Many kind and complimentary criticisms have been passed upon previous issues of this Annual Publication, and it is hoped that the contents of the present number will be equally fortunate in the commendations they may elicit. Year by year GRAHAM'S TEMPREANCE GUIDE has added to its stores of useful information, and the impression now laid before the public may be confidently stated to surpass in the fullness and accuracy of its matter, the whole of its predecessors. An examination will also show that various improvements have been introduced in the arrangements of the materials supplied.

It must be clear to the reflecting that a Publication of this amplitude and character, cannot be prepared and sent out without considerable expense, and the Editor is free to appeal to all the friends of Temperance, that the publisher may not be the loser by the continuance of an undertaking which he has prosecuted with augmenting energy for five successive years.

Both editor and publisher offer their warmest thanks to their numerous correspondents in all parts of the United Kingdom, from many of whom they have received invaluable aid. A repetition of this assistance, in due course, will be highly esteemed.

May the New Year open brightly upon all; and may the year 1870 become a period of unexampled activity and success in the annals of the Temperance Reformation.

It has been proved that the mortality among those who abstain from the use of alcoholic liquors is less than among ordinary lives. As such persons are entitled to the benefit of the fact, instead of having to share in the greater losses resulting from the deaths of non-abstainers, total abstainers are insured in a separate section ; the profits of which are kept distinct from those of the General Department, and determine the amount of the Bonus in that section. In 1866, and again in 1869, the Bonus in this section was nearly 7 per cent. higher than in the General Department. This Company is the only one which affords such an advantage on the security of a respectable proprietary.

Kentish Teetotaler,

An Illustrated Magazine of 16 pages in neat Coloured Wrapper.
THE ORGAN OF THE KENT COUNTY TOTAL ABSTINENCE ASSOCIATION. CONDUCTED BY
G. H. GRAHAM.

Although the special object of this Magazine is to diffuse temperance information in the County of Kent, it will be found helpful and interesting to Teetotalers in general. It contains articles on all phases of the movement, and regards whatever is fitted to ameliorate the social condition of the people with active sympathy. Tales, poetry, department for the young, varieties, and intelligence will enliven its pages and increase the interest of its readers. In get up, in size, and general excellence, it can fairly claim the first rank in Temperance Literature.

I shall be thankful for the support of all the readers of "The Guide," but it is not my intention to make a long appeal for support; every one with eyes open can see the alarming evils resulting from the use of intoxicating drinks, and also the many blessings that follow the practice of Total Abstinence. Apart from all other considerations, this ought to be sufficient to arouse to action every Teetotaler and moral reformer.

The price of "THE KENTISH TEETOTALER" will be ONE PENNY; but in order to secure an extensive circulation, and to assist those who may be wishful to distribute it in the Workshops, Mills, Manufactories, and among all classes, it will be supplied in parcels as follows:—25 copies, 1s. 10d.; 50 copies, 3s. 4d.; 100 copies, 6s.; 250 copies; 14s.; 500 copies, 25s. To secure the Magazine at these low prices, orders for the number of copies required, with payment, should be sent by the 20th of the month.

Trusting that all the friends in every part of the country will exert themselves to aid this undertaking,

I am, in the cause of Truth and Progress,

Yours,

G. H. GRAHAM.

35, Kingsley Road, Maidstone.

P.S.—As the cover of the Magazine will be devoted to approved Advertisements, I hope friends will not be forgetful of this fact whenever they have an opportunity to aid in this way.

GRAHAM'S TEMPERANCE GUIDE.

THE HON. NEAL DOW.

On the 20th of March, 1804, the birth of a son brought new joy to a family of the Society of Friends at Portland, the capital of the State of Maine. The father, Josiah Dow, survived to 93 years of age. Under the wise training of a Christian home, the young Neal Dow spent a well-ordered and happy childhood, and, after leaving school, entered his father's business—that of a tanner—serving first as an assistant, and subsequently becoming, as he still remains, proprietor of the establishment, one of the largest of its kind in his native State. The habit of abstinence from ardent spirits, formed under the parental roof, he embraced, intelligently and ardently, as a rule of life, and the early temperance movement in America numbered him among its zealous adherents.

When the principle of total abstinence from all intoxicating liquors was propounded, he energetically espoused it, and assisted in the promotion of the "Maine Temperance Union;" but he foresaw that the effectual antidote against the evils of the common traffic in alcoholic liquors must be the abolition of the traffic by the legislative authority which had sanctioned and protected it. In 1839, he induced the Aldermen of Portland to refer the question of "licence" or "no licence" to the decision of the citizens. The poll-returns showed 599 votes for "licence," and 564 for "no licence," a defeat that was accepted as a presage of coming triumph; and the omen was realised when, four years after, in 1843, the citizens, by a majority of 440, declared their pleasure that the liquor traffic should be treated as an illegal pursuit. Those four years had been memorable in the American temperance enterprise, for they had seen the rise and culmination of the Washingtonian reform—one of the most remarkable on historical record—resulting in the reclamation of several hundred thousand inebriates. No friend of "moral suasion" was more enthusiastic in this good work, or laboured more for its success, than Mr. Dow; but with a sagacity that did not err, he perceived that the greatest achievements of Washingtonianism formed a reason for invoking the assistance of law, and not (as some of its over-sanguine leaders imagined) a reason for deprecating legislative intervention. The protection of the reclaimed—this, Mr. Dow maintained could not be secured, taking human nature on the average, unless the sword of the civil magistrate should be wielded to cut down the upas tree, whose seductive though poisonous fruit had been the bane of the drunkard. In America, as in Ireland, the event justified the correctness of this principle. "We believe, therefore do we speak," was the motto of Mr. Dow and his coadjutors; and a State Prohibitory Bill was carried in 1844 through the House of Representatives, but was defeated in the Senate. Two more years of agitation followed; the principal burden of which was cheerfully borne by Mr. Dow, who was rewarded by the presentation of petitions signed by 40,000 adults, out of a population not much exceeding 300,000, and by the enactment of a law in 1846, pronouncing the common sale of intoxicating liquors totally illegal. This Act was not all Mr. Dow desired, and he spoke of it, at the time, as "the first blow only" that would be struck against the drink traffic in the State of Maine. The working provisions were defective, and, to increase their efficiency, a new Bill was introduced in 1849, and passed both Houses, but was vetoed by the Governor. Next year, Mr. Dow brought in a Bill of his own drafting, which was lost in the Senate by a tie vote; and a crisis was clearly at hand. In the April of 1851 he was elected Mayor of Portland. On the 25th of May he re-introduced his Bill, and, after a violent opposition, it passed the Lower House by 86 votes to 40, and the Senate by 18 votes to 10. The Governor signed it on the 2nd of June. The great and vital question of enforcement was now to be decided, and every eye in Maine was turned to Portland to see how the author of the law himself would officially treat his favourite. A weaker man might have desired any other post than that of Mayor of that busy commercial seaport, and a rash man would have acted regardless of the circumstances of the occasion. Mr. Dow was neither rash nor weak, and as the plea of surprise might be advanced by the dealers in drink, and the law was worded to take effect at once, he called upon all concerned to obey the law, but deferred its peremptory enforcement for two months. In that interval the public traffic in drink nearly vanished from Portland, and the effects upon social order and comfort were of the happiest description. The results in other towns were similar; the public sentiment sustained the law wherever the authorities did their duty, and the voice of rejoicing was heard throughout the land. On February 18th, 1852, Mr. Dow was entertained at a splendid banquet in New York. On the 20th of January, 1854, he was received in Philadelphia by a company of 1,500 ladies and gentlemen, and presented with a service of plate valued at 500 dollars.

A base conspiracy to implicate him in a violation of his own law, followed by a riot supported chiefly by the lowest class of immigrants in Portland, occurred in 1855, when he was again Mayor, but his integrity was amply vindicated. During the Civil War Mr. Dow was appointed colonel of a volunteer regiment, and was soon raised to the rank of Brigadier-General. He was wounded in the unsuccessful attack on Fort Hudson, in Louisiana, and, while lying in that state in a private mansion, was betrayed and taken prisoner, but, after many privations and sufferings, he was exchanged and released. Before he had fully recovered the war had closed. The United Kingdom has been twice visited by Mr. Dow; first, in 1857, when he attended the Ministerial Conference on the Liquor Traffic, held in Manchester; and again in 1866-7. On May 20th, 1867, he addressed the citizens of London, on Prohibition, in the Guildhall, granted for the purpose by the Court of Common Council, and was received by a vast and brilliant gathering, with marks of the highest esteem.

Since his last visit to England, Mr. Dow has not relaxed in his exertions at home in the cause of Temperance and Prohibition; and in addition to his labours in his native State, he has recently addressed large audiences with great acceptance and effect in support of the Prohibitory Law of the neighbouring State of Massachusetts.

In person he is rather below the middle height, but he inherits a well-built vigorous frame. His complexion is clear and bright, and the expression of his countenance is at once resolute and pleasing. The man of intelligence, of action, and of benevolence is to be traced in look and bearing. His addresses are marked by an affluence of good matter, with a directness and a frequent felicity of illustration, which produce effects the professional orator might envy. His family consists of a wife, three daughters, and one son, living. Another son is "not lost, but gone before."

