUMPING OVER DEATH: being a narrative of the closing scenes of the life of the late William Gordon, M.D., F.L.S., of Kingston-upon-Hull. By Rev. NEWMAN HALL, B.A.

By the same author,

COME TO JESUS. 60th thousand, price 3d. and 4d. in wrapper, and 1s. cloth, gilt edges.

"IT IS I," or the Voice of Jesus in the Storm. Seventh thousand, price 6d. and 1s.

London: JOHN SNOW, Paternoster-row.

A CATALOGUE OF IPSWICH
TEMPERANCE PUBLICATIONS.

ALL these, whether Books, Tracts, or Hand-bills or Notice Papers, are sold in SIXPENNY PACKETS. Fifty Packets of either will be delivered to any address in London, for a Guinea, sent by Post-office Order to Richard Dykes Alexander, Ipswich; or they may be had of any Bookseller in the country through Simpkin, Marshall, and Co., Stationers-hall-court, Londonn.

IPSWICH JUVENILE TEMPERANCE BOOKS,

ALL WITH PICTURES,

Thirty-two in number, in three ASSORTED Packets.

No. 1—1 to 16. | No. 2—17 to 32.
No. 3—33 to 46.

HAND-BILLS FOR PUBLIC MEETINGS.

Nine inches by six. On the back of each is a Temperance Tract. Fifty for Sixpence.

NOTICE PAPERS.

With the same form as the Hand-bills. The opinions of eminent persons on Teetotalism on the back of each. Two Hundred for Sixpence.

IPSWICH TEMPERANCE TRACTS.

Those Tracts marked with an * have Pictures.

	Pages.
1 The Doctor Scrutinized, or for what purposes do Physicians prescribe Alcoholic Beverages? By R. D. Alexander, F.L.S., 122 thousand.....	8
2 Striking Facts, 84 thousand.....	2
3 Maker and Vender, 44 thousand.....	2
4 Our Creed, 52 thousand.....	2
5 Adulterated Beer, 34 thousand.....	4
6 Adulterated Wine, 40 thousand.....	4
7 The Maltster, 37 thousand.....	4
8 Go Feel what I have Felt, 53 thousand.....	2
9 Facts are stubborn Things, 53 thousand.....	2
*10 The Spirit Dealer, 35 thousand.....	2
11 Christian Teetotalism, 70 thousand.....	2
12 The Trade, 33 thousand.....	4
13 Alcohol, 33 thousand.....	4
14 The Town of Ipswich, 33 thousand.....	4
*15 Song of the Water Drinker, 37 thousand.....	2
16 Stimulation not Strength, 30 thousand.....	8
17 Farmer Woodman's Speech, 41 thousand.....	4
*18 The Beer Barrel Examined, 33 thousand.....	8
19 Teetotal Recipes, 38 thousand.....	4
*20 Speech of J. J. Gurney, 30 thousand.....	4
21 Pity the Poor Drunkard, 43 thousand.....	2
22 The Fool's Fence, 25 thousand.....	8
23 Why am I a Teetotaler? 26 thousand.....	2
*24 Dost thou Smoke, Bill! 34 thousand.....	4
25 William, the Laudanum Drinker, 30 thousand.....	4
26 The Ox Discourse.....	4
27 Letter to the Clergy, by a Brother Clergyman, 21 thousand.....	20
28 Common Sense, 20 thousand.....	20
29 Ralph the Soldier.....	4
30 Testimony of Eminent Physicians, 30 thousand.....	4
31 The Working Man, 35 thousand.....	20
32 Is I not happy? by Hugh Stowell, 30 thousand.....	4
33 David the Shoemaker, 49 thousand.....	4
34 The Drunken Couple, 48 thousand.....	2
35 Confessions of a Drunkard, 29 thousand.....	2
36 Master Tailor, 20 thousand.....	2
37 The Fatal Gift, 36 thousand.....	4
38 Poor Sandy.....	8
39 Use and Abuse, by Archdeacon Jeffreys, 34 thousand.....	2
40 The Schoolmaster.....	2
41 Water is Best, by J. J. Gurney, 37 thousand.....	4
42 Cobbett's Advice.....	4
43 Take a Public-house.....	4
*44 A Sailor's Yarn.....	4
45 Moderate Drinking Calmly Considered.....	12
46 The Pledge.....	4
*47 John Jarvis, or the Pledge Signed.....	12
*48 The Fifteen Friends.....	12
49 Sunday-School Teachers, 22 thousand.....	12
50 Sunday-School Children, 40 thousand.....	12
*51 Money better than Beer, 37 thousand.....	4
*52 Little Nary, or a Daughter's Love.....	8
53 Philosophy of Temperance, by R. D. Trail, M.D.....	20
54 Love to Man, or an Appeal to the Pious.....	12
*55 The Young Woman's Tract.....	20
56 The Young Man's Tract.....	16
57 Dr. Campbell's Testimony, 18 thousand.....	8
58 Why sign the Pledge? 40 thousand.....	2
59 The Poor Man's House Repaired.....	2
60 The Mother's Tract.....	8
61 The High Price of Food.....	4
62 Ladies' Tract Societies.....	8

63 The Praise of Water, 25 thousand.....	2
64 Important Calculations.....	2
*65 The Farm Servant, 25 thousand.....	2
66 Teetotalism Declining, 15 thousand.....	8
*67 The Reformed Drunkard, 20 thousand.....	8
68 The Recruit of the British Legion.....	8
69 No. 1 of Temperance Anecdotes.....	12
70 No. 2 ditto.....	12
71 No. 3 ditto.....	12
72 No. 4 ditto.....	12
73 Luke Huster; or, "I did not like to say No.".....	8
74 The Drunkard's Wife.....	8
75 The Unexplored Island.....	4
76 Ancient Wines, by R. D. Alexander.....	8
77 Influence of Example, 15 thousand.....	2
*78 The Victim of Excitement.....	20
*79 My Medical Adviser does not approve of Teetotalism.....	4
*80 The Restoration.....	8

The following have been published in the year 1848.

	Pages.
81 The Use of Intoxicating Drinks explained, by Archdeacon Jeffreys.....	12
*82 Drink and be Happy.....	4
83 The Five Nips.....	4
84 The Honest Spirit Dealer's Advertisement.....	2
85 Seven Years' Experience of a Reclaimed Drunkard.....	2
*86 The Education of the Drunkard, with 5 pictures.....	12
*87 A Word with Serious People, by John Bright, M.P.....	4
*88 Guide to Glendalough.....	4
*89 Bridget Larkins.....	4
90 The Contrast.....	2
91 Tobacco a Cause of Intemperance.....	2
*92 The Wedding Night.....	12
*93 My Chapel.....	4
*94 The Best Men sometimes Err, by Archdeacon Jeffreys.....	8
*95 The Testimonies of Eight Judges.....	2
*96 The Drunkard in Rags.....	2
*97 The Farmer and the Labourer—a Dialogue.....	4
*98 The Gloucestershire Farmer.....	4
*99 Strong Drink and Infidelity; or the Last Illness of Wm. Chapman.....	8
100 Catalogue of Temperance Publications.....	4
101 The Hertfordshire Farmer, 10 thousand.....	2
*102 Sunday Schools and Strong Drink.....	4
103 Confessions of a Publican.....	2
104 Peter Levison, or the Ruined Minister.....	4
105 Testimony of John Angell James, 10 thousand.....	2
*106 I do not drink Wine, 10 thousand.....	2
*107 Self-Imposed Burden, 10 thousand.....	2
*108 The Craving of a Drunkard.....	8
*109 Richard H—, or the Poor Orphan Boy.....	4
*110 Loss of Seven Fishermen.....	8
111 A Temperance Catechism for Sunday Schools.....	8
*112 The Mail Coachman, 10 thousand.....	4
113 The Reformed Family. By Anne Jane Carille.....	4
114 Licensing Day at Bolton.....	4
115 The Stomach of a Drunkard.....	4
116 Intemperance and Ragged Schools.....	4
*117 Delirium Tremens.....	4

The following have been published in the year 1849.

118 The Fire-Escape and the Ship in Danger.....	4
119 The Sabbath Morn, or an Address to Young Persons on Total Abstinence. By Mary Buchanan.....	4
*120 Can a Christian keep a Public House—A Dialogue.....	4
121 The Aged Friend.....	2
*122 The Village of Newbridge.....	2
123 The Mirror of Intemperance.....	4
*124 Alcohol, what it does, and what it cannot do, or the Influence of Alcoholic Drinks on the nutrition of the Body, and in the production of Disease. By Walter Johnson, M.B., with an Appendix by Edward Johnson, M.D.....	44
125 Barley, Malt, and Beer Question; or, What shall we do with the Barley. By Dr. F. R. Lees.....	8
126 Keep away from the Public House.....	4
127 Poor William—the Wine and Spirit Merchant.....	8
128 The Hearer to his Minister.....	4
129 Alcohol generates a tendency to Death. By Dr E. Johnson.....	4
130 The Merchant's Dream; or, Warning of Remorse.....	4
131 Address to Females.....	4
*132 History of J. B. Gough of America.....	48
133 Livesey's Lecture on the Properties of Malt Liquor.....	34
*134 My Mother's Gold Ring.....	4
135 Miraculous Delivance.....	4
136 The Drunkard's Dream.....	2
*137 Archibald Prentice's Speech on Sanitary and Social Means to Political Ends.....	8
138 The Altered Man.....	2
139 The Temperance Love-feast. By T. B. Smithies.....	4

Assorted Packets: No. 1 containing 1 to 30—No. 2, 31 to 53—No. 3, 54 to 72—No. 4, 73 to 100—No. 5, 101 to 125—No. 6, 127 and upwards.

* * * Loan Tract Covers in Shilling Packets.

 Volumes containing the first 100 Tracts, Price 3s.

FOR SUMMER WEAR.—The Thin Gutta Percha Soles are strongly recommended. They not only resist all wet and moisture, thus preserving the health of the wearer, but being so much thinner than leather, they are extremely light and cool for summer wear.

NOTICE.

The Gutta Percha Company beg to state that when the soles are applied according to their "Directions to Shoemakers," it is impossible for them to come off until worn through, and they therefore urge the public to employ those only who will "warrant" them to adhere. This notice is necessary in consequence of interested parties having intentionally fixed the soles on imperfectly.

TO EMIGRANTS, CAPTAINS, &c.

No one should leave England without providing himself with a stock of Gutta Percha Soles and Solution. The ease with which these soles can be applied in countries where no shoemaker can be found—their power of keeping the feet perfectly dry, thus preserving the body from coughs, colds, &c., in lands where medical advice cannot be had—and their great durability and cheapness, render them invaluable to all who propose sailing to distant countries. Gutta Percha Wash-basins, Chamber-bowls, Bottles, Flasks, &c., are admirably suited for shipboard and emigrants, as they can so readily be converted into life-buoys in the event of a shipwreck.

TO ARCHITECTS, &c.

In consequence of the extraordinary power possessed by Gutta Percha Tubing for propelling sound, it is admirably adapted for conveying messages, &c., in Dwelling Houses, Hotels, Warehouses, Mills, &c. This Tubing is also valuable for conveying Gas, Water, and as Refuse Pipes, being unaffected by acids, alkalies, grease, &c., and not so subject to incrustation or affected by the frost as metal pipes.

MILL BANDS.

The increasing demand for the Gutta Percha strapping for driving-bands, lathe-straps, &c., fully justifies the strong recommendations they have everywhere received.

PUMP BUCKETS, CLACKS, &c.

Few applications of Gutta Percha appear likely to be of such extensive use to Manufacturers, Engineers, &c., as the substitution of it for leather in pump-buckets, valves, &c. These buckets can be had of any size and thickness, without any seam or raised joint. They are unaffected by acids, grease, alkalies, &c. Cold water will never soften them, and they are consequently much more durable than leather, and also cheaper.

GUTTA PERCHA PICTURE FRAMES AND ORNAMENTS.

In imitation of the finest wood carving, suitable for the decoration of houses, cabinet work, &c.

GUTTA PERCHA CRICKET-BALLS

are superior to any others yet invented. They are never softened by the grass, however wet, and being made without any stitching, are not liable to rot like the leather ones.

GUTTA PERCHA BOUNCING BALLS

may be had in every variety of colour.

GUTTA PERCHA CLOTHES-LINES.

Being unaffected by the weather, they may be left out in the open air without sustaining injury.

GUTTA PERCHA WINDOW-BLIND CORD

is easily joined by heating the ends. Does not contract and expand like the ordinary cord. It may be had of various colours.

Every other variety of Gutta Percha articles, such as Brackets, Pen-trays, Inkstands, Medallions, Surgical Instruments, Vases, Trays, Watch-stands, Cups, Flasks, Lathe Bands, Clothes-line, Cricket and Bouncing Balls, Pump Buckets, Galvanic Batteries, Chamber-bowls, Washing-basins, Cash-bowls, Ornamental Flower-pots and Stands, Soap-dishes, Electric Telegraph Wire, &c., are manufactured at Wharf-road, City-road, London, and sold by their dealers in town and country.

Price 2d., or by post 3d.,

CAUTIONS and TESTIMONY against ODD FELLOWSHIP. By H. MUDGE, Surgeon, Bodmin.

Also, price 2s., or by post 2s. 6d., by the same author, EXPOSURE of ODD FELLOWSHIP; showing its immoral tendency and bankrupt circumstances, and containing as well a large amount of information on the subject of Friendly Societies.

WHITAKER, London; LIDDELL, Bodmin.

TEMPERANCE PUBLICATIONS.

THE TEETOTAL ESSAYIST; or, MONTHLY TEMPERANCE STANDARD, for 1847. Price One Shilling.

CONTENTS:—

- Teetotalism essential to the Elevation of the Working Classes. By D. G. Paine.
- The Temperance Movement in its important bearings on the Sanitary condition of the People. By Thomas Beggs.
- Total Abstinence from Strong Drinks important to Female Honour and Happiness. By D. G. Paine.
- Tom Rudge and his Friend: showing what Tom lost by "that last Glass of Brandy-and-water." By Mrs. S. C. Hall.
- Appeal to Females in behalf of the Total Abstinence Movement. By Dr. E. Nott, President of Union College, New York.
- The Worn Thimble; a Story of Woman's Duty and Woman's Influence. By Mrs. S. C. Hall.
- Important Medical Testimony; with several hundred signatures. Christian Duty; or the importance of the Temperance Reformation in connexion with the maintenance and spread of Christianity. By F. W. Wheeler, Missionary.
- The Moral Obligation of Total Abstinence. By Evan Jones.
- Intemperance the Antagonist of Education. By W. R. Baker.
- The Duty of Sabbath-school Teachers in regard to Total Abstinence. By Evan Jones.
- Reasons why Sabbath-school Teachers should be Teetotalers. By Michael Young.
- Bearings of the Temperance Question on the Interest of the Young. By W. Reid.
- The Drinking System and Juvenile Delinquency. By Thomas Beggs.
- Aids to the Evangelical Alliance in its inquiry as to the Connexion between Infidelity and Teetotalism. With testimonies of upwards of Seventy Ministers and Gentlemen.
- The Evils of Moderate Drinking. By Evan Jones.
- The Inconsistency of those Christians and Philanthropists who sanction the use of Intoxicating Liquors. By D. G. Paine.
- Address to Moderate Drinkers. By Elisha Burritt.
- The Temperance Movement—its past history—present position—future prospects and connexion with other great movements of the age. By Thomas Beggs.

This forms the most interesting and important publication that has ever been issued from the Temperance Press. As but very few sets remain on hand, an early application will be necessary.

DR. NOTT'S LECTURES.

NATURE AND PROVIDENCE.—REPLYING to the QUESTION, WHAT IS the DUTY of MAN in RELATION to the USE of INTOXICATING LIQUORS? In four eloquent and powerful LECTURES. By ELIHA BURRITT, D.D., LL.D., President of Union College, New York. Carefully revised, with an Appendix. In 32 very closely-printed pages, crown octavo, price One Penny.

LIVESEY'S FAMOUS MALT LECTURE, including a complete exposure of the great delusion as to the properties of Malt Liquors. Formerly published at Sixpence. A new edition for ONE PENNY.

SUNDAY SCHOOL PRIZE TRACTS.

Price 1s. 4d. per 100.

THE IMPORTANCE of the TEMPERANCE MOVEMENT, in its bearings on Sunday Schools.

THE YOUNG, the HOPE of the TEMPERANCE REFORMATION.

THE CHRISTIAN'S SPIRITUAL SONG-BOOK, containing 500 spiritual songs adapted to popular tunes. By the Rev. JOHN STAMP. Embossed cambric, 1s. 6d.

TEMPERANCE HYMNS and SONGS; Devotional, Moral, and Social. Selected and revised by J. W. GREEN. Embossed leather, 1s.; stiff paper covers, 6d.

THE TEETOTALER'S HYMN-BOOK. Selected and revised by J. W. GREEN. 1d.

B. L. GREEN, 62, Paternoster-row.

Now ready, price 1d., in royal 8vo,

WESLEYAN METHODISM: a Review of the "Papers on Wesleyan Matters," and "The Fly-Sheets Vindicated;" with an account of the District Meeting proceedings against the Rev. Messrs. Burdall, Dunn, Everett, and Walton: to which is added a brief notice of the fifth and last "Paper on Wesleyan Matters."

May be had at the Office of the "STANDARD OF FREEDOM," 335, Strand; and of B. L. GREEN, Paternoster-row.

JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEES.

THE ESTABLISHMENT of JOHN CASSELL is the largest in the Kingdom, and the demand created for his Coffee is wholly unparalleled. This has not arisen from his professing to send out any new, peculiarly "prepared," or "patented" article, but simply from his having placed within the reach of all Families Coffees of the world's finest growths, possessing richness, mellowness, and strength of flavour not to be surpassed, and at moderate prices. It is a fact, that wherever JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEES are introduced, their continued use is secured. These Coffees are made up in sealed air-tight Packages, containing two ounces, quarter and half pounds, and also in Canisters containing one or two pounds, and, to PREVENT IMPOSITION, every Package or Canister bears the signature of "JOHN CASSELL," without which none can be genuine. The following are the prices at which they can be obtained:—

JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, No. 1, . . . . . 1s. 4d.

An excellent Article.

JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, No. 2, . . . . . 1s. 8d.

Cannot fail to give great satisfaction, being a combination of the choicest growths of Jamaica, possessing richness, strength, and flavour.

JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, No. 3, . . . . . 2s. 0d.

To every Connoisseur in Coffee this will prove a treat, combining the finest mountain-growths of both Jamaica and Turkey.

JOHN CASSELL'S FIVE SHILLING TEA.

This is a combination of the finest and most carefully-selected Teas, the produce of choice, young, and tender plants. It possesses not only strength, but a peculiar and delicious fragrance, which cannot fail to render it pleasant to the most fastidious palate and to the exquisite taste of the connoisseur. This may be had either wholly Black or Black and Green mixed. It is sold in Catty Packages only, containing from two ounces to one pound; and every package bears the signature of "JOHN CASSELL," without which none can be genuine.

No. 80, FENCHURCH-STREET.

THE PEOPLE'S ALMANACK for 1850 is now ready.—THE BEST ALMANACK EVER PUBLISHED AT ONE PENNY.—With excellent engravings, emblematic of the Progress of Reforms, Political, Social, and Moral. Besides the usual Calendar, List of Fairs, Stamp Duties, Weather Table, &c., it will contain short original Essays on what the People of England should be as regards Freedom—Intelligence—Health—Industry—Riches—Providence for the Future—Peacefulness—Equitable Taxation—Due Representation—Sobriety—and General Happiness; with illustrative Statistics, &c. This Almanack will fully justify its claim to the title of "THE PEOPLE'S ALMANACK," forming a Compendium of the People's Privileges and Duties, and a useful Family Companion. Neatly printed on thirty-two octavo pages, price ONE PENNY.

A LIBERAL ALLOWANCE will be made to the Trade, who are requested to send in their orders IMMEDIATELY.

*The following Almanacks for 1850 are preparing for publication, viz. —

The PROTESTANT DISSENTER'S ALMANACK..... 3d.

The EMIGRANT'S ALMANACK and DIRECTORY.... 3d.

The FINANCIAL REFORMER'S ALMANACK..... 3d.

The TEETOTALER'S ALMANACK..... 1d.

London: VICKERS, Holywell-street, Strand; GREEN, 62, Paternoster-row; WARD, 54, Paternoster-row.

Just published, price One Penny, No. 17 of

THE LIVERPOOL FINANCIAL REFORM TRACTS.

Subjects:—The Evils of Indirect Taxation illustrated as follow:—1. Indirect Tax upon a Commodity, such as Tea, withdraws Capital from Productive Employment. 2. The Tea Trade. 3. The Tea Duty. 4. The Tea Duty further exemplified—its deteriorating the quality of Tea. 5. The Tea Duty in relation to the Social Comfort and Morals of the Working Classes.

The LIVERPOOL FINANCIAL REFORM TRACTS No. 1 to 6 are also ready, and embrace the following subjects:—

No. 1. Civil List.—No. 2. Pension List.—No. 3. Taxation.—No. 4. The Army, Ordnance, Commissariat, Navy, Colonies.—No. 5. Ditto, ditto.—No. 6. The National Budget for 1849, by Richard Cobden, Esq., M.P.; with a Report of the Public Meeting held at the Concert Hall, Liverpool, December 20, 1848, at which the Budget was announced to the Nation.—No. 7. The Army, Ordnance, Commissariat, Navy, Colonies. The Army Clothing, together with Major-General Sir William Napier's Attack on the Association, and their Reply.—No. 8. The Woods, Forests, and Estates of the Crown.—No. 9. The Dead Weight of the Army.—No. 10. The Navy.—Nos. 11 and 12. Sir W. Molesworth on Colonial Expenditure (price Two-pence).—No. 13. The Navy.—No. 14. Miscellaneous Expenses.—No. 15. Direct Taxation.—No. 16. Expenditure of the State, and Taxation of the People: Annual Report of the Liverpool Financial Reform Association: The Council of the Liverpool Financial Reform Association to the Tenant-Farmers of the United Kingdom; Slave Trade Abolition Expenditure; The Speech of John Smith, Esq., of the "Liverpool Mercury."

Published at the Office of the STANDARD OF FREEDOM, 335, Strand, London; and sold by all Booksellers.

DR. CHEYNE'S COUGH and PULMONIC

LOZENGES.—The fame of these Lozenges is fully established as the most pleasant and efficacious remedy that can be employed for the removal of coughs. To the asthmatic, or those who are afflicted with a difficulty of breathing, or a redundancy of phlegm, they give instant relief, by causing free expectoration. They allay the irritation attendant on all affections of the throat, and strengthen the lungs to resist the effects of sudden changes. They remove hoarseness and greatly improve the voice. They arrest, in its incipient stages, that fearful result of our variable atmosphere—consumption; and for diseases of the pulmonary organs a more safe and salutary remedy cannot be applied. For aged persons they are invaluable, and none, whose lungs are in the least degree susceptible of cold, ought to be without them. They afford relief in every case of cough, and where there is no physical disorganization they will effect a cure.

Sold in Boxes at 1s. 1½d., and 2s. 9d., each, by Messrs. Sutton, 10, Bow Church-yard; Barclay's, 95, Farringdon-street; Edwards, 67, St. Paul's Church-yard; Dietrichson and Co., 63, Oxford-street; Sanger, 150, Oxford-street; Johnson, 68, Cornhill; King, 34, Napier-street, Hoxton; Bolton and Co., York; Raines and Co., Edinburgh; and by at least one Agent in every town throughout the United Kingdom.

Now ready, in demy 8vo., containing 32 pages, price 2d.,

THE GREAT MILITARY AND NAVAL

PARLIAMENT; being an Analysis of both our Houses of Parliament: showing, from a careful examination of the Red-Books of the Aristocracy themselves, the true secret of the constant increase in our Military and Naval expenditure, in a STANDING MAJORITY in both Houses of nearly 300 members directly connected with the war system. No such dissection of our Legislative body has hitherto been made; and it may safely be said that no man, till he has gone over this list of 700 Members of Parliament connected with the military system by appointment, marriage, or consanguinity, is at all aware of the real character of the body that governs us.

Now ready, in demy 8vo., containing 40 pages, price 3d.,

OUR GREAT STATE-CHURCH PARLIAMENT; an Analysis of both Houses of Parliament: showing that there are in the two Houses 700 direct holders and dealers in Churches and Church influence, with a STANDING MAJORITY of 154 devoted to the maintenance of the present Ecclesiastical system. In a former publication, entitled the "Great Military and Naval Parliament," it is shown that the Government, both of the Cabinet and the Senate, consists of a majority of soldiers. In the present work another view is taken of them, and they are now presented again as proprietors of the State-church.

Published at the Office of the STANDARD OF FREEDOM, 335, Strand; CHARLES GILPIN, Bishopsgate-street; and to be had of all Booksellers.

Printed and Published by WILLIAM CATHRALL, of 59, Albany-road, Camberwell, Surrey, at his Printing Office, 335, Strand, London.

SATURDAY, September 1, 1849.

TEETOTAL TIMES

AND ESSAYIST.

PUBLISHED MONTHLY.

No. XXII.—NEW SERIES.]

LONDON, OCTOBER, 1849.

[Price One Penny.
Stamped, Twopence.

IMPORTANT TEMPERANCE DEMONSTRATIONS in EXETER-HALL.

COMMITTEE OF MANAGEMENT.

T. B. SMITHIES,	J. H. ESTERBROOKE,
E. TISDELL,	J. BAILEY,
G. C. CAMPBELL,	J. PHILLIPS,
— WILSON,	W. TWEEDIE,
W. SPRIGGS,	J. P. DRAPER,
J. W. GREEN,	S. CATTON.

TREASURER AND CHAIRMAN—JOHN CASSELL, Esq.

For the purpose of presenting the claims of the Temperance Movement more fully before various sections of the community, it is intended to hold SIX PUBLIC MEETINGS in EXETER-HALL. The first meeting will be held on Monday evening, October 1, 1849, and the remainder on Monday evenings in the five months following. To render these meetings as attractive and influential as possible, Speakers of eminence will be invited from all parts of the kingdom, and the Addresses on each evening will be confined to some one specific view of the Temperance Question.

As a large sum, probably not less than Two HUNDRED POUNDS, will be required to carry out this object, the Committee respectfully invite the co-operation of all who are desirous of promoting the social and moral elevation of the community. It is believed that by these meetings the attention of a large portion of the public will be secured, while the reports of the Addresses delivered will circulate information to an almost indefinite extent.

Amount already advertised.....	£100 5 0	Dr. Lee, Hartwell House.....	£1 0 0
John Kaye, Esq., Wesleyan Times.....	5 0 0	Mr. J. Harris, St. Alban's.....	£1 0 0
W. Janson, Esq., Tottenham.....	2 2 0	Richard Barret, Esq., Croydon.....	1 0 0
R. D. Alexander, Esq., Ipswich.....	2 0 0	Mr. Purvis, Blackfriars-road.....	1 1 0
W. D. Sims, Esq., Ipswich.....	2 0 0	James Christy, Esq., Chelmsford.....	1 0 0
Ann Stephenson, Ipswich.....	1 0 0	A Friend, by Miss Burt	0 10 0
G. W. Harrison, Esq., Mayor of Wakefield.....	1 1 0	Mr. Blythman and Friend.....	0 6 0
J. Norton, Esq., Lincoln.....	1 1 0	Mr. T. Smith, Old Kent-road.....	0 10 0
J. T. Tyler, Esq., Kennington.....	1 1 0	Capt. Trotter, Dyham-park.....	0 10 0
— Archer, Esq., Lambeth.....	1 0 0	Mr. G. Miller, Fitzroy.....	0 10 0
Mr. P. Vallance, Fitzroy.....	1 0 0	Mr. C. Strange and Friend.....	0 5 0
Richard Cobden, Esq., M.P.....	1 1 0	Sir Joshua Walsmsley, M.P.....	1 0 0
A Friend, Bristol.....	1 1 0	Richard Peck, Esq., Hazelwood.....	1 1 0
Rebecca Sturge, Plaistow.....	1 1 0	W. Franks, Esq.....	1 1 0
		Sir Benjamin Hall, Bart., M.P.....	2 2 0

Donations will be thankfully received by the Treasurer, 80, Fenchurch-street; Messrs. Wilson and Campbell, Blackfriars-road; Mr. Tweedie, 3, Falcon-street, Aldersgate-street; Mr. J. P. Draper, 88, Great Titchfield-street; Mr. E. Tisdell, High-street, Kensington; Mr. W. Spriggs, 14, Brook-street, West-square, Lambeth; Mr. S. Catton, Plaistow; or by any member of the Committee.

The SECOND MEETING will take place either on the last Monday in the present month, or the first Monday in November. The particulars as to time, subject, and speakers, will be duly announced by advertisement as soon as the necessary arrangements are completed. The doors on each occasion will be opened at half-past Five o'clock, and the Chair will be taken at Six o'clock. The admission on to the Platform will be by Tickets, price (for the series of Six Meetings) 3s., or, for a single Meeting, 1s. These may be had of any of the persons named above. The admission to the Body of the Hall and the Western Gallery will be FREE.

G. C. CAMPBELL,	} Hon. Secs.
T. B. SMITHIES,
J. H. ESTERBROOKE,

TESTIMONIAL TO MR. T. A. SMITH.

THOSE FRIENDS of TEETOTALISM who wish to manifest their esteem for the services of Mr. T. A. SMITH are requested to forward their subscriptions to any of the following gentlemen:—

JOHN CASSELL, Esq., 80, Fenchurch-street.
Dr. GOURLEY, 4, Euston-square.
TEMPERANCE PROVIDENT INSTITUTION, 39, Moorgate-street.
Rev. I. DOXSEY, National Temperance Office, Token-house-yard.
Mr. WEST, 1, Cambridge-terrace, Clapham-road.
Messrs. WILSON and CAMPBELL, Blackfriars-road.
Mr. J. W. GREEN, 80, Fenchurch-street.
Mr. SPRIGGS, 14, Brook-street, Lambeth.
Mr. TISDALE, High-street, Kensington.
Mr. COLE, Blackheath-hill, Greenwich.
Mr. T. MACHIN, 25, Lower Kennington-lane.

SUBSCRIPTIONS ALREADY RECEIVED:—

W. West, Esq. ....	£10 10 0	R. Peck, Esq. ....	£1 1 0
R. D. Alexander, Esq. ..	5 0 0	Mr. Spriggs .....	0 10 0
W. Jansen, Esq. ....	2 0 0	T. Machin .....	0 10 0
J. Elis, Esq. ....	2 0 0	Other small subscrip-
J. Cassell, Esq. ....	1 0 0	tions .....	1 17 6
H. Morrison, Esq. ....	1 1 0

Sept. 17, 1849.

T. MACHIN, Sec.

Just Published, 8vo, pp. 76, price Sixpence,

THE MORAL STATISTICS OF GLASGOW, by WILLIAM LOGAN, Commissioner of the Scottish Temperance League. Dedicated by permission to the Hon. Sir James Anderson, Lord Provost of the city of Glasgow.

Glasgow: SCOTTISH TEMPERANCE LEAGUE OFFICE, 30, St. Enoch-square. London: HOULSTON and STONEMAN.

SCOTTISH TEMPERANCE LEAGUE REGISTER and ABSTAINERS' ALMANACK for 1850.

In compliance with the cordial and unanimous recommendation of the members of the League, at the annual meeting held last month, the Executive Committee have entered into arrangements for the issue of this publication.

It will contain a list of the members of the League, arranged alphabetically under the names of the different towns where the members reside.

It will also contain a large amount of statistical information and striking facts, bearing upon every department of the temperance question, with remarks and inferences of a practical character. The resources at the disposal of the Committee will enable them to render this section of the work exceedingly valuable and complete.

Great attention and care will be bestowed upon the construction of a good general Almanack. A full Calendar will be given, containing the usual information respecting the sun, moon, tides, and weather, with copious Chronological notices of important Temperance events.

A number of other improvements are contemplated, and will be introduced as extensively as circumstances will permit.

The Executive Committee are anxious that the "Register" should appear with the other Almanacks and Annuals generally published about the end of November, and to enable them to have it ready by that time, it will be necessary that names intended for insertion be received by 10th OCTOBER.

Abstainers, male and female, wherever resident, who approve of the Constitution of the League, and who contribute two shillings and sixpence, or upwards, to its funds, are eligible to membership, and may have their names enrolled in the "Register," if sent by the time specified.

Each member of the League will be presented with a copy of the "Register" when published.

Copies of this Prospectus, and of Schedules for entering names, may be had, post free, on application to ROBERT RAE, Secretary, 30, St. Enoch-square, Glasgow, to whom all communications are to be addressed, and money-orders made payable.

League Office, 30, St. Enoch-square,
Glasgow, 23rd August, 1849.

TEMPERANCE STATISTICS.—The testimony of the leading medical authorities of Great Britain to the injurious effects of the use of intoxicating liquors in what is commonly called moderation, has received the most important confirmation from the actual experience of the TEMPERANCE PROVIDENT INSTITUTION, containing more than 3,000 members of all ages and in all ranks of life. The deaths in this office during more than eight years have been considerably less than half the number in other offices, and among other bodies of men. And what is extraordinary, although the office contains 600 members more than it did a year ago, the deaths during the last half-year have been actually only half as many as they were in the same period of last year; being only five out of 3,500 policies issued. The actual and expected deaths among a few of the different classes of members have been as follows:—

No. Assured.	Name.	Expected Deaths.	Actual Deaths.
328.	Shopkeepers.	9	6
132.	Shoemakers.	3	2
53.	Painters and Plumbers.	2	1
76.	Bakers.	2	1
61.	Labourers and Farmers.	1	0
136.	Clerks.	5	1
148.	Tailors.	3	0

THE DIVISION OF PROFITS,

or Surplus Funds, will take place at the close of next year; when every assurance effected this year will participate, according to date. Early application is therefore desirable.

Teetotallers are respectfully reminded that this is the only office in which they can assure, without having to pay for the premature deaths, which daily take place in all other offices, through the insidious poison of alcoholic beverages.

This Institution being established for the exclusive benefit of its members, is capable of securing to them the utmost possible advantages of the system of Mutual Assurance. It has also several important advantages over other offices. All particulars may be had on application, and will be sent free to any address.

Persons disposed to act as Agents are requested to write to the Secretary, Mr. THEODORE COMPTON, at the office, 39, Moorgate-street, City, London.

Now ready, price 1d., in royal 8vo,

WESLEYAN METHODISM: a Review of the "Papers on Wesleyan Matters," and "The Fly-Sheets Vindicated;" with an account of the District Meeting proceedings against the Rev. Messrs. Burdall, Dunn, Everett, and Walton: to which is added a brief notice of the fifth and last "Paper on Wesleyan Matters."

May be had at the Office of the "STANDARD OF FREEDOM," 335, Strand; and of B. L. GREEN, Paternoster-row.

New edition, price 6d.,

MESMERISM.—Six Lectures on the Philosophy of Mesmerism. By Rev. JOHN BOVEE DODS, Boston, U.S.

London: SIMPKIN, MARSHALL and CO.; and all Booksellers.

CHOLERA! Lately publishing, with an engraving of a Domestic Steam Bath, price 2s. 6d.

ATMOPATHY and HYDROPATHY, or How to Cure Diseases by Steam and Water, with a chapter showing the remarkable efficacy of Steam in the cure of ASIATIC CHOLERA; with testimonies and cases. By DAVID ROSS, of Manchester.

London: SIMPKIN, MARSHALL and CO., and may be had by order of all Booksellers.

With illustrative engravings, 584 pp., complete, in cloth, 12s., or in monthly parts, 1s. each.

THE DOMESTIC PRACTICE of HYDRO-PATHY. By Dr. E. JOHNSON.

"The most sensible book on Hydrophy that we have encountered."—Morning Post.

London: SIMPKIN, MARSHALL, and CO. Ipswich: J. M. BURTON. And by order of all booksellers.

THE ABSTINENCE STANDARD and TRUE SOCIAL REFORMER, a Weekly Journal devoted to the exposition of TRUE TEMPERANCE PRINCIPLES. Price One Penny, or in Monthly Parts, price Sixpence. Number 10 and Part 2 now ready.

London: W. TWEEDIE, 3, Falcon-street, and to be had of all Booksellers.

Price One Penny, 24 pages, 12mo.,

A WORD for TEETOTALISM: in Reply to "the Confessions of a Convert from Teetotalism to Temperance." Addressed to Mr. Thomas Smeeton, Baptist Minister, and late Teetotal Advocate. By T. MACHIN.

"A well-written pamphlet, as superior to the unmitigated cant of Thomas Smeeton as the natural fragrance of the rose is to that which springs from the pigment of the painter, as he brushes an imitation of that flower on his canvass. We cordially recommend it to every one who feels an interest in the Temperance Movement."—Standard of Freedom.

London: Published by HOULSTON and STONEMAN, Paternoster-row.

ALMANACKS FOR 1850.

THE PROTESTANT DISSENTER'S ALMANACK for 1850 will be ready to issue with the Magazines for November.

This Almanack (64 pages, price Threepence), in addition to the information common in Almanacks, will contain a mass of Statistics of the various Religious Denominations and Societies of the kingdom; Lists of Chapels occupied by Independents and Baptists in the Metropolis, with the names of the Ministers and the hours of Service. This Almanack will also be enriched with ORIGINAL ARTICLES upon the principal topics and events of the year in connexion with Religious Freedom, viz.:—A Retrospect of 1849.—Once a Priest always a Priest.—The Hon. and Rev. Baptist Noel's Secession from the State-Church.—Baptismal Regeneration.—The Evangelical Clergy in a Strait.—Hungary and Religious Liberty.—Financial Reform Essential to the Progress of Religion and Civilization.—The Modern Inquisition.—The Working Classes, and Adaptation of Means for their Elevation.—The Claims of British India.—The Infallibility of the Anglican Church.—The Substitution of Ritual for Spiritual Religion effected by a State-Church.—Ecclesiastical History of a Life: Baptism—Confirmation—Marriage—Absolution—Burial.—The Prospects and Duties of Dissenters;—and a variety of valuable extracts from the works of distinguished writers on the principles of Nonconformity.

THE FINANCIAL REFORM ALMANACK, "bristling with Statistics," will be ready with the Magazines for November. Price Threepence.

The FINANCIAL REFORM ALMANACK for 1850, besides the Calendar and all other topics pertaining to Almanacks, will contain, among a variety of ORIGINAL ARTICLES, the following:—

History of Taxation—Present Amount and Sources of Taxation—The Civil List—The Army—The Navy—Naval and Military Colonial Expenditure—The Woods and Forests—The Civil Service—The Executive—Colonial Government and Expenditure—Indirect Taxation—The Budget of Richard Cobden for 1849—The Armed Peace Policy—The European Debt—National Debt—The Pension List—In and Out of Office—The Poor-laws—Local or Delegate Taxation—Taxation and Representation—The Expense of War—Miscellaneous Abuses—Law and Justice—Education, Science, and Art—Ambassador's, Royal, and other Palaces—Colonial, Consular, and other Foreign Purposes—Consuls—Regium Donum—Queen's Plates—Charities to Ireland—British India and the Cotton Trade—with a variety of Facts, Seraps, and Statistics.

ADVERTISEMENTS received NOT LATER than the 15TH OF THE CURRENT MONTH. The circulation will be 20,000. Terms for advertisements:—

Five lines and under	£0 7 6
And every succeeding line	0 1 6
An entire page	3 10 0

London: STANDARD OF FREEDOM OFFICE; and CHARLES GILPIN, 5, Bishopsgate-street Without.

THE PEOPLE'S ALMANACK for 1850 is now ready.—THE BEST ALMANACK EVER PUBLISHED AT ONE PENNY.—With excellent Engravings, emblematic of the Progress of Reforms, Political, Social, and Moral. Besides the usual Calendar, List of Fairs, Stamp Duties, Weather Table, &c., it will contain short original Essays on what the People of England should be as regards Freedom—Intelligence—Health—Industry—Riches—Providence for the Future—Peacefulness—Equitable Taxation—Due Representation—Sobriety—and General Happiness; with illustrative Statistics, &c. This Almanack will fully justify its claim to the title of "THE PEOPLE'S ALMANACK," forming a Compendium of the People's Privileges and Duties, and a useful Family Companion. Neatly printed on thirty-two octavo pages, price ONE PENNY.

A LIBERAL ALLOWANCE will be made to the Trade, who are requested to send in their orders IMMEDIATELY.

THE TEETOTALER'S ALMANACK for 1850, neatly printed in thirty-two pages 8vo, with Engravings, price ONE PENNY, will be ready for delivery with the November Magazines. Besides the Calendar and other matter usually found in Almanacks, will be Original Articles on the Importance of Teetotalism in connexion with Health of Body—Intellectual Vigour—Industry—Social and Domestic Comfort—Competence—Respectability—Morality and Religion—Usefulness—Trade and Commerce—National Prosperity, and the Maintenance and spread of Religion.—Chronology of the Temperance Movement; and other articles of much interest to Teetotalers.

THE EMIGRANT'S ALMANACK for 1850.—This Almanack, which will contain a large quantity of matter of considerable importance to all who are interested in the subject of Emigration, will be ready for delivery with the November Magazines. Price FOURPENCE.

TO BE HAD OF ALL BOOKSELLERS.

FOR SUMMER WEAR.—The Thin Gutta Percha Soles are strongly recommended. They not only resist all wet and moisture, thus preserving the health of the wearer, but being so much thinner than leather, they are extremely light and cool for summer wear.

NOTICE.

The Gutta Percha Company beg to state that when the soles are applied according to their "Directions to Shoemakers," it is impossible for them to come off until worn through, and they therefore urge the public to employ those only who will "warrant" them to adhere. This notice is necessary in consequence of interested parties having intentionally fixed the soles on imperfectly.

TO EMIGRANTS, CAPTAINS, &c.

No one should leave England without providing himself with a stock of Gutta Percha Soles and Solution. The case with which these soles can be applied in countries where no shoemaker can be found—their power of keeping the feet perfectly dry, thus preserving the body from coughs, colds, &c., in lands where medical advice cannot be had—and their great durability and cheapness, render them invaluable to all who propose sailing to distant countries. Gutta Percha Wash-basins, Chamber-bowls, Bottles, Flasks, &c., are admirably suited for shipboard and emigrants, as they can so readily be converted into life-buoys in the event of a shipwreck.

TO ARCHITECTS, &c.

In consequence of the extraordinary power possessed by Gutta Percha Tubing for propelling sound, it is admirably adapted for conveying messages, &c., in Dwelling Houses, Hotels, Warehouses, Mills, &c. This Tubing is also valuable for conveying Gas, Water, and as Refuse Pipes, being unaffected by acids, alkalies, grease, &c., and not so subject to incrustation or affected by the frost as metal pipes.

MILL BANDS.

The increasing demand for the Gutta Percha strapping for driving-bands, lathe-straps, &c., fully justifies the strong recommendations they have everywhere received.

PUMP BUCKETS, CLACKS, &c.

Few applications of Gutta Percha appear likely to be of such extensive use to Manufacturers, Engineers, &c., as the substitution of it for leather in pump-buckets, valves, &c. These buckets can be had of any size and thickness, without any seam or raised joint. They are unaffected by acids, grease, alkalies, &c. Cold water will never soften them, and they are consequently much more durable than leather, and also cheaper.

GUTTA PERCHA PICTURE FRAMES AND ORNAMENTS.

In imitation of the finest wood carving, suitable for the decoration of houses, cabinet work, &c.

GUTTA PERCHA CRICKET-BALLS

are superior to any others yet invented. They are never softened by the grass, however wet, and being made without any stitching, are not liable to rot like the leather ones.

GUTTA PERCHA BOUNCING BALLS

may be had in every variety of colour.

GUTTA PERCHA CLOTHES-LINES.

Being unaffected by the weather, they may be left out in the open air without sustaining injury.

GUTTA PERCHA WINDOW-BLIND CORD

is easily joined by heating the ends. Does not contract and expand like the ordinary cord. It may be had of various colours.

Every other variety of Gutta Percha articles, such as Brackets, Pen-trays, Inkstands, Medallions, Surgical Instruments, Vases, Trays, Watch-stands, Cups, Flasks, Lathe Bands, Clothes-line, Cricket and Bouncing Balls, Pump Buckets, Galvanic Batteries, Chamber-bowls, Washing-basins, Cash-bowls, Ornamental Flower-pots and Stands, Soap-dishes, Electric Telegraph Wire, &c., are manufactured at Wharf-road, City-road, London, and sold by their dealers in town and country.

Price 2d., or by post 3d.,

CAUTIONS and TESTIMONY against ODD FELLOWSHIP. By H. MUDGE, Surgeon, Bodmin.

Also, price 2s., or by post 2s. 6d., by the same author, EXPOSURE of ODD FELLOWSHIP; showing its immoral tendency and bankrupt circumstances, and containing as well a large amount of information on the subject of Friendly Societies. WHITTAKER, London; LIDDELL, Bodmin.

Now ready.

THE WESLEY BANNER for October.

Edited by the Rev. SAMUEL DUNN, assisted by Messrs. EVERETT, GRIFFITH, and other Ministers and Gentlemen. The WESLEY BANNER is enlarged from Sixteen to Forty-eight pages, while the price is only increased One Penny, viz., to Three-pence. The WESLEY BANNER for October contains:—The Cabinet: The Christian Brotherhood—The Being of God—Wesley's Unpublished Journal—Wesley's Talent for Government.—Theology: The Remcompense of the Reward. A Sermon.—Miscellaneous Communications: The Expelled Ministers.—Remarkable Conference: First Wesleyan Conference.—An Address to the Methodists.—Policy of the Conference.—Revivals of Religion: A Revival of Religion—On Doing Good—How to Read the Bible—Special Services—Tyndale—Bigotry—Open-Air Preaching.—Local Preachers: Godliness Profitable—Encouragement to the Weak—Pharisaic and Evangelical Righteousness.—Class-Leaders: Duties of Members towards their Leaders.—The Faithful Leader.—Bible Classes and Sabbath-schools: Alphabetical Lecture on Jerusalem—Interest taken in Sunday-schools.—Temperance: The Excellencies of Water—Snuff-taking—Effects of Strong Drink on the Smelling—Economy of time.—Herald of Peace: Peace Congress of Paris—Expense of War—Horror of War—The Humane Pilot.—Religious Intelligence: What has the Gospel done?—The Providence of God displayed—Droppings of the Sanctuary.—Our Children: To a Girl at School—From a Boy at School—Mother and Son—My Mother's Sickness—Parental Counsel.—Our Servants: Marriage—Christian Duties to Domestic.—Natural History: Entomology; Organs of Motion—The Races of Mankind.—Poetry: Stanzas addressed to Dr. A. Clarke, by J. Everett.—Original Letters: Rev. J. Wesley to Lord North—Rev. A. Clarke to his Wife—Rev. J. Chambers to Rev. A. Clarke—Varieties: Early Methodist Preachers—Constantine—Wilberforce—Buchanan—Memory—Objects of Church Fellowship—Zeal—Different Gifts: Amen—God's Rule—The Bishops Outwitted—The Scriptures Copied—Virtue is Honour—Laws against the Bible—The Pilgrim's Progress.—Eminent Persons.—Reviews: Popery of Wesleyanism—Lectures on the Bible—Sketches of Primitive Methodism—Lectures to Local Preachers—Sermon by J. A. James.

London: Published by Messrs. PARTIDGE and OAKLEY, Paternoster-row. Order at once of any Bookseller, or through the agents of the "Wesleyan Times."

It is the intention of the Proprietor of THE WESLEYAN TIMES to give

PORTRAITS of the Rev. Messrs. EVERETT, DUNN, and GRIFFITH to all new Subscribers to the end of the year, beginning with the paper of the 27th of August, which, to December 31, will be 7s. 11d. The Portraits will be sent also to the present Subscribers who may continue that period. Some few copies of the Conference Series may still be had at 3s. for the series, or 11s. 4d. to the end of the year. Parties may commence with the paper of the 16th of August, which contains the Stations, for 8s. 8d., to the above-mentioned date.

Just published, royal 8vo, price 2d., or 12s. per hundred,

AN EXPOSURE of the PROCEEDINGS of the WESLEYAN CONFERENCE, by the THREE EXPELLED MINISTERS, the Rev. Messrs. JAMES EVERETT, SAMUEL DUNN, and WILLIAM GRIFFITH, jun.

Just published, in super royal 8vo, price 6d.,

THE PROCEEDINGS of the WESLEYAN CONFERENCE, 1849; compiled from authentic sources. To committees and others, wanting large quantities, if ordered direct, they will be charged at £1 17s. 6d. per hundred, or 4s. 6d. per dozen.

Now ready, price 2d.,

A FULL REPORT, taken from Short-hand Writers' Notes, of the SPEECHES of the Rev. Messrs. EVERETT, DUNN, and GRIFFITH, relating to their expulsion from the Wesleyan Conference, at the Great Meeting at Exeter-hall, on Friday, August 31, 1849. Committees and others requiring fifty copies, and upwards, if ordered direct, will be charged at the rate of 12s. per hundred.

THE WESLEYAN ALMANACK, for 1850. It will be ready by the middle of October. Price 6d. It will contain a mass of statistical and important matter, deeply interesting to every true Methodist.

"Wesleyan Times" Office, 59, Fleet-street.

JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEES.

THE ESTABLISHMENT of JOHN CASSELL is the largest in the Kingdom, and the demand created for his Coffee is wholly unparalleled. This has not arisen from his professing to send out any new, peculiarly "prepared," or "patented" article, but simply from his having placed within the reach of all Families Coffees of the world's finest growths, possessing richness, mellowness, and strength of flavour not to be surpassed, and at moderate prices. It is a fact, that wherever JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEES are introduced, their continued use is secured. These Coffees are made up in sealed air-tight Packages, containing two ounces, quarter and half pounds, and also in Canisters containing one or two pounds, and, to PREVENT IMPOSITION, every Package or Canister bears the signature of "JOHN CASSELL," without which none can be genuine. The following are the prices at which they can be obtained:—

JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, No. 1,	1s. 4d.
An excellent Article.
JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, No. 2,	1s. 8d.
Cannot fail to give great satisfaction, being a combination of the choicest growths of Jamaica, possessing richness, strength, and flavour.
JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, No. 3,	2s. 0d.
To every Connoisseur in Coffee this will prove a treat, combining the finest mountain-growths of both Jamaica and Turkey.

JOHN CASSELL'S FIVE SHILLING TEA.

This is a combination of the finest and most carefully-selected Teas, the produce of choice, young, and tender plants. It possesses not only strength, but a peculiar and delicious fragrance, which cannot fail to render it pleasant to the most fastidious palate and to the exquisite taste of the connoisseur. This may be had either wholly Black or Black and Green mixed. It is sold in Catty Packages only, containing from two ounces to one pound; and every package bears the signature of "JOHN CASSELL," without which none can be genuine.

No. 80, FENCHURCH-STREET.

TEMPERANCE CERTIFICATE.

Second Edition.

JUST PUBLISHED, a very beautifully engraved PLEDGE-CARD, with a Wreath around, combining the rose, shamrock, and thistle, interspersed with Temperance Mottoes, mounted upon which is the Temperance Coat of Arms. Size 8½ in. by 6½ in. Price: Painted on enamelled cards, 1s.; ditto on plain, 9d.; printed on enamelled cards, 6d.; ditto on plain, 3d.

A liberal allowance to booksellers and temperance secretaries.

London: WHITTAKER and CO., Ave-Maria-lane; B. L. GREEN, 63, Paternoster-row. Manchester: R. HOLKER, 237, Great Ancoats-street. Leeds: JOHN KERSHAW, South Market. Huddersfield: WATERS HARDY, Market-place.

Just published, price One Penny, No. 18 of

THE LIVERPOOL FINANCIAL REFORM TRACTS.

Subjects.—The Estimates for Civil Services for 1849-50 illustrated as follows:—1. Public Works and Buildings. 2. Salaries and Expenses of Public Departments. 3. Law and Justice. 4. Education, Science, and Art. 5. Colonial, Consular, and other Foreign Purposes. 6. Superannuations and Retired Allowances, &c.

The LIVERPOOL FINANCIAL REFORM TRACTS No. 1 to 17 are also ready, and embrace the following subjects:—

No. 1. Civil List.—No. 2. Pension List.—No. 3. Taxation.—No. 4. The Army, Ordnance, Commissariat, Navy, Colonies.—No. 5. Ditto, ditto.—No. 6. The National Budget for 1849, by Richard Cobden, Esq., M.P.; with a Report of the Public Meeting held at the Concert Hall, Liverpool, December 20, 1848, at which the Budget was announced to the Nation.—No. 7. The Army, Ordnance, Commissariat, Navy, Colonies. The Army Clothing, together with Major-General Sir William Napier's Attack on the Association, and their Reply.—No. 8. The Woods, Forests, and Estates of the Crown.—No. 9. The Dead Weight of the Army.—No. 10. The Navy.—Nos. 11 and 12. Sir W. Molesworth on Colonial Expenditure (price Two-pence).—No. 13. The Navy.—No. 14. Miscellaneous Expenses.—No. 15. Direct Taxation.—No. 16. Expenditure of the State, and Taxation of the People; Annual Report of the Liverpool Financial Reform Association: The Council of the Liverpool Financial Reform Association to the Tenant-Farmers of the United Kingdom; Slave Trade Abolition Expenditure; The Speech of John Smith, Esq., of the "Liverpool Mercury."—No. 17. The Evils of Indirect Taxation.—1. Indirect Tax upon a Commodity, such as Tea, withdraws Capital from Productive Employment. 2. The Tea Trade. 3. The Tea Duty. 4. The Tea Duty further exemplified—its deteriorating the quality of Tea. 5. The Tea Duty in relation to the Social Comfort and Morals of the Working Classes.

Published at the Office of the STANDARD OF FREEDOM, 335, Strand, London; and sold by all Booksellers.

DR. CHEYNE'S COUGH and PULMONIC

LOZENGES.—The fame of these Lozenges is fully established as the most pleasant and efficacious remedy that can be employed for the removal of coughs. To the asthmatic, or those who are afflicted with a difficulty of breathing, or a redundancy of phlegm, they give instant relief, by causing free expectoration. They allay the irritation attendant on all affections of the throat, and strengthen the lungs to resist the effects of sudden changes. They remove hoarseness and greatly improve the voice. They arrest, in its incipient stages, that fearful result of our variable atmosphere—consumption; and for diseases of the pulmonary organs a more safe and salutary remedy cannot be applied. For aged persons they are invaluable, and none, whose lungs are in the least degree susceptible of cold, ought to be without them. They afford relief in every case of cough, and where there is no physical disorganization they will effect a cure.

Sold in Boxes at 1s. 1½d., and 2s. 9d., each, by Messrs. Sutton, 10, Bow Church-yard; Barclay's, 95, Farringdon-street; Edwards, 67, St. Paul's Church-yard; Dietrichson and Co., 63, Oxford-street; Sanger, 150, Oxford-street; Johnson, 68, Cornhill; King, 34, Napier-street, Hoxton; Bolton and Co., York; Raines and Co., Edinburgh; and by at least one Agent in every town throughout the United Kingdom.

Now ready, in demy 8vo., containing 32 pages, price 2d.,

THE GREAT MILITARY AND NAVAL

PARLIAMENT; being an Analysis of both our Houses of Parliament: showing, from a careful examination of the Red-Books of the Aristocracy themselves, the true secret of the constant increase in our Military and Naval expenditure, in a STANDING MAJORITY in both Houses of nearly 300 members directly connected with the war system. No such dissection of our Legislative body has hitherto been made; and it may safely be said that no man, till he has gone over this list of 700 Members of Parliament connected with the military system by appointment, marriage, or consanguinity, is at all aware of the real character of the body that governs us.

Now ready, in demy 8vo., containing 40 pages, price 3d.,

OUR GREAT STATE-CHURCH PARLIAMENT: an Analysis of both Houses of Parliament; showing that there are in the two Houses 700 direct holders and dealers in Churches and Church influence, with a STANDING MAJORITY of 151 devoted to the maintenance of the present Ecclesiastical system. In a former publication, entitled the "Great Military and Naval Parliament," it is shown that the Government, both of the Cabinet and the Senate, consists of a majority of soldiers. In the present work another view is taken of them, and they are now presented again as proprietors of the State-church.

Published at the Office of the STANDARD OF FREEDOM, 335, Strand; CHARLES GILPIN, Bishopsgate-street; and to be had of all Booksellers.

Printed and Published by WILLIAM CATHRELL, of 59, Albany-road, Camberwell, Surrey, at his Printing Office, 335, Strand, London.

MONDAY, October 1, 1842.

THE
TEETOTAL TIMES
AND ESSAYIST.

PUBLISHED MONTHLY

No. XXIII.—NEW SERIES.]

LONDON, NOVEMBER, 1849

{ Price One Penny.
{ Stamped, Twopence.

IMPORTANT TEMPERANCE DEMONSTRATIONS in EXETER-HALL.

COMMITTEE OF MANAGEMENT.

T. R. SMITHIES,	J. H. ESTERBROOKE,
E. TISDELL,	J. BAILEY,
G. C. CAMPBELL,	J. PHILLIPS,
— WILSON,	W. TWEEDIE,
W. SPRIGGS,	J. P. DRAPER,
J. W. GREEN,	S. CATTON.

TREASURER AND CHAIRMAN—JOHN CASSELL, Esq.

For the purpose of presenting the claims of the Temperance Movement more fully before various sections of the community, it has been determined to hold SIX PUBLIC MEETINGS in EXETER-HALL. Two of these Meetings have already been held; the THIRD will take place on Monday, December 3, 1849, when "The Claims of the Temperance Movement upon the Teachers and Friends of Sabbath Schools" will be considered. Dr. JABEZ BURNS, the Rev. JAMES SHERMAN, and other Ministers and Superintendents of Sabbath Schools, are expected to address the Meeting.

As a large sum, probably not less than TWO HUNDRED POUNDS, will be required to carry out this object, the Committee respectfully invite the co-operation of all who are desirous of promoting the social and moral elevation of the community. It is believed that by these meetings the attention of a large portion of the public will be secured, while the reports of the Addresses delivered will circulate information to an almost indefinite extent.

Amount already advertised since —	£133 9 0
Mr. W. Cory.....	1 1 0	W. Sims, Esq. (Cam-berwell).....	£1 1 0
Mr. G. Harris.....	0 10 0	Mr. F. Grosjean....	1 0 0
Mr. J. H. Harris....	0 10 0	Mr. Castleden (Mile-end).....	0 10 0
Mr. and Mrs. Dexter	0 10 0	P. Whitehead, Esq. (Rawtenstall)....	1 1 0
Mr. Taylor.....	0 5 0	H. M.....	1 0 0
T. C. Frebble, Esq..	0 10 0	Robert Russell, Esq..	1 1 0
Miss Kipping.....	1 0 0	— Froul, Esq.....	1 1 0
Mr. Pearce (Devon)	0 5 0	Mr. Clay.....	0 5 0
John Bright, Esq.,		Mr. Gill.....	0 8 0
M.P.....	1 1 0	Mr. Ward.....	0 2 6
		Mr. G. Nicholson....	0 5 0

Donations will be thankfully received by the Treasurer, 80, Fenchurch-street; Messrs. Wilson and Campbell, Blackfriars-road; Mr. Tweedie, 3, Falcon-street, Aldersgate-street; Mr. J. P. Draper, 88, Great Fitchfield-street; Mr. E. Tisdell, High-street, Kensington; Mr. W. Spriggs, 14, Brook-street, West-square, Lambeth; Mr. S. Catton, Plaistow; or by any member of the Committee.

The doors on each occasion will be opened at half-past Five o'clock, and the Chair will be taken at Six o'clock. The admission to the Platform will be by Tickets, price (for the remainder of series) 2s. 6d., or, for a single Meeting, 1s. These may be had of any of the persons named above. The admission to the Body of the Hall and the Western Gallery will be FREE.

G. C. CAMPBELL,
T. B. SMITHIES, } Hon. Sees.
J. H. ESTERBROOKE, }

CHRISTIAN TEMPERANCE UNION.

THE ANNUAL MEETING will be held on Monday, November 12, 1849, at LAWSON'S ASSEMBLY ROOMS, Upper Gower-street, New-road. Tea at Half-past Five; and the Chair will be taken at Seven o'clock, by the Rev. JABEZ BURNS, D.D., President.

The Rev. W. Morton, of Calcutta; Rev. A. Mahan, President of Oberlin College, United States; Benjamin Rotch, Esq., B.C.L. Rev. Isaac Doxsey; and Rev. W. R. Baker will take part in the proceedings.

Tickets for the Tea, Ninepence each, may be obtained of Mr. Tweedie, Bookseller, 3, Falcon-street, General Post-office; Messrs. Wilson and Campbell, 51, Blackfriars-road; at the Hawkstone-hall, Waterloo-road (on Tuesday evenings); the Committee-rooms, 32, Platt-terrace, Old St. Pancras-road, and of the Secretary, 8, Southampton-street, Pentonville.

R. GRIFFITHS, Hon. Sec.

NEW MAGAZINE FOR THE PEOPLE,

TO BE CALLED

THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND,
AND FAMILY INSTRUCTOR.

On the first of January, 1850, it is the intention of JOHN CASSELL to issue the FIRST NUMBER of a NEW MAGAZINE, under the above title, to be continued MONTHLY. It will contain 32 pages crown 8vo, while its price will be only ONE PENNY.

THE DESIGN OF THIS PUBLICATION

is to furnish instruction to WORKING MEN upon every topic calculated to inform and elevate their understandings, and at the same time to afford them rational amusement. Hence it will disdain to pander to a vitiated taste by depicting scenes of horror, or by providing tales of sickly sentimentality or wild romance, which are far more likely to debase and brutalise the mind, than to store it with valuable truth, or to expand and exercise its noble powers.

This Publication will also fully carry out all that is implied in its secondary title, and communicate instruction to the FAMILY CIRCLE. Here the WIFE and the MOTHER will find valuable hints as to domestic arrangements, and the JUVENILES will see that they are not forgotten.

That this Publication may be heartily welcomed by every Working Man as his "FRIEND," a portion of its pages will be specially devoted to the consideration of those subjects which more immediately concern his physical, social, political, and moral welfare. Every Working Man who feels interested in the FREEHOLD LAND SCHEME ought to take in this Magazine, as the Proprietor is determined to make it the very best authority upon all points connected with this most important movement of the age.

JOHN CASSELL, while thus making known his intention to issue this Magazine, calls upon all who sympathise with the PEOPLE, and who have their moral and social improvement at heart, to assist him in, what may in truth be termed, a gigantic undertaking. Though "THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND AND FAMILY INSTRUCTOR" will be but a PENNY Magazine, its dimensions will admit of a vast amount of letter-press, which it is determined shall be of the first order; and whatever the sacrifice may be, none but talent of the highest class will be employed upon it. In every periodical, pamphlet, or other work which the projector of this Magazine has issued, it has been his aim to have it characterised not only by CHEAPNESS, but by UTILITY, and by SUPERIOR LITERARY TALENT: it is his determination that this Magazine shall be in no respect inferior.

TO BOOKSELLERS:

For the more successful prosecution of the present design, it is hoped that every Bookseller who feels interested in the elevation of the masses will take pleasure in making known and furthering the sale of THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND AND FAMILY INSTRUCTOR. The same allowance will be made to the Trade as is the custom as to cheap literature.

The Magazine will be published at the Office of THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM, 335, Strand, London.

ALL the TEMPERANCE PUBLICATIONS to be had on application, or sent to the country, by WM. TWEEDIE, Bookseller and Stationer, 3, Falcon-street, City, London. Newspapers and General Literature.

THE PEOPLE'S ABSTINENCE STANDARD is the only Weekly Journal devoted to the Total Abstinence Cause.—Each Number contains one of a series of papers on Popular Physiology, illustrated by Anatomical Engravings, in which the physical effect of Alcohol will be fully explained—Articles on the Connection between Christianity, Peace, Freedom, Political Progress, and True Temperance—Reviews of New Books—Original Poetry and Temperance Tales—One Page of Medical Quotations—with Reports of Meetings in Town and Country. Published in time for Booksellers in Town and Country to supply it on Saturday.

Price 1d., or Parts, 6d. A few back Numbers still on hand. London: Published by W. TWEEDIE, 3, Falcon-street, City; W. HORSEL, Aldine-chambers, Paternoster-row; and all Booksellers.

A CATALOGUE OF IPSWICH
TEMPERANCE PUBLICATIONS.

ALL these, whether Books, Tracts, or Hand-bills or Notice Papers, are sold in SIXPENNY PACKETS. Fifty Packets of either will be delivered to any address in London, for a Guinea, sent by Post-office Order to Richard Dykes Alexander Ipswich; or they may be had of any Bookseller in the country through Simpkin, Marshall, and Co., Stationers-hall-court, Londonn.

IPSWICH JUVENILE TEMPERANCE BOOKS,

ALL WITH PICTURES,

Thirty-two in number, in three ASSORTED Packets.

No. 1—1 to 16. | No. 2—17 to 32.
No. 3—33 to 46.

HAND-BILLS FOR PUBLIC MEETINGS.

Nine inches by six. On the back of each is a Temperance Tract. Fifty for Sixpence.

NOTICE PAPERS.

With the same form as the Hand-bills. The opinions of eminent persons on Teetotalism on the back of each. Two Hundred for Sixpence.

IPSWICH TEMPERANCE TRACTS.

Those Tracts marked with an * have Pictures.

	Pages.
1 The Doctor Scrutinized, or for what purposes do Physicians prescribe Alcoholic Beverages? By R. D. Alexander, F.L.S., 122 thousand.....	8
2 Striking Facts, 84 thousand.....	2
3 Maker and Vender, 44 thousand.....	2
4 Our Creed, 52 thousand.....	2
5 Adulterated Beer, 34 thousand.....	4
6 Adulterated Wine, 40 thousand.....	4
7 The Maltster, 37 thousand.....	4
8 Go Feel what I have Felt, 53 thousand.....	2
9 Facts are stubborn Things, 53 thousand.....	2
*10 The Spirit Dealer, 35 thousand.....	2
11 Christian Teetotalism, 70 thousand.....	2
12 The Trade, 33 thousand.....	4
13 Alcohol, 33 thousand.....	4
14 The Town of Ipswich, 33 thousand.....	4
*15 Song of the Water Drinker, 37 thousand.....	2
16 Stimulation not Strength, 30 thousand.....	8
17 Farmer Woodman's Speech, 41 thousand.....	4
*18 The Beer Barrel Examined, 33 thousand.....	8
19 Teetotal Recipes, 38 thousand.....	4
*20 Speech of J. J. Gurney, 30 thousand.....	4
21 Pity the Poor Drunkard, 43 thousand.....	2
22 The Fool's Pence, 25 thousand.....	8
23 Why am I a Teetotaler? 26 thousand.....	2
*24 Dost thou Smoke, Bill! 34 thousand.....	4
25 William, the Laudanum Drinker, 30 thousand.....	4
26 The Ox Discourse.....	4
27 Letter to the Clergy, by a Brother Clergyman, 21 thousand.....	20
28 Common Sense, 20 thousand.....	20
29 Ralph the Soldier.....	4
30 Testimony of Eminent Physicians, 30 thousand.....	4
31 The Working Man, 35 thousand.....	20
32 Is I not happy? by Hugh Stowell, 30 thousand.....	4
33 David the Shoemaker, 45 thousand.....	4
34 The Drunken Couple, 48 thousand.....	2
35 Confessions of a Drunkard, 29 thousand.....	4
36 Master Tailor, 20 thousand.....	2
37 The Fatal Gift, 36 thousand.....	4
38 Poor Sandy.....	8
39 Use and Abuse, by Archdeacon Jeffries, 34 thousand.....	2
40 The Schoolmaster.....	2
41 Water is Best, by J. J. Gurney, 37 thousand.....	4
42 Cobbett's Advice.....	4
43 Take a Public-house.....	4
*44 A Sailor's Yarn.....	4
45 Moderate Drinking Calmly Considered.....	12
46 The Pledge.....	4
*47 John Jarvis, or the Pledge Signed.....	12
*48 The Fifteen Friends.....	4
49 Sunday-School Teachers, 22 thousand.....	12
50 Sunday-School Children, 40 thousand.....	12
*51 Money better than Beer, 37 thousand.....	4
*52 Little Mary or a Daughter's Love.....	8
53 Philosophy of Temperance, by R. D. Trail, M.D.....	20
54 Love to Man, or an Appeal to the Pious.....	20
*55 The Young Woman's Tract.....	12
56 The Young Man's Tract.....	16
57 Dr. Campbell's Testimony, 18 thousand.....	8
58 Why sign the Pledge? 40 thousand.....	2
59 The Poor Man's House Repaired.....	8
60 The Mother's Tract.....	8
61 The High Price of Food.....	4
62 Ladies' Tract Societies.....	8

63 The Praise of Water, 25 thousand.....	2
64 Important Calculations.....	2
*65 The Farm Servant, 25 thousand.....	2
66 Teetotalism Declining, 15 thousand.....	8
*67 The Reformed Drunkard, 20 thousand.....	8
68 The Recruit of the British Legion.....	8
69 No. 1 of Temperance Anecdotes.....	12
70 No. 2 ditto.....	12
71 No. 3 ditto.....	12
72 No. 4 ditto.....	12
73 Luke Husler; or, "I did not like to say No.".....	8
74 The Drunkard's Wife.....	8
75 The Unexplored Island.....	4
76 Ancient Wines, by R. D. Alexander.....	8
77 Influence of Example, 15 thousand.....	2
*78 The Victim of Excitement.....	20
*79 My Medical Adviser does not approve of Teetotalism.....	4
*80 The Restoration.....	8

The following have been published in the year 1848.

	Pages.
81 The Use of Intoxicating Drinks explained, by Archdeacon Jeffries.....	12
*82 Drink and be Happy.....	4
83 The Five Nips.....	4
84 The Honest Spirit Dealer's Advertisement.....	2
85 Seven Years' Experience of a Reclaimed Drunkard.....	2
*86 The Education of the Drunkard, with 5 pictures.....	12
*87 A Word with Serious People, by John Bright, M.P.....	4
*88 Guide to Glendalough.....	4
*89 Bridget Larkins.....	4
90 The Contrast.....	2
91 Tobacco a Cause of Intemperance.....	2
*92 The Wedding Night.....	12
*93 My Chapel.....	4
*94 The Best Men sometimes Err, by Archdeacon Jeffries.....	8
*95 The Testimonies of Eight Judges.....	2
*96 The Drunkard in Rags.....	2
*97 The Farmer and the Labourer—a Dialogue.....	4
*98 The Gloucestershire Farmer.....	4
*99 Strong Drink and Infidelity; or the Last Illness of Wm. Chapman.....	8
100 Catalogue of Temperance Publications.....	4
101 The Hertfordshire Farmer, 10 thousand.....	2
*102 Sunday Schools and Strong Drink.....	4
103 Confessions of a Publican.....	2
104 Peter Levison, or the Ruined Minister.....	4
105 Testimony of John Angell James, 10 thousand.....	2
*106 I do not drink Wine, 10 thousand.....	2
*107 Self-Imposed Burdens, 10 thousand.....	2
*108 The Craving of a Drunkard.....	8
*109 Richard H—, or the Poor Orphan Boy.....	4
*110 Loss of Seven Fishermen.....	8
111 A Temperance Catechism for Sunday Schools.....	8
*112 The Mail Coachman, 10 thousand.....	4
113 The Reformed Family. By Anne Jane Carille.....	4
114 Licensing Day at Bolton.....	4
115 The Stomach of a Drunkard.....	4
116 Intemperance and Ragged Schools.....	4
*117 Delirium Tremens.....	4

The following have been published in the year 1849.

118 The Fire-Escape and the Ship in Danger.....	4
119 The Sabbath Morn, or an Address to Young Persons on Total Abstinence. By Mary Buchanan.....	4
*120 Can a Christian keep a Public House—A Dialogue.....	4
121 The Aged Friend.....	2
*122 The Village of Newbridge.....	2
123 The Mirror of Intemperance.....	4
*124 Alcohol, what it does, and what it cannot do, or the Influence of Alcoholic Drinks on the nutrition of the Body, and in the production of Disease. By Walter Johnson, M.B., with an Appendix by Edward Johnson, M.D.....	44
125 Barley, Malt, and Beer Question; or, What shall we do with the Barley. By Dr. F. R. Lees.....	8
126 Keep away from the Public House.....	4
127 Poor William—the Wine and Spirit Merchant.....	8
128 The Hearer to his Minister.....	4
129 Alcohol generates a tendency to Death. By Dr. E. Johnson.....	4
130 The Merchant's Dream; or, Warning of Remorse.....	4
131 Address to Females.....	2
*132 History of J. B. Gough of America.....	48
133 Livesey's Lecture on the Properties of Malt Liquor.....	34
*134 My Mother's Gold Ring.....	4
*135 Miraculous Deliverance.....	4
136 The Drunkard's Dream.....	2
*137 Archibald Prentice's Speech on Sanitary and Social Means to Political Ends.....	8
138 The Altered Man.....	2
139 The Temperance Love-feast. By T. B. Smithies.....	4

Assorted Packets: No. 1 containing 1 to 30—No. 2, 31 to 52—No. 3, 53 to 72—No. 4, 73 to 100—No. 5, 101 to 126—No. 6, 127 and upwards.

* * * Loan Tract Covers in Shilling Packets.

 Volumes containing the first 100 Tracts, Price 3s.

THE WESLEY BANNER for November,

Price THREEPENNE. Edited by the Rev. SAMUEL DUNN, assisted by Messrs. EVERETT and GRIFFITH, and other Ministers and Friends, contains:—

THE CABINET: Incentives to Holiness—Love to an Unseen Saviour—Reading—The Study of History—Infinity of God—A Contented Mind a Great Blessing—Wesley and Fletcher.

THEOLOGY: The Inheritance of the Saints: a Sermon.

MISCELLANEOUS COMMUNICATIONS: Remarkable Conferences—Conferences of 1745 and 1746—A Funeral Sermon by a Popish Priest—The Hampton Court Conference—The Disruption Anticipated—Freedom.

REVIVALS OF RELIGION: The Seeking Soul—Reverence for the Word of God—A Triumphant Death—Old Age Coming.

LOCAL PREACHERS: The Glory of Christ: a Sermon—Benson's Preaching—Ministerial Sins—Ministerial Principles—A Mutual Aid Association.

CLASS LEADERS: Responsibility of Class Leaders—Wesleyan Hymns.

BIBLE CLASSES AND SABBATH-SCHOOLS: Alphabetical Lecture on the Temple—Ragged Schools—Little David—Willie and his Mother.

TEMPERANCE: Woe to Drunkards! a Sermon—Early Rising—Increased Activity.

HERALD OF PEACE: Colonel Nichols and Dr. A. Clarke—War.

RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE: The Opinion of a Magistrate. DROPPINGS OF THE SANCTUARY: The General Judgment—Saints in Heaven—Sinners in Hell—Sanctified Afflictions—Temptation—Mortification—Sudden Death.

OUR CHILDREN: A Mother's Love—A Mother's Reward—Mothers should be Clean—Girls at School—A Smiling Family—Little Janet—Pray for your Ungodly Parents—Hints for Wives—Woman's Temper.

OUR SERVANTS: Margaret and the Bible—Servants should be Treated Kindly—Dr. A. Clarke and the Chaise-driver.

NATURAL HISTORY: Entomology—Instinct of Monkeys—Death of a Monkey.

POETRY: Elegiac Stanzas occasioned by the Death of the Rev. Charles Wesley.

ORIGINAL LETTERS: Rev. J. Wesley to Miss Taylor—Sir R. Phillips to Mrs. Macaulay Boyd—Dr. J. Kidd to Dr. A. Clarke—Mr. W. Dawson to John Branwell, Esq.

VARIABLES: A Talmud Allegory—Coincidences of Words—Popery in Lucerne—Protestant Popery—Liberty—A wonderful Tree—Printing and Magic—Price of Bibles—Lord John Russell and Methodism.

EMINENT PERSONS: Humphrey Prideaux—John Smith—Charlotte Augusta—John Milton—William Edward Miller—Thomas Parr—Richard Steel—John Tillotson, D.D.—Sir John Barrow—Isaac Watts, D.D.—Thomas Harner—John Seiden.

REVIEWS: The Wesleyan Conference—Memoir of Rev. William Bramwell—Life of Rev. John Macdonald—Memoir of Mrs. Eliza Kirk—Adam Clarke Portrayed—Memoir of Rev. Henry Duncan, D.D.—Jessie Graham—Theistes—The Parsons of the Nineteenth Century compared with the Parsons of the First Century—The Christian Preacher's Pocket Companion—Doctrinal Conversations—Hints to Church Members—Youthful Piety Exhibited—A Few Words to Religious Inquirers—Minutes of Conference of Bible Christians—The Wesleyan Conference of 1849 condemned by the Law of Christ—The Recent Acts of the Wesleyan Conference, Novel, Arbitrary, and Unscriptural.

THE WESLEY BANNER was enlarged, with the October Number, from sixteen to forty-eight pages, while its price was increased only One Penny. The very great and increasing circulation of THE WESLEY BANNER renders it a most eligible medium for all kinds of Advertisements; to be addressed to J. KAYE and CO., 80, Fleet-street, London.

FOR SUMMER WEAR.—The Thin Gutta Percha Soles are strongly recommended. They not only resist all wet and moisture, thus preserving the health of the wearer, but being so much thinner than leather, they are extremely light and cool for summer wear.

NOTICE.

The Gutta Percha Company beg to state that when the soles are applied according to their "Directions to Shoemakers," it is impossible for them to come off until worn through, and they therefore urge the public to employ those only who will "warrant" them to adhere. This notice is necessary in consequence of interested parties having intentionally fixed the soles on imperfectly.

TO EMIGRANTS, CAPTAINS, &c.

No one should leave England without providing himself with a stock of Gutta Percha Soles and Solution. The ease with which these soles can be applied in countries where no shoemaker can be found—their power of keeping the feet perfectly dry, thus preserving the body from coughs, colds, &c., in lands where medical advice cannot be had—and their great durability and cheapness, render them invaluable to all who propose sailing to distant countries. Gutta Percha Wash-basins, Chamber-bowls, Bottles, Flasks, &c., are admirably suited for shipboard and emigrants, as they can so readily be converted into life-buoys in the event of a shipwreck.

TO ARCHITECTS, &c.

In consequence of the extraordinary power possessed by Gutta Percha Tubing for propelling sound, it is admirably adapted for conveying messages, &c., in Dwelling Houses, Hotels, Warehouses, Mills, &c. This Tubing is also valuable for conveying Gas, Water, and as Refuse Pipes, being unaffected by acids, alkalis, grease, &c., and not so subject to incrustation or affected by the frost as metal pipes.

MILL BANDS.

The increasing demand for the Gutta Percha strapping for driving-bands, lathe-straps, &c., fully justifies the strong recommendations they have everywhere received.

PUMP BUCKETS, CLACKS, &c.

Few applications of Gutta Percha appear likely to be of such extensive use to Manufacturers, Engineers, &c., as the substitution of it for leather in pump-buckets, valves, &c. These buckets can be had of any size and thickness, without any seam or raised joint. They are unaffected by acids, grease, alkalis, &c. Cold water will never soften them, and they are consequently much more durable than leather, and also cheaper.

GUTTA PERCHA PICTURE FRAMES AND ORNAMENTS.

In imitation of the finest wood carving, suitable for the decoration of houses, cabinet work, &c.

GUTTA PERCHA CRICKET-BALLS

are superior to any others yet invented. They are never softened by the grass, however wet, and being made without any stitching, are not liable to rot like the leather ones.

GUTTA PERCHA BOUNCING BALLS

may be had in every variety of colour.

GUTTA PERCHA CLOTHES-LINES.

Being unaffected by the weather, they may be left out in the open air without sustaining injury.

GUTTA PERCHA WINDOW-BLIND CORD

is easily joined by heating the ends. Does not contract and expand like the ordinary cord. It may be had of various colours.

Every other variety of Gutta Percha articles, such as Brackets, Pen-trays, Inkstands, Medallions, Surgical Instruments, Vases, Trays, Watch-stands, Cups, Flasks, Lathe Bands, Clothes-line, Cricket and Bouncing Balls, Pump Buckets, Galvanic Batteries, Chamber-bowls, Washing-basins, Cash-bowls, Ornamental Flower-pots and Stands, Soap-dishes, Electric Telegraph Wire, &c., are manufactured at Wharf-road, City-road, London, and sold by their dealers in town and country.

On January 1, 1850, will be Published, Price 2d., Stamped 3d.,

THE PUBLIC GOOD: a New Monthly

Periodical, devoted to the advocacy of Civil and Religious Liberty, Peace, Temperance, Universal Education, Anti-Capital Punishment and Anti-Slavery Principles, Direct Taxation, Financial Reform, Freehold Land Societies, Manhood Suffrage, Early Closing, and other Social Reforms. It will also contain Articles on Life Insurance, Benefit Societies, Emigration, an Ocean Penny Postage, Reading and Writing Reform, and Social Economy. It will give Comments on Men, Books, and Governments, and record the Progress of Public Institutions and Popular Movements.

Advertisements inserted on Reasonable Terms.

London: Published by CHARLES GILPIN, 5, Bishopsgate-street Without; and AYLOTT and JONES, Paternoster-row.

Just Published, price One Penny, 6s. per 100,

BEER-SHOPS: ENGLAND'S FELON

MANUFACTORIES. One of the Essays of the Anti-beer-shop Association, for which a Prize of Two Guineas has been awarded. By R. G. GAMMAGE, of Buckingham.

London: W. HORSELL, 13, Paternoster-row.

Printed by R. WAKELIN, Bookseller and Publisher, Bishop-street, Coventry; of whom may be obtained "STATISTICS OF OUR DRINKING CUSTOMS," Price One Penny. MSS. prepared for the press. Books, Pamphlets, and Tracts Printed on the lowest terms.

JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEES.

THE ESTABLISHMENT of JOHN CASSELL is the largest in the Kingdom, and the demand created for his Coffee is wholly unparalleled. This has not arisen from his professing to send out any new, peculiarly "prepared," or "patented" article, but simply from his having placed within the reach of all Families Coffees of the world's finest growths, possessing richness, mellowness, and strength of flavour not to be surpassed, and at moderate prices. It is a fact, that wherever JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEES are introduced, their continued use is secured. These Coffees are made up in sealed air-tight Packages, containing two ounces, quarter and half pounds, and also in Canisters containing one or two pounds, and, to PREVENT IMPOSITION, every Package or Canister bears the signature of "JOHN CASSELL," without which none can be genuine. The following are the prices at which they can be obtained:—

JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, No. 1, . . . . .	1s. 4d.
An excellent Article.
JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, No. 2, . . . . .	1s. 8d.
Cannot fail to give great satisfaction, being a combination of the choicest growths of Jamaica, possessing richness, strength, and flavour.
JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, No. 3, . . . . .	2s. 0d.
To every Connoisseur in Coffee this will prove a treat, combining the finest mountain-growths of both Jamaica and Turkey.

JOHN CASSELL'S FIVE SHILLING TEA.

This is a combination of the finest and most carefully-selected Teas, the produce of choice, young, and tender plants. It possesses not only strength, but a peculiar and delicious fragrance, which cannot fail to render it pleasant to the most fastidious palate and to the exquisite taste of the connoisseur. This may be had either wholly Black or Black and Green mixed. It is sold in Catty Packages only, containing from two ounces to one pound; and every package bears the signature of "JOHN CASSELL," without which none can be genuine.

No. 80, FENCHURCH-STREET.

THE FOLLOWING ALMANACKS FOR 1850 ARE NOW READY.

THE PROTESTANT DISSENTERS' ALMANACK.

This Almanack (64 pages, price Threepence), in addition to the information common in Almanacks, contains a mass of Statistics of the various Religious Denominations and Societies of the kingdom; Lists of Chapels occupied by Independents and Baptists in the Metropolis, with the names of the Ministers and the hours of Service. This Almanack is also enriched with ORIGINAL ARTICLES upon the principal topics and events of the year in connexion with Religious Freedom.

FOR EXTENSIVE CIRCULATION.

THE DISSENTERS' PENNY ALMANACK, 32 pages Crown; compiled by the Editor of the "Protestant Dissenters' Almanack."

The Dissenters' Penny Almanack comprises the usual Calendar, and a mass of information of the utmost importance with which the people should be acquainted. It contains 32 pages of closely-printed letter-press, and altogether forms one of the cheapest, and, at the same time, most interesting Almanacks ever published. Price to the trade, 8d. per dozen (13).

THE FINANCIAL REFORM ALMANACK, "bristling with Statistics," price Threepence, contains SIXTY-FOUR PAGES of closely-printed matter, and forms one of the most important and complete publications on the financial condition of the country ever exhibited.

This ALMANACK, besides the Calendar and all other topics pertaining to Almanacks, contains a variety of ORIGINAL ARTICLES on Parliamentary and Financial Reform.

THE EMIGRANT'S ALMANACK, PRICE FOURPENCE.

THE EMIGRANT'S ALMANACK contains a greater mass of useful information on the important subject of Emigration than any other publication, and every possible care has been taken to ensure its entire accuracy. It contains advice relative to the United States of America; describes the routes to the various fields of emigration; determines the distances to each place; the modes of conveyance; the length of time occupied in the various journeys; expense of transit; cost of land in different parts of the world; expense of clearing the soil; and all the official information from the Commission of Emigration. In every page it abounds with practical hints for the Emigrant of every degree, and altogether forms one of the most interesting and valuable books of reference ever published on the subject of Emigration.

THE TEMPERANCE ALMANACK for

1850, neatly printed in thirty-two pages 8vo, with Engravings, price ONE PENNY. Besides the Calendar and other matter usually found in Almanacks, are Original Articles on the Importance of Teetotalism in Connexion with Health of Body—Intellectual Vigour—Industry—Social and Domestic Comfort—Competence—Respectability—Morality and Religion—Usefulness—Trade and Commerce—National Prosperity, and the Maintenance and Spread of Religion.—Chronology of the Temperance Movement; and other articles of much interest to Teetotallers.

THE ABOVE ALMANACKS MAY BE ORDERED OF ANY BOOKSELLER.

Price 2d., or by post 3d.,

CAUTIONS and TESTIMONY against ODD FELLOWSHIP. By H. MUDGE, Surgeon, Bodmin.

Also, price 2s., or by post 2s. 6d., by the same author,

EXPOSURE of ODD FELLOWSHIP; showing its immoral tendency and bankrupt circumstances, and containing as well a large amount of information on the subject of Friendly Societies.

WHITTAKER, London; LIDDELL, Bodmin.

TEMPERANCE STATISTICS.—The testimony of the leading medical authorities of Great Britain to the injurious effects of the use of intoxicating liquors in what is commonly called moderation, has received the most important confirmation from the actual experience of the TEMPERANCE PROVIDENT INSTITUTION, containing more than 3,000 members of all ages and in all ranks of life. The deaths in this office during more than eight years have been considerably less than half the number in other offices, and among other bodies of men. And what is extraordinary, although the office contains 600 members more than it did a year ago, the deaths during the last half-year have been actually only half as many as they were in the same period of last year; being only five out of 3,500 policies issued. The actual and expected deaths among a few of the different classes of members have been as follows:—

No. Assured.	Name.	Expected Deaths.	Actual Deaths.
328	Shopkeepers	9	6
132	Shoemakers	3	2
53	Painters and Plumbers	2	1
76	Bakers	2	1
61	Labourers and Farmers	1	0
136	Clerks	5	1
148	Tailors	3	0

THE DIVISION OF PROFITS,

or Surplus Funds, will take place at the close of next year; when every assurance effected this year will participate, according to date. Early application is therefore desirable.

Teetotallers are respectfully reminded that this is the only office in which they can assure, without having to pay for the premature deaths, which daily take place in all other offices, through the insidious poison of alcoholic beverages.

This Institution being established for the exclusive benefit of its members, is capable of securing to them the utmost possible advantages of the system of Mutual Assurance. It has also several important advantages over other offices. All particulars may be had on application, and will be sent free to any address.

Persons disposed to act as Agents are requested to write to the Secretary, Mr. THEODORE COMPTON, at the office, 39, Moorgate-street, City, London.

Printed and Published by WILLIAM CATHALL, of 59, Albany-road, Camberwell, Surrey, at his Printing Office, 335, Strand, London.

THURSDAY, November 1, 1849.

THE
TEETOTAL TIMES
AND ESSAYIST.

PUBLISHED MONTHLY

No. XXIV.—NEW SERIES.]

LONDON, DECEMBER, 1849.

(Price One Penny.
{ Stamped, Twopence.

IMPORTANT TEMPERANCE DEMONSTRATIONS in EXETER-HALL.

COMMITTEE OF MANAGEMENT.

T. B. SMITHIES,	J. H. ESTERBROOKE,
E. TISDELL,	J. BAILEY,
G. C. CAMPBELL,	J. PHILLIPS,
— WILSON,	W. TWEEDIE,
W. SPRIGGS,	J. P. DRAPER,
J. W. GREEN,	S. CATTON.

TREASURER AND CHAIRMAN—JOHN CASSELL, Esq.

For the purpose of presenting the claims of the Temperance Movement more fully before various sections of the community, it has been determined to hold SIX PUBLIC MEETINGS in EXETER-HALL. Two of these Meetings have already been held; the THIRD will take place on Monday, December 3, 1849, when "The Claims of the Temperance Movement upon the Teachers and Friends of Sabbath Schools," will be considered. The Revs. Dr. Jabez BURNS, JAMES SHERMAN, J. STEVENSON, A.W.; ASA MAHAN, President of Oberlin College, U. S.; C. G. FINNEY, from America; T. B. SMITHIES, Esq., &c., are expected to address the Meeting.

As a large sum, probably not less than TWO HUNDRED POUNDS, will be required to carry out this object, the Committee respectfully invite the co-operation of all who are desirous of promoting the social and moral elevation of the community. It is believed that by these meetings the attention of a large portion of the public will be secured, while the reports of the Addresses delivered will circulate information to an almost indefinite extent.

Received since the last announcement:—

Samuel Morley, Esq. (Isacksey).....	£5 0 0
Mr. F. J. Thompson (Bridgwater).....	0 7 6
Mr. Loudon.....	0 5 0
W. A. Wilkinson, Esq. (Beckenham).....	1 1 0

Donations will be thankfully received by the Treasurer, 80, Fenchurch-street; Messrs. Wilson and Campbell, Blackfriars-road; Mr. Phillips, 39, Moorgate-street; Mr. Tweedie, 3, Falcon-street; Aldersgate-street; Mr. J. P. Draper, 88, Great Fitzfield-street; Mr. E. Tisdell, High-street, Kensington; Mr. W. Spriggs, 10, South-street, West-square, Lambeth; Mr. S. Catton, Plaistow; or by any member of the Committee.

The FOURTH Meeting will be held on Monday Evening, January 7, 1850. Subject—"Intoxicating liquors not necessary for Working Men, either to assist them in their occupations, however laborious, or to promote their health and happiness." To add peculiar interest to this meeting, it is intended that addresses shall be delivered by ten speakers selected from various trades and occupations. Particulars will be duly announced.

The doors on each occasion will be opened at half-past Five o'clock, and the Chair will be taken at Six o'clock. The admission to the Platform will be by Tickets, price 1s. These may be had of any of the persons named above. The admission to the Body of the Hall and the Western Gallery will be FREE.

G. C. CAMPBELL,	}	Hon. Secs.
T. B. SMITHIES,
J. H. ESTERBROOKE,

THE PEOPLE'S ABSTINENCE STAND-ARD is the only Weekly Journal devoted to the Total

Abstinence Cause.—Each number contains one of a series of papers on Popular Physiology, illustrated by Anatomical Engravings, in which the physical effect of Alcohol will be fully explained—Articles on the Connection between Christianity, Peace, Freedom, Political Progress, and True Temperance—Reviews of New Books—Original Poetry and Temperance Tales—One Page of Medical Quotations—with Reports of Meetings in Town and Country. Published in time for Booksellers in Town and Country to supply it on Saturday.

Price 1d., or Parts 6d. A few back Numbers still on hand.

London: Published by W. TWEEDIE, 3, Falcon-street, City; W. HORSEL, Aldine-chambers, Paternoster-row; and all Booksellers.

Just published, price Twopence.

THE BENEFITS of TOTAL ABSTINENCE from INTOXICATING LIQUORS, in reclaiming the Intemperate and restoring the Backslider: a Letter originally addressed to the late W. CASH, Esq. To which is added a Friendly Address to Teetotalers. Also, Remarks on Capital Punishments. By WILLIAM SPRIGGS.

London: G. GILPIN, Bishopsgate-street; TWEEDIE, Falcon-street, Aldersgate-street.

"THE PUBLIC GOOD."—A New Monthly PERIODICAL, 32 pp., price 2d.—It will be the enemy of Ignorance, Error, and Injustice.—It will be the friend of Truth, Right, Virtue, Heroism, Glory.—It will advocate Temperance, Peace, Freedom, Education.—It will be the promoter of Individual and National Greatness.—It will be the defender of Reform, Humanity, Religion.—It will be the firm foe of the Gallows, Slavery, Late Shopping, Selfishness.

Ten distinguished writers have already promised to contribute to its pages, every one of whom is a Teetotaler.

The First Number will appear on the 1st of JANUARY, 1850.—Purchase the Periodical, and judge for yourself.

London: GILPIN, Bishopsgate-street; AYLOTT and JONES, Paternoster-row.

Price 2d., or by post 3d.,

CAUTIONS and TESTIMONY against ODD FELLOWSHIP. By H. MUDGE, Surgeon, Bodmin.

Also, price 2s., or by post 2s. 6d., by the same author,

EXPOSURE of ODD FELLOWSHIP; showing its immoral tendency and bankrupt circumstances, and containing as well a large amount of information on the subject of Friendly Societies.

WHITTAKER, London; LIDDELL, Bodmin.

Now ready, second edition, 12s. cloth (or 12 parts, 1s. each),

THE DOMESTIC PRACTICE of HYDRO-PATHY, by Dr. E. JOHNSON.—"A work on Domestic Medicine truly adapted to the million—a work which cannot fail to do much towards establishing sounder notions of medical treatment, and in overturning the chartered quackery which everywhere prevails."—Truth-Seeker Quarterly Review.

London: SIMPKIN, MARSHALL and CO. Ipswich; J. M. BURTON.

Just published, price One Penny, on Thirty-two closely-printed pages,

THE WESLEYAN PENNY ALMANACK

for 1850.—This Almanack, in the various branches of the Wesleyan Methodism. Also a variety of pungent articles, expressive of the opinions of the Press, on the questions which are now agitating the Conscience, arising out of the late proceedings of the Conference. Amongst these are:—Extraordinary proceedings in Conference—Immense power of the Conference—Conference an unrighteous and dangerous despotism—The Holy Office revived—The Inquisition of 1849, with its racks and screws—The Star Chamber outdone—The Conference denies freedom of speech—The Wesleyan Conference degraded—Where will the Conference stop?—The Conference behind the age—The Conference promotes Infidelity—The expulsion question a public question—The Wesleyan laity a nonentity—The Wesleyan people on their trial—What should the Wesleyan people do?—Open Courts demanded—President Jackson and his "Vindication"—Mr. Wesley's thoughts on Methodism, &c. &c.

London: Sold by JOHN KAYE and CO., 80, Fleet-street.

JOHN CASSELL'S
NEW MAGAZINE FOR THE PEOPLE,
THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND, AND FAMILY INSTRUCTOR.

ON the first of January, 1850, it is the intention of JOHN CASSELL to issue the first Number of a NEW MAGAZINE bearing the above title, and to be continued MONTHLY. It will contain thirty-two closely-printed pages, crown octavo, while its price will be only ONE PENNY.

THE DESIGN OF THIS PUBLICATION

Is to furnish instruction to WORKING MEN upon every topic calculated to improve their minds, and, at the same time, to afford them rational entertainment. It is also intended to interest and instruct the FAMILY CIRCLE; to furnish the Wife and the Mother with valuable hints as to domestic economy and occupations; and to present important principles to Juveniles, in the most attractive and impressive forms. Scenes of horror and tales of sickly sentimentality will be rigorously excluded, as far more likely to mislead, debase, and brutalise, than to store the mind with valuable truths, or to exercise and expand its noble powers. That the design of the Projector may be fully carried out, this Magazine will comprise several

DISTINCT DEPARTMENTS.

I. HISTORY.—This will embrace all those great epochs in the world's history most likely to prove interesting to the friends of progress. It will commence with the life and times of Oliver Cromwell, interspersed with sketches of the leading characters who figured at that period, including Milton, Hampden, Pym, Marvell, &c.

II. BIOGRAPHY.—Here will be given brief but compendious notices of men and women who have rendered themselves eminent by the consecration of their talents to the benefit of the human race, by instructing the ignorant, vindicating the oppressed, or relieving the necessitous. Also notices of individuals who, from the humblest circumstances in life, have risen to wealth and influence, by the diligent cultivation of their powers, and a careful improvement of their opportunities.

III. POLITICS.—Without professing any particular creed in politics, this Magazine will encourage and assist every movement calculated to secure and to extend the rights and best interests of the WORKING MAN. In this department the FREEHOLD LAND Movement will be advocated, not only as a means of enlarging the Elective Franchise, but as an important instrument in the promotion of the moral and social elevation of the Working Classes.

IV. LAW.—In this department will be given a series of articles, written in popular style, upon such legal questions as may be of practical utility to various classes; not to encourage a spirit of litigation, but to furnish plain and simple directions as to the proper management of the ordinary business transactions of life.

V. SCIENCE AND ART.—Here will be found popular illustrations of the human system; chemistry, especially in its application to the purposes of trade and commerce, and the occupations of the Working Classes. Also, notices, explanations, and recommendations of all new discoveries and inventions, by which human labour may be improved, or the comforts of the domestic circle and the benefit of the community be promoted.

VI. PHILANTHROPY.—Every movement intended for the amelioration of suffering, or the improvement, intellectual, social, or moral, of the human family, will have its principles unfolded, and its progress duly reported. Associations for the diffusion of education—the improvement of prison discipline—the abolition of capital punishment—the extinction of slavery—the promotion of health, temperance, peace, and universal brotherhood; these and similar institutions will be fully supported, as intimately connected with human progress, and with the stability and glory of the British Empire.

VII. THE FAMILY CIRCLE.—This department is intended to be a fund of amusing and instructive information, as well as a cabinet, or repository, of valuable recipes, and directions as to various branches of household economy.

VIII. EVENTS OF THE MONTH.—This department will be made a valuable source of information and instruction. It will form a running commentary upon remarkable occurrences, with elucidations of the principles involved in them, and their bearings on the general interests of mankind.

IX. NOTICES TO CORRESPONDENTS.—A certain space will be devoted to the answering judicious questions relating to matters of real utility. These answers will be so framed as to be interesting to general readers, as well as to parties seeking information.

Each of the above departments will be occupied in proportion to its importance, and as far as space will allow.

TO BOOKSELLERS.

For the more successful prosecution of the present design, it is hoped that every Bookseller who feels interested in the elevation of the masses will take pleasure in making known and furthering the sale of THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND AND FAMILY INSTRUCTOR. The same allowance will be made to the Trade as is the custom as to cheap literature.

The Magazine will be published at the Office of the STANDARD OF FREEDOM, 335, Strand, London.

THE FREEHOLDER.

THE CENTRAL COMMITTEE of the FREEHOLDERS' UNION, appointed by a Conference of Gentlemen interested in the extension of 40s. Freeholds recently held at Birmingham, purpose carrying out the unanimous resolution of the Conference by the publication of a Monthly Journal, to be called the First Number of which will appear on the 1st of January, 1850, price Threepence, or stamped Fourpence, and may be ordered through all Booksellers or Newsmen, or direct from the Publisher, Mr. JOHN CASSELL, 335, Strand, London, to whom all Advertisements must be sent.

THE FREEHOLDER,

THE FREEHOLDER will be exclusively devoted to the extension of the County Franchise, and will contain reports of the proceedings of all Freehold Land Societies, with an analysis of their rules, lists of their officers, &c. It will also give plain and practical directions for qualifying and registering, so that individuals, whether members of Land Societies or otherwise, may know how to obtain a County Vote, how to claim to have their names put upon the Register, and how to support, if necessary, their claims in the Revision Court.

Subscribers of Five Shillings and upwards to the Freeholders Union will be entitled, as members, to a copy of THE FREEHOLDER for twelve months, free by post. All Subscriptions and Donations to the Union, and all communications, must be forwarded to the Secretary, Mr. JAMES TAYLOR, jun., Temperance Hotel, Newhall-street, Birmingham, to whom Post-office Orders should be made payable.

By order of the Committee,
JAMES TAYLOR, jun., Secretary.

Central Committee Rooms, Birmingham.

THE FOLLOWING ALMANACKS FOR 1850 ARE NOW READY.

THE PROTESTANT DISSENTERS' ALMANACK.

This Almanack (64 pages, price Threepence), in addition to the information common in Almanacks, contains a mass of Statistics of the various Religious Denominations and Societies of the kingdom; Lists of Chapels occupied by Independents and Baptists in the Metropolis, with the names of the Ministers and the hours of Service. This Almanack is also enriched with ORIGINAL ARTICLES upon the principal topics and events of the year in connexion with Religious Freedom.

FOR EXTENSIVE CIRCULATION.

THE DISSENTERS' PENNY ALMANACK, 32 pages Crown; compiled by the Editor of the "Protestant Dissenters' Almanack."

The Dissenters' Penny Almanack comprises the usual Calendar, and a mass of information of the utmost importance with which the people should be acquainted. It contains 32 pages of closely-printed letter-press, and altogether forms one of the cheapest, and, at the same time, most interesting Almanacks ever published. Price to the trade, 8d. per dozen (13).

THE FINANCIAL REFORM ALMANACK,

"bristling with Statistics," price Threepence, contains SIXTY-FOUR PAGES of closely-printed matter, and forms one of the most important and complete publications on the financial condition of the country ever exhibited.

This ALMANACK, besides the Calendar and all other topics pertaining to Almanacks, contains a variety of ORIGINAL ARTICLES on Parliamentary and Financial Reform.

Just published,

THE EMIGRANT'S ALMANACK, PRICE FOURPENCE.

THE EMIGRANT'S ALMANACK contains a greater mass of useful information on the important subject of Emigration than any other publication, and every possible care has been taken to ensure its entire accuracy. It contains advice relative to the United States of America; describes the routes to the various fields of emigration; determines the distances to each place; the modes of conveyance; the length of time occupied in the various journeys; expense of transit; cost of land in different parts of the world; expense of clearing the soil; and all the official information from the Commission of Emigration. In every page it abounds with practical hints for the Emigrant of every degree, and altogether forms one of the most interesting and valuable books of reference ever published on the subject of Emigration.

THE TEMPERANCE ALMANACK for 1850, neatly printed in thirty-two pages 8vo, with Engravings, price ONE PENNY. Besides the Calendar and other matter usually founded in Almanacks, are original Articles on the Importance of Teetotalism in Connection with Health of Body—Intellectual Vigour—Industry—Social and Domestic Comfort—Competence—Respectability—Morality and Religion—Usefulness—Trade and Commerce—National Prosperity, and the Maintenance and Spread of Religion—Chronology of the Temperance Movement; and other Articles of much interest to Teetotalers.

THE ABOVE ALMANACKS MAY BE ORDERED OF ANY BOOKSELLER.

FOR SUMMER WEAR.—The Thin Gutta Percha Soles are strongly recommended. They not only resist all wet and moisture, thus preserving the health of the wearer, but being so much thinner than leather, they are extremely light and cool for summer wear.

NOTICE.

The Gutta Percha Company beg to state that when the soles are applied according to their "Directions to Shoemakers," it is impossible for them to come off until worn through, and they therefore urge the public to employ those only who will "warrant" them to adhere. This notice is necessary in consequence of interested parties having intentionally fixed the soles on imperfectly.

TO EMIGRANTS, CAPTAINS, &c.

No one should leave England without providing himself with a stock of Gutta Percha Soles and Solution. The ease with which these soles can be applied in countries where no shoemaker can be found—their power of keeping the feet perfectly dry, thus preserving the body from coughs, colds, &c., in lands where medical advice cannot be had—and their great durability and cheapness, render them invaluable to all who propose sailing to distant countries. Gutta Percha Wash-basins, Chamber-bowls, Bottles, Flasks, &c., are admirably suited for shipboard and emigrants, as they can so readily be converted into life-buoys in the event of a shipwreck.

TO ARCHITECTS, &c.

In consequence of the extraordinary power possessed by Gutta Percha Tubing for propelling sound, it is admirably adapted for conveying messages, &c., in Dwelling Houses, Hotels, Warehouses, Mills, &c. This Tubing is also valuable for conveying Gas, Water, and as Refuse Pipes, being unaffected by acids, alkalies, grease, &c., and not so subject to incrustation or affected by the frost as metal pipes.

MILL BANDS.

The increasing demand for the Gutta Percha strapping for driving-bands, lathe-straps, &c., fully justifies the strong recommendations they have everywhere received.

PUMP BUCKETS, CLACKS, &c.

Few applications of Gutta Percha appear likely to be of such extensive use to Manufacturers, Engineers, &c., as the substitution of it for leather in pump-buckets, valves, &c. These buckets can be had of any size and thickness, without any seam or raised joint. They are unaffected by acids, grease, alkalies, &c. Cold water will never soften them, and they are consequently much more durable than leather, and also cheaper.

GUTTA PERCHA PICTURE FRAMES AND ORNAMENTS.

In imitation of the finest wood carving, suitable for the decoration of houses, cabinet work, &c.

GUTTA PERCHA CRICKET-BALLS

are superior to any others yet invented. They are never softened by the grass, however wet, and being made without any stitching, are not liable to rot like the leather ones.

GUTTA PERCHA BOUNCING BALLS

may be had in every variety of colour.

GUTTA PERCHA CLOTHES-LINES.

Being unaffected by the weather, they may be left out in the open air without sustaining injury.

GUTTA PERCHA WINDOW-BLIND CORD

is easily joined by heating the ends. Does not contract and expand like the ordinary cord. It may be had of various colours.

Every other variety of Gutta Percha articles, such as Brackets, Pen-trays, Inkstands, Medallions, Surgical Instruments, Vases, Trays, Watch-stands, Cups, Flasks, Lathe Bands, Clothes-line, Cricket and Bouncing Balls, Pump Buckets, Galvanic Batteries, Chamber-bowls, Washing-basins, Cash-bowls, Ornamental Flower-pots and Stands, Soap-dishes, Electric Telegraph Wire, &c., are manufactured at Wharf-road, City-road, London, and sold by their dealers in town and country.

CAUTION RESPECTING JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE.

JOHN CASSELL finds it necessary to caution the Consumers of his justly-famed COFFEE against purchasing imitations of his Packages. The fact that his Establishment is the largest in the Kingdom, and his COFFEE most extensively consumed, has led numerous parties to attempt making up very inferior articles in the same style of Package; and some, to induce tradesmen to substitute their spurious article for that of JOHN CASSELL, offer a larger amount of profit. This has a tendency to prejudice the public, and hence the necessity of thus informing them that no Coffee can be the veritable JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE unless his signature is upon each Package. Go therefore to the Agent for JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, ask for JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, and see that it is JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE which is handed to you, having his Signature upon the Package. This is necessary, for there are numerous imitations, stringent and bitter to the palate, while JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE is rich and strong, at the same time that it is mellow and delicious, pleasing to the palate, and invigorating to the system.

The following are the prices at which they can be obtained:—

JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, No. 1, an excellent article .....	1s. 4d.
JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, No. 2, cannot fail to give great satisfaction, being a combination of the choicest growths of Jamaica, possessing richness, strength, and Flavour .....	1s. 8d.
JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, No. 3, to every Connoisseur in Coffee this will prove a treat, combining the finest mountain growths of both Jamaica and Turkey .....	2s. 6d.

JOHN CASSELL'S FIVE-SHILLING TEA.—This is a combination of the finest and most carefully-selected Teas, the produce of choice, young, and tender plants. It possesses not only strength, but a peculiar and delicious fragrance, which cannot fail to render it pleasant to the most fastidious palate and to the exquisite taste of the connoisseur. This may be had either wholly Black or Black and Green mixed. It is sold in Catty Packages only, containing from two ounces to one pound; and every package bears the signature of "JOHN CASSELL," without which none can be genuine.

All applications for these valuable Agencies to be made direct to JOHN CASSELL, 80, FENCHURCH-STREET, LONDON.

TEMPERANCE STATISTICS.—The testimony of the leading medical authorities of Great Britain to the injurious effects of the use of intoxicating liquors in what is commonly called moderation, has received the most important confirmation from the actual experience of the TEMPERANCE PROVIDENT INSTITUTION, containing more than 3,000 members of all ages and in all ranks of life. The deaths in this office during more than eight years have been considerably less than half the number in other offices, and among other bodies of men. And what is extraordinary, although the office contains 600 members more than it did a year ago, the deaths during the last half-year have been actually only half as many as they were in the same period of last year; being only five out of 3,500 policies issued. The actual and expected deaths among a few of the different classes of members have been as follows:—

No. Assured.	Name.	Expected Deaths.	Actual Deaths.
328	Shopkeepers	9	6
132	Shoemakers	3	2
53	Painters and Plumbers	2	1
76	Bakers	2	1
61	Labourers and Farmers	1	0
136	Clerks	5	1
148	Tailors	3	0

THE DIVISION OF PROFITS,

or Surplus Funds, will take place at the close of next year; when every assurance effected this year will participate, according to date. Early application is therefore desirable.

Teetotalers are respectfully reminded that this is the only office in which they can assure, without having to pay for the premature deaths, which daily take place in all other offices, through the insidious poison of alcoholic beverages.

This Institution being established for the exclusive benefit of its members, is capable of securing to them the utmost possible advantages of the system of Mutual Assurance. It has also several important advantages over other offices. All particulars may be had on application, and will be sent free to any address.

Persons disposed to act as Agents are requested to write to the Secretary, Mr. THEODORE COMPTON, at the office, 39, Moorgate-street, City, London.

TEMPERANCE PUBLICATIONS.

THE TEETOTAL ESSAYIST; or Monthly Temperance Standard, for 1847.

This may now be had complete, price ONE SHILLING. It forms the most interesting and important Publication that has ever been issued from the Temperance Press.

Sixteenth Thousand.

INTEMPERANCE the IDOLATRY of BRITAIN. By the Rev. W. R. BAKER, author of the "Curse of Britain," &c. It is admitted by the most eminent of the religious reviewers, as well as by all who have read it, that there never was a work upon the Temperance Question more calculated to carry conviction to the mind of a thoughtful reader as the danger and iniquity of the drinking system. That it may have a very extensive circulation, this new and revised edition is published at Three-pence;—the price of the former editions was 2s. 6d. The usual allowance will be made to societies, or persons taking a quantity.

THE BEST OF MEN SOMETIMES IN ERROR. By ARCHDEACON JEFFREYS, of Bombay. The object of this incomparable Essay is to show that the advocates of the Total Abstinence system have the full warrant of Scripture for their labour of mercy and love. The style in which this sentiment is reasoned is such as to carry conviction to all who profess to be influenced by the law of love. 1s. 4d. per 100.

DR. NOTT'S LECTURES.

NATURE AND PROVIDENCE.—REPLYING to the QUESTION, WHAT IS the DUTY of MAN in RELATION to the USE of INTOXICATING LIQUORS? In four elegant and powerful LECTURES. By ELIPHALET NOTT, D.D., LL.D., President of Union College, New York. Carefully revised, with an Appendix. In 32 very closely-printed pages, crown octavo, price One Penny.

SUNDAY SCHOOL PRIZE TRACTS.

Price 1s. 4d. per 100.

THE IMPORTANCE of the TEMPERANCE MOVEMENT, in its bearings on Sunday Schools.

THE YOUNG, the HOPE of the TEMPERANCE REFORMATION.

B. L. GREEN, Paternoster-row.

DR. CHEYNE'S COUGH and PULMONIC

LOZENGES.—The fame of these Lozenges is fully established as the most pleasant and efficacious remedy that can be employed for the removal of coughs. To the asthmatic, or those who are afflicted with a difficulty of breathing, or a redundancy of phlegm, they give instant relief, by causing free expectoration. They allay the irritation attendant on all affections of the throat, and strengthen the lungs to resist the effects of sudden changes. They remove hoarseness and greatly improve the voice. They arrest, in its incipient stages, that fearful result of our variable atmosphere—consumption; and for diseases of the pulmonary organs a more safe and salutary remedy cannot be applied. For aged persons they are invaluable, and none, whose lungs are in the least degree susceptible of cold, ought to be without them. They afford relief in every case of cough, and where there is no physical disorganization they will effect a cure.

From the Rev. J. Crampin, Baptist Minister, Streatham, Isle of Ely.

"I am compelled to say that, after nearly twenty years public speaking, I have never yet met with anything so effectually easing to the chest—so unobnoxious to the lungs—and so clearing to the voice, as Dr. Cheyne's Cough and Pulmonic Lozenges. I have used but one box, but such is their pleasantness and usefulness, that I would not be without them for ten times their cost."

To Mr. J. Everington, Church-street, Gainsborough.

"Sir,—I have been afflicted for years with a bad cough. I could not sleep at night, and sometimes coughed to that degree that the neighbours thought I should break a blood-vessel. I was induced to try a box of Dr. Cheyne's Lozenges, which was purchased at your shop; and after taking ten Lozenges, my cough left me. I give you leave to publish this statement for the benefit of others.—Bylton, near Gainsborough. "JANE HUNT."

CAUTION.—As a variety of Lozenges, Wafers, and Tablets are advertised, containing ingredients of an injurious nature, the public are particularly requested to ask for DR. CHEYNE'S COUGH and PULMONIC LOZENGES, and to observe that the words, "DR. CHEYNE'S COUGH LOZENGES," are engraved on the Government Stamp, which, with Directions for Use, is wrapped round each box.

Sold in Boxes at 1s. 1½d., and 2s. 9d., each, by Messrs. Sutton, 10, Bow Church-yard; Barclay's, 95, Farringdon-street; Edwards, 67, St. Paul's Church-yard; Dietrichson and Co., 63, Oxford-street; Sanger, 150, Oxford-street; Johnson, 68, Cornhill; King, 34, Napier-street, Hoxton; Bolton and Co., York; Raines and Co., Edinburgh; and by at least one Agent in every town throughout the United Kingdom.

Printed and Published by WILLIAM CATHRALL, of 59, Albany-road, Camberwell, Surrey, at his Printing Office, 335, Strand, London.

SATURDAY, December 1, 1849.

THE
TEETOTAL TIMES
AND ESSAYIST.

PUBLISHED MONTHLY.

No. XXV.—NEW SERIES.]

LONDON, JANUARY, 1850.

(Price One Penny.
Stamped, Twopence.)

IMPORTANT TEMPERANCE DEMONSTRATIONS in EXETER-HALL.

COMMITTEE OF MANAGEMENT.

T. R. SMITHIES,	J. BAILEY,
E. TISDELL,	J. PHILLIPS,
G. C. CAMPBELL,	W. TWEEDIE,
— WILSON,	J. P. DRAPER,
W. SPRIGGS,	S. CATTON,
J. W. GREEN,	J. MATTHEW,
J. H. ESTERBROOKE,

TREASURER AND CHAIRMAN—JOHN CASSELL, Esq.

For the purpose of presenting the claims of the Temperance Movement more fully before various sections of the community, it has been determined to hold SIX PUBLIC MEETINGS in EXETER-HALL. Three of these Meetings have already been held; the FOURTH will take place on Monday, January 7, 1850. SUBJECT:—"Intoxicating Liquors not necessary for Working Men, either to assist them in their occupations, however laborious, or to promote their health and happiness." To add peculiar interest to this meeting, it is intended that addresses shall be delivered by several speakers selected from various trades and occupations, as follows:—

Mr. PARKER.....	Coch Joiner.
— McCORMACK.....	Blacksmith's Hammerman.
— WEST.....	Fellmonger.
— McLACHLEN.....	Glass Blower.
— PHIPPS.....	Tailor.
— CURRIE.....	Bricklayer.
— STEARNE.....	Shoemaker.
— WOOD.....	Stonemason.
— ROBINSON.....	Paper Stainer.
— MANN.....	Farrier.
— REYNOLDS.....	Bricklayer's Labourer.
— TANNER.....	Brickmaker.
— GROVE.....	Mariner.

And others, should time allow.

The Chair will be taken by JOSEPH STURGE, Esq., of Birmingham.

As a large sum, probably not less than TWO HUNDRED POUNDS, will be required to carry out this object, the Committee respectfully invite the co-operation of all who are desirous of promoting the social and moral elevation of the community. It is believed that by these meetings the attention of a large portion of the public will be secured, while the reports of the Addresses delivered will circulate information to an almost indefinite extent.

Donations will be thankfully received by the Treasurer, 80, Fenchurch-street; Messrs. Wilson and Campbell, Blackfriars-road; Mr. Phillips, 39, Moorgate-street; Mr. Tweedie, 3, Falcon-street, Aldersgate-street; Mr. J. P. Draper, 88, Great Titchfield-street; Mr. E. Tisdell, High-street, Kensington; Mr. W. Spriggs, 10, South-street, West-square, Lambeth; Mr. S. Catton, Plaistow; or by any member of the Committee.

The FIFTH Meeting will be held on Monday Evening, February 4, 1850. Subject—"JUVENILE DEPRAVITY:—The Extent of the Evil—its Causes—and the Importance of the Temperance Reformation as a Remedial Measure." Particulars will be duly announced.

The doors on each occasion will be opened at half-past Five o'clock, and the Chair will be taken at Six o'clock. The admission to the Platform will be by Tickets, price 1s. These may be had of any of the persons named above. The admission to the Body of the Hall and the Western Gallery will be FREE.

G. C. CAMPBELL,	}	Hon. Secs.
T. R. SMITHIES,
J. H. ESTERBROOKE,

A GIFT FOR THE NEW YEAR.

For a short time,

BURNE'S TEETOTALER'S COMPANION will be offered, in cloth, at the reduced price of 6s.; or with the Wine Question, 7s. 6d.

Persons wishing to possess this splendid work must make early application as the number of complete copies is very small.

Ipswich: Published by J. M. BURTON. London: Sold by SIMPKIN, MARSHALL, and CO.; HALL and CO.; and all Booksellers.

TEMPERANCE PUBLICATIONS.

THE TEETOTAL TIMES AND ESSAYIST, for 1849.

This may be had complete, price ONE SHILLING. It contains a number of ORIGINAL ARTICLES on some of the important parts of the Total Abstinence question; Original Correspondence; Reviews of Temperance Publications; and a large amount of information as to the operations of the principal Total Abstinence Societies throughout the kingdom and the world. But few complete sets remain.

THE TEETOTAL ESSAYIST; or Monthly Temperance Standard, for 1847. This may now be had complete, price ONE SHILLING. It forms the most interesting and important Publication that has ever been issued from the Temperance Press.

Sixteenth Thousand.

INTEMPERANCE OR THE IDOLATRY OF BRITAIN. By the Rev. W. R. BAKER, author of the "Curse of Britain," &c. It is admitted by the most eminent of the religious reviewers, as well as by all who have read it, that there never was a work upon the Temperance Question more calculated to carry conviction to the mind of a thoughtful reader as to the danger and iniquity of the drinking system. That it may have a very extensive circulation, this new and revised edition is published at Threepence—the price of the former editions was 2s. 6d. The usual allowance will be made to societies, or persons taking a quantity.

THE BEST OF MEN SOMETIMES IN ERROR. By ARCHDEACON JEFFREYS, of Bombay. The object of this incomparable Essay is to show that the advocates of the Total Abstinence system have the full warrant of Scripture for their labour of mercy and love. The style in which this sentiment is reasoned is such as to carry conviction to all who profess to be influenced by the law of love. 1s. 4d. per 100.

DR. NOTT'S LECTURES.

NATURE AND PROVIDENCE.—REPLYING to the QUESTION, WHAT IS the DUTY of MAN in RELATION to the USE of INTOXICATING LIQUORS? In four eloquent and powerful LECTURES. By ELIPHALET NOTT, D.D., LL.D., President of Union College, New York. Carefully revised, with an Appendix. In 32 very closely-printed pages, crown octavo, price One Penny.

DEMORALISATION AND TOTAL ABSTINENCE.

AN EXPOSURE of the Extreme Defectiveness of an Examination of Teetotalism, which appeared recently in the weekly paper called the "Examiner." Reprinted, by request, from the "Standard of Freedom." Price, for extensive circulation, 2s. per 100.

SUNDAY SCHOOL PRIZE TRACTS.

Price 1s. 4d. per 100.

THE IMPORTANCE of the TEMPERANCE MOVEMENT, in its bearings on Sunday-schools.

THE YOUNG, the HOPE of the TEMPERANCE REFORMATION.

B. L. GREEN, Paternoster-row.

Just published, price One Penny, on Thirty-two closely-printed pages,

THE WESLEYAN PENNY ALMANACK

for 1850.—This Almanack, in addition to the usual Calendar, &c., contains ample statistics of the various branches of Wesleyan Methodism. Also a variety of pungent articles, expressive of the opinions of the Press, on the questions which are now agitating the Connexion, arising out of the late proceedings of the Conference. Amongst these are:—Extraordinary proceedings in Conference—Immense power of the Conference—Conference an unrighteous and dangerous despotism—The Holy Office revived—The Inquisition of 1849, with its racks and screws—The Star Chamber outdone—The Conference denies freedom of speech—The Wesleyan Conference degraded—Where will the Conference stop?—The Conference behind the age—The Conference promotes Infidelity—The expulsion question a public question—The Wesleyan laity a nonentity—The Wesleyan people on their trial—What should the Wesleyan people do?—Open Courts demanded—President Jackson and his "Vindication"—Mr. Wesley's thoughts on Methodism, &c. &c.

London: Sold by JOHN KAYE and CO., 80, Fleet-street.

JOHN CASSELL'S NEW MAGAZINE FOR THE PEOPLE.

THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND, and FAMILY INSTRUCTOR.—On Saturday, January 1, 1850, was issued the first Number of a NEW MAGAZINE, bearing the above title, to be continued WEEKLY. It contains thirty-two closely-printed pages, crown octavo, while its price is only ONE PENNY. Monthly parts containing four numbers, price 4½d., or when five numbers, 5½d. Will be ready for delivery with the Monthly Magazines.

CONTENTS OF No. I.

- |  |   |
|--|---|
| <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. The Working Man.</li> <li>2. Cromwell and his Times: The Man, his birth and parentage.</li> <li>3. A Picture of Brittany. By Michelet.</li> <li>4. The Physical History of Man.</li> <li>5. Christopher Chronicle's Lectures on the Social Arts in England.</li> <li>6. Ebenezer Elliott, the Corn-law Rhymer.</li> <li>7. The She-Eagle: An unpublished Sketch. By Fredrica Bremer. Translated by Mary Howitt.</li> <li>8. The Freehold Land Movement: A Dialogue between Two Working Men, Samuel Styles and John Giles.</li> <li>9. The Man with One Garment.</li> </ol> | <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>10. Family Pictures: A Faithful Husband—Affectionate Sons—Brotherly Love—Motherly Affection.</li> <li>11. Poetry: Be Kind.</li> <li>12. Household Economy: A Letter by Martha Makepeace.</li> <li>13. Family Receipts.</li> <li>14. Scientific Miscellany: Magnitude of the Earth—Power of a Bushel of Coals—Power of Gunpowder—Velocity of Sound.</li> <li>15. Weekly Calendar.</li> <li>16. Results of Reading and Thought. By a Literary Sexagenarian.</li> <li>17. Diggings: "Small, but golden, grains."</li> <li>18. Notices to Correspondents, &amp;c.</li> </ol> |
|--|---|

THE DESIGN OF THIS PUBLICATION

Is to furnish instruction to WORKING MEN upon every topic calculated to improve their minds, and, at the same time, to afford them rational entertainment. It is also intended to interest and instruct the FAMILY CIRCLE; to furnish the Wife and the Mother with valuable hints as to domestic economy and occupations; and to present important principles to Juveniles, in the most attractive and impressive forms. Scenes of horror and tales of sickly sentimentality will be rigorously excluded, as far more likely to mislead, debase, and brutalise, than to store the mind with valuable truths, or to exercise and expand its noble powers. That the design of the projector may be fully carried out, this Magazine will comprise several

DISTINCT DEPARTMENTS.

I. HISTORY.—This will embrace all those great epochs in the world's history most likely to prove interesting to the friends of progress. It will commence with the life and times of Oliver Cromwell, interspersed with sketches of the leading characters who figured at that period, including Milton, Hampden, Pym, Marvell, &c.

II. BIOGRAPHY.—Here will be given brief but compendious notices of men and women who have rendered themselves eminent by the consecration of their talents to the benefit of the human race, by instructing the ignorant, vindicating the oppressed, or relieving the necessitous. Also notices of individuals who, from the humblest circumstances in life, have risen to wealth and influence, by the diligent cultivation of their powers, and a careful improvement of their opportunities.

III. POLITICS.—Without professing any particular creed in politics, this Magazine will encourage and assist every movement calculated to secure and to extend the rights and best interests of the WORKING MAN. In this department the FREEHOLD LAND MOVEMENT will be advocated, not only as a means of enlarging the Elective Franchise, but as an important instrument in the promotion of the moral and social elevation of the Working Classes.

IV. LAW.—In this department will be given a series of articles, written in popular style, upon such legal questions as may be of practical utility to various classes; not to encourage a spirit of litigation, but to furnish plain and simple directions as to the proper management of the ordinary business transactions of life.

V. SCIENCE AND ART.—Here will be found popular illustrations of the human system: chemistry, especially in its application to the purposes of trade and commerce, and the occupations of the Working Classes. Also notices, explanations, and recommendations of all new discoveries and inventions, by which human labour may be improved, or the comforts of the domestic circle and the benefit of the community promoted.

VI. PHILANTHROPY.—Every movement intended for the amelioration of suffering, or the improvement, intellectual, social, or moral, of the human family, will have its principles unfolded, and its progress duly reported. Associations for the diffusion of education—the improvement of prison discipline—the abolition of capital punishment—the extinction of slavery—the promotion of health, temperance, peace, and universal brotherhood; these and similar institutions will be fully supported, as intimately connected with human progress, and with the stability and glory of the British Empire.

VII. THE FAMILY CIRCLE.—This section is intended to be a fund of amusing and instructive information, as well as a cabinet, or repository, of valuable recipes, and directions as to various branches of household economy.

VIII. NOTICES TO CORRESPONDENTS.—A certain space will be devoted to the answering judicious questions relating to matters of real utility. These answers will be so framed as to be interesting to general readers, as well as to the parties seeking information.

ALTERATION OF THE ORIGINAL PLAN OF PUBLICATION.

The WORKING MAN'S FRIEND AND FAMILY INSTRUCTOR was at first announced as a MONTHLY publication. In consequence, however, of the urgent entreaties of several judicious friends, John Cassell is induced to venture on the arduous and responsible undertaking of publishing it WEEKLY. He has done this in the confident belief that every friend to the Working Man and his Family will not only purchase the Magazine himself, but recommend it in the circle of his acquaintance. John Cassell takes this opportunity of requesting also the zealous co-operation of his friends among the Working Classes. They may very materially promote the object of the publication by recommending it to their work-mates, as one the circulation of which will promote their best interests. Independently of the heavy preliminary expenses, and a large amount of first-rate literary labour, the mere cost of printing and paper will require a very extensive circulation. The proprietor is determined to make the Magazine every way worthy of patronage and support, as, indeed, the Friend of the Working Man, and the Instructor of his Family.

All communications to be addressed to Mr. JOHN CASSELL, 335, Strand, London.

The WORKING MAN'S FRIEND AND FAMILY INSTRUCTOR can be obtained of all Booksellers.

"THE FREEHOLDER," the ORGAN of the FREEHOLDERS' UNION: devoted to the Freehold Land Movement, and the extension of the County Franchise.—The FIRST Number was published on January 1, 1850, price THREEPENCE, or stamped for postage, FOURPENCE. It can be ordered through Booksellers or News-venders, or direct from JOHN CASSELL, 335, Strand, London.—Subscribers of 5s. and upwards will be entitled, as Members of the Freeholders' Union, to a copy of "The Freeholder" for twelve months, free by post. Subscriptions to be addressed to the Secretary, Mr. J. TAYLOR, jun, Temperance-hotel, Newhall-street, Birmingham.

THE FOLLOWING ALMANACKS FOR 1850 ARE NOW READY.

THE PROTESTANT DISSENTERS' ALMANACK.

This Almanack (64 pages, price Threepence), in addition to the information common in Almanacks, contains a mass of Statistics of the various Religious Denominations and Societies of the kingdom; Lists of Chapels occupied by Independents and Baptists in the Metropolis, with the names of the Ministers and the hours of Service. This Almanack is also enriched with ORIGINAL ARTICLES upon the principal topics and events of the year in connexion with Religious Freedom.

FOR EXTENSIVE CIRCULATION.

THE DISSENTERS' PENNY ALMANACK,
32 pages Crown; compiled by the Editor of the "Protestant Dissenters' Almanack."

The Dissenters' Penny Almanack comprises the usual Calendar, and a mass of information of the utmost importance with which the people should be acquainted. It contains 32 pages of closely-printed letter-press, and altogether forms one of the cheapest, and, at the same time, most interesting Almanacks ever published.

THE FINANCIAL REFORM ALMANACK,

"bristling with Statistics," price Threepence, contains SIXTY-FOUR PAGES of closely-printed matter, and forms one of the most important and complete publications on the financial condition of the country ever exhibited.

This ALMANACK, besides the Calendar and all other topics pertaining to Almanacks, contains a variety of ORIGINAL ARTICLES on Parliamentary and Financial Reform.

Just published,

THE EMIGRANT'S ALMANACK,
PRICE FOURPENCE.

The EMIGRANT'S ALMANACK contains a greater mass of useful information on the important subject of Emigration than any other publication, and every possible care has been taken to ensure its entire accuracy. It contains advice relative to the United States of America; describes the routes to the various fields of emigration; determines the distances to each place; the modes of conveyance; the length of time occupied in the various journeys; expense of transit; cost of land in different parts of the world; expense of clearing the soil; and all the official information from the Commission of Emigration. In every page it abounds with practical hints for the Emigrant of every degree, and altogether forms one of the most interesting and valuable books of reference ever published on the subject of Emigration.

THE TEMPERANCE ALMANACK for

1850, neatly printed in thirty-two pages 8vo, with Engravings, price ONE PENNY. Besides the Calendar and other matter usually founded in Almanacks, are original Articles on the Importance of Teetotalism in Connection with Health of Body—Intellectual Vigour—Industry—Social and Domestic Comfort—Competence—Respectability—Morality and Religion—Usefulness—Trade and Commerce—National Prosperity, and the Maintenance and Spread of Religion—Chronology of the Temperance Movement; and other Articles of much interest to Teetotalers.

THE PEOPLE'S ALMANACK for 1850

is now ready.—THE BEST ALMANACK EVER PUBLISHED AT ONE PENNY.—With excellent Engravings, emblematic of the Progress of Reforms, Political, Social, and Moral. Besides the usual Calendar, List of Fairs, Stamp Duties, Weather Table, &c., it will contain short original Essays on what the People of England should be as regards Freedom—Intelligence—Health—Industry—Riches—Providence for the Future—Peacefulness—Equitable Taxation—Due Representation—Sobriety—and General Happiness; with illustrative Statistics, &c. This Almanack will fully justify its claim to the title of "THE PEOPLE'S ALMANACK," forming a Compendium of the People's Privileges and Duties, and a useful Family Companion. Neatly printed on thirty-two octavo pages, price ONE PENNY.

THE ABOVE ALMANACKS MAY BE ORDERED OF ANY BOOKSELLER.

FOR SUMMER WEAR.—The Thin Gutta Percha Soles are strongly recommended. They not only resist all wet and moisture, thus preserving the health of the wearer, but being so much thinner than leather, they are extremely light and cool for summer wear.

NOTICE.

The Gutta Percha Company beg to state that when the soles are applied according to their "Directions to Shoemakers," it is impossible for them to come off until worn through, and they therefore urge the public to employ those only who will "warrant" them to adhere. This notice is necessary in consequence of interested parties having intentionally fixed the soles on imperfectly.

TO EMIGRANTS, CAPTAINS, &c.

No one should leave England without providing himself with a stock of Gutta Percha Soles and Solution. The ease with which these soles can be applied in countries where no shoemaker can be found—their power of keeping the feet perfectly dry, thus preserving the body from coughs, colds, &c., in lands where medical advice cannot be had—and their great durability and cheapness, render them invaluable to all who propose sailing to distant countries. Gutta Percha Wash-basins, Chamber-bowls, Bottles, Flasks, &c., are admirably suited for shipboard and emigrants, as they can so readily be converted into life-buoys in the event of a shipwreck.

TO ARCHITECTS, &c.

In consequence of the extraordinary power possessed by Gutta Percha Tubing for propelling sound, it is admirably adapted for conveying messages, &c., in Dwelling Houses, Hotels, Warehouse, Mills, &c. This Tubing is also valuable for conveying Gas, Water, and as Refuse Pipes, being unaffected by acids, alkalies, grease, &c., and not so subject to incrustation or affected by the frost as metal pipes.

MILL BANDS.

The increasing demand for the Gutta Percha strapping for driving-bands, lathe-straps, &c., fully justifies the strong recommendations they have everywhere received.

PUMP BUCKETS, CLACKS, &c.

Few applications of Gutta Percha appear likely to be of such extensive use to Manufacturers, Engineers, &c., as the substitution of it for leather in pump-buckets, valves, &c. These buckets can be had of any size and thickness, without any seam or raised joint. They are unaffected by acids, grease, alkalies, &c. Cold water will never soften them, and they are consequently much more durable than leather, and also cheaper.

GUTTA PERCHA PICTURE FRAMES AND ORNAMENTS.

In imitation of the finest wood carving, suitable for the decoration of houses, cabinet work, &c.

GUTTA PERCHA CRICKET-BALLS

are superior to any others yet invented. They are never softened by the grass, however wet, and being made without any stitching, are not liable to rot like the leather ones.

GUTTA PERCHA BOUNCING BALLS

may be had in every variety of colour.

GUTTA PERCHA CLOTHES-LINES.

Being unaffected by the weather, they may be left out in the open air without sustaining injury.

GUTTA PERCHA WINDOW-BLIND CORD

is easily joined by heating the ends. Does not contract and expand like the ordinary cord. It may be had of various colours.

Every other variety of Gutta Percha articles, such as Brackets, Pen-trays, Inkstands, Medallions, Surgical Instruments, Vases, Trays, Watch-stands, Cups, Flasks, Lathe Bands, Clothes-line, Cricket and Bouncing Balls, Pump Buckets, Galvanic Batteries, Chamber-bowls, Washing-basins, Cash-bowls, Ornamental Flower-pots and Stands, Soap-dishes, Electric Telegraph Wire, &c., are manufactured at Wharf-road, City-road, London, and sold by their dealers in town and country.

CAUTION RESPECTING JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE.

JOHN CASSELL finds it necessary to caution the Consumers of his justly-famed COFFEE against purchasing imitations of his Packages. The fact that his Establishment is the largest in the kingdom, and his COFFEE most extensively consumed, has led numerous parties to attempt making up very inferior articles in the same style of Package; and some, to induce tradesmen to substitute their spurious article for that of JOHN CASSELL, offer a larger amount of profit. This has a tendency to prejudice the public, and hence the necessity of thus informing them that no Coffee can be the veritable JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE unless his signature is upon each Package. Go therefore to the Agent for JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, ask for JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, and see that it is JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE which is handed to you, having his Signature upon the Package. This is necessary, for there are numerous imitations, stringent and bitter to the palate, while JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE is rich and strong, at the same time that it is mellow and delicious, pleasing to the palate, and invigorating to the system.

The following are the prices at which they can be obtained:—

JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, No. 1, an excellent article .....	1s. 4d.
JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, No. 2, cannot fail to give great satisfaction, being a combination of the choicest growths of Jamaica, possessing richness, strength, and flavour .....	1s. 8d.
JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, No. 3, to every Connoisseur in Coffee this will prove a treat, combining the finest mountain growths of both Jamaica and Turkey .....	2s. 6d.

JOHN CASSELL'S FIVE-SHILLING TEA.—This is a combination of the finest and most carefully-selected Teas, the produce of choice, young, and tender plants. It possesses not only strength, but a peculiar and delicious fragrance, which cannot fail to render it pleasant to the most fastidious palate and to the exquisite taste of the connoisseur. This may be had either wholly Black or Black and Green mixed. It is sold in Catty Packages only, containing from two ounces to one pound; and every package bears the signature of "JOHN CASSELL," without which none can be genuine.

All applications for these valuable Agencies to be made direct to JOHN CASSELL, 80, FENCHURCH-STREET, LONDON.

TEMPERANCE STATISTICS.—The testimony of the leading medical authorities of Great Britain to the injurious effects of the use of intoxicating liquors in what is commonly called moderation, has received the most important confirmation from the actual experience of the TEMPERANCE PROVIDENT INSTITUTION, containing more than 3,000 members of all ages and in all ranks of life. The deaths in this office during more than eight years have been considerably less than half the number in other offices, and among other bodies of men. And what is extraordinary, although the office contains 600 members more than it did a year ago, the deaths during the last half-year have been actually only half as many as they were in the same period of last year; being only five out of 3,500 policies issued. The actual and expected deaths among a few of the different classes of members have been as follows:—

No. Assured.	Name.	Expected Deaths.	Actual Deaths.
338	Shopkeepers.....	9	6
132	Shoemakers.....	3	1
53	Painters and Plumbers.....	2	1
76	Bakers.....	1	0
61	Labourers and Farmers.....	5	1
136	Clerks.....	3	0
148	Tailors.....

THE DIVISION OF PROFITS,

or Surplus Funds, will take place at the close of next year; when every assurance effected this year will participate, according to date. Early application is therefore desirable.

Teetotallers are respectfully reminded that this is the only office in which they can assure, without having to pay for the premature deaths, which daily take place in all other offices, through the insidious poison of alcoholic beverages.

This Institution being established for the exclusive benefit of its members, is capable of securing to them the utmost possible advantages of the system of Mutual Assurance. It has also several important advantages over other offices. All particulars may be had on application, and will be sent free to any address.

Persons disposed to act as Agents are requested to write to the Secretary, Mr. THEODORE COMPTON, at the office, 39, Moorgate-street, City, London.

Price 3d., or by post 3d..

CAUTIONS and TESTIMONY against ODD FELLOWSHIP. By H. MUDGE, Surgeon, Bodmin.

Also, price 2s., or by post 2s. 6d., by the same author,

EXPOSURE of ODD FELLOWSHIP; showing its immoral tendency and bankrupt circumstances, and containing as well a large amount of information on the subject of Friendly Societies.

WHITTAKER, London; LIDDELL, Bodmin.

THE PEOPLE'S ABSTINENCE STAND-

DARD is the only Weekly Journal devoted to the Total Abstinence Cause.—Each number contains one of a series of papers on Popular Physiology, illustrated by Anatomical Engravings, in which the physical effect of Alcohol will be fully explained.—Articles on the Connection between Christianity, Peace, Freedom, Political Progress, and True Temperance—Reviews of New Books—Original Poetry and Temperance Tales—One Page of Medical Quotations—with Reports of Meetings in Town and Country. Published in time for Booksellers in Town and Country to supply it on Saturday.

Price 1d., or Parts 6d. A few back Numbers still on hand.

London: Published by W. FWEEDIE, 3, Falcon-street, City-W. HORSELL, Aldine-chambers, Paternoster-row; and all Booksellers.

A MINISTER of the GOSPEL, who has been an abstainer for seventeen years, wishes for a SITUATION where he can preach the Gospel of Christ, and promote in every possible way the important and growing cause of Teetotalism.

N.B. Letters, prepaid, and addressed to A. B., 39, Pont-street, Manchester, will be attended to.

DR. CHEYNE'S COUGH and PULMONIC

LOZENGES.—The fame of these Lozenges is fully established as the most pleasant and efficacious remedy that can be employed for the removal of coughs. To the asthmatic, or those who are afflicted with a difficulty of breathing, or a redundancy of phlegm, they give instant relief, by causing free expectoration. They allay the irritation attendant on all affections of the throat, and strengthen the lungs to resist the effects of sudden changes. They remove hoarseness and greatly improve the voice. They arrest, in its incipient stages, that fearful result of our variable atmosphere—consumption; and for diseases of the pulmonary organs a more safe and salutary remedy cannot be applied. For aged persons they are invaluable, and none, whose lungs are in the least degree susceptible of cold, ought to be without them. They afford relief in every case of cough, and where there is no physical disorganization they will effect a cure.

From Mr. John Noble, Bookseller, Agent at Boston.

"DEAR SIR,—A gentleman has just communicated to me such a remarkable cure of spasmodic asthma, of many years' standing, that I forward it to you for publication. He has frequently been laid aside from his business, and during the last winter was confined to his house for nine weeks, during which time he could not lie down in bed. Being induced to try Dr. Cheyne's Cough and Pulmonic Lozenges, he has experienced from them such a cure as he did not think possible. During six weeks that he has taken these invaluable Lozenges, his health has been better than for the last ten years. He can now lie down and sleep comfortably, enjoying his rest in bed from eight or nine at night until five in the morning. Instead of being confined to his room or bed, he says:—"I can now walk all round my farm, and attend to my business, with ease and comfort. I consulted many of the most eminent medical practitioners in the neighbourhood without avail; nothing ever made an impression on my complaint until I tried these Lozenges."

"I asked for a Testimonial, but he said, 'Having four medical men relatives, he could not allow his name to be published.' However, I obtained his permission to furnish this statement, which is nearly verbatim as delivered by him. I hope this 'plain, unvarnished tale' may stimulate other sufferers to try this valuable remedy."

From the Rev. J. Crampin, Baptist Minister, Stretham, Isle of Ely.

"I am compelled to say that, after nearly twenty years public speaking, I have never yet met with anything so effectually easing to the chest—so unclogging to the lungs—and so clearing to the voice, as Dr. Cheyne's Cough and Pulmonic Lozenges. I have used but one box, but such is their pleasantness and usefulness, that I would not be without them for ten times their cost."

CAUTION.—As a variety of Lozenges, Wafers, and Tablets are advertised, containing ingredients of an injurious nature, the public are particularly requested to ask for DR. CHEYNE'S COUGH and PULMONIC LOZENGES, and to observe that the words, "DR. CHEYNE'S COUGH LOZENGES," are engraved on the Government Stamp, which, with Directions for Use, is wrapped round each box.

Sold in Boxes at 1s. 1d., and 2s. 9d., each, by Messrs. Sutton, 10, Bow Church-yard; Barclay's, 95, Farringdon-street; Edwards, 67, St. Paul's Church-yard; Dietrichson and Co., 63, Oxford-street; Sanger, 150, Oxford-street; Johnson, 68, Cornhill; King, 34, Napier-street, Hoxton; Bolton and Co., York; Raines and Co., Edinburgh; and by at least one Agent in every town throughout the United Kingdom.

Printed and Published by WILLIAM CATHERALL, of 59, Albany-road, Camberwell, Surrey, at his Printing Office, 335, Strand, London.

TUESDAY, January 1, 1850.

THE

TEETOTAL TIMES

AND ESSAYIST.

PUBLISHED MONTHLY.

No. XXVI.—NEW SERIES.]

LONDON, FEBRUARY, 1850.

{ Price One Penny.
Stamped, Twopence.

IMPORTANT TEMPERANCE DEMONSTRATIONS in EXETER-HALL.

COMMITTEE OF MANAGEMENT.

T. B. SMITHIES,
E. TISDELL,
G. C. CAMPBELL,
— WILSON,
W. SPRIGGS,
J. W. GREEN,
J. H. ESTERBROOKE,

J. BAILEY,
J. PHILLIPS,
W. TWEEDIE,
J. P. DRAPER,
S. CATTON,
J. MATTHEW.

TREASURER AND CHAIRMAN—JOHN CASSELL, Esq.

For the purpose of presenting the claims of the Temperance Movement more fully before various sections of the community, it has been determined to hold SIX PUBLIC MEETINGS in EXETER-HALL. Four of these Meetings have already been held; the FIFTH will take place on Monday, February 4, 1850. SUBJECT:—"Juvenile Depravity—its Consequences and Appropriate Remedy."

BENJAMIN ROTCH, Esq., one of her Majesty's Justices of the Peace for the county of Middlesex, will preside; and the meeting will be further addressed by Mr. W. Jackson; T. Beggs, Esq.; the Rev. Thomas Spencer, A.M.; the Rev. B. Parsons, &c. The chair will be taken at Half-past Six o'Clock.

As a large sum, probably not less than Two HUNDRED POUNDS, will be required to carry out this object, the Committee respectfully invite the co-operation of all who are desirous of promoting the social and moral elevation of the community. It is believed that by these meetings the attention of a large portion of the public will be secured, while the reports of the Addresses delivered will circulate information to an almost indefinite extent.

Donations will be thankfully received by the Treasurer, 80, Fenchurch-street; Messrs. Wilson and Campbell, Blackfriars-road; Mr. Phillips, 39, Moorgate-street; Mr. Tweedie, 3, Falcon-street, Aldersgate-street; Mr. J. P. Draper, 88, Great Titchfield-street; Mr. E. Tisdell, High-street, Kensington; Mr. W. Spriggs, 10, South-street, West-square, Lambeth; Mr. S. Catton, Plaistow; or by any member of the Committee.

The SIXTH Meeting will be held on Monday Evening, March 4, 1850; the Subject—"Intoxicating Liquors not essential to Health, and their entire Abandonment promotive of the Physical, Intellectual, and Social Benefit of the Community. With remarks on the influence of the Drinking Customs of the Country; the importance of Sanitary Improvements; and an Appeal to Fathers and Mothers to promote habits of Temperance in their Families." Particulars will be duly announced.

The doors on each occasion will be opened at half-past Five o'clock, and the Chair will be taken at Six o'clock. The admission to the Platform will be by Tickets, price 1s. These may be had of any of the persons named above. The admission to the Body of the Hall and the Western Gallery will be FREE.

G. C. CAMPBELL,
T. B. SMITHIES, } Hon. Secs.
J. H. ESTERBROOKE, }

IMPORTANT TO THE FRIENDS OF THE TEMPERANCE CAUSE.

DR. WARHAM begs to inform his Friends in Yorkshire and Lancashire, who may wish to avail themselves of his LECTURES during the three following months—February, March, and April—to make their intentions known. He only requires his Reasonable Expenses to be paid, and that these may be as light as possible, an early application from the Societies will be desirable, and those who are desirous of further information are requested to enclose the postage.

The Lectures will be popular, critical, and physiological, on true Temperance principles, illustrated by upwards of 300 Drawings and Diagrams (part of them large, transparent, costly, coloured ones), and furnish a most impressive picture of the havoc wrought by strong drink on the delicate organization of man; including "The Bottle," being correct copies in oil (40 inches by 60 each), after the celebrated Etchings by Cruikshank; the various Coats of Arms—the Temperate, the Moderate, and the Drunkard's—forming a Picture Gallery of Science, Health, and Disease.

Address, Mr. WARHAM, Surgeon, Newcastle-under-Lyme, Staffordshire.

THE PEOPLE'S ABSTINENCE STANDARD is the only Weekly Journal devoted to the Total Abstinence Cause.—Each number contains one of a series of papers on Popular Physiology, illustrated by Anatomical Engravings, in which the physical effect of Alcohol will be fully explained—Articles on the Connection between Christianity, Peace, Freedom, Political Progress, and True Temperance—Reviews of New Books—Original Poetry and Temperance Tales—One Page of Medical Quotations—with Reports of Meetings in Town and Country. Published in time for Booksellers in Town and Country to supply it on Saturday.

Price 1d., or Parts 6d. A few back Numbers still on hand. The First Volume, price 2s. 6d. is now ready.

London: Published by W. TWEEDIE, 3, Falcon-street, City. W. HORSEL, Aldine-chambers, Paternoster-row; and all Booksellers.

TEMPERANCE PUBLICATIONS.

THE TEETOTAL TIMES and ESSAYIST, for 1849.

This may be had complete, price ONE SHILLING. It contains a number of ORIGINAL ARTICLES on some of the important parts of the Total Abstinence question; Original Correspondence; Reviews of Temperance Publications; and a large amount of information as to the operations of the principal Total Abstinence Societies throughout the kingdom and the world. But few complete sets remain.

THE TEETOTAL ESSAYIST; or Monthly Temperance Standard, for 1847. This may now be had complete, price ONE SHILLING. It forms the most interesting and important Publication that has ever been issued from the Temperance Press.

Sixteenth Thousand.

INTEMPERANCE the IDOLATRY of BRITAIN. By the Rev. W. R. BAKER, author of the "Curse of Britain," &c. It is admitted by the most eminent of the religious reviewers, as well as by all who have read it, that there never was a work upon the Temperance Question more calculated to carry conviction to the mind of a thoughtful reader as to the danger and iniquity of the drinking system. That it may have a very extensive circulation, this new and revised edition is published at Threepence;—the price of the former editions was 2s. 6d. The usual allowance will be made to societies, or persons taking a quantity.

THE BEST OF MEN SOMETIMES IN ERROR. By ARCHDEACON JEFFREYS, of Bombay. The object of this incomparable Essay is to show that the advocates of the Total Abstinence system have the full warrant of Scripture for their labour of mercy and love. The style in which this sentiment is reasoned is such as to carry conviction to all who profess to be influenced by the law of love. 1s. 4d. per 100.

DR. NOTT'S LECTURES.

NATURE AND PROVIDENCE,—REPLYING to the QUESTION, WHAT is the DUTY of MAN in RELATION to the USE of INTOXICATING LIQUORS? In four eloquent and powerful LECTURES. By ELLIPHALET NOTT, D.D., LL.D., President of Union College, New York. Carefully revised, with an Appendix. In 32 very closely-printed pages, crown octavo, price One Penny.

DEMORALISATION AND TOTAL ABSTINENCE..

AN EXPOSURE of the Extreme Defectiveness of an Examination of Teetotalism, which appeared recently in the weekly paper called the "Examiner." Reprinted, by request, from the "Standard of Freedom." Price, for extensive circulation, 2s. per 100.

SUNDAY SCHOOL PRIZE TRACTS.

Price 1s. 4d. per 100.

THE IMPORTANCE of the TEMPERANCE MOVEMENT, in its bearings on Sunday-schools.

THE YOUNG, the HOPE of the TEMPERANCE REFORMATION.

B. L. GREEN, Paternoster-row.

THE LITERATURE OF WORKING MEN.

On the 30th of March it is the intention of JOHN CASSELL to issue the first

SUPPLEMENTARY NUMBER of the WORKING MAN'S FRIEND, to be continued monthly, uniform in size and price with the Weekly Numbers. These Supplementary Numbers will be devoted entirely to communications from Working Men. An opportunity will thus be afforded to the working classes for furnishing hints and suggestions as to the improvement of their own order, whether physically, socially, or morally. In addition, however, to correspondence of this kind, which will always receive respectful attention, it is the intention of John Cassell, as an encouragement to literary exertion, to award prizes, in the shape of valuable books, to those whose compositions may be considered worthy of insertion. No such article ought to exceed about four pages in length. To articles of that extent, approved by impartial judges, some volume or volumes, to the value of one guinea, selected from a list by the successful writers, will be forwarded, post free; for shorter articles, volumes varying in value from five shillings to fifteen shillings will be sent. The numerous communications which have been received demonstrate, not only that the pages of the WORKING MAN'S FRIEND are occupied to the satisfaction of the writers, but also the possession of talent among the working classes of no ordinary character. Independently of any inducement of the kind now offered, the proposed Supplementary Numbers could be well filled by the spontaneous effusions of men who have not only hard hands, but hard-thinking heads—men who are intensely anxious for the elevation of their fellows. At the same time, it is believed that the presentation of valuable and instructive works will not only be a suitable acknowledgment to industry and talent, but beneficial in the influence it will exert in the families and circles of the writers. The trade and initials of each contributor will be appended. It is to be well understood that the writers must belong strictly to the operative class. The subjects may embrace morality, social order and comfort, history, biography, art, science, general literature, and the principles and claims of any movement tending to promote the improvement and welfare of the people.

All communications to be addressed to JOHN CASSELL, 335, Strand, London. Full address in each case.

THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND and FAMILY INSTRUCTOR. 32 pages, crown octavo, Price One Penny.

No. 5, for the week ending FEBRUARY 2, will contain:

The Working Man: No. IV. Importance of Cleanliness.
Cromwell and his Times.
The Pye-street Boy. By Silverpen.
The Folly of Atheism. By A. De Lamartine.
Marriage Ceremonies of the Hindus.
Parliamentary Sketches: No. I. The Hon. Mr. Villiers and Sir James Duke, Mover and Seconder of the Address on the Queen's Speech.
Christmas in the Olden Time.
Household Economy. By Martha Makepeace.
Receipts.
The School-room, No. III.

Scientific Miscellany: Number of Fixed Stars—Muscular Motion—Remarkable Halo—Rainbows—Cleanliness of Animals.
Family Pictures: Gustavus and the Peasant Girl—Courtesy recommended to the Married—Affection's Choice Treasures—A Hint to the Sullen—Home pleasures—Employment—My Youngest.
Weekly Calendar.
Humorous Selections.
Diggings.
Notices to Correspondents, &c. &c.

THE FIRST MONTHLY PART OF

THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND and FAMILY INSTRUCTOR is now ready, Price Fourpence-halfpenny, enclosed in a neat Wrapper.

CONTENTS:

No. I.

The Working Man.—Cromwell and his Times.—A Picture of Brittany.—The Physical History of Man.—Christopher Chronicle's Lectures.—Ebenezer Elliott, the Corn-law Rhymist.—The She-Eagle. An unpublished Sketch. By Fredrika Bremer. Translated by Mary Howitt.—The Freehold Land Movement.—The Man with One Garment.—Family Pictures.—Be Kind.—Sir Isaac Coffin.—Household Economy. By Martha Makepeace.—Family Receipts.—Scientific Miscellany.—Weekly Calendar.—Results of Reading and Thought. By a Sexagenarian.—Diggings.—Conscience must be kept in Exercise.—Law of Progress.—Notices to Correspondents.—To our Readers.

No. II.

The Working Man. No. I. The importance of having a Scientific Knowledge of his Trade or Occupation.—Cromwell and his Times.—The Physical History of Man.—The Wood-Nook Wells; or, Neighbours' Quarrels. By Mary Howitt.—Christopher Chronicle's Lectures.—The Good Words of Mr. Hagenmaier. By Berthold Auerbach.—The Necessity of a General Knowledge of the Law.—An American's Opinion of English Reformers. By H. B. Stanton. No. I. Joseph Hume.—Three Anomalous Taxes.—Rates and Taxes.—Out of your Inside.—Man's Last Friend is the Tax-gatherer.—Household Economy.—Family Receipts.—The Juvenile Cabinet.—Scientific Miscellany.—

Weekly Calendar.—Rules for Reading.—Where is She?—Results of Reading and Thought. By a Sexagenarian.—Humorous Selections.—A Real Letter from a Cornish Miner, giving an Account of the Queen's Visit to Paiburrow Mine.—Notices to Correspondents.

No. III.

The Working Man. No. II. His Behaviour and Conduct.—Cromwell and his Times.—The Wood-Nook Wells.—Charlemagne. From the French of Alexandre Dumas.—The Philosophical Cobbler.—Life is Onward.—An American's Opinion of English Reformers.—The Freehold Land Movement.—Why Women are Unhealthy.—Household Economy.—Family Receipts.—Wit and Plesantry.—Family Pictures.—Love One Another.—The School-room.—Dreaming for a Breakfast.—Weekly Calendar.—Interpretation of Dreams.—Diggings.—Notices to Correspondents.

No. IV.

The Working Man. No. III. Workshops and Factories, National Schools.—The Citadel of Moral Strength.—Cromwell and his Times.—The Wood-Nook Wells (concluded).—An American's Opinion of English Reformers.—The Freedom of the Mind.—On Labour. Translated from the French of M. Theirs.—Waghorn, the Overland Pioneer.—Household Economy.—Family Receipts.—The Laws Relating to Masters and Workmen.—The School-room.—Scientific Miscellany.—The Juvenile Cabinet.—Weekly Calendar.—Notices to Correspondents.

Published at 335, Strand, London; J. MENZIES, Edinburgh; GALLIE, Glasgow; and all Booksellers throughout the United Kingdom.

The WORKING MAN'S FRIEND and FAMILY INSTRUCTOR is published weekly, 32 pages, crown 8vo, price One Penny, or in Monthly parts, four numbers, 4½d.; five numbers, 5½d.

"THE FREEHOLDER," the ORGAN of the FREEHOLD LAND MOVEMENT. Issued Monthly, price THREEPENCE, or stamped for posting, FOURPENCE.

On the 1st of February was published,

No. II. of THE FREEHOLDER,

containing 48 folio columns. It can be ordered of any Bookseller or Newsvender, or direct from the Publisher, JOHN CASSELL, 335, Strand, London.

THE FOLLOWING ALMANACKS FOR 1850 ARE NOW READY.

THE PROTESTANT DISSENTERS' ALMANACK.

This Almanack (64 pages, price Threepence), in addition to the information common in Almanacks, contains a mass of Statistics of the various Religious Denominations and Societies of the Kingdom; Lists of Chapels occupied by Independents and Baptists in the Metropolis, with the names of the Ministers and the hours of Service. This Almanack is also enriched with ORIGINAL ARTICLES upon the principal topics and events of the year in connexion with Religious Freedom.

FOR EXTENSIVE CIRCULATION.

THE DISSENTERS' PENNY ALMANACK.

32 pages Crown; compiled by the Editor of the "Protestant Dissenters' Almanack."
The Dissenters' Penny Almanack comprises the usual Calendar, and a mass of information of the utmost importance with which the people should be acquainted. It contains 32 pages of closely-printed letter-press, and altogether forms one of the cheapest, and, at the same time, most interesting Almanacks ever published.

THE FINANCIAL REFORM ALMANACK.

"bristling with Statistics," price Threepence, contains SIXTY-FOUR PAGES of closely-printed matter, and forms one of the most important and complete publications on the financial condition of the country ever exhibited.

This ALMANACK, besides the Calendar and all other topics pertaining to Almanacks, contains a variety of ORIGINAL ARTICLES on Parliamentary and Financial Reform.

Just published,

THE EMIGRANT'S ALMANACK.

PRICE FOURPENCE.
The EMIGRANT'S ALMANACK contains a greater mass of useful information on the important subject of Emigration than any other publication, and every possible care has been taken to ensure its entire accuracy. It contains advice relative to the United States of America; describes the routes to the various fields of emigration; determines the distances to each place; the modes of conveyance; the length of time occupied in the various journeys; expense of transit; cost of land in different parts of the world; expense of clearing the soil; and all the official information from the Commission of Emigration. In every page it abounds with practical hints for the Emigrant of every degree, and altogether forms one of the most interesting and valuable books of reference ever published on the subject of Emigration.

THE TEMPERANCE ALMANACK

for 1850, neatly printed in thirty-two pages 8vo, with Engravings, price ONE PENNY. Besides the Calendar and other matter usually founded in Almanacks, are original Articles on the Importance of Teetotalism in Connection with Health of Body—Intellectual Vigour—Industry—Social and Domestic Comfort—Competence—Respectability—Morality and Religion—Usefulness—Trade and Commerce—National Prosperity, and the Maintenance and Spread of Religion—Chronology of the Temperance Movement; and other Articles of much interest to Teetotalers.

THE PEOPLE'S ALMANACK for 1850 is now ready.—THE BEST ALMANACK EVER PUBLISHED AT ONE PENNY.—With excellent Engravings, emblematic of the Progress of Reform, Political, Social, and Moral. Besides the usual Calendar, List of Fairs, Stamp Duties, Weather Table, &c., it will contain short original Essays on what the People of England should be as regards Freedom—Intelligence—Health—Industry—Bitches—Providence for the Future—Peacefulness—Equitable Taxation—Due Representation—Sobriety—and General Happiness; with illustrative Statistics, &c. This Almanack will fully justify its claim to the title of "THE PEOPLE'S ALMANACK," forming a Compendium of the People's Privileges and Duties, and a useful Family Companion. Neatly printed on thirty-two octavo pages, price ONE PENNY.

THE ABOVE ALMANACKS MAY BE ORDERED OF ANY BOOKSELLER.

FOR SUMMER WEAR.—The Thin Gutta Percha Soles are strongly recommended. They not only resist all wet and moisture, thus preserving the health of the wearer, but being so much thinner than leather, they are extremely light and cool for summer wear.

NOTICE.

The Gutta Percha Company beg to state that when the soles are applied according to their "Directions to Shoemakers," it is impossible for them to come off until worn through, and they therefore urge the public to employ those only who will "warrant" them to adhere. This notice is necessary in consequence of interested parties having intentionally fixed the soles on imperfectly.

TO EMIGRANTS, CAPTAINS, &c.

No one should leave England without providing himself with a stock of Gutta Percha Soles and Solution. The ease with which these soles can be applied in countries where no shoemaker can be found—their power of keeping the feet perfectly dry, thus preserving the body from coughs, colds, &c., in lands where medical advice cannot be had—and their great durability and cheapness, render them invaluable to all who propose sailing to distant countries. Gutta Percha Wash-basins, Chamber-bowls, Bottles, Flasks, &c., are admirably suited for shipboard and emigrants, as they can so readily be converted into life-buoys in the event of a shipwreck.

TO ARCHITECTS, &c.

In consequence of the extraordinary power possessed by Gutta Percha Tubing for propelling sound, it is admirably adapted for conveying messages, &c., in Dwelling Houses, Hotels, Warehouses, Mills, &c. This Tubing is also valuable for conveying Gas, Water, and as Refuse Pipes, being unaffected by acids, alkalis, grease, &c., and not so subject to incrustation or affected by the frost as metal pipes.

MILL BANDS.

The increasing demand for the Gutta Percha strapping for driving-bands, lathe-straps, &c., fully justifies the strong recommendations they have everywhere received.

PUMP BUCKETS, CLACKS, &c.

Few applications of Gutta Percha appear likely to be of such extensive use to Manufacturers, Engineers, &c., as the substitution of it for leather in pump-buckets, valves, &c. These buckets can be had of any size and thickness, without any seam or raised joint. They are unaffected by acids, grease, alkalis, &c. Cold water will never soften them, and they are consequently much more durable than leather, and also cheaper.

GUTTA PERCHA PICTURE FRAMES AND ORNAMENTS.

In imitation of the finest wood carving, suitable for the decoration of houses, cabinet work, &c.

GUTTA PERCHA CRICKET-BALLS

are superior to any others yet invented. They are never softened by the grass, however wet, and being made without any stitching, are not liable to rot like the leather ones.

GUTTA PERCHA BOUNCING BALLS

may be had in every variety of colour.

GUTTA PERCHA CLOTHES-LINES.

Being unaffected by the weather, they may be left out in the open air without sustaining injury.

GUTTA PERCHA WINDOW-BLIND CORD

is easily joined by heating the ends. Does not contract and expand like the ordinary cord. It may be had of various colours.

Every other variety of Gutta Percha articles, such as Brackets, Pen-trays, Ink-stands, Medallions, Surgical Instruments, Vases, Trays, Watch-stands, Cups, Flasks, Lathe Bands, Clothes-line, Cricket and Bouncing Balls, Pump Buckets, Galvanic Batteries, Chamber-bowls, Washing-basins, Wash-bowls, Ornamental Flower-pots and Stands, Soap-dishes, Electric Telegraph Wire, &c., are manufactured at Wharf-road, City-road, London, and sold by their dealers in town and country.

CAUTION RESPECTING JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE.

JOHN CASSELL finds it necessary to caution the Consumers of his justly-famed COFFEE against purchasing imitations of his Packages. The fact that his Establishment is the largest in the kingdom, and his COFFEE most extensively consumed, has led numerous parties to attempt making up very inferior articles in the same style of Package; and some, to induce tradesmen to substitute their spurious article for that of JOHN CASSELL, offer a larger amount of profit. This has a tendency to prejudice the public, and hence the necessity of thus informing them that no Coffee can be the veritable JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE unless his signature is upon each Package. Go therefore to the Agent for JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, ask for JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, and see that it is JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE which is handed to you, having his Signature upon the Package. This is necessary, for there are numerous imitations, stringent and bitter to the palate, while JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE is rich and strong, at the same time that it is mellow and delicious, pleasing to the palate, and invigorating to the system.

The following are the prices at which they can be obtained:—

JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE , No. 1, an excellent article .....	1s. 4d.
JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE , No. 2, cannot fail to give great satisfaction, being a combination of the choicest growths of Jamaica, possessing richness, strength, and flavour .....	1s. 8d.
JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE , No. 3, to every Connoisseur in Coffee this will prove a treat, combining the finest mountain growths of both Jamaica and Turkey .....	2s. 6d.

JOHN CASSELL'S FIVE-SHILLING TEA.—This is a combination of the finest and most carefully-selected Teas, the produce of choice, young, and tender plants. It possesses not only strength, but a peculiar and delicious fragrance, which cannot fail to render it pleasant to the most fastidious palate and to the exquisite taste of the connoisseur. This may be had either wholly Black or Black and Green mixed. It is sold in Catty Packages only, containing from two ounces to one pound; and every package bears the signature of "JOHN CASSELL," without which none can be genuine.

All applications for these valuable Agencies to be made direct to JOHN CASSELL, 80, FENCHURCH-STREET, LONDON.

Price 2d., or by post 3d.,

CAUTIONS AND TESTIMONY against ODD FELLOWSHIP. By H. MUDGE, Surgeon, Bodmin.

Also, price 2s., or by post 2s. 6d., by the same author,

EXPOSURE OF ODD FELLOWSHIP; showing its Immoral Tendency and Bankrupt Circumstances, and containing as well a large amount of information on the subject of Friendly Societies.

WHITTAKER, London; LIDDELL, Bodmin.

THE MEETING OF PARLIAMENT.

THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM: JOHN CASSELL, Proprietor.

The largest-sized Paper allowed by Law. Price 5d., or 5s. 5d. per Quarter.

The coming Session of Parliament is expected to be the most exciting and important of any since the passing of the Reform Bill. Among the great questions of national interest to be submitted early for discussion is

THE EXTENSION OF THE SUFFRAGE,

To which the attention of Government is at length directed.

OUR COLONIAL POLICY

Will also be the subject of grave and earnest legislative consideration. The Session will likewise furnish most important Debates in THE STRUGGLES OF THE PROTECTIONISTS AGAINST THE FREE-TRADE PARTY.

And the anxiety and zeal of all the friends of cheap and good Government will be awakened by those proceedings, as well as by the vital questions of

PARLIAMENTARY AND FINANCIAL REFORM,

Which will occupy a prominent feature in the business of the Session.

To meet these anxious expectations, the proprietor of THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM has made suitable arrangements by which the

PARLIAMENTARY DEBATES

Will be copiously and most accurately reported. The Literary Staff of the Paper will be materially strengthened, and every effort called forth to develop the stirring topics of the Session, so that the usefulness of THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM may be still further extended, and its influence in favour of the great principles of Freedom which it advocates be more powerfully and decidedly felt.

TO OUR SCOTTISH FRIENDS.

The proud position which the STANDARD OF FREEDOM has obtained in Scotland is a gratifying evidence of the approval given to its earnest and uncompromising advocacy of the great principles of Political, Commercial, and Religious Freedom. In consequence of the numerous applications from various parties as to the late arrival of the paper on Saturday, the Proprietor of the STANDARD OF FREEDOM, regardless of expense, has made such arrangements as will enable him to despatch his journal so as to reach Edinburgh, Glasgow, &c., EARLY ON SATURDAY MORNING, and the extreme north of Scotland EARLY ON SATURDAY AFTERNOON. This Edition will regularly contain the PARLIAMENTARY DEBATES down to the latest hour on Friday Morning.

This arrangement will be carried into effect on the OPENING OF PARLIAMENT; and the STANDARD OF FREEDOM, of February 2, will contain the QUEEN'S SPEECH, with the Debate on the Address to her Majesty, including the Speeches of the Hon. C. P. Villiers and Sir James Duke.

Orders for the STANDARD OF FREEDOM will be received by all News-vendors in Town and Country.

STANDARD OF FREEDOM Office, 335, Strand, London.

DR. CHEYNE'S COUGH AND PULMONIC

LOZENGES.—The fame of these Lozenges is fully established as the most pleasant and efficacious remedy that can be employed for the removal of coughs. To the asthmatic, or those who are afflicted with a difficulty of breathing, or a redundancy of phlegm, they give instant relief, by causing free expectoration. They allay the irritation attendant on all affections of the throat, and strengthen the lungs to resist the effects of sudden changes. They remove hoarseness and greatly improve the voice. They arrest, in its incipient stages, that fearful result of our variable atmosphere—consumption; and for diseases of the pulmonary organs a more safe and salutary remedy cannot be applied. For aged persons they are invaluable, and none, whose lungs are in the least degree susceptible of cold, ought to be without them. They afford relief in every case of cough, and where there is no physical disorganization they will effect a cure.

From Mr. John Noble, Bookseller, Agent at Boston.

"DEAR SIR.—A gentleman has just communicated to me such a remarkable cure of spasmodic asthma, of many years' standing, that I forward it to you for publication. He has frequently been laid aside from his business, and during the last winter was confined to his house for nine weeks, during which time he could not lie down in bed. Being induced to try Dr. Cheyne's Cough and Pulmonic Lozenges, he has experienced from them such a cure as he did not think possible. During six weeks that he has taken these invaluable Lozenges, his health has been better than for the last ten years. He can now lie down and sleep comfortably, enjoying his rest in bed from eight or nine at night until five in the morning. Instead of being confined to his room or bed, he says:—'I can now walk all round my farm, and attend to my business, with ease and comfort. I consulted many of the most eminent medical practitioners in the neighbourhood without avail; nothing ever made an impression on my complaint until I tried these Lozenges.'

"I asked for a Testimonial, but he said, 'Having four medical men relatives, he could not allow his name to be published.' However, I obtained his permission to furnish this statement, which is nearly verbatim as delivered by him. I hope this 'plain, unvarnished tale' may stimulate other sufferers to try this valuable remedy."

From the Rev. J. Crampin, Baptist Minister, Stretham, Isle of Ely.

"I am compelled to say that, after nearly twenty years public speaking, I have never yet met with anything so effectually easing to the chest—so unobtrusive to the lungs—and so clearing to the voice, as Dr. Cheyne's Cough and Pulmonic Lozenges. I have used but one box, but such is their pleasantness and usefulness, that I would not be without them for ten times their cost."

To Mr. J. Everington, Church-street, Gainsborough.

"SIR.—I have been afflicted for years with a bad cough. I could not sleep at night, and sometimes coughed to that degree that the neighbours thought I should break a blood-vessel. I was induced to try a box of Dr. Cheyne's Lozenges, which was purchased at your shop; and after taking ten Lozenges, my cough left me. I give you leave to publish this statement for the benefit of others.—Blyton, near Gainsborough. "JANE HUNT."

CAUTION.—As a variety of Lozenges, Wafers, and Tablets are advertised, containing ingredients of an injurious nature, the public are particularly requested to ask for DR. CHEYNE'S COUGH AND PULMONIC LOZENGES, and to observe that the words, "DR. CHEYNE'S COUGH LOZENGES," are engraved on the Government Stamp, which, with Directions for Use, is wrapped round each box.

Sold in Boxes at 1s. 1/2d., and 2s. 9d., each, by Messrs. Sutton, 10, Bow Church-yard; Barclay's, 95, Farringdon-street; Edwards, 67, St. Paul's Church-yard; Dietrichson and Co., 63, Oxford-street; Sanger, 150, Oxford-street; Johnson, 68, Cornhill; King, 34, Napier-street, Hoxton; Bolton and Co., York; Raines and Co., Edinburgh; and by at least one Agent in every town throughout the United Kingdom.

Printed and Published by WILLIAM CATHRALL, of 59, Albany-road, Camberwell, Surrey, at his Printing Office, 335, Strand, London.

FRIDAY, February 1, 1850.

THE
TEETOTAL TIMES
AND ESSAYIST.

PUBLISHED MONTHLY.

No. XXVII.—NEW SERIES.]

LONDON, MARCH, 1850.

(Price One Penny.
Stamped, Twopence.)

IMPORTANT TEMPERANCE DEMONSTRATIONS in EXETER-HALL.

COMMITTEE OF MANAGEMENT.

T. B. SMITHIES,	J. BAILEY,
E. TISDELL,	J. PHILLIPS,
G. C. CAMPBELL,	W. TWEEDIE,
— WILSON,	J. P. DRAPER,
W. SPRIGGS,	S. CATTON,
J. W. GREEN,	J. MATTHEW.
J. H. ESTERBROOKE,

TREASURER AND CHAIRMAN—JOHN CASSELL, Esq.

For the purpose of presenting the claims of the Temperance Movement more fully before various sections of the community, it has been determined to hold SIX PUBLIC MEETINGS in EXETER-HALL. Five of these Meetings have already been held; the SIXTH will take place on Monday, March 4, 1850. SUBJECT:—

“Intoxicating liquors not essential to health or comfort, and their entire abandonment promotive of the physical, intellectual, social and religious condition of the community.”

The Meeting will be addressed by

P. W. PERFIT, Esq.;

JAMES TAYLOR, Esq., of Birmingham;

GEORGE CRUIKSHANK, Esq.;

D. D. GOURLEY, Esq., M.D.;

CARL OLOF BRINK, Esq., LL.B. (Secretary to the Royal Board of Prisons in Sweden),

In consequence of whose visit to this country, the form of an Address to the King of Sweden, on the subject of the Temperance Reformation, will be presented for adoption.

As a large sum, probably not less than TWO HUNDRED POUNDS, will be required to defray the expenses incurred by the carrying out of this object, the Committee respectfully invite the co-operation of all who are desirous of promoting the social and moral elevation of the community. It is certain that by these meetings the attention of a large portion of the public has been secured, while the reports of the Addresses delivered has circulated information to an almost indefinite extent.

Donations will be thankfully received by the Treasurer, 80, Fenchurch-street; Messrs. Wilson and Campbell, Blackfriars-road; Mr. Phillips, 39, Moorgate-street; Mr. Tweedie, 3, Falcon-street, Aldersgate-street; Mr. J. P. Draper, 88, Great Titchfield-street; Mr. E. Tisdell, High-street, Kensington; Mr. W. Spriggs, 10, South-street, West-square, Lambeth; Mr. S. Catton, Plaiestow; or by any member of the Committee.

The doors will be opened at half-past Five o'clock, and the Chair will be taken at Six o'clock. The admission to the Platform will be by Tickets, price 1s. These may be had of any of the persons named above. The admission to the Body of the Hall and the Western Gallery will be FREE.

GRAND TEMPERANCE SOIREE.

The Committee for conducting the Temperance Meetings in Exeter-hall, have the pleasure of announcing that they have engaged the GREAT HALL, in FARRINGTON-STREET, for the purpose of a SOIREE, on the evening of GOOD FRIDAY next, March 29th.