The Christian Times of May 17, 1867, presented its readers with a striking wood engraving of Mr. Dow, which the proprietors have courteously allowed us to reproduce; and the biographical sketch then furnished, of which the above is an abridgment, concluded in the following terms:—"Happy in his domestic relations, the joy of many attached friends, the renowned author of a law certain to affect the destinies of great nations, the Hon. Neal Dow may be said to have realised much of the blessedness described in the first Psalm; and he will be none the less esteemed by the readers of this journal when we add that he is a devout and humble Christian, trusting for salvation to the merits of the Redeemer, and cherishing a brotherly affection for all who 'love the Lord Jesus Christ in sincerity and in truth.'"

Post Office Savings Bank.

By 24 Victoria, cap. 14, deposits of one shilling, or of any number of shillings, or of pounds and shillings, will be received from any depositor at the Post Office Savings Banks, provided the deposit made by such depositor in any one year ending the 31st day of December do not exceed £30, and provided the total amount standing in such depositor's name in the books of the Postmaster-General do not exceed £150, exclusive of interest. When the principal and interest together standing to the credit of any one depositor amount to the sum of £200, all interest will cease, so long as the same funds continue to amount to the said sum of £200. The interest is calculated to the 31st Dec. in every year, and is then added to, and becomes part of the principal. A depositor in any legally established Savings Bank may transfer his account to the Post Office Savings Bank by simply applying to the managers of the Savings Bank for a certificate of transfer to the Post Office Savings Bank, and the amount of such certificate will be entered to his credit by the Post Office Savings Bank as so much cash. In the same way an account may be transferred from the Post Office Savings Bank to any other legally established savings bank.

Deposits may be made by or for the benefit of any person under twenty-one years of age, and repayment will be made to such minor, after the age of seven years, in the same manner as if he were of full age. In case of minors under the age of seven years, the declaration must be made by one of the parents, or a friend, on behalf of the minor. Deposits may be made by married women, and deposits so made, or made by women who shall afterwards marry will be repaid to any such woman unless her husband shall give notice of such marriage, in writing, to the Postmaster-General, and shall require payment to be made to him.

LORD NAPIER ON DRINK IN THE ARMY.

Lord Napier of Magdala, May 3, 1869, inspecting the old 59th Regiment, gave the men some useful advice on this head as a friendly warning to them on coming to India. The regiment was in splendid order under Lieut.-Col. Charles Kendal Bushe, and, as the general remarked, was a credit to its officers. "Col. Bushe and 59th Regiment," he said, "I am glad to see you so steady under arms. I am told in official reports that since your arrival your conduct has been exemplary. As a friend I would advise all of you, especially the young soldiers, to avoid the temptations that beset soldiers in this country, chiefly the temptation of strong drink. If you do this, there is no country in the world where you are more likely to live long than in this. Continue as you have commenced and I shall always be most happy to give the regiment any encouragement in my power."

CURIOUS OLD BOOK ON "DRINKE."

One of the most curious titles of books ever met with is the following:—"Drinke and Welcome; or the famous Historie of the most part of Drinke in use now in the kingdomes of Great Brittain and Ireland; with a description of all sorts of waters, from the ocean sea to the teares of a woman. As also, the causes of all sorts of weather, faire or foule, sleet, raine, haile, frost, fogges, mists, vapours, clouds, stormes, windes, thunder and lightning, compiled first in the high Dutch tongue, by the painefull and industrious Huldricke Van Speagle; a grammaticall brewer of Lubeck; and now most learnedly enlarged, amplified, and translated into English prose and verse. By John Taylor, London. Printed by Anne Griffin, 1637, 4to."

HULL FISHERMEN MINUS THE "GROG."

The fishermen, who leave Hull to work the Dutch fishing grounds, arrange "partnership fleets," each numbering twenty or thirty smacks, and placed under the control of a fisherman, who is termed the Admiral. The entire management of the fleet is vested in him, with no little addition to the systematic and harmonious prosecution of effort as the result. Each smack is provisioned to the end of August, and carries a well-stocked ice-house. Upwards of 70 sail left at one tide in the spring of 1869, and of the men and boys, to the number of 500, who formed the crews, not one embarked under the influence of liquor,—and not a single vessel in the fleet carried grog as a beverage for the crew.

INEBRIATE ASYLUMS.

There are four "Inebriate Asylums" in the United States. The oldest dates no farther back than 1857. This is the "Washington Home," at Boston, which was started quietly, by a few private persons, who, after they had some good results to show, asked the aid of the State Legislature, and have received an annual grant ever since—a grant, however, which has never exceeded five thousand dollars in any single year. It is said that, in the course of the first nine years of its existence, this establishment has received three thousand patients, of whom two thousand were considered to have been cured. There is another institution of the same kind near Philadelphia, called the "Sanitarium," a third at Chicago, only lately opened, and a fourth at Binghampton, New York, which is nearly as old as the "Washington Home," at Boston. This establishment bids fair to become far more famous and efficient than its companions. It has been built on too grand a scale, and the landed property around it is far too extensive to be usefully managed for its purposes; but it has had the good fortune to secure the services of a superintendent who has probably done more for the cause of the recovery of drunkards than any living man—Mr. Albert Day. This gentleman had governed the "Washington Home," at Boston, for nine years before he became superintendent of the New York Asylum, to which its first promoter gave the most objectionable name of "Inebriate Asylum." It seems happily to be known as the "Binghampton Asylum."

THE TEMPERANCE MOVEMENT ABROAD.

America.

UNITED STATES.—An influential New England Temperance Convention was held Dec. 2, 1868, and during 1869 numerous State Conventions have been called, some with the view of confirming or procuring prohibitory laws, and some with the view of calling into existence a distinct political party on a prohibitory basis. This latter policy found expression in a National Convention held at Chicago, Sep. 1st and 2nd, Hon. James Black of Pennsylvania, president, which adopted a "platform" having as its third and essential article the following:—"That in view of this, and inasmuch as the existing political parties either oppose or ignore this great and paramount question, and absolutely refuse to do anything towards the suppression of the rum traffic, which is robbing the nation of its brightest intellects, destroying internal prosperity, and rapidly undermining its very foundations, we are driven by an imperative sense of duty to sever our connection with these political parties, and organise ourselves into a National Prohibition party, having for its primary object the entire suppression of the traffic in intoxicating drinks." The most important legislative action taken in any State was in Massachusetts, where the License Law of the previous year, the failure of which was universally confessed was repealed, and a new law of prohibition was passed resembling the old law, except as permitting the sale of cider not to be consumed on the premises. Major Jones, the Chief of the State Constabulary, vigorously carried out the law, and in all parts of the State, even in Boston, the open sale of liquor was suppressed. Under this law the penalty for a single sale is 10 dols. fine and from twenty to thirty days' imprisonment; for a second violation, 20 dols. and from thirty to sixty days' imprisonment; and for any subsequent violation, 50 dols. and from three to six months' imprisonment, with an extra month in each case when the fine is not paid. The keeping with intent to sell is punished by 10 dols. fine and twenty days' imprisonment. The seller is liable for all damage done by the buyer and drinker while drunk, and any person arrested for drunkenness can escape prosecution by appearing as a witness against the man of whom he had purchased the liquor. The National Temperance Society held its annual meeting in New York, May 12, and its report for the year ending April 30 showed that within the year the Society had published 118,563 copies of its monthly organ, the National Temperance Advocate; 860,212 copies of the Youths' Temperance Banner; 42,500 eight page tracts, 735,000 four page tracts, 16 new books and pamphlets, 10,000 copies of the new temperance hymn book, and 34,000 copies of the National Temperance Almanack. The total number of pages printed was 26,416,875; total since the organisation of the Society (3½ years) 53,665,615. The receipts for the year were 46,282 dollars (£9,642). A sum of 40,000 dollars had also been pledged towards the permanent fund of 100,000 dollars for establishing a grand central depot. There are many temperance lecturers in the United States, and early in 1869 the number of temperance newspapers published in that country and the British Provinces was 35, 19 weekly, 3 semi-weekly, and 13 monthly. The "Temperance Orders" are numerous and generally active. These embrace "The Sons of Temperance," "The Good Templars," "The Grand Templars of Honour," "The Good Samaritans," "The Guild of Temperance," "The Knights of Temperance," "The Watchmen," &c. The chief of these "Orders" are the "Sons" and "Templars." The "Sons of Temperance" held their twenty-fifth annual session at Washington, June 9-12. The number admitted during the year, including ladies, was 64,525, and the membership as reported in January was 137,454, including ladies. There was 49,469 reported as suspended, expelled, and excluded during the year. All the "divisions" had not reported their numbers or receipts. The fifteenth session of the "Good Templars" was held at Oswego, May 25-27. There were 6,092 subordinate "lodges", and 361,184 members; admitted during the year 182,239; lost during the year 163,817.

GRAHAM'S TEMPERANCE GUIDE.

BRITISH PROVINCES.—There has been considerable activity in the Dominion of Canada, Newfoundland, and Prince Edward's Island. The modes of action resemble those pursued in the United States. A Union Temperance Convention held at Toronto for three days in September was well attended and of an encouraging character. As a rule ministers of all denominations favour the temperance movement in all parts of English-speaking America.

Australia.