Several distinguished advocates of Temperance will deliver addresses, between each of which some appropriate pieces will be sung by a select band of vocalists. Tea and other refreshments, of the best description, will be on the tables at five o'clock; and, in the course of the evening, a Dessert will be furnished. It is intended by the Committee to make this an attractive social gathering of the Friends of Temperance, and it is confidently hoped that the Teetotalers of the Metropolis will lend all possible aid.

Tickets, 1s. 6d. each, may be had of any of the persons named above.

JOHN CASSELL, Treasurer.

G. C. CAMPBELL,	}	Hon. Secs.
T. B. SMITHIES,
J. H. ESTERBROOKE,

THE PEOPLE'S ABSTINENCE STANDARD is the only Weekly Journal devoted to the Total Abstinence Cause.—Each number contains one of a series of papers on Popular Physiology, illustrated by Anatomical Engravings, in which the physical effect of Alcohol will be fully explained—Articles on the Connection between Christianity, Peace, Freedom, Political Progress, and True Temperance—Reviews of New Books—Original Poetry and Temperance Tales—One Page of Medical Quotations—with Reports of Meetings in Town and Country. Published in time for Booksellers in Town and Country to supply it on Saturday.

Price 1d., or Parts 6d. A few back Numbers still on hand. The First Volume, price 2s. 6d. is now ready.

London: Published by W. TWEEDIE, 3, Falcon-street, City. W. HORSEL, Aldine-chambers, Paternoster-row; and all Booksellers.

TEMPERANCE PUBLICATIONS.

THE TEETOTAL TIMES and ESSAYIST, for 1849.

This may be had complete, price ONE SHILLING. It contains a number of ORIGINAL ARTICLES on some of the important parts of the Total Abstinence question; Original Correspondence; Reviews of Temperance Publications; and a large amount of information as to the operations of the principal Total Abstinence Societies throughout the kingdom and the world. But few complete sets remain.

THE TEETOTAL ESSAYIST; or Monthly Temperance Standard, for 1847. This may now be had complete, price ONE SHILLING. It forms the most interesting and important Publication that has ever been issued from the Temperance Press.

Sixteenth Thousand.

INTEMPERANCE the IDOLATRY OF BRITAIN. By the Rev. W. R. BAKER, author of the “Curse of Britain,” &c. It is admitted by the most eminent of the religious reviewers, as well as by all who have read it, that there never was a work upon the Temperance Question more calculated to carry conviction to the mind of a thoughtful reader as to the danger and iniquity of the drinking system. That it may have a very extensive circulation, this new and revised edition is published at Threepence—the price of the former editions was 2s. 6d. The usual allowance will be made to societies, or persons taking a quantity.

THE BEST OF MEN SOMETIMES IN ERROR. By ARCHDEACON JEFFREYS, of Bombay. The object of this incomparable Essay is to show that the advocates of the Total Abstinence system have the full warrant of Scripture for their labour of mercy and love. The style in which this sentiment is reasoned is such as to carry conviction to all who profess to be influenced by the law of love. 1s. 4d. per 100.

DR. NOTT'S LECTURES.

NATURE AND PROVIDENCE.—REPLYING to the QUESTION, WHAT IS the DUTY of MAN in RELATION to the USE of INTOXICATING LIQUORS? In four eloquent and powerful LECTURES. By ELIPHALET NOTT, D.D., LL.D., President of Union College, New York. Carefully revised, with a n Appendix. In 32 very closely-printed pages, crown octavo, price One Penny.

DEMORALISATION AND TOTAL ABSTINENCE..

AN EXPOSURE of the Extreme Defectiveness of an Examination of Teetotalism, which appeared recently in the weekly paper called the “Examiner.” Reprinted, by request, from the “Standard of Freedom.” Price, for extensive circulation, 2s. per 100.

SUNDAY SCHOOL PRIZE TRACTS.

Price 1s. 4d. per 100.

THE IMPORTANCE of the TEMPERANCE MOVEMENT, in its bearings on Sunday-schools.

THE YOUNG, the HOPE of the TEMPERANCE REFORMATION.

B. L. GREEN, Paternoster-row.

THE LITERATURE OF WORKING MEN.

On the 30th of March it is the intention of JOHN CASSELL to issue the first

SUPPLEMENTARY NUMBER of the WORKING MAN'S FRIEND, to be continued Monthly, uniform in size and price with the Weekly Numbers. These Supplementary Numbers will be devoted entirely to communications from Working Men. An opportunity will thus be afforded to the working classes for furnishing hints and suggestions as to the improvement of their own order, whether physically, socially, or morally. In addition, however, to correspondence of this kind, which will always receive respectful attention, it is the intention of John Cassell, as an encouragement to literary exertion, to award prizes, in the shape of valuable books, to those whose compositions may be considered worthy of insertion. No such article ought to exceed about four pages in length. To articles of that extent, approved by impartial judges, some volume or volumes, to the value of one guinea, selected from a list by the successful writers, will be forwarded, post free; for shorter articles, volumes varying in value from five shillings to fifteen shillings will be sent. The numerous communications which have been received demonstrate, not only that the pages of the WORKING MAN'S FRIEND are occupied to the satisfaction of the writers, but also the possession of talent among the working classes of no ordinary character. Independently of any inducement of the kind now offered, the proposed Supplementary Numbers could be well filled by the spontaneous effusions of men who have not only hard hands, but hard-thinking heads—men who are intensely anxious for the elevation of their fellows. At the same time it is believed that the presentation of valuable and instructive works will not only be a suitable acknowledgment to industry and talent, but beneficial in the influence it will exert in the families and circles of the writers. The trade and initials of each contributor will be appended. It is to be well understood that the writers must belong strictly to the operative class. The subjects may embrace morality, social order and comfort, history, biography, art, science, general literature, and the principles and claims of any movement tending to promote the improvement and welfare of the people.

All communications to be addressed to JOHN CASSELL, 335, Strand, London. Full address in each case.

The Second Monthly Part of

THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND and FAMILY INSTRUCTOR is now ready, price 4½d., enclosed in a neat Wrapper.

CONTENTS:

No. V.—The Working Man. No. IV. The Importance of Cleanliness—Cromwell and his Times—The Pye-street Boy. By Silverpen—The Preacher at the Fountain—The Folly of Atheism. By Alphonse de Lamartine—Marriage Ceremonies of the Hindus—Parliamentary Sketches—Christmas in the Olden Time—Household Economy. By Martha Makepeace—Family Receipts—The School-room—Scientific Miscellany—Family Pictures—My Youngest—Weekly Calendar—Humorous Sketches—Diggings—Notices to Correspondents.

No. VI.—The Working Man. No. V. Fines and Footings—Cromwell and his Times—The Pye-street Boy (concluded)—The Folly of Atheism—An American's Opinion of English Reformers—Remember the Poor—Household Economy—Family Receipts—The Laws relating to Masters and Workmen—The School-room—Labour—Scientific Miscellany—Weekly Calendar—Results of Reading and Thought—Notices to Correspondents—The Literature of Working Men.

No. VII.—The Working Man. No. VI. Wages—Cromwell and his Times—The Burgomaster's Wife. By Berthold Auerbach—The Folly of Atheism (concluded)—The Routine of Daily Life. By Miss H. M. Rathbone. No. I. The Hair-dresser—The Tax-payer's Catechism—To Deodorize Fustians (from a Correspondent)—Household Economy—Family Receipts—The Juvenile Cabinet—Be Industrious—History of a Household. By John Weldon—Hints on Health—The School-room—Scientific Miscellany—Weekly Calendar—Notices to Correspondents.

No. VIII.—The Working Man. No. VII. Wages (2nd Article)—Cromwell and his Times—The Routine of Daily Life. No. II. The Shepherd—Country Life in Russia. From the Russian of Nicholas Gogol—Honour to the Tolling Hand—An American's Opinion of English Reformers—Christopher Columbus—A Wolf Hunt in Texas—Household Economy—Family Receipts—Family Pictures—The School-room—To a Snow Drop—Weekly Calendar—Humorous Selections—Results of Reading and Thought—Diggings—Notices to Correspondents.

Published at 335, Strand, London. J. MENZIES, Edinburgh; GALLIE, Glasgow; and all Booksellers throughout the United Kingdom.

The WORKING MAN'S FRIEND and FAMILY INSTRUCTOR is published weekly, 32 pages, crown 8vo, price One Penny, or in Monthly Parts, four numbers, 4½d.; five numbers, 5½d.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

A cheap, useful, and amusing miscellany.—Daily News.

A cheap weekly serial, devoted to the improvement and amusement of the working classes. We see little that is objectionable in this periodical, and very much to commend. It is pleasantly and thoughtfully written. It is likely, we think, to do good service in a good cause.—Atlas.

Several articles in the first two numbers (all that are as yet issued) are of a first-rate character, and would do no dishonour to our best magazines; while they are skilfully adapted in tone and treatment to the class of readers contemplated. Most of the writers are anonymous; but Mary Howitt, who contributes some characteristic stories, is not, we venture to say, the only author of celebrity engaged on this new miscellany.—London Patriot.

A new weekly periodical of excellent quality and amazing bulk for a penny. The well-known energies and extensive appliances of its publisher are guaranteed for continued excellence and success. Among the many excellent journals useful to the working man, this must stand in the first class. It takes that place at its first step; and if instructive to those to whom it is specially addressed, it cannot fail to be so to those who occupy a higher social position.—Manchester Examiner and Times.

THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND AND FAMILY INSTRUCTOR.—Such is the title of Mr. Cassell's new magazine, and it does him infinite credit. The topics discussed are various, all ably and popularly treated. It promises to be one of the best, and we are inclined to rank it as the cheapest, in the whole range of our serial literature.—Dumfries and Galloway Standard.

We think we may express our unqualified approbation of the sound and healthful spirit which animates THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND. It contains an amazing quantity of interesting, instructive, and well-selected matter, and deserves to be universally read by that extensive class for whom it is especially intended.—Scottish Reformers' Gazette.

Such a variety of clever and instructing writing has never been previously offered to the public. For cheapness and real excellence there is nothing to equal this periodical, even in these days of amplified publishing.—Newcastle Guardian.

The working classes will not be their own friends if they do not largely patronise this very suitable publication. The publisher is doing his duty, and we shall be disappointed if the working classes neglect theirs.—Glasgow Examiner.

THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND is really one of the cheapest periodicals of the day, and the papers are generally written with great care and force.—Leicester Mercury.

"THE FREEHOLDER," the ORGAN of the FREEHOLD LAND MOVEMENT. Issued Monthly, price THREEPENCE, or stamped for posting, FOURPENCE.

On the 1st of March was published,

No. III. of THE FREEHOLDER,

containing 48 folio columns. It can be ordered of any Bookseller or News-vender, or direct from the Publisher, JOHN CASSELL, 335, Strand, London.

THE FOLLOWING ALMANACKS FOR 1850 ARE NOW READY.

THE PROTESTANT DISSENTERS' ALMANACK.

This Almanack (64 pages, price Threepence), in addition to the information common in Almanacks, contains a mass of Statistics of the various Religious Denominations and Societies of the kingdom. Lists of Chapels occupied by Independents and Baptists in the Metropolis, with the names of the Ministers and the hours of Service. This Almanack is also enriched with ORIGINAL ARTICLES upon the principal topics and events of the year in connexion with Religious Freedom.

FOR EXTENSIVE CIRCULATION.

THE DISSENTERS' PENNY ALMANACK.

32 pages Crown; compiled by the Editor of the "Protestant Dissenters' Almanack." The Dissenters' Penny Almanack comprises the usual Calendar, and a mass of information of the utmost importance with which the people should be acquainted. It contains 32 pages of closely-printed letter-press, and altogether forms one of the cheapest, and, at the same time, most interesting Almanacks ever published.

THE FINANCIAL REFORM ALMANACK.

"bristling with Statistics," price Threepence, contains SIXTY-FOUR PAGES of closely-printed matter, and forms one of the most important and complete publications on the financial condition of the country ever exhibited.

This ALMANACK, besides the Calendar and all other topics pertaining to Almanacks, contains a variety of ORIGINAL ARTICLES on Parliamentary and Financial Reform.

Just published,

THE EMIGRANT'S ALMANACK.

PRICE FOURPENCE.

THE EMIGRANT'S ALMANACK contains a greater mass of useful information on the important subject of Emigration than any other publication, and every possible care has been taken to ensure its entire accuracy. It contains advice relative to the United States of America; describes the routes to the various fields of emigration; determines the distances to each place; the modes of conveyance; the length of time occupied in the various journeys; expense of transit; cost of land in different parts of the world; expense of clearing the soil; and all the official information from the Commission of Emigration. In every page it abounds with practical hints for the Emigrant of every degree, and altogether forms one of the most interesting and valuable books of reference ever published on the subject of Emigration.

THE TEMPERANCE ALMANACK for

1850, neatly printed in thirty-two pages 8vo, with Engravings, price ONE PENNY. Besides the Calendar and other matter usually found in Almanacks, are original Articles on the Importance of Teetotalism in Connection with Health of Body—Intellectual Vigour—Industry—Social and Domestic Comfort—Competence—Respectability—Morality and Religion—Usefulness—Trade and Commerce—National Prosperity, and the Maintenance and Spread of Religion—Chronology of the Temperance Movement; and other Articles of much interest to Teetotalers.

THE PEOPLE'S ALMANACK for 1850

is now ready.—THE BEST ALMANACK EVER PUBLISHED AT ONE PENNY.—With excellent Engravings, emblematic of the Progress of Reforms, Political, Social, and Moral. Besides the usual Calendar, List of Fairs, Stamp Duties, Weather Table, &c., it will contain short original Essays on what the People of England should be as regards Freedom—Intelligence—Health—Industry—Riches—Providence for the Future—Peacefulness—Equitable Taxation—Due Representation—Sobriety—and General Happiness; with illustrative Statistics, &c. This Almanack will fully justify its claim to the title of "THE PEOPLE'S ALMANACK," forming a Compendium of the People's Privileges and Duties, and a useful Family Companion. Neatly printed on thirty-two octavo pages, price ONE PENNY.

THE ABOVE ALMANACKS MAY BE ORDERED OF ANY BOOKSELLER.

FOR SUMMER WEAR.—The Thin Gutta Percha Soles are strongly recommended. They not only resist all wet and moisture, thus preserving the health of the wearer, but being so much thinner than leather, they are extremely light and cool for summer wear.

NOTICE.

The Gutta Percha Company beg to state that when the soles are applied according to their "Directions to Shoemakers," it is impossible for them to come off until worn through, and they therefore urge the public to employ those only who will "warrant" them to adhere. This notice is necessary in consequence of interested parties having intentionally fixed the soles on imperfectly.

TO EMIGRANTS, CAPTAINS, &c.

No one should leave England without providing himself with a stock of Gutta Percha Soles and Solution. The ease with which these soles can be applied in countries where no shoemaker can be found—their power of keeping the feet perfectly dry, thus preserving the body from coughs, colds, &c., in lands where medical advice cannot be had—and their great durability and cheapness, render them invaluable to all who propose sailing to distant countries. Gutta Percha Wash-basins, Chamber-bowls, Bottles, Flasks, &c., are admirably suited for shipboard and emigrants, as they can so readily be converted into life-buoys in the event of a shipwreck.

TO ARCHITECTS, &c.

In consequence of the extraordinary power possessed by Gutta Percha Tubing for propelling sound, it is admirably adapted for conveying messages, &c., in Dwelling Houses, Hotels, Warehouses, Mills, &c. This Tubing is also valuable for conveying Gas, Water, and as Refuse Pipes, being unaffected by acids, alkalies, grease, &c., and not so subject to incrustation or affected by the frost as metal pipes.

MILL BANDS.

The increasing demand for the Gutta Percha strapping for driving-bands, lathes, &c., fully justifies the strong recommendations they have everywhere received.

PUMP BUCKETS, CLACKS, &c.

Few applications of Gutta Percha appear likely to be of such extensive use to Manufacturers, Engineers, &c., as the substitution of it for leather in pump-buckets, valves, &c. These buckets can be had of any size and thickness, without any seam or raised joint. They are unaffected by acids, grease, alkalies, &c. Cold water will never soften them, and they are consequently much more durable than leather, and also cheaper.

GUTTA PERCHA PICTURE FRAMES AND ORNAMENTS.

In imitation of the finest wood carving, suitable for the decoration of houses, cabinet work, &c.

GUTTA PERCHA CRICKET-BALLS

are superior to any others yet invented. They are never softened by the grass, however wet, and being made without any stitching, are not liable to rot like the leather ones.

GUTTA PERCHA BOUNCING BALLS

may be had in every variety of colour.

GUTTA PERCHA CLOTHES-LINES.

Being unaffected by the weather, they may be left out in the open air without sustaining injury.

GUTTA PERCHA WINDOW-BLIND CORD

is easily joined by heating the ends. Does not contract and expand like the ordinary cord. It may be had of various colours.

Every other variety of Gutta Percha articles, such as Brackets, Pen-trays, Inkstands, Medallions, Surgical Instruments, Vases, Trays, Watch-stands, Cups, Flasks, Lathes Bands, Clothes-line, Cricket and Bouncing Balls, Pump Buckets, Galvanic Batteries, Chamber-bowls, Washing-basins, Cash-bowls, Ornamental Flower-pots and Stands, Soap-dishes, Electric Telegraph Wire, &c., are manufactured at Wharf-road, City-road, London, and sold by their dealers in town and country.

CAUTION RESPECTING JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE.

JOHN CASSELL finds it necessary to caution the Consumers of his justly-famed COFFEE against purchasing imitations of his Packages. The fact that his Establishment is the largest in the kingdom, and his COFFEE most extensively consumed, has led numerous parties to attempt making up very inferior articles in the same style of Package; and some, to induce tradesmen to substitute their spurious article for that of JOHN CASSELL, offer a larger amount of profit. This has a tendency to prejudice the public, and hence the necessity of thus informing them that no Coffee can be the veritable JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE unless his signature is upon each Package. Go therefore to the Agent for JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, ask for JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, and see that it is JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE which is handed to you, having his Signature upon the Package. This is necessary, for there are numerous imitations, stringent and bitter to the palate, while JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE is rich and strong, at the same time that it is mellow and delicious, pleasing to the palate, and invigorating to the system.

The following are the prices at which they can be obtained:—

JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE , No. 1, an excellent article.....	1s. 4d.
JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE , No. 2, cannot fail to give great satisfaction, being a combination of the choicest growths of Jamaica, possessing richness, strength, and flavour.....	1s. 8d.
JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE , No. 3, to every Connoisseur in Coffee this will prove a treat, combining the finest mountain growths of both Jamaica and Turkey.....	2s. 0d.

JOHN CASSELL'S FIVE-SHILLING TEA.—This is a combination of the finest and most carefully-selected Teas, the produce of choice, young, and tender plants. It possesses not only strength, but a peculiar and delicious fragrance, which cannot fail to render it pleasant to the most fastidious palate and to the exquisite taste of the connoisseur. This may be had either wholly Black or Black and Green mixed. It is sold in Catty Packages only, containing from two ounces to one pound; and every package bears the signature of "JOHN CASSELL," without which none can be genuine.

All applications for these valuable Agencies to be made direct to JOHN CASSELL, 80, FENCHURCH-STREET, LONDON.

PEOPLE'S EDITION OF M. GUIZOT'S NEW WORK ON THE ENGLISH REVOLUTION.

Now ready, price only Fourpence,

AN UNABRIDGED TRANSLATION, by A. R. SCOBLE, Esq., of M. GUIZOT'S celebrated Work, entitled "The CAUSES of the SUCCESS of the ENGLISH REVOLUTION in 1640-88," neatly printed on good paper. To which is added a Biographical Sketch of the Author.

London: JOHN CASSELL, 335, Strand. Order of all Booksellers.

PRELIMINARY ANNOUNCEMENT.

IMPORTANT TO THE WORKING CLASSES.

It is the intention of JOHN CASSELL to issue

A LIBRARY expressly for the WORKING CLASSES. It will be completed in Twenty-four Volumes, one of which will be issued MONTHLY, price Sixpence, in neat covers. Each volume will contain one hundred and twenty-eight pages, handsomely printed on good paper. The whole Library, therefore, will only involve an outlay to the Working Man of twelve shillings, in monthly payments of sixpence; or sixteen shillings for the entire series, bound in cloth, in twelve volumes.

The object of JOHN CASSELL in issuing this Library, is to furnish the Working Man with a set of original and instructive works, embracing HISTORY, BIOGRAPHY, VOYAGES and TRAVELS, SCIENCE and ART, PHYSIOLOGY, GEOGRAPHY, &c. &c.; and in order to render them truly valuable, the most able writers in each department will be employed.

The first Volume of the WORKING MAN'S LIBRARY will be ready by the first of May next, price 6d.; and the first Double Volume, price 1s., in a neat cover, or bound in cloth, 1s. 4d., on the first of June next.

JOHN CASSELL trusts that his friends, and the friends of the Working Classes, will make this his undertaking extensively known, as nothing short of a very large circulation will cover the outlay.

The first Two Volumes will be entitled "SAILINGS OVER THE GLOBE," comprising the Voyages of Marco Polo and Mendez Pinto to the East; of Columbus to the West; of John Davis and others to the North; including a sketch of the Polar Expeditions, and of the Voyages of Cook and others to the South.

Lately published, price 6d.

CONFESSIONS of a CONVERT from TEE-TOTALISM to TEMPERANCE. By THOMAS SMEETON, formerly Teetotal Advocate.

London: SIMPKIN, MARSHALL, and CO., and all Booksellers.

Will be forwarded on two postage stamps being sent to J. M. Burton and Co., steam press, Ipswich, or may be had by order of any Bookseller, price 1d.

HYDROPATHY; its History, Claims, and Prospects; consisting of two elaborate articles from the "British Banner," especially in reference to Dr. Johnson's late work, "The Domestic Practice of Hydropathy." Sold in London by Simpkin, Marshall, and Co.

Price 2d., or by post 3d.

CAUTIONS and TESTIMONY against ODD FELLOWSHIP. By H. MUDGE, Surgeon, Bodmin.

Also, price 2s., or by post 2s. 6d., by the same author,

EXPOSURE of ODD FELLOWSHIP; showing its Immoral Tendency and Bankrupt Circumstances, and containing as well a large amount of information on the subject of Friendly Societies.

WHITTAKER, London; LIDDELL, Bodmin.

DR. CHEYNE'S COUGH and PULMONIC

LOZENGES.—The fame of these Lozenges is fully established as the most pleasant and efficacious remedy that can be employed for the removal of coughs. To the asthmatic, or those who are afflicted with a difficulty of breathing, or a redundancy of phlegm, they give instant relief, by causing free expectoration. They allay the irritation attendant on all affections of the throat, and strengthen the lungs to resist the effects of sudden changes. They remove hoarseness and greatly improve the voice. They arrest, in its incipient stages, that fearful result of our variable atmosphere—consumption; and for diseases of the pulmonary organs a more safe and salutary remedy cannot be applied. For aged persons they are invaluable, and none, whose lungs are in the least degree susceptible of cold, ought to be without them. They afford relief in every case of cough, and where there is no physical disorganization they will effect a cure.

From Mr. John Noble, Bookseller, Agent at Boston.

"DEAR SIR,—A gentleman has just communicated to me such a remarkable cure of spasmodic asthma, of many years' standing, that I forward it to you for publication. He has frequently been laid aside from his business, and during the last winter was confined to his house for nine weeks, during which time he could not lie down in bed. Being induced to try Dr. Cheyne's Cough and Pulmonic Lozenges, he has experienced from them such a cure as he did not think possible. During six weeks that he has taken these invaluable Lozenges, his health has been better than for the last ten years. He can now lie down and sleep comfortably, enjoying his rest in bed from eight or nine at night until five in the morning. Instead of being confined to his room or bed, he says:—'I can now walk all round my farm, and attend to my business, with ease and comfort. I consulted many of the most eminent medical practitioners in the neighbourhood without avail; nothing ever made an impression on my complaint until I tried these Lozenges.'

"I asked for a Testimonial, but he said, 'Having four medical men relatives, he could not allow his name to be published.' However, I obtained his permission to furnish this statement, which is nearly verbatim as delivered by him. I hope this plain, unvarnished tale may stimulate other sufferers to try this valuable remedy."

From the Rev. J. Crampin, Baptist Minister, Stratham, Isle of Ely.

"I am compelled to say that, after nearly twenty years public speaking, I have never yet met with anything so effectually easing to the chest—so unobnoxious to the lungs—and so clearing to the voice, as Dr. Cheyne's Cough and Pulmonic Lozenges. I have used but one box, but such is their pleasantness and usefulness, that I would not be without them for ten times their cost."

To Mr. J. Everington, Church-street, Gainsborough.

"SIR,—I have been afflicted for years with a bad cough. I could not sleep at night, and sometimes coughed to that degree that the neighbours thought I should break a blood-vessel. I was induced to try a box of Dr. Cheyne's Lozenges, which was purchased at your shop; and after taking ten Lozenges, my cough left me. I give you leave to publish this statement for the benefit of others.—Blyton, near Gainsborough. "JANE HUNT."

CAUTION.—As a variety of Lozenges, Wafers, and Tablets are advertised, containing ingredients of an injurious nature, the public are particularly requested to ask for DR. CHEYNE'S COUGH and PULMONIC LOZENGES, and to observe that the words, "DR. CHEYNE'S COUGH LOZENGES," are engraved on the Government Stamp, which, with Directions for Use, is wrapped round each box.

Sold in Boxes at 1s. 1½d., and 9s. 9d., each, by Messrs. Sutton, 10, Bow Church-yard; Barclay's, 95, Farringdon-street; Edwards, 67, St. Paul's Church-yard; Dietrichson and Co., 63, Oxford-street; Sanger, 150, Oxford-street; Johnson, 68, Cornhill; King, 34, Napier-street, Hoxton; Bolton and Co., York; Raines and Co., Edinburgh; and by at least one Agent in every town throughout the United Kingdom.

Printed and Published by WILLIAM CATHRALL, of 59, Albany-road, Camberwell, Surrey, at his Printing Office, 335, Strand, London.

FRIDAY, March 1, 1850.

THE
TEETOTAL TIMES
AND ESSAYIST.

PUBLISHED MONTHLY.

No. XXVIII.—NEW SERIES.]

LONDON, APRIL, 1850.

{ Price One Penny.
{ Stamped, Twopence.

A GRAND TEMPERANCE FESTIVAL in the HAWKESTONE HALL, Waterloo-road, on EASTER MONDAY, April 1. W. West, Esq., in the chair: to be supported by John Cassell, Esq.; Rev. J. E. Bill, from Nova Scotia; Rev. J. Francis, from New Brunswick; Mr. T. A. Smith; and Mr. Perfit.

A Grand Selection of Music, by the celebrated Shapcott Family, who have been engaged for this occasion.

Tea at half-past Five. Tickets, One Shilling each.

On EASTER TUESDAY the Shapcott Family will give a Grand Selection of Sacred and Classical Music in the same Hall, at Seven o'Clock. Tickets to be had at the door, 6d. each.

TO PARENTS AND GUARDIANS.

WANTED, an APPRENTICE to the CURRYING and LEATHER-CUTTING BUSINESS, in a Teetotal family, where his morals and comfort will be strictly attended to. Apply to W. and S., No. 4, China-walk, Lambeth. N.B.—A Premium will be expected.

Price 2d., or by post 3d.,

CAUTIONS and TESTIMONY against ODD FELLOWSHIP. By H. MUDGE, Surgeon, Bodmin.

Also, price 2s., or by post 2s. 6d., by the same author,

EXPOSURE of ODD FELLOWSHIP; showing its Immoral Tendency and Bankrupt Circumstances, and containing as well a large amount of information on the subject of Friendly Societies.

WHITTAKER, London; LIDDELL, Bodmin.

THE LITERATURE OF WORKING MEN.

Just Published, the First

SUPPLEMENTARY NUMBER of the WORKING MAN'S FRIEND, to be continued Monthly, uniform in size and price with the Weekly Numbers.

These Supplementary Numbers will be devoted entirely to communications from Working Men. An opportunity will thus be afforded to the working classes for furnishing hints and suggestions as to the improvement of their own order, whether physically, socially, or morally. In addition, however, to correspondence of this kind, which will always receive respectful attention, it is the intention of John Cassell, as an encouragement to literary exertion, to award prizes, in the shape of valuable books, to those whose compositions may be considered worthy of insertion. No such article ought to exceed about four pages in length. To articles of that extent, approved by impartial judges, some volume or volumes, to the value of one guinea, selected from a list by the successful writers, will be forwarded, post free; for shorter articles, volumes varying in value from five to fifteen shillings will be sent. The numerous communications which have been received demonstrate, not only that the pages of THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND are occupied to the satisfaction of the writers, but also the possession of talent among the working classes of no ordinary character. Independently of any inducement of the kind now offered, the proposed Supplementary Numbers could be well filled by the SPONTANEOUS effusions of men who have not only hard hands, but hard-thinking heads—men who are intensely anxious for the elevation of their fellows. At the same time it is believed that the presentation of valuable and instructive works will not only be a suitable acknowledgment to industry and talent, but beneficial in the influence it will exert in the families and circles of the writers. The trade and initials of each contributor will be appended. It is to be well understood that the writers must belong strictly to the operative class. The subjects may embrace morality, social order and comfort, history, biography, art, science, general literature, and the principles and claims of any movement tending to promote the improvement and welfare of the people.

All communications to be addressed to JOHN CASSELL, 335, Strand, London. Full address in each case.

THE PEOPLE'S ABSTINENCE STANDARD is the only Weekly Journal devoted to the Total Abstinence Cause.—Each number contains one of a series of papers on Popular Physiology, illustrated by Anatomical Engravings, in which the physical effect of Alcohol will be fully explained—Articles on the Connection between Christianity, Peace, Freedom, Political Progress, and True Temperance—Reviews of New Books—Original Poetry and Temperance Tales—One Page of Medical Quotations—with Reports of Meetings in Town and Country. Published in time for Booksellers in Town and Country to supply it on Saturday.

Price 1d., or Parts 6d. A few back Numbers still on hand. The First Volume, price 2s. 6d. is now ready.

London: Published by W. TWEEDIE, 3, Falcon-street, City. W. HORSEL, Aldine-chambers, Paternoster-row; and all Booksellers.

TEMPERANCE PUBLICATIONS.

THE TEETOTAL TIMES and ESSAYIST, for 1849.

This may be had complete, price ONE SHILLING. It contains a number of ORIGINAL ARTICLES on some of the important parts of the Total Abstinence question; Original Correspondence; Reviews of Temperance Publications; and a large amount of information as to the operations of the principal Total Abstinence Societies throughout the Kingdom and the world. But few complete sets remain.

THE TEETOTAL ESSAYIST; or Monthly Temperance Standard, for 1847. This may now be had complete, price ONE SHILLING. It forms the most interesting and important Publication that has ever been issued from the Temperance Press.

Sixteenth Thousand.

INTEMPERANCE the IDOLATRY of BRITAIN. By the Rev. W. R. BAKER, author of the "Curse of Britain," &c. It is admitted by the most eminent of the religious reviewers, as well as by all who have read it, that there never was a work upon the Temperance Question more calculated to carry conviction to the mind of a thoughtful reader as to the danger and iniquity of the drinking system. That it may have a very extensive circulation, this new and revised edition is published at Threepence—the price of the former editions was 2s. 6d. The usual allowance will be made to societies, or persons taking a quantity.

THE BEST OF MEN SOMETIMES IN ERROR. By ARCHDEACON JEFFREYS, of Bombay. The object of this incomparable Essay is to show that the advocates of the Total Abstinence system have the full warrant of Scripture for their labour of mercy and love. The style in which this sentiment is reasoned is such as to carry conviction to all who profess to be influenced by the law of love. 1s. 4d. per 100.

DR. NOTT'S LECTURES.

NATURE and PROVIDENCE.—REPLYING to the QUESTION, WHAT IS the DUTY of MAN in RELATION to the USE of INTOXICATING LIQUORS? In four eloquent and powerful LECTURES. By ELIPHALET NOTT, D.D., LL.D., President of Union College, New York. Carefully revised, with an Appendix. In 32 very closely-printed pages, crown octavo, price One Penny.

DEMORALISATION and TOTAL ABSTINENCE..

AN EXPOSURE of the Extreme Defectiveness of an Examination of Teetotalism, which appeared recently in the weekly paper called the "Examiner." Reprinted, by request, from the "Standard of Freedom." Price, for extensive circulation, 2s. per 100.

SUNDAY SCHOOL PRIZE TRACTS.

Price 1s. 4d. per 100.

THE IMPORTANCE of the TEMPERANCE MOVEMENT, in its bearings on Sunday-schools.

THE YOUNG, the HOPE of the TEMPERANCE REFORMATION.

B. L. GREEN, Paternoster-row.

THE FREEHOLDER, the Organ of the Freeholders' Union, is published on the first of every month, price Threepence, or stamped for post, Fourpence. No. IV., for April, contains, in addition to copious information as to the progress of the movement, Leading Articles, Reviews, Correspondence, &c.; Plans of Freehold Land Societies' Estates in Birmingham and Preston.

"THE FREEHOLDER" is exclusively devoted to the extension of the County Franchise, and contains reports of the proceedings of all Freehold Land Societies, with an analysis of their rules, list of their officers, &c. It also gives plain and practical directions for qualifying and registering, so that individuals, whether members of Land Societies or otherwise, may know how to obtain a County Vote, how to have their names put upon the Register, and how to support, if necessary, their claims in the Revision Court.

Order of any News-vender or Bookseller. Office, 335, Strand, London.

THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND AND FAMILY INSTRUCTOR. 32 pages, crown octavo, price One Penny.

No. 13, for the week ending March 30, contains:—

The Working Man: No. XII. Pleasures and Advantages of Labour, Part III.—Cromwell and his Times.—I "Do" Hate Cold Water: No. II.—John Weldon's History: Letter VI.—Keep Stirring.—A Few Days in Algeria. By Heinrich Laube.—The Angel and the Fiend.—An American's Opinion of English Reformers.—The Routine of Daily Life. By Miss Rathbone. No. IV.—The Hackney Coachman.—The Anglo-Saxon Race. By Elihu Burritt.—The Laws relating to Masters and Workmen: Article V. The Truck System.—Anecdote of Orator Henley.—The School-room.—Three Pictures.—Diggings.—Family Receipts.—Weekly Calendar.—Notices to Correspondents.

THE THIRD PART OF

THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND AND FAMILY INSTRUCTOR, including THE FIRST SUPPLEMENTARY NUMBER (devoted entirely to Contributions from the Working Classes), is now ready, price 7d., enclosed in a Wrapper.

CONTENTS:

No. IX.—The Working Man. No. VIII. Wages.—Cromwell and his Times. Chapter IX.—Rules for Mechanics.—The Carpenter's Boy.—George Crabbe.—Effects of Loch-Lomond on the Human Mind.—"Oranges! Three a Penny!"—Smooth the Path.—A Few Days in Algeria. By Heinrich Laube.—History of a Household. By John Weldon. Letter II.—The Birmingham Coach in 1749.—The Juvenile Cabinet.—Of Industry in Business.—Physical Geography. No. I.—A Working Man's Experience.—Keep Pushing.—Diggings.—Family Receipts.—Weekly Calendar.—Notices to Correspondents.

No. X.—The Working Man. No. IX. His Library.—The Little Rill.—Cromwell and his Times. Chapter X.—Rosamund. By Mary Howitt.—The Candle.—A Few Days in Algeria (continued).—The Routine of Daily Life. By Miss H. M. Rathbone. No. III. The Sempstress.—An American's Opinion of English Reformers. No. VI.—John Weldon's History. Letter III.—Antiquity of Bronze.—Household Economy. Letter IX.—Family Receipts.—The School-room. No. VII.—Weekly Calendar.—Notices to Correspondents.

No. XI.—The Working Man. No. X. The Pleasures and Advantages of Labour. Part I.—Cromwell and his Times. Chapter XI.—Rosamund. By Mary Howitt (continued).—Christopher Chronicle's Lectures. No. III.—A Few Days in Algeria (continued).—A Duel Avoided.—Parliamentary Sketches. No. II. Mr. D'Israeli.—John Weldon's History. Letter IV.—The Laws Relating to Master and Workman. Article IV. The Truck System.—Physical Geography. No. II.—Family Pictures.—"Be happy at Home!"—Family Receipts.—Weekly Calendar.—Notices to Correspondents.

No. XII.—The Working Man. No. XI. The Pleasures and Advantages of Labour. Part II.—Cromwell and his Times. Chapter XII.—I "Do" Hate Cold Water. No. I.—John Weldon's History. Letter V.—A Few Days in Algeria (continued).—Parliamentary Sketches. No. III. Sir R. Peel.—Household Economy. Letter X.—Family Receipts.—A Comfortable Quantity of Whisky Punch.—The Juvenile Cabinet.—Pity the Slave.—Scientific Miscellany.—Weekly Calendar.—Notices to Correspondents.

No. XIII.—The Working Man. No. XII. Pleasures and Advantages of Labour. Part III.—Cromwell and his Times. Chapter XIII.—I "Do" Hate Cold Water. No. II.—John Weldon's History. Letter VI.—Keep Stirring.—A Few Days in Algeria. By Heinrich Laube.—The Angel and the Fiend.—An American's Opinion of English Reformers. No. VII. Canning.—The Routine of Daily Life. No. IV. The Hackney Coachman.—The Anglo-Saxon Race. By Elihu Burritt.—The Laws Relating to Masters and Workmen. Article V. The Truck System.—Anecdote of Orator Henley.—The School-room. No. VIII.—Three Pictures.—Diggings.—Family Receipts.—Weekly Calendar.—Notices to Correspondents.

CONTENTS OF THE SUPPLEMENTARY NUMBER:

INTRODUCTION.—The Education of the Working Classes, by J. C. O., Gardener.—On Music, by A. Farquharson, Tailor.—The Dignity of Labour, by W. G. Denham, Umbrella-maker, London.—Better Late than Never, by Charles Bertrand.—Properties of Heat, by A. M., Carpenter.—On the Education of Taste among the Working Classes, by J. A. Langford, Chair-maker.—The Bees and their Honey, by S. E. Toomer, Printer.—Plain Advice to Young Men, by P. K., Working Cooper.—A Chronicle of the Reign of Charles I., by Ioan, an Engine-stoker.—A Sketch from Life in a Large City, by M. T., Dyer.—Hero-Worship, by T. Smith, Framework-knitter.—A Working Man's Working Daughter.—Notices to Correspondents.

Just Published, neatly bound in cloth and lettered, price One Shilling and Sixpence,

THE FIRST VOLUME of "THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND AND FAMILY INSTRUCTOR," containing Thirteen Weekly Numbers, together with a Supplementary Number, devoted entirely to the productions of Operatives; the whole comprising a collection of interesting and instructive articles on History, Science, Politics, Domestic Economy, &c.; Tales and Sketches by Popular Authors, Poetry, Calendar of Remarkable Events, &c. &c.

Published at 335, Strand, London. J. MENZIES, Edinburgh; GALLIE, Glasgow; and all Booksellers throughout the United Kingdom,

THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND AND FAMILY INSTRUCTOR is published weekly, 32 pages, crown 8vo, price One Penny, or in Monthly Parts, four numbers, 4½d.; five numbers, 5½d.

THE WORKING MAN'S LIBRARY.
IMPORTANT TO THE WORKING CLASSES.

It is the intention of JOHN CASSELL to issue

A LIBRARY expressly for the WORKING CLASSES. It will be completed in Twenty-four Volumes, one of which will be issued MONTHLY, price Sixpence, in neat covers. Each volume will contain one hundred and twenty-eight pages, handsomely printed on good paper. The whole Library, therefore, will only involve an outlay to the Working Man of twelve shillings in monthly payments of sixpence; or sixteen shillings for the entire series, bound in cloth, in twelve volumes.

The object of JOHN CASSELL in issuing this Library, is to furnish the Working Man with a set of original and instructive works, embracing HISTORY, BIOGRAPHY, VOYAGES and TRAVELS, SCIENCE and ART, PHYSIOLOGY, GEOGRAPHY, &c. &c.; and in order to render them truly valuable, the most able writers in each department will be employed.

The First Volume of THE WORKING MAN'S LIBRARY will be ready by the first of May next, price 6d.; and the first Double Volume, price 1s., in a neat cover, or bound in cloth, 1s. 4d., on the first of June next.

JOHN CASSELL trusts that his friends, and the friends of the Working Classes will make this his undertaking extensively known, as nothing short of a very large circulation will cover the outlay.

The first Two Volumes will be entitled "SAILINGS OVER THE GLOBE," comprising the Voyages of Marco Polo and Mendez Pinto to the East; of Columbus to the West; of John Davis and others to the North; including a Sketch of the Polar Expeditions, and of the Voyages of Cook and others to the South.

DR. CHEYNE'S COUGH and PULMONIC

LOZENGES.—The fame of these Lozenges is fully established as the most pleasant and efficacious remedy that can be employed for the removal of coughs. To the asthmatic, or those who are afflicted with a difficulty of breathing, or a redundancy of phlegm, they give instant relief, by causing free expectoration. They allay the irritation attendant on all affections of the throat, and strengthen the lungs to resist the effects of sudden changes. They remove hoarseness and greatly improve the voice. They arrest, in its incipient stages, that fearful result of our variable atmosphere—consumption; and for diseases of the pulmonary organs a more safe and salutary remedy cannot be applied. For aged persons they are invaluable, and none, whose lungs are in the least degree susceptible of cold, ought to be without them. They afford relief in every case of cough, and where there is no physical disorganization they will effect a cure.

From Mr. John Noble, Bookseller, Agent at Boston.

"DEAR SIR,—A gentleman has just communicated to me such a remarkable cure of spasmodic asthma, of many years' standing, that I forward it to you for publication. He has frequently been laid aside from his business, and during the last winter was confined to his house for nine weeks, during which time he could not lie down in bed. Being induced to try Dr. Cheyne's Cough and Pulmonic Lozenges, he has experienced from them such a cure as he did not think possible. During six weeks that he has taken these invaluable Lozenges, his health has been better than for the last ten years. He can now lie down and sleep comfortably, enjoying his rest in bed from eight or nine at night until five in the morning. Instead of being confined to his room or bed, he says:—"I can now walk all round my farm, and attend to my business, with ease and comfort. I consulted many of the most eminent medical practitioners in the neighbourhood without avail; nothing ever made an impression on my complaint until I tried these Lozenges."

"I asked for a Testimonial, but he said, 'Having four medical men relatives, he could not allow his name to be published.' However, I obtained his permission to furnish this statement, which is nearly verbatim as delivered by him. I hope this 'plain, unvarnished tale' may stimulate other sufferers to try this valuable remedy."

From the Rev. J. Crampin, Baptist Minister, Streatham, Isle of Ely.
"I am compelled to say that, after nearly twenty years public speaking, I have never yet met with anything so effectually easing to the chest—so unobnoxious to the lungs—and so clearing to the voice, as Dr. Cheyne's Cough and Pulmonic Lozenges. I have used but one box, but such is their pleasantness and usefulness, that I would not be without them for ten times their cost."

To Mr. J. Everington, Church-street, Gainsborough.

"Sir,—I have been afflicted for years with a bad cough. I could not sleep at night, and sometimes coughed to that degree that the neighbours thought I should break a blood-vessel. I was induced to try a box of Dr. Cheyne's Lozenges, which was purchased at your shop; and after taking ten Lozenges, my cough left me. I give you leave to publish this statement for the benefit of others.—Blyton, near Gainsborough. "JANE HUNT."

CAUTION.—As a variety of Lozenges, Wafers, and Tablets are advertised, containing ingredients of an injurious nature, the public are particularly requested to ask for DR. CHEYNE'S COUGH AND PULMONIC LOZENGES, and to observe that the words, "DR. CHEYNE'S COUGH LOZENGES," are engraved on the Government Stamp, which, with Directions for Use, is wrapped round each box.

Sold in Boxes at 1s. 1d. and 2s. 9d., each, by Messrs. Sutton, 10, Bow Church-yard; Barclay's, 95, Farringdon-street; Edwards, 67, St. Paul's Church-yard; Dietrichson and Co., 63, Oxford-street; Sanger, 150, Oxford-street; Johnson, 68, Cornhill; King, 34, Napier-street, Hoxton; Bolton and Co., York; Raines and Co., Edinburgh; and by at least one Agent in every town throughout the United Kingdom.

FOR SUMMER WEAR.—The Thin Gutta Percha Soles are strongly recommended. They not only resist all wet and moisture, thus preserving the health of the wearer, but being so much thinner than leather, they are extremely light and cool for summer wear.

NOTICE.

The Gutta Percha Company beg to state that the soles are applied according to their "Directions to Shoemakers," it is impossible for them to come off until worn through, and they therefore urge the public to employ those only who will "warrant" them to adhere. This notice is necessary in consequence of interested parties having intentionally fixed the soles on imperfectly.

TO EMIGRANTS, CAPTAINS, &c.

No one should leave England without providing himself with a stock of Gutta Percha Soles and Solution. The ease with which these soles can be applied in countries where no shoemaker can be found—their power of keeping the feet perfectly dry, thus preserving the body from coughs, colds, &c., in lands where medical advice cannot be had—and their great durability and cheapness, render them invaluable to all who propose sailing to distant countries. Gutta Percha Wash-basins, Chamber-bowls, Bottles, Flasks, &c., are admirably suited for shipboard and emigrants, as they can so readily be converted into life-buoys in the event of a shipwreck.

TO ARCHITECTS, &c.

In consequence of the extraordinary power possessed by Gutta Percha Tubing for propelling sound, it is admirably adapted for conveying messages, &c., in Dwelling Houses, Hotels, Warehouses, Mills, &c. This Tubing is also valuable for conveying Gas, Water, and as Refuse Pipes, being unaffected by acids, alkalies, grease, &c., and not so subject to incrustation or affected by the frost as metal pipes.

MILL BANDS.

The increasing demand for the Gutta Percha strapping for driving-bands, lathe-straps, &c., fully justifies the strong recommendations they have everywhere received.

PUMP BUCKETS, CLACKS, &c.

Few applications of Gutta Percha appear likely to be of such extensive use to Manufacturers, Engineers, &c., as the substitution of it for leather in pump-buckets, valves, &c. These buckets can be had of any size and thickness, without any seam or raised joint. They are unaffected by acids, grease, alkalies, &c. Cold water will never soften them, and they are consequently much more durable than leather, and also cheaper.

GUTTA PERCHA PICTURE FRAMES AND ORNAMENTS.

In imitation of the finest wood carving, suitable for the decoration of houses, cabinet work, &c.

GUTTA PERCHA CRICKET-BALLS

are superior to any others yet invented. They are never softened by the grass, however wet, and being made without any stitching, are not liable to rot like the leather ones.

GUTTA PERCHA BOUNCING BALLS

may be had in every variety of colour.

GUTTA PERCHA CLOTHES-LINES.

Being unaffected by the weather, they may be left out in the open air without sustaining injury.

GUTTA PERCHA WINDOW-BLIND CORD

is easily joined by heating the ends. Does not contract and expand like the ordinary cord. It may be had of various colours.

Every other variety of Gutta Percha articles, such as Brackets, Pen-trays, Inkstands, Medallions, Surgical Instruments, Vases, Trays, Watch-stands, Cups, Flasks, Lathe Bands, Clothes-line, Cricket and Bouncing Balls, Pump Buckets, Galvanic Batteries, Chamber-bowls, Washing-basins, Cash-bowls, Ornamental Flower-pots and Stands, Soap-dishes, Electric Telegraph Wire, &c., are manufactured at Wharf-road, City-road, London, and sold by their dealers in town and country.

CAUTION RESPECTING JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE.

JOHN CASSELL finds it necessary to caution the Consumers of his justly-famed COFFEE against purchasing imitations of his Packages. The fact that his Establishment is the largest in the Kingdom, and his COFFEE most extensively consumed, has led numerous parties to attempt making up very inferior articles in the same style of Package; and some, to induce tradesmen to substitute their spurious article for that of JOHN CASSELL, offer a larger amount of profit. This has a tendency to prejudice the public, and hence the necessity of thus informing them that no Coffee can be the veritable JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE unless his signature is upon each Package. Go therefore to the Agent for JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, ask for JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, and see that it is JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE which is handed to you, having his Signature upon the Package. This is necessary, for there are numerous imitations, stringent and bitter to the palate, while JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE is rich and strong, at the same time that it is mellow and delicious, pleasing to the palate, and invigorating to the system.

The following are the prices at which they can be obtained:—
JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, No. 1, an excellent article ..... 1s. 4d.
JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, No. 2, cannot fail to give great satisfaction, being a combination of the choicest growths of Jamaica, possessing richness, strength, and flavour ..... 1s. 8d.
JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, No. 3, to every Connoisseur in Coffee this will prove a treat, combining the finest mountain growths of both Jamaica and Turkey ..... 2s. 6d.

JOHN CASSELL'S FIVE-SHILLING TEA.—This is a combination of the finest and most carefully-selected Teas, the produce of choice, young, and tender plants. It possesses not only strength, but a peculiar and delicious fragrance, which cannot fail to render it pleasant to the most fastidious palate and to the exquisite taste of the connoisseur. This may be had either wholly Black or Black and Green mixed. It is sold in Catty Packages only, containing from two ounces to one pound; and every package bears the signature of "JOHN CASSELL," without which none can be genuine.

JOHN CASSELL'S SOLUBLE COCOA.—This article is one of superior excellence, and is prepared only at the extensive STEAM MILLS of JOHN CASSELL, 80, FENCHURCH-STREET, London. It is a rich and nutritious article, at the same time the various properties of the Cocoa-nut are so combined as to make it agreeable to the most dyspeptic and admirably adapted to persons of a weak constitution.—Sold in  $\frac{1}{2}$  lb. and  $\frac{3}{4}$  lb. packets, at 8d. and 1s. per lb., throughout the Kingdom by the Agents for John Cassell's Coffees.

All applications for these valuable Agencies to be made direct to JOHN CASSELL, 80, FENCHURCH-STREET, LONDON.

PEOPLE'S EDITION OF M. GUIZOT'S NEW WORK ON THE ENGLISH REVOLUTION.

Now ready, price only Fourpence.

AN UNABRIDGED TRANSLATION, by A. R. SCOBLE, Esq., of M. Guizot's celebrated work, entitled "The Causes of the Success of the English Revolution in 1640-88," neatly printed on good paper. To which is added, a Biographical Sketch of the Author.
 London: JOHN CASSELL, 335, Strand. Order of all Booksellers.

Just published, price One Penny, No. 18 of

THE LIVERPOOL FINANCIAL REFORM TRACTS.

Subjects:—The Estimates for Civil Services for 1849-50 illustrated as follow:—1. Public Works and Buildings. 2. Salaries and Expenses of Public Departments. 3. Law and Justice. 4. Education, Science, and Art. 5. Colonial, Consular, and other Foreign Purposes. 6. Superannuations and Retired Allowances, &c.

The LIVERPOOL FINANCIAL REFORM TRACTS No. 1 to 17 are also ready, and embrace the following subjects:—

No. 1. Civil List.—No. 2. Pension List.—No. 3. Taxation.—No. 4. The Army, Ordnance, Commissariat, Navy, Colonies.—No. 5. Ditto, ditto.—No. 6. The National Budget for 1849, by Richard Cobden, Esq., M.P.; with a Report of the Public Meeting held at the Concert Hall, Liverpool, December 20, 1848, at which the Budget was announced to the Nation.—No. 7. The Army, Ordnance, Commissariat, Navy, Colonies. The Army Clothing, together with Major-General Sir William Napier's Attack on the Association, and their Reply.—No. 8. The Woods, Forests, and Estates of the Crown.—No. 9. The Dead Weight of the Army.—No. 10. The Navy.—Nos. 11 & 12. Sir W. Molesworth on Colonial Expenditure (price Two-pence).—No. 13. The Navy.—No. 14. Miscellaneous Expenses.—No. 15. Direct Taxation.—No. 16. Expenditure of the State, and Taxation of the People: Annual Report of the Liverpool Financial Reform Association; The Council of the Liverpool Financial Reform Association to the Tenant-Farmers of the United Kingdom; Slave Trade Abolition Expenditure; The Speech of John Smith, Esq., of the "Liverpool Mercury."—No. 17. The Evils of Indirect Taxation:—1. Indirect Tax upon a Commodity, such as Tea, withdraws Capital from Productive Employment. 2. The Tea Trade. 3. The Tea Duty. 4. The Tea Duty further exemplified—its deteriorating the quality of Tea. 5. The Tea Duty in relation to the Social Comfort and Morals of the Working Classes.

Likewise, just published, price 1d.,

A SUPPLEMENTARY TRACT, contributed by a Working Man, giving an Analysis of the House of Commons—the Division on Mr. COBDEN'S Motion last Session—the Majorities, &c. Each name is given, proving that the votes tendered against Financial Reform have been those of INTERESTED parties, each of whose connection, direct or indirect, with the Army, Navy, and other Government establishments, is clearly exhibited.

Tracts for gratuitous distribution, admirably adapted for Financial Reform Associations, are now published, at 1s. 4d. per 100. The subjects of these Papers are:—The Burden of Taxation—The Woods and Forests—Costliness of the Army—The Civil List. If ordered direct by Associations, a liberal discount allowed. The Liverpool Reform Tracts are printed and published at the Office of the STANDARD OF FREEDOM, 335, Strand, London; and can be obtained through all Booksellers.

Price Three-pence.

THE HISTORY and PROGRESS of TAXATION, as it relates to the Crown, the Aristocracy, and the People—History of the National Debt—Annals of the Poor-law—History of the Army and Navy—Pensions and Pensioners—Civil List, and Cost of the Executive, &c.

In demy 8vo, containing 32 pages, price 2d.,

THE GREAT MILITARY and NAVAL PARLIAMENT; being an Analysis of both our Houses of Parliament: showing, from a careful examination of the Red-Books of the Aristocracy themselves, the true secret of the constant increase in our Military and Naval expenditure, in a STANDING MAJORITY in both Houses of nearly 300 members directly connected with the war system. No such dissection of our Legislative body has hitherto been made; and it may safely be said that no man, till he has gone over this list of 700 Members of Parliament connected with the military system by appointment, marriage, or consanguinity, is at all aware of the real character of the body that governs us.

In demy 8vo, containing 40 pages, price 3d.,

OUR GREAT STATE-CHURCH PARLIAMENT; an Analysis of both Houses of Parliament: showing that there are in the two Houses 700 direct holders and dealers in Churches and Church influence, with a STANDING MAJORITY of 151 devoted to the maintenance of the present Ecclesiastical system. In a former publication, entitled the "Great Military and Naval Parliament," it is shown that the Government, both of the Cabinet and the Senate, consists of a majority of soldiers. In the present work another view is taken of them, and they are now presented again as proprietors of the State-Church.

THE FINANCIAL REFORM ALMANACK, "bristling with Statistics," price Three-pence, contains SIXTY-FOUR PAGES of closely-printed matter, and forms one of the most important and complete publications on the financial condition of the country ever exhibited.

THE EMIGRANT'S ALMANACK, PRICE FOURPENCE.

The EMIGRANT'S ALMANACK contains a greater mass of useful information on the important subject of Emigration than any other publication, and every possible care has been taken to ensure its entire accuracy. It contains advice relative to the United States of America; describes the routes to the various fields of emigration; determines the distances to each place; the modes of conveyance; the length of time occupied in the various journeys; expense of transit; cost of land in different parts of the world; expense of clearing the soil; and all the official information from the Commission of Emigration. In every page it abounds with practical hints for the Emigrant of every degree, and altogether forms one of the most interesting and valuable books of reference ever published on the subject of Emigration.

London: STANDARD OF FREEDOM Office, 335, Strand.

Printed and Published by WILLIAM CATHRALL, of 59, Albany-road, Camberwell, Surrey, at his Printing Office, 335, Strand, London.

MONDAY, April 1, 1850.

THE

TEETOTAL TIMES

AND ESSAYIST.

PUBLISHED MONTHLY.

No. XXX.—NEW SERIES.]

LONDON, JUNE, 1850.

{ Price One Penny.
{ Stamped, Twopence.

THE TEMPERANCE AQUATIC EXCURSION

for 1850, under the direction of the Committee of the Fitzroy Teetotal Association, Little Portland-street, St. Marylebone, will take place on MONDAY, JUNE 17th, to SOUTHEND and Back, by the powerful packet, the GEM, leaving London-bridge Wharf at Nine o'clock punctually.

Tickets (all dues included), 2s. each, may be had at 33, Duke-street, Oxford-street; 51, Blackfriars-road; 10, Martham-street, Camberwell; 8, Carnaby-street, Golden-square; 126, Lillington-street, Vauxhall; 3, Falcon-street, Post-office.

J. P. DRAPER, Hon. Sec.,
88, Great Titchfield-street.

PRIZE ESSAY.

July 1st will be published, price 1s. 6d., in a stiff wrapper; or bound in cloth, 2s.,

THE WORKING CLASSES of GREAT BRITAIN: their Present Condition, and the Means of their Improvement and Elevation.

To which will be added an Appendix.

By the Rev. SAMUEL G. GREEN, A.B., of Taunton.

London: JOHN SNOW, Paternoster-row.

A Prize of Fifty Pounds was offered by Mr. John Cassell for the best Essay upon the above subject, the adjudicators being the Rev. T. Spence, A.M.; Edward Miall, Esq.; and Edward Swaine, Esq.; and was unanimously awarded to the above gentleman, his Essay being selected from almost fifty others.

TWENTY-FOUR POUNDS, in PRIZES of

£2 EACH, are hereby offered for the TWELVE BEST ORIGINAL JUVENILE ABSTINENCE MELODIES. The Prizes to be awarded to the Twelve Melodies which shall obtain the largest sale in six months after their publication.

The Melodies are to be used for Singing in the Meetings of the British League of Juvenile Abstainers. They are to be of a purely Evangelical character, contain no allusion to Pledges, Banners, Vain Display, Processions, Boasting, Praise of Men, or Expediency—exhibit the duty of abstaining entirely from, and preventing the using of Intoxicating Liquor, Tobacco, and Opium. However fine in composition, the object to be so plainly and brilliantly set that the beauty of the poetic imagery shall only serve to throw a greater lustre upon the object, instead of obscuring or mystifying it. Specimens of the Melodies now in use (to show the character of those wanted) will be sent to any address, on application to the Office of the League, No. 53, Rose-street, Edinburgh; or at Houlston and Stoneman's, 65, Paternoster-row, London.

The Donor of these prizes will publish, at his own expense, such of the Melodies offered in competition as, in his opinion, are worthy to enter into the competition—all those so published to be his copyright.

Each Competitor will adopt a Motto, and write it on each Melody, inclosing his real name and address in an envelope, sealed up, having the same motto on the outside of the envelope—these envelopes to remain unbroken till the return of the Sale has been made up, when the names of the successful Competitors will be advertised.

The Melodies to be very legibly written, not to exceed eight verses of four lines. Those having not more than six, or less than four, verses would be most acceptable.

The Melodies to be delivered at the Office of the British League of Juvenile Abstainers, 53, Rose-street, Edinburgh, on or before the 14th of September, 1850.

Just published, price 3d.,

WALKEST THOU CHARITABLY? An Exposition of Romans xiv. 13—21, affectionately addressed to all who desire to do the will of God. By BENJAMIN FARRINGTON.

London: CHARLES GILPIN, 5, Bishopsgate-street Without.

TO TEMPERANCE SOCIETIES.

WATERS HARDY, Engraver, Hudders-

field, begs to call the attention of Committees to his beautifully-designed and Engraved Pledge-Cards, which he offers at the prices affixed:—

Adult Member's Card, 3 by 4½ in. (with the name of Society)..... 30s. per 1,000

Band of Hope Card, 2½ by 3½ in. (ditto)..... 25s. „

W. H. has also published a splendidly-executed Certificate Card 8½ by 6½ in. for Framing. Prices as below:—

On Enamelled Card, and coloured by hand..... 1s. 6d. each

On Plain ditto, ditto..... 0s. 9d. „

On Enamelled ditto, printed..... 0s. 6d. „

On Plain ditto, ditto..... 0s. 3d. „

A liberal allowance to Booksellers and Societies taking a quantity Specimens of the small Cards may be had by enclosing two postage stamps.

TEMPERANCE PUBLICATIONS.

THE TEETOTAL TIMES and ESSAYIST, for 1849.

This may be had complete, price ONE SHILLING. It contains a number of ORIGINAL ARTICLES on some of the important parts of the Total Abstinence question; Original Correspondence; Reviews of Temperance Publications; and a large amount of information as to the operations of the principal Total Abstinence Societies throughout the kingdom and the world. But few complete sets remain.

THE TEETOTAL ESSAYIST; or Monthly Temperance Standard, for 1847. This may now be had complete, price ONE SHILLING. It forms the most interesting and important Publication that has ever been issued from the Temperance Press.

Sixteenth Thousand.

INTEMPERANCE the IDOLATRY of BRITAIN.

By the Rev. W. R. BAKER, author of the "Curse of Britain," &c. It is admitted by the most eminent of the religious reviewers, as well as by all who have read it, that there never was a work upon the Temperance Question more calculated to carry conviction to the mind of a thoughtful reader as to the danger and iniquity of the drinking system. That it may have a very extensive circulation, this new and revised edition is published at Threepence—the price of the former editions was 2s. 6d. The usual allowance will be made to societies, or persons taking a quantity.

DR. NOTT'S LECTURES.

NATURE AND PROVIDENCE.—REPLYING to the QUESTION, WHAT IS the DUTY of MAN in RELATION to the USE of INTOXICATING LIQUORS? In four eloquent and powerful LECTURES. By ELIPHALET NOTT, D.D., LL.D., President of Union College, New York. Carefully revised, with an Appendix. In 32 very closely-printed pages, crown octavo, price One Penny.

THE CHRISTIAN'S SPIRITUAL SONG-BOOK, containing 500 spiritual songs adapted to popular tunes. By the Rev. JOHN STAMP. Embossed cambric, 1s. 6d.

TEMPERANCE HYMNS and SONGS; Devotional, Moral, and Social. Selected and revised by J. W. GREEN. Embossed leather, 1s.; stiff paper covers, 6d.

THE TEETOTALER'S HYMN-BOOK. Selected and revised by J. W. GREEN. 1d.

B. L. GREEN, 62, Paternoster-row.

Price 2d., or by post 3d.,

CAUTIONS and TESTIMONY against ODD FELLOWSHIP. By H. MUDGE, Surgeon, Bodmin

Also, price 2s., or by post 2s. 6d., by the same author,

EXPOSURE of ODD FELLOWSHIP; showing its Immoral Tendency and Bankrupt Circumstances, and containing as well a large amount of information on the subject of Friendly Societies.

WHITTAKER, London; LIDDELL, Bodmin.

THE FREEHOLDER, the Organ of the Freeholders' Union, is published on the first of every month, price Threepence, or stamped for post, Fourpence, stamped. No. VI., for June, contains, in addition to copious information as to the progress of the movement, Leading Articles, Reviews, Correspondence, &c.

"THE FREEHOLDER" is exclusively devoted to the extension of the County Franchise, and contains reports of the proceedings of all Freehold Land Societies, with an analysis of their rules, list of their officers, &c. It also gives plain and practical directions for qualifying and registering, so that individuals, whether members of Land Societies or otherwise, may know how to obtain a County Vote, how to have their names put upon the Register, and how to support, if necessary, their claims in the Revision Court.

Order of any News-vender or Bookseller. Office, 335, Strand, London.

Now Publishing,

THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND and FAMILY INSTRUCTOR. 32 pages, crown octavo, price One Penny.

Vol. II., No. 22, for the week ending June 1, contains:—

The Working Man, No. XXI.: Books and Reading, Part V.—Cromwell and his Times, Chap. XXII.—The Hermit of Utica, by J. B. Johnson.—The Newspaper Offices: a Sketch, by Xit, Chap. I.—Journey to the Ruins of the Palace of the Inca Atahualpa.—The Old Corn Crow, by John Halliday.—Christopher Chronicle's Lectures, No. VIII.: Ancient Furniture.—Household Economy.—Family Receipts.—The Law relating to Landlords and Tenants, Art. I.—Juvenile Cabinet.—The Working Man's Garden.—Weekly Calendar.—Notices to Correspondents.

THE LITERATURE OF WORKING MEN.

Now ready, price One Penny,

THE THIRD SUPPLEMENTARY NUMBER of "THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND and FAMILY INSTRUCTOR," 32 pages crown 8vo, price One Penny, devoted entirely to the Productions of the Operative Class. For each article deemed eligible for insertion, a volume, or volumes, of some valuable work will be presented to the writer. To prevent disappointment, it is necessary that all who have not done so should give their orders immediately to the nearest bookseller, as the demand is very extensive.

THE FIFTH PART OF

THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND and FAMILY INSTRUCTOR, including THE THIRD SUPPLEMENTARY NUMBER (devoted entirely to Contributions from the Working Classes), is now ready, price 6d., enclosed in a Wrapper.

CONTENTS:

No. 18.—The Working Man. No. XVII. A Word about Books. Part I.—Cromwell and his Times. Chapter XVIII.—Patrick O'Brien: a Tale of Humble Life. By H. Hastings Weld. Chapter I.—Parliamentary Sketches. No. VI. Mr. Hume.—Some Words for our Female Servants. By Silverpen. Chapter III.—Christopher Chronicle's Lectures. No. VI. Coaches.—Hints on Health: The Influences which Affect the Purity of the Atmosphere.—The Laws relating to Masters and Workmen. Article VII.—Household Economy. Letter XIII.—Family Receipts.—The Juvenile Cabinet.—Weekly Calendar.—Notices to Correspondents.

No. 19.—The Working Man. No. XVIII. Books and Reading. Part II.—Song of the Humble.—Cromwell and his Times. Chapter XIX.—Patrick O'Brien: a Tale of Humble Life. By H. Hastings Weld.—James Watt. No. I.—Highland Superstitions. No. I.—Take Care of your Eyes.—John Weldon's History. Letter X.—The Juvenile Cabinet.—Humorous Selections.—Family Receipts.—Weekly Calendar.—Notices to Correspondents.

No. 20.—The Working Man. No. XIX. Books and Reading. Part III.—The Under Current. By John Halliday.—Cromwell and his Times. Chapter XX.—Spring-tide.—James Watt. No. II.—Highland Superstitions. No. II.—The Bonds of Society.—The Routine of Daily Life. No. VI. The Policeman.—Christopher Chronicle's Lectures. No. VII. Roads and Streets.—Household Economy. Letter XIV.—Family Receipts.—The Laws relating to Masters and Workmen. Article VIII.—The Juvenile Cabinet.—A Household Dirge.—Humorous Selections.—The Weekly Calendar.—Notices to Correspondents.

No. 21.—The Working Man. No. XX. Books and Reading. Part IV.—Cromwell and his Times. Chapter XXI.—Sonnet. By Philip Dermond.—Love's Influence. By Enna Duval.—Parliamentary Sketches. No. VII. Colonel Thompson.—John Weldon's History. Letter XI.—How are you off for Soap?—The Coral Formation.—Hints on Health: Means of Improving the Ventilation of Workshops and Dwellings.—A Man of his Word.—Juvenile Cabinet.—The Jacket in the Tree.—Diggings.—Family Receipts.—The Weekly Calendar.—Notices to Correspondents.

CONTENTS OF THE SUPPLEMENTARY NUMBER.

The Educational Apparatus for Working Men. By Henry James, Cutler, Sheffield.—Ecclecticism, and its Relation to the Present Age. By J. A. Langford, Chairmaker, Birmingham.—Physical Force and Moral Force Contrasted. By M. Townsend, Weaver, Yeading.—The Peasant's Home. By Thomas Kennedy, Labourer, Jarrow.—Confectionary. By W. Dingwall, Bottle Bank, Gateshead.—True Heroes. By William King, Apprentice to a Block and Mast Maker, Stephenson-street, North Shields.—The Capabilities of the Mind. By Joseph Raymond, Glover, Milbourne Port, Somerset.—The Last Partridge. By J. H., Composer, Birmingham.—Is it not Reason? By John Nichol, Shoemaker, Leith-wynd, Edinburgh.—Botany. By J. J., a Working Man's Son (under fifteen years of age), Waterloo, Blyth, Northumberland.—Work Some Good! By Alfred Gardner, Brass-moulder, Maidstone.—Perseverance. By Walter Weldon, Dyer, Loughborough.

Now Published, neatly bound in cloth and lettered, price One Shilling and Sixpence,

THE FIRST VOLUME of THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND and FAMILY INSTRUCTOR, containing Thirteen Weekly Numbers, together with a Supplementary Number, devoted entirely to the productions of Operatives; the whole comprising a collection of interesting and instructive articles on History, Science, Politics, Domestic Economy, &c.; Tales and Sketches by Popular Authors, Poetry, Calendar of Remarkable Events, &c. &c.

Published at 335, Strand, London. J. MENZIES, Edinburgh; GALLIE, Glasgow; and all Booksellers throughout the United Kingdom,

THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND and FAMILY INSTRUCTOR is published weekly, 32 pages, crown 8vo, price One Penny, or in Monthly Parts, four numbers, 5d.; five numbers, 6d.

EXTRAORDINARY LIBERALITY.—TO THE FRIENDS OF TEMPERANCE.

THOSE who pity the Sot, hate the haunts of drunkenness; who see with sorrow the man debased beneath the brute, and "spotted of reason's power," can have a PAMPHLET FOR NOTHING, detailing the PYRETIC TREATMENT for the Prevention and Cure of Fever and Cholera, and the making of cooling, refreshing, invigorating, and grateful summer beverages. The next One Hundred Thousand will be ready for delivery on the 25th inst.; or will be forwarded anywhere, postage free, on the receipt of two stamps, by Mr. LAMPLOUGH, Chemist, Snow-hill, London. Tell everybody of this!

Just published, price One Penny, No. 21 of

THE LIVERPOOL FINANCIAL REFORM TRACTS.

Likewise, just published, price 1d.,

A SUPPLEMENTARY TRACT, contributed by a Working Man, giving an Analysis of the House of Commons—the Division on Mr. CORBEN'S Motion last Session—the Majorities, &c. Each name is given, proving that the votes tendered against Financial Reform have been those of INTERESTED parties, each of whose connection, direct or indirect, with the Army, Navy, and other Government establishments, is clearly exhibited.

Tracts for gratuitous distribution, admirably adapted for Financial Reform Associations, are now published, at 1s. 4d. per 100. The subjects of these Papers are:—The Burden of Taxation—The Woods and Forests—Costliness of the Army—The Civil List. If ordered direct by Associations, a liberal discount allowed. The Liverpool Reform Tracts are printed and published at the Office of the STANDARD OF FREEDOM, 335, Strand, London; and can be obtained through all Booksellers.

DR. CHEYNE'S COUGH and PULMONIC LOZENGES.

—The fame of these Lozenges is fully established as the most pleasant and efficacious remedy that can be employed for the removal of coughs. To the asthmatic, or those who are afflicted with a difficulty of breathing, or a redundancy of phlegm, they give instant relief, by causing free expectoration. They allay the irritation attendant on all affections of the throat, and strengthen the lungs to resist the effects of sudden changes. They remove hoarseness and greatly improve the voice. They arrest, in its incipient stages, that fearful result of our variable atmosphere—consumption; and for diseases of the pulmonary organs a more safe and salutary remedy cannot be applied. For aged persons they are invaluable, and none, whose lungs are in the least degree susceptible of cold, ought to be without them. They afford relief in every case of cough, and where there is no physical disorganization they will effect a cure.

From Mr. John Noble, Bookseller, Agent at Boston.

"DEAR SIR,—A gentleman has just communicated to me such a remarkable cure of spasmodic asthma, of many years' standing, that I forward it to you for publication. He has frequently been laid aside from his business, and during the last winter was confined to his house for nine weeks, during which time he could not lie down in bed. Being induced to try Dr. Cheyne's Cough and Pulmonic Lozenges, he has experienced from them such a cure as he did not think possible. During six weeks that he has taken these invaluable Lozenges, his health has been better than for the last ten years. He can now lie down and sleep comfortably, enjoying his rest in bed from eight or nine at night until five in the morning. Instead of being confined to his room or bed, he says:—"I can now walk all round my farm, and attend to my business, with ease and comfort. I consulted many of the most eminent medical practitioners in the neighbourhood without avail; nothing ever made an impression on my complaint until I tried these Lozenges."

"I asked for a Testimonial, but he said, 'Having four medical men relatives, he could not allow his name to be published.' However, I obtained his permission to furnish this statement, which is nearly verbatim as delivered by him. I hope this 'plain, unvarnished tale' may stimulate other sufferers to try this valuable remedy."

From the Rev. J. Crampin, Baptist Minister, Stretnam, Isle of Ely. "I am compelled to say that, after nearly twenty years public speaking, I have never yet met with anything so effectually easing to the chest—so unobnoxious to the lungs—and so clearing to the voice, as Dr. Cheyne's Cough and Pulmonic Lozenges. I have used but one box, but such is their pleasantness and usefulness, that I would not be without them for ten times their cost."

To Mr. J. Everington, Church-street, Gainsborough.

"Sir,—I have been afflicted for years with a bad cough. I could not sleep at night, and sometimes coughed to that degree that the neighbours thought I should break a blood-vessel. I was induced to try a box of Dr. Cheyne's Lozenges, which was purchased at your shop; and after taking ten Lozenges, my cough left me. I give you leave to publish this statement for the benefit of others.—Blyton, near Gainsborough. "JANE HUNT."

CAUTION.—As a variety of Lozenges, Wafers, and Tablets are advertised, containing ingredients of an injurious nature, the public are particularly requested to ask for DR. CHEYNE'S COUGH AND PULMONIC LOZENGES, and to observe that the words, "DR. CHEYNE'S COUGH LOZENGES," are engraved on the Government Stamp, which, with Directions for Use, is wrapped round each box.

Sold in Boxes at 1s. 1½d., and 2s. 9d., each, by Messrs. Sutton, 10, Bow Church-yard; Barclay's, 95, Farringdon-street; Edwards, 67, St. Paul's Church-yard; Dietrichson and Co., 63, Oxford-street; Sanger, 159, Oxford-street; Johnson, 68, Cornhill; King, 34, Napier-street, Hoxton; Bolton and Co., York; Raines and Co., Edinburgh; and by at least one Agent in every town throughout the United Kingdom.

FOR SUMMER WEAR.—The Thin Gutta Percha Soles are strongly recommended. They not only resist all wet and moisture, thus preserving the health of the wearer, but being so much thinner than leather, they are extremely light and cool for summer wear.

NOTICE.

The Gutta Percha Company beg to state that when the soles are applied according to their "Directions to Shoemakers," it is impossible for them to come off until worn through, and they therefore urge the public to employ those only who will "warrant" them to adhere. This notice is necessary in consequence of interested parties having intentionally fixed the soles on imperfectly.

TO EMIGRANTS, CAPTAINS, &c.

No one should leave England without providing himself with a stock of Gutta Percha Soles and Solution. The ease with which these soles can be applied in countries where no shoemaker can be found—their power of keeping the feet perfectly dry, thus preserving the body from coughs, colds, &c., in lands where medical advice cannot be had—and their great durability and cheapness, render them invaluable to all who propose sailing to distant countries. Gutta Percha Wash-basins, Chamber-bowls, Bottles, Flasks, &c., are admirably suited for shipboard and emigrants, as they can so readily be converted into life-buoys in the event of a shipwreck.

TO ARCHITECTS, &c.

In consequence of the extraordinary power possessed by Gutta Percha Tubing for propelling sound, it is admirably adapted for conveying messages, &c., in Dwelling Houses, Hotels, Warehouses, Mills, &c. This Tubing is also valuable for conveying Gas, Water, and as Refuse Pipes, being unaffected by acids, alkalis, grease, &c., and not so subject to incrustation or affected by the frost as metal pipes.

MILL BANDS.

The increasing demand for the Gutta Percha strapping for driving-bands, lathe-straps, &c., fully justifies the strong recommendations they have everywhere received.

PUMP BUCKETS, CLACKS, &c.

Few applications of Gutta Percha appear likely to be of such extensive use to Manufacturers, Engineers, &c., as the substitution of it for leather in pump-buckets, valves, &c. These buckets can be had of any size and thickness, without any seam or raised joint. They are unaffected by acids, grease, alkalis, &c. Cold water will never soften them, and they are consequently much more durable than leather, and also cheaper.

GUTTA PERCHA PICTURE FRAMES AND ORNAMENTS.

In imitation of the finest wood carving, suitable for the decoration of houses, cabinet work, &c.

GUTTA PERCHA CRICKET-BALLS

are superior to any others yet invented. They are never softened by the grass, however wet, and being made without any stitching, are not liable to rot like the leather ones.

GUTTA PERCHA BOUNCING BALLS

may be had in every variety of colour.

GUTTA PERCHA CLOTHES-LINES.

Being unaffected by the weather, they may be left out in the open air without sustaining injury.

GUTTA PERCHA WINDOW-BLIND CORD

is easily joined by heating the ends. Does not contract and expand like the ordinary cord. It may be had of various colours.

Every other variety of Gutta Percha articles, such as Brackets, Pen-trays, Inkstands, Medallions, Surgical Instruments, Vases, Trays, Watch-stands, Cups, Flasks, Lathe Bands, Clothes-line, Cricket and Bouncing Balls, Pump Buckets, Galvanic Batteries, Chamber-bowls, Washing-basins, Cash-bowls, Ornamental Flower-pots and Stands, Soap-dishes, Electric Telegraph Wire, &c., are manufactured at Wharf-road, City-road, London, and sold by their dealers in town and country.

CAUTION RESPECTING JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE.

JOHN CASSELL finds it necessary to caution the Consumers of his justly-famed COFFEE against purchasing imitations of his Packages. The fact that his Establishment is the largest in the Kingdom, and his COFFEE most extensively consumed, has led numerous parties to attempt making up very inferior articles in the same style of Package; and some, to induce tradesmen to substitute their spurious article for that of JOHN CASSELL, offer a larger amount of profit. This has a tendency to prejudice the public, and hence the necessity of thus informing them that no Coffee can be the veritable JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE unless his signature is upon each Package. Go therefore to the Agent for JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, ask for JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, and see that it is JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE which is handed to you, having his Signature upon the Package. This is necessary, for there are numerous imitations, stringent and bitter to the palate, while JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE is rich and strong, at the same time that it is mellow and delicious, pleasing to the palate, and invigorating to the system.

The following are the prices at which they can be obtained:—

JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE , No. 1, an excellent article .....	1s. 4d.
JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE , No. 2, cannot fail to give great satisfaction, being a combination of the choicest growths of Jamaica, possessing richness, strength, and flavour .....	1s. 8d.
JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE , No. 3, to every Connoisseur in Coffee this will prove a treat, combining the finest mountain growths of both Jamaica and Turkey .....	2s. 6d.

JOHN CASSELL'S FIVE-SHILLING TEA.—This is a combination of the finest and most carefully-selected Teas, the produce of choice, young, and tender plants. It possesses not only strength, but a peculiar and delicious fragrance, which cannot fail to render it pleasant to the most fastidious palate and to the exquisite taste of the connoisseur. This may be had either wholly Black or Black and Green mixed. It is sold in Catty Packages only, containing from two ounces to one pound; and every package bears the signature of "JOHN CASSELL," without which none can be genuine.

JOHN CASSELL'S SOLUBLE COCOA.—This article is one of superior excellence, and is prepared only at the extensive STEAM MILLS of JOHN CASSELL, 80, FENCHURCH-STREET, London. It is a rich and nutritious article, at the same time the various properties of the Cocoa-nut are so combined as to make it agreeable to the most dyspeptic and admirably adapted to persons of a weak constitution.—Sold in  $\frac{1}{4}$  and  $\frac{1}{2}$  lb. packets, at 8s. and 1s. per lb., throughout the Kingdom, by the Agents for John Cassell's Coffees.

All applications for these valuable Agencies to be made direct to JOHN CASSELL, 80, FENCHURCH-STREET, LONDON.

JOHN CASSELL'S LIBRARY will form Twenty-four Volumes at Sixpence each, or Twelve Double Volumes of One Shilling each; handsomely bound, 1s. 4d. Volumes I. and II. of

SAILINGS OVER THE GLOBE are now completed.

Volume III. of the Series will be published on the 1st of July, and Volume IV. on the 1st of August, to be entitled

FOOTPRINTS OF TRAVELLERS.

Volume I. will contain: Capel de Brooke's Travels in Norway, Sweden, and Lapland—Lyall's Travels to the Crimea, the Caucasus, and Georgia—Ingles's Travels in the Tyrol—Travels among the Tartars by the Ambassador of the Pope, and also by Livick and Schill—Heber's Travels in India—Burnes's Travels in Bokhara.

To the Subscribers of JOHN CASSELL'S LIBRARY. A New and Complete

HISTORY OF ENGLAND.

To render this Library as perfect as possible, the Publisher has arranged with Dr. Ferguson, of Ryde, for bringing out a new and popular HISTORY OF ENGLAND, to be comprised in THREE VOLUMES of the Series. These, with a Volume entitled, "THE HISTORY OF ENGLAND'S GREATNESS," by the Rev. BENJAMIN PARSONS, Author of "And-Bacchus," "The Moral and Mental Dignity of Woman," &c. &c., will form four single volumes, or two handsome double volumes. These will be produced the cheapest and most complete HISTORY OF ENGLAND ever issued from the press.

In publishing these Volumes the design will be, not merely to exhibit a mere record of the actions of Kings, but to present a more faithful and interesting History of the People, with their progress in industrial arts and social amelioration, than has hitherto appeared. The acknowledged talents and celebrity of the respective authors of these works will be a sufficient guarantee for the ability and excellence with which they will be prepared.

PEOPLE'S EDITION OF M. GUIZOT'S NEW WORK ON THE ENGLISH REVOLUTION.

Now ready, price only Fourpence.

A N UNABRIDGED TRANSLATION, by A. R. SCOBLE, Esq., of M. Guizot's celebrated work, entitled "The Causes of the Success of the English Revolution in 1640-88," neatly printed on good paper. To which is added, a Biographical Sketch of the Author.

London: JOHN CASSELL, 335, Strand. Order of all Booksellers.

THE BEST AND CHEAPEST BOOK ON THE TEMPERANCE QUESTION.

B URNE'S TEETOTALER'S COMPANION, with Dr. Sewall's Coloured Plates of the Stomach, royal 8vo, handsomely bound in cloth, is now selling at 6s.; with the Wine Question, 7s. 6d.; or in Numbers, 3d. each; parts, 9d. each.

London: SIMPKIN, MARSHALL, and CO., and all Booksellers.

Price Threepence.

THE HISTORY and PROGRESS of TAXATION, as it relates to the Crown, the Aristocracy, and the People—History of the National Debt—Annals of the Poor-law—History of the Army and Navy—Pensions and Pensioners—Civil List, and Cost of the Executive, &c.

In demy 8vo, containing 32 pages, price 2d.,

THE GREAT MILITARY AND NAVAL

PARLIAMENT: being an Analysis of both our Houses of Parliament: showing, from a careful examination of the Red-Books of the Aristocracy themselves, the true secret of the constant increase in our Military and Naval expenditure, in a STANDING MAJORITY in both Houses of nearly 300 members directly connected with the war system. No such dissection of our Legislative body has hitherto been made; and it may safely be said that no man, till he has gone over this list of 700 Members of Parliament connected with the military system by appointment, marriage, or consanguinity, is at all aware of the real character of the body that governs us.

In demy 8vo, containing 40 pages, price 3d.,

OUR GREAT STATE-CHURCH PARLIA-

MENT: an Analysis of both Houses of Parliament: showing that there are in the two Houses 700 direct holders and dealers in Churches and Church influence, with a STANDING MAJORITY of 154 devoted to the maintenance of the present Ecclesiastical system. In a former publication, entitled the "Great Military and Naval Parliament," it is shown that the Government, both of the Cabinet and the Senate, consists of a majority of soldiers. In the present work another view is taken of them, and they are now presented again as proprietors of the State-Church.

THE FINANCIAL REFORM ALMANACK,

"bristling with Statistics," price Threepence, contains SIXTY-FOUR PAGES of closely-printed matter, and forms one of the most important and complete publications on the financial condition of the country ever exhibited.

THE EMIGRANT'S ALMANACK,

PRICE FOURPENCE.

The EMIGRANT'S ALMANACK contains a greater mass of useful information on the important subject of Emigration than any other publication, and every possible care has been taken to ensure its entire accuracy. It contains advice relative to the United States of America; describes the routes to the various fields of emigration; determines the distances to each place; the modes of conveyance; the length of time occupied in the various journeys; expense of transit; cost of land in different parts of the world; expense of clearing the soil; and all the official information from the Commission of Emigration. In every page it abounds with practical hints for the Emigrant of every degree, and altogether forms one of the most interesting and valuable books of reference ever published on the subject of Emigration.

London: STANDARD OF FREEDOM OFFICE, 335, Strand.

Printed and Published by WILLIAM CATHRALL, of 59, Albany-road, Canberwell, Surrey, at his Printing Office, 335, Strand, London.

SATURDAY, June 1, 1850.

THE

TEETOTAL TIMES

AND ESSAYIST.

PUBLISHED MONTHLY.

No. XXXI.—NEW SERIES.]

LONDON, JULY, 1850.

{ Price One Penny.
{ Stamped, Twopence.

GRAND EXCURSION OF TEETOTALERS.

ON MONDAY, JULY 22, 1850, the TEETOTALERS of the Metropolis and Suburbs, will proceed on an EXCURSION by RAILWAY, to TUNBRIDGE WELLS. On their arrival at Tunbridge Wells, the Company will be joined by Bodies of Teetotalers from Tunbridge, Ashford, Maidstone, Canterbury, and other places, and will proceed to visit the numerous points of attraction in that neighbourhood. Among these are, the Grove, with its stupendous high Rocks, Alceves, &c.; the Spa, Chalybeate Springs, Parade, Baths, and Public Walks; Mount Zion and Mount Ephraim, the adopted seats of the Ancient Presbyterians and Baptists; Mount Pleasant; Bishop's Down, with their Groups of Villas and Cottages, and extensive rural Scenery; and those other local beauties which have long made Tunbridge Wells the favourite resort and residence of so many persons of rank.

Ample accommodation will be made for Dinner, Tea, and other Refreshments on very economical terms. Those who prefer Picnic Parties, will find numerous spots suitable for their purpose.

The whole will be under the superintendence of the Committee to whom the management of the recent Demonstrations at Exeter-hall was entrusted; who will exert themselves to the utmost to render this Excursion interesting and pleasant to all who may favour them with their company. Several distinguished Friends and Advocates of the Temperance cause are expected to accompany them.

Tickets, for Conveyance there and back, 6s. 6d., or 4s. 6d. each; Children under Twelve years of age, half-price.

N.B. The Special Train will leave the London-bridge Station precisely at Half-past Eight o'clock in the Morning. The company must be on the platform at Eight o'clock. The Train will leave Tunbridge Wells at Seven o'clock in the Evening.

Tickets, for which an early application will be necessary, may be had of Mr. Cassell, the Treasurer, 80, Fenchurch-street, and of Messrs. Phillips, 39, Moorgate-street.

- Tweedie, 3, Falcon-street, Aldersgate-street.
- Mathew, 14, Ivy-lane.
- Standard of Freedom Office, 335, Strand.
- National Temperance Society, 80, Fleet-street.
- Mrs. Watts, Temperance Hotel, Catherine-street, Strand.
- Messrs. Wilson and Campbell, 51, Blackfriars-road.
- Bailey, Hawkstone-hall, Waterloo-road.
- Marsden, Institute, Carlisle-street, Paddington.
- Currie, St. George's-place, Waiworth.
- Tisdell, Church-street, Kensington.
- Cole, Blackheath-hill, Greenwich.
- Prebble, 9, Camberwell-grove.
- Draper, 88, Great Titchfield-street, Oxford-street.
- Esterbrooke, 2, Upper Crown-street, St. James's-park.
- Griffiths, 8, Southampton-street, Pentonville.
- Tackley, 9, Charlton-street, Somerton.
- Cooper, 4, Pleasant-place, Lower-road, Islington.
- Spriggs, 10, South-street, West-square, Lambeth.
- Williams, Temp.-hall, Fair-street, Horsleydown.
- Murecutt, 7, Wild-court, Drury-lane.
- Green, 4, Brighton-place, Hackney-road.
- Garbutt, High-street, Wapping.
- Coldwells, 7, Sandford-lane, Stoke Newington.
- Catton, Plaistow.

And the Secretaries and Committees of the various Metropolitan Societies.

*.* Tickets remaining unsold must be returned to the Committee on Wednesday Evening, July 17, at No. 80, Fleet-street, where a Special Meeting will be held for the purpose of receiving them.

Now ready, price 5s.,

THE HYDROPATHIC TREATMENT of DISEASES PECULIAR to WOMEN, of WOMEN in CHILDBED, and on the MANAGEMENT of INFANTS. By EDWARD JOHNSON, M.D.

"If pregnant and parturient women were treated in this way, the numerous diseases to which they are prone would be seldom heard of, while their sufferings would be rendered quite inconsiderable; for these diseases—I say it advisedly and emphatically—are simply the diseases of mismanagement and maltreatment."—Page 136.

Also, by Dr. Johnson, the Second Edition of DOMESTIC PRACTICE of HYDROPATHY. Price 12s.

London: SIMPKIN, MARSHALL, and CO.

PRIZE ESSAY.

Just published, price 1s. 6d., in a stiff wrapper; or bound in cloth, 2s.,

THE WORKING CLASSES of GREAT BRITAIN: their Present Condition, and the Means of their Improvement and Elevation.

To which will be added an Appendix.

By the Rev. SAMUEL G. GREEN, A.B., of Taunton.

London: JOHN SNOW, Paternoster-row.

A Prize of Fifty Pounds was offered by Mr. John Cassell for the best Essay upon the above subject, the adjudicators being the Rev. T. Spencer, A.M.; Edward Miall, Esq.; and Edward Swaine, Esq.; and was unanimously awarded to the above gentleman, his Essay being selected from almost fifty others.

TEMPERANCE PUBLICATIONS.

THE TEETOTAL TIMES and ESSAYIST, for 1849.

This may be had complete, price ONE SHILLING. It contains a number of ORIGINAL ARTICLES on some of the important parts of the Total Abstinence question; Original Correspondence; Reviews of Temperance Publications; and a large amount of information as to the operations of the principal Total Abstinence Societies throughout the kingdom and the world. But few complete sets remain.

THE TEETOTAL ESSAYIST; or Monthly Temperance Standard, for 1847. This may now be had complete, price ONE SHILLING. It forms the most interesting and important Publication that has ever been issued from the Temperance Press.

Sixteenth Thousand.

INTEMPERANCE the IDOLATRY of BRITAIN.

By the Rev. W. R. BAKER, author of the "Curse of Britain," &c. It is admitted by the most eminent of the religious reviewers, as well as by all who have read it, that there never was a work upon the Temperance Question more calculated to carry conviction to the mind of a thoughtful reader as to the danger and iniquity of the drinking system. That it may have a very extensive circulation, this new and revised edition is published at Threepence—the price of the former editions was 2s. 6d. The usual allowance will be made to societies, or persons taking a quantity.

DR. NOTT'S LECTURES.

NATURE and PROVIDENCE.—REPLYING to the QUESTION, WHAT is the DUTY of MAN in RELATION to the USE of INTOXICATING LIQUORS? In four eloquent and powerful LECTURES. By ELIPHALET NOTT, D.D., LL.D., President of Union College, New York. Carefully revised, with an Appendix. In 32 very closely-printed pages, crown octavo, price One Penny.

THE CHRISTIAN'S SPIRITUAL SONG-BOOK, containing 500 spiritual songs adapted to popular tunes. By the Rev. JOHN STAMP. Embossed cambric, 1s. 6d.

TEMPERANCE HYMNS and SONGS; Devotional, Moral, and Social. Selected and revised by J. W. GREEN. Embossed leather, 1s.; stiff paper covers, 6d.

THE TEETOTALER'S HYMN-BOOK. Selected and revised by J. W. GREEN. 1d.

B. L. GREEN, 62, Paternoster-row.

Price 2d., or by post 3d.,

CAUTIONS and TESTIMONY against ODD FELLOWSHIP. By H. MUDGE, Surgeon, Bodmin

Also, price 2s., or by post 2s. 6d., by the same author, EXPOSURE of ODD FELLOWSHIP; showing its Immoral Tendency and Bankrupt Circumstances, and containing as well a large amount of information on the subject of Friendly Societies.

WHITTAKER, London; LIDDELL, Bodmin.

A CATALOGUE OF IPSWICH
TEMPERANCE PUBLICATIONS.

ALL these, whether Books, Tracts, Hand-bills, or Notice Papers, are sold in SIXPENNY PACKETS. Fifty Packets of either will be delivered to any address in London, for a Guinea, sent by Post-office Order to Richard Dykes Alexander, Ipswich; or they may be had of any Bookseller in the country through Simpkin, Marshall, and Co., Stationers-hall-court, London.

IPSWICH JUVENILE TEMPERANCE BOOKS,
32mo, nearly all with Pictures.

[These are now sold ONLY in Assorted Packets.]

Assorted Packet, No. 1, contains No. 1 to 16. Assorted Packet, No. 2, contains No. 17 to 32. Assorted Packet, No. 3, contains No. 33 to 46.

HAND-BILLS FOR PUBLIC MEETINGS.

Nine inches by six. On the back of each is a Temperance Tract. Fifty for Sixpence.

NOTICE PAPERS.

With the same form as the Hand-bills. The opinions of eminent persons on Teetotalism on the back of each. Two Hundred for Sixpence.

IPSWICH TEMPERANCE TRACTS.

Those Tracts marked with an * have Pictures.

	Pages.
1 The Doctor Scrutinized, by R. D. Alexander, F.L.S.	8
2 Striking Facts, ditto	2
3 Maker and Vender, ditto	2
4 Our Creed, ditto	2
*5 Adulterated Beer, ditto	4
*6 Adulterated Wine, ditto	4
7 The Maltster, ditto	4
8 Go Peel what I have Felt	4
9 Facts are stubborn Things	2
*10 The Spirit Dealer	2
11 Christian Teetotalism, by R. D. Alexander	2
12 The Trade, ditto	4
13 Alcohol, ditto	4
14 Town of Ipswich, ditto	4
*15 Song of the Water Drinker	2
16 Stimulation not Strength	8
17 Farmer Woodman	4
*18 The Bear Barrel	8
19 Teetotal Recipes	4
*20 Speech of J. J. Gurney	4
21 Pity the Poor Drunkard	2
*22 The Fool's Pence	8
23 Why am I a Teetotaler?	2
*24 Dost thou Smoke, Bill?	4
25 The Laudanum Drinker	4
26 The Ox Discourse	4
27 Letter to the Clergy	20
28 Common Sense	20
29 Ralph the Soldier	4
30 Testimony of Physicians	4
31 The Working Man	20
32 Is I not happy?	4
33 David the Shoemaker, by R. D. Alexander	4
34 The Drunken Couple, ditto	2
35 Confessions of a Drunkard	2
36 Master Tailor, by R. D. Alexander	4
*37 The Fatal Gift	2
38 Poor Sandy	4
39 Use and Abuse, by Archdeacon Jeffries	2
40 The Schoolmaster	4
41 Water is Best, by J. J. Gurney	4
42 Cobbett's Advice	4
43 Take a Public-house	4
*44 A Sailor's Yarn	4
45 Moderate Drinking	12
46 The Pledge	4
*47 John Jarvis	12
*48 The Fifteen Friends	4
49 Sunday-School Teachers	12
50 Sunday-School Children	12
*51 Money better than Beer	4
*52 Little Mary	8
53 Philosophy of Temperance, by R. D. Trail, M.D.	20
54 Love to Man	20
*55 Young Woman's Tract	12
56 Young Man's Tract	16
57 Dr. Campbell's Testimony	8
58 Why sign the Pledge?	4
59 The Poor Man's House Repaired	4
60 The Mother's Tract	4
61 The High Price of Food	4
62 Ladies' Tract Societies	8
63 The Praise of Water	2
64 Important Calculations	2
*65 The Farm Servant	2
66 Teetotalism Declining	8
*67 The Reformed Drunkard	8
68 The Recruit	8
69 No. 1 of Anecdotes	12
70 No. 2 ditto	12
71 No. 3 ditto	12
72 No. 4 ditto	12
73 Luke Husler	8
74 The Drunkard's Wife	12
75 The Unexplored Island	4
76 Ancient Wines, by R. D. Alexander	8

	Pages.
77 Influence of Example	2
*78 The Victim of Excitement	20
*79 My Medical Adviser	4
*80 The Restoration	8
*81 The Use of Intoxicating Drinks, by Archdeacon Jeffries	12
*82 Drink and be Happy	4
83 The Five Nips	4
84 The Honest Spirit Dealer	2
85 Seven Years' Experience	2
*86 Education of the Drunkard, with 5 pictures	12
*87 A Word with Serious People, by John Bright, M.P.	4
*88 Guide to Glendalough	4
*89 Bridget Larkins	4
90 The Contrast	2
91 Tobacco a Cause of Intemperance	2
*92 The Wedding Night	12
*93 My Chapel	4
*94 The Best Men sometimes Err, by Archdeacon Jeffries	8
*95 Testimonies of Eight Judges	2
*96 The Drunkard in Rags	4
*97 The Farmer and Labourer	2
*98 The Gloucestershire Farmer	4
*99 Strong Drink and Infidelity	4
100 Catalogue of Tracts	4
101 The Hertfordshire Farmer	2
*102 Sunday Schools	4
103 Confessions of a Publican	2
104 Peter Levison, or the Ruined Minister	4
105 John Angell James	2
*106 I do not drink Wine	2
*107 Self-Imposed Burdens	2
*108 The Craving of a Drunkard	8
*109 The Poor Orphan Boy	4
*110 Loss of Seven Fishermen	8
111 A Temperance Catechism	8
*112 The Mail Coachman	2
113 The Reformed Family	4
114 Licensing Day at Bolton	4
115 Stomach of a Drunkard	4
116 Ragged Schools	4
*117 Delirium Tremens	4
118 The Fire-Escape	4
119 The Sabbath Morn	4
*120 Can a Christian keep a Public House	8
121 The Aged Friend	2
*122 The Village of Newbridge	2
123 The Mirror of Intemperance	4
*124 Alcohol: what it does, and what it cannot do; on the nutrition of the Body, and in the production of Disease; by Walter Johnson, M.B.	44
125 Barley, Malt, and Beer Question, by Dr. F. Lees	4
126 Keep away from the Public House	4
127 The History of Poor William	8
128 The Hearer to his Minister	4
129 Alcohol generates a tendency to Death. By Dr. E. Johnson	4
130 The Merchant's Dream	4
131 Address to Females	2
*132 History of J. B. Gough	48
133 Livesey's Malt Liquor Lecture	32
*134 My Mother's Gold Ring	8
*135 Miraculous Deliverance	4
136 The Drunkard's Dream	2
*137 Archibald Prentice's Speech on Sanitary and Social Means to Political Ends	8
*138 The Altered Man	2
*139 The Love-feast, by T. B. Smithies	4
140 George the Australian Emigrant	4
141 Advice to Soldiers, by Sir C. Napier	2
142 Medical Opinions, for the Aged	2
*143 Smoking and Snuffing, by J. Higginbottom, F.R.C.S.	8
*144 Wesleyan Teetotalism	8
145 Waste of Food	2
*146 The Man in the Cellar, and the Man without Hands	8
*147 Evil Spirits—a Poem	8
*148 Manchester "Go-a-Heads"	4
*149 Mothers, Doctors, and Nurses; a Dialogue between a Medical Man and his Friend, by J. Higginbottom, F.R.C.S.	12
150 Ten Solemn Opinions	2
151 Paralysis and Apoplexy; a Dialogue between a Medical Man and his Friend, by J. Higginbottom, F.R.C.S.	16
152 The Miraculous Deliverance, by the Author of the "Sinner's Friend," with the tract entitled the "Sinner's Friend" appended	36
*153 The Child's Question	4
154 Scene from Life	4
*155 The Christian Sabbath Breaker	4
*156 Reminiscences of a Tavern Parlour	8
157 Richard Wilkinson, the Railway Labourer	2
158 Missionary Facts	2

All the above can be had in Assorted Packets:—No. 1, Tract No. 1 to 30; No. 2, Tract No. 31 to 53; No. 3, Tract No. 54 to 72; No. 4, Tract No. 73 to 100; No. 5, Tract 101 to 126; No. 6, Tract 127 to 143; No. 7, Tract 144 and upwards.

Assorted Packets also:—No. 10, Tracts for Roadside Distribution; No. 11, Tracts on the Principles of Teetotalism; No. 12, Tracts adapted for Farmers; No. 13, Tracts: Interesting Narratives; No. 14, Tracts suited for Poor Drunkards; No. 15, Medical Tracts. Tract Covers suited for Lending, in One Shilling Packets. A Volume containing the first 100 Tracts, in cloth, 3s.

THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND and FAMILY INSTRUCTOR. 32 pages, crown octavo, price One Penny.

No. 27, for the week ending July 6, contains:—
The Working Man, No. XXVI. : Reading and Books, Part X.—Cromwell and his Times; Chapter XXVII.—English Scenes and Characters, by William Howitt; No. I.—New Orleans—“Moss-Roses—buy my Moss-roses!”—The Portfolio (original and selected)—An Evening with Chaucer—The Juvenile Cabinet—Diglings: “Small, but Golden Grains”—Family Receipts—Weekly Calendar—Notices to Correspondents.

THE LITERATURE OF WORKING MEN.

Now ready, price One Penny,

THE FOURTH SUPPLEMENTARY NUMBER of “THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND and FAMILY INSTRUCTOR”, 32 pages crown 8vo, price One Penny, devoted entirely to the productions of the operative class. For each article deemed eligible for insertion, a volume, or volumes, of some valuable work will be presented to the writer. To prevent disappointment, it is necessary that all who have not done so should give their orders immediately to the nearest bookseller, as the demand is very extensive.

The Sixth Monthly Part of

THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND and FAMILY INSTRUCTOR, is now ready, price 6d., enclosed in a neat Wrapper.

Just published, price 1s. 6d., neatly bound in cloth, and lettered,

THE SECOND VOLUME of “THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND and FAMILY INSTRUCTOR.”

JOHN CASSELL'S LIBRARY will form Twenty-four Volumes at Sixpence each, or Twelve Double Volumes of One Shilling each; handsomely bound, 1s. 4d. Volumes I. and II. of

SAILINGS OVER THE GLOBE
are now completed.

Volume III. of the Series is now ready, and Volume IV. will be published on the 1st of August, entitled

FOOTPRINTS OF TRAVELLERS.

Volume I. contains: Capel de Brooke's Travels in Norway, Sweden, and Lapland—Lyall's Travels to the Crimea, the Caucasus, and Georgia—Inglist's Travels in the Tyrol—Travels among the Tartars by the Ambassador of the Pope, and also by Livick and Schüll—Heber's Travels in India—Burnes's Travels in Bokhara.

To the Subscribers of JOHN CASSELL'S LIBRARY. A New and Complete

HISTORY OF ENGLAND.

To render this Library as perfect as possible, the Publisher has arranged with Dr. Ferguson, of Ryde, for bringing out a new and popular HISTORY OF ENGLAND, to be comprised in THREE VOLUMES of the Series. These, with a Volume entitled, “THE HISTORY OF ENGLAND'S GREATNESS,” by the Rev. BENJAMIN PARSONS, Author of “Anti-Bacchus,” “The Moral and Mental Dignity of Woman,” &c. &c., will form four single volumes, or two handsome double volumes. Thus will be produced the cheapest and most complete HISTORY OF ENGLAND ever issued from the press.

In publishing these Volumes the design will be, not merely to exhibit a mere record of the actions of Kings, but to present a more faithful and interesting History of the People, with their progress in industrial arts and social amelioration, than has hitherto appeared. The acknowledged talents and celebrity of the respective authors of these works will be a sufficient guarantee for the ability and excellence with which they will be prepared.

PEOPLE'S EDITION OF M. GUIZOT'S NEW WORK ON THE ENGLISH REVOLUTION.

Now ready, price only Fourpence,

AN UNABRIDGED TRANSLATION, by A. R. SCOBLE, Esq., of M. Guizot's celebrated work, entitled “The Causes of the Success of the English Revolution in 1640-88,” neatly printed on good paper. To which is added, a Biographical Sketch of the Author.

London: JOHN CASSELL, 335, Strand. Order of all Booksellers.

THE FREEHOLDER, the Organ of the Freeholder's Union, is published on the first of every month, price Three-pence, or stamped for post, Fourpence. No. VII., for July, contains Reports of Meetings at Westminster, Hanwell, Honley, Newcastle, Gateshead; Chronicle for the Month, Leading Articles, Correspondence, &c. &c.
Order of any News-vender or Bookseller. Office, 335, Strand, London.

FOR SUMMER WEAR.—The Thin Gutta Percha Soles are strongly recommended. They not only resist all wet and moisture, thus preserving the health of the wearer, but being so much thinner than leather, they are extremely light and cool for summer wear.

NOTICE.

The Gutta Percha Company beg to state that when the soles are applied according to their “Directions to Shoemakers,” it is impossible for them to come off until worn through, and they therefore urge the public to employ those only who will “warrant” them to adhere. This notice is necessary in consequence of interested parties having intentionally fixed the soles on imperfectly.

TO EMIGRANTS, CAPTAINS, &c.

No one should leave England without providing himself with a stock of Gutta Percha Soles and Solution. The ease with which these soles can be applied in countries where no shoemaker can be found—their power of keeping the feet perfectly dry, thus preserving the body from coughs, colds, &c., in lands where medical advice cannot be had—and their great durability and cheapness, render them invaluable to all who propose sailing to distant countries. Gutta Percha Wash-basins, Chamber-bowls, Bottles, Flasks, &c., are admirably suited for shipboard and emigrants, as they can so readily be converted into life-buoys in the event of a shipwreck.

TO ARCHITECTS, &c.

In consequence of the extraordinary power possessed by Gutta Percha Tubing for propelling sound, it is admirably adapted for conveying messages, &c., in Dwelling Houses, Hotels, Warehouses, Mills, &c. This Tubing is also valuable for conveying Gas, Water, and as Refuse Pipes, being unaffected by acids, alkalies, grease, &c., and not so subject to incrustation or affected by the frost as metal pipes.

MILL BANDS.

The increasing demand for the Gutta Percha strapping for driving-bands, lath-ropes, &c., fully justifies the strong recommendations they have everywhere received.

PUMP BUCKETS, CLACKS, &c.

Few applications of Gutta Percha appear likely to be of such extensive use to Manufacturers, Engineers, &c., as the substitution of it for leather in pump-buckets, valves, &c. These buckets can be had of any size and thickness, without any seam or raised joint. They are unaffected by acids, grease, alkalies, &c. Cold water will never soften them, and they are consequently much more durable than leather, and also cheaper.

GUTTA PERCHA PICTURE FRAMES AND ORNAMENTS.

In imitation of the finest wood carving, suitable for the decoration of houses, cabinet work, &c.

GUTTA PERCHA CRICKET-BALLS

are superior to any others yet invented. They are never softened by the grass, however wet, and being made without any stitching, are not liable to rot like the leather ones.

GUTTA PERCHA BOUNCING BALLS

may be had in every variety of colour.

GUTTA PERCHA CLOTHES-LINES.

Being unaffected by the weather, they may be left out in the open air without sustaining injury.

GUTTA PERCHA WINDOW-BLIND CORD

is easily joined by heating the ends. Does not contract and expand like the ordinary cord. It may be had of various colours.

Every other variety of Gutta Percha articles, such as Brackets, Pen-trays, Inkstands, Medallions, Surgical Instruments, Vases, Trays, Watch-stands, Cups, Flasks, Lath Bands, Clothes-line, Cricket and Bouncing Balls, Pump Buckets, Galvanic Batteries, Chamber-bowls, Washing-basins, Cash-bowls, Ornamental Flower-pots and Stands, Soap-dishes, Electric Telegraph Wire, &c., are manufactured at Wharf-road, City-road, London, and sold by their dealers in town and country.

CAUTION RESPECTING JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE.

JOHN CASSELL finds it necessary to caution the Consumers of his justly-famed COFFEE against purchasing imitations of his Packages. The fact that his Establishment is the largest in the Kingdom, and his COFFEE most extensively consumed, has led numerous parties to attempt making up very inferior articles in the same style of Package; and some, to induce tradesmen to substitute their spurious article for that of JOHN CASSELL, offer a larger amount of profit. This has a tendency to prejudice the public, and hence the necessity of thus informing them that no Coffee can be the veritable JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE unless his signature is upon each Package. Go therefore to the Agent for JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, ask for JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, and see that it is JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE which is handed to you, having his Signature upon the Package. This is necessary, for there are numerous imitations, stringent and bitter to the palate, while JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE is rich and strong, at the same time that it is mellow and delicious, pleasing to the palate, and invigorating to the system.

The following are the prices at which they can be obtained:—

JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE , No. 1, an excellent article.....	1s. 4d.
JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE , No. 2, cannot fail to give great satisfaction, being a combination of the choicest growths of Jamaica, possessing richness, strength, and flavour.....	1s. 8d.
JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE , No. 3, to every Connoisseur in Coffee this will prove a treat, combining the finest mountain growths of both Jamaica and Turkey.....	2s. 6d.

JOHN CASSELL'S FIVE-SHILLING TEA.—This is a combination of the finest and most carefully-selected Teas, the produce of choice, young, and tender plants. It possesses not only strength, but a peculiar and delicious fragrance, which cannot fail to render it pleasant to the most fastidious palate and to the exquisite taste of the connoisseur. This may be had either wholly Black or Black and Green mixed. It is sold in Catty Packages only, containing from two ounces to one pound; and every package bears the signature of "JOHN CASSELL," without which none can be genuine.

JOHN CASSELL'S SOLUBLE COCOA.—This article is one of superior excellence, and is prepared only at the extensive STEAM MILLS of JOHN CASSELL, 80, FENCHURCH-STREET, London. It is a rich and nutritious article, at the same time the various properties of the Cocoa-nut are so combined as to make it agreeable to the most dyspeptic, and admirably adapted to persons of a weak constitution.—Sold in  $\frac{1}{4}$  and  $\frac{1}{2}$  lb. packets, at 8d. and 1s. per lb., throughout the Kingdom, by the Agents for John Cassell's Coffees.

All applications for these valuable Agencies to be made direct to JOHN CASSELL, 80, FENCHURCH-STREET, LONDON.

TWENTY-FOUR POUNDS, in PRIZES of TWO POUNDS each, are hereby offered for the TWELVE BEST ORIGINAL JUVENILE ABSTINENCE MELODIES; that is, for Words only, and Not Music.—For particulars, see Advertisement in the "Teetotal Times" for June.

Price Threepence.

THE HISTORY and PROGRESS of TAXATION, as it relates to the Crown, the Aristocracy, and the People—History of the National Debt—Annals of the Poor-law—History of the Army and Navy—Pensions and Pensioners—Civil List, and Cost of the Executive, &c.

In demy 8vo, containing 32 pages, price 2d.,

THE GREAT MILITARY AND NAVAL PARLIAMENT; being an Analysis of both our Houses of Parliament: showing, from a careful examination of the Red-Books of the Aristocracy themselves, the true secret of the constant increase in our Military and Naval expenditure, in a STANDING MAJORITY in both Houses of nearly 300 members directly connected with the war system. No such dissection of our Legislative body has hitherto been made; and it may safely be said that no man, till he has gone over this list of 700 Members of Parliament connected with the military system by appointment, marriage, or consanguinity, is at all aware of the real character of the body that governs us.

In demy 8vo, containing 40 pages, price 3d.,

OUR GREAT STATE-CHURCH PARLIAMENT; an Analysis of both Houses of Parliament: showing that there are in the two Houses 700 direct holders and dealers in Churches and Church influence, with a STANDING MAJORITY of 154 devoted to the maintenance of the present Ecclesiastical system. In a former publication, entitled the "Great Military and Naval Parliament," it is shown that the Government, both of the Cabinet and the Senate, consists of a majority of soldiers. In the present work another view is taken of them, and they are now presented again as proprietors of the State-Church.

THE FINANCIAL REFORM ALMANACK, "bristling with Statistics," price Threepence, contains SIXTY-FOUR PAGES of closely-printed matter, and forms one of the most important and complete publications on the financial condition of the country ever exhibited.

THE EMIGRANT'S ALMANACK, PRICE FOURPENCE.

The EMIGRANT'S ALMANACK contains a greater mass of useful information on the important subject of Emigration than any other publication, and every possible care has been taken to ensure its entire accuracy. It contains advice relative to the United States of America; describes the routes to the various fields of emigration; determines the distances to each place; the modes of conveyance; the length of time occupied in the various journeys; expense of transit; cost of land in different parts of the world; expense of clearing the soil; and all the official information from the Commission of Emigration. In every page it abounds with practical hints for the Emigrant of every degree, and altogether forms one of the most interesting and valuable books of reference ever published on the subject of Emigration.

London: STANDARD OF FREEDOM Office, 335, Strand.

DR. CHEYNE'S COUGH and PULMONIC

LOZENGES.—The fame of these Lozenges is fully established as the most pleasant and efficacious remedy that can be employed for the removal of coughs. To the asthmatic, or those who are afflicted with a difficulty of breathing, or a redundancy of phlegm, they give instant relief, by causing free expectoration. They allay the irritation attendant on all affections of the throat, and strengthen the lungs to resist the effects of sudden changes. They remove hoarseness and greatly improve the voice. They arrest, in its incipient stages, that fearful result of our variable atmosphere—consumption; and for diseases of the pulmonary organs a more safe and salutary remedy cannot be applied. For aged persons they are invaluable, and none, whose lungs are in the least degree susceptible of cold, ought to be without them. They afford relief in every case of cough, and where there is no physical disorganization they will effect a cure.

From Mr. John Noble, Bookseller, Agent at Boston.

"DEAR SIR,—A gentleman has just communicated to me such a remarkable cure of spasmodic asthma, of many years' standing, that I forward it to you for publication. He has frequently been laid aside from his business, and during the last winter was confined to his house for nine weeks, during which time he could not lie down in bed. Being induced to try Dr. Cheyne's Cough and Pulmonic Lozenges, he has experienced from them such a cure as he did not think possible. During six weeks that he has taken these invaluable Lozenges, his health has been better than for the last ten years. He can now lie down and sleep comfortably, enjoying his rest in bed from eight or nine at night until five in the morning. Instead of being confined to his room or bed, he says:—'I can now walk all round my farm, and attend to my business, with ease and comfort. I consulted many of the most eminent medical practitioners in the neighbourhood without avail; nothing ever made an impression on my complaint until I tried these Lozenges.'

"I asked for a Testimonial, but he said, 'Having four medical men relatives, he could not allow his name to be published.' However, I obtained his permission to furnish this statement, which is nearly verbatim as delivered by him. I hope this 'plain, unvarnished tale' may stimulate other sufferers to try this valuable remedy."

To Mr. J. Everington, Church-street, Gainsborough.

"Sir,—I have been afflicted for years with a bad cough. I could not sleep at night, and sometimes coughed to that degree that the neighbours thought I should break a blood-vessel. I was induced to try a box of Dr. Cheyne's Lozenges, which was purchased at your shop; and after taking ten Lozenges, my cough left me. I give you leave to publish this statement for the benefit of others.—Blyton, near Gainsborough. "JANE HUNT."

CAUTION.—As a variety of Lozenges, Wafers, and Tablets are advertised, containing ingredients of an injurious nature, the public are particularly requested to ask for DR. CHEYNE'S COUGH and PULMONIC LOZENGES, and to observe that the words, "DR. CHEYNE'S COUGH LOZENGES," are engraved on the Government Stamp, which, with Directions for Use, is wrapped round each box.

Sold in Boxes at 1s. 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. and 2s. 9d., each, by Messrs. Sutton, 10, Bow Church-yard; Barclay's, 95, Farringdon-street; Edwards, 67, St. Paul's Church-yard; Dietrichson and Co., 63, Oxford-street; Sanger, 150, Oxford-street; Johnson, 68, Cornhill; King, 34, Napier-street, Hoxton; Bolton and Co., York; Raines and Co., Edinburgh; and by at least one Agent in every town throughout the United Kingdom.

Printed and Published by WILLIAM CATTELL, of 59, Aldershot-road, Camberwell, Surrey, at his Printing Office, 335, Strand, London.

MONDAY, July 1, 1850.

THE
TEETOTAL TIMES
AND ESSAYIST.

PUBLISHED MONTHLY.

No. XXXII.—NEW SERIES.]

LONDON, AUGUST, 1850.

{ Price One Penny.
{ Stamped, Twopence.

TEMPERANCE PUBLICATIONS.

THE TEETOTAL TIMES and ESSAYIST,
for 1849.

This may be had complete, price ONE SHILLING. It contains a number of ORIGINAL ARTICLES on some of the important parts of the Total Abstinence question; Original Correspondence; Reviews of Temperance Publications; and a large amount of information as to the operations of the principal Total Abstinence Societies throughout the kingdom and the world. But few complete sets remain.

THE TEETOTAL ESSAYIST; or Monthly Temperance Standard, for 1847. This may now be had complete, price ONE SHILLING. It forms the most interesting and important Publication that has ever been issued from the Temperance Press.

Sixteenth Thousand.

INTEMPERANCE the IDOLATRY of BRITAIN. By the Rev. W. R. BAKER, author of the "Curse of Britain," &c. It is admitted by the most eminent of the religious reviewers, as well as by all who have read it, that there never was a work upon the Temperance Question more calculated to carry conviction to the mind of a thoughtful reader as to the danger and iniquity of the drinking system. That it may have a very extensive circulation, this new and revised edition is published at Threepence:—the price of the former editions was 2s. 6d. The usual allowance will be made to societies, or persons taking a quantity.

LIVESEY'S FAMOUS MALT LECTURE, including a complete exposure of the great delusion as to the properties of Malt Liquors. Formerly published at Sixpence. A new edition for ONE PENNY.

THE BEST of MEN SOMETIMES IN ERROR. By ARCHDEACON JEFFREYS, of Bombay. The object of this incomparable Essay is to show that the advocates of the Total Abstinence system have the full warrant of Scripture for their labour of mercy and love. The style in which this sentiment is reasoned is such as to carry conviction to all who profess to be influenced by the law of love. 1s. 4d. per 100.

DR. NOTT'S LECTURES.

NATURE AND PROVIDENCE.—REPLYING to the QUESTION, WHAT IS the DUTY of MAN in RELATION to the USE of INTOXICATING LIQUORS! In four eloquent and powerful LECTURES. By ELIPHALET NOTT, D.D., LL.D., President of Union College, New York. Carefully revised, with an Appendix. In 32 very closely-printed pages, crown octavo, price One Penny.

THE CHRISTIAN'S SPIRITUAL SONG-BOOK, containing 500 spiritual songs adapted to popular tunes. By the Rev. JOHN STAMP. Embossed cambric, 1s. 6d.

TEMPERANCE HYMNS and SONGS; Devotional, Moral, and Social. Selected and revised by J. W. GREEN. Embossed leather, 1s.; stiff paper covers, 6d.

THE TEETOTALER'S HYMN-BOOK. Selected and revised by J. W. GREEN. 1d.

DEMORALISATION AND TOTAL ABSTINENCE..

AN EXPOSURE of the Extreme Defectiveness of an Examination of Teetotalism, which appeared recently in the weekly paper called the "Examiner." Reprinted, by request, from the "Standard of Freedom." Price, for extensive circulation, 2s. per 100.

SUNDAY SCHOOL PRIZE TRACTS.

Price 1s. 4d. per 100.

THE IMPORTANCE of the TEMPERANCE MOVEMENT, in its bearings on Sunday-schools.

THE YOUNG, the HOPE of the TEMPERANCE REFORMATION.

B. L. GREEN, 62, Paternoster-row.

PRIZE ESSAY.

Just published, price 1s. 6d., in a stiff wrapper; or bound in cloth, 2s.,

THE WORKING CLASSES of GREAT BRITAIN; their Present Condition, and the Means of their Improvement and Elevation. To which is added an Appendix. By the Rev. SAMUEL G. GREEN, A.B., of Taunton.

London: JOHN SNOW, Paternoster-row.

A Prize of Fifty Pounds was offered by Mr. John Cassell for the best Essay upon the above subject, the adjudicators being the Rev. T. Spencer, A.M.; Edward Miall, Esq.; and Edward Swaine, Esq.; and was unanimously awarded to the above gentleman, his Essay being selected from almost fifty others.

Price 2d., or by post 3d.,

CAUTIONS and TESTIMONY against ODD FELLOWSHIP. By H. MUDGE, Surgeon, Bodmin.

Also, price 2s., or by post 2s. 6d., by the same author,

EXPOSURE of ODD FELLOWSHIP; showing its Immoral Tendency and Bankrupt Circumstances, and containing as well a large amount of information on the subject of Friendly Societies.

WHITTAKER, London; LIDDELL, Bodmin.

Just published, price One Penny, No. 23 of

THE LIVERPOOL FINANCIAL REFORM TRACTS.

The LIVERPOOL FINANCIAL REFORM TRACTS No. 1 to 17 are also ready, and embrace the following subjects:—

No. 1. Civil List.—No. 2. Pension List.—No. 3. Taxation.—No. 4. The Army, Ordnance, Commissariat, Navy, Colonies.—No. 5. Ditto, ditto.—No. 6. The National Budget for 1849, by Richard Cobden, Esq., M.P.; with a Report of the Public Meeting held at the Concert Hall, Liverpool, December 20, 1848, at which the Budget was announced to the Nation.—No. 7. The Army, Ordnance, Commissariat, Navy, Colonies. The Army Clothing, together with Major-General Sir William Napier's Attack on the Association, and their Reply.—No. 8. The Woods, Forests, and Estates of the Crown.—No. 9. The Dead Weight of the Army.—No. 10. The Navy.—Nos. 11 & 12. Sir W. Molesworth on Colonial Expenditure (price Twopence).—No. 13. The Navy.—No. 14. Miscellaneous Expenses.—No. 15. Direct Taxation.—No. 16. Expenditure of the State, and Taxation of the People; Annual Report of the Liverpool Financial Reform Association; The Council of the Liverpool Financial Reform Association to the Tenant-Farmers of the United Kingdom; Slave Trade Abolition Expenditure; The Speech of John Smith, Esq., of the "Liverpool Mercury."—No. 17. The Evils of Indirect Taxation:—1. Indirect Tax upon a Commodity, such as Tea, withdraws Capital from Productive Employment. 2. The Tea Trade. 3. The Tea Duty. 4. The Tea Duty further exemplified—its deteriorating the quality of Tea. 5. The Tea Duty in relation to the Social Comfort and Morals of the Working Classes.

Likewise, just published, price 1d.,

A SUPPLEMENTARY TRACT, contributed by a Working Man, giving an Analysis of the House of Commons—the Division on MR. COBDEN'S Motion last Session—the Majorities, &c. Each name is given, proving that the votes tendered against Financial Reform have been those of INTERESTED parties, each of whose connection, direct or indirect, with the Army, Navy, and other Government establishments, is clearly exhibited.

Tracts for gratuitous distribution, admirably adapted for Financial Reform Associations, are now published, at 1s. 4d. per 100. The subjects of these Papers are:—The Burden of Taxation—The Woods and Forests—Costliness of the Army—The Civil List. If ordered direct by Associations, a liberal discount allowed. The Liverpool Reform Tracts are printed and published at the Office of the STANDARD OF FREEDOM, 335, Strand, London; and can be obtained through all Booksellers.

THE OPERATIVE CLASSES: THEIR TRIALS, SUFFERINGS, AND VIRTUES.

A new and highly-interesting feature will immediately be introduced into

THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND AND FAMILY INSTRUCTOR,

as will be seen by the following announcement:—

JOHN CASSELL offers ONE HUNDRED POUNDS, in Premiums of TEN POUNDS each, for Ten pithy SKETCHES, TALES, or NARRATIVES, illustrative of the Trials, Sufferings, and Patient Endurance of the Industrial Classes, in connection with various systems:—

In order that no delay may occur in the publication of this important and interesting Series of Papers, the subject; "ON THE CONDITION OF THE OMNIBUS DRIVERS AND CONDUCTORS OF THE METROPOLIS," has been submitted to, and accepted by, Miss Meteyard (better known to the literary world as "SILVERPEN,") the first chapter of which will appear in the number of THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND to be issued August 3. The whole of the remaining subjects (TEN in number) will be open to the competition of all writers in the United Kingdom.

I. THE SWEATING SYSTEM: in connection with the Tailoring Trade.

II. THE FACTORY SYSTEM: as illustrated in the Life of a Child, a Wife, and a Mother; in connection with long hours, absence from home, and bare subsistence.

III. JOURNEYMAN BAKERS: in connection with long hours, night work, Sunday labour, and close and unhealthy atmospheres.

IV. COLLIERS AND MINERS: their unhealthy and hazardous employments; and the triumphs of virtue and religion under the most unfavourable circumstances.

V. THE STOCKINGERS OF LEICESTER AND NOTTS: illustrated in the history of their trade; their privations during a lengthened depression; their long hours of labour, and scanty wages.

VI. NEEDLE WOMEN: illustrative of the sufferings and miseries of Shirt-makers, and the makers of Slop-goods, &c.

VII. SALE-FURNITURE AND CABINET-MAKING: in connection with the drudgery, slavery, and the very inadequate remuneration of the present system.

VIII. SPITALFIELDS WEAVERS: their history, privations, recreations, and present condition.

IX. AGRICULTURAL LABOURERS: their employments, condition as to education, domestic comforts, &c.

And in connection with the above Series, though not actually including the operative classes:—

THE DRAPERS' ASSISTANTS: illustrative of life in large towns, long hours, unhealthy lodging, oppressive and degrading rules and maxims, and the demoralization usually attendant on the present system.

Each Sketch, or Tale, must not exceed in length twelve of the ordinary pages of THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND, and is to be divided into three chapters, or smaller sections if necessary. Though written in the form of tale, or narrative, it must describe the peculiarities of the respective trade or occupation, and contain such statistics as may convey just ideas of its extent, importance, and present state.

The OBJECT of the Proprietor of THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND, in publishing these Sketches, is to furnish a succession of vivid pictures, which may serve,—

First,—To exhibit the advantages resulting from Sobriety, Industry, Integrity, and Moral Excellence under the most trying circumstances, namely, of the hardest work and the worst pay.

Secondly,—To excite the sympathy of those who are in more favourable circumstances, by bringing more fully before their view the privations and sufferings which large portions of their brethren and sisters have to endure; and the great difficulties with which they have to contend, even in obtaining the commonest necessities of life, and in procuring the education and training of their children; and the temptations and dangers to which they are, consequently, exposed.

Thirdly,—To remove the prejudices, to allay the apprehensions, and to engage the kindly offices of those who have formed unfavourable opinions of the masses, as persons who have imbibed what are considered extravagant opinions and unwarrantable desires, as to Politics, Religion, and Social Philosophy; and,

Finally,—To excite in the minds of all an earnest desire for the amelioration of the condition of the toiling classes, and a determination to employ the most rational means of securing their physical, intellectual, social, and moral elevation.

The aim of each writer must be to carry out these objects in a calm and dignified tone, apart from personal invectives, or abuse of individuals whom bad systems may have betrayed into oppressive acts. It will not avail to irritate wounds that are already too grievous to be borne; the wisest course will be to point out the means by which healing and soundness may be best effected.

The Editors of THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND will be assisted, in the selection of the best Sketch or Tale, by persons well acquainted with the peculiarities of each system.

The competitors for No. I. must send in their papers not later than August 14.

For No. II., September 1.

For No. III., September 15.

For No. IV., October 1.

For No. V., October 15.

And the remainder not later than November 15.

The papers must be addressed "To the Proprietor of the Working Man's Friend, 335, Strand, London." Each manuscript must be signed with some peculiar initial, accompanied with a sealed note, containing the real name and address of the writer. No note will be opened except that of the successful competitor.

The unaccepted manuscripts will be returned to the writers; and the strictest impartiality will be observed in the adjudication.

THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM:

JOHN CASSELL, PROPRIETOR.

The largest-sized Paper allowed by Law. Price 5d., or 5s. 5d. per Quarter.

NOTWITHSTANDING that the Reputation of this Paper is completely established, the Proprietor has recently materially strengthened his Literary Staff, in order that the approval already given to its earnest and uncompromising advocacy of the great principles of Political, Commercial, and Religious Freedom, may continue to secure for it the extensive patronage it enjoys. It advocates the fullest Representation, Retrenchment, and Equalization of Taxation; devotes a due portion of its space to all that concerns questions of Morals and Philanthropy; and contains all that is necessary to render the Family Newspaper a source of lively entertainment and sound information.

To all classes of Advertisers THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM offers a widely-extended medium, both in the Metropolis and the Provinces; the circulation being such as to place before an immense number of readers every business Announcement that is inserted in its columns.

335, STRAND, LONDON.

JOHN CASSELL'S BOOKS FOR THE YOUNG.

There are Primers, Spelling Books, Grammars, and other helps to Elementary Education, in abundance. There are also Libraries of Fairy Tales, Romances, and other works of fiction, for the amusement of youthful readers, almost without end. But there are still wanting cheap, well-written books, adapted to the capacities of children, and furnishing information as to Natural objects, Arts, Sciences, and Manufactures. To supply this want, John Cassell proposes to issue

A NEW SERIES

OF

INSTRUCTIVE WORKS FOR CHILDREN;

To consist of Twelve Books, at Sixpence each, in the form of catechisms, or dialogues, divided into sections, and written in a style at once plain and familiar, interesting and instructive. The aim in this Series will be, by judicious condensation, to furnish for the youthful mind such a store of information as shall prove of avail in after-life, at the same time that it excites a spirit of laudable inquiry, and an eager thirst for the higher branches of intellectual, scientific, and moral truth.

It is believed that there are few parents, however humble their lot in life, but will feel pleasure in presenting to their children a copy of each of these books as they make their appearance in succession. For use in schools, whether public or private, they cannot fail to be acceptable. They will, also, be admirably adapted for presents, either as tokens of esteem, or rewards for good behaviour.

The first of the Series is now ready, and contains

ARTS AND MANUFACTURES. No. I.

THE HISTORY OF PAPER-MAKING, WRITING, PRINTING, AND BOOKS.

Each Number, or Book, will be complete in itself.

THE FREEHOLDER, the Organ of the Freeholders' Union, is published on the first of every month, price Threepence, or stamped for post, Fourpence. No. VIII., for August, contains, in addition to copious information as to the progress of the movement, Leading Articles, Reviews, Correspondence, &c.

"THE FREEHOLDER" is exclusively devoted to the extension of the County Franchise, and contains reports of the proceedings of all Freehold Land Societies, with an analysis of their rules, list of their officers, &c. It also gives plain and practical directions for qualifying and registering, so that individuals, whether members of Land Societies or otherwise, may know how to obtain a County Vote, how to have their names put upon the Register, and how to support, if necessary, their claims in the Revision Court.

Order of any Newsvender or Bookseller. Office, 335, Strand, London.

Now Publishing,

THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND and FAMILY INSTRUCTOR. 32 pages, crown octavo, price One Penny.

Vol. III., No. 31, for the week ending August 3, contains:—

The History and Present Condition of the Metropolitan Omnibus Drivers and Conductors, by Silverpen (Eliza Meteyard).—The Working Man. No. XXIX. How to Read Profitably. Part III.—A Sail up the Mississippi.—Common Weeds.—The Birthplace of John Bunyan, by Mrs. Clara L. Balfour.—West Indian Experience; or, Life and Labour as a Missionary for Fourteen Years in the West Indies. Chapter III. Small Beginnings.—The Working Man's Garden. No. VIII. First Week in August; Teltow Turnip; Lettuce; Hyssop.—Weekly Calendar.—The Portfolio: (Original and Selected).—Men of the Cromwellian Age: John Milton.

THE LITERATURE OF WORKING MEN.

Now ready, price One Penny,

THE FIFTH SUPPLEMENTARY NUMBER of "THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND, and FAMILY INSTRUCTOR," 32 pages crown 8vo, price One Penny, devoted entirely to the Productions of the Operative Class. For each article deemed eligible for insertion, a volume, or volumes, of some valuable work will be presented to the writer. To prevent disappointment, it is necessary that all who have not done so should give their orders immediately to the nearest Bookseller, as the demand is very extensive.

THE SEVENTH PART OF

THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND and FAMILY INSTRUCTOR, including THE FIFTH SUPPLEMENTARY NUMBER (devoted entirely to Contributions from the Working Classes), is now ready, price 6d., enclosed in a Wrapper.

Now Published, neatly bound in cloth and lettered, price One Shilling and Sixpence each,

THE FIRST and SECOND VOLUMES of THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND and FAMILY INSTRUCTOR, containing Thirteen Weekly Numbers; the whole comprising a collection of interesting and instructive articles on History, Science, Politics, Domestic Economy, &c.; Tales and Sketches by Popular Authors, Poetry, Calendar of Remarkable Events, &c. &c.

Published at 335, Strand, London. J. MENZIES, Edinburgh; GALLIE, Glasgow; and all Booksellers throughout the United Kingdom,

THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND and FAMILY INSTRUCTOR is published weekly, 32 pages, crown 8vo, price One Penny, or in Monthly Parts, four numbers, 5d.; five numbers, 6d.

CAUTION RESPECTING JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE.

JOHN CASSELL finds it necessary to caution the Consumers of his justly-famed COFFEE against purchasing imitations of his Packages. The fact that his Establishment is the largest in the kingdom, and his COFFEE most extensively consumed, has led numerous parties to attempt making up very inferior articles in the same style of Package; and some, to induce tradesmen to substitute their spurious article for that of JOHN CASSELL, offer a larger amount of profit. This has a tendency to prejudice the public, and hence the necessity of thus informing them that no Coffee can be the veritable JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE unless his signature is upon each Package. Go therefore to the Agent for JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, ask for JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, and see that it is JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE which is handed to you, having his Signature upon the Package. This is necessary, for there are numerous imitations, stringent and bitter to the palate, while JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE is rich and strong, at the same time that it is mellow and delicious, pleasing to the palate, and invigorating to the system.

The following are the prices at which they can be obtained:—

JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE , No. 1, an excellent article.....	1s. 4d.
JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE , No. 2, cannot fail to give great satisfaction, being a combination of the choicest growths of Jamaica, possessing richness, strength, and flavour.....	1s. 8d.
JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE , No. 3, to every Connoisseur in Coffee this will prove a treat, combining the finest mountain growths of both Jamaica and Turkey.....	2s. 6d.

JOHN CASSELL'S FIVE-SHILLING TEA.—This is a combination of the finest and most carefully-selected Teas, the produce of choice, young, and tender plants. It possesses not only strength, but a peculiar and delicious fragrance, which cannot fail to render it pleasant to the most fastidious palate and to the exquisite taste of the connoisseur. This may be had either wholly Black or Black and Green mixed. It is sold in Catty Packages only, containing from two ounces to one pound; and every package bears the signature of "JOHN CASSELL," without which none can be genuine.

JOHN CASSELL'S SOLUBLE COCOA.—This article is one of superior excellence, and is prepared only at the extensive STEAM MILLS of JOHN CASSELL, 80, FENCHURCH-STREET, London. It is a rich and nutritious article, at the same time the various properties of the Cocoa-nut are so combined as to make it agreeable to the most dyspeptic and admirably adapted to persons of a weak constitution.—Sold in  $\frac{1}{4}$  and  $\frac{1}{2}$  lb packets, at 8d. and 1s. per lb., throughout the Kingdom, by the Agents for John Cassell's Coffees.

All applications for these valuable Agencies to be made direct to JOHN CASSELL, 80, FENCHURCH-STREET, LONDON.

Price Threepence,

THE HISTORY and PROGRESS of TAXATION, as it relates to the Crown, the Aristocracy, and the People—History of the National Debt—Annals of the Poor-law—History of the Army and Navy—Pensions and Pensioners—Civil List, and Cost of the Executive, &c.

In demy 8vo, containing 32 pages, price 2d.,

THE GREAT MILITARY and NAVAL PARLIAMENT; being an Analysis of both our Houses of Parliament: showing, from a careful examination of the Red-Books of the Aristocracy themselves, the true secret of the constant increase in our Military and Naval expenditure, in a STANDING MAJORITY in both Houses of nearly 300 members directly connected with the war system. No such dissection of our Legislative body has hitherto been made; and it may safely be said that no man, till he has gone over this list of 700 Members of Parliament connected with the military system by appointment, marriage, or consanguinity, is at all aware of the real character of the body that governs us.

In demy 8vo, containing 40 pages, price 3d.,

OUR GREAT STATE-CHURCH PARLIAMENT; an Analysis of both Houses of Parliament: showing that there are in the two Houses 700 direct holders and dealers in Churches and Church influence, with a STANDING MAJORITY of 154 devoted to the maintenance of the present Ecclesiastical system. In a former publication, entitled the "Great Military and Naval Parliament," it is shown that the Government, both of the Cabinet and the Senate, consists of a majority of soldiers. In the present work another view is taken of them, and they are now presented again as proprietors of the State-Church.

THE FINANCIAL REFORM ALMANACK, "bristling with Statistics," price Threepence, contains SIXTY-FOUR PAGES of closely-printed matter, and forms one of the most important and complete publications on the financial condition of the country ever exhibited.

THE EMIGRANT'S ALMANACK, PRICE FOURPENCE.

The EMIGRANT'S ALMANACK contains a greater mass of useful information on the important subject of Emigration than any other publication, and every possible care has been taken to ensure its entire accuracy. It contains advice relative to the United States of America; describes the routes to the various fields of emigration; determines the distances to each place; the modes of conveyance; the length of time occupied in the various journeys; expense of transit; cost of land in different parts of the world; expense of clearing the soil; and all the official information from the Commission of Emigration. In every page it abounds with practical hints for the Emigrant of every degree, and altogether forms one of the most interesting and valuable books of reference ever published on the subject of Emigration.

London: STANDARD OF FREEDOM Office, 335, Strand.

DR. CHEYNE'S COUGH and PULMONIC

LOZENGES.—The fame of these Lozenges is fully established as the most pleasant and efficacious remedy that can be employed for the removal of coughs. To the asthmatic, or those who are afflicted with a difficulty of breathing, or a redundancy of phlegm, they give instant relief, by causing free expectoration. They allay the irritation attendant on all affections of the throat, and strengthen the lungs to resist the effects of sudden changes. They remove hoarseness and greatly improve the voice. They arrest, in its incipient stages, that fearful result of our variable atmosphere—consumption; and for diseases of the pulmonary organs a more safe and salutary remedy cannot be applied. For aged persons they are invaluable, and none, whose lungs are in the least degree susceptible of cold, ought to be without them. They afford relief in every case of cough, and where there is no physical disorganization they will effect a cure.

From Mr. John Noble, Bookseller, Agent at Boston.

"DEAR SIR,—A gentleman has just communicated to me such a remarkable cure of spasmodic asthma, of many years' standing, that I forward it to you for publication. He has frequently been laid aside from his business, and during the last winter was confined to his house for nine weeks, during which time he could not lie down in bed. Being induced to try Dr. Cheyne's Cough and Pulmonic Lozenges, he has experienced from them such a cure as he did not think possible. During six weeks that he has taken these invaluable Lozenges, his health has been better than for the last ten years. He can now lie down and sleep comfortably, enjoying his rest in bed from eight or nine at night until five in the morning. Instead of being confined to his room or bed, he says:—'I can now walk all round my farm, and attend to my business, with ease and comfort. I consulted many of the most eminent medical practitioners in the neighbourhood without avail; nothing ever made an impression on my complaint until I tried these Lozenges.'

"I asked for a Testimonial, but he said, 'Having four medical men relatives, he could not allow his name to be published.' However, I obtained his permission to furnish this statement, which is nearly verbatim as delivered by him. I hope this 'plain, unvarnished tale' may stimulate other sufferers to try this valuable remedy."

To Mr. J. Everington, Church-street, Gainsborough.

"SIR,—I have been afflicted for years with a bad cough. I could not sleep at night, and sometimes coughed to that degree that the neighbours thought I should break a blood-vessel. I was induced to try a box of Dr. Cheyne's Lozenges, which was purchased at your shop; and after taking ten Lozenges, my cough left me. I give you leave to publish this statement for the benefit of others.—Blyton, near Gainsborough. "JANE HUNT."

CAUTION.—As a variety of Lozenges, Wafers, and Tablets are advertised, containing ingredients of an injurious nature, the public are particularly requested to ask for DR. CHEYNE'S COUGH and PULMONIC LOZENGES, and to observe that the words, "DR. CHEYNE'S COUGH LOZENGES," are engraved on the Government Stamp, which, with Directions for Use, is wrapped round each box.

Sold in Boxes at 1s. 1/4d., and 2s. 9d., each, by Messrs. Sutton, 10, Bow Church-yard; Barclay's, 95, Farringdon-street; Edwards, 67, St. Paul's Church-yard; Dietrichson and Co., 63, Oxford-street; Sanger, 150, Oxford-street; Johnson, 68, Cornhill; King, 34, Napier-street, Hoxton; Bolton and Co., York; Raiues and Co., Edinburgh; and by at least one Agent in every town throughout the United Kingdom.

Printed and Published by WILLIAM CATHALL, of 59, Albany-road, Camberwell, Surrey, at his Printing Office, 335, Strand, London.

THURSDAY, August 1, 1850.

THE
TEETOTAL TIMES
AND ESSAYIST.

PUBLISHED MONTHLY.

No. XXXIII.—NEW SERIES.]

LONDON, SEPTEMBER, 1850.

{ Price One Penny.
{ Stamped, Twopence

THE TEMPERANCE ALMANACK for 1851, neatly printed on THIRTY-TWO PAGES, crown octavo, with Engravings, will be ready with the Magazines for November. Price ONE PENNY.

Besides the usual Almanack matter, and numerous Chronological notices, this impression will contain several original articles on various parts of the Temperance question, the progress of the Movement, and other matters deeply interesting to the Members of Teetotal Societies, and to the general community.

Orders may be sent to any Bookseller, or to the Proprietor and Publisher, JOHN CASSELL, 335, Strand, London.

Now ready, price 6d., or post free 10d.,

HAMILTON'S TEMPERANCE MUSIC-BOOK; a Collection of 48 Songs and 69 Hymns, with the MUSIC to each.

Glasgow: Published by W. HAMILTON, Renfield-street, and at the Office of the Scottish Temperance League, St. Enoch-square; SIMPKIN, MARSHALL, and CO., and HOULSTON and STONE-MAN, London.

BRENTWOOD, ESSEX.

FRIENDS of TEMPERANCE! you are earnestly invited to sanction by your presence an OPEN-AIR MEETING, for the advocacy of the great principles of TEMPERANCE, to be held in a delightfully-situated Meadow near this Town, on THURSDAY, September 5, at Half-past Two. BENJ. ROTCH, Esq., has kindly promised to preside. He will be supported by several able speakers on the subject. Tea will be provided in a Marquee at Five o'clock, at One Shilling each, after which addresses will be delivered. An efficient Brass Band will also be in attendance.

Trains leave the Station at Shoreditch, London, at eleven, half-past one, and twenty minutes past four, and return to Town at half-past nine from Brentwood.

JOHN M. WARNE,
Secretary to the Brentwood Temperance League.

Just published, price One Penny, No. 23 of

THE LIVERPOOL FINANCIAL REFORM TRACTS.

The LIVERPOOL FINANCIAL REFORM TRACTS No. 1 to 17 are also ready, and embrace the following subjects:—

No. 1. Civil List.—No. 2. Pension List.—No. 3. Taxation.—No. 4. The Army, Ordnance, Commissariat, Navy, Colonies.—No. 5. Ditto, ditto.—No. 6. The National Budget for 1849, by Richard Cobden, Esq., M.P.; with a Report of the Public Meeting held at the Concert Hall, Liverpool, December 20, 1848, at which the Budget was announced to the Nation.—No. 7. The Army, Ordnance, Commissariat, Navy, Colonies. The Army Clothing, together with Major-General Sir William Napier's Attack on the Association, and their Reply.—No. 8. The Woods, Forests, and Estates of the Crown.—No. 9. The Dead Weight of the Army.—No. 10. The Navy.—Nos. 11 & 12. Sir W. Molesworth on Colonial Expenditure (price Twopence).—No. 13. The Navy.—No. 14. Miscellaneous Expenses.—No. 15. Direct Taxation.—No. 16. Expenditure of the State, and Taxation of the People; Annual Report of the Liverpool Financial Reform Association; The Council of the Liverpool Financial Reform Association to the Tenant-Farmers of the United Kingdom; Slave Trade Abolition Expenditure; The Speech of John Smith, Esq., of the "Liverpool Mercury."—No. 17. The Evils of Indirect Taxation:—1. Indirect Tax upon a Commodity, such as Tea, withdraws Capital from Productive Employment. 2. The Tea Trade. 3. The Tea Duty. 4. The Tea Duty further exemplified—its deteriorating the quality of Tea. 5. The Tea Duty in relation to the Social Comfort and Morals of the Working Classes.

Tracts for gratuitous distribution, admirably adapted for Financial Reform Associations, are now published, at 1s. 4d. per 100. The subjects of these Papers are:—The Burden of Taxation.—The Woods and Forests.—Costliness of the Army.—The Civil List.—Ordered direct by Associations, a liberal discount allowed. The Liverpool Reform Tracts are printed and published at the Office of the STANDARD OF FREEDOM, 335, Strand, London; and can be obtained through all Booksellers.

THE FINANCIAL REFORM ALMANACK and FREEHOLDERS' MANUAL for 1851, will be ready by the middle of October. Price Threepence.

This Almanack, besides the Calendar, and all other matter pertaining to Almanacks, will contain a variety of original articles and statistics, showing the income and expenditure of the Government, the influence of taxation on the trade and industry of the country, the progress made in the great work of Financial Reform, &c. &c. In addition it will contain a mass of interesting, useful, and practical information on the Freehold Land Movement; the nature of the Forty-shilling Franchise, the state of the Counties, and the progress made by every Society in the kingdom, up to the date of publication, will be shown. It will be compiled from documents accessible exclusively to the Editor, and will form the only complete guide to Freehold Land Societies which has ever been published. The FINANCIAL REFORM ALMANACK for 1850 reached a sale of 35,000, The circulation for 1851 will greatly exceed that number.

Will be ready also at the same time, price THREEPENCE, printed on sixty-four pages, crown octavo.

THE PROTESTANT DISSENTERS' ALMANACK for 1851. This Almanack is devoted to the elucidation and advocacy of the great principles of Religious Freedom. In addition to the information common to Almanacks, it contains a mass of Statistics of the various Religious Denominations and Societies of the Kingdom; Lists of Chapels occupied by Independents and Baptists in the Metropolis, with the names of the Ministers and the hours of service. Also, a Series of Original Papers upon the principal topics and events of interest in connection with Religious Freedom. The previous impressions of this Almanack attained a popularity to which very few similar publications can lay claim.

THE PEOPLE'S ALMANACK for 1851, printed on thirty-six pages, crown octavo, price ONE PENNY.

This Almanack contains a mass of matter of deep interest to the People of England:—List of Fairs, choice Family Receipts, useful Statistics, &c. &c. A liberal discount will be allowed to the Trade. Published by Vickers, Holywell-street, Strand; and sold by Berger, do.; Wynne, do.; Gilbert, Paternoster-row; Farrington, Bath-street, Newgate-street; Allen, Warwick-lane; Abel Heywood, Manchester; Cooke, Bradford; and may be had of all Booksellers.

THE CHEAPEST HISTORY OF ENGLAND EVER ISSUED FROM THE PRESS.

The Fifth Volume of JOHN CASSELL'S LIBRARY, just published, is the commencement of a

NEW and POPULAR HISTORY OF ENGLAND. By Dr. ROBERT FERGUSON, of Ryde.

It will be completed in four monthly volumes, each containing one hundred and forty-four pages, price SIXPENCE, or in two double volumes, price 1s. 4d. each. It will be seen, therefore, that this History of England, containing 576 pages, will be obtainable for 2s., or for 2s. 8d. neatly bound in cloth. At the same time it will form one of the most able and interesting works ever issued from the press: the object of Dr. Ferguson in this History being not merely to exhibit a record of the actions of Kings and Cabinets, but to present a faithful and instructive HISTORY OF THE PEOPLE, with their progress in industrial arts and social amelioration.

All persons desirous of being supplied with copies from the First Edition of 20,000, should give their orders immediately to the nearest Bookseller.

Just published, price 1s. 6d., in a stiff wrapper; or bound in cloth, 2s.

THE WORKING CLASSES OF GREAT BRITAIN: their Present Condition, and the Means of their Improvement and Elevation. To which is added an Appendix. By the Rev. SAMUEL G. GREEN, A.B., of Taunton.

A Prize of Fifty Pounds was offered by Mr. John Cassell for the best Essay upon the above subject, the adjudicators being the Rev. T. Spencer, A.M.; Edward Miall, Esq.; and Edward Swaine, Esq.; and was unanimously awarded to the above gentleman, his Essay being selected from almost fifty others.

London: JOHN CASSELL, 335, Strand.

A CATALOGUE OF IPSWICH
TEMPERANCE PUBLICATIONS.

ALL these, whether Books, Tracts, Hand-bills, or Notice Papers, are sold in SIXPENNY PACKETS. Fifty Packets of either will be delivered to any address in London, for a Guinea, sent by Post-office Order to Richard Dykes Alexander Ipswich; or they may be had of any bookseller in the country through Simpkin, Marshall, and Co., Stationers-hall-court, London.

IPSWICH JUVENILE TEMPERANCE BOOKS,
32mo, nearly all with Pictures.

[These are now sold ONLY in Assorted Packets.]

Assorted Packet, No. 1, contains No. 1 to 16. Assorted Packet, No. 2, contains No. 17 to 32. Assorted Packet, No. 3, contains No. 33 to 46.

HAND-BILLS FOR PUBLIC MEETINGS.

Nine inches by six. On the back of each is a Temperance Tract. Fifty for Sixpence.

NOTICE PAPERS.

With the same form as the Hand-bills. The opinions of eminent persons on Teetotalism on the back of each. Two Hundred for Sixpence.

IPSWICH TEMPERANCE TRACTS.

Those Tracts marked with an * have Pictures. Pages.

1 The Doctor Scrutinized, by R. D. Alexander, F.L.S.	8
2 Striking Facts, ditto	2
3 Maker and Vender, ditto	2
4 Our Creed, ditto	2
*5 Adulterated Beer, ditto	4
*6 Adulterated Wine, ditto	4
7 The Malster, ditto	4
8 Go Feel what I have Felt	2
9 Facts are stubborn Things	2
*10 The Spirit Dealer	2
11 Christian Teetotalism, by R. D. Alexander	2
12 The Trade, ditto	4
13 Alcohol, ditto	4
14 Town of Ipswich, ditto	4
*15 Song of the Water Drinker	2
16 Stimulation not Strength	8
17 Farmer Woodman	4
*18 The Beer Barrel	8
19 Teetotal Recipes	4
*20 Speech of J. J. Gurney	2
21 Pity the Poor Drunkard	2
*22 The Fool's Pence	8
23 Why am I a Teetotaler?	2
*24 Dost thou Smoke, Bill?	4
25 The Laudanum Drinker	4
26 The Ox Discourse	4
27 Letter to the Clergy	20
28 Common Sense	20
29 Ralph the Soldier	4
30 Testimony of Physicians	4
31 The Working Man	20
32 Is I not happy!	4
33 David the Shoemaker, by R. D. Alexander	4
34 The Drunken Couple, ditto	2
35 Confessions of a Drunkard	2
36 Master Tailor, by R. D. Alexander	4
*37 The Fatal Gift	2
38 Poor Sandy	4
39 Use and Abuse, by Archdeacon Jeffries	2
40 The Schoolmaster	4
41 Water is Best, by J. J. Gurney	4
42 Cobbett's Advice	4
43 Take a Public-house	4
*44 A Sailor's Yarn	4
45 Moderate Drinking	12
46 The Pledge	4
*47 John Jarvis	12
*48 The Fifteen Friends	4
49 Sunday-School Teachers	13
50 Sunday-School Children	12
*51 Money better than Beer	4
*52 Little Mary	8
53 Philosophy of Temperance, by R. D. Trail, M.D.	20
54 Love to Man	20
*55 Young Woman's Tract	12
56 Young Man's Tract	16
57 Dr. Campbell's Testimony	8
58 Why sign the Pledge?	2
59 The Poor Man's House Repaired	4
60 The Mother's Tract	8
61 The High Price of Food	4
62 Ladies' Tract Societies	8
63 The Praise of Water	2
64 Important Calculations	2
*65 The Farm Servant	2
66 Teetotalism Declining	8
*67 The Reformed Drunkard	8
68 The Recruit	8
69 No. 1 of Anecdotes	12
70 No. 2 ditto	12
71 No. 3 ditto	12
72 No. 4 ditto	12
73 Luke Husler	8
74 The Drunkard's Wife	12
75 The Unexplored Island	4
76 Ancient Wines, by R. D. Alexander	8

77 Influence of Example	2
*78 The Victim of Excitement	20
*79 My Medical Adviser	4
*80 The Restoration	8
81 The Use of Intoxicating Drinks, by Archdeacon Jeffries	12
*82 Drink and be Happy	4
83 The Five Nips	4
84 The Honest Spirit Dealer	2
85 Seven Years' Experience	2
*86 Education of the Drunkard, with 5 pictures	12
*87 A Word with Serious People, by John Bright, M.P.	4
*88 Guide to Glendalough	4
*89 Bridget Larkins	4
90 The Contrast	2
91 Tobacco a Cause of Intemperance	2
*92 The Wedding Night	12
*93 My Chapel	4
*94 The Best Men sometimes Err, by Archdeacon Jeffries	8
*95 Testimonies of Eight Judges	2
*96 The Drunkard in Rags	2
*97 The Farmer and Labourer	4
*98 The Gloucestershire Farmer	4
*99 Strong Drink and Infidelity	8
100 Catalogue of Tracts	4
101 The Hertfordshire Farmer	2
*102 Sunday Schools	4
103 Confessions of a Publican	4
104 Peter Levison, or the Ruined Minister	4
105 John Angell James	2
*106 I do not drink Wine	4
*107 Self-Imposed Burdens	2
*108 The Craving of a Drunkard	8
*109 The Poor Orphan Boy	4
*110 Loss of Seven Fishermen	8
111 A Temperance Catechism	8
*112 The Mail Coachman	4
113 The Reformed Family	4
114 Licensing Day at Bolton	4
115 Stomach of a Drunkard	4
116 Ragged Schools	4
*117 Delirium Tremens	4
118 The Fire-Escape	4
119 The Sabbath Morn	4
*120 Can a Christian keep a Public House	8
121 The Aged Friend	2
*122 The Village of Newbridge	2
123 The Mirror of Intemperance	4
*124 Alcohol: what it does, and what it cannot do; on the nutrition of the Body, and in the production of Disease; by Walter Johnson, M.B.	44
125 Barley, Malt, and Beer Question, by Dr. F. Lees	4
126 Keep away from the Public House	4
127 The History of Poor William	8
128 The Hearer to his Minister	4
129 Alcohol generates a tendency to Death. By Dr. E. Johnson	4
130 The Merchant's Dream	4
131 Address to Females	2
*132 History of J. B. Gough	48
133 Livesey's Malt Liqueur Lecture	32
*134 My Mother's Gold Ring	8
*135 Miraculous Deliverance	4
136 The Drunkard's Dream	2
*137 Archibald Prentice's Speech on Sanitary and Social Means to Political Ends	8
*138 The Altered Man	2
*139 The Love-feast, by T. B. Smithies	4
140 George the Australian Emigrant	4
141 Advice to Soldiers, by Sir C. Napier	2
142 Medical Opinions, for the Aged	2
*143 Smoking and Snuffing, by J. Higginbottom, F.R.C.S.	8
*144 Wesleyan Teetotalism	2
145 Waste of Food	2
*146 The Man in the Cellar, and the Man without Hands	8
*147 Evil Spirits—a Poem	8
*148 Manchester "Go-a-Heads"	4
*149 Mothers, Doctors, and Nurses; a Dialogue between a Medical Man and his Friend, by J. Higginbottom, F.R.C.S.	12
150 Ten Solemn Opinions	2
151 Paralysis and Apoplexy; a Dialogue between a Medical Man and his Friend, by J. Higginbottom, F.R.C.S.	16
152 The Miraculous Deliverance, by the Author of the "Sinner's Friend," with the tract entitled the "Sinner's Friend" appended	36
*153 The Child's Question	4
154 Scene from Life	4
*155 The Christian Sabbath Breaker	4
*156 Reminiscences of a Tavern Parlour	8
157 Richard Wilkinson, the Railway Labourer	2
158 Missionary Facts	2

All the above can be had in Assorted Packs:—No. 1, Tract No. 1 to 30; No. 2, Tract No. 31 to 53; No. 3, Tract No. 54 to 72; No. 4, Tract No. 73 to 100; No. 5, Tract 101 to 126; No. 6, Tract 127 to 143; No. 7, Tract 144 and upwards.

Assorted Packs also:—No. 10, Tracts for Roadside Distribution; No. 11, Tracts on the Principles of Teetotalism; No. 12, Tracts adapted for Farmers; No. 13, Tracts: Interesting Narratives; No. 14, Tracts suited for Poor Drunkards; No. 15, Medical Tracts.

Tract Covers suited for Lending, in One Shilling Packets.

A Volume containing the first 100 Tracts, in cloth, 3s.

THE OPERATIVE CLASSES: THEIR TRIALS, SUFFERINGS, AND VIRTUES.

A NEW and highly-interesting feature has recently been introduced into THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND AND FAMILY INSTRUCTOR. JOHN CASSELL has offered ONE HUNDRED POUNDS, in PREMIUMS of TEN POUNDS EACH, for Ten jolly SKETCHES, TALES, or NARRATIVES, illustrative of the Trials, Sufferings, and Patient Endurance of the Industrial Classes, in connection with various systems.

The First of the Series, "ON THE CONDITION OF THE OMNIBUS DRIVERS AND CONDUCTORS OF THE METROPOLIS," written by Miss Meteyard (better known to the literary world as "SILVERPEN"), was published in Numbers 31 and 32 of THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND, issued August 3rd and 10th.

The Second, containing a Narrative exhibiting the privations and sufferings consequent upon the "SWEATING SYSTEM," in connection with the TAILORING TRADE, with practical remedial suggestions, will appear in Numbers 37, 38, 39, for the weeks ending September 14, 21, and 28.

The Third, on the FACTORY SYSTEM, will appear in October. The remainder of the Series, Journeymen Bakers—Colliers and Miners—The Stockingers of Leicester and Notts—Needlewomen—Sale Furniture and Cabinet Making—Spitalfields Weavers—Agricultural Labourers—Drapers' Assistants, &c., will follow in due course.

THE FREEHOLDER, the Organ of the Freeholders' Union, is published on the first of every month, price Threepence, or stamped for post, Fourpence.

"THE FREEHOLDER" is exclusively devoted to the extension of the County Franchise, and contains reports of the proceedings of all Freehold Land Societies, with an analysis of their rules, list of their officers, &c. It also gives plain and practical directions for qualifying and registering, so that individuals, whether members of Land Societies or otherwise, may know how to obtain a County Vote, how to have their names put upon the Register, and how to support, if necessary, their claims in the Revision Court.

Order of any Newsvender or Bookseller. Office, 335, Strand, London.

THE MOST REMARKABLE PUBLICATION OF THE DAY.

THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND and FAMILY INSTRUCTOR is published Weekly, and contains Thirty-two Pages, crown octavo, price One Penny.

VOLUMES I. and II., price 1s. 6d. each, containing THIRTEEN WEEKLY NUMBERS, neatly bound in cloth, are NOW READY. This work abounds in valuable and interesting information, and is admirably adapted as a gift or prize-book for families or educational institutions.

MONTHLY PARTS are regularly published, price Sixpence, containing Four Weekly Numbers, besides the SUPPLEMENTARY NUMBER for the Month, which is uniform in size and price with the Weekly Numbers, and is devoted entirely to Communications from Working Men. As an encouragement to literary exertion on the part of the Working Classes, valuable books are awarded to those whose compositions are considered worthy of insertion. Four numbers have now been published, and have elicited the highest encomiums from all quarters, including several Members of Parliament.

THE LITERATURE OF WORKING MEN.

Now ready, price One Penny,

THE SIXTH SUPPLEMENTARY NUMBER of "THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND, and FAMILY INSTRUCTOR," 32 pages crown 8vo, price One Penny, devoted entirely to the Productions of the Operative Class. For each article deemed eligible for insertion, a volume, or volumes, of some valuable work will be presented to the writer. To prevent disappointment, it is necessary that all who have not done so should give their orders immediately to the nearest Bookseller, as the demand is very extensive.

THE EIGHTH PART OF

THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND and FAMILY INSTRUCTOR, including THE SIXTH SUPPLEMENTARY NUMBER (devoted entirely to Contributions from the Working Classes), is now ready, price 6d., enclosed in a Wrapper.

Now Published, neatly bound in cloth and lettered, price One Shilling and Sixpence each,

THE FIRST and SECOND VOLUMES of THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND and FAMILY INSTRUCTOR, containing Thirteen Weekly Numbers; the whole comprising a collection of interesting and instructive articles on History, Science, Politics, Domestic Economy, &c.; Tales and Sketches by Popular Authors, Poetry, Calendar of Remarkable Events, &c. &c.

JOHN CASSELL'S BOOKS FOR THE YOUNG. No. I.—PRICE SIXPENCE. ARTS AND MANUFACTURES.

No. I.—THE HISTORY OF WRITING, PAPER-MAKING, PRINTING, BOOKS. TYPES, &c. &c.

Published at 335, Strand, London. J. MENZIES, Edinburgh; GALLIE, Glasgow; and all Booksellers throughout the United Kingdom.

THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND and FAMILY INSTRUCTOR is published weekly, 32 pages, crown 8vo, price One Penny, or in Monthly Parts, four numbers, 6d.; two numbers, 6d.

CAUTION RESPECTING JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE.

JOHN CASSELL finds it necessary to caution the Consumers of his justly-famed COFFEE against purchasing imitations of his Packages. The fact that his Establishment is the largest in the kingdom, and his COFFEE most extensively consumed, has led numerous parties to attempt making up very inferior articles in the same style of Package; and some, to induce tradesmen to substitute their spurious article for that of JOHN CASSELL, offer a larger amount of profit. This has a tendency to prejudice the public, and hence the necessity of thus informing them that no Coffee can be the veritable JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE unless his signature is upon each Package. Go therefore to the Agent for JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, ask for JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, and see that it is JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE which is handed to you, having his Signature upon the Package. This is necessary, for there are numerous imitations, stringent and bitter to the palate, while JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE is rich and strong, at the same time that it is mellow and delicious, pleasing to the palate, and invigorating to the system.

The following are the prices at which they can be obtained:—

JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE , No. 1, an excellent article .....	1s. 4d.
JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE , No. 2, cannot fail to give great satisfaction, being a combination of the choicest growths of Jamaica, possessing richness, strength, and flavour .....	1s. 8d.
JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE , No. 3, to every Connoisseur in Coffee this will prove a treat, combining the finest mountain growths of both Jamaica and Turkey .....	2s. 6d.

JOHN CASSELL'S FIVE-SHILLING TEA.—This is a combination of the finest and most carefully-selected Teas, the produce of choice, young, and tender plants. It possesses not only strength, but a peculiar and delicious fragrance, which cannot fail to render it pleasant to the most fastidious palate and to the exquisite taste of the connoisseur. This may be had either wholly Black or Black and Green mixed. It is sold in Catty Packages only, containing from two ounces to one pound; and every package bears the signature of "JOHN CASSELL," without which none can be genuine.

JOHN CASSELL'S SOLUBLE COCOA.—This article is one of superior excellence, and is prepared only at the extensive STEAM MILLS of JOHN CASSELL, 80, FENCHURCH-STREET, London. It is a rich and nutritious article, at the same time the various properties of the Cocoa-nut are so combined as to make it agreeable to the most dyspeptic and admirably adapted to persons of a weak constitution.—Sold in  $\frac{1}{4}$  and  $\frac{1}{2}$  lb. packets, at 8d. and 1s. per lb., throughout the Kingdom, by the Agents for John Cassell's Coffees.

All applications for these valuable Agencies to be made direct to JOHN CASSELL, 80, FENCHURCH-STREET, LONDON.

Price 2d., or by post 3d.,

CAUTIONS and TESTIMONY against ODD FELLOWSHIP. By H. MUDGE, Surgeon, Bodmin.

Also, price 2s., or by post 2s. 6d., by the same author,

EXPOSURE of ODD FELLOWSHIP; showing its Immoral Tendency and Bankrupt Circumstances, and containing as well a large amount of information on the subject of Friendly Societies.

WHITTAKER, London; LIDDELL, Bodmin.

IMPORTANT TO HEADS OF FAMILIES, &c.

THE GUTTA PERCHA COMPANY have the pleasure to acknowledge the receipt of the following letter from Lieutenant ROUSE, R.N., Superintendent of the Greenwich Hospital Schools:—

"July 16th, 1850.

"I have, for the last three years, worn Gutta Percha Soles; and, from the comfort experienced in the wear generally, particularly in regard to dry feet, and also in durability and consequent economy, I was induced to recommend the Commissioners of Greenwich Hospital to sanction its use in this establishment, instead of leather soles. It has now been six months in general use here, so that I am, from experience in the wear and tear of Shoes for Eight Hundred Boys, able to speak with confidence as to its utility, which in my belief is very great; and I am looking forward to its being the means, during the next winter, of preventing chilblains, from which we have greatly suffered.

"I have much pleasure in giving this testimony; and you have my permission to make it as public as you please, in the belief that it cannot but be doing good.—Your obedient servant,

JOHN WOOD ROUSE.

From T. Richardson, Esq., Midford-house, Beckingham, near Bath. "I have worn Gutta Percha Soles, both in summer and winter, for the last two years, and have experienced much comfort and advantage from their use.

"I have made several pedestrian tours during that time, and I should suppose that I have walked not less than twelve hundred miles with Gutta Percha soles; I have, therefore, given them a fair trial, and can testify to their durability and warmth. There is not the least feeling of damp or coldness after walking for hours on wet and dirty roads.

"I think it may be well to add that, in warm weather, when a stiff sole was undesirable, and a very thin one not durable enough, I adopted an expedient which was attended with complete success—viz., I soled a light pair of boots with Gutta Percha, 3-16ths of an inch thick, and made two cracks across the tread of the foot, not quite through the Gutta Percha. I found that their waterproof quality and durability were not impaired by this, whilst their elasticity was most agreeable."

From the Rev. Jabez Burns, D.D., Paddington, London.

"I have worn the Gutta Percha Soles now for two winters, and, both on the ground of comfort and economy, I can most cordially recommend them."

Every variety of Gutta Percha articles manufactured by the GUTTA PERCHA COMPANY, Patentees, 18, Wharf-road, City-road, London; and sold by all wholesale dealers in town and country.

DR. CHEYNE'S COUGH AND PULMONIC

LOZENGES.—The fame of these Lozenges is fully established as the most pleasant and efficacious remedy that can be employed for the removal of coughs. To the asthmatic, or those who are afflicted with a difficulty of breathing, or a redundancy of phlegm, they give instant relief, by causing free expectoration. They allay the irritation attendant on all affections of the throat, and strengthen the lungs to resist the effects of sudden changes. They remove hoarseness and greatly improve the voice. They arrest, in its incipient stages, that fearful result of our variable atmosphere—consumption; and for diseases of the pulmonary organs a more safe and salutary remedy cannot be applied. For aged persons they are invaluable, and none, whose lungs are in the least degree susceptible of cold, ought to be without them. They afford relief in every case of cough, and where there is no physical disorganization they will effect a cure.

From Mr. John Noble, Bookseller, Agent at Boston.

"DEAR SIR,—A gentleman has just communicated to me such a remarkable cure of spasmodic asthma, of many years' standing, that I forward it to you for publication. He has frequently been laid aside from his business, and during the last winter was confined to his house for nine weeks, during which time he could not lie down in bed. Being induced to try Dr. Cheyne's Cough and Pulmonic Lozenges, he has experienced from them such a cure as he did not think possible. During six weeks that he has taken these invaluable Lozenges, his health has been better than for the last ten years. He can now lie down and sleep comfortably, enjoying his rest in bed from eight or nine at night until five in the morning. Instead of being confined to his room or bed, he says:—"I can now walk all round my farm, and attend to my business, with ease and comfort. I consulted many of the most eminent medical practitioners in the neighbourhood without avail; nothing ever made an impression on my complaint until I tried these Lozenges."

"I asked for a Testimonial, but he said, 'Having four medical men relatives, he could not allow his name to be published.' However, I obtained his permission to furnish this statement, which is nearly verbatim as delivered by him. I hope this 'plain, unvarnished tale' may stimulate other sufferers to try this valuable remedy."

To Mr. J. Everington, Church-street, Gainsborough.

"SIR,—I have been afflicted for years with a bad cough. I could not sleep at night, and sometimes coughed to that degree that the neighbours thought I should break a blood-vessel. I was induced to try a box of Dr. Cheyne's Lozenges, which was purchased at your shop; and after taking ten Lozenges, my cough left me. I give you leave to publish this statement for the benefit of others.—Blyton, near Gainsborough. "JANE HUNT."

CAUTION.—As a variety of Lozenges, Wafers, and Tablets are advertised, containing ingredients of an injurious nature, the public are particularly requested to ask for DR. CHEYNE'S COUGH AND PULMONIC LOZENGES, and to observe that the words, "DR. CHEYNE'S COUGH LOZENGES," are engraved on the Government Stamp, which, with Directions for Use, is wrapped round each box.

Sold in Boxes at 1s. 1/4, and 2s. 9d., each, by Messrs. Sutton, 10, Bow Church-yard; Barclay's, 95, Farringdon-street; Edwards, 67, St. Paul's Church-yard; Dietrichson and Co., 63, Oxford-street; Sanger, 150, Oxford-street; Johnson, 68, Cornhill; King, 34, Napier-street, Hoxton; Bolton and Co., York; Raines and Co., Edinburgh; and by at least one Agent in every town throughout the United Kingdom.

Printed and Published by WILLIAM CATRALL, of 59, Aldbury-road, Camberwell, Surrey, at his Printing Office, 335, Strand, London.

MONDAY, Sept. 3, 1850.

THE
TEETOTAL TIMES
AND ESSAYIST.

PUBLISHED MONTHLY.

No. XXXIV.—NEW SERIES.]

LONDON, OCTOBER, 1850.

(Price One Penny.
Stamped, Twopennee.)

THE FRIENDS of TEMPERANCE of the METROPOLIS and SUBURBS will take TEA together, and hold a PUBLIC MEETING in the LONDON TAVERN, BISHOPSGATE-STREET, on MONDAY, OCTOBER 14.

JOHN CASSELL, Esq., in the CHAIR.

The following distinguished advocates have been invited:—LAWRENCE HEYWORTH, Esq., M.P.; BENJAMIN ROTCH, Esq., one of her Majesty's Justices of the Peace for the County of Middlesex; J. S. BUCKINGHAM, Esq.; Rev. T. SPENCER, A.M.; Rev. W. W. ROBINSON, A.M.; P. W. PERFIT, Esq.; Rev. W. M'CREE; Rev. W. FORSTER; Rev. I. DOXSEY; D. D. GOURLEY, M.D.; GEORGE CRUKSHANK, Esq.; S. C. HALL, Esq.; MR. BENJAMIN GLOVER (of the National Temperance Society); and the Rev. Mr. COPWAY (Ka-ge-ga-gah-Bowh, formerly an Ojibway Chief).

The ADDRESSES will be interspersed with Temperance and other MELODIES, by a select CHORUS.

Tea, Coffee, &c., will be on the Table at Half-past Five o'Clock precisely.

Tickets for the above, 1s. 6d. each, may be had of the Treasurer, 335, Strand; Mr. C. Gilpin, 5, Bishopsgate-street Without; Mr. Phillips, 39, Moorgate-street; Mr. Tweedie, Falcon-street, Aldersgate; Mr. Mathew, 14, Ivy-lane; Mrs. Watts, Temperance Hotel, Catherine-street, Strand; Messrs. Wilson and Campbell, 51, Blackfriars-road; Mr. J. P. Draper, 88, Great Titchfield-street; Mr. E. Griffiths, 8, Southampton-street, Pentonville; Mr. Prebble, Camberwell-grove; Mr. E. Tisdell, Church-street, Kensington; Mr. J. W. Green, 4, Brighton-place, Hackney-road; Mr. W. Spriggs, 10, South-street, West-square, Lambeth; Mr. Tackley, Weir's-passage, Somers-town; Mr. J. H. Esterbrooke, 2, Upper Crown-street, St. James's-park; and Mr. S. Catton, Plaistow; or of any Member of the Committee.

MODERATION v. TEETOTALISM.

All who wish to hear BOTH sides of the 'question should read No. 6, price 3d., of

THE BRITISH CONTROVERSIALIST and IMPARTIAL INQUIRER; which also contains Debates on the Union of Church and State, Universal Suffrage, Phrenology, &c.

London: HOULSTON and STONEMAN, and of all Booksellers.

Price 5s. cloth,

THE HYDROPATHIC TREATMENT of the DISEASES of WOMEN, of WOMEN in CHILDBED, and on the MANAGEMENT of INFANTS. By EDWARD JOHNSON, M.D.

"If treated in this way, the numerous diseases to which they are prone would be seldom heard of, while their sufferings would be rendered quite inconsiderable."—Page 136.

London: SIMPKIN, MARSHALL, and CO.

PEOPLE'S EDITION, PRICE ONLY FOURPENCE.

AN UNABRIDGED TRANSLATION, by A. R. SCOBLE, Esq., of M. GUIZOT'S celebrated Work, entitled "The CAUSES of the SUCCESS of the ENGLISH REVOLUTION in 1640-88," neatly printed on good paper. To which is added a Biographical Sketch of the Author. This Publication contains more matter than the Volume published at Six Shillings.

London: JOHN CASSELL, 335, Strand. Order of all Booksellers.

PUBLIC TESTIMONIAL TO DR. EDWARD JOHNSON.

AT a Preliminary Meeting, held at Morley's Hotel, Trafalgar-square, London, on Saturday, the 30th day of July, 1850, of some of the Friends and Patients of Dr. Edward Johnson, of Umberlade-hall, it was proposed and agreed that a PUBLIC TESTIMONIAL should be presented to that Gentleman, as a token of the high sense they entertain of the great service rendered to the cause of HYDROPATHY by his many talented works upon the subject, and by his unwearied attention to the cases placed under his care. The following Gentlemen were elected to form a Committee:—

J. J. ROBINSON, Esq.	ALEXANDER, MILLAR, Esq.
EDWARD GREAVES, Esq.	COLONEL JOHNSON.
J. M. BURTON, Esq.	RICHARD GREAVES, Esq.

Such of the Friends of Dr. Johnson and of the cause of Hydropathy as may feel desirous of furthering this object are requested to address their communications to the Hon. Secretary, Mr. Edward Cooke, Warwick.