NEW SOUTH WALES.—All departments of the Temperance Reform have been worked with more than usual energy. Legislative action is strongly supported in Sydney, by the aid of the Chief Justice Sir A. Stephen, the Dean of Sydney, Dr. A'Beckett, Rev. Dr. Steel, and others. On April 13, a great meeting for the promotion of a Juvenile Temperance Association of New South Wales was held at Sydney.

VICTORIA.—Rechabite Clubs have been very prosperous in this colony. Bands of Hope have also flourished. Among special results have been those at Bendigo, where in a few months 2,030 persons signed the pledge by the lectures of Mr. Matthew Barnett.

SOUTH AUSTRALIA.—The annual conference of the South Australian T. Abstinence League was held at Adelaide, May, 24, when the Bands of Hope were reported as having 3,443, and the adult societies as numbering 7,789 members; but all the societies had not reported.

NEW ZEALAND.—The Auckland Total Abstinence Society has been revived, and the Drury Auxilliary of the U.K. Alliance formed. In other parts a temperance movement is in progress. It had been calculated that in the years 1861-7 the colony had expended £8,400,000 on intoxicating drinks, while it had been burdened by a debt of seven millions. The Port Albert district is free from the sale of intoxicating liquors, and crime is almost unknown.

Asia.

In BRITISH INDIA there are many earnest friends of temperance, and the Hindoo "fraternities" for stopping the increase of drinking are doing an excellent work. "Drink" continues the stigma and destroyer of the British soldier. Lord Napier, of Magdala, in an address to the 59th regiment, advised the men to avoid "chiefly the temptation of strong drink." In MADAGASCAR a movement against the importation of ardent spirits, appears to have commenced, since at Tamatave, the principal port, the Custom House Officers, acting under instructions from the capital, had broken in the heads of the barrels of rum taken there as custom dues, and let the rum run into the sea.

Europe.

TURKEY.—The sale of liquor is put under stringent regulations in Turkey, and the bulk of the Mussulman rural population is free from the use and vice of drink. An injudicious imitation of Frankish customs is confined to the higher classes, though the Sultan is a consistent abstainer.

RUSSIA.—Vodka (corn-brandy) is the curse of Russia. M. Prijeff in his work, "The Taverns of Russia, and their influence on the National Welfare," states that to its use is to be ascribed the numerous distempers prevalent in the Russian army, more especially among the regiments stationed in the Caucasus, and along the shores of the Black Sea. It appears from printed reports and non-official sources of information, that had the vodka trade been restricted five years ago, the famine of 1867-8 would have been either obviated altogether or greatly mitigated. For some years past several millions of tchevtverts (quarters) have been annually alienated from the grain produce of corn brandy. The taverns in St. Petersburg have acquired the ironical name of "National Banks," on account of their well-understood peculiarity of absorbing the savings of those who frequent them. To put an end to the gigantic evils which it is found that these taverns inflict, the Government resolved upon four sweeping measures: 1. To increase the price of corn-brandv three-fold; 2. To allow no tavern in any main thoroughfare of the metropolis; 3. That every tavern shall be regarded as an inn, and be required to pay the customary hotel due of £70; 4. That no tavern shall be allowed to be open within 80 yards of a Government office.

SWEDEN AND NORWAY.—The evils arising from the prevalence of farm-distillation were so great that the system was prohibited; and the Government then reduced the licences in the large towns by half or two-thirds, by taking the privilege of selling spirits from all the post-station keepers, and by clearing out the majority of public-houses in the country villages. The effect of all this has been a reformation of the national habits of the most gratifying and remarkable description. The population of Sweden, and more especially the peasantry, have become patterns of sobriety, and crimes of every kind have decreased immensely, and any tourist may travel for 50 or 100 miles at a stretch, on the public highways without finding a drop of spirits, although he were to offer a sovereign for a single glass. But the post-stations are still refreshment houses, although spirits are no longer in the bill of fare. In Norway similar legislation has been attended with equally great results. At Gottenburg, in Sweden, the experiment of reducing the evils of the traffic to a minimum has been tried by a system of severe restriction, and by preventing all competition for profits on the sale.

GERMANY.—The great temperance movement, once powerful in Germany, has not yet been renewed; but Pastor Bottcher, of Kirchrode, near Hanover, continues the publication of a monthly "North German Temperance Magazine, for town and country." The Government of the small principality of Waldeck have given public notice that no licence shall hereafter be granted to any individual who is addicted to drunkenness; or if having been so, he must exhibit full proofs that he is no longer a slave to this vice. The same Government have also directed that in every report made by the ecclesiastical, municipal, and police authorities upon petition for licence to marry, the report shall distinctly state whether either of the parties desirous of entering the matrimonial connection, is addicted to intemperance or otherwise. In Prussian-Poland during the last years, many thousands have taken the pledge. The priests are at the head of the movement, and have organised special services in which the pledge is solemnly taken. So deep is the effect thus produced on the minds of those who join the band, that nothing will tempt them to break the pledge.

HOLLAND.—Besides the Netherland Temperance Union, based on the anti-ardent spirit principle, the Rev. Mr. Scheltema has persecuted his total abstinence movement in Amsterdam and the vicinity with considerable success.

FRANCE.—The pernicious effects of wine and spirit drinking on the morality and physical stamina of the French people are admitted by all French physiologists. M. Lunier, one of the lunacy inspectors, in a paper read at the Academy of Medicine, in March, said that "the increase of insanity has especially shown itself in general paralysis and insanity arising from alcohol."

GUERNSEY.—In the Court of Chief Pleas, Monday, January 12th, before Sir C. Stafford Carey, Bailiff; present, the whole of the Jurate, with the exception of Mr. J. T. De Sausmarez. The Queen's Procureur proposed two ordinances, the first enacting that all public-houses should be closed at eleven at night ; and the second, that persons convicted of selling spirits without licence should be fined £2 for the first offence, and for the second, £1 8s. 6d., instead of £1 as at present.—Lieutenant-General Huyshe, C.B., appeared at the bar, and presented a petition, signed by between 4,000 and 5,000 persons, in support of a petition of the Guernsey League for the suppression of the Liquor Traffic, praying that the court would consider the question of suppressing or limiting the retail trade in intoxicating liquors, with the view of checking the evils of intemperance. General Huyshe delivered an able address, after which the Queen's Procureur supported his own proposals ; ultimately the Court adopted the two ordinances, and requested the Procureur to bring in another regulating the sale of spirits in grocers' shops.

JERSEY.—In February, the States passed a bill for an increase of the indirect tax on spirits—a further innovation on the former duty levied on these liquors viz. 1s. 3d. per gallon ; but three years ago, in order to provide funds for the defence of the coast, an additional tax of 3d. per gallon was levied. For the present object the Bill proposed a further duty of 6d. per gallon, making 2s. in all. A motion in the "States" for closing public-houses on Sundays has been defeated, but it was agreed that they should be open only from 1 to 3 p.m., and not from 5 to 7 p.m., and that on every other evening but Saturday they should be closed at 10 o'clock instead of 11 as at present.

TEMPERANCE AND THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH IN 1869.

THE ESTABLISHED CHURCH OF ENGLAND.

Besides the action of the Church of England and Ireland Temp. Reformation Society [for which see National Temp. Associations,] the part taken by the Houses of Convocation is full of encouragement and hope. June 15th, the Lower House of Convocation having met, Archdeacon Sandford, Chairman of the Committee on Intemperance, presented their report, a volume of 238 pages, containing the result of inquiries and testimonies from the parochial clergy of the province of Canterbury, the judges, police magistrates, recorders, and coroners of England and Wales, the superintendents of lunatic asylums in England and Wales, the governors and chaplains of prisons, and heads of the constabulary throughout Great Britain, and the masters of workhouses in England and Wales, on the extent, the causes, and the remedies of intemperance. In an eloquent and impressive address he related the course the committee had taken in compiling the report, and expressed his personal thanks to those governors and officers who had afforded valuable information as to the dimensions of the gigantic evil of intemperance. He spoke of the terrible results arising from habits of intoxicating liquors, and this statement he proved by statistics and the opinions of judges to whom he had written. He claimed the assistance of the synod in dealing with this national evil, which affected both sexes to a terrible degree. He moved—"1. That the report be conveyed by the Prolocutor to his Grace the President, and that his Grace and their lordships and bishops be respectfully requested to approach her Majesty with an address from this Convocation, deploring the many evils connected with intemperance which are set forth in the report, and confirmed by the information collected by the committee, and appended to their report ; and praying her Majesty to direct the attention of both houses of Parliament to the same, with a view to the enactment of measures which may remedy or prevent those evils, and thereby promote the happiness and welfare of her Majesty's subjects. 2. That this house respectfully requests their lordships the bishops to support, in their places in parliament and elsewhere, all measures which are calculated to remedy and prevent the evils which this house most deeply deploras."

Archdeacon Denison moved and Archdeacon Sandford seconded the following rider, to the above resolutions:—"That the practice prevailing in many parts of the country, especially in the cider districts, of the sale of drink by persons having no licences of any kind is also commended to the notice of Convocation, and the attention of the legislature called to the necessity of providing a remedy for an evil having so close a connection to the subject matter of this report."—Carried unanimously. After remarks from the Dean of Westminster, Archdeacon Denison, the Dean of Canterbury, Canon Selwin, Canon Harvey, Canon Wood, Rev. Sir F. Ouseley, Prebendary Fagan, Rev. Sir G. Prevost, Prebendary Randolph, Rev. F. Bathurst, Prebendary Edwards, Rev. H. de Winton, Canon Lloyd, Dr. Fraser, Rev. Mr. Gibbs, and Archdeacon Stanton, the resolution was carried nem. diss.

June 17.—The Upper (Bishops) House of Convocation took into consideration the report on intemperance by the Lower House. The Bishops of Llandaff, Hereford, and Oxford having spoken, the President (Archbishop Tait) said, "The report is a voluminous document, and obviously the result of much self denial and hard work on the part of the committee who composed it. They have done a great public service in drawing the attention of Convocation to the matter; and in no way can Convocation and the clergy better apply themselves for the benefit of the Church than by endeavouring to meet such great practical evils."

On the motion of the Bishop of Oxford, it was unanimously resolved:—"That having regard to the great evils to this State and Nation arising from the prevalence of intemperance, Convocation should address the Throne, praying Her Majesty to take such measures as she might deem fit to amend the laws bearing on the subject; so as to discourage intoxication and to diminish the great moral and social evils which flow from it."

In accordance with this resolution, the Upper House presented the following address to the Queen:—"To the Queen's most excellent Majesty.—We your Majesty's faithful subjects, the Archbishop, Bishops, and Clergy of the province of Canterbury, in Convocation assembled, having had our attention called to the great evils to this State and Nation arising from the prevalence of intemperance, pray your Majesty to take such steps as to your Majesty may seem fit, so to amend the laws which bear upon this subject as to discourage intoxication and diminish the great moral and social evils which flow from it."

This address was acknowledged by Mr. Secretary Bruce, June 29. On July 5th, the Archbishop of Canterbury sent to her Majesty, through Sir T. Bid-dulph, a copy of the report, printed on thick paper, toned, and gilt. In his letter Dr. Tait said "Archdeacon Sandford, the chairman, spent a great deal of time, and took infinite pains in collecting valuable information." Sir T. Bid-dulph's reply, July 7th, stated that her Majesty had received the report "very graciously."

THE ESTABLISHED CHURCH OF SCOTLAND.

The Rev. James Stewart, M.A., Pethead, convener of the committee on temperance, presented its report to the General Assembly, after a short discussion upon which, the following resolution was unanimously carried:—"That the General Assembly receive the report and recommend the diligence of the committee; that the Assembly adopt the suggestions of the committee, and recommend the ministers of the Church to urge on their congregations the necessity of using all lawful means for the suppression of intemperance; recommend the ministers to preach in their several churches and chapels, on such a day as they may deem most suitable, on the evils of intemperance; re-appoint the committee, Mr. Stewart to be convener, and authorize the committee to bring the subject prominently before the Synods and Presbyteries of the Church, with the view of these bodies taking such action on it as they may think advisable."

GRAHAM'S TEMPERANCE GUIDE.

FREE CHURCH OF SCOTLAND.

The Temperance Committee of the Free Church of Scotland presented its Annual Report to the General Assembly, May 31st, through its convener, Wm. Kidston, Esq., who delivered a most interesting speech on the occasion. After a short and friendly discussion the Report was adopted.

UNITED PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

May 19th, the Annual Report of the Committee on Temperance was submitted to the Synod by the Rev. Mr. Johnston, Springburn, and unanimously adopted. The following important recommendations were embodied in the Report:—“(1.) That the recommendation to ministers to call the attention of their congregations to the subject of intemperance on some Sabbath in December, be renewed. (2.) That the committee be instructed to prepare, print, and circulate among the members of our churches an address on the subject of intemperance; and (3.) That the committee be authorised to adopt such measures as to them may seem best for putting down the unseemly, expensive, pernicious, and growing custom of using intoxicating drinks at funerals.”

THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH IN IRELAND.

The Temperance Committee presented its Annual Report to the General Assembly held in Belfast, in June, in which reference is made to the action of Presbyteries and Synods to toast drinking, &c. Among the suggestions offered were the connection of Bands of Hope with Sunday schools; the stopping of the Sunday sale of liquor, and limiting the hours and licences on other days; memorialising Quarter Sessions by Church Courts; a special sermon on the last Sabbath in November, and the application of the ordinary collection on that Sabbath to the purposes of the Assembly's Temperance Committee. All the suggestions were approved by the General Assembly.

REFORMED PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH OF IRELAND.

The Synod held at Belfast, June, 1869, unanimously adopted the report on temperance, and ordered it to be printed in the Magazine. Presbyteries are instructed to adopt means for advancing the cause; ministers are exhorted to preach on the question on the third Sabbath of December, the ordinary collection on that day to be sent to the Secretary for the prosecution of the cause; congregations are recommended to form societies in connection with themselves; and the members of the church, especially the young, are warned against drinking customs, and entreated to touch not the unclean thing, &c.

WESLEYAN METHODIST CONFERENCE.

At a meeting of the Sabbath Committee, which assembled in Hull, July 27, a resolution in favour of Sunday closing of public-houses elicited a very interesting conversation, and was unanimously passed. In the Conference the Rev. B. Browne gave notice that at the proper time he would call the attention of the Conference to the following resolution:—“That having regard to the growing desire in our connection to suppress and remove from the nation the gigantic evils incident to the vices of intemperance and drunkenness, the Conference, desiring more formally to encourage Christian temperance, in opposition to those manifest evils, considers that the time has come for the formation of a Methodist temperance committee.” Next day a request from the Aberystwith

GRAHAM'S TEMPERANCE GUIDE.

Circuit was presented requesting the Conference to consider the best measures for the suppression of in temperance. The Conference expressed to the memorialists its deep abhorrence of the evil in question, and its hearty sympathy with every well-directed effort for its removal, but was not prepared to appoint the committee asked.

The Ex-President of the Conference, the Rev. Samuel Romilly Hall, in his address to the ministers assembled, after a vote of thanks had been passed for his conduct during the year, said "that he had been able to get through the large amount of work which had fallen to him by not being subject to the reaction of stimulants, and a little care in the matter of diet." The Ex-President when addressing the newly ordained ministers on the 5th Aug., told them that if "they used narcotics or stimulants, they would sooner or later bring upon themselves a condition of enfeebled health. They must not separate the work of the soul from the work of the body." An attempt was made at one of the closing sittings of the Wesleyan Conference to abolish the practice of putting a question relating to smoking to candidates for ordination. As an amendment the Rev. William Arthur moved that "at the annual district meeting every probationer shall each year of his probation have the question put to him, 'Do you use drams, tobacco, or snuff?'" Mr. Rattenbury seconded the amendment, which was adopted. A great meeting on temperance was addressed in Hull by Wesleyan ministers, August 5th.

PRIMITIVE METHODIST CONFERENCE.

In connection with this Conference held at Grimsby, June 2-12, a very enthusiastic temperance meeting was addressed by Primitive Methodist ministers and others; and in the official address of the Conference to the societies under its care, the following passages occur—"Thousands of your fellow-men are destroyed annually through strong drink, and our churches suffer most appalling defections through indulgence in this evil. Let the Temperance cause have the benefit of your prayers and example. The Conference cannot view with pleasure the growing practice of smoking tobacco, especially among the young. Our ministers, especially our young ministers, and official members are affectionately urged to set an example in this respect worthy of imitation."

METHODIST NEW CONNECTION CONFERENCE.

This Conference, which met in Halifax, June 14th, passed a resolution expressing "entire approval of the Licence Amendment League," and urging its members "to offer their hearty support to the objects of the League in every practical form." It also adopted a petition in favour of the Sunday closing of public-houses. It also resolved "That in consideration of the great mischief done to our churches by the common use of intoxicating drinks the Conference believes it to be urgently necessary to take more decided steps to promote temperance principles among the youth of our churches." "That it is desirable that a Band of Hope Union shall be formed, having for its object the association of Bands of Hope already in existence, the formation of new ones, or of juvenile temperance societies, suggesting suitable rules for the management, and the collection of statistics thereon." "That a committee, consisting of Revs. J. W. Williams, W. J. Townsend, and Messrs. Pollard and C. Williams, be appointed to open communications with existing societies in the Connexion, and to take the needful preparatory steps for forming such a union, under the sanction of Conference, the Rev. W. J. Townsend to act as convenor or corresponding secretary."

UNITED METHODIST FREE CHURCH ASSEMBLY.

This Assembly met at Sunderland, July 28, and on August 5, in reply to a memorial from the Sunderland Boys' Band of Hope Union, adopted a reply recom-tending to its churches the formation of Bands of Hope. Sympathizing answers were also returned to memorials from the Sunderland Temperance Society and the Central Association for Stopping the Sunday Sale of Liquor. At the address of the Assembly to its churches at home and abroad reference is made to the "monstrous mischiefs resulting from the drinking customs of our land."

BIBLE CHRISTIANS' CONFERENCE.

This Conference assembled in Bristol, July 28, and in reply to a memorial from the Bristol Auxiliaay of the Alliance declared—"We assure you of our willingness to give that sympathy and support which in our individual spheres of labour as ministers of Christ we may be able to render, and we further assure you that in so far as we may possess political power the 'Permissive Prohibitory Liquor Bill,' as a great reformatory measure will receive our hearty support." A cordial reply was returned to a memorial from the Central Sunday Closing Association.