Subscriptions will be received by the Secretary; or at Messrs Glyn and Co.'s, Bankers, 67, Lombard-street, London; or at Messrs Greenway and Greaves, Bankers, Warwick.

LIST OF SUBSCRIPTIONS.

£ s. d.	£ s. d.
J. J. Robinson, Esq. .... 20 0 0	A Friend ..... 10 10 0
Col. Johnson ..... 5 5 0	Mrs. Greaves ..... 5 5 0
Alex. Miller, Esq. .... 10 0 0	R. Greaves, Esq. .... 1 1 0
Mr. Cooke ..... 5 5 0	Mr. Tayler ..... 0 10 6
S. V. Walter, Esq. .... 0 10 6	George Burnell, Esq. .. 1 1 0
Henry Tucker, Esq. .. 5 5 0	A Stirlingshire Patient . 3 3 0
Joseph Tucker, Esq. . 5 5 0	Mrs. E. Frewen Turner. 2 2 0
Mrs. Young ..... 1 1 0	Mr. F. J. Browne ..... 0 10 6
Mr. S. Mallory ..... 3 3 0	J. M. Burton, Esq. .... 1 1 0
C. Williams, Esq. .... 1 1 0	George Balfour, Esq. . . 5 0 0
Sir Wm. Hoste, Bart. . 1 0 0

THE BEST AND CHEAPEST BOOK ON THE TEMPERANCE QUESTION.

BURNE'S TEETOTALER'S COMPANION, with Dr. Sewell's Coloured Plates of the Stomach, royal octavo, handsomely bound in cloth, is now selling at 6s.; with the Wine Question, 7s. 6d.; or in Numbers, 2d. each; Parts, 9d. each.

London: SIMPKIN, MARSHALL, and CO., and all Booksellers.

CHEAPER, WITH AN ENGRAVING OF A DOMESTIC STEAM-BATH,

Sewed, 1s. 6d.; cloth, 2s.,

ATMOPATHY and HYDROPATHY; or, HOW to CURE DISEASES by STEAM and WATER. With a Chapter showing the remarkable efficacy of Steam in the Cure of Asiatic Cholera; with Testimonials and Cases. By DAVID ROSS, of Manchester.

London: SIMPKIN, MARSHALL, and CO., and may be had of all Booksellers.

Just published, in foolscap 8vo, cloth lettered, 2s. 6d.; stiff covers, 2s.,

THE TASK of the AGE; an Inquiry into the Condition of the Working Classes, and the Means of their Moral and Social Elevation. By D. G. PAINE, Author of the Prize Essays in the first and third numbers of the "Teetotal Essayist," the National Temperance Society's Prize Essay, "Scaffolding for Teetotal Societies," &c.

London: HOULSTON and STONEMAN, Paternoster-row. G. GALLIE, Glasgow.

THE MORAL, SOCIAL, AND POLITICAL CONDITION OF IRELAND. PRIZE OF TWO HUNDRED GUINEAS.

PRELIMINARY ANNOUNCEMENT.

Mr. JOHN CASSELL proposes to offer the sum of Two HUNDRED GUINEAS for the best Essay on the Moral, Social, and Political Condition of Ireland. It must discuss the following topics, namely:—

1st. The Nature, Extent, and Causes of Existing Evils, Moral, Social, and Political, as evidenced in the present condition of the Irish People.

2nd. The natural advantages possessed by Ireland as to Geographical Position, Climate, and Soil; and to what extent these have been neglected or improved.

3rd. The Means by which the Industry and Wealth of Ireland may be increased, her Tranquillity secured, and her Social Position rendered equal to that of Great Britain; whether these desirable results are to be attained by a development of the energies of her own People, and how far they can be promoted by Legislative measures.

CONDITIONS.

The Essay should be written in a concise and compendious style, and should not exceed in quantity 300 pages of Long Primer leaded, in demy octavo.

The Essay to be the property of the Donor, who, being the Proprietor of a London Newspaper, the STANDARD OF FREEDOM, and anxious to bring the facts gathered before the British Public, will, in the first instance, publish the Essay in successive Numbers of that Paper. He will afterwards, if desirable, publish it in a separate Volume.

Essays intended for competition must be sent in not later than May 1, 1851. Each Essay must have some peculiar signature or motto, and be accompanied by a sealed note, containing the real name and address. The note of the successful Competitor not to be opened until the Adjudicators have given their decision. The Manuscripts to be sent to Mr. JOHN CASSELL, 80, Fenchurch-street, London; or, under cover to that address, to Mr. J. B. GILPIN, 59, Dame-street, Dublin.

A Committee of Adjudicators is in the course of formation, comprising gentlemen of influence, character, and knowledge of the subject.

TO ALL PERSONS INTERESTED IN THE WELFARE OF IRELAND.

THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM, commencing from Saturday next, September 28th, will contain, weekly, the Communications of a SPECIAL COMMISSIONER, who has proceeded to Ireland on a Mission, having for its object an Investigation of the Condition of the People—their Social Position—the State of Parties—the Working of the Encumbered Estate Act—the Peculiarities involved in the Land Question—and the Prospects which Ireland presents for the Investment of Capital. This Investigation is undertaken by the Proprietor of the STANDARD OF FREEDOM, in the hope that the Resources of Ireland may be adequately Developed, and its Prosperity greatly Promoted.

THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM is one of the largest-sized Papers allowed by law. It has been pronounced by competent judges to be one of the best Newspapers of the day. It is a faithful Chronicler of leading Events throughout Great Britain and Europe. It is eminently a Family Paper. And it is the vigorous and determined Advocate of Freedom, political, commercial, and religious.—It is published weekly, at 5d. per Number, or 5s. 5d. per Quarter in advance.

OFFICE, 335, STRAND, LONDON, AND 59, DAME-STREET, DUBLIN.

Will be ready by November 1,

THE NATIONAL ALMANACK FOR IRELAND, for 1851, Price THREEPENCE,

Containing, independently of Advertisements, 112 pages, crown octavo.

This Almanack will be one of the cheapest and most extraordinary publications of the day. It will contain a Calendar, calculated specially for this publication—the Rising and Setting of the Sun—ditto of the Moon—Time of High Water at Dublin, &c.—Phases of the Moon—Ephemeris of the principal Planets—the Chronological Cycles—Fixed and Movable Feasts—Law and College Terms—Fairs of Ireland, including the Frieze and Linen Markets—Savings' Banks and Tables of Interest—Towns of Ireland and their Population—Postage Bill and other Stamps—Railways, extent and fares—List of Banks, Periodicals, Lights and Light-houses—Marriages, Births, and Deaths, &c. &c.—Besides this it will form a complete work on EMIGRATION, adapted especially for Emigrants from Ireland; the price of Land in the United States and Canada—Cost of clearing and cultivating—Distances and mode of conveyance to the different States and districts—Cost of transit from stage to stage—Advice as to sailing, landing, &c. &c., so as to furnish a Hand-book to all intending Emigrants.

N.B. ADVERTISEMENTS intended for the NATIONAL ALMANACK must be sent in by the 15th of October—a circulation of 20,000 guaranteed—to Mr. J. B. GILPIN, 59, Dame-street, Dublin.

THE CHEAPEST HISTORY OF ENGLAND EVER ISSUED FROM THE PRESS.

The Fifth and Sixth Volumes of JOHN CASSELL'S LIBRARY will be ready by the 1st of Oct., being the First Two Volumes of a
NEW AND POPULAR HISTORY OF ENGLAND,

By Dr. ROBERT FERGUSON, of Ryde.

It will be completed in four monthly volumes, each containing one hundred and forty-four pages, price SIXPENCE, or in two double volumes, price 1s. 4d. each. It will be seen, therefore, that this History of England, containing five hundred and seventy-six pages, will be obtainable for 2s., or for 2s. 8d. neatly bound in cloth: At the same time it will form one of the most able and interesting works ever issued from the press: the object of Dr. Ferguson in this History being not merely to exhibit a record of the actions of Kings and Cabinets, but to present a faithful and instructive HISTORY OF THE PEOPLE, with their progress in industrial arts and social amelioration.

SAILINGS OVER THE GLOBE;

OR, THE PROGRESS OF MARITIME DISCOVERY.

(Upwards of 20,000 copies of this work have already been sold.)

These form the First and Second Volumes of JOHN CASSELL'S LIBRARY, and contain: The Rise and Progress of Navigation—Early Discoveries of the Portuguese—Voyages of Vasco de Gama, Mendez Pinto, and Magellan—Eastern Enterprises of the English, and first Circumnavigation of the Globe—the Four Voyages of Columbus—Cortez and the Conquest of Mexico—Pizarro and the Discovery of Peru—Voyages and Discoveries of Commodore Byron—Captain Wallis—Captain Cook—Early Polar Expeditions—Recent Voyages and Discoveries of Scoresby, Farry, Ross, and Franklin. Price Sixpence each volume; or the two, neatly bound in one, in cloth boards, 1s. 4d.

FOOTPRINTS OF TRAVELLERS,

Forming the Third and Fourth Volumes of the Series, contain: Capel de Brooke's Travels in Norway, Sweden, and Lapland—Lyall's Travels in the Crimea, the Caucasus, and Georgia—Inglis's Travels in the Tyrol—Travels among the Tartars by the Ambassador of the Pope, and also by Zwick and Schill—Burnes's Travels in Bokhara—Heber's Travels in India—Travels of Bruce to the Sources of the Nile—Park's Travels to the Banks of the Niger—Denham and Clapperton's Travels in Africa—Humbolt's Travels in the New Continent of America—Franklin's Journey towards the Polar Sea—Stephens's Travels in Central America—Travels of Louis and Clarke to explore the Missouri. Price Sixpence each Volume; or the two, neatly bound in one, in cloth boards, 1s. 4d.

JOHN CASSELL'S LIBRARY will be completed in Twenty-four Monthly Volumes at Sixpence each, or Twelve Double Volumes, or neatly bound in cloth, 1s. 4d. each. This Library will include Original Works of the highest character, including History, Biography, and General Science. The HISTORY OF ENGLAND will be followed by a New BIOGRAPHICAL DICTIONARY for the People, by Dr. J. R. BEARD. This Dictionary will be completed in Three Monthly Volumes, each containing 144 pages, price Sixpence; or in One Volume, containing Four Hundred and Thirty-two pages, neatly bound in cloth, price 2s.

ALMANACKS FOR 1851.

THE FINANCIAL REFORM ALMANACK AND FREEHOLDERS' MANUAL FOR 1851,

Will be ready with the November Magazines. Price THREEPENCE.

This Almanack, besides the Calendar, and all other matter pertaining to Almanacks, will contain a variety of original articles and statistics, showing the income and expenditure of the Government, the influence of taxation on the trade and industry of the country, the progress made in the great work of Financial Reform, &c. &c. In addition, it will contain a mass of interesting, useful, and practical information on the Freehold Land Movement. The nature of the Forty-shilling Franchise; the state of the Counties, and the progress made by every Society in the kingdom, up to the date of publication, will be shown. It will be compiled from documents accessible exclusively to the Editor, and will form the only complete guide to Freehold Land Societies which has ever been published. The FINANCIAL REFORM ALMANACK for 1850 reached a sale of 35,000. The circulation for 1851 is expected greatly to exceed that number.

Advertisements for this Almanack cannot be received later than October 12th.

Will be ready also at the same time, price THREEPENCE, printed on sixty-four pages, crown octavo,

THE PROTESTANT DISSENTERS' ALMANACK FOR 1851.

This Almanack is devoted to the elucidation and advocacy of the great principles of Religious Freedom. In addition to the information common to Almanacks, it contains a mass of Statistics of the various Religious Denominations and Societies of the kingdom; Lists of Chapels occupied by Independents and Baptists in the Metropolis, with the Names of the Ministers, and the hours of service. Also, a Series of Original Papers upon the principal topics and events of interest in connection with Religious Freedom. The previous impressions of this Almanack attained a popularity to which very few similar publications can lay claim.

All advertisements for THE PROTESTANT DISSENTERS' ALMANACK should be received not later than October 12th.

Will be ready by November 1, Price FOURPENCE,

THE EMIGRANT'S ALMANACK FOR 1851.

This Almanack will be one of the most comprehensive and complete ever published in connection with the subject of Emigration. It will abound with practical hints for Emigrants of every degree. Every possible care has been taken to insure its entire accuracy.

Advertisements for this Almanack must be sent by October 12th.

Also, will be ready by the middle of October, price ONE PENNY, with Engravings, neatly printed on Thirty-two pages, crown 8vo,

THE TEMPERANCE ALMANACK FOR 1851.

Besides the usual Calendar and Almanack matter, this will contain valuable information as to the principle and practice of Total Abstinence from Intoxicating Liquors, the progress of the Temperance Movement, and other articles interesting to Teetotalers.

Now ready,

THE PEOPLE'S ALMANACK FOR 1851,

Printed on Thirty-six pages, crown octavo, price ONE PENNY.

This Almanack contains a mass of matter of deep interest to the People of England: List of Fairs, choice Family Receipts, useful Statistics, &c. &c. A liberal discount allowed to the Trade.

N.B.—An Edition will be published expressly for Scotland, which can be ordered of Menzies, Edinburgh; Robinson, do.; Gallie, Glasgow; Love, do.; &c.

THE MOST REMARKABLE PUBLICATION OF THE DAY.

THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND AND FAMILY INSTRUCTOR is published Weekly, and contains Thirty-two pages, crown octavo, price One Penny.

VOLUMES I., II., and III., price 1s. 6d. each, containing each THIRTEEN WEEKLY NUMBERS, neatly bound in cloth, are NOW READY. This work abounds in valuable and interesting information, and is admirably adapted, as a gift or prize-book, for families or educational institutions.

MONTHLY PARTS are regularly published, price Sixpence, containing Four Weekly Numbers, besides the SUPPLEMENTARY NUMBER for the Month, which is uniform in size and price with the Weekly Numbers, and is devoted entirely to communications from Working Men. As an encouragement to literary exertion on the part of the working classes, valuable books are awarded to those whose compositions are considered worthy of insertion. Seven numbers have now been published, and have elicited the highest encomiums from all quarters, including several Members of Parliament.

THE OPERATIVE CLASSES:

THEIR TRIALS, SUFFERINGS, AND VIRTUES.

A new and highly-interesting feature has recently been introduced into THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND AND FAMILY INSTRUCTOR. JOHN CASSELL offers ONE HUNDRED POUNDS, in Premiums of TEN POUNDS each, for TEN pithy SKETCHES, TALES, or NARRATIVES, illustrative of the Trials, Sufferings, and Patient Endurance of the Industrial Classes, in connexion with various systems.

The First of the Series, "ON THE CONDITION OF THE OMNIBUS DRIVERS AND CONDUCTORS OF THE METROPOLIS," written by Miss Meteyard, (better known to the literary world as "Silverpen,") was published in Numbers 32 and 32 of THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND, issued August 3rd and 10th.

The Second, containing a Narrative exhibiting the privations and sufferings consequent upon the "SWEATING SYSTEM," in connection with the Tailoring Trade, with practical remedial suggestions, appeared in Numbers 37, 38, and 39, for the weeks ending September 14, 21, and 28.

The Third, on the FACTORY SYSTEM, will appear in October. The remainder of the Series—Journymen Bakers—Colliers and Miners—The Stockingers of Leicester and Notts—Needlewomen—Sale Furniture and Cabinet Making—Spitalfields Weavers—Agricultural Labourers—Drapers' Assistants, &c., will follow in due course.

PRIZE ESSAY.

Just published, price 1s. 6d., in a stiff wrapper; or bound in cloth, 2s.

THE WORKING CLASSES of GREAT BRITAIN; their Present Condition, and the Means of their Improvement and Elevation.

PRIZE ESSAY.

To which is added an Appendix. By the Rev. SAMUEL G. GREEN, A.B., of Taunton.

A Prize of Fifty Pounds was offered by Mr. John Cassell for the best Essay upon the above subject, the adjudicators being the Rev. T. Spencer, A.M.; Edward Miall, Esq.; and Edward Swaine, Esq.; and was unanimously awarded to the above gentleman, his Essay being selected from almost fifty others.

CAUTION RESPECTING JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE.

JOHN CASSELL finds it necessary to caution the Consumers of his justly-famed COFFEE against purchasing imitations of his Packages. The fact that his Establishment is the largest in the kingdom, and his COFFEE most extensively consumed, has led numerous parties to attempt making up very inferior articles in the same style of Package; and some, to induce tradesmen to substitute their spurious article for that of JOHN CASSELL, offer a larger amount of profit. This has a tendency to prejudice the public, and hence the necessity of thus informing them that no Coffee can be the veritable JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE unless his signature is upon each Package. Go therefore to the Agent for JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, ask for JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, and see that it is JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE which is handed to you, having his Signature upon the Package. This is necessary, for there are numerous imitations, stringent and bitter to the palate, while JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE is rich and strong, at the same time that it is mellow and delicious, pleasing to the palate, and invigorating to the system.

The following are the prices at which they can be obtained:—

JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE , No. 1, an excellent article .....	1s. 4d.
JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE , No. 2, cannot fail to give great satisfaction, being a combination of the choicest growths of Jamaica, possessing richness, strength, and flavour .....	1s. 8d.
JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE , No. 3, to every Connoisseur in Coffee this will prove a treat, combining the finest mountain growths of both Jamaica and Turkey .....	3s. 0d.

JOHN CASSELL'S FIVE-SHILLING TEA.—This is a combination of the finest and most carefully-selected Teas, the produce of choice, young, and tender plants. It possesses not only strength, but a peculiar and delicious fragrance, which cannot fail to render it pleasant to the most fastidious palate and to the exquisite taste of the connoisseur. This may be had either wholly Black or Black and Green mixed. It is sold in Catty Packages only, containing from two ounces to one pound; and every package bears the signature of "JOHN CASSELL," without which none can be genuine.

JOHN CASSELL'S SOLUBLE COCOA.—This article is one of superior excellence, and is prepared only at the extensive STEAM MILLS of JOHN CASSELL, 80, FENCHURCH-STREET, London. It is a rich and nutritious article, at the same time the various properties of the Cocoa-nut are so combined as to make it agreeable to the most dyspeptic and admirably adapted to persons of a weak constitution.—Sold in  $\frac{1}{2}$  and  $\frac{1}{4}$  lb packets, at 8d. and 1s. per lb., throughout the Kingdom, by the Agents for John Cassell's Coffees.

All applications for these valuable Agencies to be made direct to JOHN CASSELL, 80, FENCHURCH-STREET, LONDON.

Price 3d., or by post 3d.,

CAUTIONS and TESTIMONY against ODD FELLOWSHIP. By H. MUDGE, Surgeon, Bodmin.

Also, price 2s., or by post 2s. 6d., by the same author,

EXPOSURE of ODD FELLOWSHIP; showing its Immoral Tendency and Bankrupt Circumstances, and containing as well a large amount of information on the subject of Friendly Societies.

WHITTAKER, London; LIDDELL, Bodmin.

IMPORTANT TO HEADS OF FAMILIES, &c.

THE GUTTA PERCHA COMPANY have the pleasure to acknowledge the receipt of the following letter from Lieutenant ROUSE, R.N., Superintendent of the Greenwich Hospital Schools:—

"July 16th, 1850.

"I have, for the last three years, worn Gutta Percha Soles; and, from the comfort experienced in the wear generally, particularly in regard to dry feet, and also in durability and consequent economy, I was induced to recommend the Commissioners of Greenwich Hospital to sanction its use in this establishment, instead of leather soles. It has now been six months in general use here, so that I am, from experience in the wear and tear of Shoes for Eight Hundred Boys, able to speak with confidence as to its utility, which in my belief is very great; and I am looking forward to its being the means, during the next winter, of preventing chilblains, from which we have greatly suffered.

"I have much pleasure in giving this testimony; and you have my permission to make it as public as you please, in the belief that it cannot but be doing good.—Your obedient servant,

"JOHN WOOD ROUSE."

From T. Richardson, Esq., Midford-house, Beckingham, near Bath.

"I have worn Gutta Percha Soles, both in summer and winter, for the last two years, and have experienced much comfort and advantage from their use.

"I have made several pedestrian tours during that time, and I should suppose that I have walked not less than twelve hundred miles with Gutta Percha soles; I have, therefore, given them a fair trial, and can testify to their durability and warmth. There is not the least feeling of damp or coldness after walking for hours on wet and dirty roads.

"I think it may be well to add that, in warm weather, when a stiff sole was undesirable, and a very thin one not durable enough, I adopted an expedient which was attended with complete success—viz., I soled a light pair of boots with Gutta Percha,  $\frac{3}{16}$ ths of an inch thick, and made two cracks across the tread of the foot, not quite through the Gutta Percha. I found that their waterproof quality and durability were not impaired by this, whilst their elasticity was most agreeable."

From the Rev. Jabez Burns, D.D., Paddington, London.

"I have worn the Gutta Percha Soles now for two winters, and, both on the ground of comfort and economy, I can most cordially recommend them."

Every variety of Gutta Percha articles manufactured by the GUTTA PERCHA COMPANY, Patentees, 18, Wharf-road, City-road, London; and sold by all wholesale dealers in town and country.

FORTH'S COMMERCIAL and FAMILY BOARDING ESTABLISHMENT, 33, LUDGATE HILL, LONDON, is now open for the reception of Visitors.

Its characteristics will be, the most scrupulous cleanliness, a sincere desire to meet the wishes of its patrons, and to render it, in all particulars, a respectable, comfortable home.

The situation is in the centre of London. Omnibusses pass the house every minute through the day, and it is within a few minutes' walk of the principal steam-boat piers.

Terms, 4s. 6d. per day for Bed, Breakfast, and Tea, servants included; Dinners are an extra, but reasonable charge.

Conducted on Temperance Principles.

LAMPLOUGH'S EFFERVESCING

LYRETIC SALTS is the best, finest, and most grateful Summer Drink in the world. Unlike aerated waters, it leaves no sense of extreme coldness in the stomach, the precursor of spasms, cramp, or inflammation. It supplies the waste of the fluids arising from excessive perspiration, and affords, by its saline properties, the demand which such constant and active secretions draw from the system. It allays thirst in a most remarkable manner, whilst at the same time it cools, refreshes, and invigorates. It is perfectly tasteless. Children and Invalids drink it with avidity; and it is frequently introduced at and immediately after dinner, instead of stimulating liquors, to which it is, in every respect, superior. It can be flavoured to the taste of the most fastidious, and, whenever introduced, will displace every other description of dinner beverage. For Invalids it is invaluable. In cases of Fever and Cholera it is the only panacea. Thousands of patients can be referred to for its curative properties, and hundreds of Testimonials can be inspected—the most marked and decisive—from public institutions, physicians, surgeons, the public press, and individuals in every grade of life. This preparation is the result of careful chemical analyses, study, and experiment. It is based on the laws which regulate, and is assimilated to the deposit found in the fluids in the human body, and which are called, by chemists, "the salt in the blood." These salts are wasted by heat, sickness, or labour, causing enervation, liability to disease, and extreme thirst, and all the usually recognised symptoms of typhus cholera. By using the Effervescing Salines this loss is replaced, thirst allayed, fever assuaged, cholera effectually cured, and the health and happiness of the patient promoted. A single trial is earnestly solicited from all hitherto unacquainted with its properties, as the discovery is of the first importance; and it is unhesitatingly placed before the profession and the world as the best and cheapest preventive and restorative for those diseases which medical skill and science can produce.

Sold only by H. LAMPLOUGH, Chemist, Snow-hill; and by all Chemists and Medicine-vendors throughout the kingdom, in Bottles, at 1s. 6d., 4s. 6d., and 10s. 6d. each.

Be particular in observing "H. LAMPLOUGH" on the label and stamp.

Printed and Published by WILLIAM CATHRALL, of 59, Albany-road, Camberwell, Surrey, at his Printing Office, 235, Strand, London.

TUESDAY, Oct. 1, 1850.

THE
TEETOTAL TIMES
AND ESSAYIST.

PUBLISHED MONTHLY.

No. XXXV.—NEW SERIES.]

LONDON, NOVEMBER, 1850.

{ Price One Penny.
‡ Stamped, Twopence.

PHYSIOLOGICAL LECTURES, WITH SPLENDID ILLUSTRATIONS.

THE Committee of the NATIONAL TEMPERANCE SOCIETY have pleasure in announcing that they have arranged with THOMAS IRVING WHITE, Esq., to deliver a Course of his highly popular and valuable PHYSIOLOGICAL LECTURES, at the Theatre of the CITY of LONDON LITERARY and SCIENTIFIC INSTITUTION, Aldersgate-street, on THURSDAY EVENINGS, NOVEMBER 14th, 21st, and 28th.

The Lectures will be illustrated by numerous Illuminated Diagrams, copies from nature, and large as life, by means of the Hydro-Oxygen Lenses and Dissolving Apparatus, forming a most instructive and attractive exposition of this important science.

The Lectures will commence each Evening at Eight o'Clock.—Admission, 6d. each. Reserved seats for ladies.

On the 1st of October was published (to be continued monthly), price One Penny, number 1 of the

SUSSEX TEMPERANCE JOURNAL, containing the Monthly Proceedings of the Temperance Cause through Sussex, and other matter equally interesting and instructive.

The November number contains a report of a Lecture delivered by Mrs. Hardwick in the Town-hall, Brighton, October 17, and the report of the Annual Meeting of Members, &c.

Brighton: Published by C. VERRALL, 8, Prince Albert-street; ARTHUR MORRIS, jun., Cliffe, Lewes; and M. and S. HIGHAM, 45, Chiswell-street, London.

November 15 will be published, price TWOPENCE,

A VOICE FROM PRISONS and PENITENTIARIES. Respectfully addressed to the TEACHERS and SUPPORTERS of SABBATH-SCHOOLS.

London: JOHN CASSELL, 335, Strand.

THIRD AND CHEAP EDITION.

In a few days, in 12mo, 550 pages, cloth, 6s.,

THE DOMESTIC PRACTICE of HYDRO-PATHY. By EDWARD JOHNSON, M.D.

The 8vo Edition, with Portrait, Preliminary Remarks, &c., sells 12s.

London: SIMPKIN, MARSHALL, and CO.

CHEAPER EDITIONS.

ALCOHOL: WHAT IT DOES, and WHAT IT CANNOT DO. By WALTER JOHNSON, M.B. Price Twopence.

The AGE that's COMING; or, the Model Parish the Hope of the Nation. By PETER BURNE. Price Twopence.

CONFESSIONS of a CONVERT from TEETOTALISM. By a late TEETOTAL ADVOCATE. Price Threepence.

London: SIMPKIN, MARSHALL, and CO.

Price 2d., or by post 3d.,

CAUTIONS and TESTIMONY against ODD FELLOWSHIP. By H. MUDGE, Surgeon, Bodmin.

Also, price 2s., or by post 2s. 6d., by the same author,

EXPOSURE of ODD FELLOWSHIP; showing its Immoral Tendency and Bankrupt Circumstances, and containing as well a large amount of information on the subject of Friendly Societies.

WHITTAKER, London; LIDDELL, Bodmin.

THE PATHWAY: A NEW MONTHLY MAGAZINE.

Among the characteristics of the age, no one can have failed to be impressed with its deeper life—its more profound thoughts—its wider views—its scientific and religious tendencies—and hence its most earnest longings for that species of education and literature which will meet the necessities of an advanced humanity. Here a desideratum has long been felt, and the want of it long deplored. Our periodical religious literature is capable of great extension, and of equal improvement. With a view of supplying, in some degree, this desideratum, there will be published, on the First of JANUARY, 1851, the First Number of a New Religious Magazine, to be entitled

THE PATHWAY,

In Twenty-eight pages octavo, price Three-halfpence, to be continued Monthly.

The articles will be furnished by writers of known talent, and will be characterized no less by their nervous and manly style, than by the directness and force of their truth. Among other subjects, the following will claim precedence:—

I.—THE BIBLE AND ITS CLAIMS.—Under this head will be found the most rigid modes of investigation into the character, pretensions, and claims of Divine Revelation; an examination of theological dogmas—the principles of sound and honest interpretation—criticism—popular and practical exposition.

II.—BIBLICAL GEOGRAPHY.—This will include the topical description of Palestine and other Oriental Countries:—their climate—their natural productions—the manners and customs of the people—with such facts in the history of the places and their population as may tend to illustrate and confirm the inspired records.

III.—HISTORY—SACRED AND PROFANE.—The object here will be to give such a connected view of events as to make it appear that they are all but so many parts of one great Divine plan.

IV.—CHRISTIAN PHILOSOPHY.—In this department the aim will be to bring all the facts of physical, mental, and moral science into connection with Christian truth, and to show their harmony with the higher and more certain teachings of the Book of God.

V.—BIOGRAPHY.—This will embrace characteristic sketches of those who have been eminent for intellectual and moral worth, and whose lives have been devoted to the higher interests of humanity.

VI.—MISCELLANIES.—These will include brief notices of all benevolent and religious movements; questions affecting the practical working of the Sabbath-school system; the progress of education; sound and useful maxims; poetry; and such subjects as may be deemed generally interesting and instructive.

The Work will be found exceedingly useful to the Teachers and elder Scholars of our Day and Sunday Schools, and will furnish an ever-accumulating fund of knowledge to the younger branches of the domestic circle.

London: JOHN CASSELL, 335, Strand.

DEPOT FOR TEMPERANCE BOOKS, TRACTS, PERIODICALS, &c.,

No. 11, North Wellington-street, Strand, London.

WILLIAM TWEEDIE, having removed from 3, Falcon-street, to the above convenient Premises, begs to return his sincere thanks to his numerous friends and the public generally for the patronage hitherto bestowed, and most respectfully solicits a continuance of their esteemed favours.

Books in all the branches of literature kept in stock and duly supplied. Societies and the trade treated with on the usual terms. Country orders attended to with punctuality and dispatch. Pledge Books, Hymn Books, &c.

GRAND SAX-HORN CONCERTS.

TEMPERANCE SOCIETIES desirous of engaging the celebrated SHAPCOTT FAMILY are respectfully requested to communicate with W. TWEEDIE, Bookseller, 11, North Wellington-street, Strand, London.

A CATALOGUE OF IPSWICH
TEMPERANCE PUBLICATIONS.

ALL these, whether Books, Tracts, Hand-bills, or Notice Papers, are sold in SIXPENNY PACKETS. Fifty Packets of either will be delivered to any address in London, for a Guinea, sent by Post-office Order to Richard Dykes Alexander Ipswich; or they may be had of any Bookseller in the country through Simpkin, Marshall, and Co., Stationers-hall-court, London.

IPSWICH JUVENILE TEMPERANCE BOOKS,
32mo, nearly all with Pictures.

[These are now sold ONLY in Assorted Packets.]

Assorted Packet, No. 1, contains No. 1 to 16. Assorted Packet, No. 2, contains No. 17 to 32. Assorted Packet, No. 3, contains No. 33 to 46.

HAND-BILLS FOR PUBLIC MEETINGS.

Nine inches by six. On the back of each is a Temperance Tract. Fifty for Sixpence.

NOTICE PAPERS.

With the same form as the Hand-bills. The opinions of eminent persons on Teetotalism on the back of each. Two Hundred for Sixpence.

IPSWICH TEMPERANCE TRACTS.

Those Tracts marked with an * have Pictures. Pages.

1 The Doctor Scrutinized, by R. D. Alexander, F.L.S.	8
2 Striking Facts, ditto	2
2 Maker and Vender, ditto	2
4 Our Creed, ditto	2
* 5 Adulterated Beer, ditto	4
* 6 Adulterated Wine, ditto	4
7 The Maltster, ditto	4
8 Go Feel what I have Felt	2
9 Facts are stubborn Things	2
* 10 The Spirit Dealer	2
11 Christian Teetotalism, by R. D. Alexander	2
12 The Trade, ditto	4
13 Alcohol, ditto	4
14 Town of Ipswich, ditto	4
* 15 Song of the Water Drinker	2
16 Stimulation not Strength	8
17 Farmer Woodman	4
* 18 The Beer Barrel	4
19 Teetotal Recipes	4
* 20 Speech of J. J. Gurney	4
21 Pity the Poor Drunkard	2
* 22 The Fool's Pence	8
23 Why am I a Teetotaler?	4
* 24 Dost thou Smoke, Bill?	4
25 The Landanum Drinker	4
26 The Ox Discourse	4
27 Letter to the Clergy	20
28 Common Sense	20
29 Ralph the Soldier	4
30 Testimony of Physicians	4
31 The Working Man	20
32 Is I not happy?	4
33 David the Shoemaker, by R. D. Alexander	4
34 The Drunken Couple, ditto	2
35 Confessions of a Drunkard	4
36 Master Tailor, by R. D. Alexander	4
* 37 The Fatal Gift	4
38 Poor Sandy	2
39 Use and Abuse, by Archdeacon Jeffries	4
40 The Schoolmaster	4
41 Water is Best, by J. J. Gurney	4
42 Cobbett's Advice	4
43 Take a Public-house	4
* 44 A Sailor's Yarn	4
45 Moderate Drinking	12
46 The Pledge	4
* 47 John Jarvis	12
48 The Fifteen Friends	4
49 Sunday-School Teachers	12
50 Sunday-School Children	12
51 Money better than Beer	4
* 52 Little Mary	8
53 Philosophy of Temperance, by R. D. Trail, M.D.	20
54 Love to Man	20
* 55 Young Woman's Tract	12
56 Young Man's Tract	16
57 Dr. Campbell's Testimony	8
58 Why sign the Pledge?	2
59 The Poor Man's House Repaired	4
60 The Mother's Tract	8
61 The High Price of Food	4
62 Ladies' Tract Societies	8
63 The Praise of Water	2
64 Important Calculations	2
* 65 The Farm Servant	2
66 Teetotalism Declining	8
* 67 The Reformed Drunkard	8
68 The Recruit	8
69 No. 1 of Anecdotes	12
70 No. 2 ditto	12
71 No. 3 ditto	12
72 No. 4 ditto	12
73 Luke Husler	8
74 The Drunkard's Wife	12
75 The Unexplored Island	4
76 Ancient Wines, by R. D. Alexander	8

	Pages.
77 Influence of Example	2
* 78 The Victim of Excitement	20
* 79 My Medical Adviser	4
* 80 The Restoration	8
81 The Use of Intoxicating Drinks, by Archdeacon Jeffries	12
* 82 Drink and be Happy	4
83 The Five Nips	4
84 The Honest Spirit Dealer	2
85 Seven Years' Experience	2
* 86 Education of the Drunkard, with 5 pictures	12
* 87 A Word with Serious People, by John Bright, M.P.	4
* 88 Guide to Glendalough	4
* 89 Bridget Larkins	4
90 The Contrast	2
91 Tobacco a Cause of Intemperance	2
* 92 The Wedding Night	12
* 93 My Chapel	4
* 94 The Best Men sometimes Err, by Archdeacon Jeffries	8
* 95 Testimonies of Eight Judges	2
* 96 The Drunkard in Rags	2
* 97 The Farmer and Labourer	4
* 98 The Gloucestershire Farmer	4
* 99 Strong Drink and Infidelity	8
100 Catalogue of Tracts	4
101 The Hertfordshire Farmer	2
* 102 Sunday Schools	4
103 Confessions of a Publican	2
104 Peter Levison, or the Ruined Minister	4
105 John Angell James	2
* 106 I do not drink Wine	2
* 107 Self-Imposed Burdens	2
* 108 The Craving of a Drunkard	8
* 109 The Poor Orphan Boy	4
* 110 Loss of Seven Fishermen	8
111 A Temperance Catechism	8
* 112 The Mail Coachman	2
113 The Reformed Family	4
114 Licensing Day at Bolton	4
115 Stomach of a Drunkard	4
116 Ragged Schools	4
* 117 Delirium Tremens	4
118 The Fire-Escape	4
119 The Sabbath Morn	4
* 120 Can a Christian keep a Public House	4
121 The Aged Friend	2
* 122 The Village of Newbridge	8
123 The Mirror of Intemperance	4
* 124 Alcohol: what it does, and what it cannot do; on the nutrition of the Body, and in the production of Disease; by Walter Johnson, M.B.	41
125 Barley, Malt, and Beer Question, by Dr. F. Lees	4
126 Keep away from the Public House	4
127 The History of Poor William	8
128 The Hearer to his Minister	4
129 Alcohol generates a tendency to Death. By Dr. E. Johnson	4
130 The Merchant's Dream	4
131 Address to Females	2
* 132 History of J. B. Gough	48
133 Livezey's Malt Liquor Lecture	32
* 134 My Mother's Gold Ring	8
* 135 Miraculous Deliverance	4
136 The Drunkard's Dream	2
* 137 Archibald Prentice's Speech on Sanitary and Social Means to Political Ends	8
* 138 The Altered Man	2
* 139 The Love-feast, by T. B. Smithies	4
140 George the Australian Emigrant	4
141 Advice to Soldiers, by Sir C. Napier	21
142 Medical Opinions, for the Aged	8
* 143 Smoking and Snuffing, by J. Higginbottom, F.R.C.S.	8
* 144 Wesleyan Teetotalism	8
145 Waste of Food	2
* 146 The Man in the Cellar, and the Man without Hands	8
* 147 Evil Spirits—a Poem	8
* 148 Manchester "Go-a-Heads"	4
* 149 Mothers, Doctors, and Nurses; a Dialogue between a Medical Man and his Friend, by J. Higginbottom, F.R.C.S.	12
150 Ten Solemn Opinions	2
151 Paralysis and Apoplexy; a Dialogue between a Medical Man and his Friend, by J. Higginbottom, F.R.C.S.	16
152 The Miraculous Deliverance, by the Author of the "Sinner's Friend," with the tract entitled the "Sinner's Friend" appended	36
* 153 The Child's Question	4
154 Scene from Life	4
* 155 The Christian Sabbath Breaker	4
* 156 Reminiscences of a Tavern ParLOUR	8
157 Richard Wilkinson, the Railway Labourer	2
158 Missionary Facts	2

All the above can be had in Assorted Packets:—No. 1, Tract No. 1 to 30; No. 2, Tract No. 31 to 53; No. 3, Tract No. 54 to 72; No. 4, Tract No. 73 to 100; No. 5, Tract 101 to 126; No. 6, Tract 127 to 143; No. 7, Tract 144 and upwards.

Assorted Packets also:—No. 10, Tracts for Roadside Distribution; No. 11, Tracts on the Principles of Teetotalism; No. 12, Tracts adapted for Farmers; No. 13, Tracts: Interesting Narratives; No. 14, Tracts suited for Poor Drunkards; No. 15, Medical Tracts.

Tract covers suited for Lending, in One Shilling Packets.

A Volume containing the first 100 Tracts, in cloth, 3s.

Just Published,

THE FINANCIAL REFORM ALMANACK and FREEHOLDERS' MANUAL for 1851, price THREEPENCE, printed on sixty-four pages, crown octavo.

This Almanack, besides the Calendar, and all other matter pertaining to Almanacks, contains a variety of original articles and statistics, showing the income and expenditure of the Government, the influence of taxation on the trade and industry of the country, the progress made in the great work of Financial Reform, &c. In addition, it also contains a mass of interesting, useful, and practical information on the Freehold Land Movement; the nature of the Forty-shilling Franchise, the state of the Counties, and the progress made by every Society in the kingdom, up to the date of publication, is shown. It is compiled from documents accessible exclusively to the Editor, and forms the only complete guide to Freehold Land Societies which has ever been published.

THE PROTESTANT DISSENTERS'

ALMANACK for 1851, price THREEPENCE, printed on sixty-four pages, crown octavo.—This Almanack is devoted to the elucidation and advocacy of the great principles of Religious Freedom. In addition to the information common to Almanacks, it contains a mass of Statistics of the various Religious Denominations and Societies of the Kingdom: Lists of Chapels occupied by Independents and Baptists in the Metropolis, with the names of the Ministers and the hours of service. Also, a Series of Original Papers upon the principal topics and events of interest in connection with Religious Freedom. Among which are:—Dissent in the power of its Principles, its Political Status, and its Religious Condition—Patronage—Sacred Appointments by the Ignorant and the Ungodly; Ecclesiastical Synods, what good have they done?—Working of State-Churchism: the Great Gorham Case—The Anti-State-Church Association: what has it done?—Claims of the Freehold Land Movement upon Dissenters—Condition of the Working Classes—The Temperance Movement—Address to Protestant Dissenters, &c.

Price FOURPENCE.

THE EMIGRANTS' ALMANACK for 1851.—This Almanack is one of the most comprehensive and complete ever published in connection with the subject of Emigration. It abounds with Practical Hints for Emigrants of every degree. Every possible care has been taken to ensure its entire accuracy.

THE PEOPLE'S ALMANACK for 1851, printed on Thirty-six Pages, crown octavo, price ONE PENNY.

This Almanack contains a mass of matter of deep interest to the People of England. Among which are:—The People have a right to Cheap Government; The Work of Reform is with the People; The People should acquire Political Knowledge; Cheap Literature; Sanitary Reform; Education; Self-Reliance; Co-operation; Kindly Feelings; Domestic Economy; &c. &c.

Also, Price ONE PENNY, with Engravings, neatly printed on Thirty-two Pages, crown 8vo.

THE TEMPERANCE ALMANACK for 1851.

Besides the usual Calendar and Almanack matter, this will contain valuable information as to the principle and practice of Total Abstinence from Intoxicating Liquors, the Progress of the Temperance Movement, and other articles interesting to Teetotallers. Among which are:—Who would not be a Freeholder? Cost of Intemperance; Reasons for Sobriety; Stimulation; Public-houses; Sabbath-Schools; Strong Drink in its connection with Crime, Pauperism, Education; Drinking Usages; Moderate Drinking; Bands of Hope; Intemperance in Scotland; Fruits of Intemperance; Tree of Life, Tree of Death; Teetotal Budget; Address to the Working Classes; &c. &c.

THE CHEAPEST HISTORY OF ENGLAND EVER ISSUED FROM THE PRESS.

THE SEVENTH VOLUME of JOHN CASSELL'S LIBRARY, being the Third Volume of a New and Popular HISTORY OF ENGLAND, by Dr. ROBERT FERGUSON, of Ryde, is now ready. Price Sixpence.

The First and Second Volumes of this work, neatly bound together in cloth, 1s. 4d.

NOTICE.—With a view to render this popular and original Work more complete, the Fourth and last Volume (forming the eighth volume of JOHN CASSELL'S LIBRARY) will contain thirty-two pages extra. For this additional matter the volume, which will comprise 176 pages, will be charged 8d. instead of 6d., being an extra charge of only 2d.; and the Double Volume, 1s. 6d., instead of 1s. 4d.

SAILINGS OVER THE GLOBE; or, the Progress of Maritime Discovery. These form the First and Second Volumes of JOHN CASSELL'S LIBRARY, and contain: The Rise and Progress of Navigation—Early Discoveries of the Portuguese—Voyages of Vasco de Gama, Mendez Pinto and Magellan, &c. Price Sixpence each Volume; or the two, neatly bound in one, in cloth boards, 1s. 4d.

FOOTPRINTS of TRAVELLERS, forming the Third and Fourth Volumes of the Series, contains: Capel de Brooke's Travels in Norway, Sweden, and Lapland—Lyall's Travels to the Crimea, the Caucasus, and Georgia—Inlis's Travels in the Tyrol, &c. Price Sixpence each Volume; or the two, neatly bound in one, in cloth boards, 1s. 6d.

JOHN CASSELL'S LIBRARY will be completed in Twenty-four Volumes, Sixpence each; or Twelve Double Volumes, One Shilling each; or neatly bound in cloth, lettered, 1s. 4d. each. This Library will include Original Works of the highest character, including History, Biography, and General Science. The HISTORY OF ENGLAND will be followed by the PEOPLE'S BIOGRAPHICAL DICTIONARY. By the Rev. J. R. BEARD, D.D.

This Dictionary will be completed in Four Monthly Volumes, each containing one hundred and forty-four pages, price Sixpence; or, in one volume, containing five hundred and seventy-six pages, neatly bound in cloth, price Two Shillings.

THE MOST REMARKABLE PUBLICATION OF THE DAY.

THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND AND FAMILY INSTRUCTOR is published Weekly, and contains Thirty-two pages, crown octavo, price One Penny.

Volumes I., II., and III., price 1s. 6d. each, containing THIRTEEN WEEKLY NUMBERS, neatly bound in cloth, are NOW READY. This work abounds in valuable and interesting information, and is admirably adapted as a gift or prize-book for families or educational institutions.

PRIZE ESSAY.

Price 1s. 6d., in a stiff wrapper; or bound in cloth, 2s.

THE WORKING CLASSES OF GREAT BRITAIN: their Present Condition, and the Means of their Improvement. By the Rev. S. G. GREEN, A.B., of Taunton.

People's Edition, price only Fourpence.

AN UNABRIDGED TRANSLATION, by A. R. SCOBLE, Esq., of M. Guizot's celebrated work, entitled "The Causes of the Success of the English Revolution in 1640-88," neatly printed on good paper. To which is added, a Biographical Sketch of its Author. London: JOHN CASSELL, 335, Strand, and all Booksellers.

FORTH'S COMMERCIAL and FAMILY BOARDING ESTABLISHMENT, 33, LUDGATE HILL, LONDON, is now open for the reception of Visitors.

Its characteristics will be, the most scrupulous cleanliness, a sincere desire to meet the wishes of its patrons, and to render it, in all particulars, a respectable, comfortable home.

The situation is in the centre of London. Omnibuses pass the house every minute through the day, and it is within a few minutes' walk of the principal steam-boat piers.

Terms, 4s. 6d. per day for Bed, Breakfast, and Tea, servants included; Dinners are an extra, but reasonable charge.

Conducted on Temperance Principles.

LAMPLOUGH'S EFFERVESCING

LYRETIC SALTS is the best, finest, and most grateful Summer Drink in the world. Unlike arated waters, it leaves no sense of extreme coldness in the stomach, the precursor of spasms, cramp, or inflammation. It supplies the waste of the fluids arising from excessive perspiration, and affords, by its saline properties, the demand which such constant and active secretions draw from the system. It always thirst in a most remarkable manner, whilst at the same time it cools, refreshes, and invigorates. It is perfectly tasteless. Children and Invalids drink it with avidity; and it is frequently introduced at and immediately after dinner, instead of stimulating liquors, to which it is, in every respect, superior. It can be flavoured to the taste of the most fastidious, and, whenever introduced, will displace every other description of dinner beverage. For Invalids it is invaluable. In cases of Fever and Cholera it is the only panacea. Thousands of patients can be referred to for its curative properties, and hundreds of Testimonials can be inspected—the most marked and decisive—from public institutions, physicians, surgeons, the public press, and individuals in every grade of life. This preparation is the result of careful chemical analyses, study, and experiment. It is based on the laws which regulate, and is assimilated to the deposit found in the fluids in the human body, and which are called, by chemists, "the salt in the blood." These salts are wasted by heat, sickness, or labour, causing enervation, liability to disease, and extreme thirst, and all the usually recognised symptoms of typhus cholera. By using the Effervescing Salines this loss is replaced, thirst allayed, fever assuaged, cholera effectually cured, and the health and happiness of the patient promoted. A single trial is earnestly solicited from all hitherto unacquainted with its properties, as the discovery is of the first importance; and it is unhesitatingly placed before the profession and the world as the best and cheapest preventive and restorative for those diseases which medical skill and science can produce.

Sold only by H. LAMPLOUGH, Chemist, Snow-hill; and by all Chemists and Medicine-vendors throughout the kingdom, in Bottles, at 1s. 6d., 4s. 6d., and 10s. 6d. each.

Be particular in observing "H. LAMPLOUGH" on the label and stamp.

CAUTION RESPECTING JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE.

JOHN CASSELL finds it necessary to caution the Consumers of his justly-famed COFFEE against purchasing imitations of his Packages. The fact that his Establishment is the largest in the kingdom, and his COFFEE most extensively consumed, has led numerous parties to attempt making up very inferior articles in the same style of Package; and some, to induce tradesmen to substitute their spurious article for that of JOHN CASSELL, offer a larger amount of profit. This has a tendency to prejudice the public, and hence the necessity of thus informing them that no Coffee can be the veritable JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE unless his signature is upon each Package. Go therefore to the Agent for JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, ask for JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, and see that it is JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE which is handed to you, having his Signature upon the Package. This is necessary, for there are numerous imitations, stringent and bitter to the palate, while JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE is rich and strong, at the same time that it is mellow and delicious, pleasing to the palate, and invigorating to the system.

The following are the prices at which they can be obtained:—

JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE , No. 1, an excellent article.....	1s. 4d.
JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE , No. 2, cannot fail to give great satisfaction, being a combination of the choicest growths of Jamaica, possessing richness, strength, and flavour.....	1s. 6d.
JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE , No. 3, to every Connoisseur in Coffee this will prove a treat, combining the finest mountain growths of both Jamaica and Turkey.....	2s. 6d.

JOHN CASSELL'S FIVE-SHILLING TEA.—This is a combination of the finest and most carefully-selected Teas, the produce of choice, young, and tender plants. It possesses not only strength, but a peculiar and delicious fragrance, which cannot fail to render it pleasant to the most fastidious palate and to the exquisite taste of the connoisseur. This may be had either wholly Black or Black and Green mixed. It is sold in Catty Packages only, containing from two ounces to one pound; and every package bears the signature of "JOHN CASSELL," without which none can be genuine.

JOHN CASSELL'S SOLUBLE COCOA.—This article is one of superior excellence, and is prepared only at the extensive STEAM MILLS of JOHN CASSELL, 80, FENCHURCH-STREET, London. It is a rich and nutritious article, at the same time the various properties of the Cocoa-nut are so combined as to make it agreeable to the most dyspeptic and admirably adapted to persons of a weak constitution.—Sold in  $\frac{1}{2}$  and  $\frac{1}{4}$  lb packets, at 8d. and 1s. per lb., throughout the Kingdom, by the Agents for John Cassell's Coffees.

All applications for these valuable Agencies to be made direct to JOHN CASSELL, 80, FENCHURCH-STREET, LONDON.

DR. CHEYNE'S COUGH and PULMONIC

LOZENGES.—The fame of these Lozenges is fully established as the most pleasant and efficacious remedy that can be employed for the removal of coughs. To the asthmatic, or those who are afflicted with a difficulty of breathing, or a redundancy of phlegm, they give instant relief, by causing free expectoration. They allay the irritation attendant on all affections of the throat, and strengthen the lungs to resist the effects of sudden changes. They remove hoarseness and greatly improve the voice. They arrest, in its incipient stages, that fearful result of our variable atmosphere—consumption; and for diseases of the pulmonary organs a more safe and salutary remedy cannot be applied. For aged persons they are invaluable, and none, whose lungs are in the least degree susceptible of cold, ought to be without them. They afford relief in every case of cough, and where there is no physical disorganization they will effect a cure.

From Mr. John Noble, Bookseller, Agent at Boston.

"Dear Sir,—A gentleman has just communicated to me such remarkable cure of spasmodic asthma, of many years' standing that I forward it to you for publication. He has frequently been laid aside from his business, and during the last winter was confined to his house for nine weeks, during which time he could not lie down in bed. Being induced to try Dr. Cheyne's Cough and Pulmonic Lozenges, he has experienced in them such a cure as he did not think possible. During six weeks that he has taken these invaluable lozenges, his health has been better than for the last ten years. He can now lie down and sleep comfortably, enjoying his rest in bed from eight or nine at night until five in the morning. Instead of being confined to his bed or room, he says:—'I can now walk all round my farm, and attend to my business, with ease and comfort. I consulted many of the most eminent practitioners in the neighbourhood without avail; the strongest ever made an impression on my complaint until I tried these Lozenges.'"

"I asked for a Testimonial, but he said, 'Having four medical men relatives, he could not allow his name to be published. However, I obtained his permission to furnish this statement, which is nearly verbatim as delivered by him. I hope this plain, unvarnished tale' may stimulate other sufferers to try this valuable remedy."

To Mr. J. Everington, Church-street, Gainsborough.

"Sir,—I have been afflicted for years with a bad cough. I could not sleep at night, and sometimes coughed to that degree that the neighbours thought I should break a blood-vessel. I was induced to try a box of Dr. Cheyne's Lozenges, which was purchased at your shop; and after taking ten Lozenges, my cough left me. I give you leave to publish this statement for the benefit of others.—Blyton, near Gainsborough. "JANE HUNT."

CAUTION.—As a variety of Lozenges, Wafers, and Tablets are advertised, containing ingredients of an injurious nature, the public are particularly requested to ask for DR. CHEYNE'S COUGH AND PULMONIC LOZENGES, and to observe that the words, "DR. CHEYNE'S COUGH LOZENGES," are engraved on the Government Stamp, which, with Directions for Use, is wrapped round each box.

Sold in Boxes at 1s. 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ d., and 2s. 9d. each, by Messrs. Sutton, 10, Bow Church-yard; Barclay's, 95, Farringdon-street; Edwards, 67, St. Paul's Church-yard; Dietrichson and Co., 63, Oxford-street; Sanger, 150, Oxford-street; Johnson, 65, Cornhill; King, 34, Napier-street, Hoxton; Bolton and Co., York; Raines and Co., Edinburgh; and by at least one Agent in every town throughout the United Kingdom.

BOOK for the YOUNG.—Price 6d.—The HISTORY of PAPER-MAKING, TYPES, PRINTING, &c.
London: JOHN CASSELL, 335, Strand; and all Booksellers.

GUTTA PERCHA HEARING APPARATUS.—The Gutta Percha Company have the pleasure to own the receipt of the following letters in approval of the Gutta Percha Hearing Apparatus, for enabling the Deaf to hear Sermons, &c., in Churches, Chapels, &c.

"From the Rev. George Wilkins, Minister of New Broad-street Chapel, London.

"I have much pleasure in bearing testimony to the entire success of the Gutta Percha Hearing Apparatus, which you recently fitted up in my pulpit.

"The lady, for whose accommodation it was designed is now enabled to HEAR WELL, and being EXCEEDINGLY DEAF, this result is the more satisfactory. A tin tube had been tried for three or four years, but this afforded no assistance,—it was as complete a failure as the Gutta Percha tube has proved completely successful.

"I shall have much pleasure in affording any recommendation, which it may be in my power, and any sceptical person may have the opportunity of testing it for himself by trial."

From the Rev. Thomas Mann, Trowbridge.

"The Gutta Percha Hearing Apparatus that I have fitted up in my Chapel answers so well, that persons who have not heard a sermon FOR MANY YEARS, and who could only hear conversations when spoken into the ear, can now hear every word with the greatest distinctness and comfort. It is equally applicable to twenty persons as to one."

From the Rev. Henry Reynolds, of East Parade Chapel, Leeds.

"The Gutta Percha Tubes that have been fitted up in East Parade Chapel, have proved entirely successful, and their adaptation for that species of acoustic communication has thus been satisfactorily tested."

GUTTA PERCHA TUBING may be buried in damp or marshy ground without injury. Acids, alkalis, and grease are without action upon it, and it is therefore valuable for conveying water, chemicals, &c. It is peculiarly valuable for liquid manure, drain and soil pipes. Being a non-conductor, it is not affected by the frost of winter, like metal or leather. Its strength is extraordinary; the small half-inch diameter tubing having resisted a pressure of 250 lbs. on the square inch, without bursting. The smaller sizes may be had in 400 feet, and the larger in 50 feet lengths. The joints are easily made. The power which Gutta Percha Tubing possesses as a conductor of sound renders it most valuable for conveying messages, in lieu of bells.

Every information may be had on application to the GUTTA PERCHA COMPANY, PATENTEES, 18, Wharf-road, City-road, London.

Printed and Published by WILLIAM CATHALL, of 59, Albany road, Camberwell, Surrey, at his Printing Office, 335, Strand, London.

FRIDAY, NOV. 1, 1850.

THE
TEETOTAL TIMES
 AND ESSAYIST.

PUBLISHED MONTHLY.

No. XXXVI.—NEW SERIES.] LONDON, DECEMBER, 1850.

{ Price One Penny.
 { Stamped, Twopence.

GRAND SOIREE.

THE ANNUAL SOIREE of the SOUTH LONDON TEMPERANCE SOCIETY will be held (D.V.) on TUESDAY, DECEMBER 31, 1850, in HAWKSTONE HALL, WATERLOO-ROAD. All former efforts will be attempted to be surpassed on this occasion.

SPEAKERS of eminence will be engaged. A Gentleman of well-known talents will preside.

REFRESHMENTS will be of the best description.

The DECORATIONS, ILLUMINATIONS, and MUSICAL ARRANGEMENTS will be under the direction of well-qualified persons, by whom no expense will be spared to render this Soiree worthy of the great cause of Temperance.

To conclude with DISSOLVING VIEWS. Tickets 1s. 6d. each.

G. C. CAMPBELL, }
 W. MACHIN, } Hon. Secs.
 J. HARPER, }

GREAT TEMPERANCE DEMONSTRATIONS IN EXETER HALL.

THE FIRST of a Series of MEETINGS for 1850-51 will take place on MONDAY, DECEMBER 2. The following Gentlemen are expected to take part in the proceedings:—

SAMUEL BOWLY, Esq., of Gloucester.
 Rev. JABEZ BURNS, D.D.
 JOHN CASSELL, Esq.
 GEORGE CRUIKSHANK, Esq.

A. PRENTICE, Esq., of Manchester.
 Mr. R. LOWERY, of St. Alban's.

The Doors will be opened at Half-past Six o'Clock, and the Chair will be taken at Seven o'Clock precisely.

Admission by Tickets only, which may be had of

The Treasurer, 335, Strand; or of Mr. Phillips, 39, Moorgate-st., Mr. Mathew, 14, Ivy-lane, Newgate-street.
 Mr. Yearrow, 50, Tooley-street.
 Mr. Campbell, 350, Oxford-st.
 Mr. Purvis, 199, Blackfriars-rd.
 Mr. Esterbrooke, 2, Upper Crown-street, Westminster.
 Mr. Tiedall, Church-street, Kensington.
 Mr. W. Spriggs, 10, South-street, West-square, Lambeth.
 Mr. J. P. Draper, 88, Titchfield-street, Marylebone.
 Mr. Murcott, Temperance-hall, King-street, Seven Dials.

Mr. Griffiths, 8, Southampton-street, Pentonville.
 Mr. Coldwell, 7, Sanford-lane, Stoke Newington.
 Mr. Green, 4, Brighton-place, Hackney-road.
 Mr. Prebble, 9, Camberwell-grove.
 Mr. Currey, St. George's-place, Walworth.
 Mr. Tackley, Weir's-passage, Somers-town.
 Mr. Garbutt, High-st., Wapping.
 Mr. Bailey, Hawkstone-hall, Waterloo-road, and Mr. Watts, Temperance-hotel, Catherine-street, Strand.

TICKETS for the Series of Six Meetings—Platform, 3s.; Reserved Seats, 2s.; Raised Seats, 1s.

For the accommodation of those who go unprovided with Tickets, some of the Committee will attend, on the evenings of the Meetings, at Mrs. Watts', Catherine-street, from Six o'Clock to Half-past Seven, for the sale of Tickets, either for the Series or for Single Admissions.—There will be no Collections.

Price 2d., or by post 3d.,

CAUTIONS and TESTIMONY against ODD FELLOWSHIP. By H. MUDGE, Surgeon, Bodmin.

Also, price 2s., or by post 2s. 6d., by the same author,

EXPOSURE of ODD FELLOWSHIP; showing its Immoral Tendency and Bankrupt Circumstances, and containing as well a large amount of information on the subject of Friendly Societies.

WHITTAKER, London; LIDDELL, Bodmin.

ALMANACKS FOR 1851.

THE FINANCIAL REFORM ALMANACK and FREEHOLDERS' MANUAL for 1851, price THREEPENCE, printed on sixty-four pages, crown octavo.

This Almanack, besides the Calendar, and all other matter pertaining to Almanacks, contains a variety of original articles and statistics, showing the income and expenditure of the Government, the influence of taxation on the trade and industry of the country, the progress made in the great work of Financial Reform, &c. In addition, it also contains a mass of interesting, useful, and practical information on the Freehold Land Movement; the nature of the Forty-shilling Franchise, the state of the Counties, and the progress made by every Society in the kingdom, up to the date of publication, is shown. It is compiled from documents accessible exclusively to the Editor, and forms the only complete guide to Freehold Land Societies which has ever been published.

THE PROTESTANT DISSENTERS'

ALMANACK for 1851, price THREEPENCE, printed on sixty-four pages, crown octavo.—This Almanack is devoted to the elucidation and advocacy of the great principles of Religious Freedom. In addition to the information common to Almanacks, it contains a mass of Statistics of the various Religious Denominations and Societies of the Kingdom; Lists of Chapels occupied by Independents and Baptists in the Metropolis, with the names of the Ministers and the hours of service. Also, a Series of Original Papers upon the principal topics and events of interest in connection with Religious Freedom. Among which are:—Dissent in the power of its Principles, its Political Status, and its Religious Condition—Patronage—Sacred Appointments by the Ignorant and the Ungodly: Ecclesiastical Synods, what good have they done?—Working of State-Churchism: the Great Gorham Case—The Anti-State-Church Association: what has it done?—Claims of the Freehold Land Movement upon Dissenters—Condition of the Working Classes—The Temperance Movement—Address to Protestant Dissenters, &c.

Price FOURPENCE.

THE EMIGRANTS' ALMANACK

for 1851.—This Almanack is one of the most comprehensive and complete ever published in connection with the subject of Emigration. It abounds with Practical Hints for Emigrants of every degree. Every possible care has been taken to ensure its entire accuracy.

THE PEOPLE'S ALMANACK for 1851,

printed on Thirty-six Pages, crown octavo, price ONE PENNY. This Almanack contains a mass of matter of deep interest to the People of England. Among which are:—The People have a right to Cheap Government; The Work of Reform is with the People; The People should acquire Political Knowledge; Cheap Literature; Sanitary Reform; Education; Self-Reliance; Co-operation; Kindly Feelings; Domestic Economy; &c. &c.

Also, Price ONE PENNY, with Engravings, neatly printed on Thirty-two Pages, crown 8vo,

THE TEMPERANCE ALMANACK for 1851.

Besides the usual Calendar and Almanack matter, this will contain valuable information as to the principle and practice of Total Abstinence from Intoxicating Liquors, the Progress of the Temperance Movement, and other articles interesting to Teetotals. Among which are:—Who would not be a Freeholder? Cost of Intemperance; Reasons for Sobriety; Stimulation; Public-houses; Sabbath-Schools; Strong Drink in its connection with Crime, Pauperism, Education; Drinking Usages; Moderate Drinking; Bands of Hope; Intemperance in Scotland; Fruits of Intemperance; Tree of Life, Tree of Death; Teetotal Budget; Address to the Working Classes; &c. &c.

London: JOHN CASSELL, 335, Strand.

NEW AND INTERESTING PUBLICATIONS

ISSUED BY

JOHN CASSELL, 335, STRAND, LONDON.

A NEW and POPULAR HISTORY of ENGLAND. By Dr. ROBERT FERGUSON, of Ryde.—The object of this History is not merely to exhibit a record of the actions of Kings and Cabinets, but to present a faithful and instructive HISTORY OF THE PEOPLE, with their progress in industrial arts and social amelioration. The First, Second, and Third Volumes, 6d. each; the Fourth, containing thirty-two pages extra, 8d.; or the whole, neatly bound in cloth, in Two Double Volumes, containing together upwards of Six Hundred Pages, 2s. 10d.—This History forms the Fifth, Sixth, Seventh, and Eighth Volumes of JOHN CASSELL'S LIBRARY.

JOHN CASSELL'S LIBRARY will be completed in Twenty-four Monthly Volumes, 6d. each; or Twelve Double Volumes, 1s. each; or neatly bound in cloth, lettered, 1s. 4d. each. This LIBRARY will include Original Works of the highest character, including History, Biography, and General Science.—The "History of England" will be followed by

THE PEOPLE'S BIOGRAPHICAL DICTIONARY, the First Volume of which will appear January 1st, 1851. By the Rev. J. R. BEARD, D.D.—This will form the most select, compendious, interesting, and instructive work of the class which has ever appeared. While none of the world's "Great Men" will be overlooked, particular attention will be paid to those truly "illustrious" individuals who have distinguished themselves as the friends and benefactors of the people—the true patriots and philanthropists of their age. An appropriate space will be devoted also to those who, by persevering industry, have struggled successfully with the difficulties of their situation, and have risen to eminence in various departments of manufacture, art, science, and literature. This Dictionary will be completed in Four Monthly Volumes, each containing 144 pages, price 6d.; or in Two Double Volumes, neatly bound in cloth, price 1s. 4d. each.

SAILINGS OVER THE GLOBE; or, the Progress of Maritime Discovery. These form the First and Second Volumes of JOHN CASSELL'S LIBRARY, and contain: The Rise and Progress of Navigation—Early Discoveries of the Portuguese—Voyages of Vasco de Gama, Mendez Pinto, and Marelán—Eastern Enterprises of the English, and First Circumnavigation of the Globe—the Four Voyages of Columbus—Cortes and the Conquest of Mexico—Pizarro and the Discovery of Peru—Voyages and Discoveries of Commodore Byron, Captain Wallis, and Captain Cook—Early Polar Expeditions—Recent Voyages and Discoveries of Scoresby, Parry, Ross, and Franklin. Price 6d. each Volume; or the two, neatly bound in one, in cloth boards, 1s. 4d.

FOOTPRINTS of TRAVELLERS, forming the Third and Fourth Volumes of the Series, contains: Capel de Brooke's Travels in Norway, Sweden, and Lapland—Lytall's Travels in the Crimea, the Caucasus, and Georgia—Inglish's Travels in the Tyrol—Travels among the Tartars by the Ambassador of the Pope, and also by Zwick and Schill—Burnes's Travels in Bokhara—Heber's Travels in India—Travels of Bruce to the Sources of the Nile—Park's Travels to the Banks of the Niger—Denham and Clapperton's Travels in Africa—Humboldt's Travels in the New Continent of America—Franklin's Journey towards the Polar Sea—Stephens's Travels in Central America—Travels of Lewis and Clarke to explore the Missouri. Price 6d. each Volume; or the two, neatly bound in one, in cloth boards, 1s. 4d.

THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND AND FAMILY INSTRUCTOR is published in Weekly Numbers, containing Thirty-two pages, crown octavo, price ONE PENNY.—Volumes I., II., and III., price 1s. 6d. each, containing THIRTEEN WEEKLY NUMBERS, neatly bound in cloth, are NOW READY. This work abounds in valuable and interesting information, and is admirably adapted as a gift or prize-book for families or educational institutions.—MONTHLY PARTS are regularly published, price 6d., containing Four Weekly Numbers, besides the Supplementary Number for the Month, which is uniform in size and price with the Weekly Numbers, and is devoted entirely to Communications from Working Men.

THE WHOLE OF THE SUPPLEMENTARY NUMBERS published during twelve months will be issued in a neat volume, with an Introductory Essay, and will be ready by February 1, 1851, price 1s. 6d., neatly bound in cloth boards.—This volume will exhibit one of the most glorious literary achievements of modern times, and will furnish a most striking demonstration of the moral and intellectual capabilities of the Working Classes.

GREAT INDUSTRIAL EXHIBITION.—JOHN CASSELL purposes to present to the Readers of "The Working Man's Friend," with the Number for the week ending December 7th (in which will appear the first of the series of Information Articles upon the Great Industrial Exhibition), a SPLENDID ENGRAVING of the CRYSTAL PALACE for the GRAND EXPOSITION of 1851, measuring twenty inches by seven and a-half.—"The Working Man's Friend" will contain, from week to week, a mass of important and deeply-interesting particulars relative to the Great Jubilee of Industry, in the selection of which special attention will be paid to the requirements of the Working Classes. The Executive Committee have kindly promised their co-operation in rendering "The Working Man's Friend" a complete and popular Hand-book to this Festival of Nations. JOHN CASSELL is determined to spare no expense in rendering the information thus given as comprehensive and accurate as possible; and intends, if necessary, in addition to letter-press explanations, to furnish Maps and Street Plans, showing the arrangements made for the accommodation of the People during their visits to the Metropolis.

THE PATHWAY: A NEW MONTHLY MAGAZINE.

Among the characteristics of the age, no one can have failed to be impressed with its deeper life—its more profound thinking—its wider views—its scientific and religious tendencies—and hence its most earnest longings for that species of education and literature which will meet the necessities of an advanced humanity. Here a desideratum has long been felt, and the want of it long deplored. Our periodical religious literature is capable of great extension, and of equal improvement. With a view of supplying, in some degree, this desideratum, there will be published on the First of JANUARY, 1851, the First Number of a New Religious Magazine, to be entitled

THE PATHWAY,

In Twenty-eight pages octavo, price Three-halfpence, to be continued Monthly.

The articles will be furnished by writers of known talent, and will be characterized no less by their nervous and manly style than by the directness and force of their truth. Among other subjects the following will claim precedence:—

I.—THE BIBLE AND ITS CLAIMS.—Under this head will be found the most rigid modes of investigation into the character, pretensions, and claims of Divine Revelation; an examination of theological dogmas—the principles of sound and honest interpretation—criticism—popular and practical exposition.

II.—BIBLICAL GEOGRAPHY.—This will include the topical description of Palestine and other Oriental Countries:—their climate—their natural productions—the manners and customs of the people—with such facts in the history of the places and their population as may tend to illustrate and confirm the inspired records.

III.—HISTORY—SACRED AND PROFANE.—The object here will be to give such a connected view of events as to make it appear that they are all but so many parts of one great Divine plan.

IV.—CHRISTIAN PHILOSOPHY.—In this department the aim will be to bring all the facts of physical, mental, and moral science into connection with Christian truth, and to show their harmony with the higher and more certain teachings of the Book of God.

V.—BIOGRAPHY.—This will embrace characteristic sketches of those who have been eminent for intellectual and moral worth, and whose lives have been devoted to the higher interests of humanity.

VI.—MISCELLANIES.—These will include brief notices of all benevolent and religious movements; questions affecting the practical working of the Sabbath-school system; the progress of education; sound and useful maxims; poetry; and such subjects as may be deemed generally interesting and instructive.

The Work will be found exceedingly useful to the Teachers and elder Scholars of our Day and Sunday Schools, and will furnish an ever-accumulating fund of knowledge to the younger branches of the domestic circle.

AN UNABRIDGED TRANSLATION, by

A. R. SCOBLE, Esq., of M. GUIZOT'S celebrated Work, entitled "THE CAUSES OF THE SUCCESS OF THE ENGLISH REVOLUTION IN 1640-88," neatly printed on good paper. To which is added a Biographical Sketch of its Author, People's Edition, price only 4d.—"The first publication of this work was somewhat high-priced, and the book was consequently out of the reach of the many. We have now, however, in Mr. Cassell's reprint of the work, a neat copy, which is accessible to all classes of readers. Any person who can command a very few pence can purchase the entire work, with a biographical sketch of the author prefixed. Such are the boons which the enterprise of the present day confers on the multitude. We hope that the latter will show that they are worthy of the blessing."—Liverpool Times.

JOHN CASSELL'S PUBLICATIONS (continued).

THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM, the Advocate of Freedom, Political, Commercial, and Religious, the largest-sized Newspaper allowed by Law. Published Weekly, price 11., or 5s. 5d. per Quarter in Advance.

Never, in the history of our country, was there required a Libers. Intelligent, Independent Press so greatly as at the present moment. The overbearing, dominant aspect of despotism, threatening to trample down Liberty throughout Europe, together with the paidering of a large portion of the British Press to the absolute powers, demands on the part of Englishmen integrity, watchfulness, and determination. The mission of the STANDARD OF FREEDOM is to disseminate just views of all the great questions of the day which involve the progress of Freedom in England and in the World. That such a Newspaper is appreciated by the people of these realms is demonstrated by the fact that it is increasing weekly in its circulation. Let all who value a manly, intelligent, independent, and vigorous Advocate of Political, Commercial, and Religious Liberty, rally round the STANDARD OF FREEDOM, and extend its influence and circulation.

A COUNTRY EDITION is published, on Friday Evening, for delivery in the Provinces early on Saturday Morning. A TOWN EDITION is published on Saturday Morning in time also for the Morning Mills; and a THIRD EDITION is issued at three o'clock, containing the latest intelligence, foreign and domestic, down to the hour of going to press. Order of any Bookseller in Town or County.

CONFERENCE OF THE FREEHOLD LAND UNION AT BIRMINGHAM.

THE FREEHOLDER, for DECEMBER, (the Organ of the Freeholders' Union), will contain a Full Report of the Proceedings at the Conference held at Birmingham on Tuesday and Wednesday, the 26th and 27th of November, together with the Speech of Mr. Cobden, the Chairman, &c. &c.—Price 1d., or 4d. stamped.—Office, 335, Strand.

"THE FREEHOLDER" is published the First of every Month, price 3d., or 4d. stamped. It contains forty-eight columns of closely-printed matter, and can be sent post free to any part of the kingdom. Subscribers of 5s. and upwards to the Freeholders' Union will be entitled, as members, to a copy of "THE FREEHOLDER" for twelve months, free by post. All Subscriptions and Donations to the Union must be forwarded to the Secretary, Mr. James Taylor, jun., Birmingham, to whom post-office orders should be made payable. "THE FREEHOLDER" is regularly published with the Magazines, &c., and is on sale in all parts of the kingdom on the first of every month. Advertisements and Orders from Booksellers and News Agents should therefore be sent in due time to 335, Strand, London.

Price THREEPENCE.

THE CHEAPEST ALMANACK EVER ISSUED IN IRELAND OR THE UNITED KINGDOM.

THE IRISH NATIONAL ALMANACK for 1851; containing in the whole, independently of Advertisements, ONE HUNDRED AND EIGHT PAGES of closely-printed Letter-press, and accompanied with a SPLENDID ENGRAVING of the GLASS PALACE for the EXHIBITION of 1851. Besides the Calendar, which has been compiled expressly for this Almanack, it contains: Chronological Cycles—Fixed and Moveable Festivals and Anniversaries—Law and University Terms—Alphabetical List of Bankers in Ireland, with the Banks they draw upon in London—Rising and Setting of the Sun and Moon—Weekly Ephemeris of the four principal Planets—Phases of the Moon—List of Fairs in Ireland, compiled and corrected with great care. The Statistical Department embraces Irish Revenues—Irish Exports and Imports—Unions and their Expenditure—Irish Poor-laws—Marriages in Ireland—Act to facilitate the Sale of Encumbered Estates—Returns of Agricultural Produce in Ireland—Cholera Returns—Also, Returns of Outrages—Prisons—Public Works—Borough Receipts and Expenditure—Fines and Penalties—Irish Railways—Salvage in Ireland—Dispensaries, Fever Hospitals, and Infirmarys—Liabilities for Advances—Grand Jury Presentments—Irish Spirits—Acreable Contents of Ireland, and their Valuation—Export of Live-Stock—Stamp Duties, Ireland—Loan Fund Board—Irish Ecclesiastical Courts—Colleges—Established Church in Ireland, Catholic ditto, &c. &c. Also, Valuable Details on Emigration, with copious and minute particulars as to Fields of Emigration, &c., especially adapted for Emigrants from Ireland.

THE WORKING CLASSES of GREAT BRITAIN; their Present Condition, and the Means of their Improvement and Elevation. Prize Essay. To which is added an Appendix. By the Rev. SAMUEL G. GREEN, A.B., of Taunton. Price 1s. 6d., in a stiff wrapper; or bound in cloth, 2s.—A Prize of Fifty Pounds was offered by Mr. John Cassell, for the best Essay upon the above subject, the adjudicators being the Rev. T. Spencer, A.M.; Edward Miall, Esq.; and Edward Swaine, Esq.; and was unanimously awarded to the above gentleman—his Essay being selected from almost fifty others.

BOOK FOR THE YOUNG. Price 6d.—THE HISTORY of PAPER-MAKING, TYPES, PRINTING, &c.

JOHN CASSELL'S PUBLICATIONS (continued).

In demy 8vo, containing 32 pages, price 2d.,

THE GREAT MILITARY AND NAVAL PARLIAMENT; being an Analysis of both our Houses of Parliament; showing, from a careful examination of the Red-Books of the Aristocracy themselves, the true secret of the constant increase in our Military and Naval expenditure, in a STANDING MAJORITY in both Houses of nearly 300 members directly connected with the war system. No such dissection of our Legislative body has hitherto been made; and it may safely be said that no man, till he has gone over this list of 700 Members of Parliament connected with the military system by appointment, marriage, or consanguinity, is at all aware of the real character of the body that governs us.

In demy 8vo, containing 40 pages, price 3d.,

OUR GREAT STATE-CHURCH PARLIAMENT; an Analysis of both Houses of Parliament; showing that there are in the two Houses 700 direct holders and dealers in Churches and Church influence, with a STANDING MAJORITY of 154 devoted to the maintenance of the present Ecclesiastical system. In a former publication, entitled the "Great Military and Naval Parliament," it is shown that the Government, both of the Cabinet and the Senate, consists of a majority of soldiers. In the present work another view is taken of them, and they are now presented again as proprietors of the State-Church.

Price Threepence.

THE HISTORY and PROGRESS of TAXATION, as it relates to the Crown, the Aristocracy, and the People—History of the National Debt—Annals of the Poor-law—History of the Army and Navy—Pensioners and Pensioners—Civil List, and Cost of the Executive, &c.

London: JOHN CASSELL, 335, Strand. Order of all Booksellers.

FORTH'S COMMERCIAL and FAMILY BOARDING ESTABLISHMENT, 33, LUDGATE HILL, LONDON, is now open for the reception of Visitors.

Its characteristics will be, the most scrupulous cleanliness, a sincere desire to meet the wishes of its patrons, and to render it, in all particulars, a respectable, comfortable home.

The situation is in the centre of London. On buses pass the house every minute through the day, and it is within a few minutes' walk of the principal steam-boat piers.

Terms, 4s. 6d. per day for Bed, Breakfast, and Tea, servants included; Dinners are an extra, but reasonable charge.

Conducted on Temperance Principles.

LAMPLOUGH'S EFFERVESCING PYRETIC SALTS is the best, finest, and most grateful Summer Drink in the world. Unlike sated waters, it leaves no sense of extreme coldness in the stomach, the precursor of spasms, cramp, or inflammation. It supplies the waste of the fluids arising from excessive perspiration, and affords, by its saline properties, the demand which such constant and active secretions draw from the system. It allays thirst in a most remarkable manner, whilst at the same time it cools, refreshes, and invigorates. It is perfectly tasteless. Children and Invalids drink it with avidity; and it is frequently introduced at and immediately after dinner, instead of stimulating liquors, to which it is, in every respect, superior. It can be flavoured to the taste of the most fastidious, and, whenever introduced, will displace every other description of dinner beverage. For Invalids it is invaluable. In cases of Fever and Cholera it is the only panacea. Thousands of patients can be referred to for its curative properties, and hundreds of Testimonials can be inspected—the most marked and decisive—from public institutions, physicians, surgeons, the public press, and individuals in every grade of life. This preparation is the result of careful chemical analyses, study, and experiment. It is based on the laws which regulate, and is assimilated to the deposit found in the fluids in the human body, and which are called, by chemists, "the salt in the blood." These salts are wasted by heat, sickness, or labour, causing enervation, liability to disease, and extreme thirst, and all the usually recognised symptoms of typhus cholera. By using the Effervescing Salines this loss is replaced, thirst allayed, fever assuaged, cholera effectually cured, and the health and happiness of the patient promoted. A single trial is earnestly solicited from all hitherto unacquainted with its properties, as the discovery is of the first importance; and it is unhesitatingly placed before the profession and the world as the best and cheapest preventive and restorative for those diseases which medical skill and science can produce.

Sold only by H. LAMPLOUGH, Chemist, Snow-hill; and by all Chemists and Medicine-vendors throughout the kingdom, in Bottles, at 1s. 6d., 4s. 6d., and 10s. 6d. each.

Be particular in observing "H. LAMPLOUGH" on the label and stamp.

CAUTION RESPECTING JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE.

JOHN CASSELL finds it necessary to caution the Consumers of his justly-famed COFFEE against purchasing imitations of his Packages. The fact that his Establishment is the largest in the kingdom, and his COFFEE most extensively consumed, has led numerous parties to attempt making up very inferior articles in the same style of Package; and some, to induce tradesmen to substitute their spurious article for that of JOHN CASSELL, offer a larger amount of profit. This has a tendency to prejudice the public, and hence the necessity of thus informing them that no Coffee can be the veritable JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE unless his signature is upon each Package. Go therefore to the Agent for JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, ask for JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, and see that it is JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE which is handed to you, having his Signature upon the Package. This is necessary, for there are numerous imitations, stringent and bitter to the palate, while JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE is rich and strong, at the same time that it is mellow and delicious, pleasing to the palate, and invigorating to the system.

The following are the prices at which they can be obtained:—

JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE , No. 1, an excellent article.....	1s. 4d.
JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE , No. 2, cannot fail to give great satisfaction, being a combination of the choicest growths of Jamaica, possessing richness, strength, and flavour.....	1s. 8d.
JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE , No. 3, to every Connoisseur in Coffee this will prove a treat, combining the finest mountain growths of both Jamaica and Turkey.....	2s. 6d.

JOHN CASSELL'S FIVE-SHILLING TEA.—This is a combination of the finest and most carefully-selected Teas, the produce of choice, young, and tender plants. It possesses not only strength, but a peculiar and delicious fragrance, which cannot fail to render it pleasant to the most fastidious palate and to the exquisite taste of the connoisseur. This may be had either wholly Black or Black and Green mixed. It is sold in Catty Packages only, containing from two ounces to one pound; and every package bears the signature of "JOHN CASSELL," without which none can be genuine.

JOHN CASSELL'S SOLUBLE COCOA.—This article is one of superior excellence, and is prepared only at the extensive STEAM MILLS of JOHN CASSELL, 80, FENCHURCH-STREET, London. It is a rich and nutritious article, at the same time the various properties of the Cocoa-nut are so combined as to make it agreeable to the most dyspeptic and admirably adapted to persons of a weak constitution.—Sold in  $\frac{1}{2}$  and  $\frac{1}{4}$  lb. packets, at 8d. and 1s. per lb., throughout the Kingdom, by the Agents for John Cassell's Coffees.

All applications for these valuable Agencies to be made direct to JOHN CASSELL, 80, FENCHURCH-STREET, LONDON.

DR. CHEYNE'S COUGH and PULMONIC

LOZENGES.—The fame of these Lozenges is fully established as the most pleasant and efficacious remedy that can be employed for the removal of coughs. To the asthmatic, or those who are afflicted with a difficulty of breathing, or a redundancy of phlegm, they give instant relief, by causing free expectoration. They allay the irritation attendant on all affections of the throat, and strengthen the lungs to resist the effects of sudden changes. They remove hoarseness and greatly improve the voice. They arrest, in its incipient stages, that fearful result of our variable atmosphere—consumption; and for diseases of the pulmonary organs a more safe and salutary remedy cannot be applied. For aged persons they are invaluable, and none, whose lungs are in the least degree susceptible of cold, ought to be without them. They afford relief in every case of cough, and where there is no physical disorganization they will effect a cure.

From Mr. John Noble, Bookseller, Agent at Boston.

"DEAR SIR,—A gentleman has just communicated to me such a remarkable cure of spasmodic asthma, of many years' standing, that I forward it to you for publication. He has frequently been laid aside from his business, and during the last winter was confined to his house for nine weeks, during which time he could not lie down in bed. Being induced to try Dr. Cheyne's Cough and Pulmonic Lozenges, he has experienced from them such a cure as he did not think possible. During six weeks that he has taken these invaluable Lozenges, his health has been better than for the last ten years. He can now lie down and sleep comfortably, enjoying his rest in bed from eight or nine at night until five in the morning. Instead of being confined to his room or bed, he says:—'I can now walk all round my farm, and attend to my business, with ease and comfort. I consulted many of the most eminent medical practitioners in the neighbourhood without avail; nothing ever made an impression on my complaint until I tried these Lozenges.'

"I asked for a Testimonial, but he said, 'Having four medical men relatives, he could not allow his name to be published.' However, I obtained his permission to furnish this statement, which is nearly verbatim as delivered by him. I hope this 'plain, unvarnished tale' may stimulate other sufferers to try this valuable remedy."

To Mr. J. Everington, Church-street, Gainsborough.

"Sir,—I have been afflicted for years with a bad cough. I could not sleep at night, and sometimes coughed to that degree that the neighbours thought I should break a blood-vessel. I was induced to try a box of Dr. Cheyne's Lozenges, which was purchased at your shop; and after taking ten Lozenges, my cough left me. I give you leave to publish this statement for the benefit of others.—Blyton, near Gainsborough. "JANE HUNT."

CAUTION.—As a variety of Lozenges, Wafers, and Tablets are advertised, containing ingredients of an injurious nature, the public are particularly requested to ask for DR. CHEYNE'S COUGH AND PULMONIC LOZENGES, and to observe that the words, "DR. CHEYNE'S COUGH LOZENGES," are engraved on the Government Stamp, which, with Directions for Use, is wrapped round each box.

Sold in Boxes at 1s. 1½d., and 2s. 9d., each, by Messrs. Sutton, 10, Bow Church-yard; Barclay's, 95, Farringdon-street; Edwards, 67, St. Paul's Church-yard; Dietrichson and Co., 63, Oxford-street; Sanger, 150, Oxford-street; Johnson, 68, Cornhill; King, 34, Napier-street, Hoxton; Bolton and Co., York; Raines and Co., Edinburgh; and by at least one Agent in every town throughout the United Kingdom.

Just published, price TWOPENCE,

VOICES FROM PRISONS AND PENITENTIARIES.

Respectfully addressed to the Teachers and Supporters of Sabbath-schools, and to all who regard the welfare of the rising generation. Abounding with Statistical Information.

London: JOHN CASSELL, 335, Strand.

GUTTA PERCHA HEARING APPARATUS.

—The Gutta Percha Company have the pleasure to own the receipt of the following letters in approval of the Gutta Percha Hearing Apparatus, for enabling the Deaf to hear Sermons, &c., in Churches, Chapels, &c.

"From the Rev. George Wilkins, Minister of New Broad-street Chapel, London.

"I have much pleasure in bearing testimony to the entire success of the Gutta Percha Hearing Apparatus, which you recently fitted up in my pulpit.

"The lady, for whose accommodation it was designed is now enabled to HEAR WELL, and being EXCEEDINGLY DEAF, this result is the more satisfactory. A tin tube had been tried for three or four years, but this afforded no assistance.—It was as complete a failure as the Gutta Percha tube has proved completely successful.

"I shall have much pleasure in affording any recommendation, which it may be in my power, and any sceptical person may have the opportunity of testing it for himself by trial."

From the Rev. Thomas Mann, Trowbridge.

"The Gutta Percha Hearing Apparatus that I have fitted up in my Chapel answers so well, that persons who have not heard a sermon FOR MANY YEARS, and who could only hear conversations when spoken into the ear, can now hear every word with the greatest distinctness and comfort. It is equally applicable to twenty persons as to one."

From the Rev. Henry Reynolds, of East Parade Chapel, Leeds.

"The Gutta Percha Tubes that have been fitted up in East Parade Chapel, have proved entirely successful, and their adaptation for that species of acoustic communication has thus been satisfactorily tested."

GUTTA PERCHA TUBING may be buried in damp or marshy ground without injury. Acids, alkalies, and grease are without action upon it, and it is therefore valuable for conveying water, chemicals, &c. It is peculiarly valuable for liquid manure, drain and soil pipes. Being a non-conductor, it is not affected by the frost of winter, like metal or leather. Its strength is extraordinary; the small half-inch diameter tubing having resisted a pressure of 250 lbs. on the square inch, without bursting. The smaller sizes may be had in 400 feet, and the larger in 50 feet lengths. The joints are easily made. The power which Gutta Percha Tubing possesses as a conductor of sound renders it most valuable for conveying messages, in lieu of bells.