WESLEYAN REFORM UNION CONFERENCE.

Among the resolutions adopted by this Conference, which met at Bradford, was one in favour of the temperance movement.

CALVINISTIC METHODIST CHURCHES.

At several of the Calvinistic Methodist county meetings the temperance question has been brought prominently forward. The following is a translation of an extract taken from the monthly organ of the body:—"Arfou County Meeting, Inver, Jan. 4, 1869,—A paper was read from Engedi, Carnarvon, calling attention to the necessity of using more stringent church discipline with regard to drinking and breaking the temperance pledge, &c., and that an effort should be made to get all the members total abstainers. The Rev. John Roberts, of Llanfryn, read a summary of replies received from the various churches to the question of 'How many church officers were total abstainers?' Reports were received from all the churches—that is, sixty-seven. All the ministers, thirty number, were total abstainers; and out of the forty-six preachers, forty-five were total abstainers. And out of 286 deacons, 264 were total abstainers. It was found that fifty-seven churches had all their officers total abstainers; six churches with one deacon in each not so; one church with two deacons not so; and three churches with three deacons not so. A long discussion ensued upon this matter, and exhortations were given to make further investigations, so as to be able them to know what number of members were teetotalers, and what number were not; and that a judicious and charitable attempt be made to gain non-abstainers over."

THE IRISH WESLEYAN CONFERENCE.

In answer to a letter from the Irish Permissive Bill Association, June 26, requesting the support of the members of the Conference for the Alliance movement, it was directed that a suitable answer be sent, expressing the strong sympathy of the Conference with every effort to advance the social and moral interests of the people.

THE PRIMITIVE WESLEYAN METHODIST CONFERENCE.

This body, which met in July, in Dublin, received a deputation and address from the Irish Permissive Bill Association, after which the president of the Conference, Rev. T. A. Jones, of Lurgan, replied, assuring the deputation of the deep interest the Primitive Methodists took in the work of the temperance movement generally—nearly the whole of the ministers being personal abstainers—and of the pleasure it gave them to receive those representing the Permissive Bill movement. They looked upon the work of such an association as that so ably represented that day as of the greatest importance, and the executive might rest assured of the support and sympathy of the Primitive Methodists in the very arduous work before them.

THE CONGREGATIONAL UNION OF ENGLAND AND WALES.

At the Spring annual meeting, a resolution was passed unanimously, deploring the facilities for intemperance offered by the excessive multiplication of public houses and beershops, and expressing the conviction that the main hope of diminishing vice, pauperism, and crime, is to be found in an amended regulation of the liquor traffic. The resolution also declares its satisfaction at the adoption by the House of Commons of the principle of Sir I. S. Ibbetson's Bill, suspending for two years the licensing power of the excise, and also expresses the earnest hope that Government, before the expiry of that term, will deal with the subject in a manner that will make the traffic more amenable to public opinion, and give more protection to the physical and moral interests of the people. In the debate, the Rev. H. Tarrant, of Leeds, remarked that public houses were excellent things, indeed, if they could get the drink out of them. In Leeds, he said, they had commenced a system of public-houses without the drink, and he was very glad to say that there was a public-house which once was a beerhouse in a low part of the town, where a thousand working-men had assembled within the last few months, and where forty had been reclaimed from the course of drunkenness. At the Autumnal Session of the Union, held in Wolverhampton, the following resolution was unanimously adopted, Oct 20th:—"This assembly has received with cordial satisfaction the address of the Birmingham and Wolverhampton District Association for the promotion of temperance and the Wolverhampton Temperance Society, and orders it to be printed with the minutes of the session; that it cheerfully recognises the great good which has been accomplished by temperance organisations, and heartily wishes their success, and invites the attention of the Union to any Bills which may be submitted to Parliament for the limitation and suppression of the sale of intoxicating liquors on the Lord's-day, and generally to any measures which may have for their object the lessening of facilities for intemperance and its numerous attendant evils, in the hope that they may be able to give them their support."

THE GENERAL BAPTIST ASSOCIATION.

At the annual association of the ministers and representatives of the New Connection of General Baptists held in Sheffield, deputations from the committee of the Sheffield Temperance Society and that of the Alliance Auxiliary attended by permission, on June 24, and after the reading of an address from each deputation separately, the Rev. Dr. Burns moved, and the Rev. James Greenwood A.M., of Nottingham, seconded, a resolution commending the movements to the sympathy of the members of the General Baptist Churches; which was cordially and unanimously adopted.—The deputation then warmly expressed their thanks and gratification, and retired amid the cheers of the large assembly.

THE "CHRISTIAN" CHURCHES.

At the annual meeting of delegates and other members of those churches in the United Kingdom who adopt only the name of "Christian," held in Hop Hall, Liverpool, August 10-12, the following proposition, moved by Mr. Walter Ludbrook, was carried without a dissentient:—"Viewing the enormous evil daily arising throughout the country from the use of intoxicating drinks, and also the backslidings and spiritual declensions in our churches from the same source, this meeting kindly yet urgently recommends the disuse of all alcoholic stimulants personally by our brethren throughout the land, and advises officers of the churches to provide unintoxicating wine at the Lord's table."

THE UNITED FREE GOSPEL CHURCHES ASSEMBLY.

At the sixty-fourth annual assembly of these churches which was held in the City Hall, Glasgow, it was resolved to petition in favour of the Sunday closing.

public-houses; and a further resolution was also adopted as follows:—"That printed address be sent to all the churches, urging upon all preachers, leaders, officers, and Sunday school teachers in the connexion, the duty of personal abstinence from all intoxicating drinks, and pressing them to urge the same upon the members and scholars under their charge."

TEMPERANCE REFORM AND PUBLIC ASSOCIATIONS.

THE BRITISH MEDICAL ASSOCIATION.

The annual meeting of this learned society was held in 1869, in the town of Leeds, and on July 29, about 150 of its members, on the invitation of Mr. Edward Baines, M.P., and a Vice-President of the National Temperance League (on whose behalf the invitation was given), assembled to breakfast at the Gt. Northern Station Hotel. Mr. Baines presided, after an able address from whom, a very interesting conversation followed, in the course of which speeches were delivered by Mr. Samuel Bowly, Rev. A. Hannay, Dr. Stewart, (Dublin), Dr. L. Down, (London) Dr. E. Davies, M.R.C.S. (Medical Officer of Swansea), Rev. Dr. Bell (Goole), Dr. J. Hare (London), Dr. Frobisher (Leeds), Dr. Beales (Mayor of Congleton), Dr. Martin (Warrington), Mr. H. Morris, M.R.C.S., (Petherton), Dr. Munroe, (Hull), Dr. Townson, M.R.C.S. (Liverpool), &c.

[A Medical Conference on intemperance was also held at Birmingham, Sept. 6th, over which Dr. Fletcher presided, when the following resolution was unanimously adopted:—"That this Conference is of opinion that much error prevails in our medical schools on the therapeutic value of alcoholic liquors; that this error is propagated in medical text-books, and acts most injuriously upon the common medical practice of this country; that this Conference highly commends the teaching and practice of the many eminent physicians who are employing their great medical eminence to diffuse sounder views upon this subject, which is of such vital importance to mankind."

The Chairman, in answer to a gentleman who asked whether it was true that alcohol produces twenty-two diseases, said that number might be doubled, and even quadrupled. Most diseases went in at the mouth.]

BRITISH ASSOCIATION FOR THE ADVANCEMENT OF SCIENCE.

This distinguished society met at Exeter, in 1869, In the Biology section, Dr. B. W. Richardson, F.R.S., read a report on the physiological action of the ethyl series, in the course of which the investigation of the alcohols was most laborately described, and as an anæsthetic the use of alcohol was condemned as being too slow and too prolonged. Dr. Richardson said, he could not place the alcohols in any other position than other chemical bodies—they were certainly not foods, nor could they either give strength or supply material for strengthening the tissues, or throw force into the tissue which had been supplied by other matter. It was time that the learned in the profession should recognise the true position of these agents, for seeking force in alcohol was like seeking for light in a subterranean cavern.

In the department of anatomy and physiology Dr. Wilson read a paper on "The Moral Imbecility of Habitual Criminals, exemplified by Cranial Measurements." The Rev. W. Caine in the subsequent discussion said that out of 724 Protestant prisoners in the County Gaol at Manchester, 81 had been Sunday school teachers for longer or shorter periods, and 9 out of 10 of them were Sunday scholars, and amongst the prisoners were sons of clergymen and dissenting ministers, clerks of all kinds, commercial travellers, and schoolmasters. He added that the chief cause of crime in England was drink, and the want of good example on the part of parents. He advocated compulsory education and the suppression of the liquor traffic. Many clergymen present applauded these remarks, as did the audience generally.

In paper by Professor Leone Levi on "Agricultural Economics and Wages," he said that crime and drunkenness were less in the agricultural than in manufacturing counties, but in pauperism and illegitimacy the latter stood in a better position. In conclusion, he observed that the effects of low wages and dissipation on pauperism were well known, and it was well to reconsider whether the principle of giving to the wasteful a right to the savings of the frugal, legally established by the poor-law system, was not destructive to the industry, forced thought, and the honesty of the great mass of the labourers, as it was irreconcilable with all sound principles of political economy.