Every information may be had on application to the GUTTA PERCHA COMPANY, PATENTEES, 18, Wharf-road, City-road, London.

Printed and Published by WILLIAM CATHRALL, of 59, Albany-road, Camberwell, Surrey, at his Printing Office, 335, Strand, London. December 1, 1850.

THE

TEETOTAL TIMES

AND ESSAYIST.

PUBLISHED MONTHLY.

No. XXXVII.—NEW SERIES.]

LONDON, JANUARY, 1851.

[ Price One Penny. ]
[ Stamped, Twopence.

GOOD NEWS FOR WORKING MEN!

AT EXETER-HALL, on MONDAY EVENING, January 6, 1851, several HARD-WORKING MEN, selected from the following occupations, GAS-STOKERS, GLASSBLOWERS, BRICKMAKERS, COMPOSITORS, BRASSFOUNDERS, FELLMONGERS, SHOEMAKERS, GARDENERS, &c., will demonstrate, from their own experience, that entire abstinence from strong drink is practicable, in connexion with the most arduous toil, and promotive of HEALTH, COMFORT, INDEPENDENCE, AND POLITICAL, SOCIAL, AND MORAL ELEVATION.

That well-known Friend to the Working Classes,

JOHN CASSELL, Esq.,

will preside.

Doors to be opened at half-past Six o'clock; proceedings to commence at Seven o'clock precisely.

Admission to the Platform, 6d.; to the rest of the Hall,

ADMISSION FREE.

Platform Tickets may be had of the Treasurer, 335, Strand; Mr. Mathew, 14, Ivy-lane; Mr. Phillips, 39, Moorgate-street; Mr. Campbell, 350, Oxford-street; Mr. Draper, 88, Great Titchfield-street; Mr. Esterbrooke, 3, Upper Crown-street, Westminster; Mr. Bailey, Hawkstone Hall, Waterloo-road; Mr. Griffiths, 8, Southampton-street, Pentonville; Mr. Tackley, Weir's-passage, Somerset-town; and Mrs. Watts, Temperance Hotel, Catherine-street, Strand.

Now ready. Third and Cheaper Edition, 12mo, 540 pp., cloth 6s.,
THE DOMESTIC PRACTICE of HYDRO-PATHY. By EDWARD JOHNSON, M.D., Author of 'Life, Health, and Disease.'

The 8vo Edition, with Portrait, Preliminary Remarks, &c., second edition, cloth 12s.

London: SIMPKIN, MARSHALL, and CO.

Just published, price 6d.,

AN APOLOGY FOR THE PLEDGE; a Lecture on the Total Abstinence Pledge, in which is shown its harmony with the customs of the country, and its accordance with Divine Law, with the practice of Old Testament saints, and the precepts and practice of Christianity.

"No teetotaler should be without this little book."—Temperance Champion Journal.

"We should especially recommend a perusal of the 'Apology for the Pledge,' in which will be found a very full history of pledges."—British Friend.

Just published, price 3d.,

WALKEST THOU CHARITABLY? An Exposition of Romans xiv. 13—21. Affectionately addressed to all who desire to do the will of God. By B. FARRINGTON.

"We heartily commend this discourse as a valuable, though small, addition to our Total Abstinence literature."—Christian News.

"This admirable tractate should be circulated by thousands."—National Temperance Chronicle.

12mo cloth, price 4s. 6d.,

THE WATER CURE: Letters from Grafenberg in the Years 1843, 4, 5, and 6. By JOHN GIBBS.

"We recommend this volume to all who wish to make themselves acquainted with the potency of the water cure."—Morning Chronicle.

"The mode of treatment is fully explained."—Patriot.

"It has seldom been our lot to meet a book that has more deeply interested us."—Christian News.

London: CHARLES GILPIN, 5, Bishopsgate-street Without.

Now ready, price 2s. 6d., neatly bound in cloth, and 3s. handsomely bound, gilt edges, the

FIRST VOLUME of the PUBLIC GOOD.

It contains 432 pages of closely-printed matter, and includes the Three Supplements, which will be bound up with the Twelve Numbers gratuitously. The Volume will comprise 92 Essays and Articles; 30 Tales and Sketches; 40 Reviews and Notices of Books; 29 Controversial Letters; 100 Autographs; 75 Biographies and Biographical Notices; 128 Poems; 20 Anecdotes; 5 Allegories; 43 Epitaphs; 6 Suggestions; 46 Hints; 12 Enigmas, Charades, &c.; 500 Paragraphs and Extracts from Standard Books and Authors; 47 Couplets; 40 Students' Questions and Answers; 230 Answers to Correspondents, &c. &c.

Forty pages of closely-printed matter for 2d.

PERMANENT ENLARGEMENT of the PUBLIC GOOD.

—On the 1st of January, 1851, this Popular Magazine, which has been pronounced by the Press to be the "cheapest," "the best," "the most brilliant," "the most interesting and instructive," and "the most elevating in tone and tendency," of our Periodical Literature, will be Permanently Enlarged without being increased in price. It will sell as before, price 2d., monthly.

Also, now ready, price 6d., neatly stitched in a wrapper,

TWENTY-FOUR PUBLIC GOOD TRACTS.

Each Tract treats on a separate subject, and contains four pages of closely-printed matter.

Also, now ready, price 2d.,

THE PUBLIC GOOD ALMANACK for 1851.

It is replete with useful information, applicable to all persons, at all times, in all places.

On the 1st of January, 1851, will be published, price 2d., the First Number of

THE POETIC COMPANION for the FIRE-SIDE, the FIELDS, the WOODS, and STREAMS.

It will be devoted exclusively to Poetry and the Poets; and will be found one of the cheapest, the most novel, interesting, and instructive publications of the time.

NEW MONTHLY JOURNAL.

Now published, price 1d.,

THE TEMPERANCE TRACT JOURNAL.

It contains Essays, Tales, Reviews, Biographical Sketches, and Facts, Comments, and Reports of the Progress of the Temperance Movement throughout the world. It will be found, to all intents and purposes, a useful Temperance Journal. But its Letter-press will be so arranged as to admit of each number being separated into eight distinct and complete Tracts. This peculiar arrangement will render the Temperance Tract Journal an admirable auxiliary for the promotion of the good cause.

For instance—a Teetotaler, or any one else, may, for One Penny a Month, get the Journal and read it, and then divide it into eight parts and distribute them to the best advantage. In this way he will be able to acquaint himself with the Principles, Facts, Bearings, Relationships; and Progress of the Temperance Reform, and be instrumental in distributing Eight Tracts for One Penny a Month, or Ninety-six Tracts for One Shilling; or a Temperance Society, by taking, say Ten Dozen a Month, at the rate of Ninepence per dozen, may scatter abroad 960 Tracts a Month for 7s. 6d., or 11,520 Tracts a Year for £4 10s. At this rate, 10,000 Teetotalers, for One Penny a Month, may distribute 960,000 in One Year. And one hundred Societies, taking Ten Dozen each a Month, would distribute during the Year 1,152,000 Tracts; making in all, 2,112,000 Temperance Tracts in One Year.

And what tongue can describe or imagination paint the possible good such a vast number of useful Tracts, judiciously distributed every Year, would, in all likelihood, do? The great Author of Temperance and Truth, God alone, can tell.

Who then will not say, "Success to the Temperance Tract Journal?"

London: Published by PASSMORE EDWARDS, "Public Good" Office, Lovell's-court, Paternoster-row.

A CATALOGUE OF IPSWICH
TEMPERANCE PUBLICATIONS.

ALL these, whether Books, Tracts, Hand-bills, or Notice Papers, are sold in SIXPENNY PACKETS. Fifty Packets of either will be delivered to any address in London, for a Guinea, sent by Post-office Order to Richard Dykes Alexander Ipswich; or they may be had of any Bookseller in the country through Simpkin, Marshall, and Co., Stationers-hall-court, London.

IPSWICH JUVENILE TEMPERANCE BOOKS,
32mo, nearly all with Pictures.

[These are now sold ONLY in Assorted Packets.]

Assorted Packet, No. 1, contains No. 1 to 16. Assorted Packet, No. 2, contains No. 17 to 32. Assorted Packet, No. 3, contains No. 33 to 46.

HAND-BILLS FOR PUBLIC MEETINGS.

Nine inches by six. On the back of each is a Temperance Tract. Fifty for Sixpence.

NOTICE PAPERS.

With the same form as the Hand-bills. The opinions of eminent persons on Teetotalism on the back of each. Two Hundred for Sixpence.

IPSWICH TEMPERANCE TRACTS.

Those Tracts marked with an * have Pictures.

	Pages.
1 The Doctor Scrutinized, by R. D. Alexander, F.L.S.	8
2 Striking Facts, ditto	2
3 Maker and Vender, ditto	2
4 Our Creed, ditto	2
*5 Adulterated Beer, ditto	4
*6 Adulterated Wine, ditto	4
7 The Maltster, ditto	4
8 Go Feel what I have Felt	2
9 Facts are stubborn Things	2
*10 The Spirit Dealer	2
11 Christian Teetotalism, by R. D. Alexander	2
12 The Trade, ditto	4
13 Alcohol, ditto	4
*14 Town of Ipswich, ditto	4
*15 Song of the Water Drinker	2
16 Stimulation not Strength	5
17 Farmer Woodman	4
*18 The Beer Barrel	8
19 Teetotal Recipes	4
*20 Speech of J. J. Gurney	4
21 Pity the Poor Drunkard	2
*22 The Fool's Pence	8
23 Why am I a Teetotaler?	2
*24 Dost thou Smoke, Bill?	4
*25 The Laudanum Drinker	4
26 The Ox Discourse	4
27 Letter to the Clergy	20
28 Common Sense	20
29 Ralph the Soldier	4
30 Testimony of Physicians	4
31 The Working Man	20
32 Is I not happy?	4
33 David the Shoemaker, by R. D. Alexander	4
34 The Drunken Couple, ditto	2
35 Confessions of a Drunkard	2
36 Master Tailor, by R. D. Alexander	4
37 The Fatal Gift	2
38 Poor Sandy	4
39 Use and Abuse, by Archdeacon Jeffries	4
40 The Schoolmaster	4
41 Water is Best, by J. J. Gurney	4
42 Cobbett's Advice	4
43 Take a Public-house	4
*44 A Sailor's Yarn	4
45 Moderate Drinking	12
46 The Pledge	4
*47 John Jarvis	12
*48 The Fifteen Friends	4
49 Sunday-School Teachers	12
50 Sunday-School Children	12
*51 Money better than Beer	4
*52 Little Mary	8
53 Philosophy of Temperance, by R. D. Trail, M.D.	20
54 Love to Man	20
*55 Young Woman's Tract	12
56 Young Man's Tract	16
57 Dr. Campbell's Testimony	8
58 Why sign the Pledge?	2
59 The Poor Man's House Repaired	4
60 The Mother's Tract	8
61 The High Price of Food	4
62 Ladies' Tract Societies	8
63 The Praise of Water	2
64 Important Calculations	2
*65 The Farm Servant	2
66 Teetotalism Declining	8
*67 The Reformed Drunkard	8
68 The Recruit	8
69 No. 1 of Anecdotes	12
70 No. 2 ditto	12
71 No. 3 ditto	12
72 No. 4 ditto	12
73 Luke Husler	8
74 The Drunkard's Wife	12
75 The Unexplored Island	4
76 Ancient Wines, by R. D. Alexander	8
77 Influence of Example	2
*78 The Victim of Excitement	20
*79 My Medical Adviser	4
*80 The Restoration	8
81 The Use of Intoxicating Drinks, by Archdeacon Jeffries	12
*82 Drink and be Happy	4
83 The Five Nips	4
84 The Honest Spirit Dealer	2
85 Seven Years' Experience	2
*86 Education of the Drunkard, with 5 pictures	12
*87 A Word with Serious People, by John Bright, M.P.	4
*88 Guide to Glendalough	4
*89 Bridget Larkins	4
90 The Contrast	2
91 Tobacco a Cause of Intemperance	2
*92 The Wedding Night	12
*93 My Chapel	4
*94 The Best Men sometimes Err, by Archdeacon Jeffries	8
*95 Testimonies of Eight Judges	2
*96 The Drunkard in Rags	2
*97 The Farmer and Labourer	4
*98 The Gloucestershire Farmer	4
*99 Strong Drink and Infidelity	8
100 Catalogue of Tracts	4
101 The Hertfordshire Farmer	2
*102 Sunday Schools	4
103 Confessions of a Publican	2
104 Peter Levison, or the Ruined Minister	2
105 John Angell James	2
*106 I do not drink Wine	2
*107 Self-Imposed Burdens	2
*108 The Craving of a Drunkard	8
*109 The Poor Orphan Boy	4
*110 Loss of Seven Fishermen	8
111 A Temperance Catechism	4
*112 The Mail Coachman	2
113 The Reformed Family	4
114 Licensing Day at Bolton	4
115 Stomach of a Drunkard	4
116 Ragged Schools	4
*117 Delirium Tremens	4
118 The Fire-Escape	4
119 The Sabbath Morn	4
*120 Can a Christian keep a Public House	4
121 The Aged Friend	4
*122 The Village of Newbridge	2
123 The Mirror of Intemperance	4
*124 Alcohol: what it does, and what it cannot do; on the nutrition of the Body, and in the production of Disease; by Walter Johnson, M.B.	44
125 Barley, Malt, and Beer Question, by Dr. F. Lees	4
126 Keep away from the Public House	4
127 The History of Poor William	8
128 The Hearer to his Minister	4
129 Alcohol generates a tendency to Death. By Dr. E. Johnson	4
130 The Merchant's Dream	4
131 Address to Females	2
*132 History of J. B. Gough	48
133 Livezey's Malt Liquor Lecture	32
*134 My Mother's Gold Ring	8
*135 Miraculous Deliverance	4
136 The Drunkard's Dream	2
*137 Archibald Prentice's Speech on Sanitary and Social Means to Political Ends	8
*138 The Altered Man	2
*139 The Love-feast, by T. B. Smithies	4
140 George the Australian Emigrant	4
141 Advice to Soldiers, by Sir C. Napier	2
142 Medical Opinions, for the Aged	2
*143 Smoking and Snuffing, by J. Higginbottom, F.R.C.S.	8
*144 Wesleyan Teetotalism	8
145 Waste of Food	2
*146 The Man in the Cellar, and the Man without Hands	8
*147 Evil Spirits—a Poem	8
*148 Manchester "Go-a-Heads"	4
*149 Mothers, Doctors, and Nurses; a Dialogue between a Medical Man and his Friend, by J. Higginbottom, F.R.C.S.	12
150 Ten Solemn Opinions	2
151 Paralysis and Apoplexy; a Dialogue between a Medical Man and his Friend, by J. Higginbottom, F.R.C.S.	16
152 The Miraculous Deliverance, by the Author of the "Sinner's Friend," with the tract entitled the "Sinner's Friend" appended	26
*153 The Child's Question	4
154 Scene from Li e	4
*155 The Christian Sabbath Breaker	4
*156 Reminiscences of a Tavern Parlour	8
157 Richard Wilkinson, the Railway Labourer	2
158 Missionary Facts	2
159 The Drinker's Song. By George Hood	2
160 Self-imposed Taxation	4
161 Testimonies of Wesleyan Missionaries	4
162 Sermon in a Tavern	4
163 The Wages of Labour as affected by Temperance. By Archibald Prentice	4
164 A Question of Vital Importance for Sunday-school Teachers. By John Templeton	16
165 The Drunkard's Death	4
166 Important Statistics	4

NEW AND INTERESTING PUBLICATIONS

ISSUED BY

JOHN CASSELL, 335, STRAND, LONDON.

Just published, the First volume of

THE PEOPLE'S BIOGRAPHICAL DICTIONARY. By the Rev. J. R. BEARD, D.D.—This will form the most select, compendious, interesting, and instructive work of the class which has ever appeared. While none of the world's "Great Men" will be overlooked, particular attention will be paid to those truly "illustrious" individuals who have distinguished themselves as the friends and benefactors of the people—the true patriots and philanthropists of their age. An appropriate space will be devoted also to those who, by persevering industry, have struggled successfully with the difficulties of their situation, and have risen to eminence in various departments of manufacture, art, science, and literature. This Dictionary will be completed in Four Monthly Volumes, each containing 144 pages, price 6d.; or in Two Double Volumes, neatly bound in cloth, price 1s. 4d. each.

A NEW and POPULAR HISTORY of ENGLAND. By Dr. ROBERT FERGUSON, of Ryde.—The object of this History is not merely to exhibit a record of the actions of Kings and Cabinets, but to present a faithful and instructive HISTORY OF THE PEOPLE, with their progress in industrial arts and social amelioration. The First, Second, and Third Volumes, 6d. each; the Fourth, containing thirty-two pages extra, 8d.; or the whole, neatly bound in cloth, in Two Double Volumes, containing together upwards of Six Hundred Pages, 2s. 10d.—This History forms the Fifth, Sixth, Seventh, and Eighth Volumes of JOHN CASSELL'S LIBRARY.

SAILINGS OVER THE GLOBE; or, the Progress of Maritime Discovery. These form the First and Second Volumes of JOHN CASSELL'S LIBRARY, and contain: The Rise and Progress of Navigation—Early Discoveries of the Portuguese—Voyages of Vasco de Gama, Mendez Pinto, and Magellan—Eastern Enterprises of the English, and First Circumnavigation of the Globe—the Four Voyages of Columbus—Cortes and the Conquest of Mexico—Pizarro and the Discovery of Peru—Voyages and Discoveries of Commodore Byron, Captain Wallis, and Captain Cook—Early Polar Expeditions—Recent Voyages and Discoveries of Scoresby, Parry, Ross, and Franklin. Price 6d. each Volume; or the two, neatly bound in one, in cloth boards, 1s. 4d.

FOOTPRINTS of TRAVELLERS, forming the Third and Fourth Volumes of the Series, contains: Capel de Brooke's Travels in Norway, Sweden, and Lapland—Lyall's Travels in the Crimea, the Caucasus, and Georgia—Ingli's Travels in the Tyrol—Travels among the Tartars by the Ambassador of the Pope, and also by Zwick and Schill—Burnes's Travels in Bokhara—Heber's Travels in India—Travels of Bruce to the Sources of the Nile—Park's Travels to the Banks of the Niger—Denham and Clapperton's Travels in Africa—Humboldt's Travels in the New Continent of America—Franklin's Journey towards the Polar Sea—Stephens's Travels in Central America—Travels of Lewis and Clarke to explore the Missouri. Price 6d. each Volume; or the two, neatly bound in one, in cloth boards, 1s. 4d.

JOHN CASSELL'S LIBRARY will be completed in Twenty-four Monthly Volumes, 6d. each; or Twelve Double Volumes, 1s. each; or neatly bound in cloth, lettered, 1s. 4d. each. This LIBRARY will include Original Works of the highest character, including History, Biography, and General Science.—The "History of England" will be followed by

THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND AND FAMILY INSTRUCTOR is published in Weekly Numbers, containing Thirty-two pages, crown octavo, price ONE PENNY.—Volumes I., II., III., and IV., price 1s. 6d. each, containing THIRTEEN WEEKLY NUMBERS, neatly bound in cloth, are NOW READY. This work abounds in valuable and interesting information, and is admirably adapted as a gift or prize-book for families or educational institutions.—MONTHLY PARTS are regularly published, price 6d., containing Four Weekly Numbers, besides the Supplementary Number for the Month, which is uniform in size and price with the Weekly Numbers, and is devoted entirely to Communications from Working Men.

THE MOST REMARKABLE PUBLICATION OF THE AGE. THE WHOLE OF THE SUPPLEMENTARY NUMBERS published during twelve months will be issued in a neat volume, with an Introductory Essay, and will be ready by February 1, 1851, price 1s. 6d., neatly bound in cloth boards.—This volume will exhibit one of the most glorious literary achievements of modern times, and will furnish a most striking demonstration of the moral and intellectual capabilities of the Working Classes.

NEW RELIGIOUS PUBLICATION.

Now ready,

THE PATHWAY, price Three Halfpence, consisting of Twenty-eight pages, octavo, handsomely printed on good paper.

This is a Magazine of deep interest, not only to Families, but to Sabbath-school Teachers, and to the Youth of England generally. Writers of known talent have furnished the articles for the various departments, which are divided as follows:—The Bible and its Claims—Biblical Geography—History, Sacred and Profane—Christian Philosophy—Biography—and Miscellanies.

THE CONTENTS OF THE FIRST NUMBER ARE—

1. The Introduction.
2. The Bible a Book of Facts.
3. The Domestic Altar.
4. Scripture Biography.
5. The History of the Church in all its branches, from the earliest times.
6. Scripture Geography: Palestine.
7. The Teacher and his Class: Caves and Tents.
8. "Goodly Pearls."
9. The Circle of Science.
10. Poetry: "Welcome to 'The Pathway.'"

Each article is characterized no less by its nervous and manly style than by the directness and force of its truth.

"THE PATHWAY" can be ordered of any Bookseller.

Sunday-school Teachers, Ministers of the Gospel, Home Missionaries, and all who desire the enlightenment of the People in God's truth, are earnestly requested to render assistance in securing for this new Monthly Publication the circulation to which its important contents, its typography, and its cheapness entitle it.

AN UNABRIDGED TRANSLATION, by A. R. SCOBLE, Esq., of M. GUIZOT'S celebrated Work entitled "The CAUSES of the SUCCESS of the ENGLISH REVOLUTION in 1640-88," neatly printed on good paper. To which is added a Biographical Sketch of its Author. People's Edition, price only 4d.—The first publication of this work was somewhat high-priced, and the book was consequently out of the reach of the many. We have now, however, in Mr. Cassell's reprint of the work, a neat copy, which is accessible to all classes of readers. Any person who can command a very few pence can purchase the entire work, with a biographical sketch of the author prefixed. Such are the boons which the enterprise of the present day confers on the multitude. We hope that the latter will show that they are worthy of the blessing.—Liverpool Times.

THE WORKING CLASSES of GREAT BRITAIN; their Present Condition, and the Means of their Improvement and Elevation. Prize Essay. To which is added an Appendix. By the Rev. SAMUEL G. GREEN, A.B., of Taunton. Price 1s. 6d., in a stiff wrapper; or bound in cloth, 2s.—A Prize of Fifty Pounds was offered by Mr. John Cassell, for the best Essay upon the above subject, the adjudicators being the Rev. T. Spencer, A.M.; Edward Miall, Esq.; and Edward Swaine, Esq.; and was unanimously awarded to the above gentleman—his Essay being selected from almost fifty others.

BOOK FOR THE YOUNG. Price 6d.—THE HISTORY OF PAPER-MAKING, TYPES, PRINTING, &c.

Just published, on 16 pages, demy 8vo, price TWOPENCE,

VOICES FROM PRISONS AND PENITENTIARIES.

Respectfully addressed to the Teachers and Supporters of Sabbath-schools, and to all who regard the welfare of the rising generation.

The design of this publication is to show that, notwithstanding the vast and costly machinery of Sabbath-schools, a very large portion of the youth of both sexes, after having received instruction in those schools, are found walking in the paths of the Destroyer, and become inmates of Prisons, Penitentiaries, and Asylums, as is abundantly proved by authentic statistical returns. Also, to inquire into the causes of this comparative failure, and to point out an appropriate and efficient preventive. With extracts from the writings of the Rev. Dr. Campbell, the Rev. G. C. Finney, the Rev. W. Reid; and letters by W. H. Watson, Esq., Mr. W. Logan, &c. &c.

London: JOHN CASSELL, 335, Strand. Order of all Booksellers.

CAUTION RESPECTING JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE.

JOHN CASSELL finds it necessary to caution the Consumers of his justly-famed COFFEE against purchasing imitations of his Packages. The fact that his Establishment is the largest in the kingdom, and his COFFEE most extensively consumed, has led numerous parties to attempt making up very inferior articles in the same style of Package; and some, to induce tradesmen to substitute their spurious article for that of JOHN CASSELL, offer a larger amount of profit. This has a tendency to prejudice the public, and hence the necessity of thus informing them that no Coffee can be the veritable JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE unless his signature is upon each Package. Go therefore to the Agent for JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, ask for JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, and see that it is JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE which is handed to you, having his Signature upon the Package. This is necessary, for there are numerous imitations, stringent and bitter to the palate, while JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE is rich and strong, at the same time that it is mellow and delicious, pleasing to the palate, and invigorating to the system.

The following are the prices at which they can be obtained:—

JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE , No. 1, an excellent article .....	1s. 4d.
JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE , No. 2, cannot fail to give great satisfaction, being a combination of the choicest growths of Jamaica, possessing richness, strength, and flavour .....	1s. 8d.
JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE , No. 3, to every Connoisseur in Coffee this will prove a treat, combining the finest mountain growths of both Jamaica and Turkey .....	2s. 6d.

JOHN CASSELL'S FIVE-SHILLING TEA.—This is a combination of the finest and most carefully-selected Teas, the produce of choice, young, and tender plants. It possesses not only strength, but a peculiar and delicious fragrance, which cannot fail to render it pleasant to the most fastidious palate and to the exquisite taste of the connoisseur. This may be had either wholly Black or Black and Green mixed. It is sold in Catty Packages only, containing from two ounces to one pound; and every package bears the signature of "JOHN CASSELL," without which none can be genuine.

JOHN CASSELL'S SOLUBLE COCOA.—This article is one of superior excellence, and is prepared only at the extensive STEAM MILLS of JOHN CASSELL, 80, FENCHURCH-STREET, London. It is a rich and nutritious article, at the same time the various properties of the Cocoa-nut are so combined as to make it agreeable to the most dyspeptic and admirably adapted to persons of a weak constitution.—Sold in  $\frac{1}{4}$  and  $\frac{1}{2}$  lb packets, at 8d. and 1s. per lb., throughout the Kingdom, by the Agents for John Cassell's Coffees.

All applications for these valuable Agencies to be made direct to JOHN CASSELL, 80, FENCHURCH-STREET, LONDON.

ALMANACKS FOR 1851.

THE FINANCIAL REFORM ALMANACK and FREEHOLDERS' MANUAL for 1851, price THREE-PENCE, printed on sixty-four pages, crown octavo.

This Almanack, besides the Calendar, and all other matter pertaining to Almanacks, contains a variety of original articles and statistics, showing the income and expenditure of the Government, the influence of taxation on the trade and industry of the country, the progress made in the great work of Financial Reform, &c. In addition, it also contains a mass of interesting, useful, and practical information on the Freehold Land Movement; the nature of the Forty-shilling Franchise, the state of the Counties, and the progress made by every Society in the kingdom, up to the date of publication, is shown. It is compiled from documents accessible exclusively to the Editor, and forms the only complete guide to Freehold Land Societies which has ever been published.

THE PROTESTANT DISSENTERS' ALMANACK for 1851, price THREE-PENCE, printed on sixty-four pages, crown octavo.

This Almanack is devoted to the elucidation and advocacy of the great principles of Religious Freedom. In addition to the information common to Almanacks, it contains a mass of Statistics of the various Religious Denominations and Societies of the Kingdom; Lists of Chapels occupied by Independents and Baptists in the Metropolis, with the names of the Ministers and the hours of service. Also, a Series of Original Papers upon the principal topics and events of interest in connection with Religious Freedom. Among which are:—Dissent in the power of its Principles, its Political Status, and its Religious Condition—Patronage—Sacred Appointments by the Ignorant and the Ungodly; Ecclesiastical Synods, what good have they done?—Working of State-Churchism: the Great Gorham Case—The Anti-State-Church Association: what has it done?—Claims of the Freehold Land Movement upon Dissenters—Condition of the Working Classes—The Temperance Movement—Address to Protestant Dissenters, &c.

PRICE FOURPENCE.

THE EMIGRANTS' ALMANACK for 1851.—This Almanack is one of the most comprehensive and complete ever published in connection with the subject of Emigration. It abounds with Practical Hints for Emigrants of every degree. Every possible care has been taken to ensure its entire accuracy.

Also, Price ONE PENNY, with Engravings, neatly printed on Thirty-two Pages, crown 8vo.

THE TEMPERANCE ALMANACK for 1851.

Besides the usual Calendar and Almanack matter, this will contain valuable information as to the principle and practice of Total Abstinence from Intoxicating Liquors, the Progress of the Temperance Movement, and other articles interesting to Teetotallers. Among which are:—Who would not be a Freeholder? Cost of Intemperance; Reasons for Sobriety; Stimulation; Public-houses; Sabbath-Schools; Strong Drink in its connection with Crime, Pauperism, Education; Drinking Usages; Moderate Drinking; Bands of Hope; Intemperance in Scotland; Fruits of Intemperance; Tree of Life, Tree of Death; Teetotal Budget; Address to the Working Classes; &c. &c.

TO LET, where there is a prospect of work for a steady Jobbing Bricklayer, a Four-roomed COTTAGE, SHED, and PADDOCK, and STABLE if required, situate at Snaresbrook, near Woodford, Essex.—Letters to be addressed to Mr. Ebenezer Clarke, Voluntary House, Walthamstow.

Price One Penny, Stamped Twopence,

THE NATIONAL TEMPERANCE CHRONICLE.

The present conductors of this Journal purpose, with the kind co-operation of Temperance Societies and Private Abstinents, to make it second to none for its literary ability, and fearless advocacy of the great principles involved in Total Abstinence from Alcoholic Beverages. In the meantime they are happy to announce that, besides the talented writers who have hitherto contributed to its pages, other ladies and gentlemen of high literary repute have handsomely offered their aid.

Published on the first day of every month, by the Proprietor, W. TWEEDIE, Bookseller, 11, Wellington-street North, Strand, to whom all communications must be sent. Articles for insertion, and orders for Stamped Copies, must be to hand before the 15th of the month. Post-office Orders to be made payable at the Post-office, Strand.

GUTTA PERCHA HEARING APPARATUS.—The Gutta Percha Company have the pleasure to own the receipt of the following letters in approval of the Gutta Percha Hearing Apparatus, for enabling the Deaf to hear Sermons, &c., in Churches, Chapels, &c.

From the Rev. George Wilkins, Minister of New Broad-street Chapel, London.

"I have much pleasure in bearing testimony to the entire success of the Gutta Percha Hearing Apparatus, which you recently fitted up in my pulpit.

"The lady, for whose accommodation it was designed is now enabled to HEAR WELL, and being EXCEEDINGLY DEAF, this result is the more satisfactory. A tin tube had been tried for three or four years, but this afforded no assistance,—it was as complete a failure as the Gutta Percha tube has proved completely successful.

"I shall have much pleasure in affording any recommendation, which it may be in my power, and any sceptical person may have the opportunity of testing it for himself by trial."

GUTTA PERCHA TUBING may be buried in damp or marshy ground without injury. Acids, alkalies, and grease are without action upon it, and it is therefore valuable for conveying water, chemicals, &c. It is peculiarly valuable for liquid manure, drain and soil pipes. Being a non-conductor, it is not affected by the frost of winter, like metal or leather. Its strength is extraordinary; the small half-inch diameter tubing having resisted a pressure of 250 lbs. on the square inch, without bursting. The smaller sizes may be had in 400 feet, and the larger in 50 feet lengths. The joints are easily made. The power which Gutta Percha Tubing possesses as a conductor of sound renders it most valuable for conveying messages, in lieu of bells.

Very information may be had on application to the GUTTA PERCHA COMPANY, PATENTEES, 18, Wharf-road, City-road, London

Printed and published by JOHN CASSELL, of 35, Acacia-road, St. John's-wood, Middlesex, at his Printing-office, 335, Strand, London. January 1, 1851.

THE
TEETOTAL TIMES
AND ESSAYIST.

PUBLISHED MONTHLY.

No. XXXVIII.—NEW SERIES.] LONDON, FEBRUARY, 1851.

{ Price One Penny.
{ Stamped, Twopence.

ASSOCIATION for the ABOLITION of the DUTY on PAPER, 4, Beaufort-buildings, Strand, London.

- COMMITTEE.
- Lord DUDLEY COUTTS STUART.
JOSEPH HUME, Esq., M.P.
CHARLES LUSHINGTON, Esq., M.P.
JAMES WYLD, Esq., M.P., 451, Strand.
R. BESLEY, Esq., 2, Fann-street, Aldersgate-street.
PETER BORTH WICK, Esq., "Morning Post."
JOHN CASSELL, Esq., 335, Strand.
T. B. CROMPTON, Esq., Farnworth, Bolton-le-Moors.
JONATHAN DUNCAN, Esq., 13, Chester-place, Kennington.
JOHN KAYE, Esq., 80, Fleet-street.
CHARLES KNIGHT, Esq., 90, Fleet-street.
EDWARD WOOLMER, Esq., "Gazette" Office, Exeter.
GEORGE STIFF, Esq., 334, Strand.
WILLIAM TYLER, Esq., Bolt-court, Fleet-street.

The Committee of this Association are desirous of obtaining the co-operation of all persons who feel interested in the removal of that obnoxious impost, the Excise Duty on Paper, and they therefore earnestly invite them to petition the Legislature without delay for its abolition.

As a Tax upon Knowledge it is oppressive and unjust. Members and Supporters of Mechanics' Institutions, Literary and Mutual Improvement Societies, &c., should petition for its repeal.

Merchants, Manufacturers, Tradesmen, and others, in whose hands paper forms an article of large consumption, are deeply interested in the abolition of this impost, inasmuch as it taxes them to the amount of from thirty to fifty per cent. They are therefore most earnestly called upon to petition for its repeal.

The Friends of Education should petition for the repeal of this tax, as by its removal knowledge would be more widely disseminated, and the blessings of education become more extensively felt and known.

The advantages which would result from the Abolition of the Tax upon Paper cannot be fully estimated. It would give increased employment to thousands of our industrious population, and stimulate many important branches of trade throughout all parts of the kingdom.

Forms of Petition, and every necessary information on the subject, will be furnished on application to G. HUGGETT, Sec.

LIST OF SUBSCRIPTIONS ALREADY RECEIVED.

T. B. Crompton, Esq., Farnworth.....	£50	0	0
Messrs. Wrigley and Son, Bury.....	50	0	0
J. Cassell, Esq., London.....	25	0	0
H. Ingram, Esq., ditto.....	25	0	0
John Kaye, Esq., ditto.....	25	0	0
George Stiff, Esq., ditto.....	25	0	0
Messrs. Cameron and Co., Dublin.....	20	0	0
Messrs. Smith and Ingle, Manchester.....	20	0	0
Messrs. C. and H. Potter, Darwin.....	20	0	0
Messrs. Robert and William Chambers, Edinburgh.....	20	0	0
J. Smith, Esq., Keighley.....	15	0	0
James Baldwin, Esq., Birmingham.....	10	0	0
T. B. Parke, Esq., Chorley.....	10	0	0
John Appleton, Esq., Manchester.....	10	0	0
Thomas Holden, Esq., Bury.....	10	0	0
Mark Phillips, Esq., Manchester.....	10	0	0
Messrs. Garnett, Oley.....	10	0	0
Smithson and Mayfield, Hull.....	10	0	0
J. Neill, Esq., Leeds.....	10	0	0
Messrs. Miller and Co., ditto.....	10	0	0
Messrs. Martin and Co., ditto.....	10	0	0
Leaf, Coles, and Co., London.....	10	0	0
Messrs. Turnley and Co., Mottram.....	7	10	0
Messrs. R. Besley and Co., London.....	5	5	0
Messrs. Knowles and Crook, Bolton.....	5	0	0
George Biggs, Esq., London.....	5	0	0
James Wyld, Esq., M.P., ditto.....	5	5	0
Messrs. J. H. and R. C. Rawlins and Co., Wrexham.....	5	0	0

Subscriptions received at the Office of the Association, 4, Beaufort-buildings.

THE THIRD TEMPERANCE DEMONSTRATION will take place in EXETER-HALL, on MONDAY EVENING, FEBRUARY 3.

JAMES S. BUCKINGHAM, Esq., WILL PRESIDE; and ADDRESSES will be delivered as follow:—

The Rev. THOS. SPENCER, A.M..

On "The Drinking Customs of Great Britain the Cause of vast Physical, Social, and Moral Evils, and Total Abstinence an Effectual Cure;"

The Rev. WILLIAM FORSTER,

On "The Duty of Professing Christians to Promote the Temperance Movement;"

The Rev. NEWMAN HALL, A.B. (of Hull),

On "The Moderate Use of Strong Drinks, by the more Influential Portion of the Community, a chief Impediment to the Progress of the Temperance Movement;" and

The Rev. G. W. M'CREE,

On "The Connexion of Strict Sobriety with the Worldly Prosperity, the Mental Improvement, and the Moral Greatness of Young Men."

Doors to be opened at Half-past SIX o'clock, the Chair to be taken at SEVEN o'clock precisely.

ADMISSION FREE

to all parts of the Hall except the Platform. Tickets for which, price Sixpence, may be had of the Treasurer, 335, Strand; Mr. Mathew, 14, Ivy-lane; Mr. Phillips, 39, Moorgate-street; Mr. Campbell, 350, Oxford-street; Mr. Draper, 88, Great Tichfield-street; Mr. Esterbrooke, 2, Upper Crown-street, Westminster; Mr. Bailey, Hawkstone-hall, Waterloo-road; Mr. Griffiths, 8, Southampton street, Pentonville; Mr. Tackley, Weir's-passage, Somers-town; and Mrs. Watts, Temperance-hotel, Catherine-street, Strand.

GUTTA PERCHA HEARING APPARATUS.

—The Gutta Percha Company have the pleasure to own the receipt of the following letters in approval of the Gutta Percha Hearing Apparatus, for enabling the Deaf to hear Sermons, &c., in Churches, Chapels, &c.

"From the Rev. George Wilkins, Minister of New Broad-street Chapel, London.

"I have much pleasure in bearing testimony to the entire success of the Gutta Percha Hearing Apparatus, which you recently fitted up in my pulpit.

"The lady, for whose accommodation it was designed is now enabled to HEAR WELL, and being EXCEEDINGLY DEAF, this result is the more satisfactory. A tin tube had been tried for three or four years, but this afforded no assistance,—it was as complete a failure as the Gutta Percha tube has proved completely successful.

"I shall have much pleasure in affording any recommendation, which it may be in my power, and any sceptical person may have the opportunity of testing it for himself by trial."

GUTTA PERCHA TUBING may be buried in damp or marshy ground without injury. Acids, alkalis, and greases are without action upon it, and it is therefore valuable for conveying water, chemicals, &c. It is peculiarly valuable for liquid manure, drain and soil pipes. Being a non-conductor, it is not affected by the frost of winter, like metal or leather. Its strength is extraordinary; the small half-inch diameter tubing having resisted a pressure of 250 lbs. on the square inch, without bursting. The smaller sizes may be had in 400 feet, and the larger in 50 feet lengths. The joints are easily made. The power which Gutta Percha Tubing possesses as a conductor of sound renders it most valuable for conveying messages, in lieu of bells.

Every information may be had on application to the GUTTA PERCHA COMPANY, PATENTEES, 18, Wharf-road, City-road, London

A CATALOGUE OF IPSWICH
TEMPERANCE PUBLICATIONS.

ALL these, whether Books, Tracts, Hand-bills, or Notice Papers, are sold in SIXPENNY PACKETS. Fifty Packets of either will be delivered to any address in London, for a Guinea, sent by Post-office Order to Richard Dykes Alexander, Ipswich; or they may be had of any Bookseller in the country through Simpkin, Marshall, and Co., Stationers-hall-court, London.

IPSWICH JUVENILE TEMPERANCE BOOKS,
32mo, nearly all with Pictures.

[These are now sold ONLY in Assorted Packets.]

Assorted Packet, No. 1, contains No. 1 to 16. Assorted Packet, No. 2, contains No. 17 to 32. Assorted Packet, No. 3, contains No. 33 to 46.

IPSWICH TEMPERANCE TRACTS.

Those Tracts marked with an * have Pictures. Pages.

1	The Doctor Scrutinized, by R. D. Alexander, F.L.S.	8
2	Striking Facts, ditto	2
3	Maker and Vender, ditto	2
4	Our Creed, ditto	2
*5	Adulterated Beer, ditto	4
*6	Adulterated Wine, ditto	4
7	The Malster, ditto	4
8	Go Feel what I have Felt	2
9	Facts are stubborn Things	2
*10	The Spirit Dealer,	2
11	Christian Teetotalism, by R. D. Alexander	2
12	The Trade, ditto	4
13	Alcohol, ditto	4
*14	Town of Ipswich, ditto	4
*15	Song of the Water Drinker	2
16	Stimulation not Strength	8
17	Farmer Woodman	4
*18	The Beer Barrel	8
19	Teetotal Recipes	4
*20	Speech of J. J. Gurney	4
21	Pity the Poor Drunkard	2
*22	The Fool's Pence	8
23	Why am I a Teetotaler?	2
*24	Dost thou Smoke, Bill?	4
25	The Laudanum Drinker	4
26	The Ox Discourse	4
27	Letter to the Clergy	20
28	Common Sense	20
29	Ralph the Soldier	4
30	Testimony of Physicians	4
31	The Working Man	20
32	Is I not happy?	4
33	David the Shoemaker, by R. D. Alexander	2
34	The Drunken Couple, ditto	2
35	Confessions of a Drunkard	2
36	Master Tailor, by R. D. Alexander	4
37	The Fatal Gift	4
38	Poor Sandy	4
39	Use and Abuse, by Archdeacon Jeffreys	2
40	The Schoolmaster	4
41	Water is Best, by J. J. Gurney	4
42	Cobbett's Advice	4
43	Take a Public-house	4
*44	A Sailor's Yarn	4
45	Moderate Drinking	12
46	The Pledge	4
*47	John Jarvis	12
48	The Fifteen Friends	4
49	Sunday-School Teachers	12
50	Sunday-School Children	12
*51	Money better than Beer	4
*52	Little Mary	8
53	Philosophy of Temperance, by R. D. Trail, M.D.	20
54	Love to Man	20
*55	Young Woman's Tract	12
56	Young Man's Tract	16
57	Dr. Campbell's Testimony	8
58	Why sign the Pledge?	2
59	The Poor Man's House Repaired	4
60	The Mother's Tract	8
61	The High Price of Food	4
62	Ladies' Tract Societies	8
63	The Praise of Water	2
64	Important Calculations	2
*65	The Farm Servant	2
66	Teetotalism Declining	8
*67	The Reformed Drunkard	8
68	The Recruit	8
69	No. 1 of Anecdotes	12
70	No. 2 ditto	12
71	No. 3 ditto	12
72	No. 4 ditto	12
73	Luke Husler	8
74	The Drunkard's Wife	12
75	The Unexplored Island	4
76	Ancient Wines, by R. D. Alexander	8
77	Influence of Example	2
*78	The Victim of Excitement	20
*79	My Medical Adviser	4
*80	The Restoration	4
81	The Use of Intoxicating Drinks, by Archdeacon Jeffreys	12
*82	Drink and be Happy	4
83	The Five Nips	4
84	The Honest Spirit Dealer	2

85	Seven Years' Experience	Pages. 2
*86	Education of the Drunkard, with 5 pictures	12
*87	A Word with Serious People, by John Bright, M.P.	4
*88	Guide to Glendalough	4
*89	Bridget Larkins	2
90	The Contrast	2
91	Tobacco a Cause of Intemperance	2
*92	The Wedding Night	12
*93	My Chapel	4
*94	The Best Men sometimes Err, by Archdeacon Jeffreys	8
*95	Testimonies of Eight Judges	2
*96	The Drunkard in Rags	2
*97	The Farmer and Labourer	4
*98	The Gloucestershire Farmer	4
*99	Strong Drink and Infidelity	8
100	Catalogue of Tracts	4
101	The Hertfordshire Farmer	2
*102	Sunday Schools	4
103	Confessions of a Publican	4
104	Peter Levison, or the Ruined Minister	2
105	John Angell James	2
*106	I do not drink Wine	2
*107	Self-Imposed Burdens	2
*108	The Craving of a Drunkard	8
*109	The Poor Orphan Boy	4
*110	Loss of Seven Fishermen	8
111	A Temperance Catechism	8
*112	The Mail Coachman	2
113	The Reformed Family	4
114	Licensing Day at Bolton	4
115	Stomach of a Drunkard	4
116	Ragged Schools	4
*117	Delirium Tremens	4
118	The Fire-Escape	4
119	The Sabbath Morn	4
*120	Can a Christian keep a Public House	8
121	The Aged Friend	2
122	The Village of Newbridge	2
123	The Mirror of Intemperance	4
*124	Alcohol: what it does, and what it cannot do; on the nutrition of the Body, and in the production of Disease; by Walter Johnson, M.B.	44
125	Barley, Malt, and Beer Question, by Dr. F. Lees	4
126	Keep away from the Public House	4
127	The History of Poor William	8
128	The Hearer to his Minister	4
129	Alcohol generates a tendency to Death. By Dr. E. Johnson	4
130	The Merchant's Dream	4
131	Address to Females	4
*132	History of J. B. Gough	48
133	Livesey's Malt Liquor Lecture	32
*134	My Mother's Gold Ring	8
*135	Miraculous Deliverance	4
136	The Drunkard's Dream	2
*137	Archibald Prentice's Speech on Sanitary and Social Means to Political Ends	8
*138	The Altered Man	2
*139	The Love-feast, by T. B. Smithies	2
140	George the Australian Emigrant	4
141	Advice to Soldiers, by Sir C. Napier	2
142	Medical Opinions, for the Aged	2
*143	Smoking and Snuffing, by J. Higginbottom, F.R.C.S.	8
*144	Wesleyan Teetotalism	8
145	Waste of Food	2
*146	The Man in the Cellar, and the Man without Hands	8
*147	Evil Spirits—a Poem	8
*148	Manchester "Go-a-Heads"	4
*149	Mothers, Doctors, and Nurses; a Dialogue between a Medical Man and his Friend, by J. Higginbottom, F.R.C.S.	12
150	Ten Solemn Opinions	2
151	Paralysis and Apoplexy; a Dialogue between a Medical Man and his Friend, by J. Higginbottom, F.R.C.S.	16
152	The Miraculous Deliverance, by the Author of the "Sinner's Friend," with the tract entitled the "Sinner's Friend" appended	36
*153	The Child's Question	4
154	Scene from Li	4
*155	The Christian Sabbath Breaker	4
*156	Reminiscences of a Tavern Parlour	8
157	Richard Wilkinson, the Railway Labourer	2
158	Missionary Facts	2
159	The Drinker's Song. By George Hood	2
160	Self-imposed Taxation	4
161	Testimonies of Wesleyan Missionaries	4
162	Sermon in a Tavern	4
163	The Wages of Labour as affected by Temperance. By Archibald Prentice	4
164	A Question of Vital Importance for Sunday-school Teachers, by John Templeton	16
165	The Drunkard's Death	4
166	Important Statistics	4
All the above can be had in Assorted Packets:—No. 1, Tract No. 1 to 30; No. 2, Tract No. 31 to 53; No. 3, Tract No. 54 to 72; No. 4, Tract No. 73 to 100; No. 5, Tract 101 to 126; No. 6, Tract 127 to 143; No. 7, Tract 144 and upwards.
Assorted Packets also—No. 10, Tracts for Roadside Distribution; No. 11, Tracts on the Principles of Teetotalism; No. 12, Tracts adapted for Farmers; No. 13, Tracts; Interesting Narratives; No. 14, Tracts suited for Poor Drunkards; No. 15, Medical Tracts.

NEW AND INTERESTING PUBLICATIONS

ISSUED BY

JOHN CASSELL, 335, STRAND, LONDON.

Just published, the Third volume of

THE PEOPLE'S BIOGRAPHICAL DICTIONARY. By the Rev. J. B. BEARD, D.D.—This will form the most select, compendious, interesting, and instructive work of the class which has ever appeared. While none of the world's "Great Men" will be overlooked, particular attention will be paid to those truly "illustrious" individuals who have distinguished themselves as the friends and benefactors of the people—the true patriots and philanthropists of their age. An appropriate space will be devoted also to those who, by persevering industry, have struggled successfully with the difficulties of their situation, and have risen to eminence in various departments of manufacture, art, science, and literature. This Dictionary will be completed in Four Monthly Volumes, each containing 144 pages, price 6d.; or in Two Double Volumes, neatly bound in cloth, price 1s. 4d. each.

A NEW and POPULAR HISTORY OF ENGLAND. By Dr. ROBERT FERGUSON, of Ryde.—The object of this History is not merely to exhibit a record of the actions of Kings and Cabinets, but to present a faithful and instructive HISTORY OF THE PEOPLE, with their progress in industrial arts and social amelioration. The First, Second, and Third Volumes, 6d. each; the Fourth, containing thirty-two pages extra, 8d.; or the whole, neatly bound in cloth, in Two Double Volumes, containing together upwards of Six Hundred Pages, 2s. 10d.—This History forms the Fifth, Sixth, Seventh, and Eighth Volumes of JOHN CASSELL'S LIBRARY.

*A superior edition of the History of England, beautifully printed on fine paper, and ornamented with a Portrait of the Author, will be published in a few days, the four volumes in one, price 3s. 6d., bound in cloth and lettered.

SAILINGS OVER THE GLOBE; or, the Progress of Maritime Discovery. These form the First and Second Volumes of JOHN CASSELL'S LIBRARY, and contain: The Rise and Progress of Navigation—Early Discoveries of the Portuguese—Voyages of Vasco de Gama, Mendez Pinto, and Magellan—Eastern Enterprises of the English, and First Circumnavigation of the Globe—the Four Voyages of Columbus—Cortes and the Conquest of Mexico—Pizarro and the Discovery of Peru—Voyages and Discoveries of Commodore Byron, Captain Wallis, and Captain Cook—Early Polar Expeditions—Recent Voyages and Discoveries of Scoresby, Parry, Ross, and Franklin. Price 6d. each Volume; or the two, neatly bound in one, in cloth boards, 1s. 4d.

FOOTPRINTS OF TRAVELLERS, forming the Third and Fourth Volumes of the Series, contains: Capel de Brooke's Travels in Norway, Sweden and Lapland—Lyall's Travels in the Crimea, the Caucasus, and Georgia—Ingli's Travels in the Tyrol—Travels among the Tartars by the Ambassador of the Pope, and also by Zwick and Schill—Burnes's Travels in Bokhara—Heber's Travels in India—Travels of Bruce to the Sources of the Nile—Park's Travels to the Banks of the Niger—Denham and Clapperton's Travels in Africa—Humbolt's Travels in the New Continent of America—Franklin's Journey towards the Polar Sea—Stephens's Travels in Central America—Travels of Lewis and Clarke to explore the Missouri. Price 6d. each Volume; or the two, neatly bound in one, in cloth boards, 1s. 4d.

JOHN CASSELL'S LIBRARY will be completed in Twenty-four Monthly Volumes, 6d. each; or Twelve Double Volumes, 1s. each; or neatly bound in cloth, lettered, 1s. 4d. each. This LIBRARY will include Original Works of the highest character, including History, Biography, and General Science.

THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND AND FAMILY INSTRUCTOR is published in Weekly Numbers, containing Thirty-two pages, crown octavo, price ONE PENNY.—Volumes I., II., III., and IV., price 1s. 6d. each, containing THIRTEEN WEEKLY NUMBERS, neatly bound in cloth, are NOW READY. This work abounds in valuable and interesting information, and is admirably adapted as a gift or prize-book for families or educational institutions.—MONTHLY PARTS are regularly published. price 6d., containing Four Weekly Numbers, besides the Supplementary Number for the Month, which is uniform in size and price with the Weekly Numbers, and is devoted entirely to Communications from Working Men.

UNPARALLELED LITERARY PRODUCTION.

Just published, neatly bound in cloth, price 1s. 6d.,

THE LITERATURE OF WORKING MEN: being the SUPPLEMENTARY NUMBERS OF THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND, from their commencement to the present time. With an Introductory Essay by BENJAMIN PARSONS. This may be regarded as one of the most remarkable and glorious literary achievements of modern times; it is at once a unique and striking demonstration of the intellectual and moral capabilities of the Working Classes. The subjects are various, and the mode in which they are treated has called forth the admiration of several distinguished Members of the British Senate, and the warm eulogies of a large portion of the Public Press.

NOW READY.

THE PATHWAY: A NEW MONTHLY MAGAZINE.

Among the characteristics of the age, no one can have failed to be impressed with its deeper life—its more profound thinking—its wider views—its scientific and religious tendencies—and hence its most earnest longings for that species of education and literature which will meet the necessities of an advanced humanity. Here a desideratum has long been felt, and the want of it long deplored. Our periodical religious literature is capable of great extension, and of equal improvement. With a view of supplying, in some degree, this desideratum, there was published on the FIRST of JANUARY, 1851, the First Number of a New Religious Magazine, entitled

THE PATHWAY,

In Twenty-eight pages octavo, price Three-halfpence, to be continued Monthly.

The articles are furnished by writers of known talent, and are characterized no less by their nervous and manly style than by the directness and force of their truth. Among other subjects the following will claim precedence:—

I.—THE BIBLE AND ITS CLAIMS.—Under this head will be found the most rigid modes of investigation into the character, pretensions, and claims of Divine Revelation; an examination of theological dogmas—the principles of sound and honest interpretation—criticism—popular and practical exposition.

II.—BIBLICAL GEOGRAPHY.—This will include the topical description of Palestine and other Oriental Countries:—their climate—their natural productions—the manners and customs of the people—with such facts in the history of the places and their population as may tend to illustrate and confirm the inspired record.

III.—HISTORY—SACRED AND PROFANE.—The object here will be to give such a connected view of events as to make it appear that they are all but so many parts of one great Divine plan.

IV.—CHRISTIAN PHILOSOPHY.—In this department the aim will be to bring all the facts of physical, mental, and moral science into connection with Christian truth, and to show their harmony with the higher and more certain teachings of the Book of God.

V.—BIOGRAPHY.—This will embrace characteristic sketches of those who have been eminent for intellectual and moral worth, and whose lives have been devoted to the higher interests of humanity.

VI.—MISCELLANIES.—These will include brief notices of all benevolent and religious movements; questions affecting the practical working of the Sabbath-school system; the progress of education; sound and useful maxims; poetry; and such subjects as may be deemed generally interesting and instructive.

CONTENTS OF NO. I.

1. The Introduction.
2. The Bible a Book of Facts.
3. The Domestic Altar.
4. Scripture Biography.
5. The History of the Church in all its branches, from the earliest times.
6. Scripture Geography: Palestine.
7. The Teacher and his Class: Caves and Tents.
8. "Goody Pearls."
9. The Circle of Science.
10. Poetry: "Welcome to 'The Pathway.'"

CONTENTS OF NO. II.

1. The Bible a Book of Facts.
2. Scripture Biography—Adam in Innocency.
3. The Church—its History: State of the World at the Introduction of Christianity.
4. Biblical Geography—Jerusalem as it was.
5. Religion and Science—Introductory Article.
6. The Teacher and his Class—Houses in the East.
7. "Press On!"
8. The Working Man's Sabbath.
9. "Goody Pearls."
10. Circle of Science.
11. Retrospect of the Month.
12. Poetry—Ode composed on New Year's Day.

The Work will be found exceedingly useful to the Teachers and elder Scholars of our Day and Sunday Schools, and will furnish an ever-accumulating fund of knowledge to the younger branches of the domestic circle.

London: JOHN CASSELL, 335, Strand; WARD and CO. Paternoster-row.

THE WORKING CLASSES OF GREAT BRITAIN; their Present Condition, and the Means of their Improvement and Elevation. Prize Essay. To which is added an Appendix. By the Rev. SAMUEL G. GREEN, A.B., of Taunton. Price 1s. 6d., in a stiff wrapper; or bound in cloth, 2s.—A Prize of Fifty Pounds was offered by Mr. John Cassell, for the best Essay upon the above subject, the adjudicators being the Rev. T. Spencer, A.M.; Edward Miall, Esq.; and Edward Swaine, Esq.; and was unanimously awarded to the above gentleman—his Essay being selected from almost fifty others.

BOOK FOR THE YOUNG. Price 6d.—The HISTORY OF PAPER-MAKING, TYPES, PRINTING, &c.

JOHN CASSELL'S ADVERTISEMENT—Continued.

THE DEBATES IN PARLIAMENT.

THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM.—There is every probability that the forthcoming Session of Parliament will be one of intense excitement, and the Debates will, of course, be deeply interesting to all classes of the community. The recent Papal Aggression and Lord John Russell's Letter to the Bishop of Durham, with other movements in connection with that Aggression, will occupy the early part of the Session. The great and important question of Reduction of Taxes will shortly follow. THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM will contain, from week to week, a well-digested Report of all these momentous proceedings.

THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM is now a firmly-established Journal, and occupies a pre-eminent position as the able exponent and advocate of all the great principles embodied in the terms, Political, Commercial, and Religious Freedom. It is also eminently a Family Paper. It is the largest Paper allowed by law. Price 5d., or 5s. 5d. per Quarter paid in advance.

A COUNTRY EDITION is published on Friday Evening, for delivery in the Provinces early on Saturday Morning. A TOWN EDITION is published on Saturday Morning, in time, also, for the Morning Mails; and a THIRD EDITION is issued at three o'clock, containing the Latest Intelligence, Foreign and Domestic, down to the hour of going to press. Order of any Bookseller in Town or Country.

OFFICE, 335, STRAND.

THE PROTESTANT DISSENTERS'

ALMANACK for 1851, price THREEPENCE, printed on sixty-four pages, crown octavo.—This Almanack is devoted to the elucidation and advocacy of the great principles of Religious Freedom. In addition to the information common to Almanacks, it contains a mass of Statistics of the various Religious Denominations and Societies of the Kingdom; Lists of Chapels occupied by Independents and Baptists in the Metropolis, with the names of the Ministers and the hours of service. Also, a Series of Original Papers upon the principal topics and events of interest in connection with Religious Freedom. Among which are:—Dissent in the power of its Principles, its Political Status, and its Religious Condition—Patronage—Sacred Appointments by the Ignorant and the Ungodly: Ecclesiastical Synods, what good have they done?—Working of State-Churchism; the Great Gorham Case—The Anti-State-Church Association: what has it done?—Claims of the Freehold Land Movement upon Dissenters—Condition of the Working Classes—The Temperance Movement—Address to Protestant Dissenters, &c.

CAUTION RESPECTING JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE.

JOHN CASSELL finds it necessary to caution the Consumers of his justly-famed COFFEE against purchasing imitations of his Packages. The fact that his Establishment is the largest in the kingdom, and his COFFEE most extensively consumed, has led numerous parties to attempt making up very inferior articles in the same style of Package; and some, to induce tradesmen to substitute their spurious article for that of JOHN CASSELL, offer a larger amount of profit. This has a tendency to prejudice the public, and hence the necessity of thus informing them that no Coffee can be the veritable JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE unless his signature is upon each Package. Go therefore to the Agent for JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, ask for JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, and see that it is JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE which is handed to you, having his Signature upon the Package. This is necessary, for there are numerous imitations, stringent and bitter to the palate, while JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE is rich and strong, at the same time that it is mellow and delicious, pleasing to the palate, and invigorating to the system.

The following are the prices at which they can be obtained:—

JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, No. 1 , an excellent article .....	1s. 4d.
JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, No. 2 , cannot fail to give great satisfaction, being a combination of the choicest growths of Jamaica, possessing richness, strength, and flavour .....	1s. 8d.
JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, No. 3 ; to every Connoisseur in Coffee this will prove a treat, combining the finest mountain growths of both Jamaica and Turkey .....	2s. 6d.

JOHN CASSELL'S FIVE-SHILLING TEA.—This is a combination of the finest and most carefully-selected Teas, the produce of choice, young, and tender plants. It possesses not only strength, but a peculiar and delicious fragrance, which cannot fail to render it pleasant to the most fastidious palate and to the exquisite taste of the connoisseur. This may be had either wholly Black or Black and Green mixed. It is sold in Catty Packages only, containing from two ounces to one pound; and every package bears the signature of "JOHN CASSELL," without which none can be genuine.

JOHN CASSELL'S SOLUBLE COCOA.—This article is one of superior excellence, and is prepared only at the extensive STEAM MILLS of JOHN CASSELL, 80, FENCHURCH-STREET, London. It is a rich and nutritious article, at the same time the various properties of the Cocoa-nut are so combined as to make it agreeable to the most dyspeptic and admirably adapted to persons of a weak constitution.—Sold in  $\frac{1}{2}$  and  $\frac{1}{4}$  lb packets, at 8d. and 1s. per lb., throughout the Kingdom, by the Agents for John Cassell's Coffees.

All applications for these valuable Agencies to be made direct to JOHN CASSELL, 80, FENCHURCH-STREET, LONDON.

FORTH'S COMMERCIAL and FAMILY BOARDING ESTABLISHMENT, 33, LUDGATE HILL, LONDON, is now open for the reception of Visitors.

Its characteristics will be, the most scrupulous cleanliness, a sincere desire to meet the wishes of its patrons, and to render it, in all particulars, a respectable, comfortable home.

The situation is in the centre of London. Omnibuses pass the house every minute through the day, and it is within a few minutes' walk of the principal steam-boat piers.

Terms, 4s. 6d. per day for Bed, Breakfast, and Tea; Dinners are an extra, but reasonable charge.

Conducted on Temperance Principles.

AN UNABRIDGED TRANSLATION, by A. R. SCOBLE, Esq., of M. GUIZOT'S celebrated Work entitled "The CAUSES of the SUCCESS of the ENGLISH REVOLUTION in 1640-88," neatly printed on good paper. To which is added a Biographical Sketch of its Author. People's Edition, price only 4d.—"The first publication of this work was somewhat high-priced, and the book was consequently out of the reach of the many. We have now, however, in Mr. Cassell's reprint of the work, a neat copy, which is accessible to all classes of readers. Any person who can command a very few pence can purchase the entire work, with a biographical sketch of the author prefixed. Such are the boons which the enterprise of the present day confers on the multitude. We hope that the latter will show that they are worthy of the blessing."—Liverpool Times.

Just published, SECOND EDITION, 16 pages, demy 8vo, price TWOPENCE.

VOICES FROM PRISONS AND PENITENTIARIES.

Respectfully addressed to the Teachers and Supporters of Sabbath-schools, and to all who regard the welfare of the rising generation.

The design of this publication is to show that, notwithstanding the vast and costly machinery of Sabbath-schools, a very large portion of the youth of both sexes, after having received instruction in those schools, are found walking in the paths of the Destroyer, and become inmates of Prisons, Penitentiaries, and Asylums, as is abundantly proved by authentic statistical returns. Also, to inquire into the causes of this comparative failure, and to point out an appropriate and efficient preventive. With extracts from the writings of the Rev. Dr. Campbell, the Rev. G. C. Finney, the Rev. W. Reid; and letters by W. H. Watson, Esq., Mr. W. Logan, &c. &c.

Also, Price ONE PENNY, with Engravings, neatly printed on Thirty-two Pages, crown 8vo,

THE TEMPERANCE ALMANACK for 1851.

Besides the usual Calendar and Almanack matter, this will contain valuable information as to the principle and practice of Total Abstinence from Intoxicating Liquors, the Progress of the Temperance Movement, and other articles interesting to Teetotals. Among which are:—Who would not be a Freeholder? Cost of Intemperance; Reasons for Sobriety; Stimulation; Public-houses; Sabbath-Schools; Strong Drink in its connection with Crime, Pauperism, Education; Drinking Usages; Moderate Drinking; Bands of Hope; Intemperance in Scotland; Fruits of Intemperance; Tree of Life, Tree of Death; Teetotal Budget; Address to the Working Classes; &c. &c.

TO TEMPERANCE SOCIETIES.

AN AGENT of the TOTAL ABSTINENCE SOCIETY, who has been engaged by various Associations, Metropolitan and Provincial, will be happy to accept an engagement as MISSIONARY. For testimonials as to character and qualifications, address, Missionary, 62, York-street, Plymouth.

Printed and published by JOHN CASSELL, of 35, Acacia-road, St. John's-wood, Middlesex, at his Printing-office, 335, Strand, London. February 1, 1851.

THE
TEETOTAL TIMES
AND ESSAYIST.

PUBLISHED MONTHLY

No. XXXIX.—NEW SERIES.]

LONDON, MARCH, 1851.

{ Price One Penny.
{ Stamped, Twopence.

REGISTRATION OF HOUSES

FOR

THE ACCOMMODATION OF THE WORKING CLASSES
DURING

THE GREAT EXHIBITION OF 1851.

UNDER THE PATRONAGE OF THE FOLLOWING GENTLEMEN:—

Lord DUDLEY COUTTS STUART, M.P.
Sir BENJAMIN HALL, Bart., M.P.
Sir JOSHUA WALMSLEY, M.P.
The Right Hon. THOMAS MILNER GIBSON, M.P.
RICHARD COBDEN, Esq., M.P., one of Her Majesty's
Commissioners for conducting the Exhibition.
LAWRENCE HEYWORTH, Esq., M.P.
JOSEPH HUME, Esq., M.P.
JAMES KERSHAW, Esq., M.P.
CHARLES LUSHINGTON, Esq., M.P.
Hon. F. J. LOCKE KING, M.P.
FRANCIS MOWATT, Esq., M.P.
WILLIAM SCHOLEFIELD, Esq., M.P.
WILLIAM WILLIAMS, Esq., M.P.
JOHN WILLIAMS, Esq., M.P.
JAMES WYLD, Esq., M.P.
The Rev. JAMES SHERMAN.
THOMAS SPALDING, Esq.
The Rev. THOMAS SPENCER, M.A.

IN consequence of Her Majesty's Commissioners finding themselves unable to carry out their anticipated system of Registration of Houses, in which persons could be accommodated with Lodging, Board, &c., it was proposed to accomplish that object by means of a committee of gentlemen of influence, upon which several of the above-named Members of Parliament and others kindly consented to serve. Various difficulties, however, being experienced in this method of proceeding, JOHN CASSELL, the proprietor of the WORKING MAN'S FRIEND—a publication which penetrates into almost every Factory and Workshop in the Kingdom, and is, besides, extensively read by all classes of the community—determined personally to conduct the undertaking, in order that an object so desirable to the persons who are able to provide accommodation, as well as to intending visitors, should be fully carried out. The plan he proposes to adopt, in pursuit of this design, has been laid before the above-named Members of Parliament and other gentlemen, who have all given him their names as Patrons, in order to testify their cordial approval of the scheme, and their entire confidence in the liberality and efficiency with which it will be carried out.

To collect the necessary data for the formation of the ARTISAN LODGING-HOUSE REGISTER, ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND FORMS will be immediately issued to as many housekeepers, in the course of a canvass conducted by an efficient body of agents. All persons who find they can make such domestic arrangements as will enable them to provide accommodation for one or more strangers, will be requested to fill these forms up, and deliver them to the Registration-office. The particulars upon which information will be required are—the number of beds available, and whether any of them are adapted for married couples, or otherwise for double occupation, the correct address, &c. &c. Every house, previous to its being placed on the Register, will be visited by a district inspector.

In the General Registry based upon these data, a uniform tariff of charges will be enforced—viz., for single bed per night, including boot-cleaning, 1s. 3d.; double bed, including boot-cleaning, 2s.; breakfast, consisting of tea or coffee and bread and butter, 8d.; if with meat, 1s. Arrangements with reference to other meals will be left to the discretion of the parties themselves. There will likewise be an arrangement by which persons may Register Lodgings or Apartments on their own terms.

As the Registration-office will be in constant communication with the Members and Secretaries of Artisan Clubs, and others contemplating a visit to town, the following advantages, amongst others, will follow to persons having lodgings to dispose of:—

1. The cost and trouble of advertising lodgings, and of looking out for lodgers, will be wholly avoided.
2. Every house will probably receive a constant succession of inmates, instead of being sometimes crowded and sometimes empty, as would necessarily be the case without some such plan to regulate the influx of visitors and secure their equal distribution.

Housekeepers availing themselves of this system of Registration must undertake to observe the following conditions:—

1. To provide clean and comfortable accommodation at a rate not exceeding 1s. 3d. per night for a single bed (including boot-cleaning), and 2s. per night for a double bed.

2. To provide breakfast, if required, of good quality, consisting of tea or coffee, and bread and butter, at a charge not exceeding 9d. for each person, or with extras, such as eggs or bacon, at 1s. Chops, steaks, &c., to be regarded as additions, and charged as agreed upon between the parties.

3. Not to let the registered lodgings independent of the Registration-office without sending timely notice to the Office, so as to prevent the possibility of disappointment to other persons.

All parties being provided with accommodation through the instrumentality of this Office will be charged a small fee (the amount of which will be regulated by the outlay involved, and announced as soon as it can be determined upon) before coming up, towards meeting the large expenses that will be incurred (probably it may be 6d. or 8d.), upon the receipt of which a card will be at once forwarded, stating the street and number of the house in which the accommodation provided is situated, and the direction in which the traveller must proceed towards it from the railway station; and, simultaneously with the transmission of such card, notice will be sent to the lodging-house to prepare for the reception of the guest. In this way trouble, anxiety, delay, and disappointment will be avoided on both sides.

The members and secretaries of provincial clubs are informed that the Office will act on their behalf, on terms which will hereafter be published, and endeavour, as far as practicable, to secure lodgings for each excursion party in the same district.

In all cases letters must be pre-paid, and a stamped envelope enclosed for an answer. But, as much as possible to save the expense of postage, THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND will publish weekly the number of beds registered. The circulation of THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND, however, being so large as to render it necessary to commence going to press at least nine days before the date of publication, and then to print from duplicate plates, all information that is wished to appear must be forwarded not later than that day to the Office.

Personal application may be made to the
REGISTRATION-OFFICE, 8, EXETER-CHANGE, CATHERINE-STREET, STRAND.

M. T. RAYMOND, General Manager.
J. W. GREEN, Hon. Secretary.
F. BELL, Acting Secretary.

THE FOURTH TEMPERANCE DEMON-

STRATION will take place in EXETER HALL, on MONDAY EVENING, MARCH 3. G. W. ALEXANDER, Esq., will preside. Addresses will be delivered as follow:—

Mr. D. G. PAINE—On "Entire Abstinence from Alcoholic Beverages the only effectual Preventive and Cure of Intemperance."

THOMAS BEGGS, Esq.—On "The Universal Adoption of the Practice of Entire Abstinence greatly promotive of the Physical, Intellectual, Social, and Moral Prosperity of the Community."

Rev. BENJAMIN PARSONS—On "The Chief Hindrances to the Progress of the Temperance Reformation."

Rev. R. GRAY MASON—On "The Encouragements to Persevering Exertion."

Doors to be opened at Half-past Six o'clock, the Chair to be taken at Seven o'clock precisely.

ADMISSION FREE

to all parts of the Hall except the Platform, Tickets for which, price Sixpence, may be had of the Treasurer, 335, Strand; Mr. Mathew, 14, Ivy-lane; Mr. Phillips, 39, Moorgate-street; Mr. Campbell, 350, Oxford-street; Mr. Draper, 88, Great Titchfield-street; Mr. Esterbrooke, 2, Upper Crown-street, Westminster; Mr. Bailey, Hawkstone Hall, Waterloo-road; Mr. Griffiths, 8, Southampton-street, Pentonville; Mr. Tackley, Weir's-passage, Somers-town; and Mrs. Watts, Temperance Hotel, Catherine-street, Strand.

UNPARALLELED LITERARY PRODUCTION.

Just published, neatly bound in cloth, price 1s. 6d.

THE LITERATURE OF WORKING

MEN; being the SUPPLEMENTARY NUMBERS OF THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND, from their commencement to the present time. With an Introductory Essay by BENJAMIN PARSONS. This may be regarded as one of the most remarkable and glorious literary achievements of modern times; it is at once a unique and striking demonstration of the intellectual and moral capabilities of the Working Classes. The subjects are various, and the mode in which they are treated has called forth the admiration of several distinguished Members of the British Senate, and the warm eulogies of a large portion of the Public Press.

"At a time when a mass of offensive publications are poured out every day and hour for the contamination of the minds of our working population, it requires no small courage and perseverance to stem the torrent, and to give it a better and healthier direction. In the present instance this effort has been ably undertaken, and if it be not un-successful, which we can scarcely suppose, the amount of good which it will do must be incalculable."—Bell's Weekly Messenger.

"Doubtless much of this remarkable volume is little more than compilation, though even in this respect it will stand a fair comparison with compilations by hands as skilled in that as these are in their own more 'lawful calling,' such as tailoring and shoemaking. There is internal evidence, however, of much more than compilation here, and although that gives no surprise to us, this little volume, as a whole, will certainly astonish many who have made a less accurate and just estimate of the calibre of the working man's mental abilities and acquisitions."—The Builder.

"We regard this handsome volume as one of the most remarkable phenomena of this remarkable age. A volume consisting of between 300 and 400 pages of closely-printed matter, produced by some scores of working men and women during their spare hours, and matter much of which would do no discredit to the best-known authors of the day, is something that demands more than a hasty perusal. The indefatigable publisher, on announcing his intention of receiving and publishing such contributions, received some 500 essays, from which the present volume has been made up, and no work—not even 'Mind among the Spindles'—is calculated to excite so wide an interest. Mr. Parsons, in a brief and interesting introduction, brings out the leading features of the work, and does great justice to the claims of the industrial classes for intellectual vigour as well as manual skill. The testimony, in favour of this work, of not a few of our most distinguished M.P.s has been forwarded to the publisher, and these show that Mr. Cassell's efforts to promote the happiness of the working classes are receiving consideration in high places. On glancing at the work we have found that many of the essays display an amount of knowledge and science almost incredible. Some of them are written in a very elegant style, and others display a mastery of thought to be met with in few of our popular authors. We commend the volume to the working classes themselves, and to all who love to see the progress of humanity, and the evidences of mind of a high order among the toiling millions."—Glasgow Examiner.

"This neat volume, introduced to the reader by an essay from the pen of B. Parsons, is a noble specimen of the artisan intellect (if we may use such an expression) of England. The enterprise of the publisher, which induced him to offer prizes of valuable books, has aroused the emulation of porters, shoemakers, compositors, bakers, carpenters, tailors, miners, labourers, &c., and the result is a variety of papers on as many different subjects, several of which are remarkable for elegance of diction, aptitude of logic, and strength and vigour of expression. There is not one of them but would do credit to periodicals of greater pretensions, while the usefulness of such a volume, not only as an exponent of intellectual advancement, and statistical of the working man's mind, cannot be too much insisted upon. We most cordially recommend it to our readers, and must express our conviction that in such works as this the publisher is doing an infinite amount of good."—Weekly Dispatch.

London: JOHN CASSELL, 335, Strand; and all Booksellers.

JOHN KAYE'S INFANT'S RESTORATIVE.

IT is matter for sincere congratulation that considerable attention has of late been paid to the health and longevity of the ADULT population of this country. The causes of disease and mortality have been pointed out, and excellent remedial measures have been suggested. The professors of the healing art, too, have devoted much of their time and attention to the prevention and cure of those diseases which are most prevalent amongst ADULTS; yet, strange to say, the health and longevity of INFANTS and CHILDREN have been grossly neglected—their condition has been either overlooked altogether, or remedies for their ailments have been proposed more dangerous than the ailments themselves. Hence DISEASE and DEATH are continually committing the most frightful ravages upon the Infant population. Careful inquiries have demonstrated that ONE-HALF of all the children born in this country are carried to the grave while in a state of infancy, or before they reach their fifth year! This is especially the case in large manufacturing towns.

It is important that MOTHERS and NURSES, and all who have the care of children, should be made acquainted with these facts. For, besides the loss of so many infants, society suffers seriously from the injuries sustained by those who survive. The health of many individuals is impaired for life while they are yet infants; their tempers are soured, and the full development of their physical and mental powers is materially checked and retarded. To prevent these fearful consequences, disease should be arrested in its incipient form. THE INFANT'S RESTORATIVE, prepared by JOHN KAYE, Esq., of Dalton-hall, near Huddersfield, and St. John's-wood-park, London, is a medicine well worthy the attention of all who desire the health and longevity of children. While it is most efficacious, it is so prepared as to be perfectly palatable, and even pleasant, to Infants and Young Children. It is warranted free from opium, and from all those stupefying and dangerous ingredients which are so frequently dispensed under the specious appellation of SOOTHING CORDIALS, and by the use of which many a mistaken mother extinguishes the slender flame of infant life, while she fondly imagines that she is cherishing and strengthening it.

KAYE'S INFANT'S RESTORATIVE is composed of a combination of agents which cannot fail to remove the causes of all the complaints to which infants are subject. It corrects acidity in the stomach, cools and purifies the blood, allays griping or irritation in the bowels, expels redundant wind, clears the lungs, and removes every unhealthy obstruction from the system, abundantly promoting the health of the child, and contributing to its growth, vigour, and cheerfulness.

During the important and trying period of Dentition, or Teething, KAYE'S INFANT'S RESTORATIVE cools the system, and thus allays pain by preventing disorder of the stomach and bowels, and lessening those inflammatory symptoms by which the majority of children, while teething, are so greatly annoyed.

In all Cutaneous Disorders, or Eruptions of the Skin, such as Measles, Nettlesrash, Chicken-pox, and others of that class, KAYE'S INFANT'S RESTORATIVE corrects the natural juices of the body, opens the pores of the skin, allowing perspiration to have its due course, materially reducing all the consequent eruptions, and so cooling the system that fever is greatly abated.

KAYE'S INFANT'S RESTORATIVE will be found invaluable in all other complaints to which children are subject, as Hooping-cough, Frog, Thrush, Croup, Ricketts, Slight Fevers, Convulsions, Fits, &c. &c. In these and similar instances it is equally efficacious, due care being paid at the same time to cleanliness, to suitable aliment, air, exercise, and clothing.

Parents and Nurses well know how difficult it is to administer medicines to infants in the form of pills or powders; but the INFANT'S RESTORATIVE is pleasant to the taste, is in a convenient form, and may be given with perfect safety to the most tender infant. Mr. KAYE did not make known this valuable medicine till he had repeatedly used it in his own family with success, and till its efficacy had been most triumphantly proved in his immediate neighbourhood. Wherever it has been introduced infants have taken it with eagerness, and it has at once superseded every other medical preparation.

A few Testimonies, selected from those most recently received, are subjoined:—

"Having given your Infant's Restorative a fair trial, I can, from what it has effected in the case of my own child, confidently recommend it as a most invaluable remedy, especially for the pain to which children are subject during the time of teething, by soothing them and relieving them from the many irregularities which almost invariably accompany that critical period. I wish you an extensive sale for your inestimable Restorative. I shall recommend it to all within the sphere of my influence.—JOHN FREEMAN, City Missionary, Metropolitan-buildings, Somers'-town, London."

"I conceive it to be only an act of justice to yourself, and of duty to parents and guardians of infants, to state that your Infant's Restorative has fully accomplished, in my family, all that your advertisement declares it is able to do. I have given it to a child of mine, and am glad to state that it has relieved us from many of those gloomy apprehensions which it is natural for parents to feel in regard to the illness of their children.—E. RITA, Bream's-buildings, Chancery-lane, London."

"I read your advertisement, headed 'Kaye's Infant's Restorative,' and, from the application of it to one of my own family, I have no hesitation in expressing my belief that it is a striking exception to those medicines which justly merit the epithet of 'impositions.' In my case it has fully justified the recommendation you have given it. I can safely predict that, when it is once known by heads of families, it will be eagerly sought after, and will be found greatly preferable, both as to safety and efficiency, to those opiates so commonly administered to children, and which, most of them, prove stupefying and destructive. From my own knowledge, as well as from what I have heard others say of it, I believe that by its use the physical condition of the infantine portion of the community will be materially improved.—WILLIAM McLAREN, Water-lane, Blackfriars, London."

CAUTION.—As the majority of the medicines advertised for infants contain ingredients which are deleterious and injurious, purchasers will do well to see that the words "KAYE'S INFANT'S RESTORATIVE" are on the Government Stamp, and also that the Coat-of-Arms of Mr. JOHN KAYE, together with a fac-simile of his Signature, are on the printed Directions for Use, as no others are genuine.

Prepared by JOHN KAYE, Esq., of Dalton Hall, near Huddersfield, and St. John's-wood-park, London; and sold in bottles at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 3d., and 4s. 6d. each, with ample directions for use: in London, at No. 89, Fleet-street; also by Sutton and Co., 40, Bow Churchyard; Barclay's, 93, Farringdon-street; Edwards, 47, St. Paul's Churchyard; Dietrichsen and Co., 63, Oxford-street; Sanger, 150, Oxford-street; by Bolton and Co., York; Raines and Co., Edinburgh; by all the Agents for Kaye's Worsell's Pills, and by all respectable Medicine Venders throughout the Kingdom.—N.B. A considerable saving will be effected by purchasing the larger-sized bottles.

NEW AND INTERESTING PUBLICATIONS

ISSUED BY

JOHN CASSELL, 335, STRAND, LONDON.

Just published, the Third volume of

THE PEOPLE'S BIOGRAPHICAL DICTIONARY. By J. R. BEARD, D.D.—This will form the most select, compendious, interesting, and instructive work of the class which has ever appeared. While none of the world's "Great Men" will be overlooked, particular attention will be paid to those truly "illustrious" individuals who have distinguished themselves as the friends and benefactors of the people—the true patriots and philanthropists of their age. An appropriate space will be devoted also to those who, by persevering industry, have struggled successfully with the difficulties of their situation, and have risen to eminence in various departments of manufacture, art, science, and literature. This Dictionary will be completed in Four Monthly Volumes, each containing 144 pages, price 6d.; or in Two Double Volumes, neatly bound in cloth, price 1s. 4d. each.

A NEW and POPULAR HISTORY OF ENGLAND. By Dr. ROBERT FERGUSON, of Ryde.—The object of this History is not merely to exhibit a record of the actions of Kings and Cabinets, but to present a faithful and instructive HISTORY OF THE PEOPLE, with their progress in industrial arts and social amelioration. The First, Second, and Third Volumes, 6d. each; the Fourth, containing thirty-two pages extra, 8d.; or the whole, neatly bound in cloth, in Two Double Volumes, containing together upwards of Six Hundred Pages, 2s. 10d.—This History forms the Fifth, Sixth, Seventh, and Eighth Volumes of JOHN CASSELL'S LIBRARY.

* A Superior Edition of the History of England, beautifully printed on fine paper, and ornamented with a Portrait of the Author, is now ready, the four volumes in one, price 3s. 6d., bound in cloth and lettered; or elegantly gilt, 4s.

SAILINGS OVER THE GLOBE; or, the Progress of Maritime Discovery. These form the First and Second Volumes of JOHN CASSELL'S LIBRARY, and contain: The Rise and Progress of Navigation—Early Discoveries of the Portuguese—Voyages of Vasco de Gama, Mendez Pinto, and Magellan—Eastern Enterprises of the English, and First Circumnavigation of the Globe—the Four Voyages of Columbus—Cortes and the Conquest of Mexico—Pizarro and the Discovery of Peru—Voyages and Discoveries of Commodore Byron, Captain Wallis, and Captain Cook—Early Polar Expeditions—Recent Voyages and Discoveries of Scoresby, Parry, Ross, and Franklin. Price 6d. each Volume; or the two, neatly bound in one, in cloth boards, 1s. 4d.

FOOTPRINTS OF TRAVELLERS, forming the Third and Fourth Volumes of the Series, contains: Capel de Brooke's Travels in Norway, Sweden and Lapland—Lynall's Travels in the Crimea, the Caucasus, and Georgia—Ingllis's Travels in the Tyrol—Travels among the Tartars by the Ambassador of the Pope, and also by Zwick and Schill—Burnes's Travels in Bokhara—Heber's Travels in India—Travels of Bruce to the Sources of the Nile—Park's Travels to the Banks of the Niger—Denham and Clapperton's Travels in Africa—Humbolt's Travels in the New Continent of America—Franklin's Journey towards the Polar Sea—Stephens's Travels in Central America—Travels of Lewis and Clarke to explore the Missouri. Price 6d. each Volume; or the two, neatly bound in one, in cloth boards, 1s. 4d.

JOHN CASSELL'S LIBRARY will be completed in Twenty-four Monthly Volumes, 6d. each; or Twelve Double Volumes, 1s. each; or neatly bound in cloth, lettered, 1s. 4d. each. This LIBRARY will include Original Works of the highest character, including History, Biography, and General Science.

THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND AND FAMILY INSTRUCTOR is published in Weekly Numbers, containing Thirty-two pages, crown octavo, price ONE PENNY.—Volumes I., II., III., and IV., price 1s. 6d. each, containing THIRTEEN WEEKLY NUMBERS, neatly bound in cloth, are NOW READY. This work abounds in valuable and interesting information, and is admirably adapted as a gift or prize-book for families or educational institutions.—MONTHLY PARTS are regularly published, price 6d., containing Four Weekly Numbers, besides the Supplementary Number for the Month, which is uniform in size and price with the Weekly Numbers, and is devoted entirely to Communications from Working Men.

THE FRENCH LANGUAGE MADE EASY.

A Series of Familiar LESSONS IN FRENCH was commenced in No. 60, and continued in subsequent Numbers. Those who wish to learn French will do well to obtain these Numbers, as, by devoting a little leisure to the study of these plain and simple lessons, they may acquire a good knowledge of that language in a short space of time.

NOW READY,

THE PATHWAY: A NEW MONTHLY RELIGIOUS MAGAZINE—No. III., for March,

CONTAINS:

- Benevolence of Christianity.
- Scripture Biography: Adam, Part 2.
- The Church—its History: Condition of the Heathen Nations at the Rise of Christianity.
- Biblical Geography: Jerusalem as it is.
- The Scientific Spirit.
- Press On!
- Circle of Sacred Science.
- Retrospect of the Month, &c.

CONTENTS OF NO. I.

1. The Introduction.
2. The Bible a Book of Facts.
3. The Domestic Altar.
4. Scripture Biography.
5. The History of the Church in all its branches, from the earliest times.
6. Scripture Geography: Palestine.
7. The Teacher and his Class: Caves and Tents.
8. "Goodly Pearls."
9. The Circle of Science.
10. Poetry: "Welcome to 'The Pathway.'"

CONTENTS OF NO. II.

1. The Bible a Book of Facts.
2. Scripture Biography—Adam in Innocency.
3. The Church—its History: State of the World at the Introduction of Christianity.
4. Biblical Geography—Jerusalem as it was.
5. Religion and Science—Introductory Article.
6. The Working Man's Sabbath.
7. Circle of Science.
8. Retrospect of the Month.
9. Poetry—Ode composed on New Year's Day.

The Work will be found exceedingly useful to the Teachers and elder Scholars of our Day and Sunday Schools, and will furnish an ever-accumulating fund of knowledge to the younger branches of the domestic circle.

AN UNABRIDGED TRANSLATION, by A. R. SCOBLE, Esq., of M. GUIZOT'S celebrated Work, entitled "The CAUSES of the SUCCESS of the ENGLISH REVOLUTION in 1640-88," neatly printed on good paper. To which is added a Biographical Sketch of its Author. People's Edition, price only 4d.—The first publication of this work was somewhat high-priced, and the book was consequently out of the reach of the many. We have now, however, in Mr. Cassell's reprint of the work, a neat copy, which is accessible to all classes of readers. Any person who can command a very few pence can purchase the entire work, with a biographical sketch of the author prefixed. Such are the boons which the enterprise of the present day confers on the multitude. We hope that the latter will show that they are worthy of the blessing.—Liverpool Times.

THE WORKING CLASSES of GREAT BRITAIN; their Present Condition, and the Means of their Improvement and Elevation. Prize Essay. To which is added an Appendix. By the Rev. SAMUEL G. GREEN, A.B., of Taunton. Price 1s. 6d., in a stiff wrapper; or bound in cloth, 2s.—A Prize of Fifty Pounds was offered by Mr. John Cassell, for the best Essay upon the above subject, the adjudicators being the Rev. T. Spencer, A.M.; Edward Miall, Esq.; and Edward Swaine, Esq.; and was unanimously awarded to the above gentleman—his Essay being selected from almost fifty others.