Canon Girdlestone said he held it was a mistake to suppose that giving cider to the labourer was an advantage to him physically or morally. Give him money and let him spend it upon beef instead of cider. Looking at the matter morally, who did not admit the fact that the vice and destitution of our labourers throughout the country were caused by drink? Why give them an incentive to go to the public-house and get more? Cider, morally and physically, was the greatest possible disadvantage.

A meeting on the Permissive Bill was held in the Temperance Hall, presided over by E. Vivian, Esq., J.P., of Torquay. It was addressed by Dr. Stewart, Rev. Mr. Caine, Mr. Wilkinson, Mr. W. Brown, Mr. Uran, &c.

NATIONAL SOCIAL SCIENCE ASSOCIATION.

The annual Congress was held at Bristol, commencing Sept. 29th. On 30th Mr. G. W. Hastings in the course of his inaugural address, as President of the Department of Jurisprudence and Amendment of the Law, said, in referring to the Beer House Act of 1869:—"It is well, indeed, to have taken the first step for the removal of that curse which the Beerhouse Act entailed on the country, but let us remember that this amendment of the licensing system is only a means to an end, not the end itself. The object to be aimed at is the cure of, perhaps, the greatest evil that now afflicts our population. It has been said, indeed, in answer to every proposal for legislative interference, that you cannot make men sober by Act of Parliament. Nobody has advanced that you can. It is no more possible to create temperance, in its true sense, by enactment, than it is to create charity, or honesty, or truth. But the point on which I submit that the law sins against the canons of jurisprudence, as I have ventured to express them is this,—that it legalises temptation to vice. Speaking from the most moderate view of the question, putting on one side the total abstinence idea, is it not certain that the number of licensed houses in the kingdom vastly exceeds the amount required for any purpose of reasonable refreshment? But is it not equally certain, argue how you will, that every house in excess of that amount is an indefensible evil? Yet it is an evil existing under the direct sanction of the Legislature, which, by professing to regulate the number, undertakes the responsibility that it shall not exceed the legitimate limit. It appears from a report lately made to the Convocation, that there are upwards of a thousand parishes in the province of Canterbury alone, which have no public-house or beer-house. It would seem, therefore, that parishes can exist without these provocatives to irreligion and immorality. The prohibition in these cases proceeds from the land-owners, who find that the sobriety of the parish increases the value of the population; but it is certainly hard to find an argument for denying to the inhabitants themselves the privilege of a restriction which is in the power of a single landlord. I entertain, however, considerable doubts whether the progress of the Permissive Bill, supposing it to be passed into law, would be nearly so rapid as its enthusiastic supporters believe; and I am myself in favour of some measure of stringent repression acting firmly, equably, and uniformly over the whole kingdom, rather than of sporadic efforts in particular localities. But it must be admitted that the friends of that Bill have a right to urge it as the only practical measure before the country. He pleads that its provisions are against what is called the liberty of the subject, I hold as cheap on this matter as several others, concerning which it is urged with a sort of parrot repetition."

GRAHAM'S TEMPERANCE GUIDE.

October 1st, the Health Section devoted a sitting to a discussion on uncontrollable drunkards, and the President (Dr. Symonds) read a paper advocating the treatment of dipsomaniacs as lunatics; and a paper by Dr. Gairdner was also read entitled "Suggestion for Legislation with a view to the suppression and control of drunkenness." An interesting discussion followed, joined in by Dr. Pearson, Mr. Hastings, Dr. Stallard, Dr. Martin, Dr. Lankester, Dr. Macmillan, Dr. Charleton, and others.

On the same day, in the Ladies Conference, under the presidency of Miss Carpenter, the question of how to deal with female intemperance was ably treated by Mrs. Balfour, and Mrs. Nash supplied a number of important statements from medical men. Miss Carpenter strongly impressed upon the ladies the duty of earnest labour in the interest of temperance among their sex and the community at large.

Oct. 4th, in a sub-section of Economy and Trade, a paper written by Mr. Thomas Beggs of London, was read "On the remedies which lie within the scope of Voluntary Effort." The discussion, which was entirely in favour of total abstinence, was opened by Surendra Nath Banyea, of Calcutta, a Brahmin of high caste, and continued by Mr. J. Hughes, Rev. T. Howard, Mr. Brewin, Rev. J. Knell, Mr. Bowly, Dr. Jennings, Mr. Venning, Mr. Fox, Dr. Gale, Rev. S. A. Einthal, and Dr. Edmunds.

In the Reformatory section, Mr. Gillespie suggested that publicans supplying the parents of children not at school, should be fined, and the expense of the children's schooling charged on the publicans. On the evening of Oct. 4th, an enthusiastic Alliance meeting was held at the Bristol Athenæum.

Oct. 5th, section B of Economy and Trade was engaged in listening to papers by Professor F. W. Newman, on the "Essential Complement of the Promised Government Licensing Bill;" by Rev. W. Caine, M.A., on "The Sunday Liquor Traffic;" by Mr. W. Hoyle, on "The Social Causes of Commercial Depression, with special reference to the Cotton Trade;" by Rev. J. A. Johnston, of Glasgow, on "The Proposed Amendment of the Scottish License Laws;" by Rev. Thomas Rooke, on "The Licensing System;" by Dr. Martin, on "The Amendment of the Licensing System." Several discussions ensued in which a number of gentlemen took part. Sir John Davis, Bart., also read a paper in the Health Section on "Deductions from the Report on Convocation on Drunkenness." On the same evening, Sir John Bowring presided over a meeting in the Assembly Rooms to further the establishment of a working man's Club as a counteractive of the influence of the public-house. The meeting was addressed by Rev. Henry Solly, Dr. Edmunds, Mr. Raper, and others.

Oct. 6th, a conference on the licensing system was held in the Athenæum, and in the evening a public meeting, presided over by R. Charleton, Esq., was held, and addressed by Dr. Martin and others.

THE TRADES UNION CONGRESS.

At the Trades Union Congress, held in Birmingham in August last, Mr. George Potter read a remarkably able and striking paper, on "The Disorganisation of Labour," in which it was boldly asserted, that "if the army of labour is to conquer, drink must be subject to martial law, and must be watched by vigilan committees of those whom it seeks to destroy." Mr. Potter's paper was favourably commented upon by the public press.

THE LIVERPOOL CHURCH CONGRESS.

This Congress which met in October listened to a variety of papers bearing more or less upon the drink curse. Several interesting discussions were then excited, and at the Working Men's meeting, held Oct. 7, in St. George's Hall, the Archbishop of York, Dr. Thomson, said, amidst loud applause, "This particular question of temperance, I humbly submit, ought to be the very province of the minister of Christ, for you know, as well as I do, when I am saying these things, am not saying anything that threatens your freedom. You know as well as I do that the curse of this country is the great vice of drinking." The Archbishop in replying to the objection to legislation against the liquor traffic as "an interference with justice and freedom," remarked, "I call it a limitation on the power to set traps for the unwary by which their souls are ensnared."

[In various "Conferences" of the clergy and laity of the English Establishment, the question of intemperance has been discussed from a Total Abstinence and Alliance stand-point. At Middlesborough, an animated conversation preceded for some time, in the course of which the Rev. W. Keare, of Whitby, advocated the use of "the whole machinery of every parish towards the spread of temperance, and particularly by the formation of temperance societies in National and Sunday Schools."]

THE HISTORY OF DISTILLATION.

The origin of this art is extremely obscure. It appears that when at sea, the Phœnicians used, in extreme cases, to get potable water by boiling that of the sea and collecting the steam in sponges. It is also related that a monk of the name of Marcus, who belonged to the suite of St. Remi, collected the vapour of boiling wine in a piece of flannel, and squeezed it out upon the wounds of the soldiers at the siege of Rheims; with the same liquid mixed with honey he made a cordial for the dying, and it seems that the great Clovis himself did not disdain taking it. When alembics were discovered is not exactly known; but it is certain that in the 13th century Arnaud de Villeneuve or Arnaldo Villanovano, professor of music at Montpellier, was the first to improve the rude apparatus then in use for distillation, an art which he seriously studied and promoted. He wrote several volumes on his labours, and states among other things that "by a chemical process, there may be extracted from wine a liquid which has neither its colour nor its usual effects. The wine water is a water of immortality since it prolongs the days of man, dissipates peccant humours, revives the heart and keeps up youth. It cures cholic, dropsy, paralysis, &c." Arnaldo died in 1313, leaving his MSS. to his pupil Raymond Lulle, who became the most celebrated alchemist of the middle ages. He continued his master's researches and soon succeeded in obtaining fire-spirit or alcohol. The Moniteur, from which we glean these particulars, states that, having fallen in love with a beautiful maiden, and paid his addresses to her for some time in vain, she at length discovered to him the fact that she was suffering from an incurable cancer. He was so struck with horror at this that he entered a monastery, not, however without directing her to dress the sore with alcohol. The remedy proved of no avail, but this was the first instance of the new liquid being applied to the healing art. Distillation soon spread, and the wines of the Charentes were subjected to it about the 15th century, but various ordinances and police regulations soon restricted the art to a few privileged persons. The distillers and vinegar manufacturers were incorporated by Louis XII. in 1514, and invested with the sole right of making brandy and spirits of wine.—Galignani.

PARLIAMENTARY PROCEEDINGS IN 1869.