Just published, THIRD EDITION, on 16 pages, demy 8vo, price TWO PENCE,

VOICES FROM PRISONS AND PENITENTIARIES.

Respectfully addressed to the Teachers and Supporters of Sabbath-schools, and to all who regard the welfare of the rising generation.

The design of this publication is to show that, notwithstanding the vast and costly machinery of Sabbath-schools, a very large portion of the youth of both sexes, after having received instruction in those schools, are found walking in the paths of the Destroyer, and become inmates of Prisons, Penitentiaries, and Asylums, as is abundantly proved by authentic statistical returns. Also, to inquire into the causes of this comparative failure, and to point out an appropriate and efficient preventive. With extracts from the writings of the Rev. Dr. Campbell, the Rev. G. C. Finney, the Rev. W. Reid; and letters by W. H. Watson, Esq., Mr. W. Logan, &c. &c.

Price Threepence,

THE HISTORY and PROGRESS of TAXATION, as it relates to the Crown, the Aristocracy, and the People—History of the National Debt—Annals of the Poor-law—History of the Army and Navy—Pensions and Pensioners—Civil List, and Cost of the Executive, &c.

JOHN CASSELL'S ADVERTISEMENT—Continued.

COMMERCIAL, POLITICAL, AND RELIGIOUS FREEDOM.

THE STANDARD of FREEDOM is one of the most talented and vigorous Advocates of Liberty, Commercial, Political, and Religious. As a Family Paper, it blends the useful with the entertaining, giving not only the state of the Provision Markets, but a judicious and instructive Digest of Weekly Occurrences, and Notices of every Movement and Invention likely to advance Social Progress, or to increase Domestic Comfort. As a Commercial Paper, it reports faithfully the fluctuations of the Markets, the condition of Agriculture, Trade, Commerce, and Manufactures, at the same time that it advocates the Destruction of Prohibition, Restriction, and Monopoly, and the establishment of those principles which will effectually secure the prosperity alike of the Middle and Manufacturing Classes, and of the Working Multitudes. As a Journal of Philanthropy and Morals, THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM proves its sympathy with all the efforts that are now made, whether to advance Education, to abate the rigours of the Penal Code, to promote the Temperance Movement, to establish Peace and Universal Brotherhood, to diminish Pauperism, Juvenile Delinquency, and General Crime, or to maintain and perpetuate the practice and extension of Religious Truth.

THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM IS PUBLISHED REGULARLY EVERY WEEK, PRICE FIVEPENCE.

A COUNTRY EDITION is published on Friday Evening, for delivery in the Provinces early on Saturday Morning. A TOWN EDITION, containing Friday Evening's Debate to the close, is published on Saturday Morning, in time for the Morning Mails; and a THIRD EDITION is issued at three o'clock, containing the Latest Intelligence, Foreign and Domestic, down to the hour of going to press.

It is requested that all who wish to take in THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM will give an order to the nearest News-vender or Book-seller; or it can be ordered direct from the Publisher, by sending a quarter's subscription, 5s. 5d., in advance. All Money-orders to be made payable to the Proprietor, JOHN CASSELL, 335, Strand, London.

CAUTION RESPECTING JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE.

JOHN CASSELL finds it necessary to caution the Consumers of his justly-famed COFFEE against purchasing imitations of his Packages. The fact that his Establishment is the largest in the kingdom, and his COFFEE most extensively consumed, has led numerous parties to attempt making up very inferior articles in the same style of Package; and some, to induce tradesmen to substitute their spurious article for that of JOHN CASSELL, offer a larger amount of profit. This has a tendency to prejudice the public, and hence the necessity of thus informing them that no Coffee can be the veritable JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE unless his signature is upon each Package. Go therefore to the Agent for JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, ask for JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, and see that it is JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE which is handed to you, having his Signature upon the Package. This is necessary, for there are numerous imitations, stringent and bitter to the palate, while JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE is rich and strong, at the same time that it is mellow and delicious, pleasing to the palate, and invigorating to the system.

The following are the prices at which they can be obtained:—

JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, No. 1, an excellent article .....	1s. 4d.
JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, No. 2, cannot fail to give great satisfaction, being a combination of the choicest growths of Jamaica, possessing richness, strength, and flavour .....	1s. 8d.
JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, No. 3; to every Connoisseur in Coffee this will prove a treat, combining the finest mountain growths of both Jamaica and Turkey .....	2s. 0d.

JOHN CASSELL'S FIVE-SHILLING TEA.—This is a combination of the finest and most carefully-selected Teas, the produce of choice, young, and tender plants. It possesses not only strength, but a peculiar and delicious fragrance, which cannot fail to render it pleasant to the most fastidious palate and to the exquisite taste of the connoisseur. This may be had either wholly Black or Black and Green mixed. It is sold in Catty Packages only, containing from two ounces to one pound; and every package bears the signature of "JOHN CASSELL," without which none can be genuine.

JOHN CASSELL'S SOLUBLE COCOA.—This article is one of superior excellence, and is prepared only at the extensive STEAM MILLS of JOHN CASSELL, 80, FENCHURCH-STREET, London. It is a rich and nutritious article, at the same time the various properties of the Cocoa-nut are so combined as to make it agreeable to the most dyspeptic and admirably adapted to persons of a weak constitution.—Sold in  $\frac{1}{4}$  and  $\frac{1}{2}$  lb packets, at 8d. and 1s. per lb., throughout the Kingdom by the Agents for John Cassell's Coffees.

W. H. BARNESLEY'S COMMERCIAL and TEMPERANCE HOTEL, Nos. 4 and 6, Gore-street, Piccadilly, Manchester, three minutes' walk from the Birmingham and the Sheffield and Lincolnshire Railway Stations.

W. H. BARNESLEY begs to call the attention of his Commercial Friends to the above Establishment, affording, as it does, every facility for business, combined with attention to their personal comfort and convenience.

As a Teetotaler of near fourteen years' standing, W. H. B. hopes to be favoured with a fair measure of the support of the Friends of Temperance visiting Manchester, as well as the Temperance Public generally.

Vegetarians provided with every variety of Diet suitable to their views.

A Good Commercial Room, Good Bed-rooms, and Well-aired Beds. Omnibuses to and from each Station.

THE STRANGERS' AND VISITORS' GUIDE THROUGH LONDON.

Early in April next will be published, price Ninepence,

THE LONDON CONDUCTOR.

Embellished with a SPLENDID MAP of the METROPOLIS and SUBURBS.—The aim of THE LONDON CONDUCTOR will be to guide to every place of Amusement, and to every Exhibition, both free and otherwise, with an interesting Description of each, and the Plainest Route to the same from various parts of London—Five Days in London—How to get over the Ground—The Expense of Living—Sights, Palaces, Monuments, Buildings, &c.—List of Boarding and Lodging Houses, Hotels—The most interesting Spots round London, and the Easiest Mode of Getting to them, &c. &c.—Every person intending to visit London ought to be provided with this "Conductor."

TO ADVERTISERS.—The charge for inserting advertisements will be per edition, each edition to consist of Ten Thousand copies, the charge for which will be Two Guineas per page, or One Pound Five Shillings for half a page. Advertisers, on forwarding their advertisements, will please to state how many editions they may wish to avail themselves of.—OFFICE, 335, STRAND.

Price ONE PENNY, with Engravings, neatly printed on Thirty-two Pages, crown 8vo,

THE TEMPERANCE ALMANACK for 1851.

Besides the usual Calendar and Almanack matter, this will contain valuable information as to the principle and practice of Total Abstinence from Intoxicating Liquors, the Progress of the Temperance Movement, and other articles interesting to Teetotalers. Among which are:—Who would not be a Freeholder? Cost of Intemperance; Reasons for Sobriety; Stimulation; Public-houses; Sabbath-Schools; Strong Drink in its connection with Crime, Pauperism, Education; Drinking Usages; Moderate Drinking; Bands of Hope; Intemperance in Scotland; Fruits of Intemperance; Tree of Life, Tree of Death; Teetotal Budget; Address to the Working Classes; &c. &c.

BOOK FOR THE YOUNG. Price 6d.—THE HISTORY of PAPER-MAKING, TYPES, PRINTING, &c.

NOTICE TO TEMPERANCE SOCIETIES.

ALL LETTERS in future sent to the LEEK TEMPERANCE SOCIETY must be addressed to the Secretary, JESSE MOTERSHEAD, Stockwell-street, Leek, Staffordshire.

Lately published, with an Engraving of a Domestic Steam Bath, price, sewed, 1s. 6d.; cloth, 2s.,

ATMOPATHY and HYDROPATHY; or, How to Cure Diseases by Steam and Water; with a Chapter showing the remarkable Efficacy of Steam in the Cure of Asiatic Cholera; with Testimonials and Cases. By DAVID ROSS, of Manchester.
London: SIMPKIN, MARSHALL, and CO.; and may be had by order of all Booksellers.

Printed and published by JOHN CASSELL, of 35, Acacia-road, St. John's-wood, Middlesex, at his Printing-office, 335, Strand, London. March 1, 1851.

THE
TEETOTAL TIMES
AND ESSAYIST.

PUBLISHED MONTHLY.

No. XL.—NEW SERIES.]

LONDON, APRIL, 1851.

{ Price One Penny.
{ Stamped, Twopence.

REGISTRATION OF HOUSES

FOR

THE ACCOMMODATION OF THE WORKING CLASSES

DURING

THE GREAT EXHIBITION OF 1851.

UNDER THE PATRONAGE OF THE FOLLOWING GENTLEMEN:

Lord DUDLEY COUTTS STUART, M.P.

Sir BENJAMIN HALL, Bart., M.P.

Sir JOSHUA WALMSLEY, M.P.

The Right Hon. THOMAS MILNER GIBSON, M.P.

RICHARD COBDEN, Esq., M.P., one of Her Majesty's
Commissioners for conducting the Exhibition.

LAWRENCE HEYWORTH, Esq., M.P.

JOSEPH HUME, Esq., M.P.

JAMES KERSHAW, Esq., M.P.

CHARLES LUSHINGTON, Esq., M.P.

ABEL SMITH, Esq., M.P.

Hon. F. J. LOCKE KING, M.P.

FRANCIS MOWATT, Esq., M.P.

WILLIAM SCHOLEFIELD, Esq., M.P.

WILLIAM WILLIAMS, Esq., M.P.

JOHN WILLIAMS, Esq., M.P.

JAMES WYLD, Esq., M.P.

The Rev. JAMES SHERMAN.

S. MORLEY, Esq.

THOMAS SPALDING, Esq.

The Rev. THOMAS SPENCER, M.A.

In consequence of Her Majesty's Commissioners finding themselves unable to carry out their anticipated system of Registration of Houses, in which persons could be accommodated with Lodging, Board, &c., it was proposed to accomplish that object by means of a committee of gentlemen of influence, upon which several of the above-named Members of Parliament and others kindly consented to serve. Various difficulties, however, being experienced in this method of proceeding, JOHN CASSELL, the proprietor of the WORKING MAN'S FRIEND—a publication which penetrates into almost every Factory and Workshop in the Kingdom, and is, besides, extensively read by all classes of the community—determined personally to conduct the undertaking, in order that an object so desirable to the persons who are able to provide accommodation, as well as to intending visitors, should be fully carried out. The plan he proposes to adopt in pursuit of this design, has been laid before the above-named Members of Parliament and other gentlemen, who have all given him their names as Patrons, in order to testify their cordial approval of the scheme, and their entire confidence in the liberality and efficiency with which it will be carried out.

To collect the necessary data for the formation of the ARTISAN LODGING-HOUSE REGISTER, ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND FORMS will be immediately issued to as many housekeepers, in the course of a canvass conducted by an efficient body of agents. All persons who find they can make such domestic arrangements as will enable them to provide accommodation for one or more strangers, will be requested to fill these forms up, and deliver them to the Registration-office. The particulars upon which information will be required are—the number of beds available, and whether any of them are adapted for married couples, or otherwise for double occupation, the correct address, &c. &c. Every house previous to its being placed on the Register, will be visited by a district inspector.

In the General Registry based upon these data, a uniform tariff of charges will be enforced—viz., for single bed per night, including boot-cleaning, 1s. 3d.; double bed, including boot-cleaning, 2s.; breakfast, consisting of tea or coffee and bread and butter, 8d.; if with meat, 1s. Arrangements with reference to other meals will be left to the discretion of the parties themselves. There will likewise be an arrangement by which persons may Register Lodgings or Apartments on their own terms.

As the Registration-office will be in constant communication with the Members and Secretaries of Artisan Clubs, and others contemplating a visit to town, the following advantages, amongst others, will follow to persons having lodgings to dispose of:—

1. The cost and trouble of advertising lodgings, and of looking out for lodgers, will be wholly avoided.

2. Every house will probably receive a constant succession of inmates, instead of being sometimes crowded and sometimes empty, as would necessarily be the case without some such plan to regulate the influx of visitors and secure their equal distribution.

Housekeepers availing themselves of this system of Registration must undertake to observe the following conditions:—

1. To provide clean and comfortable accommodation at a rate not exceeding 1s. 3d. per night for a single bed (including boot-cleaning), and 2s. per night for a double bed.

2. To provide breakfast, if required, of good quality, consisting of tea or coffee, and bread and butter, at a charge not exceeding 9d. for each person, or with extras, such as eggs or bacon, at 1s. Chops, steaks, &c., to be regarded as additions, and charged as agreed upon between the parties.

3. Not to let the registered lodgings independent of the Registration-office without sending timely notice to the Office, so as to prevent the possibility of disappointment to other persons.

All parties being provided with accommodation through the instrumentality of this Office will be charged a small fee (the amount of which will be regulated by the outlay involved, and announced as soon as it can be determined upon) before coming up, towards meeting the large expenses that will be incurred (probably it may be 6d. or 8d.), upon the receipt of which a card will be at once forwarded, stating the street and number of the house in which the accommodation provided is situated, and the direction in which the traveller must proceed towards it from the railway station; and, simultaneously with the transmission of such card, notice will be sent to the lodging-house to prepare for the reception of the guest. In this way trouble, anxiety, delay, and disappointment will be avoided on both sides.

The members and secretaries of provincial clubs are informed that the Office will act on their behalf, on terms which will hereafter be published, and endeavour, as far as practicable, to secure lodgings for each excursion party in the same district.

In all cases letters must be pre-paid, and a stamped envelope enclosed for an answer. But, as much as possible to save the expense of postage, THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND will publish weekly the number of beds registered. The circulation of THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND, however, being so large as to render it necessary to commence going to press at least nine days before the date of publication, and then to print from duplicate plates, all information that is wished to appear must be forwarded not later than that day to the Office.

Personal application may be made to the
REGISTRATION-OFFICE, 8, EXETER-CHANGE, CATHERINE-STREET, STRAND.

M. T. RAYMOND, General Manager.

J. W. GREEN, Hon. Secretary.

F. BELL, Acting Secretary.

GREAT INDUSTRIAL DEMONSTRATION

in EXETER HALL, on MONDAY EVENING, April 7; when a number of Men engaged in Laborious Occupations will demonstrate, from their own experience, that entire Abstinence from Intoxicating Liquors is practicable in connection with the most arduous toil, and promotive of health, comfort, independence, and political, social, and moral elevation.

The attendance of Manufacturers, Employers, and all who are sincerely desirous of benefiting the Industrial Classes, as well as of those who are anxious to benefit THEMSELVES, is particularly requested.

Doors to be opened at Half-past Six o'clock, the Chair to be taken at Seven o'clock precisely.

ADMISSION FREE

to all parts of the Hall except the Platform, Tickets for which, price Sixpence, may be had of the Treasurer, 335, Strand; Mr. Mathew, 14, Ivy-lane; Mr. Campbell, 350, Oxford-street; Mr. Draper, 88, Great Titchfield-street; Mr. Esterbrooke, 2, Upper Crown-street, Westminster; Mr. Bailey, Hawkstone Hall, Waterloo-road; Mr. Griffiths, 8, Southampton-street, Pentonville; Mr. Tackley, Weir's-passage, Somers-town; and Mrs. Watts, Temperance Hotel, Catherine-street, Strand.

HASTINGS, SUSSEX.

TEETOTALERS and Others who may design to visit this charming Watering Place in the present Spring or coming Summer, may hear of comfortable and respectable LODGINGS, on reasonable terms, by applying, either personally or by letter (post-paid), to FREDERICK BECK, Grocer and Tea-dealer, Secretary of the Temperance Society, &c., 3, George-street, Hastings.

N.B.—The town of Hastings has communication with London by two lines of Railway, and can be reached therefrom in about two hours. It has also a Railway direct to Brighton, Portsmouth, &c., and also to Canterbury, Dover, and other large Towns of East Kent.

NEW TEMPERANCE NEWSPAPER.

On the 3rd Saturday of April, 1851, will be published, No. 1., price 3d., of

THE PIONEER, or Record of Movements;

A Liberal Newspaper of Physical and Moral Progress.—Its Pages will be devoted to the Illustration and Advocacy of ALL PROGRESSIVE MOVEMENTS, including the Temperance, Dietetic, Medical, and Spelling Reforms; it will explain and enforce the principles of Peace, Phrenology, Vital Magnetism, Homœopathy, and Hydropathy. It will elucidate the ideas and details of Co-operation; treat in a familiar Style of Popular Anatomy, Physiology, and the Philosophy of Health; opening its pages to the discussion and explanation of every scheme of human advancement, though pledging itself to advocate only those which have established themselves in truth and utility. It will also contain all the ordinary News and Topics of the Time, besides a variety of instructive and entertaining matter, selected from the highest literature of the day, or contributed by original writers of established repute. Literature, Art, and Science will contribute their beauties and wonders to its pages; the domestic hearth will be made more joyous by its flights of fancy, and the dwellers in the Ideal constantly refreshed by its poetic jewels and gatherings from the world of beauty. The Portraits and Biographical Sketches of eminent Temperance Reformers, commenced in the "Moral Reformer," will be continued in every other number of THE PIONEER, and oftener if circumstances justify.

London: WILLIAM HORSELL, Publisher, 13, Paternoster-row; and sold by all Booksellers, News Agents, and Secretaries of Temperance Societies.

TO TEMPERANCE SOCIETIES.

Just published, No. 1., price One Halfpenny, or 14s. per 1,000, wholesale, to be continued Monthly, of the a Journal intended for General Distribution.—The TEETOTAL TRACT MESSENGER will be supplied at a very small advance on the price of mere paper and print. The publication is so arranged that it may, if so desired, be divided into two tracts, or four tracts for gratuitous circulation, or perusal in families; each leaf of two pages being in fact a complete tract in itself, unconnected with any other matter. A Prospectus, fully detailing the plan, price, &c. &c., will be forwarded, post-free, on application.

TEETOTAL TRACT MESSENGER;

Published for the London Teetotal Tract Society, by WILLIAM HORSELL, 13, Paternoster-row; to whom all Communications for the Editor, Orders, Remittances, &c., are requested to be addressed.

NEW AND INTERESTING PUBLICATIONS

ISSUED BY

JOHN CASSELL, 335, STRAND, LONDON.

THE PATHWAY—the New Monthly
Religious Magazine—is rapidly rising in public esteem.

CONTENTS OF NO. I.—The Introduction.—The Bible a Book of Facts.—The Domestic Altar.—Biblical Biography.—The History of the Church in all its branches, from the earliest times.—Scripture Geography: Palestine.—The Teacher and his Class: Caves and Tents.—"Goodly Pearls."—The Circle of Science.—Religious Ceremonies.

CONTENTS OF NO. II.—The Bible a Book of Facts.—Scripture Biography: Adam in Innocency.—The Church—its History: State of the World at the Introduction of Christianity.—Biblical Geography: Jerusalem as it Was.—Religion and Science: Introductory Article.—The Working Man's Sabbath.—Circle of Science.—Retrospect of the Month.—Poetry: Ode composed on New Year's Day.

CONTENTS OF NO. III.—Benevolence of Christianity.—Scripture Biography: Adam, Part 2.—The Church—its History: Condition of the Heathen Nations at the Rise of Christianity.—Biblical Geography: Jerusalem as it Is.—The Scientific Spirit.—Circle of Sacred Science.—Retrospect of the Month, &c.

CONTENTS OF NO. IV.—The Weight and Force of Miracles.—The Church—its History: The Author—His Apostles—the Means and Amount of their Success.—Gravitation: Fancies and Facts.—Maternal Teachings: The Manna in the Wilderness.—"The Shadow of the Almighty."—Behaviour in the House of God.—The Jew; his Position and Prospects.—Books.—The Sabbath—school Teacher, No. II.: Houses in the East.—Three Rules for a Holy Life.—The Circle of Sacred Science.—Retrospect of the Month.

JOHN CASSELL'S PUBLICATIONS.

(Continued.)

DO YOU WISH TO LEARN THE FRENCH LANGUAGE BY AN EASY, SIMPLE, AND CHEAP PROCESS?

THEN TAKE IN

THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND,
price ONE PENNY, containing, weekly,

A LESSON IN THE FRENCH LANGUAGE.

Competent judges have pronounced these Lessons to be the best and the most easily understood of any that have ever appeared. The FIRST LESSON was published in the Number for Feb. 22.

THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND is the MOST REMARKABLE PUBLICATION OF THE DAY—Instructive, Elevating, and highly Interesting. THEN TAKE IT IN, for your own sake, and that of your Family.

Now ready, cloth lettered, 1s. 6d.,

THE FIFTH VOLUME of the WORKING

MAN'S FRIEND, containing upwards of Three Hundred and Fifty Pages of interesting and instructive matter.—As to the general character of "The Working Man's Friend," RICHARD COBDEN, Esq., M.P., asked, at a recent crowded meeting—"Is there a high-priced novel, or any newspaper published at 3d., that can be found more pure in morals, or more sound in every respect, than that penny publication, John Cassell's Working Man's Magazine?"

THE FREEHOLDER, the Organ of the FREEHOLD LAND MOVEMENT.—It is intended to enlarge the scope of THE FREEHOLDER, so as to embrace all kinds of information of use and interest to the Members of Freehold Land and Building Societies. In addition to the usual advocacy of the principles and record of the Progress of the Movement, and suggestions for the Management of Freehold Societies, it will contain copious Practical Instructions upon Building, Garden Cultivation, &c. &c., with appropriate

PICTORIAL ILLUSTRATIONS,

carefully adapted at once to secure economy and cultivate a taste for the beautiful. THE FREEHOLDER by this means will be rendered increasingly acceptable, and meet the new necessities developed by the rapid progress of this great Movement.—Price 3d.; Stamped, 4d.

JOHN CASSELL'S LIBRARY.*THE Thirteenth Volume of the LIBRARY

(to be published May 1st), will contain the First Part of an Original Work (to be completed in One Double Volume), by BENJAMIN PARSONS, entitled

THE SOURCES OF ENGLAND'S GREATNESS.*THE PEOPLE'S BIOGRAPHICAL DIC-

TIONARY: a Picture Gallery of Great Men of all Ages and Countries; especially of such as have lived within the Last Century, and by their own efforts raised themselves and benefited their species. By J. R. BEARD, D.D. This will include Vols. 9, 10, 11, and 12 of JOHN CASSELL'S LIBRARY, Vols. 9, 10, and 11, in stiff covers, 6d. each, and Vol. 12 (containing Thirty-two extra pages of names of persons inadvertently omitted in the former Volumes, and of Distinguished Characters who have died since the commencement of the Publication), price 8d.; or the whole, neatly bound in cloth in Two double Volumes, containing together upwards of 600 pages, 2s. 10d.

THE NEW AND POPULAR HISTORY

OF ENGLAND, by DR. ROBERT FERGUSON, of Ryde, Isle of Wight, forming the 5th, 6th, 7th, and 8th Volumes of this LIBRARY, is now ready, the first 3 Vols. at 6d. each, the 4th 8d., or the whole neatly bound in Two double Volumes, or the four Vols. in One, price 3s. 10d. A very Superior Edition, printed on Fine Paper, and illustrated with a Portrait of the Author (the Four Vols. in One), price 3s. 6d.; elegantly gilt, 4s.

* A Superior Edition of the History of England, beautifully printed on fine paper, and ornamented with a Portrait of the Author, is now ready, the four volumes in one, price 3s. 6d., bound in cloth and lettered; or elegantly gilt, 4s.

SAILINGS OVER THE GLOBE; or, the Progress of Maritime Discovery. These form the First and Second Volumes of JOHN CASSELL'S LIBRARY.

FOOTPRINTS of TRAVELLERS, forming

the Third and Fourth Volumes of the Series, contains: Capel de Brooke's Travels in Norway, Sweden and Lapland—Lynall's Travels in the Crimea, the Caucasus, and Georgia—Ingli's Travels in the Tyrol—Travels among the Tartars by the Ambassador of the Pope, and also by Zwick and Schill—Burnes's Travels in Bokhara—Heber's Travels in India—Travels of Bruce to the Sources of the Nile, &c. &c.

JOHN CASSELL'S LIBRARY will be completed in Twenty-four Monthly Volumes, 6d. each; or Twelve Double Volumes, 1s. each; or neatly bound in cloth, lettered, 1s. 4d. each. This LIBRARY will include Original Works of the highest character, including History, Biography, and General Science.

A CATALOGUE OF IPSWICH
TEMPERANCE PUBLICATIONS.

ALL these, whether Books, Tracts, Hand-bills, or Notice Papers, are sold in SIXPENNY PACKETS. Fifty Packets of either will be delivered to any address in London, or a Guinea, sent by Post-office Order to Richard Dykes Alexander, Ipswich; or they may be had of any Bookseller in the country through Simpkin, Marshall, and Co., Stationers-hall-court, London.

IPSWICH JUVENILE TEMPERANCE BOOKS,
32mo, nearly all with Pictures.

[These are now sold ONLY in Assorted Packets.]
Assorted Packet, No. 1, contains No. 1 to 16. Assorted Packet, No. 2, contains No. 17 to 33. Assorted Packet, No. 3, contains No. 33 to 46.

IPSWICH TEMPERANCE TRACTS.

These Tracts marked with an * have Pictures.	Pages.
1 The Doctor Scrutinized, by R. D. Alexander, F.L.S.	8
2 Striking Facts, ditto	2
3 Maker and Vendor, ditto	2
4 Our Creed, ditto	2
*5 Adulterated Beer, ditto	4
*6 Adulterated Wine, ditto	4
7 The Maltster, ditto	4
8 Go Feel what I have Felt	2
9 Facts are stubborn Things	2
*10 The Spirit Dealer	2
11 Christian Tectotalism, by R. D. Alexander	2
12 The Trade, ditto	4
13 Alcohol, ditto	4
*14 Town of Ipswich, ditto	4
*15 Song of the Water Drinker	2
16 Stimulation not Strength	8
17 Farmer Woodman	4
*18 The Beer Barrel	8
19 Teetotal Recipes	4
*20 Speech of J. J. Gurney	4
21 Pity the Poor Drunkard	2
*22 The Fool's Pence	8
23 Why am I a Teetotaler?	2
*24 Dost thou Smoke, Bill?	4
25 The Laudanum Drinker	4
26 The Ox Discourse	4
27 Letter to the Clergy	20
28 Common Sense	20
29 Ralph the Soldier	4
30 Testimony of Physicians	4
31 The Working Man	20
32 Is I not happy?	4
33 David the Shoemaker, by R. D. Alexander	4
34 The Drunken Couple, ditto	2
35 Confessions of a Drunkard	2
36 Master Tailor, by R. D. Alexander	4
37 The Fatal Gift	2
38 Poor Sandy	4
39 Use and Abuse, by Archdeacon Jeffries	2
40 The Schoolmaster	4
41 Water is Best, by J. J. Gurney	4
42 Cobbett's Advice	4
43 Take a Public-house	4
*44 A Sailor's Yarn	4
45 Moderate Drinking	12
46 The Pledge	4
*47 John Jarvis	12
*48 The Fifteen Friends	4
49 Sunday-School Teachers	12
50 Sunday-School Children	12
*51 Money better than Beer	4
*52 Little Mary	8
53 Philosophy of Temperance, by R. D. Trail, M.D.	20
54 Love to Man	20
*55 Young Woman's Tract	12
56 Young Man's Tract	16
57 Dr. Campbell's Testimony	8
58 Why sign the Pledge?	2
59 The Poor Man's House Repaired	4
60 The Mother's Tract	8
61 The High Price of Food	4
62 Ladies' Tract Societies	8
63 The Praise of Water	2
64 Important Calculations	2
*65 The Farm Servant	2
66 Teetotalism Declining	8
*67 The Reformed Drunkard	8
68 The Recruit	8
69 No. 1 of Anecdotes	12
70 No. 2 ditto	12
71 No. 3 ditto	12
72 No. 4 ditto	12
73 Luke Hosler	8
74 The Drunkard's Wife	12
75 The Unexplored Island	4
76 Ancient Wines, by R. D. Alexander	8
77 Influence of Example	2
*78 The Victim of Excitement	20
*79 My Medical Adviser	4
*80 The Restoration	8
*81 The Use of Intoxicating Drinks, by Archdeacon Jeffries	12
82 Drink and be Happy	4
83 The Five Nips	4
84 The Honest Spirit Dealer	2

	Pages.
85 Seven Years' Experience	2
*86 Education of the Drunkard, with 5 pictures	12
*87 A Word with Serious People, by John Bright, M.P.	4
*88 Guide to Glendalough	4
*89 Bridget Larkins	4
90 The Contrast	3
91 Tobacco a Cause of Intemperance	3
*92 The Wedding Night	12
*93 My Chapel	4
*94 The Best Men sometimes Err, by Archdeacon Jeffries	8
*95 Testimonies of Eight Judges	2
*96 The Drunkard in Rags	2
*97 The Farmer and Labourer	4
*98 The Gloucestershire Farmer	4
*99 Strong Drink and Infidelity	8
100 Catalogue of Tracts	4
101 The Hertfordshire Farmer	2
*102 Sunday Schools	4
103 Confessions of a Publican	2
104 Peter Levison, or the Ruined Minister	4
105 John Angell James	2
*106 I do not drink Wine	2
*107 Self-Imposed Burdens	2
*108 The Craving of a Drunkard	8
*109 The Poor Orphan Boy	4
*110 Loss of Seven Fishermen	8
111 A Temperance Catechism	8
*112 The Mail Coachman	2
113 The Reformed Family	4
114 Licensing Day at Bolton	4
115 Stomach of a Drunkard	4
116 Ragged Schools	4
*117 Delirium Tremens	4
118 The Fire-Escape	4
119 The Sabbath Morn	4
*120 Can a Christian keep a Public House	8
*121 The Aged Friend	2
122 The Village of Newbridge	2
123 The Mirror of Intemperance	4
*124 Alcohol: what it does, and what it cannot do; on the nutrition of the Body, and in the production of Disease; by Walter Johnson, M.B.	41
125 Barley, Malt, and Beer Question, by Dr. F. Lees	4
126 Keep away from the Public House	4
127 The History of Poor William	8
128 The Hearer to his Minister	4
129 Alcohol generates a tendency to Death. By Dr. E. Johnson	4
130 The Merchant's Dream	4
131 Address to Females	2
*132 History of J. B. Gough	48
133 Livesey's Malt Liquor Lecture	32
*134 My Mother's Gold Ring	8
*135 Miraculous Deliverance	4
136 The Drunkard's Dream	4
*137 Archibald Prentice's Speech on Sanitary and Social Means to Political Ends	8
*138 The Altered Man	2
*139 The Love-feast, by T. B. Smithies	4
140 George the Australian Emigrant	4
141 Advice to Soldiers, by Sir C. Napier	2
142 Medical Opinions, for the Aged	4
*143 Smoking and Snuffing, by J. Higginbottom, F.R.C.S.	8
*144 Wesleyan Teetotalism	8
145 Waste of Food	2
*146 The Man in the Cellar, and the Man without Hands	8
*147 Evil Spirits—a Poem	8
*148 Manchester "Go-a-Heads"	4
*149 Mothers, Doctors, and Nurses; a Dialogue between a Medical Man and his Friend, by J. Higginbottom, F.R.C.S.	12
150 Ten Solemn Opinions	2
151 Paralysis and Apoplexy; a Dialogue between a Medical Man and his Friend, by J. Higginbottom, F.R.C.S.	16
152 The Miraculous Deliverance, by the Author of the "Sinner's Friend," with the tract entitled the "Sinner's Friend" appended	36
*153 The Child's Question	4
154 Scene from Li	4
*155 The Christian Sabbath Breaker	4
156 Reminiscences of a Tavern Parlour	8
157 Richard Wilkinson, the Railway Labourer	2
158 Missionary Facts	2
159 The Drinker's Song. By George Hood	2
160 Self-imposed Taxation	4
161 Testimonies of Wesleyan Missionaries	4
162 Sermon in a Tavern	4
163 The Wages of Labour as affected by Temperance. By Archibald Prentice	4
164 A Question of Vital Importance for Sunday-school Teachers. By John Templeton	16
165 The Drunkard's Death	4
166 Important Statistics	4
All the above can be had in Assorted Packets:—No. 1, Tract No. 1 to 30; No. 2, Tract No. 31 to 53; No. 3, Tract No. 54 to 73; No. 4, Tract No. 73 to 100; No. 5, Tract 101 to 126; No. 6, Tract 127 to 143; No. 7, Tract 144 and upwards.
Assorted Packets also:—No. 10, Tracts for Roadside Distribution; No. 11, Tracts on the Principles of Teetotalism; No. 12, Tracts adapted for Farmers; No. 13, Tracts; Interesting Narratives; No. 14, Tracts suited for Poor Drunkards; No. 15, Medical Tracts.

JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE.

THE great celebrity obtained for these COFFEES arises from the following combination of qualities:—
FIRST, they are strong, without being unpleasant or pungently bitter to the taste; SECONDLY, they are rich in flavour; and
THIRDLY, they possess a fine aroma.

The extensive patronage bestowed upon these Coffees demonstrates their adaptation to the public taste. No axiom can be more true, than that an article must be really good to secure an extensive and permanent demand: it therefore follows that JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE would not be kept in continued use by thousands of families throughout the kingdom, unless it was commended to them by qualities which really constitute a rich, strong, and refreshing beverage.

JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEES are made up in air-tight packages, containing from two ounces to eight ounces each, and in half-pound, one, two, and three pound Canisters. As a security to the public, his name is on each Packet or Canister, with a fac-simile of his handwriting, without which none can be genuine, and to imitate which is felony. And, further, JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEES can be obtained only from his regularly-appointed Agents. The following are the prices:—

JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, No. 1 ..... 1s. 4d.
An excellent Article.

JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, No. 2 ..... 1s. 8d.
Cannot fail to give satisfaction, being a combination of the choicest growths of Jamaica, possessing richness, strength, and flavour.

JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, No. 3 ..... 2s. 0d
To every Connoisseur in Coffee this will prove a treat, combining the finest mountain-growth of both Jamaica and Turkey.

AGENTS will be appointed in every town or locality where there is not one already. For terms, &c., apply to JOHN CASSELL, No. 80, Fenchurch-street, London.

District Consignees: Jasper Capper, Cannon-court, Cannon-street, Manchester; Newson and Co., Norwich; J. Young, High-street, Sunderland; J. Kilgour, Tolbooth-wynd, Leith; J. B. Gilpin, 59, Dame-street, Dublin.

THE STANDARD of FREEDOM is one of the most talented and vigorous Advocates of Liberty, Commercial, Political, and Religious. As a Family Paper, it blends the useful with the entertaining, giving not only the state of the Provision Markets, but a judicious and instructive Digest of Weekly Occurrences, and Notices of every Movement and Invention likely to advance Social Progress, or to increase Domestic Comfort. As a Commercial Paper, it reports faithfully the fluctuations of the Markets, the condition of Agriculture, Trade, Commerce, and Manufactures, at the same time that it advocates the Destruction of Prohibition, Restriction, and Monopoly, and the establishment of those principles which will effectually secure the prosperity alike of the Middle and Manufacturing Classes, and of the Working Multitudes. As a Journal of Philanthropy and Morals, THE STANDARD of FREEDOM proves its sympathy with all the efforts that are now made, whether to advance Education, to abate the rigours of the Penal Code, to promote the Temperance Movement, to establish Peace and Universal Brotherhood, to diminish Pauperism, Juvenile Delinquency, and General Crime, or to maintain and perpetuate the practice and extension of Religious Truth.

THE STANDARD of FREEDOM IS PUBLISHED REGULARLY EVERY WEEK, PRICE FIVEPENCE.

A COUNTRY EDITION is published on Friday Evening, for delivery in the Provinces early on Saturday Morning. A TOWN EDITION, containing Friday Evening's Debate to the close, is published on Saturday Morning, in time for the Morning Mails; and a THIRD EDITION is issued at three o'clock, containing the Latest Intelligence, Foreign and Domestic, down to the hour of going to press.

It is requested that all who wish to take in THE STANDARD of FREEDOM will give an order to the nearest News-vender or Book-seller; or it can be ordered direct from the Publisher, by sending a quarter's subscription, 5s. 5d., in advance. All Money-orders to be made payable to the Proprietor, JOHN CASSELL, 335, Strand, London.

THE STRANGERS' AND VISITORS' GUIDE THROUGH LONDON.

Shortly will be published, price Ninepence.

THE LONDON CONDUCTOR, Embellished with a SPLENDID MAP of the METROPOLIS and SUBURBS.—The aim of THE LONDON CONDUCTOR will be to guide to every place of Amusement, and to every Exhibition, both free and otherwise, with an interesting Description of each, and the Plainest Route to the same from various parts of London.—Five Days in London—How to get over the Ground—The Expense of Living—Sights, Palaces, Monuments, Buildings, &c.—List of Boarding and Lodging Houses, Hotels—The most interesting Spots round London, and the Easiest Mode of getting to them, &c. &c.—Every person intending to visit London ought to be provided with this "Conductor."

TO ADVERTISERS.—The charge for inserting advertisements will be per edition, each edition to consist of Ten Thousand copies, the charge for which will be Two Guineas per page, or One Pound Five Shillings for half a page. Advertisers, on forwarding their advertisements, will please to state how many editions they may wish to avail themselves of.—OFFICE, 335, STRAND.

THE WORKING CLASSES of GREAT BRITAIN; their Present Condition, and the Means of their Improvement and Elevation. Prize Essay. To which is added an Appendix. By the Rev. SAMUEL G. GREEN, A.B., of Taunton. Price 1s. 6d., in a stiff wrapper; or bound in cloth, 2s.—A Prize of Fifty Pounds was offered by Mr. John Cassell, for the best Essay upon the above subject, the adjudicators being the Rev. T. Spencer, A.M.; Edward Miall, Esq.; and Edward Swaine, Esq.; and was unanimously awarded to the above gentleman—his Essay being selected from almost fifty others.

UNPARALLELED LITERARY PRODUCTION

Just published, neatly bound in cloth, price 1s. 6d.,

THE LITERATURE OF WORKING MEN: being the SUPPLEMENTARY NUMBERS of THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND, from their commencement to the present time. With an Introductory Essay by BENJAMIN PARSONS. This may be regarded as one of the most remarkable and glorious literary achievements of modern times; it is at once a unique and striking demonstration of the intellectual and moral capabilities of the Working Classes. The subjects are various, and the mode in which they are treated has called forth the admiration of several distinguished Members of the British Senate, and the warm eulogies of a large portion of the Public Press.

The following Letter, in reference to this extraordinary Volume, has been received by Lord Dudley Couets Stuart, who transmitted a copy of the work, by the hands of Colonel Phipps, to His Royal Highness PRINCE ALBERT:—

"My Dear Lord Dudley, "Osborne, March 20, 1851.

"The Prince desires me to acknowledge the receipt of the volume of "The Literature of Working Men," which you have been good enough to send him through Colonel Phipps. His Royal Highness has much pleasure in accepting it, and begs you will have the goodness to convey to Mr. Cassell the expression of his best thanks.—I remain, yours, very truly, "C. GREY.

"The Lord Dudley Stuart."

Just published, THIRD EDITION, on 16 pages, demy 8vo, price TWOPENCE.

VOICES FROM PRISONS AND PENITENTIARIES.

Respectfully addressed to the Teachers and Supporters of Sabbath-schools, and to all who regard the welfare of the rising generation.

The design of this publication is to show that, notwithstanding the vast and costly machinery of Sabbath-schools, a very large portion of the youth of both sexes, after having received instruction in those schools, are found walking in the paths of the Destroyer, and become inmates of Prisons, Penitentiaries, and Asylums, as is abundantly proved by authentic statistical returns. Also, to inquire into the causes of this comparative failure, and to point out an appropriate and efficient preventive. With extracts from the writings of the Rev. Dr. Campbell, the Rev. G. C. Finney, the Rev. W. Reid; and letters by W. H. Watson, Esq., Mr. W. Logan, &c. &c.

BOOK FOR THE YOUNG. Price 6d.—The HISTORY of PAPER-MAKING, TYPES, PRINTING, &c.

London: JOHN CASSELL, 335, Strand.

IMPORTANT TO COMMERCIAL AND OTHER TRAVELLERS.

NEW TEMPERANCE HOTEL, PENRITH, CUMBERLAND.—T. HALL begs respectfully to inform Commercial Travellers and the Public generally that he has entered upon the Commodious Premises in Sandgate, Penrith, lately occupied by Mr. Hudson, Railway Contractor, which he has fitted up and opened for a Temperance Hotel, &c.

Every Attention will be paid to make those comfortable who may favour him with a visit.—Stabling, &c., connected with the Premises.—N.B. Conducted on True Temperance Principles.

Printed and published by JOHN CASSELL, of 35, Acacia-road, St. John's-wood, Middlesex, at his Printing-office, 335, Strand, London. April 1, 1851.

THE
TEETOTAL TIMES
 AND ESSAYIST.

PUBLISHED MONTHLY.

No. XL—NEW SERIES.]

LONDON, MAY, 1851.

{ Price One Penny.
 { Stamped, Twopence.

ACCOMMODATION
 OF
THE WORKING CLASSES

DURING THE
GREAT INDUSTRIAL EXHIBITION.

UNDER THE PATRONAGE OF THE FOLLOWING GENTLEMEN:

- Lord DUDLEY COUTTS STUART, M.P.
- Mr BENJAMIN HALL, Bart., M.P.
- Mr JOSHUA WALMSLEY, M.P.
- The Right Hon. THOMAS MILNER GIBSON, M.P.
- RICHARD CORDEN, Esq., M.P., one of Her Majesty's Commissioners for conducting the Exhibition.
- LAWRENCE HEYWORTH, Esq., M.P.
- JOSEPH HUME, Esq., M.P.
- AMES KERSHAW, Esq., M.P.
- HARLES LUSHINGTON, Esq., M.P.
- ABEL SMITH, Esq., M.P.
- John P. J. LOCKE KING, M.P.
- FRANCIS MOWATT, Esq., M.P.
- VILLIAM SCHOLEFIELD, Esq., M.P.
- VILLIAM WILLIAMS, Esq., M.P.
- JOHN WILLIAMS, Esq., M.P.
- AMES WYLD, Esq., M.P.
- The Rev. JAMES SHERMAN.
- J. MORLEY, Esq.
- THOMAS SPALDING, Esq.
- The Rev. THOMAS SPENCER, M.A.

In consequence of Her Majesty's Commissioners finding themselves unable to carry out their anticipated system of Registration of Houses, in which persons could be accommodated with Lodging, Board, &c., it was proposed to accomplish that object by means of a committee of gentlemen of influence, upon which several of the above-named Members of Parliament and others kindly consented to serve. Various difficulties, however being experienced in this method of proceeding, JOHN CASSELL, the proprietor of the WORKING MAN'S FRIEND—a publication which penetrates into almost every Factory and Workshop in the Kingdom, and is, besides, extensively read by all classes of the community—determined personally to conduct the undertaking, in order that an object so desirable to the persons who are able to provide accommodation, as well as to intending visitors, should be fully carried out. The plan he proposes to adopt, in pursuit of this design, has been laid before the above-named Member of Parliament and other gentlemen, who have all given him their names as Patrons, in order to testify their cordial approval of the scheme, and their entire confidence in the liberality and efficiency with which it will be carried out.

To collect the necessary data for the publication of the CLASSIFIED REGISTER, ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND FORMS have been issued to as many housekeepers, in the course of a canvass conducted by an efficient body of agents. All persons who find they can make such domestic arrangements as will enable them to provide accommodation for one or more strangers, have been requested to fill these forms up, and deliver them to the Registration Office, which has been done to some extent, and forms are daily being received. The particulars upon which information has been required are—the number of beds available, and whether any of them are adapted for married couples, or otherwise for double occupation, the correct address, &c. &c. Every house, previous to its being placed on the Register, has been visited by a district inspector.

In the General Registry based upon these data, a uniform tariff of charges is enforced—viz., for single bed per night, including boot-cleaning, 1s. 3d.; a double bed, including boot-cleaning, 2s.; breakfast, consisting of tea or coffee and bread and butter, 8d.; if with meat, 1s. Arrangements with reference to other meals is left to the discretion of the parties themselves. There is likewise an arrangement by which persons may Register Lodgings or Apartments on their own terms.

As the Registration-office will be in constant communication with the Members and Secretaries of Artisan Clubs, and others contemplating a visit to town, the following advantages, amongst others, will follow to persons having lodgings to dispose of:—

1. The cost and trouble of advertising lodgings, and of looking out for lodgers, will be wholly avoided.

2. Every house will probably receive a constant succession of inmates, instead of being sometimes crowded and sometimes empty, as would necessarily be the case without some such plan to regulate the influx of visitors and secure their equal distribution.

Housekeepers who have availed themselves of this system of Registration have undertaken to observe the following conditions:—

1. To provide clean and comfortable accommodation at a rate not exceeding 1s. 3d. per night for a single bed (including boot-cleaning), and 2s. per night for a double bed.

2. To provide breakfast, if required, of good quality, consisting of tea or coffee, and bread and butter, at a charge not exceeding 9d. for each person, or with extras, such as eggs or bacon, at 1s. Chops, steaks, &c., to be regarded as additions, and charged as agreed upon between the parties.

3. Not to let the registered lodgings independent of the Registration-office without sending timely notice to the Office, so as to prevent the possibility of disappointment to other persons.

The members and secretaries of provincial clubs are informed that the Office will act on their behalf, on terms to be mutually agreed upon, and endeavour, as far as practicable, to secure lodgings for each excursion party in the same district.

Personal or written application may be made to the
REGISTRATION-OFFICE, 8, EXETER-CHANGE, CATHEDRINE-STREET, STRAND.

M. T. RAYMOND, General Manager.
 J. W. GREEN, Hon. Secretary.
 F. BELL, Acting Secretary.

TEMPERANCE DEMONSTRATION.

THE SIXTH and LAST of the present Series of Large TEMPERANCE MEETINGS in EXETER-HALL will take place on MONDAY EVENING, MAY 12, JOHN CASSELL, Esq., in the Chair. Addresses will be delivered by several Ministers and Gentlemen from various parts of the Kingdom, and probably from America. Chair to be taken at Seven o'clock precisely.

WANTED, by a YOUNG MAN, aged 24,
 a SITUATION as Traveller, Book-keeper, Warehouseman, or any other situation where activity and trustworthiness is required. He is a Dissenter and a Teetotaler, and can have a three-years' undeniable character.—Address, post-paid, to M. W. B., Post-office, Totteridge, Herts.

TEMPERANCE MUSICAL ENTERTAINMENTS.

MR. SHERER, the SCOTTISH VOCALIST, has prepared a series of TEMPERANCE MUSICAL ENTERTAINMENTS, and is now ready to enter into arrangements to give one or more Evenings with those Societies which are in the Metropolis and its immediate neighbourhood only, as the object is, as far as possible, to aid in the diffusion of Temperance Principles during the months of the Exhibition.

Piano-forte Accompaniments.

"The Vocal Illustrations of Mr. Sherer are rendered with great discriminative ability. His voice is a beautiful tenor, of great volume and compass, and is managed with exquisite taste."—Douglas Jerrold.

"The singing of Mr. Sherer is the great charm by which he holds his audience in a spell."—The Sun.

"Mr. Sherer is a beautiful singer."—The Era.

"Mr. Sherer's Entertainments are most agreeable and satisfactory. In his recitations he exhibits a great deal of humour and dramatic feeling, whilst his singing is very characteristic and successful. His voice is a tenor combining great sweetness, power, and flexibility."—The Morning Advertiser.

Address, Mr. Sherer, London-street, Caledonia-row, Islington.

JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE.

THE great celebrity obtained for these COFFEES arises from the following combination of qualities—
FIRST, they are strong, without being unpleasant or pungently bitter to the taste; SECONDLY, they are rich in flavour; and
THIRDLY, they possess a fine aroma.

The extensive patronage bestowed upon these Coffees demonstrates their adaptation to the public taste. No axiom can be more true, than that an article must be really good to secure an extensive and permanent demand: it therefore follows that JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE would not be kept in continued use by thousands of families throughout the kingdom, unless it was commended to them by qualities which really constitute a rich, strong, and refreshing beverage.

JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEES are made up in air-tight packages, containing from two ounces to eight ounces each, and in half-pound, one, two, and three pound Canisters. As a security to the public, his name is on each Packet or Canister, with a fac-simile of his handwriting, without which none can be genuine, and to imitate which is felony. And, further, JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEES can be obtained only from his regularly-appointed Agents. The following are the prices:—

JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, No. 1 ..... 1s. 4d.
An excellent Article.

JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, No. 2 ..... 1s. 8d.
Cannot fail to give satisfaction, being a combination of the choicest growths of Jamaica, possessing richness, strength, and flavour.

JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, No. 3 ..... 2s. 0d.
To every Connoisseur in Coffee this will prove a treat, combining the finest mountain-growth of both Jamaica and Turkey.

AGENTS will be appointed in every town or locality where there is not one already. For terms, &c., apply to JOHN CASSELL, No. 80, Fenchurch-street, London.

District Consignees: Jasper Capper, Cannon-court, Cannon-street, Manchester; Newson and Co., Norwich; J. Young, High-street, Sunderland; J. Kilgour, Tolbooth-wynd, Leith; J. B. Gilpin, 59, Dame-street, Dublin.

IMPORTANT TO ADVERTISERS.

THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM and the GREAT EXHIBITION.—In addition to the extensive ordinary circulation of the STANDARD OF FREEDOM, no paper will be more widely referred to and consulted by individuals and families purposing to visit the Metropolis, as it will publish weekly full particulars of the amount and nature of accommodation available, embracing all kinds of furnished houses, lodgings, and suites of apartments, and serve as the organ of the great Registration Movement carried on by the proprietor, under the approbation and patronage of the following Members of Parliament, Ministers, and other gentlemen:—Lord Dudley Coutts Stuart, M.P.; Sir Benjamin Hall, Bart., M.P.; Sir Joshua Walsley, M.P.; the Right Hon. Thomas Milner Gibson, M.P.; Richard Cobden, Esq., M.P., one of Her Majesty's Commissioners for conducting the Exhibition; Lawrence Keyworth, Esq., M.P.; Joseph Hume, Esq., M.P.; James Kershaw, Esq., M.P.; Charles Lushington, Esq., M.P.; Hon. P. J. Locke King, M.P.; Francis Mowatt, Esq., M.P.; Wm. Scholefield, Esq., M.P.; William Williams, Esq., M.P.; John Williams, Esq., M.P.; James Wyld, Esq., M.P.; the Rev. James Sherman; S. Morley, Esq.; Thomas Spalding, Esq.; the Rev. Thomas Spencer, M.A.

Hence no medium for giving publicity to all matters of business can enjoy greater facilities. The STANDARD OF FREEDOM is the able and talented exponent of the principles of freedom, political, commercial, and religious. Three Editions of the STANDARD OF FREEDOM are published weekly, and Advertisements sent in time appear in the whole. Advertisements ought not to be sent to the Office later than the Thursday night preceding publication. Office, 335, Strand, London.

JOHN KAYE'S INFANT'S RESTORATIVE.

IT is matter for sincere congratulation that considerable attention has of late been paid to the health and longevity of the ADULT population of this country. The causes of disease and mortality have been pointed out, and excellent remedial measures have been suggested. The professors of the healing art, too, have devoted much of their time and attention to the prevention and cure of those diseases which are most prevalent amongst ADULTS; yet, strange to say, the health and longevity of INFANTS and CHILDREN have been grossly neglected—their condition has been either overlooked altogether, or remedies for their ailments have been proposed more dangerous than the ailments themselves. Hence DISEASE and DEATH are continually committing the most frightful ravages upon the Infant population. Careful inquiries have demonstrated that ONE-HALF of all the children born in this country are carried to the grave while in a state of infancy, or before they reach their fifth year! This is especially the case in large manufacturing towns.

It is important that MOTHERS and NURSES, and all who have the care of children, should be made acquainted with these facts. For, besides the loss of so many infants, society suffers seriously from the injuries sustained by those who survive. The health of many individuals is impaired for life while they are yet infants; their tempers are soured, and the full development of their physical and mental powers is materially checked and retarded. To prevent these fearful consequences, disease should be arrested in its incipient form. THE INFANT'S RESTORATIVE, prepared by JOHN KAYE, Esq., of Dalton-hall, near Huddersfield, and St. John's-wood-park, London, is a medicine well worthy the attention of all who desire the health and longevity of children. While it is most efficacious, it is so prepared as to be perfectly palatable, and even pleasant, to Infants and Young Children. It is warranted free from opium, and from all those stupefying and dangerous ingredients which are so frequently dispensed under the specious appellation of SOOTHING CORDIALS, and by the use of which many a mistaken mother extinguishes the slender flame of infant life, while she fondly imagines that she is cherishing and strengthening it.

KAYE'S INFANT'S RESTORATIVE is composed of a combination of agents which cannot fail to remove the causes of all the complaints to which infants are subject. It corrects acidity in the stomach, cools and purifies the blood, allays griping or irritation in the bowels, expels redundant wind, clears the lungs, and removes every unhealthy obstruction from the system, abundantly promoting the health of the child, and contributing to its growth, vigour, and cheerfulness.

In all Cutaneous Disorders, or Eruptions of the Skin, such as Measles, Nettlerash, Chicken-pox, and others of that class, KAYE'S INFANT'S RESTORATIVE corrects the natural juices of the body, opens the pores of the skin, allowing perspiration to have its due course, materially reducing all the consequent eruptions, and so cooling the system that fever is greatly abated.

KAYE'S INFANT'S RESTORATIVE will be found invaluable in all other complaints to which children are subject, as Hooping-cough, Frog, Thrush, Croup, Ricketts, Slight Fevers, Convulsions, Fits, &c. In these and similar instances it is equally efficacious, due care being paid at the same time to cleanliness, to suitable aliment, air, exercise, and clothing.

Parents and Nurses well know how difficult it is to administer medicines to infants in the form of pills or powders; but the INFANT'S RESTORATIVE is pleasant to the taste, is in a convenient form, and may be given with perfect safety to the most tender infant. Mr. KAYE did not make known this valuable medicine till he had repeatedly used it in his own family with success, and till its efficacy had been most triumphantly proved in his immediate neighbourhood. Wherever it has been introduced infants have taken it with eagerness, and it has at once superseded every other medical preparation.

A few Testimonies, selected from those most recently received, are subjoined:—

"I conceive it to be only an act of justice to yourself, and of duty to parents and guardians of infants, to state that your Infant's Restorative has fully accomplished, in my family, all that your advertisement declares it is able to do. I have given it to a child of mine, and am glad to state that it has relieved us from many of those gloomy apprehensions which it is natural for parents to feel in regard to the illness of their children.—E. RITA, Bream's-buildings, Chancery-lane, London."

"I read your advertisement, headed 'Kaye's Infant's Restorative,' and, from the application of it to one of my own family, I have no hesitation in expressing my belief that it is a striking exception to those medicines which justly merit the epithet of 'impositions.' In my case it has fully justified the recommendation you have given of it. I can safely predict that, when it is once known by heads of families, it will be eagerly sought after, and will be found greatly preferable, both as to safety and efficiency, to those opiates so commonly administered to children, and which, most of them, prove stupefying and destructive. From my own knowledge, as well as from what I have heard others say of it, I believe that by its use the physical condition of the infantine portion of the community will be materially improved.—WILLIAM MCLAREN, Water-lane, Blackfriars, London."

CAUTION.—As the majority of the medicines advertised for infants contain ingredients which are deleterious and injurious, purchasers will do well to see that the words "KAYE'S INFANT'S RESTORATIVE" are on the Government Stamp, and also that the Coat-of-Arms of Mr. JOHN KAYE, together with a fac-simile of his Signature, are on the printed Directions for Use, as no others are genuine.

Prepared by JOHN KAYE, Esq., of Dalton Hall, near Huddersfield, and St. John's-wood-park, London; and sold in bottles at 1s. 1d., 2s. 9d., and 4s. 6d. each, with ample directions for use: in London, at No. 80, Fenchurch-street; with also Sutton and Co., 10, Bow Churchyard; Barclay's, 95, Farringdon-street; Edwards, 67, St. Paul's Churchyard; Dietrichsen and Co., 63, Oxford-street; Sanger, 150, Oxford-street; by Bolton and Co., York; Rames and Co., Edinburgh; by all the Agents for Kaye's Worsdell's Pills, and by all respectable Medicine Venders throughout the Kingdom.—N.B. A considerable saving will be effected by purchasing the larger-sized bottles.

NEW AND INTERESTING PUBLICATIONS

ISSUED BY

JOHN CASSELL, 335, STRAND, LONDON.

THE STRANGERS' AND VISITORS' GUIDE THROUGH LONDON.

Now ready, price Ninepence,

THE LONDON CONDUCTOR,

Embellished with a SPLENDID MAP of the METROPOLIS and SUBURBS.—The aim of THE LONDON CONDUCTOR will be to guide to every place of Amusement, and to every Exhibition. Both free and otherwise, with an interesting Description of each, and the Plainest Route to the same from various parts of London—Five Days in London—How to get over the Ground—The Expense of Living—Sights, Palaces, Monuments, Buildings, &c.—List of Churches and Chapels in and near the Metropolis—The most interesting Spots round London, and the Easiest Mode of Getting to them, &c. &c.—Every person intending to visit London ought to be provided with this "Conductor."

An ILLUSTRATED EDITION of the CONDUCTOR will also be published, price One Shilling; and in French, price One Shilling and sixpence.

THE PATHWAY: A New Religious

Magazine. Consisting of Twenty-eight Pages, octavo, handsomely printed on good paper, price Three-Halfpence per Number.

This is a Magazine of deep interest to Families, to Sabbath-school Teachers, and to the Youth of England generally. Writers of known talent furnish articles for the various departments, which include: The Bible and its Claims—Biblical Geography—History, Sacred and Profane—Christian Philosophy—Biography—Miscellanies, and Select Poetry. Each article is distinguished no less by its nervous and manly style than by the directness and force of its truth.

THE PATHWAY has hitherto been published on the first day of each month; but in order to meet the requirements—and, indeed, the expressed wishes—of the large class of readers created by its issue, it is proposed for the future to publish it TWICE in each month—namely, on the FIRST and FIFTEENTH. This will afford more ample scope for carrying out the design of the publication, and conducting the reader more rapidly and continuously through the various departments connected above. The staff of writers—already including some of the ablest men of the age—will be increased; and it will be demonstrated that never in the history of religious literature has there been found any publication to compare with THE PATHWAY for cheapness, for the value and scope of the subjects treated, and for the high literary character of the general contents. In short, it is the intention of JOHN CASSELL to make THE PATHWAY a Religious Library in itself.

Testimonies as to the excellence of the numbers hitherto published have been borne by a large number of Ministers in the Metropolis and various parts of the Kingdom, and also by a considerable portion of the Public Press.

CONTENTS OF NO. I.—The Introduction.—The Bible a Book of Facts.—The Domestic Altar.—Biblical Biography.—The History of the Church in all its branches, from the earliest times.—Scripture Geography: Palestine.—The Teacher and his Class: Caves and Tents.—"Goody Pearls."—The Circle of Science.—Religious Ceremonies.

CONTENTS OF NO. II.—The Bible a Book of Facts.—Scripture Biography: Adam in Innocency.—The Church—its History: State of the World at the Introduction of Christianity.—Biblical Geography: Jerusalem as it Was.—Religion and Science: Introductory Article.—The Working Man's Sabbath.—Circle of Science.—Retrospect of the Month.—Poetry: Ode composed on New Year's Day.

CONTENTS OF NO. III.—Benevolence of Christianity.—Scripture Biography: Adam, Part 2.—The Church—its History: Condition of the Heathen Nations at the Rise of Christianity.—Biblical Geography: Jerusalem as it is.—The Scientific Spirit.—Circle of Sacred Science.—Retrospect of the Month, &c.

CONTENTS OF NO. IV.—The Weight and Force of Miracles.—The Church—its History: The Author—His Apostles—the Means and Amount of their Success.—Gravitation: Fancies and Facts.—Maternal Teachings: The Manna in the Wilderness.—"The Shadow of the Almighty."—Behaviour in the House of God.—The Jew; his Position and Prospects.—Books.—The Sabbath-school Teacher. No. II.: Houses in the East.—Three Rules for a Holy Life.—The Circle of Sacred Science.—Retrospect of the Month.

No. V. is now ready, and No. VI. on May 15.

The Work will be found exceedingly useful to the Teachers and elder Scholars of our Day and Sunday Schools, and will furnish an ever-accumulating fund of knowledge to the younger branches of the domestic circle.

UNPARALLELED LITERARY PRODUCTION

Just published, neatly bound in cloth, price 1s. 6d.,

THE LITERATURE OF WORKING

MEN: being the SUPPLEMENTARY NUMBERS of THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND, from their commencement to the present time. With an Introductory Essay by BENJAMIN PARSONS. This may be regarded as one of the most remarkable and glorious literary achievements of modern times; it is at once a unique and striking demonstration of the intellectual and moral capabilities of the Working Classes. The subjects are various, and the mode in which they are treated has called forth the admiration of several distinguished Members of the British Senate, and the warm eulogies of a large portion of the Public Press.

The following Letter, in reference to this extraordinary Volume, has been received by Lord Dudley Counts Stuart, who transmitted a copy of the work, by the hands of Colonel Phipps, to His Royal Highness PRINCE ALBERT:—

"My Dear Lord Dudley,

"Osborne, March 20, 1851.

"The Prince desires me to acknowledge the receipt of the volume of "The Literature of Working Men," which you have been good enough to send him through Colonel Phipps. His Royal Highness has much pleasure in accepting it, and begs you will have the goodness to convey to Mr. Cassell the expression of his best thanks.—I remain, yours, very truly,

"C. GREY.

"The Lord Dudley Stuart."

"Doubtless much of this remarkable volume is little more than compilation, though even in this respect it will stand a fair comparison with compilations by hands as skilled in that as these are in their own more 'lawful calling,' such as tailoring and shoemaking. There is internal evidence, however, of much more than compilation here, and although that gives no surprise to us, this little volume, as a whole, will certainly astonish many who have made a less accurate and just estimate of the calibre of the working man's mental abilities and acquisitions."—The Builder.

"At a time when a mass of offensive publications are poured out every day and hour for the contamination of the minds of our working population, it requires no small courage and perseverance to stem the torrent, and to give it a better and healthier direction. In the present instance this effort has been ably undertaken, and if it be not unsuccessful, which we can scarcely suppose, the amount of good which it will do must be incalculable."—Bell's Weekly Messenger.

"We regard this handsome volume as one of the most remarkable phenomena of this remarkable age. A volume consisting of between 300 and 400 pages of closely-printed matter, produced by some scores of working men and women during their spare hours, and matter much of which would do no discredit to the best-known authors of the day, is something that demands more than a hasty perusal. The indefatigable publisher, on announcing his intention of receiving and publishing such contributions, received some 500 essays, from which the present volume has been made up, and no work—not even 'Mind among the Spindles'—is calculated to excite so wide an interest. Mr. Parsons, in a brief and interesting introduction, brings out the leading features of the work, and does great justice to the claims of the industrial classes for intellectual vigour as well as manual skill. The testimony, in favour of this work, of not a few of our most distinguished M.P.'s has been forwarded to the publisher, and these show that Mr. Cassell's efforts to promote the happiness of the working classes are receiving consideration in high places. On glancing at the work we have found that many of the essays display an amount of knowledge and science almost incredible. Some of them are written in a very elegant style, and others display a mastery of thought to be met with in few of our popular authors. We commend the volume to the working classes themselves, and to all who love to see the progress of humanity, and the evidences of mind of a high order among the toiling millions."—Glasgow Examiner.

"This neat volume, introduced to the reader by an essay from the pen of B. Parsons, is a noble specimen of the artisan intellect (if we may use such an expression) of England. The enterprise of the publisher, which induced him to offer prices of valuable books, has aroused the emulation of porters, shoemakers, compositors, bakers, carpenters, tailors, miners, labourers, &c., and the result is a variety of papers on as many different subjects, several of which are remarkable for elegance of diction, aptitude of logic, and strength and vigour of expression. There is not one of them but would do credit to periodicals of greater pretensions, while the usefulness of such a volume, not only as an exponent of intellectual advancement, and statistical of the working man's mind, cannot be too much insisted upon. We most cordially recommend it to our readers, and must express our conviction that in such works as this the publisher is doing an infinite amount of good."—Weekly Dispatch.

BOOK FOR THE YOUNG. Price 6d.—
THE HISTORY of PAPER-MAKING, TYPES, PRINTING, &c.

JOHN CASSELL'S ADVERTISEMENT—Continued.

DO YOU WISH TO LEARN THE FRENCH LANGUAGE BY AN EASY, SIMPLE, AND CHEAP PROCESS?

THEN TAKE IN

THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND,
price ONE PENNY, containing, weekly,
A LESSON IN THE FRENCH LANGUAGE.

Competent judges have pronounced these Lessons to be the best and the most easily understood of any that have ever appeared. The FIRST LESSON was published in the Number for Feb. 22.

Now ready, cloth lettered, 1s. 6d.,

THE FIFTH VOLUME of the WORKING MAN'S FRIEND, containing upwards of Three Hundred and Fifty Pages of interesting and instructive matter.—As to the general character of "The Working Man's Friend," RICHARD COBDEN, Esq., M.P., asked, at a recent crowded meeting—"Is there a high-priced novel, or any newspaper published at 6d., that can be found more pure in morals, or more sound in every respect, than that penny publication, John Cassell's Working Man's Magazine?"

JOHN CASSELL'S LIBRARY.

The Thirteenth Volume of the LIBRARY is published this day, and contains the First Part of an Original Work, entitled

THE GREATNESS of the BRITISH NATION TRACED to its SOURCES. By BENJAMIN PARSONS. Price Sevenpence per Part, in stiff covers; or the whole complete in One Double Volume, neatly bound in cloth and lettered, price 1s. 6d.

* * The Volumes of JOHN CASSELL'S LIBRARY have hitherto been issued at the lowest charge which the heavy expenditure involved in their production would allow. As it had been demonstrated that the Excise duty on paper imposed very injurious restrictions upon a cheap popular literature, it was hoped that the representations made to the Chancellor of the Exchequer would have induced Her Majesty's Government to remit this impost; but all hope on this subject being now indefinitely deferred, and, in addition to this, a rise having taken place in the cost of paper (owing to a scarcity of cotton, and other circumstances), nearly equal in amount to the duty itself, it is found impossible to continue the publication at the prices hitherto charged without incurring a heavy loss. It will be necessary, therefore, to charge the remaining Volumes of the Library 7d. each in stiff covers, or 1s. 6d. for the double volume, neatly bound in cloth and lettered. At the same time, John Cassell pledges himself that the purchasers shall have the full value of the increased price in the excellence of the contents of the forthcoming Volumes.

THE PEOPLE'S BIOGRAPHICAL DICTIONARY:

a Picture Gallery of Great Men of all Ages and Countries; especially of such as have lived within the Last Century, and by their own efforts raised themselves and benefited their species. By JOHN R. BEARD, D.D. This includes Vols. 9, 10, 11, and 12 of JOHN CASSELL'S LIBRARY. Vols. 9, 10, and 11, in stiff covers, 6d. each, and Vol. 12 (containing Thirty-two extra pages of names of persons inadvertently omitted in the former Volumes, and of Distinguished Characters who have died since the commencement of the Publication), price 8d.; or the whole, neatly bound in cloth in Two Double Volumes, containing together upwards of 600 pages, 2s. 10d.

THE NEW AND POPULAR HISTORY OF ENGLAND, by DR. ROBERT FERGUSON, of Ryde, Isle of Wight, forming the 5th, 6th, 7th and 8th Volumes of this LIBRARY, is now ready, the first 3 Vols. at 6d. each, the 4th 8d., or the whole neatly bound in Two Double Volumes, or the four Vols. in One, price 2s. 10d.

* * A Superior Edition of the History of England, beautifully printed on fine paper, and ornamented with a Portrait of the Author, is now ready, the four volumes in one, price 3s. 6d., bound in cloth and lettered; or elegantly gilt, 4s.

SAILINGS OVER THE GLOBE; or, the Progress of Maritime Discovery. These form the First and Second Volumes of JOHN CASSELL'S LIBRARY, and contain: The Rise and Progress of Navigation—Early Discoveries of the Portuguese—Voyages of Vasco de Gama, Mendez Pinto, and Magellan—Eastern Enterprises of the English, and First Circumnavigation of the Globe—the Four Voyages of Columbus—Cortes and the Conquest of Mexico—Pizarro and the Discovery of Peru—Voyages and Discoveries of Commodore Byron, Captain Wallis, and Captain Cook—Early Polar Expeditions—Recent Voyages and Discoveries of Scoresby, Parry, Ross, and Franklin. Price 6d. each Volume; or the two, neatly bound in one, in cloth boards, 1s. 4d.

FOOTPRINTS of TRAVELLERS, forming

the Third and Fourth Volumes of the Series, contains: Capel de Brooke's Travels in Norway, Sweden and Lapland—Lyal's Travels in the Crimea, the Caucasus, and Georgia—Ingli's Travels in the Tyrol—Travels among the Tartars by the Ambassador of the Pope, and also by Zwick and Schill—Burnes's Travels in Bokhara—Heber's Travels in India—Travels of Bruce to the Sources of the Nile, &c. &c. Price 6d. each Volume; or the two, neatly bound in one, in cloth boards, 1s. 4d.

THE FREEHOLDER, the Organ of the FREEHOLD LAND MOVEMENT.—It is intended to enlarge the scope of THE FREEHOLDER, so as to embrace all kinds of information of use and interest to the Members of Freehold Land and Building Societies. In addition to the usual advocacy of the principles and record of the Progress of the Movement, and suggestions for the Management of Freehold Societies, it will contain copious Practical Instructions upon Building, Garden Cultivation, &c. &c., with appropriate carefully adapted at once to secure economy and cultivate a taste for the beautiful. THE FREEHOLDER by this means will be rendered increasingly acceptable, and meet the new necessities developed by the rapid progress of this great Movement.—Price 3d. Stamped, 4d.

PICTORIAL ILLUSTRATIONS,

Just published, FOURTH EDITION, on 16 pages, demy 8vo, price TWOPENCE.

VOICES FROM PRISONS AND PENITENTIARIES.

Respectfully addressed to the Teachers and Supporters of Sabbath-schools, and to all who regard the welfare of the rising generation.

The design of this publication is to show that, notwithstanding the vast and costly machinery of Sabbath-schools, a very large portion of the youth of both sexes, after having received instruction in those schools, are found walking in the paths of the Destroyer, and become inmates of Prisons, Penitentiaries, and Asylums, as is abundantly proved by authentic statistical returns. Also, to inquire into the causes of this comparative failure, and to point out an appropriate and efficient preventive. With extracts from the writings of the Rev. Dr. Campbell, the Rev. G. C. Finney, the Rev. W. Reid; and letters by W. H. Watson, Esq., Mr. W. Logan, &c. &c.

THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND AND

FAMILY INSTRUCTOR is published in Weekly Numbers, containing Thirty-two pages, crown octavo, price ONE PENNY.—Volumes I., II., III., and IV., price 1s. 6d. each, containing THIRTEEN WEEKLY NUMBERS, neatly bound in cloth, are NOW READY. This work abounds in valuable and interesting information, and is admirably adapted as a gift or prize-book for families or educational institutions.—MONTHLY PARTS are regularly published, price 6d., containing Four Weekly Numbers, besides the Supplementary Number for the Month, which is uniform in size and price with the Weekly Numbers, and is devoted entirely to Communication, from Working Men.

AN UNABRIDGED TRANSLATION, by

A. R. SCOBLE, Esq., of M. GUIZOT'S celebrated Work, entitled "THE CAUSES OF THE SUCCESS OF THE ENGLISH REVOLUTION IN 1640-88," neatly printed on good paper. To which is added a Biographical Sketch of its Author. People's Edition, price only 4d.—The first publication of this work was somewhat high-priced, and the book was consequently out of the reach of the many. We have now, however, in Mr. Cassell's reprint of the work, a neat copy, which is accessible to all classes of readers. Any person who can command a very few pence can purchase the entire work, with a biographical sketch of the author prefixed. Such are the boons which the enterprise of the present day confers on the multitude. We hope that the latter will show that they are worthy of the blessing.—Liverpool Times.

THE WORKING CLASSES OF GREAT

BRITAIN; their Present Condition, and the Means of their Improvement and Elevation. Prize Essay. To which is added an Appendix. By the Rev. SAMUEL G. GREEN, A.B., of Taunton. Price 1s. 6d., in a stiff wrapper; or bound in cloth, 2s.—A Prize of Fifty Pounds was offered by Mr. John Cassell, for the best Essay upon the above subject, the adjudicators being the Rev. T. Spencer, A.M.; Edward Miall, Esq.; and Edward Swaine, Esq.; and was unanimously awarded to the above gentleman—his Essay being selected from almost fifty others.

In demy 8vo, containing 32 pages, price 2d.,

THE GREAT MILITARY AND NAVAL

PARLIAMENT; being an Analysis of both our Houses of Parliament: showing, from a careful examination of the Red-Books of the Aristocracy themselves, the true secret of the constant increase in our Military and Naval expenditure, in a STANDING MAJORITY in both Houses of nearly 300 members directly connected with the war system. No such dissection of our Legislative body has hitherto been made; and it may safely be said that no man, till he has gone over this list of 700 Members of Parliament connected with the military system by appointment, marriage, or consanguinity, is at all aware of the real character of the body that governs us.

Printed and published by JOHN CASSELL, of 35, Acacia-road, St. John's-wood, Middlesex, at his Printing-office, 335, Strand, London. May 1, 1851.

THE
TEETOTAL TIMES
AND ESSAYIST.

PUBLISHED MONTHLY.

No. XLII.—NEW SERIES.]

LONDON, JUNE, 1851.

{ Price One Penny.
{ Stamped, Twopence.

IMPORTANT TO COMMERCIAL AND OTHER TRAVELLERS.

NEW TEMPERANCE HOTEL, PENRITH,
CUMBERLAND.—T. HALL begs respectfully to inform Commercial Travellers and the Public generally that he has entered upon the Commodious Premises in Sandgate, Penrith, lately occupied by Mr. Hudson, Railway Contractor, which he has fitted up and opened for a Temperance Hotel, &c.

Every Attention will be paid to make those comfortable who may favour him with a visit.—Stabling, &c., connected with the Premises.—N.B. Conducted on True Temperance Principles.

THE WATER CURE.

A FAVOURABLE OPENING FOR A MEDICAL HYDROPATHIST.

In consequence of the removal of Dr. Paisley from Bowness, near Lake Windermere (where he practised Hydropathy for seven years) to Edinburgh, a favourable opportunity now offers for a competent person to commence the practice. Bowness is the most thriving village in the Lake District, and possesses in a high degree all the requisites for the Hydropathic Practice.

Full Particulars may be had by applying to Mr. J. LIVESBY, Windermere.

NEW AND INTERESTING PUBLICATIONS

ISSUED BY

JOHN CASSELL, 335, STRAND, LONDON.

THE ILLUSTRATED EXHIBITOR: a Tribute to the World's Industrial Jubilee.—No. 1 of this new and splendid Work, for the week ending June 7th, is now ready for delivery to the Trade, price Twopence. It will also be published in Monthly Parts, price 2d. when containing four numbers, or 10d. when five. The following illustrations will be found in No. 1:—THE TRANSEPT OF THE CRYSTAL PALACE, a double page Engraving, printed without type at the back; Portrait of Joseph Paxton; two Views of the Victoria Regia House at Chatsworth, Exterior View of the Crystal Palace; Ground Plan of the Building; the Glass Roof; the Silk Trophy; Wilkins' Lighthouse; the Great Coalbrookdale Dome; Acis and Galatea Fountain; the Amazon, by Professor Kiss, of Berlin; Group of Stone and Marble from the Lizard Block, Cornwall, &c. No. 2 will be published with the Magazine for the week ending June 14.

It is the intention of John Cassell to make the "Illustrated Exhibitor" a truly national work; and as it proceeds it will develop the resources of the Great Exhibition of all Nations, affording information to all who feel interested in the arts, manufactures, mechanics, and the sciences.

Exhibitors who may wish illustrations of their productions to appear in this Work are requested to communicate with the Editor, at the Office, 335, Strand.

DO YOU WISH TO LEARN THE FRENCH LANGUAGE BY AN EASY, SIMPLE, AND CHEAP PROCESS?

THEN TAKE IN

THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND,
price ONE PENNY, containing, weekly,

A LESSON IN THE FRENCH LANGUAGE.

Competent judges have pronounced these Lessons to be the best and the most easily understood of any that have ever appeared. The FIRST LESSON was published in the Number for Feb. 23.

THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND is the MOST REMARKABLE PUBLICATION of the DAY—Instructive, Elevating, and highly interesting. THEN TAKE IT IN, for your own sake, and that of your Family.

JOHN CASSELL'S LIBRARY.

Now ready,

THE GREATNESS of the BRITISH EMPIRE TRACED to its SOURCES. By BENJAMIN PARSONS. Price Sevenpence per Part, in stiff covers; or the whole complete in One Double Volume, neatly bound in cloth and lettered, price 1s. 6d.

On July 1 will be published, the first part of a very interesting and important work, entitled,

THE PHYSICAL HISTORY of MAN; or POPULAR CHAPTERS on ETHNOLOGY. By the Rev. JOHN KENNEDY, A.M., of Steppney. To be completed in Two Monthly Volumes (Vols. XV. and XVI. of the LIBRARY).

THE PEOPLE'S BIOGRAPHICAL DICTIONARY: a Picture Gallery of Great Men of all Ages and Countries; especially of such as have lived within the Last Century, and by their own efforts raised themselves and benefited their species. By J. R. BEARD, D.D. This includes Vols. 9, 10, 11, and 12 of JOHN CASSELL'S LIBRARY. Vols. 9, 10, and 11, in stiff covers, 6s. each, and Vol. 12 (containing Thirty-two extra pages of names of persons inadvertently omitted in the former Volumes, and of Distinguished Characters who have died since the commencement of the Publication), price 8s.; or the whole, neatly bound in cloth in Two double Volumes, containing together upwards of 600 pages, 2s. 10d.

THE NEW AND POPULAR HISTORY OF ENGLAND, by DR. ROBERT FERGUSON, of Ryde, Isle of Wight, forming the 5th, 6th, 7th and 8th Volumes of this LIBRARY, is now ready, the first 3 Vols. at 6d. each, the 4th 8d., or the whole neatly bound in Two Double Volumes, or the four vols. in One, price 2s. 10d.

* A Superior Edition of the History of England, beautifully printed on fine paper, and ornamented with a Portrait of the Author, is now ready, the four volumes in one, price 3s. 6d., bound in cloth and lettered; or elegantly gilt, 4s.

SAILINGS OVER THE GLOBE; or, the Progress of Maritime Discovery. These form the First and Second Volumes of JOHN CASSELL'S LIBRARY, and contain: The Rise and Progress of Navigation—Early Discoveries of the Portuguese—Voyages of Vasco de Gama, Mendez Pinto, and Magellan—Eastern Enterprises of the English, and First Circumnavigation of the Globe—the Four Voyages of Columbus—Cortes and the Conquest of Mexico—Pizarro and the Discovery of Peru—Voyages and Discoveries of Commodore Byron, Captain Wallis, and Captain Cook—Early Polar Expeditions—Recent Voyages and Discoveries of Scoresby, Parry, Ross, and Franklin. Price 6d. each Volume; or the two, neatly bound in one, in cloth boards, 1s. 4d.

FOOTPRINTS of TRAVELLERS, forming the Third and Fourth Volumes of the Series, contains: Capel de Brooke's Travels in Norway, Sweden and Lapland—Lyall's Travels in the Crimea, the Caucasus, and Georgia—Ingli's Travels in the Tyrol—Travels among the Tartars by the Ambassador of the Pope, and also by Zwick and Schill—Burnes's Travels in Bokhara—Heber's Travels in India—Travels of Bruce to the Sources of the Nile, &c. &c. Price 6d. each Volume; or the two, neatly bound in one, in cloth boards, 1s. 4d.

* The Volumes of JOHN CASSELL'S LIBRARY have hitherto been issued at the lowest charge which the heavy expenditure involved in their production would allow. As it had been demonstrated that the Excise duty on paper imposed very injurious restrictions upon a cheap popular literature, it was hoped that the representations made to the Chancellor of the Exchequer would have induced Her Majesty's Government to remit this impost; but all hope on this subject being now indefinitely deferred, and, in addition to this, a rise having taken place in the cost of paper (owing to a scarcity of cotton, and other circumstances), nearly equal in amount to the duty itself, it is found impossible to continue the publication at the prices hitherto charged without incurring a heavy loss. It will be necessary, therefore, to charge the remaining Volumes of the Library 7d. each in stiff covers, or 1s. 6d. for the double volume, neatly bound in cloth and lettered. At the same time, John Cassell pledges himself that the purchasers shall have the full value of the increased price in the excellence of the contents of the forthcoming Volumes.

A CATALOGUE OF IPSWICH
TEMPERANCE PUBLICATIONS.

ALL these, whether Books, Tracts, Hand-bills, or Notice Papers, are sold in SIXPENNY PACKETS. Fifty Packets of either will be delivered to any address in London, for a Guinea, sent by Post-office Order to Richard Dykes Alexander, Ipswich; or they may be had of any Bookseller in the country through Simpkin, Marshall, and Co., Stationers'-hall-court, London.

IPSWICH JUVENILE TEMPERANCE BOOKS,
32mo, nearly all with Pictures.

[These are now sold ONLY in Assorted Packets.]
Assorted Packet, No. 1, contains No. 1 to 16. Assorted Packet, No. 2, contains No. 17 to 32. Assorted Packet, No. 3, contains No. 33 to 46.

IPSWICH TEMPERANCE TRACTS.

Those Tracts marked with an * have Pictures.	Pages.
1 The Doctor Scrutinized, by R. D. Alexander, F.L.S.	8
2 Striking Facts, ditto	2
3 Maker and Vender, ditto	2
4 Our Creed, ditto	2
*5 Adulterated Beer, ditto	4
*6 Adulterated Wine, ditto	4
7 The Maltster, ditto	4
8 Go Feel what I have Felt	2
9 Facts are stubborn Things	2
*10 The Spirit Dealer	2
11 Christian Teetotalism, by R. D. Alexander	2
12 The Trade, ditto	4
13 Alcohol, ditto	4
*14 Town of Ipswich, ditto	4
*15 Song of the Water Drinker	2
16 Stimulation not Strength	4
17 Farmer Woodman	4
*18 The Beer Barrel	8
19 Teetotal Recipes	4
*20 Speech of J. J. Gurney	4
21 Pity the Poor Drunkard	4
*22 The Fool's Pence	8
23 Why am I a Teetotaler?	4
*24 Dost thou Smoke, Bill?	4
25 The Laudanum Drinker	4
26 The Ox Discourse	4
27 Letter to the Clergy	20
28 Common Sense	20
29 Ralph the Soldier	4
30 Testimony of Physicians	4
31 The Working Man	20
32 Is I not happy?	4
33 David the Shoemaker, by H. D. Alexander	2
34 The Drunken Couple, ditto	2
35 Confessions of a Drunkard	2
36 Master Tailor, by R. D. Alexander	4
37 The Fatal Gift	4
38 Poor Sandy	4
39 Use and Abuse, by Archdeacon Jeffries	2
40 The Schoolmaster	4
41 Water is Best, by J. J. Gurney	4
42 Cobbett's Advice	4
43 Take a Public-house	4
*44 A Sailor's Yarn	4
45 Moderate Drinking	12
46 The Pledge	4
*47 John Jarvis	12
*48 The Fifteen Friends	4
49 Sunday-School Teachers	12
50 Sunday-School Children	12
*51 Money better than Beer	4
*52 Little Mary	8
53 Philosophy of Temperance, by R. D. Trail, M.D.	20
54 Love to Man	20
*55 Young Woman's Tract	12
56 Young Man's Tract	16
57 Dr. Campbell's Testimony	8
58 Why sign the Pledge?	2
59 The Poor Man's House Repaired	4
60 The Mother's Tract	8
61 The High Price of Food	4
62 Ladies' Tract Societies	8
63 The Praise of Water	2
64 Important Calculations	2
*65 The Farm Servant	2
66 Teetotalism Declining	8
*67 The Reformed Drunkard	8
68 The Recruit	8
69 No. 1 of Anecdotes	12
70 No. 2 ditto	12
71 No. 3 ditto	12
72 No. 4 ditto	12
73 Luke Husler	8
74 The Drunkard's Wife	12
75 The Unexplored Island	4
76 Ancient Wines, by R. D. Alexander	8
77 Influence of Example	2
*78 The Victim of Excitement	20
*79 My Medical Adviser	4
*80 The Restoration	8
81 The Use of Intoxicating Drinks, by Archdeacon Jeffries	12
*82 Drink and be Happy	4
83 The Five Nips	4
84 The Honest Spirit Dealer	2

	Pages.
*85 Seven Years' Experience	2
*86 Education of the Drunkard, with 5 pictures	12
*87 A Word with Serious People, by John Bright, M.P.	4
*88 Guide to Glendalough	4
*89 Bridget Larkins	4
90 The Contrast	2
91 Tobacco a Cause of Intemperance	2
*92 The Wedding Night	12
*93 My Chapel	4
*94 The Best Men sometimes Err, by Archdeacon Jeffries	8
*95 Testimonies of Eight Judges	2
*96 The Drunkard in Rags	2
*97 The Farmer and Labourer	4
*98 The Gloucestershire Farmer	4
*99 Strong Drink and Infidelity	8
100 Catalogue of Tracts	4
101 The Hertfordshire Farmer	2
*102 Sunday Schools	4
103 Confessions of a Publican	2
104 Peter Levison, or the Ruined Minister	4
105 John Angell James	2
*106 I do not drink Wine	2
*107 Self-Imposed Burdens	2
108 The Craving of a Drunkard	8
*109 The Poor Orphan Boy	4
*110 Loss of Seven Fishermen	8
111 A Temperance Catechism	8
*112 The Mail Coachman	2
113 The Reformed Family	4
114 Licensing Day at Bolton	4
115 Stomach of a Drunkard	4
116 Ragged Schools	4
*117 Delirium Tremens	4
118 The Fire-Escape	4
119 The Sabbath Morn	4
*120 Can a Christian keep a Public House	8
121 The Aged Friend	2
122 The Village of Newbridge	2
123 The Mirror of Intemperance	4
*124 Alcohol: what it does, and what it cannot do; on the nutrition of the Body, and in the production of Disease; by Walter Johnson, M.B.	44
125 Barley, Malt, and Beer Question, by Dr. F. Lees	4
126 Keep away from the Public House	4
127 The History of Poor William	8
128 The Hearer to his Minister	4
129 Alcohol generates a tendency to Death. By Dr. E. Johnson	4
130 The Merchant's Dream	4
131 Address to Females	4
*132 History of J. B. Gough	48
133 Livesey's Malt Liquor Lecture	32
*134 My Mother's Gold Ring	8
*135 Miraculous Deliverance	4
136 The Drunkard's Dream	2
*137 Archibald Prentice's Speech on Sanitary and Social Means to Political Ends	8
*138 The Altered Man	2
*139 The Love-feast, by T. B. Smithies	4
140 George the Australian Emigrant	4
141 Advice to Soldiers, by Sir C. Napier	2
142 Medical Opinions, for the Aged	2
*143 Smoking and Snuffing, by J. Higginbottom, F.R.C.S.	8
*144 Wesleyan Teetotalism	8
145 Waste of Food	2
*146 The Man in the Cellar, and the Man without Hands	8
*147 Evil Spirits—a Poem	8
*148 Manchester "Go-a-Heads"	4
*149 Mothers, Doctors, and Nurses; a Dialogue between a Medical Man and his Friend, by J. Higginbottom, F.R.C.S.	12
150 Ten Solemn Opinions	2
151 Paralysis and Apoplexy; a Dialogue between a Medical Man and his Friend, by J. Higginbottom, F.R.C.S.	16
52 The Miraculous Deliverance, by the Author of the "Sinner's Friend," with the tract entitled the "Sinner's Friend" appended	36
*153 The Child's Question	4
154 Scene from Life	4
*155 The Christian Sabbath Breaker	4
*156 Reminiscences of a Tavern Parlour	8
157 Richard Wilkinson, the Railway Labourer	2
158 Missionary Facts	2
159 The Drinker's Song. By George Hood	4
160 Self-Imposed Taxation	4
161 Testimonies of Wesleyan Missionaries	4
162 Sermon in a Tavern	4
163 The Wages of Labour as affected by Temperance. By Archibald Prentice	4
164 A Question of Vital Importance for Sunday-school Teachers. By John Templeton	16
165 The Drunkard's Death	4
166 Important Statistics	4
167 A Word for Myself—Sixteen Years a Teetotaler. By Benjamin Parsons. And Sixteen Reasons for Teetotalism	8
168 The Two Apprentices	4
169 Crime and Pauperism	2
170 Christian Professor	2
171 The Reformed Shoemaker	2

All the above may be had in Assorted Packets.