[In no session of Parliament since that of 1830 has the House of Commons directed so much attention to questions bearing on the Liquor Traffic and National Intemperance; and it is worthy of note that the one Act of the session, as the result of these discussions, is based on a principle the exact opposite of that which underlay the Beer Act of thirty-nine years ago. The tokens are pleasantly numerous that future legislation on the Drink-Traffic will be directly influenced by the propositions—that the sale of intoxicating liquors is a social act to be discouraged rather than promoted; and that the public who endure the evils arising from this act should to some extent be allowed to control and restrict it. These admissions may, if properly cultivated and applied, bear fruit most gratifying to the Temperance Reformer. The present generation may see them so carried out as to impose a veto on the liquor traffic whenever the local public opinion desires it.]

THE WINE AND BEERHOUSE ACT.

On February 16, the House in committee, motion by Mr. (afterwards Sir) H. J. Selwin-Ibbetson, that the chairman be directed to ask leave of the House to bring in a bill to amend the law for licensing beerhouses. The resolution was agreed to and reported to the House; leave was granted, and the bill was brought in and read a first time.—April 27, Sir H. J. Selwin-Ibbetson moved the second reading, which was supported by Messrs. Ackroyd and Hibbert, and acceded to by Mr. Bruce, (Home Secretary,) who said that there were already 32 Acts of Parliament in existence relating to public-houses and beerhouses, and that in committee he should move a clause to limit the action of the bill to two years.—Sir Robert Clifton moved the adjournment of the debate, and pressed the motion to a division, when, though Sir Robert induced Mr. Thomas Connolly to act as “teller,” not a vote was given in its favour, and 232 against it. Such a result of a motion was said to have been unexampled, and caused much merriment. The bill was then read a second time.—May 11, the bill passed into committee pro forma.—May 27, the bill passed through committee, and the schedules and preambles were agreed to.—June 7, the bill was read a third time.—June 8, the Marquis of Salisbury obtained leave to bring it into the House of Lords, and it was read a first time.—June 11, the Marquis of Salisbury moved the second reading; after remarks by the Earl of Derby and by the Earl of Morley, the bill was read a second time.—June 22, the bill passed through committee with amendments.—June 24, the report of amendments was brought up and received.—July 5, the bill was read a third time and passed, after Lord Kinnaird had withdrawn a proposal to extend to Scotland the requirement of magisterial certificates for licences to sell beer at one-halfpenny a pint; such licences he said were used to cover the sale of spirits. The bill received the royal assent July 12, and came into operation July 15. It is confined to England and Wales, and it provides that after the 15th of July no licence, or renewal of a licence, for the sale by retail of beer, cider, or wine, or any such articles, under the provisions of any of the acts previously recited shall be granted, except upon the production of a certificate signed by the magistrates. These certificates are to be granted at the ordinary brewster sessions, or at the adjournment of the same, as they affect beerhouse licences of the ordinary kind. Wine licences, or licences for the sale of table beer, may be procured at the special sessions for transfer of licences, as well as at the annual special licencing sessions. All persons in possession of a licence on the 1st of May in this year will be entitled to receive their certificates without demur. Those who have commenced business since the 1st of May will be considered in the light of new beginners, and will come under the "discretion" of the magistrates as to the necessity for them, as well as to whether the character of the applicant and his house be satisfactory. The "reserved rights" of the upwards of forty thousands of beershops in existence on the 1st of May are considerably qualified by the provision that their claim will be forfeited if the applicant has failed to produce satisfactory evidence of good character, or if the house or shop in respect of which a licence is sought is of a disorderly character, or frequented by thieves, prostitutes, or persons of bad character; or if the applicant, having previously held a licence, has forfeited it by his misconduct, or if the applicant or house is not duly qualified as by law is required. If the police authorities and the magistrates be as anxious for the removal of these sources of crime as has been represented, they will take care that an immense weeding out of the worst and most disreputable houses shall take place under these provisions. They can also, after the first conviction, take care that the houses are brought under their utmost control, however long they may have existed. New licences can only be granted where the applicant has given due notice to overseers, constables, and to the public, in the same way as in the case of public-houses. The Act provides that persons present in houses open at illegal hours shall be liable to penalties, and that houses licensed for the sale of table beer shall be under the same inspection as other houses. To constitute a second or a third offence no length of time is necessary to intervene. The Act provides for more facile conviction, by destroying the necessity of proof of passing of money, and rendering it unnecessary to give evidence of ownership or occupancy of neighbouring property used for consumption of liquors. The Act is supplemented by schedules supplying forms of application, &c., required under the Act.]

GRAHAM'S TEMPERANCE GUIDE.

IRISH SUNDAY LIQUOR BILL.

Monday, March 1, a bill "for further regulating the sale of liquor on Sundays in Ireland"—to limit the hours of sale of liquors to 2 to 7 p.m. in rural districts and 2 to 9 p.m. in towns—was intended by Mr. O'Reilly, Mr. Pim, and Mr. Peel Dawson.—March 5, Mr. O'Reilly moved the second reading, and was supported by Dr. Brewer and Mr. Fortescue (Irish Secretary). Mr. Murphy, who had made an amendment, withdrew it, and the bill was read a second time.—June 9, the bill was down for going into committee, but after a conversation, Mr. O'Reilly, reluctantly and in deference to the wishes of the government, assented to the discharge of the order and the abandonment of the bill, on the understanding that the licensing laws for Ireland would undergo revision in the next session.

THE SUNDAY SALE OF INTOXICATING LIQUORS.

On June 22nd, Mr. Rylands, M.P. for Warrington, moved in the House of Commons the following resolution:—"That in the opinion of this House, it is expedient that any measure for the general amendment of the laws for licensing publichouses, beerhouses, or refreshment-houses should include the prohibition of the sale of liquors on Sunday." After an able address by the hon. mover, speeches were delivered by Mr. Locke, Mr. Newdegate, Mr. Bruce (home sec.), and Mr. Hibbert, and Mr. Rylands said that after the distinct promise of the Home Secretary to deal with the question next session, he should withdraw his motion.

THE PERMISSIVE PROHIBITORY LIQUOR BILL.

On February 16th, Sir Wilfrid Lawson, M.P., gave notice in the House of Commons that he would, on Monday, Feb. 22nd, move for leave to bring in a bill to enable owners and occupiers of property in certain districts to prevent the common sale of intoxicating liquors within such districts. On the 22nd, when the House had gone into Committee (a necessary form, as the Bill was one affecting revenue), Sir W. Lawson moved for leave to introduce the Bill, and leave having been given the House resumed, and the resolution of leave was reported to the House by the Speaker, upon which the "bill was ordered to be brought in by Sir. Wilfrid Lawson (Carlisle), Mr. Bazley (Manchester), and Mr. Dalway (Carrickfergus)." Subsequently at the same sitting the bill was brought in and read a first time, and ordered to be printed, the second reading to be taken on Wednesday, May 12th.*

May 12th, Sir W. Lawson, Bart., moved the second reading of the bill in a calm, well-reasoned, and very admirable speech, and the motion was seconded by Mr. (now Sir T.) Bazley in a judicious and praiseworthy address. Col. Jervis moved that it be read that day six months. The second reading was supported by Mr. G. O. Morgan, Mr. Dalway, Mr. Jacob Bright, Lord Claud Hamilton, Mr. McLaren, and Dr. Dalrymple; while the postponement of the measure was advocated by Mr. Cawley, Right Hon. W. E. Forster, Lord Sandon, Mr. E. A. Leatham, Mr. Scourfield, Mr. Walter, Col. Corbett, Right Hon. A. H. Bruce (Home Secretary), Mr. Graves, and Sir George Grey. Sir W. Lawson briefly replied, declining to accede to the request to withdraw the bill and wait for the promised government measure. The House divided, when there appeared—for the second reading (including tellers) 89; against, 195; majority against, 106. Five members paired for and against the second reading.

Comparing the votes in 1864 with the votes in 1869 the comparison stands thus:—

	1864.			1869.
	For	Against		For	Against

Tellers	2	2	..	2	2
Pairs	3	3	..	5	5
	40	297		94	200

It thus appears that out of 337 members who recorded their opinions in 1864 the majority against the bill was 257; out of 294 in 1869 the adverse majority was 106—a diminution in the majority of 151.

* This Bill was substantially identical with the one introduced in 1864 by Mr. (now Sir) W. Lawson and Mr. Bazley. The principal and characterising clause was the tenth, as follows:—"From and after the time limited for the commencement of this act in any borough or parish, as hereinbefore provided, no licence whatever shall be granted or renewed for the sale of alcoholic liquor within such borough or parish; and any person selling or disposing of any alcoholic liquor within such borough or parish shall be dealt with as selling without licence, and shall be subject to all the penalties provided for such offence under any act or acts of Parliament regulating the sale of alcoholic liquors which may be in force at the time of the adoption of this act; provided, nevertheless, that nothing herein contained shall affect any rights or privilege conferred or enjoyed by virtue of any licence current or in force at the commencement of this act during its said currency, and that nothing herein contained shall be held to affect any sales made under the provisions of any statute permitting the sale of methylated spirits for use in the arts and manufactures of the United Kingdom."

THE BUDGET OF 1869.