JOHN CASSELL'S PUBLICATIONS.

(Continued.)

PRIZE ESSAYS ON THE ADAPTATION OF TEMPERANCE TO THE WORKING CLASSES.

Just published, price 1s.,

TWO ESSAYS, for which Premiums of £20 and £10 were awarded by the Committee of the NATIONAL TEMPERANCE SOCIETY:—I. An Essay on the Principles and Practice of Total Abstinence considered in relation to the Working Classes. By MICHAEL SPEARS, of Edinburgh.—II. Essay on the Necessity, Practicability, and Value of Total Abstinence, as a Means of Improving the Social, Moral, and Religious Condition of the Working Classes. By COLIN A. HUNT, of Cupar, Fife.

INTEMPERANCE THE IDOLATRY OF BRITAIN. By the Rev. W. R. BAKER, Author of "The Curse of Britain," &c.

It is admitted by the most eminent of the religious reviewers, as well as by all who have read it, that there never was a work upon the Temperance Question more calculated to carry conviction to the mind of a thoughtful reader as to the danger and iniquity of the Drinking System. That it may have a very extensive circulation, this new and revised edition is published at 3d.; the price of the former editions was 2s. 6d. The usual allowance will be made to societies, or persons taking a quantity.

Just published FOURTH EDITION, on 16 pages, demy 8vo,

VOICES FROM PRISONS AND PENITENTIARIES.

Respectfully addressed to the Teachers and Supporters of Sabbath-schools, and to all who regard the welfare of the rising generation.

Many thousands of this pamphlet have been sold, price Two-pence; but in consequence of the extraordinary excitement produced by the references made to it at the recent anniversary of the SUNDAY-SCHOOL UNION, it will henceforth be sold at the reduced price of ONE PENNY, or, for extensive circulation, 6s. per 100.

Now ready, Second Edition,

THE LONDON CONDUCTOR:

The Strangers' and Visitors' Guide through London. Embellished with a Splendid Map of the Metropolis and its Suburbs, measuring 38 inches by 22. The aim of this work is to guide the Visitor to every place of Amusement, and to every Exhibition, both free and otherwise, and contains an interesting Description of each, and the Plainest Route to the same from various parts of London—Five Days in London—How to get over the Ground—Sights, Palaces, Monuments, Docks, Bazaars, &c.—List of Churches and Dissenting Chapels in and near the Metropolis—Car Fares from every Railway Station—Police of London—Conveniences of every Description—The most Interesting Spots round London, and the Easiest Mode of Getting to them, &c. &c. The LONDON CONDUCTOR is now ready for delivery to the trade; price, with the Map, Ninepence; or with the Map and numerous elegant Engravings, One Shilling.

A FRENCH EDITION will be ready in a few days, price One Shilling and Sixpence.

THE PATHWAY: A New Religious

Magazine. Consisting of Twenty-eight Pages, octavo, handsomely printed on good paper, price Three-Halfpence per Number, issued on the First and Fifteenth of each Month.

This is a Magazine of deep interest to Families, to Sabbath-school Teachers, and to the Youth of England generally. Writers of known talent furnish articles for the various departments, which include: The Bible and its Claims—Biblical Geography—History, Sacred and Profane—Christian Philosophy—Biography—Miscellaneous, and Select Poetry. Each article is distinguished no less by its nervous and manly style than by the directness and force of its truth. Never in the history of religious literature has there been found any publication to compare with THE PATHWAY for cheapness, for the value and scope of the subjects treated, and for the high literary character of the general contents. It is the intention of JOHN CASSELL to make THE PATHWAY a Religious Library in itself.

Testimonies as to the excellence of the numbers hitherto published have been borne by a large number of Ministers in the Metropolis and various parts of the Kingdom, and also by a considerable portion of the Public Press.

Now ready, cloth lettered, 1s. 6d.,

THE FIFTH VOLUME of the WORKING

MAN'S FRIEND, containing upwards of Three Hundred and Fifty Pages of interesting and instructive matter.—As to the general character of "The Working Man's Friend," RICHARD COBDEN, Esq., M.P., asked, at a recent crowded meeting—"Is there a high-priced novel, or any newspaper published at 6d., that can be found more pure in morals, or more sound in every respect, than that penny publication, John Cassell's Working Man's Magazine?"

UNPARALLELED LITERARY PRODUCTION

Just published, neatly bound in cloth, price 1s. 6d.,

THE LITERATURE OF WORKING

MEN: being the SUPPLEMENTARY NUMBERS of THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND, from their commencement to the present time. With an Introductory Essay by BENJAMIN PARSONS. This may be regarded as one of the most remarkable and glorious literary achievements of modern times; it is at once a unique and striking demonstration of the intellectual and moral capabilities of the Working Classes. The subjects are various, and the mode in which they are treated has called forth the admiration of several distinguished Members of the British Senate, and the warm eulogies of a large portion of the Public Press.

The following Letter, in reference to this extraordinary Volume, has been received by Lord Dudley Counts Stuart, who transmitted a copy of the work, by the hands of Colonel Phipps, to His Royal Highness PRINCE ALBERT:—

"My Dear Lord Dudley,

"Osborne, March 20, 1851.

"The Prince desires me to acknowledge the receipt of the volume of "The Literature of Working Men," which you have been good enough to send him through Colonel Phipps. His Royal Highness has much pleasure in accepting it, and begs you will have the goodness to convey to Mr. Cassell the expression of his best thanks.—I remain, yours, very truly,

"C. GREY.

"The Lord Dudley Stuart."

"Doubtless much of this remarkable volume is little more than compilation, though even in this respect it will stand a fair comparison with compilations by hands as skilled in that as these are in their own more 'lawful calling,' such as tailoring and shoemaking. There is internal evidence, however, of much more than compilation here, and although that gives no surprise to us, this little volume, as a whole, will certainly astonish many who have made a less accurate and just estimate of the calibre of the working man's mental abilities and acquirements."—The Builder.

"At a time when a mass of offensive publications are poured out every day and hour for the contamination of the minds of our working population, it requires no small courage and perseverance to stem the torrent, and to give it a better and healthier direction. In the present instance this effort has been ably undertaken, and if it be not unsuccessful, which we can scarcely suppose, the amount of good which it will do must be incalculable."—Bell's Weekly Messenger.

"This neat volume, introduced to the reader by an essay from the pen of B. Parsons, is a noble specimen of the artisan intellect (if we may use such an expression) of England. The enterprise of the publisher, which induced him to offer prizes of valuable books, has aroused the emulation of porters, shoemakers, compositors, bakers, carpenters, tailors, miners, labourers, &c., and the result is a variety of papers on as many different subjects, several of which are remarkable for elegance of diction, aptitude of logic, and strength and vigour of expression. There is not one of them but would do credit to periodicals of greater pretensions, while the usefulness of such a volume, not only as an exponent of intellectual advancement, and statistical of the working man's mind, cannot be too much insisted upon. We most cordially recommend it to our readers, and must express our conviction that in such works as this the publisher is doing an infinite amount of good."—Weekly Dispatch.

"We regard this handsome volume as one of the most remarkable phenomena of this remarkable age. A volume consisting of between 300 and 400 pages of closely-printed matter, produced by some scores of working men and women during their spare hours, and matter much of which would do no discredit to the best-known authors of the day, is something that demands more than a hasty perusal. The indefatigable publisher, on announcing his intention of receiving and publishing such contributions, received some 500 essays, from which the present volume has been made up, and no work—not even 'Mind among the Spindles'—is calculated to excite so wide an interest. Mr. Parsons, in a brief and interesting introduction, brings out the leading features of the work, and does great justice to the claims of the industrial classes for intellectual vigour as well as manual skill. The testimony, in favour of this work, of not a few of our most distinguished M.P.'s has been forwarded to the publisher, and these show that Mr. Cassell's efforts to promote the happiness of the working classes are receiving consideration in high places. On glancing at the work we have found that many of the essays display an amount of knowledge and science almost incredible. Some of them are written in a very elegant style, and others display a mastery of thought to be met with in few of our popular authors. We commend the volume to the working classes themselves, and to all who love to see the progress of humanity, and the evidences of mind of a high order among the toiling millions."—Glasgow Examiner.

THE WORKING CLASSES of GREAT

BRITAIN; their Present Condition, and the Means of their Improvement and Elevation. Prize Essay. To which is added an Appendix. By the Rev. SAMUEL G. GREEN, A.B., of Taunton. Price 1s. 6d., in a stiff wrapper; or bound in cloth, 2s.—A Prize of Fifty Pounds was offered by Mr. John Cassell, for the best Essay upon the above subject, the adjudicators being the Rev. T. Spencer, A.M.; Edward Miall, Esq.; and Edward Swaine, Esq.; and was unanimously awarded to the above gentleman—his Essay being selected from almost fifty others.

COMMERCIAL, POLITICAL, AND RELIGIOUS FREEDOM.

THE STANDARD of FREEDOM is one of the most talented and vigorous Advocates of Liberty, Commercial, Political, and Religious. As a Family Paper, it blends the useful with the entertaining, giving not only the state of the Provision Markets, but a judicious and instructive Digest of Weekly Occurrences, and Notices of every Movement and Invention likely to advance Social Progress, or to increase Domestic Comfort. As a Commercial Paper, it reports faithfully the fluctuations of the Markets, the condition of Agriculture, Trade, Commerce, and Manufactures, at the same time that it advocates the Destruction of Prohibition, Restriction, and Monopoly, and the establishment of those principles which will effectually secure the prosperity alike of the Middle and Manufacturing Classes, and of the Working Multitudes. As a Journal of Philanthropy and Morals, THE STANDARD of FREEDOM proves its sympathy with all the efforts that are now made, whether to advance Education, to abate the rigours of the Penal Code, to promote the Temperance Movement, to establish Peace and Universal Brotherhood, to diminish Pauperism, Juvenile Delinquency, and General Crime, or to maintain and perpetuate the practice and extension of Religious Truth.

THE STANDARD of FREEDOM is PUBLISHED REGULARLY EVERY WEEK, PRICE FIVEPENCE.

A COUNTRY EDITION is published on Friday Evening, for delivery in the Provinces early on Saturday Morning. A TOWN EDITION, containing Friday Evening's Debate to the close, is published on Saturday Morning, in time for the Morning Mails; and a THIRD EDITION is issued at three o'clock, containing the Latest Intelligence, Foreign and Domestic, down to the hour of going to press.

ALL PERSONS VISITING LONDON during the EXHIBITION should take in THE STANDARD of FREEDOM, the Proprietor intending to publish weekly a list of the Sleeping Accommodation available in the Metropolis and suburbs, as registered at the Registration Office, 8, Exeter Change, Catherine-street, Strand.

It is requested that all who wish to take in THE STANDARD of FREEDOM will give an order to the nearest News-vender or Book-seller; or it can be ordered direct from the Publisher, by sending a quarter's subscription, 5s. 3d., in advance. All Money-orders to be made payable to the Proprietor, JOHN CASSELL, 335, Strand, ondon.

THE FREEHOLDER, the Organ of the FREEHOLD LAND MOVEMENT.—It is intended to enlarge the scope of THE FREEHOLDER, so as to embrace all kinds of information of use and interest to the Members of Freehold Land and Building Societies. In addition to the usual advocacy of the principles and records of the Progress of the Movement, and suggestions for the Management of Freehold Societies, it will contain copious Practical Instructions upon Building, Garden Cultivation, &c. &c., with appropriate carefully adapted at once to secure economy and cultivate a taste for the beautiful. THE FREEHOLDER by this means will be rendered increasingly acceptable, and meet the new necessities developed by the rapid progress of this great Movement.—Price 3d. Stamped, 4d.

PICTORIAL ILLUSTRATIONS,

THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND AND

FAMILY INSTRUCTOR is published in Weekly Numbers, containing Thirty-two pages, crown octavo, price ONE PENNY.—Volumes I., II., III., IV., and V., price 1s. 6d. each, containing THIRTEEN WEEKLY NUMBERS, neatly bound in cloth, are NOW READY. This work abounds in valuable and interesting information, and is admirably adapted as a gift or prize-book for families or educational institutions.—MONTHLY NUMBERS are regularly published, price 6d., containing Four Weekly Numbers, besides the Supplementary Number for the Month, which is uniform in size and price with the Weekly Numbers, and is devoted entirely to Communications from Working Men.

AN UNABRIDGED TRANSLATION, by

A. R. SCOBLE, Esq., of M. GUIZOT'S celebrated Work, entitled "THE CAUSES of the SUCCESS of the ENGLISH REVOLUTION in 1640-48," neatly printed on good paper. To which is added a Biographical Sketch of its Author. People's Edition, price only 4d.—The first publication of this work was somewhat high-priced, and the book was consequently out of the reach of the many. We have now, however, in Mr. Cassell's reprint of the work, a neat copy, which is accessible to all classes of readers. Any person who can command a very few pence can purchase the entire work, with a biographical sketch of the author prefixed. Such are the boons which the enterprise of the present day confers on the multitude. We hope that the latter will show that they are worthy of the blessing.—Liverpool Times.

BOOK FOR THE YOUNG. Price 6d.—
The HISTORY of PAPER-MAKING, TYPES, PRINTING, &c.

THE GREAT INDUSTRIAL EXHIBITION.

VISITORS to the GREAT EXHIBITION

who may require Accommodation in LODGINGS, SUITES of APARTMENTS, or FURNISHED HOUSES, are recommended to consult the CLASSIFIED REGISTER, which is JUST ISSUED from the CENTRAL REGISTRATION OFFICE, 8, Exeter-change, Catherine-street, Strand, and forwarded free by post, on the receipt of six postage-stamps, to all parts of the United Kingdom, the Colonies, and the United States of America.

The CENTRAL REGISTRATION OFFICE affords the utmost facilities to Individuals and Families to secure any species of accommodation previous to leaving home. All Persons having Lodgings, Apartments, or Furnished Houses, are recommended to register forthwith. The Terms are, for the whole period of the Exhibition, in the Classified Register, 2s. 6d.; on the Books of the Office, 5s.—Full Particulars and Forms to be had on application.

M. T. RAYMOND, GENERAL MANAGER.

CENTRAL REGISTRATION OFFICE, No. 8, EXETER-CHANGE, CATHERINE-STREET, STRAND, LONDON.

THIS OFFICE has been established under the patronage of Noblemen, Members of Parliament, Masters of Religion, and Gentlemen, with the view of presenting facilities to those who can furnish accommodation to Visitors, and to those who may wish to avail themselves of the same. The aim of the Promoter has been to establish a simple machinery, by which, at a moderate cost, the amount of accommodation at Hotels and Boarding Houses may be made extensively known, as well as the periods during which Furnished Houses, Suites of Apartments, and Lodgings, may be obtainable, together with the terms. These objects will be carried out as follows:—

1. By the publication, for general circulation throughout the United Kingdom, of a Classified Register of Houses, Suites of Apartments, and single lodgings. This will be sent to any part of the kingdom on the receipt of six postage stamps, or will be obtainable from any respectable newsagent. The charge for insertion of any lodging, &c., in this, will be 2s. 6d.—of which 1s. 6d. will have to be paid for advertisement duty. As the result of this publication, the probability is, that every house will receive a constant succession of inmates, instead of being sometimes crowded and sometime empty.

2. By a Classified Registration in the Books of the Office.—The object of this is, to afford information to all inquirers, or intending visitors, as to what lodgings, &c., are obtainable on any given day. This Registration will be for the whole period of the Exhibition, and the charge will be 5s.

JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE.

ALTERATION AND REDUCTION OF

PRICES.—A reduction in the amount of the Duties on Coffee having taken place, namely, on COLONIAL Coffee, from Fourpence to Threepence per pound, and an equalisation of the Duty upon FOREIGN Coffee to the same impost, JOHN CASSELL is not only anxious, but determined, that the Public shall have the full advantage of these alterations in the following REDUCTIONS in the Prices of his Coffees:—

	Present Price.	Former Price.
JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, No. 1. ....	1s. 3d.	1s. 4d.

This is an excellent article; it is made up in air-tight packages of from One to Eight Ounces, and in Canisters of One pound.

JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, No. 2. ....	1s. 4d.	1s. 6d.
------------------------------------	---------	---------

This delicious and highly-flavoured Mixture is done up in Packages as above, and in Half-pound and One Pound Canisters.

JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, No. 3. ....	1s. 6d.	1s. 8d.
------------------------------------	---------	---------

A better article than this cannot be obtained: it combines great strength with fine aromatic flavour. Made up as No. 2.

JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, No. 4. ....	1s. 10d.	2s. 0d.
------------------------------------	----------	---------

This Coffee, which is reduced in price 1 wopence, is very greatly improved in quality. In fact, it is a Coffee adapted to the taste of the most exquisite connoisseur. Made up as Nos. 2 and 3.

It may, with perfect truth, be asserted that no article of general consumption has ever attained such a height of popularity as JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE; and can any individual be induced to believe that an article which has secured such extensive patronage can be anything but REALLY GOOD? No person has tried the Coffee who is not delighted with its richness, and the deliciousness of its flavour. There is no mistake about either its goodness, its wholesomeness, or its great superiority. There is at present a great talk about adulteration in Coffee; but the Public may depend upon this as a truism, that it is not to the interest of any tradesman to mix with his Coffee any article merely to increase its weight; for in proportion as he does this will its excellence be lessened, and his character, as a tradesman pretending to send out a first-rate article, materially impaired.

Printed and published by JOHN CASSELL, of 35, Acacia-road, St. John's-wood, Middlesex, at his Printing-office, 335, Strand, London. June 1, 1851.

THE
TEETOTAL TIMES
AND ESSAYIST.

PUBLISHED MONTHLY.

No. XLIII.—NEW SERIES.]

LONDON, JULY, 1851.

Price One Penny.
Stamped, Twopence.

IMPORTANT TO VISITORS AND TRAVELLERS.

MARTIN'S TEMPERANCE COFFEE-HOUSE, 156, Edward-street, Brighton, five doors from the Pavilion.—T. MARTIN begs respectfully to inform Visitors, Travellers, and the Public generally, that he has opened the above Premises for a Temperance Coffee-House, &c.

Every attention will be paid to make those comfortable who may favour him with a visit.

N.B. Conducted on True Temperance Principles—Clean Beds, and Moderate Charges.

TESTIMONY OF RESPECT TO JOHN CASSELL, Esq.

—The Committee by whom the recent Series of large Temperance Meetings in Exeter-hall was conducted have determined on inviting the friends of the Temperance Movement to an EVENING PARTY, as a token of respect to JOHN CASSELL, Esq., by whom the above-named demonstrations were projected, and through whose exertions, mainly, they have been brought to a successful termination. The Meeting will take place on MONDAY EVENING, JULY 4, 1851, in the Great Hall of the London Tavern, Bishopsgate-street. LAWRENCE HEYWORTH, Esq., M.P., has kindly engaged to preside; and the Meeting, after Tea, will be addressed on given topics by the Rev. W. FORSTER, of Kentish-town; THOMAS BEGGS, Esq., and other competent speakers.—Admission by Ticket only, price 2s., which may be had at the "STANDARD OF FREEDOM" Office, 335, Strand; of Mr. C. Gilpin, Bishopsgate-street; Mr. Mathew, 14, Ivy-lane; Mr. Campbell, 350, Oxford-street; Mr. Draper, 88, Great Titchfield-street; Mr. Esterbrooke, 2, Upper Crown-street, Westminster; Mr. Bailey, Hawkstone-hall, Waterloo-road; Mr. Griffiths, 8, Southampton-street, Pentonville; Mr. Tackley, Weir's-passage, Somers-town; and Mrs. Watts, Temperance Hotel, Catherine-street, Strand.

NEW AND INTERESTING PUBLICATIONS

ISSUED BY

JOHN CASSELL, 335, STRAND, LONDON.

INTEMPERANCE THE IDOLATRY OF

BRITAIN. By the Rev. W. R. BAKER, Author of "The Curse of Britain," &c.

It is admitted by the most eminent of the religious reviewers, as well as by all who have read it, that there never was a work upon the Temperance Question more calculated to carry conviction to the mind of a thoughtful reader as to the danger and iniquity of the Drinking System. That it may have a very extensive circulation, this new and revised edition is published at 3d.; the price of the former editions was 2s. 6d. The usual allowance will be made to societies, or persons taking a quantity.

Now ready, Second Edition,

THE LONDON CONDUCTOR:

The Strangers' and Visitors' Guide through London. Embellished with a Splendid Map of the Metropolis and its Suburbs, measuring 33 inches by 22. The aim of this work is to guide the Visitor to every place of Amusement, and to every Exhibition, both free and otherwise, and contains an interesting Description of each, and the Plainest Route to the same from various parts of London—Five Days in London—How to get over the Ground—Sights, Palaces, Monuments, Docks, Bazaars, &c.—List of Churches and Dissenting Chapels in and near the Metropolis—Cab Fares from every Railway Station—Police of London—Conveyances of every Description—The most Interesting Spots round London, and the Easiest Mode of Getting to them, &c. &c. THE LONDON CONDUCTOR is now ready for delivery to the trade; price, with the Map, Ninepence; or with the Map and numerous elegant Engravings, One Shilling.

A FRENCH EDITION is now ready, price One Shilling and Sixpence.

THE ILLUSTRATED EXHIBITOR:

a TRIBUTE to the WORLD'S INDUSTRIAL JUBILEE. —The object of this really National Work is to enable every family to possess, at the cheapest possible cost, a monumental record of one of the most remarkable events in the world's history. The work, as it proceeds, will form handsome volumes, filled with Engravings, giving the most perfect and compendious view of the Great Exhibition—its History, Construction of the Building, and Historical and Moral Associations, b-sides comprising Engravings of the most noticeable objects in Machinery, Manufactures, Natural Produce, and Works of Art. In Weekly Numbers, price 2d., and Monthly Parts (of Four Numbers), with an elegant Wrapper, price 8d., or, if Five Numbers, 10d.

No. V. just published contains, among other numerous Engravings the Mediæval Court (splendid double page engraving)—Foley's Boy at the Stream—Silver in the Crystal Palace, with four Illustrations—John Bell's Shakspeare—Lanterns for Lightships—Statue of John Hampden—the Munich Lion—Simonis' Happy and Unhappy Child.

The FIRST MONTHLY PART of this new and splendid work, price 8d., is now ready. The Engravings contained in it are as follows:—

No. I.—Portrait of J. Paxton, Esq.—Exterior and Interior of Victoria Regia House, Chatsworth—General View of the Crystal Palace from the South-West—Ground Plan of ditto—View of Glass Roof from the Lead Flat—Silk Trophy of Messrs. Keith—Coalbrook Dale Dome and Eagle Slayer—The Transept from the South Entrance: Double Page Engraving—Acis and Galatea Fountain—Wilkin's Improved Lantern for Lighthouse—Group of Articles in Cornish Stone—The Amazon attacked by a Lioness.

No. II.—Group of Bohemian Ornamental Glass—View of the Great Avenue in the Crystal Palace—Views and Plans of the French Exposition Palace of 1849—Exterior View and Plan of Kroll's Wintergarten at Berlin—Exposition Building at Birmingham—Group, St. Michael and the Dragon, by Du Seigneux—Boy attacked by a Serpent, and the Deliverer, Companion Groups—Bronze Fountain, by Andre, of Val d'Osne—Statue of the Queen in Zinc—Una and the Lion, by John Bell—The Greek Slave, by Hiram Powers.

No. III.—Interior of the Transept—Locomotives: "Lord of the Isles," the First Steam Carriage, and "Ariel's Girdle"—Exterior View and Ground Plan of the Committee's Design for the Great Exhibition—Printing Key Frame, with M. Foucault, the Blind Parisian, at work before it—Magna Charta Sideboard, from Jersey—Vases in Bronze and Electro-Plate—Virginus and his Daughter, a Marble Group, by P. McDowell—Splendid Russian Candelabrum—Terra Cotta Fountain, by Mrs. Marsh, of Berlin—Sabrina, from Milton's "Comus"—State Bed, in Needlework.

No. IV.—The Opening of the Great Exhibition by her Most Gracious Majesty (Double-page Engraving)—The Dead Christ, by Reitschel—View of Part of the Roof and Sash-bar Machine—M. Horeau's Design for the Great Industrial Building—Railway Signals—The Vintage, a Group—Group of Bronzes from France—Queen Margaret and her Son—Sappho, a Statuette in Parian—Equestrian Statue of the Queen—Samson Bursting his Bonds, by Legrew—The Lion in Love, by Geefs—View of the Refreshment Room, &c. &c.

EXHIBITION OF THE PRODUCTS OF IRISH INDUSTRY.

JOHN CASSELL is making preparation to issue two numbers of THE ILLUSTRATED EXHIBITOR, to be devoted entirely to the Arts and Manufactures of Ireland as shown in the Great Industrial Exhibition. No expense will be spared to render these numbers attractive and interesting. One Hundred Pounds will be appropriated to the execution of the Engravings alone. Exhibitors who are desirous of availing themselves of this important medium are requested to communicate at once with the Editor, 335, Strand, London.

WHOLESALE AGENTS IN IRELAND.—Dublin: J. McGlashan, D'Olier-street; J. B. Gilpin, 59, Dame-street. Belfast: J. Moore, Stationer. Cork: Guy Brothers, Stationers. Limerick: J. Alexander, Patrick-street. Waterford: Joshua Barton. Carlow: Edwards, Dublin-street.

A CATALOGUE OF IPSWICH
TEMPERANCE PUBLICATIONS.

ALL these, whether Books, Tracts, Hand-bills, or Notice Papers, are sold in SIXPENNY PACKETS. Fifty Packets of either will be delivered to any address in London, for a Guinea, sent by Post-office Order to Richard Dykes Alexander, Ipswich; or they may be had of any Bookseller in the country through Simpkin, Marshall, and Co., Stationers'-hall-court, London.

IPSWICH JUVENILE TEMPERANCE BOOKS,
32mo, nearly all with Pictures.

[These are now sold ONLY in Assorted Packets.]

Assorted Packet, No. 1, contains No. 1 to 16. Assorted Packet, No. 2, contains No. 17 to 32. Assorted Packet, No. 3, contains No. 33 to 46.

IPSWICH TEMPERANCE TRACTS.

Those Tracts marked with an * have Pictures.

	Pages.
1 The Doctor Scrutinized, by R. D. Alexander, F.L.S.	8
2 Striking Facts, ditto	2
3 Maker and Vender, ditto	2
4 Our Creed, ditto	2
*5 Adulterated Beer, ditto	4
*6 Adulterated Wine, ditto	4
7 The Maltster, ditto	4
8 Go Peel what I have Felt	2
9 Facts are stubborn Things	2
*10 The Spirit Dealer	2
11 Christian Teetotalism, by R. D. Alexander	2
12 The Trade, ditto	4
13 Alcohol, ditto	4
*14 Town of Ipswich, ditto	4
*15 Song of the Water Drinker	2
16 Stimulation not Strength	8
17 Farmer Woodman	4
*18 The Beer Barrel	8
19 Teetotal Recipes	4
*20 Speech of J. J. Gurney	4
21 Pity the Poor Drunkard	2
*22 The Fool's Pence	8
23 Why am I a Teetotaler?	2
*24 Dost thou Smoke, Bill?	4
25 The Laudanum Drinker	4
26 The Ox Discourse	4
27 Letter to the Clergy	20
28 Common Sense	20
29 Ralph the Soldier	4
30 Testimony of Physicians	4
31 The Working Man	20
32 Is I not happy?	4
33 David the Shoemaker, by R. D. Alexander	4
34 The Drunken Couple, ditto	2
35 Confessions of a Drunkard	2
36 Master Tailor, by R. D. Alexander	4
37 The Fatal Gift	2
38 Poor Sandy	4
39 Use and Abuse, by Archdeacon Jeffries	2
40 The Schoolmaster	4
41 Water is Best, by J. J. Gurney	4
42 Cobbett's Advice	4
43 Take a Public-house	4
*44 A Sailor's Yarn	4
45 Moderate Drinking	12
46 The Pledge	4
*47 John Jarvis	13
*48 The Fifteen Friends	4
49 Sunday-School Teachers	12
50 Sunday-School Children	12
*51 Money better than Beer	4
52 Little Mary	8
53 Philosophy of Temperance, by R. D. Trail, M.D.	20
54 Love to Man	20
*55 Young Woman's Tract	12
56 Young Man's Tract	16
57 Dr. Campbell's Testimony	8
58 Why sign the Pledge?	2
59 The Poor Man's House Repaired	4
60 The Mother's Tract	8
61 The High Price of Food	4
62 Ladies' Tract Societies	8
63 The Praise of Water	2
64 Important Calculations	2
*65 The Farm Servant	2
66 Teetotalism Declining	8
*67 The Reformed Drunkard	8
68 The Recruit	8
69 No. 1 of Anecdotes	12
70 No. 2 ditto	12
71 No. 3 ditto	12
72 No. 4 ditto	12
73 Luke Huster	8
74 The Drunkard's Wife	12
75 The Unexplored Island	4
76 Ancient Wines, by R. D. Alexander	8
77 Influence of Example	2
*78 The Victim of Excitement	20
*79 My Medical Adviser	4
*80 The Restoration	8
81 The Use of Intoxicating Drinks, by Archdeacon Jeffries	12
*82 Drink and be Happy	4
83 The Five Nips	4
84 The Honest Spirit Dealer	2
85 Seven Years' Experience	2
*86 Education of the Drunkard, with 5 pictures	12
*87 A Word with Serious People, by John Bright, M.P.	4
*88 Guide to Glendalough	4
*89 Bridget Larkins	4
90 The Contrast	2
91 Tobacco a Cause of Intemperance	2
*92 The Wedding Night	12
*93 My Chapel	4
*94 The Best Men sometimes Err, by Archdeacon Jeffries	8
*95 Testimonies of Eight Judges	2
*96 The Drunkard in Rags	2
*97 The Farmer and Labourer	4
*98 The Gloucestershire Farmer	4
*99 Strong Drink and Infidelity	8
100 Catalogue of Tracts	4
101 The Hertfordshire Farmer	2
*102 Sunday Schools	4
103 Confessions of a Publican	2
104 Peter Levison, or the Ruined Minister	4
105 John Angell James	2
*106 I do not drink Wine	2
*107 Self-Imposed Burdens	2
*108 The Craving of a Drunkard	8
*109 The Poor Orphan Boy	4
*110 Loss of Seven Fishermen	8
111 A Temperance Catechism	8
*112 The Mail Coachman	2
113 The Reformed Family	4
114 Licensing Day at Bolton	4
115 Stomach of a Drunkard	4
116 Ragged Schools	4
*117 Delirium Tremens	4
118 The Fire-Escape	4
119 The Sabbath Morn	4
*120 Can a Christian keep a Public House	2
121 The Aged Friend	2
122 The Village of Newbridge	2
123 The Mirror of Intemperance	4
*124 Alcohol: what it does, and what it cannot do	44
125 Barley, Malt, and Beer Question, by Dr. F. Lees	4
126 Keep away from the Public House	8
127 The History of Poor William	4
128 The Hearer to his Minister	4
129 Alcohol generates a tendency to Death. By Dr. E. Johnson	4
130 The Merchant's Dream	4
131 Address to Females	48
*132 History of J. E. Gough	32
133 Livesey's Malt Liquor Lecture	8
*134 My Mother's Gold Ring	4
*135 Miraculous Deliverance	2
136 The Drunkard's Dream	2
*137 Archibald Prentice's Speech on Sanitary and Social Means to Political Ends	8
*138 The Altered Man	2
*139 The Love-feast, by T. B. Smithies	4
140 George the Australian Emigrant	4
141 Advice to Soldiers, by Sir C. Napier	2
142 Medical Opinions, for the Aged	2
*143 Smoking and Snuffing, by J. Higginbottom, F.R.C.S.	8
*144 Wesleyan Teetotalism	8
145 Waste of Food	2
*146 The Man in the Cellar, and the Man without Hands	8
*147 Evil Spirits—a Poem	4
*148 Manchester "Go-a-Heads"	8
*149 Mothers, Doctors, and Nurses; a Dialogue between a Medical Man and his Friend, by J. Higginbottom, F.R.C.S.	12
150 Ten Solemn Opinions	2
151 Paralysis and Apoplexy	16
52 The Miraculous Deliverance, by the Author of the "Sinner's Friend," with the tract entitled the "Sinner's Friend" appended	36
*153 The Child's Question	4
154 Scene from Life	4
*155 The Christian Sabbath Breaker	4
*156 Reminiscences of a Tavern Parlour	8
157 Richard Wilkinson, the Railway Labourer	2
158 Missionary Facts	2
159 The Drinker's Song. By George Hood	2
160 Self-imposed Taxation	4
161 Testimonies of Wesleyan Missionaries	4
162 Sermon in a Tavern	4
163 The Wages of Labour as affected by Temperance. By Archibald Prentice	4
164 A Question of Vital Importance for Sunday-school Teachers. By John Templeton	16
165 The Drunkard's Death	4
166 Important Statistics	4
167 A Word for Myself—Sixteen Years a Teetotaler. By Benjamin Parsons. And Sixteen Reasons for Teetotalism	8
168 The Two Apprentices	4
169 Crime and Pauperism	2
170 Christian Professor	2
171 The Reformed Shoemaker	4
172 Edward Fisher, the Banker	4
173 British Wealth	4
174 The Temperance Reformation an Auxiliary to Evangelical Effort	8

All the above may be had in Assorted Packets.

JOHN CASSELL'S PUBLICATIONS.

(Continued.)

LE CONDUCTEUR DE LONDRES; ou, LE GUIDE DE L'ETRANGER à la GRANDE EXPOSITION; aux Endroits les plus importants de la Métropole; avec un précis Historique et Topographique sur les Palais, les Parcs, les Eglises, le Gouvernement, les Edifices attenans à la Loi et au Commerce, les Ponts, les Statues, les Musées, les Hospices, les Clubs, les Théâtres, et les Rues de Londres; et sur les Auteurs les plus considérables de la Capitale. Le tout accompagné d'une Carte Magnifique de Londres et de ses Environs; avec des Gravures des principaux Bâtimens. Prix 1½ Schelling.

UNPARALLELED LITERARY PRODUCTION

Just published, neatly bound in cloth, price 1s. 6d.,

THE LITERATURE OF WORKING

MEN; being the SUPPLEMENTARY NUMBERS of THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND, from their commencement to the present time. With an Introductory Essay by BENJAMIN PARSONS. This may be regarded as one of the most remarkable and glorious literary achievements of modern times; it is at once a unique and striking demonstration of the intellectual and moral capabilities of the Working Classes. The subjects are various, and the mode in which they are treated has called forth the admiration of several distinguished Members of the British Senate, and the warm eulogies of a large portion of the Public Press.

The following Letter, in reference to this extraordinary Volume, has been received by Lord Dudley Coutts Stuart, who transmitted a copy of the work, by the hands of Colonel Phipps, to His Royal Highness PRINCE ALBERT:—

"My Dear Lord Dudley, "Osborne, March 20, 1851.

"The Prince desires me to acknowledge the receipt of the volume of 'The Literature of Working Men,' which you have been good enough to send him through Colonel Phipps. His Royal Highness has much pleasure in accepting it, and begs you will have the goodness to convey to Mr. Cassell the expression of his best thanks.—I remain, yours, very truly, "C. GRAY. "The Lord Dudley Stuart."

"Doubtless much of this remarkable volume is little more than compilation, though even in this respect it will stand a fair comparison with compilations by hands as skilled in that as these are in their own more 'lawful calling,' such as tailoring and shoemaking. There is internal evidence, however, of much more than compilation here, and although that gives no surprise to us, this little volume, as a whole, will certainly astonish many who have made a less accurate and just estimate of the calibre of the working man's mental abilities and acquisitions."—The Builder.

"At a time when a mass of offensive publications are poured out every day and hour for the contamination of the minds of our working population, it requires no small courage and perseverance to stem the torrent, and to give it a better and healthier direction. In the present instance this effort has been ably undertaken, and if it be not unsuccessful, which we can scarcely suppose, the amount of good which it will do must be incalculable."—Bell's Weekly Messenger.

"This neat volume, introduced to the reader by an essay from the pen of B. Parsons, is a noble specimen of the artisan intellect (if we may use such an expression) of England. The enterprise of the publisher, which induced him to offer prices of valuable books, has aroused the emulation of porters, shoemakers, compositors, bakers, carpenters, tailors, miners, labourers, &c., and the result is a variety of papers on as many different subjects, several of which are remarkable for elegance of diction, aptitude of logic, and strength and vigour of expression. There is not one of them but would do credit to periodicals of greater pretensions, while the usefulness of such a volume, not only as an exponent of intellectual advancement, and statistical of the working man's mind, cannot be too much insisted upon. We most cordially recommend it to our readers, and must express our conviction that in such works as this the publisher is doing an infinite amount of good."—Weekly Dispatch.

"We regard this handsome volume as one of the most remarkable phenomena of this remarkable age. A volume consisting of between 300 and 400 pages of closely-printed matter, produced by some scores of working men and women during their spare hours, and matter much of which would do no discredit to the best-known authors of the day, is something that demands more than a hasty perusal. The indefatigable publisher, on announcing his intention of receiving and publishing such contributions, received some 500 essays, from which the present volume has been made up, and no work—not even 'Mind among the Spindles'—is calculated to excite so wide an interest. Mr. Parsons, in a brief and interesting introduction, brings out the leading features of the work, and does great justice to the claims of the industrial classes for intellectual vigour as well as manual skill. The testimony, in favour of this work, of not a few of our most distinguished M.P.'s has been forwarded to the publisher, and these show that Mr. Cassell's efforts to promote the happiness of the working classes are receiving consideration in high places. On glancing at our work we have found that many of the essays display an amount of knowledge and science almost incredible. Some of them are written in a very elegant style, and others display a mastery of thought to be met with in few of our popular authors. We commend the volume to the working classes themselves, and to all who love to see the progress of humanity, and the evidences of mind of a high order among the toiling millions."—Glasgow Examiner.

THE PATHWAY: A New Religious

Magazine. Consisting of Twenty-eight Pages, octavo, handsomely printed on good paper, price Three-Halfpence per Number, issued on the First and Fifteenth of each Month.

This is a Magazine of deep interest to Families, to Sabbath-school Teachers, and to the Youth of England generally. Writers of known talent furnish articles for the various departments, which include: The Bible and its Claims—Biblical Geography—History, Sacred and Profane—Christian Philosophy—Biography—Miscellanies, and Select Poetry. Each article is distinguished no less by its nervous and manly style than by the directness and force of its truth. Never in the history of religious literature has there been found any publication to compare with THE PATHWAY for cheapness, for the value and scope of the subjects treated, and for the high literary character of the general contents. It is the intention of JOHN CASSELL to make THE PATHWAY a Religious Library in itself.

Testimonies as to the excellence of the numbers hitherto published have been borne by a large number of Ministers in the Metropolis and various parts of the Kingdom, and also by a considerable portion of the Public Press.

THE FREEHOLDER, the Organ of the FREEHOLD LAND MOVEMENT.—The scope of THE FREEHOLDER has recently been enlarged, so as to embrace all kinds of information of use and interest to the Members of Freehold Land and Building Societies. In addition to the usual advocacy of the principles and record of the Progress of the Movement, and suggestions for the Management of Freehold Societies, it contains copious Practical Instructions upon Building, Garden Cultivation, &c. &c., with appropriate carefully adapted at once to secure economy and cultivate a taste for the beautiful. THE FREEHOLDER by this means has been rendered increasingly acceptable, and meets the new necessities developed by the rapid progress of this great Movement.—Price 3d.; Stamped, 4d.

PICTORIAL ILLUSTRATIONS,

Just published, FOURTH EDITION, on 16 pages, demy 8vo,

VOICES FROM PRISONS AND PENITENTIARIES.

Respectfully addressed to the Teachers and Supporters of Sabbath-schools, and to all who regard the welfare of the rising generation.

Many thousands of this pamphlet have been sold, price TWO-PENCE; but in consequence of the extraordinary excitement produced by the references made to it at the recent anniversary of the SUNDAY-SCHOOL UNION, it will henceforth be sold at the reduced price of ONE PENNY, or, for extensive circulation, 6s. per 100.

THE WORKING CLASSES of GREAT

BRITAIN; their Present Condition, and the Means of their Improvement and Elevation. Prize Essay. To which is added an Appendix. By the Rev. SAMUEL G. GREEN, A.B., of Taunton. Price 1s. 6d., in a stiff wrapper; or bound in cloth, 2s.—A Prize of Fifty Pounds was offered by Mr. John Cassell, for the best Essay upon the above subject, the adjudicators being the Rev. T. Spencer, A.M.; Edward Miall, Esq.; and Edward Swaine, Esq.; and was unanimously awarded to the above gentleman—his Essay being selected from almost fifty others.

AN UNABRIDGED TRANSLATION, by

A. R. SCOBLE, Esq., of M. GUIZOT's celebrated Work, entitled "THE CAUSES of the SUCCESS of the ENGLISH REVOLUTION in 1640-88," neatly printed on good paper. To which is added a Biographical Sketch of its Author. People's Edition, price only 4d.—The first publication of this work was somewhat high-priced, and the book was consequently out of the reach of the many. We have now, however, in Mr. Cassell's reprint of the work, a neat copy, which is accessible to all classes of readers. Any person who can command a very few pence can purchase the entire work, with a biographical sketch of the author prefixed. Such are the boons which the enterprise of the present day confers on the multitude. We hope that the latter will show that they are worthy of the blessing."—Liverpool Times.

PRIZE ESSAYS ON THE ADAPTATION OF TEMPERANCE TO THE WORKING CLASSES.

Just published, price 1s.,

TWO ESSAYS, for which Premiums of £20

and £10 were awarded by the Committee of the NATIONAL TEMPERANCE SOCIETY.—I. An Essay on the Principles and Practice of Total Abstinence considered in relation to the Working Classes. By MICHAEL SPEARS, of Edinburgh.—II. Essay on the Necessity, Practicability, and Value of Total Abstinence, as a Means of Improving the Social, Moral, and Religious Condition of the Working Classes. By COLLIN A. HUNT, of Cupar, Fife.

BOOK FOR THE YOUNG. Price 6d.—

THE HISTORY of PAPER-MAKING, TYPES, PRINTING, &c.

JOHN CASSELL'S LIBRARY.

Now ready,

THE GREATNESS of the BRITISH EMPIRE TRACED to its SOURCES. By BENJAMIN PARSONS. Price Sevenpence per Part, in stiff covers; or the whole complete in One Double Volume, neatly bound in cloth and lettered, price 1s. 6d.

This day is published, the first part of a very interesting and important work, entitled,

THE NATURAL HISTORY of MAN; or POPULAR CHAPTERS on ETHNOGRAPHY. By the Rev. JOHN KENNEDY, A.M., of Stepney. To be completed in Two Monthly Volumes (Vols. XV. and XVI. of the LIBRARY).

THE PEOPLE'S BIOGRAPHICAL DICTIONARY: a Picture Gallery of Great Men of all Ages and Countries; especially of such as have lived within the Last Century, and by their own efforts raised themselves and benefited their species. By J. R. BEARD, D.D. This includes Vols. 9, 10, 11, and 12 of JOHN CASSELL'S LIBRARY. Vols. 9, 10, and 11, in stiff covers, 6d. each, and Vol. 12 (containing Thirty-two extra pages of names of persons inadvertently omitted in the former Volumes, and of Distinguished Characters who have died since the commencement of the Publication), price 8d.; or the whole, neatly bound in cloth in Two double Volumes, containing together upwards of 600 pages, 2s. 10d.

THE NEW AND POPULAR HISTORY OF ENGLAND, by DR. ROBERT FERGUSON, of Ryde, Isle of Wight, forming the 5th, 6th, 7th and 8th Volumes of this LIBRARY, is now ready, the first 3 Vols. at 6d. each, the 4th 8d., or the whole neatly bound in Two Double Volumes, or the four vols. in One, price 2s. 10d.

* A Superior Edition of the History of England, beautifully printed on fine paper, and ornamented with a Portrait of the Author, is now ready, the four volumes in one, price 2s. 6d., bound in cloth and lettered; or elegantly gilt, 4s.

SAILINGS OVER THE GLOBE; or, the Progress of Maritime Discovery. These form the First and Second Volumes of JOHN CASSELL'S LIBRARY, and contain: The Rise and Progress of Navigation—Early Discoveries of the Portuguese—Voyages of Vasco de Gama, Mendez Pinto, and Magellan—Eastern Enterprises of the English, and First Circumnavigation of the Globe—the Four Voyages of Columbus—Cortes and the Conquest of Mexico—Pizarro and the Discovery of Peru—Voyages and Discoveries of Commodore Byron, Captain Wallis, and Captain Cook—Early Polar Expeditions—Recent Voyages and Discoveries of Scoresby, Parry, Ross, and Franklin. Price 6d. each Volume; or the two, neatly bound in one, in cloth boards, 1s. 4d.

FOOTPRINTS OF TRAVELLERS, forming the Third and Fourth Volumes of the Series, contains: Capel de Brooke's Travels in Norway, Sweden, and Lapland—Lytell's Travels in the Crimea, the Caucasus, and Georgia—Ingli's Travels in the Tyrol—Travels among the Tartars by the Ambassador of the Pope, and also by Zwick and Schilt—Burnes's Travels in Bokhara—Heber's Travels in India—Travels of Bruce to the Sources of the Nile, &c. &c. Price 6d. each Volume; or the two, neatly bound in one, in cloth boards, 1s. 4d.

* The Volumes of JOHN CASSELL'S LIBRARY have hitherto been issued at the lowest charge which the heavy expenditure involved in their production would allow. As it had been demonstrated that the Excise duty on paper imposed very injurious restrictions upon a cheap popular literature, it was hoped that the representations made to the Chancellor of the Exchequer would have induced Her Majesty's Government to remit this impost; but all hope on this subject being now indefinitely deferred, and, in addition to this, a rise having taken place in the cost of paper (owing to a scarcity of cotton, and other circumstances), nearly equal in amount to the duty itself, it is found impossible to continue the publication at the prices hitherto charged without incurring a heavy loss. It will be necessary, therefore, to charge the remaining Volumes of the Library 7d. each in stiff covers, or 1s. 6d. for the double volume, neatly bound in cloth and lettered. At the same time, John Cassell pledges himself that the purchasers shall have the full value of the increased price in the excellence of the contents of the forthcoming Volumes.

† JOHN CASSELL'S LIBRARY will include Original Works of the highest character, including History, Biography, and General Science.

DO YOU WISH TO LEARN THE FRENCH LANGUAGE BY AN EASY, SIMPLE, AND CHEAP PROCESS?

THEN TAKE IN

THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND, price ONE PENNY, containing, weekly, A LESSON IN THE FRENCH LANGUAGE.

Competent judges have pronounced these Lessons to be the best and the most easily understood of any that have ever appeared. THE FIRST LESSON was published in the Number for Feb. 23.

THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND is the MOST REMARKABLE PUBLICATION OF THE DAY—Instructive, Elevating, and highly interesting. THEN TAKE IT IN, for your own sake, and that of your Family.

[Continued in next Column.]

COMMERCIAL, POLITICAL, AND RELIGIOUS FREEDOM.

THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM is one of the most talented and vigorous Advocates of Liberty, Commercial, Political, and Religious. As a Family Paper, it blends the useful with the entertaining, giving not only the state of the Provision Markets, but a judicious and instructive Digest of Weekly Occurrences, and Notices of every Movement and Invention likely to advance Social Progress, or to increase Domestic Comfort. As a Commercial Paper, it reports faithfully the fluctuations of the Markets, the condition of Agriculture, Trade, Commerce, and Manufactures, at the same time that it advocates the Destruction of Prohibition, Restriction, and Monopoly, and the establishment of those principles which will effectually secure the prosperity alike of the Middle and Manufacturing Classes, and of the Working Multitudes. As a Journal of Philanthropy and Morals, THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM proves its sympathy with all the efforts that are now made, whether to advance Education, to abate the rigours of the Penal Code, to promote the Temperance Movement, to establish Peace and Universal Brotherhood, to diminish Pauperism, Juvenile Delinquency, and General Crime, or to maintain and perpetuate the practice and extension of Religious Truth.

THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM IS PUBLISHED REGULARLY EVERY WEEK, PRICE FIVEPENCE.

A COUNTRY EDITION is published on Friday Evening, for delivery in the Provinces early on Saturday Morning. A TOWN EDITION, containing Friday Evening's Debate to the close, is published on Saturday Morning, in time for the Morning Mail; and a THIRD EDITION is issued at three o'clock, containing the Latest Intelligence, Foreign and Domestic, down to the hour of going to press.

It is requested that all who wish to take in THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM will give an order to the nearest News-vender or Book-seller; or it can be ordered direct from the Publisher, by sending a quarter's subscription, 5s. 5d., in advance. All Money-orders to be made payable to the Proprietor, JOHN CASSELL, 335, Strand, London.

JOHN CASSELL, 335, Strand, London.

JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE.

ALTERATION AND REDUCTION OF PRICES.—A reduction in the amount of the Duties on Coffee having taken place, namely, on COLONIAL Coffee, from Fourpence to Threepence per pound, and an equalisation of the Duty upon FOREIGN Coffee to the same impost, JOHN CASSELL is not only anxious, but determined, that the Public shall have the full advantage of these alterations in the following REDUCTIONS in the Prices of his Coffees:—

	Present Price.	Former Price.
JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, No. 1. ....	1s. 3d.	1s. 4d.
This is an excellent article; it is made up in air-tight packages of from One to Eight Ounces, and in Canisters of One pound.
JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, No. 2. ....	1s. 4d.	1s. 6d.
This delicious and highly-flavoured Mixture is done up in Packages as above, and in Half-pound and One Pound Canisters.
JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, No. 3. ....	1s. 6d.	1s. 8d.
A better article than this cannot be obtained: it combines great strength with fine aromatic flavour. Made up as No. 2.
JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE, No. 4. ....	1s. 10d.	2s. 0d.
This Coffee, which is reduced in price Twopence, is very greatly improved in quality. In fact, it is a Coffee adapted to the taste of the most exquisite connoisseur. Made up as Nos. 2 and 3.

It may, with perfect truth, be asserted that no article of general consumption has ever attained such a height of popularity as JOHN CASSELL'S COFFEE; and can any individual be induced to believe that an article which has secured such extensive patronage can be anything but REALLY GOOD? No person has tried the Coffee who is not delighted with its richness, and the deliciousness of its flavour. There is no mistake about either its goodness, its wholesomeness, or its great superiority. There is at present a great talk about adulteration in Coffee; but the Public may depend upon this as a truism, that it is not to the interest of any tradesman to mix with his Coffee any article merely to increase its weight; for in proportion as he does this will its excellency be lessened, and his character, as a tradesman pretending to send out a first-rate article, materially impaired.

89, FENCHURCH-STREET.

Printed and published by JOHN CASSELL, of 35, Acacia-road, St John's-wood, Middlesex, at his Printing-office, 335, Strand, London. July 1, 1851.

THE
TEETOTAL TIMES
AND ESSAYIST.

PUBLISHED MONTHLY.

No. XLIV.—NEW SERIES.]

LONDON, AUGUST, 1851.

{ Price One Penny-
Stamped, Twopence.

Now Publishing, in Weekly Numbers at 2d., and in Monthly Parts,

THE ILLUSTRATED EXHIBITOR :
A TRIBUTE TO THE WORLD'S INDUSTRIAL JUBILEE.

The object of this really National Work is to enable every family to possess, at the cheapest possible cost, a monumental record of one of the most remarkable events in the world's history. The work, as it proceeds, will form handsome volumes, filled with Engravings, giving the most perfect and compendious view of the Great Exhibition—its History, Construction of the Building, and Historical and Moral Associations; the whole under the superintendence of experienced Editors. The portion devoted to the construction of the building is illustrated with numerous Wood Engravings of the Crystal Palace and the Machinery employed during its erection, with explanatory letterpress from the pen of a gentleman who was engaged on the actual work in Hyde-park.

Part II. of this Splendid National Work, price 8d., is now ready, containing the following Illustrations:—

No. 5.—The Medieval Court (Double-page Engraving)—The Peace Congress, a Group in Parian—Colossal Lion, by Müller, of Munich—The Building, with View of the Interior from Level of Galleries; View of Staircase; Testing the Gallery Floor; Fixing the Girders and Cast-iron Drain-Pipes—Mazeppa bound to the Wild Horse—The Boy at the Stream, by J. H. Foley—John Hampden—Shakspeare, by John Bell—Group of Silver Plate—Silver Race-cup and Salt-cellar—Bronze Chandelier—Improved Lantern for a Light-ship—The Happy Child and the Unhappy Child, by E. Simonis, of Brussels.

No. 6.—The Procession of the Queen and Suite in the Crystal Palace on May 1, 1851 (Double-page Engraving)—The Koh-i-Noor, or Mountain of Light—Brooch (Benson's)—The Building, with Views of the Boiler-house, the external Railing, and a portion of the Lower Storey of the principal Elevations—The Railway Ticket Printing Machine—The Birth of the Rose—The Eagle Slayer, by John Bell—Prince of Wales's Cot—The Holland Library, British Furniture Court—Elizabethan Table and Stool—Ditto, exhibited by the Duchess of Sutherland—Lace Trophy (Hayman and Alexander, Nottingham)—Maltese Vases.

No. 7.—The Queen and Prince Albert's Visit to the Machinery Department of the Great Exhibition (Double-page engraving)—The Invention of the Stocking-Loom, from a Picture by A. Elmore, A.R.A.—the Stocking-Frame—the Building, with engravings of the Circular Planing Machine, the Gutter-cutting Machine, Machine for Finishing Ends of Gutters and Pipes, Machine for Cutting-out Sash-bars, Sash-bar Drilling-Machine, Adzing and Planing Machine, &c.—Ancient Love and Modern Love, Parian Statuettes—the Favourites, an Equestrian Group—Iron Vase, from the Antique—the Dying Shipwrecked Boy—Working Model of a Colliery—Patent Safety Apparatus for Ascending and Descending Mines—the Patent Hydro-Extractor—Jackson and Graham's Carpet Loom.

No. 8.—The Grand Civic Entertainment in the Guildhall, to Her Majesty, Prince Albert, and the Royal Commissioners, on July 9 (large Engraving)—Russian Vase, in Chinaware—Gilt Candelabrum—Russian Vase—the Russian Huntsman—Silver Jug—the Dancing Bear—the Building, with Engravings of the Punching Machine and Shears, the Drilling Machine, the Hand-rail Cutting Machine, Sash-bar Painting Machine, &c.—Rosamond—the Orphans—the Emigrants—the Babes in the Wood—the Wounded American Indian—Canadian Fire Engine—Injecting Apparatus, mounted on Wheels, and Bruton's Stationary ditto—Carved Pistol, Sword, and Dagger Handles, by Don Zolaga, of Madrid—American Library Chair.

IRISH PRODUCTIONS.

Nos. 9 and 10 of THE ILLUSTRATED EXHIBITOR will be devoted to an exposition of the Products of the IRISH EXHIBITORS. They will be filled with Engravings illustrative of her manufactures in Flax, Lace, Bogwood Oak, Silver, &c. &c., together with Wood Engravings descriptive of the principal Inventions and Discoveries in the Arts and Sciences, as exhibited by the Sister Kingdom in the Crystal Palace—the Carriages, Machinery, Sculpture, and Fine Arts.

John Cassell hopes that the circulation of a publication reaching nearly One Hundred Thousand Copies of each issue, may be the means of aiding in some measure the Industrial Progress of Ireland. Irish Exhibitors will find it to their advantage to secure portions of the space devoted to Advertisements on the Wrapper of the Third Monthly Part.

Part I., price Eightpence, containing Sixty Engravings, was published on July 1st.

WHOLESALE AGENTS IN IRELAND.—Dublin: J. J. McGlashan, 50, Upper Sackville-street; J. B. Gilpin, 59, Dame-street. Belfast: J. Moore, Stationer. Cork: Guy Brothers, Stationers. Limerick: J. P. Alexander, Patrick-street. Waterford: T. S. Harvey. Carlow: Edwards, Dublin-street.

PRIZE ESSAYS ON THE ADAPTATION OF TEMPERANCE TO THE WORKING CLASSES.

Just published, price 1s.,

TWO ESSAYS, for which Premiums of £20

and £10 were awarded by the Committee of the NATIONAL TEMPERANCE SOCIETY:—I. An Essay on the Principles and Practice of Total Abstinence considered in relation to the Working Classes. By MICHAEL SPEARS, of Edinburgh.—II. Essay on the Necessity, Practicability, and Value of Total Abstinence, as a Means of Improving the Social, Moral, and Religious Condition of the Working Classes. By COLIN A. HUNT, of Cupar, Fife.
JOHN CASSELL, 335, Strand, London.

GRAND TEETOTAL DEMONSTRATIONS

in the METROPOLIS in connexion with the GREAT EXHIBITION OF THE WORKS OF INDUSTRY OF ALL NATIONS.

THURSDAY, July 31, and FRIDAY, August 1.—A CONFERENCE in the Lecture Hall of the Literary Institution, Aldergate-street, for the purpose of receiving Reports of the Progress of the Temperance Cause, and for the Discussion of such Questions as may be deemed of importance to its more rapid progress. SAMUEL BOWLY, Esq., of Gloucester, to preside. In addition to those specially invited or introduced, Members of Temperance Societies will be admitted on presenting their Cards of Membership, or notes from the Secretaries of their respective Societies. Business to commence at ten o'clock precisely.

SUNDAY, August 3.—TEMPERANCE SERMONS will be preached in various places in the Metropolis and Suburbs.

MONDAY, August 4.—MEETING in EXETER HALL, at six o'clock in the evening; LAWRENCE HEYWORTH, Esq., M.P., to preside. The object of this Meeting is to give a hearty welcome to the Teetotallers who may be present from various parts. A select company (upwards of seventy) of the celebrated Welsh Choristers are expected to sing some of their popular melodies. Admission Free.

TUESDAY, August 5.—The Teetotallers to meet in Hyde-park at nine o'clock, near the entrance at Hyde-park Corner, Piccadilly, and proceed in line to the CRYSTAL PALACE.

WEDNESDAY, August 6.—A PUBLIC BREAKFAST at the London Tavern, Bishopsgate-street, at nine o'clock precisely: J. S. BUCKINGHAM, Esq., to preside. The Meeting to be addressed chiefly by strangers, from America, &c. Admission by Ticket, price 2s. 6d.

For the AFTERNOON and EVENING of WEDNESDAY, the SURREY ZOOLOGICAL GARDENS are specially engaged, when, in addition to the Zoological Collection, Jullien's Concerts, magnificent Views of the Colosseum, and the matchless Fireworks, the Welsh Choristers will sing some of their favourite pieces, and the Shapcott Family will perform on their celebrated sax Horns. During the afternoon Teetotal Addresses will be delivered, and a Loyal Address to the Queen, and a Petition to the House of Commons, will be presented for signature. Admission One Shilling.

THURSDAY, August 7.—AN AGGREGATE MEETING in ST. MARTIN'S HALL, Long-acre, at six o'clock, p.m.; Chair to be taken by JOSEPH LIVESKY, Esq., of Preston, and Addresses to be delivered, chiefly, by some of the Men of Preston. The Welsh Choristers will attend.

FRIDAY, August 8.—A MEETING in the ROSHERVILLE GARDENS, Gravesend, at two o'clock in the afternoon. Several eminent advocates will be present. Steamboats will leave London-bridge-wharf every hour. Admission to the Gardens, Sixpence.

The Committee respectfully invite attention to the above announcements.

Office, 59, Fleet-street, London.

I. DOXSEY,
T. C. FREEMAN, } Hon. Secs.
E. GRIFFITHS, }

A CATALOGUE OF IPSWICH
TEMPERANCE PUBLICATIONS.

ALL these, whether Books, Tracts, Hand-bills, or Notice Papers, are sold in SIXPENNY PACKETS. Fifty Packets of either will be delivered to any address in London, for a Guinea, sent by Post-office Order to Richard Dykes Alexander, Ipswich; or they may be had of any Bookseller in the country through Simpkin, Marshall, and Co., Stationers'-hall-court, London.

IPSWICH JUVENILE TEMPERANCE BOOKS,
32mo, nearly all with Pictures.

[These are now sold ONLY in Assorted Packets.]

Assorted Packet, No. 1, contains No. 1 to 16. Assorted Packet, No. 2, contains No. 17 to 32. Assorted Packet, No. 3, contains No. 33 to 46.

IPSWICH TEMPERANCE TRACTS.

Those Tracts marked with an * have Pictures.

	Pages.		Pages.
1 The Doctor Scrutinized, by R. D. Alexander, F.L.S.	8	85 Seven Years' Experience	2
2 Striking Facts, ditto	2	*86 Education of the Drunkard, with 5 pictures	12
3 Maker and Vender, ditto	2	*87 A Word with Serious People, by John Bright, M.P.	2
4 Our Creed, ditto	2	*88 Guide to Glendalough	4
*5 Adulterated Beer, ditto	4	*89 Bridget Larkins	4
*6 Adulterated Wine, ditto	4	90 The Contrast	4
7 The Maltster, ditto	4	91 Tobacco a Cause of Intemperance	2
8 Go Feel what I have Felt	2	*92 The Wedding Night	12
9 Facts are stubborn Things	2	*93 My Chapel	4
*10 The Spirit Dealer	2	*94 The Best Men sometimes Err, by Archdeacon Jeffreys	8
11 Christian Teetotalism, by R. D. Alexander	2	*95 Testimonies of Eight Judges	2
12 The Trade, ditto	4	*96 The Drunkard in Rags	2
13 Alcohol, ditto	4	*97 The Farmer and Labourer	4
*14 Town of Ipswich, ditto	4	*98 The Gloucestershire Farmer	4
*15 Song of the Water Drinker	2	*99 Strong Drink and Infidelity	8
16 Stimulation not Strength	8	100 Catalogue of Tracts	4
17 Farmer Woodman	8	101 The Hertfordshire Farmer	2
*18 The Beer Barrel	8	*102 Sunday Schools	4
19 Teetotal Recipes	4	103 Confessions of a Publican	2
*20 Speech of J. J. Gurney	4	104 Peter Levison, or the Ruined Minister	4
21 City the Poor Drunkard	2	105 John Angell James	2
*22 The Fool's Pence	8	*106 I do not drink Wine	2
23 Why am I a Teetotaler?	2	*107 Self-Imposed Burdens	2
*24 Dost thou Smoke, Bill?	4	*108 The Craving of a Drunkard	8
25 The Laudium Drinker	4	*109 The Poor Orphan Boy	4
26 The Ox Discourse	4	*110 Loss of Seven Fishermen	8
27 Letter to the Clergy	20	111 A Temperance Catechism	8
28 Common Sense	20	*112 The Mail Coachman	4
29 Ralph the Soldier	4	113 The Reformed Family	4
30 Testimony of Physicians	4	114 Licensing Day at Bolton	4
31 The Working Man	20	115 Stomach of a Drunkard	4
32 Is it not happy?	4	116 Ragged Schools	4
33 David the Shoemaker, by R. D. Alexander	2	*117 Delirium Tremens	4
34 The Drunken Couple, ditto	2	118 The Fire-Escape	4
35 Confessions of a Drunkard	2	119 The Sabbath Morn	4
36 Master Tailor, by R. D. Alexander	2	*120 Can a Christian keep a Public House	8
37 The Fatal Gift	4	121 The Aged Friend	2
38 Poor Sandy	4	422 The Village of Newbridge	2
39 Use and Abuse, by Archdeacon Jeffreys	4	123 The Mirror of Intemperance	4
40 The Schoolmaster	4	*124 Alcohol: what it does, and what it cannot do	44
41 Water is Best, by J. J. Gurney	4	125 Barley, Malt, and Beer Question, by Dr. F. Lees	4
42 Cobbett's Advice	4	126 Keep away from the Public House	4
43 Take a Public-house	4	127 The History of Poor William	8
*44 A Sailor's Yarn	4	128 The Hearer to his Minister	4
45 Moderate Drinking	12	129 Alcohol generates a tendency to Death. By Dr. E. Johnson	4
46 The Pledge	4	130 The Merchant's Dream	4
*47 John Jarvis	4	131 Address to Females	2
*48 The Fifteen Friends	4	*132 History of J. B. Gough	48
49 Sunday-School Teachers	12	133 Livesey's Malt Liqueur Lecture	32
50 Sunday-School Children	12	*134 My Mother's Gold Ring	8
*51 Money better than Beer	4	*135 Miraculous Deliverance	2
*52 Little Mary	8	136 The Drunkard's Dream	2
53 Philosophy of Temperance, by R. D. Trail, M.D.	20	*137 Archibald Prentice's Speech on Sanitary and Social Means to Political Ends	8
54 Love to Man	20	*138 The Altered Man	2
*55 Young Woman's Tract	12	*139 The Love-feast, by T. B. Smithies	4
56 Young Man's Tract	16	140 George the Australian Emigrant	4
57 Dr. Campbell's Testimony	8	141 Advice to Soldiers, by Sir C. Napier	2
58 Why sign the Pledge?	2	142 Medical Opinions, for the Aged	2
59 The Poor Man's House Repaired	4	*143 Smoking and Snuffing, by J. Higginbottom, F.R.C.S.	8
60 The Mother's Tract	8	144 Wesleyan Teetotalism	8
61 The High Price of Food	4	145 Waste of Food	2
62 Ladies' Tract Societies	8	*146 The Man in the Cellar, and the Man without Hands	8
63 The Praise of Water	2	147 Evil Spirits—a Poem	8
64 Important Calculations	2	*148 Manchester "Go-a-Heads"	4
*65 The Farm Servant	2	*149 Mothers, Doctors, and Nurses: a Dialogue between a Medical Man and his Friend, by J. Higginbottom, F.R.C.S.	12
66 Teetotalism Declining	8	150 Ten Solemn Opinions	2
*67 The Reformed Drunkard	8	151 Paralysis and Apoplexy	16
68 The Recruit	8	52 The Miraculous Deliverance, by the Author of the "Sinner's Friend," with the tract entitled the "Sinner's Friend" appended	36
69 No. 1 of Anecdotes	12	*153 The Child's Question	4
70 No. 2 ditto	12	154 Scene from Life	4
71 No. 3 ditto	12	*155 The Christian Sabbath Breaker	4
72 No. 4 ditto	12	*156 Reminiscences of a Tavern Parlour	8
73 Luke Husler	8	157 Richard Wilkinson, the Railway Labourer	2
74 The Drunkard's Wife	12	158 Missionary Facts	2
75 The Unexplored Island	4	159 The Drinker's Song. By George Hood	2
76 Ancient Wines, by R. D. Alexander	8	160 Self-imposed Taxation	4
77 Influence of Example	2	161 Testimonies of Wesleyan Missionaries	4
*78 The Victim of Excitement	20	162 Sermon in a Tavern	4
*79 My Medical Adviser	4	163 The Wages of Labour as affected by Temperance. By Archibald Prentice	4
*80 The Restoration	8	164 A Question of Vital Importance for Sunday-school Teachers. By John Templeton	16
81 The Use of Intoxicating Drinks, by Archdeacon Jeffreys	12	165 The Drunkard's Death	4
*82 Drink and be Happy	4	166 Important Statistics	4
83 The Five Nips	4	167 A Word for Myself—Sixteen Years a Teetotaler. By Benjamin Parsons. And Sixteen Reasons for Teetotalism	8
84 The Honest Spirit Dealer	2	168 The Two Apprentices	4
		169 Crime and Pauperism	2
		170 Christian Professor	2
		171 The Reformed Shoemaker	2
		172 Edward Fisher, the Banker	4
		173 British Wealth	4
		174 The Temperance Reformation an Auxiliary to Evangelical Effort	8

All the above may be had in Assorted Packets.

NEW AND INTERESTING PUBLICATIONS

ISSUED BY

JOHN CASSELL, 335, STRAND, LONDON.

UNPARALLELED LITERARY PRODUCTION

Just published, neatly bound in cloth, price 1s. 6d.,

THE LITERATURE OF WORKING

MEN: being the SUPPLEMENTARY NUMBERS OF THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND, from their commencement to the present time. With an Introductory Essay by BENJAMIN PARSONS. This may be regarded as one of the most remarkable and glorious literary achievements of modern times; it is at once a unique and striking demonstration of the intellectual and moral capabilities of the Working Classes. The subjects are various, and the mode in which they are treated has called forth the admiration of several distinguished Members of the British Senate, and the warm eulogies of a large portion of the Public Press.

The following Letter, in reference to this extraordinary Volume, has been received by Lord Dudley Coutts Stuart, who transmitted a copy of the work, by the hands of Colonel Phipps, to His Royal Highness PRINCE ALBERT:—

"My Dear Lord Dudley, "Osborne, March 20, 1851.
"The Prince desires me to acknowledge the receipt of the volume of 'The Literature of Working Men,' which you have been good enough to send him through Colonel Phipps. His Royal Highness has much pleasure in accepting it, and begs you will have the goodness to convey to Mr. Cassell the expression of his best thanks.—I remain, yours, very truly,
"C. GREY.
"The Lord Dudley Stuart."

"Doubtless much of this remarkable volume is little more than compilation, though even in this respect it will stand a fair comparison with compilations by hands as skilled in that as these are in their own more 'lawful calling,' such as tailoring and abse-making. There is internal evidence, however, of much more than compilation here, and although that gives no surprise to us, this little volume, as a whole, will certainly astonish many who have made a less accurate and just estimate of the calibre of the working man's mental abilities and acquisitions."—The Builder.

"At a time when a mass of offensive publications are poured out every day and hour for the contamination of the minds of our working population, it requires no small courage and perseverance to stem the torrent, and to give it a better and healthier direction. In the present instance this effort has been ably undertaken, and if it be not unsuccessful, which we can scarcely suppose, the amount of good which it will do must be incalculable."—Bell's Weekly Messenger.

"We regard this handsome volume as one of the most remarkable phenomena of this remarkable age. A volume consisting of between 300 and 400 pages of closely-printed matter, produced by some scores of working men and women during their spare hours, and matter much of which would do no discredit to the best-known authors of the day, is something that demands more than a hasty perusal. The indefatigable publisher, on announcing his intention of receiving and publishing such contributions, received some 500 essays, from which the present volume has been made up, and no work—not even 'Mind among the Spindles'—is calculated to excite so wide an interest. Mr. Parsons, in a brief and interesting introduction, brings out the leading features of the work, and does great justice to the claims of the industrial classes for intellectual vigour as well as manual skill. The testimony, in favour of this work, of not a few of our most distinguished M.P.'s has been forwarded to the publisher, and these show that Mr. Cassell's efforts to promote the happiness of the working classes are receiving consideration in high places. On glancing at the work we have found that many of the essays display an amount of knowledge and science almost incredible. Some of them are written in a very elegant style, and others display a mastery of thought to be met with in few of our popular authors. We commend the volume to the working classes themselves, and to all who love to see the progress of humanity, and the evidences of mind of a high order among the toiling millions."—Glasgow Examiner.

THE FREEHOLDER, the Organ of the FREEHOLD LAND MOVEMENT.—The scope of THE FREEHOLDER has recently been enlarged, so as to embrace all kinds of information of use and interest to the Members of Freehold Land and Building Societies. In addition to the usual advocacy of the principles and record of the Progress of the Movement, and suggestions for the Management of Freehold Societies, it contains copious Practical Instructions upon Building, Garden Cultivation, &c. &c., with appropriate carefully adapted at once to secure economy and cultivate a taste for the beautiful. THE FREEHOLDER by this means has been rendered increasingly acceptable, and meets the new necessities developed by the rapid progress of this great Movement.—Price 3d.; Stamped, 4d.

PICTORIAL ILLUSTRATIONS,

BOOK FOR THE YOUNG. Price 6d.—THE HISTORY OF PAPER-MAKING, TYPES, PRINTING, &c.

DO YOU WISH TO LEARN THE FRENCH LANGUAGE BY AN EASY, SIMPLE, AND CHEAP PROCESS?

THEN TAKE IN

THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND, price ONE PENNY, containing, weekly, A LESSON IN THE FRENCH LANGUAGE.

Competent judges have pronounced these Lessons to be the best and the most easily understood of any that have ever appeared. The FIRST LESSON was published in the Number for Feb. 22.

THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND is the MOST REMARKABLE PUBLICATION of the DAY—Instructive, Elevating, and highly interesting. THEN TAKE IT IN, for your own sake, and that of your Family.

THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND AND

FAMILY INSTRUCTOR is published in Weekly Numbers, containing Thirty-two pages, crown octavo, price ONE PENNY.—Vols. I., II., III., IV., V., and VI., 1s. 6d. each, containing THIRTEEN WEEKLY NUMBERS, neatly bound in cloth, are NOW READY. This work abounds in valuable and interesting information, and is admirably adapted as a gift or prize-book for families or educational institutions.—MONTHLY PARTS are regularly published. price 6d., containing Four Weekly Numbers, besides the Supplementary Number for the Month, which is uniform in size and price with the Weekly Numbers, and is devoted entirely to Communications from Working Men.

THE PATHWAY: A New Religious

Magazine. Consisting of Twenty-eight Pages, octavo, handsomely printed on good paper, price Three-Halfpence per Number, issued on the First and Fifteenth of each Month.

This is a Magazine of deep interest to Families, to Sabbath-school Teachers, and to the Youth of England generally. Writers of known talent furnish articles for the various departments, which include: The Bible and its Claims—Biblical Geography—History, Sacred and Profane—Christian Philosophy—Biography—Miscellanies, and Select Poetry. Each article is distinguished no less by its nervous and manly style than by the directness and force of its truth. Never in the history of religious literature has there been found any publication to compare with THE PATHWAY for cheapness, for the value and scope of the subjects treated, and for the high literary character of the general contents. It is the intention of JOHN CASSELL to make THE PATHWAY a Religious Library in itself.

Testimonies as to the excellence of the numbers hitherto published have been borne by a large number of Ministers in the Metropolis and various parts of the Kingdom, and also by a considerable portion of the Public Press.

On the 15th of August will be published, price 2s. 3d., bound in cloth and lettered, the FIRST VOLUME of "THE PATHWAY," comprising the first Twelve Numbers of this highly valuable Religious Magazine, with Title-page and Table of Contents.

THE WORKING CLASSES of GREAT

BRITAIN; their Present Condition, and the Means of their Improvement and Elevation. Prize Essay. To which is added an Appendix. By the Rev. SAMUEL G. GREEN, A.B., of Taunton. Price 1s. 6d., in a stiff wrapper; or bound in cloth, 2s.—A Prize of Fifty Pounds was offered by Mr. John Cassell, for the best Essay upon the above subject, the adjudicators being the Rev. T. Spencer, A.M.; Edward Miall, Esq.; and Edward Swaine, Esq.; and was unanimously awarded to the above gentleman—his Essay being selected from almost fifty others.

Just published, FOURTH EDITION, on 16 pages, demy 8vo,

VOICES FROM PRISONS AND PENITENTIARIES.

Respectfully addressed to the Teachers and Supporters of Sabbath-schools, and to all who regard the welfare of the rising generation.

Many thousands of this pamphlet have been sold, price TWO-PENCE; but in consequence of the extraordinary excitement produced by the references made to it at the recent anniversary of the SUNDAY-SCHOOL UNION, it will henceforth be sold at the reduced price of ONE PENNY; or, for extensive circulation, 6s. per 100.

INTEMPERANCE THE IDOLATRY OF BRITAIN. By the Rev. W. R. BAKER, Author of "The Curse of Britain," &c.

It is admitted by the most eminent of the religious reviewers, as well as by all who have read it, that there never was a work upon the Temperance Question more calculated to carry conviction to the mind of a thoughtful reader as to the danger and iniquity of the Drinking System. That it may have a very extensive circulation, this new and revised edition is published at 3d.; the price of the former editions was 2s. 6d. The usual allowance will be made to societies, or persons taking a quantity.

JOHN CASSELL'S LIBRARY.

NOTICE.—The Volumes of the Library to be published September 1st and October 1st will comprise

A POPULAR HISTORY OF IRELAND; being an Original Work of surpassing interest.

This day is published, price 1s. 6d., neatly bound in cloth, and lettered, an original and most important work,

THE NATURAL HISTORY of MAN; or POPULAR CHAPTERS on ETHNOGRAPHY. By the Rev. JOHN KENNEDY, A.M., of Stepney. With Engraved Illustrations.

THE GREATNESS of the BRITISH EMPIRE TRACED to its SOURCES. By BENJAMIN PARSONS. Price Sevenpence per Part, in stiff covers; or the whole complete in One Double Volume, neatly bound in cloth and lettered, price 1s. 6d., forming Vols. XIII. and XIV. of the LIBRARY.

THE PEOPLE'S BIOGRAPHICAL DICTIONARY: a Picture Gallery of Great Men of all Ages and Countries; especially of such as have lived within the Last Century, and by their own efforts raised themselves and benefited their species. By J. R. BEARD, D.D. This includes Vols. 9, 10, 11, and 12 of JOHN CASSELL'S LIBRARY. Vols. 9, 10, and 11, in stiff covers, 6d. each, and Vol. 12 (containing Thirty-two extra pages of names of persons inadvertently omitted in the former Volumes, and of Distinguished Characters who have died since the commencement of the Publication), price 8d.; or the whole, neatly bound in cloth in Two double Volumes, containing together upwards of 600 pages, 2s. 10d.

THE NEW AND POPULAR HISTORY OF ENGLAND, by DR. ROBERT FERGUSON, of Ryde, Isle of Wight, forming the 5th, 6th, 7th and 8th Volumes of this LIBRARY, is now ready, the first 3 Vols. at 6d. each, the 4th 8d., or the whole neatly bound in Two Double Volumes, or the four vols. in One, price 2s. 10d.

A Superior Edition of the History of England, beautifully printed on fine paper, and ornamented with a Portrait of the Author, is now ready, the four volumes in one, price 3s. 6d., bound in cloth and lettered; or elegantly gilt, 4s.

SAILINGS OVER THE GLOBE; or, the Progress of Maritime Discovery. These form the First and Second Volumes of JOHN CASSELL'S LIBRARY, and contain: The Rise and Progress of Navigation—Early Discoveries of the Portuguese—Voyages of Vasco de Gama, Mendez Pinto, and Magellan—Eastern Enterprises of the English, and First Circumnavigation of the Globe—the Four Voyages of Columbus—Cortes and the Conquest of Mexico—Pizarro and the Discovery of Peru—Voyages and Discoveries of Commodore Byron, Captain Wallis, and Captain Cook—Early Polar Expeditions—Recent Voyages and Discoveries of Scoresby, Parry, Ross, and Franklin. Price 6d. each Volume; or the two, neatly bound in one, in cloth boards, 1s. 4d.

FOOTPRINTS of TRAVELLERS, forming the Third and Fourth Volumes of the Series, contains: Capel de Broeke's Travels in Norway, Sweden and Lapland—Lyally's Travels in the Crimea, the Caucasus, and Georgia—Ingles's Travels in the Tyrol—Travels among the Tartars by the Ambassador of the Pope, and also by Zwick and Schill—Burnes's Travels in Bokhara—Heber's Travels in India—Travels of Bruce to the Sources of the Nile, &c. &c. Price 6d. each Volume; or the two, neatly bound in one, in cloth boards, 1s. 4d.

JOHN CASSELL'S LIBRARY will include Original Works of the highest character, including History, Biography, and General Science.

LE CONDUCTEUR DE LONDRES; ou, GUIDE de L'ETRANGER à la GRANDE EXPOSITION; aux Endroits les plus importants de la Métropole; avec un précis Historique et Topographique sur les Palais, les Parcs, les Eglises, le Gouvernement, les Eddices attenant à la Loi et au Commerce, les Ponts, les Statues, les Musées, les Hospices, les Clubs, les Théâtres, et les Rues de Londres; et sur les Alécutours les plus considérables de la Capitale. Le tout accompagné d'une Carte Magnifique de Londres et de ses Environs; avec des Gravures des principaux Bâtimens. Prix 1½ Schelling.

Twenty-fifth Thousand, Third Edition, price One Shilling.

THE LONDON CONDUCTOR: The Strangers' and Visitors' Guide through London. Embellished with a Splendid Map of the Metropolis and its Suburbs, measuring 38 inches by 22. The aim of this work is to guide the Visitor to every place of Amusement, and to every Exhibition, both free and otherwise, and contains an interesting Description of each, and the Plainest Route to the same from various parts of London—Five Days in London—How to get over the Ground—Sights, Palaces, Monuments, Docks, Bazars, &c.—List of Churches and Dissenting Chapels in and near the Metropolis—Cab Fares from every Railway Station—Police of London—Convenances of every Description—The most Interesting Spots round London, and the Easiest Mode of Getting to them, &c. &c., with numerous elegant Engravings. A Plain Edition, 9d.

JOHN CASSELL'S PUBLICATIONS—(Continued.)

IMPORTANT TO ADVERTISERS.

THE STANDARD OF FREEDOM and the GREAT EXHIBITION.—In addition to the extensive ordinary circulation of the STANDARD OF FREEDOM, no paper will be more widely referred to and consulted by individuals and families purposing to visit the Metropolis, as it will publish weekly full particulars of the amount and nature of accommodation available, embracing all kinds of furnished houses, lodgings, and suites of apartments, and serve as the organ of the great Registration Movement carried on by the proprietor, under the approbation and patronage of the following Members of Parliament, Ministers, and other gentlemen:—Lord Dudley Coutts Stuart, M.P.; Sir Benjamin Hall, Bart., M.P.; Sir Joshua Walsley, M.P.; the Right Hon. Thomas Milner Gibson, M.P.; Richard Cobden, Esq., M.P., one of Her Majesty's Commissioners for conducting the Exhibition, Lawrence Heyworth, Esq., M.P.; Joseph Hume, Esq., M.P.; James Kershaw, Esq., M.P.; Charles Lushington, Esq., M.P.; Hon. P. J. Locke King, M.P.; Francis Mowatt, Esq., M.P.; Wm. Scholefield, Esq., M.P.; William Williams, Esq., M.P.; John Williams, Esq., M.P.; James Wyld, Esq., M.P.; the Rev. James Sherman; S. Morley, Esq.; Thomas Spalding, Esq.; the Rev. Thomas Spencer, M.A.

Hence no medium for giving publicity to all matters of business can enjoy greater facilities. The STANDARD OF FREEDOM is the able and talented exponent of the principles of freedom, political, commercial, and religious. Three Editions of the STANDARD OF FREEDOM are published weekly, and Advertisements sent in time appear in the whole. Advertisements ought not to be sent to the Office later than the Thursday night preceding publication.

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT.—The Standard of Freedom contains, by a SPECIAL COMMISSIONER, a series of investigations in the manufacturing districts of Lancashire into the state of the Juvenile Population, and especially as to the influence of Sabbath-school instruction upon their condition and character. The results are published in the Standard of Freedom, in a series of Letters, which commenced with the number issued on the 7th of June, 1851. Other counties will be reported in due course.

WANTED, an APPRENTICE, about 16 years of age, to the Hair-dressing, Shaving, and Perfumery Business. The son of a Testotaler preferred. A Premium required. Application to be made personally to Mr. S. Fowler, 4, Robin Hood-lane, Poplar.

THE GREAT INDUSTRIAL EXHIBITION.

VISITORS to the GREAT EXHIBITION who may require Accommodation in LODGINGS, SUITES of APARTMENTS, or FURNISHED HOUSES, are recommended to consult the CLASSIFIED REGISTER, which is JUST ISSUED from the CENTRAL REGISTRATION OFFICE, 8, Exeter-change, Catherine-street, Strand, and forwarded free by post, on the receipt of six postage-stamps, to all parts of the United Kingdom, the Colonies, and the United States of America.

CENTRAL REGISTRATION OFFICE, No. 8, EXETER-CHANGE, CATHERINE-STREET, STRAND, LONDON.

THIS OFFICE has been established under the patronage of Noblemen, Members of Parliament, Ministers of Religion, and Gentlemen, with the view of presenting facilities to those who can furnish accommodation to Visitors, and to those who may wish to avail themselves of the same. The aim of the Promoter has been to establish a simple machinery, by which, at a moderate cost, the amount of accommodation at Hotels and Boarding Houses may be made extensively known, as well as the periods during which Furnished Houses, Suites of Apartments, and Lodgings, may be obtainable, together with the terms. These objects will be carried out as follows:—

1. By the publication, for general circulation throughout the United Kingdom, of a Classified Register of Houses, Suites of Apartments, and single lodgings. This will be sent to any part of the kingdom on the receipt of six postage stamps, or will be obtainable from any respectable newsgent. The charge for insertion of any lodging, &c., in this, will be 2s. 6d.—of which 1s. 6d. will have to be paid for advertisement duty. As the result of this publication, the probability is, that every house will receive a constant succession of inmates, instead of being sometimes crowded and sometimes empty.

2. By a Classified Registration in the Books of the Office.—The object of this is, to afford information to all inquirers, or intending visitors, as to what lodgings, &c., are obtainable on any given day. This Registration will be for the whole period of the Exhibition, and the charge will be 5s.

3. By an authorised inspection.—This is important, that the Managers and Secretaries may be able to give information to inquirers as to the situation, style of accommodation, &c., of any particular house or lodging. Any person may obtain the inspection on the payment of 2s. 6d.

M. T. RAYMOND, GENERAL MANAGER.

Printed and published by JOHN CASSELL, of 35, Acacia-road, St. John's-wood, Middlesex, at his Printing-office, 335, Strand, London. August 1, 1851.