The Right Hon. R. Lowe, Chancellor of the Exchequer, in concluding his annual financial statement, moved the resolutions of which he had given notice. The second of these provided that the Customs Duties on ale and beer should be revised, so as to put foreign beer on a level with the British sorts:—the duty on mum and spruce to be 21s. per barrel, and on other sorts of beer according to their specific gravity, 8s., 11s., and 16s. per barrel. The eighth resolution was "That from the 8th day of July, 1869, the duties of excise now payable upon licences, to be taken out by persons trading in or selling coffee, tea, cocoa nuts, chocolate, or pepper, shall cease to be payable." Though carrying out this resolution would involve a loss of about £73,000, Mr. Lowe said that he attached great importance to the remission, because it would facilitate the consumption of tea, by bringing it nearer to the homes of the poorer classes. He added, "There is always a public-house close by, but the grocer's is often at some distance." These with the other resolutions for abolishing the Fire Insurance Duty, and the 1s. duty on imported corn, have come into operation.

THE MINES' REGULATION BILL

Proposed by the Government, prohibited the payment of wages at public-houses and in any other form than current coin.

SELECT COMMITTEES.

The Select Committee on Parliamentary and Municipal elections procured a great mass of evidence on the conspicuous connexion of drinking-houses and drunkenness with both species of elections. Many of the witnesses declared themselves favourable to the prohibition of all use of public-houses for committee-rooms, and the closing of all such places on the day of election. Mr. Baron Martin and Mr. Justice Willis concurred in these recommendations. Among the resolutions proposed in the committee, but left over for future consideration, was the following, by Right Hon. John Bright:—"That the hiring of rooms in public-houses for committee-rooms during elections is a fruitful source of expense and of corruption, and should be discountenanced and forbidden by law." A draft report, submitted by the chairman, the Marquis of Hartington, recommended the closing of public-houses on nomination and polling days.

A select committee sat to enquire into the Scottish Poor Laws; and before this committee much valuable evidence was given by Rev. Dr. Begg and Mr. Councillor (now Bailie) Lewis, of Edinburgh, upon the connection of drinking with Scottish pauperism. Dr. Begg assigned the first and principal place to intemperance, and illustrated his affirmation by statistics carefully collected by himself in his own parish of Liberton. He also instituted inquiries in other places, and found on the authority of inspectors that drink had produced pauperism in proportions variously given at from one-half to seven-tenths. Dr. Begg wound up his evidence by the following recommendation:—"As to the means of reducing pauperism, I think it would be a good thing to keep a register of every person who applies for parish relief, and to do everything to suppress public-houses." Councillor Lewis, who, in opposition to Sir J. McNeil, considered pauperism in Scotland on the increase, declared the most prolific of all causes to be the drinking system. To this he traced three-fourths of the pauperism of his own city—Edinburgh, and urged, as the appropriate remedy, war on the public-houses, and denounced the reckless way in which licences are granted among the dwellings of the poor, "the very class whom we seek to benefit, and whose power to cope with temptation is too often the smallest."

"PUNCH" ON BEER AND SPIRITS.

Beer at the public-house, even if unadulterated, is for the most part spoiled by the beer-engine; spirits at the best are no better than blue ruin, and a nice drinking-fountain is an attraction likely to withdraw many a thirsty soul from a nasty bar.

GRAHAM'S TEMPERANCE GUIDE.

PARLIAMENTARY ELECTIONS IN 1869.

BRADFORD.—Mr. Ripley, who was returned at the general election, having been unseated on petition, a severe contest ensued between Mr. Thompson, (a local brewer and banker) and Mr. Edward Miall, resulting in the return of the latter by 9,235 votes against 7,732. This result was the more significant as the winning side did not use any drinking-shop as a committee-room. Mr. Miall avowed himself in favour of Sunday closing, and ready to vote for the second reading of the Permissive Bill.

DROGHEDA.—A petition, presented against the return of Mr. Benjamin Whitworth, was successful on the alleged ground of popular intimidation, but his eldest son, Mr. Thomas Whitworth, was elected in his place without opposition and amidst general enthusiasm, March 15, 1869.

STAFFORD.—The sitting members having been unseated on petition several Liberals were proposed, and on a ballot of Liberal voters, Mr. Benjamin Whitworth and Mr. T. W. Evans were chosen to contest the borough in the Liberal interest. The ballot stood—Whitworth, 702; Evans, 519; Odger, 375; Jenkins, 132. On the day of election the votes stood—Capt. Salt (c.), 1206; Hon. R. Talbot (c.), 1130; Mr. T. W. Evans (l.), 954; Mr. B. Whitworth (l.), 943. There were unmistakeable evidences that Mr. Whitworth, though last on the poll, was the most really 'popular' candidate of the four.

NOTTINGHAM.—The vacancy caused by the decease of Sir Robert Clifton led to a severe contest, resulting in the return of Mr. Seely by 4,627 votes over 5,517 given for Mr. Digby Seymour. Both candidates were waited upon, and Mr. Seely's reply was considered indicative of a desire for improved legislation on the liquor traffic.

NORTH CHESHIRE.—Sir E. W. Watkin (l.) and Mr. W. C. Brooks (c.) were waited upon by deputations which were courteously received. Sir E. W. Watkin said that localities ought to have power to protect themselves against the establishment of liquor shops in their midst. Mr. Brooks was elected.

THE "DAILY TELEGRAPH" ON DRINK versus SCHOOL.

By a little self-denial, by drinking a little less beer, by paying a fewer visits to the gin-shop, many parents might, instead of putting their children to work at the age of seven or eight, have left them at school till the age of eleven or twelve. A single pint of ale may cost fourpence, and for that sum, paid weekly, two children might be taught to read, write, and cipher. It is not poverty, it is beer that has robbed the children of knowledge, of liberty, morality, health, and long life. It is not poverty that fills our hospitals and gaols: it is gin. By the time that a child can use its hands, and earn eighteenpence a week, it is offered up on the altar of the great god—Gin.

AN OLD TEETOTALER.

Jacob Winans, of Milton, Mahoning county, Ohio, was born in 1769, and married at twenty-one. His wife bore him seventeen children, fourteen of whom are now living, the youngest having turned fifty. He has frequently walked his fifty-five miles a day, carrying a pack. At the age of ninety-five years he walked from Waterford, Erie county, Pa., to his present home, in two days. In July last, at the age of ninety-nine years, he walked from his daughter's residence in Garrettsville to Milton, a distance of thirty-one miles, in less than six consecutive hours, with only one rest, the mercury being ninety-six degrees. He has not tasted intoxicating liquors for over sixty years, never paid a dollar to a doctor or lawyer, has voted at every presidential election since the adoption of our Constitution, and has served his country in two wars.—Boston Traveller.

JUDICIAL TESTIMONIES ON DRINK AND DRINKING.

Chief Justice Bovill, in a letter to Archdeacon Sandford, (Convocation Report, p. 61.)—"I have no hesitation in stating that in the North of England and in most of the large towns, and the manufacturing and mining districts, intemperance is directly or indirectly the cause of by far the largest proportion of the crimes that come under my observation. Amongst a large class of our population intemperance in early life is the direct and immediate cause of every kind of immorality, profligacy, and vice, and soon leads to the commission of crime."

Lord Chief Baron Kelly, in a similar communication said, "I can only express my belief, indeed, I may say my conviction, that two-thirds of the crimes which come before the courts of law of this country are occasioned chiefly by intemperance." Chief Baron Kelly, at the Spring Assizes for Carmarthenshire spoke of excess in drink as "the besetting sin of the lower class, and perhaps, I may go further and say, classes and persons above their station, and the present cause of at least two-thirds of the crime committed in this country."

Mr. Justice Keating, in a letter to Archdeacon Sandford said, "I should suppose the testimony of every judge upon the bench would be the same, as to the fact that a very large proportion of the crimes of violence brought before us are traceable, either directly or indirectly, to the intemperate use of intoxicating liquors. In my own experience of more than nine years upon the bench corroborated by a very long experience at the bar, I have no hesitation in saying that such is the case. Some of the saddest cases with which we have to deal are those in which men go into public-houses respectable and respected, and came out felons."

Mr. Justice Hayes, at the Liverpool Winter Assizes, in allusion to the prevalence of intoxication in the northern and manufacturing counties, remarked, "That it was a great pity that so intelligent a community should be marked by a vice so dangerous and degrading, and urged the grand jury to exert all the influence which they could wield in their separate spheres to check its progress." The same judge, at the Newcastle Assizes, in July, 1869, referred to drunkenness as "the prevailing vice of the lower or working and industrious classes of that great town," and said he was "almost going to call it a crime, as it was the parent of so many crimes." Still later, at the Manchester Assizes, he said, "When people come to inquire into the causes of crime, with a view to ascertain how crime might be diminished, the fact presented itself at these assizes, as he had remarked at the last winter assizes at Liverpool, when he had to dispose of five murders and eight manslaughters, it would be proved that they were chiefly attributable to drinking and drunkenness, and to nothing else. Crime was the immediate and direct effect of that besetting evil and bad habit."

Sir J. Mellor, at the Croydon Assizes, (August) referred to education and keeping men from frequenting public-houses and beer shops as the only effectual way of dealing with crime. In this circuit he had found a very large proportion of crime traceable to drunkenness.

Baron Piggott, at the Shropshire Assizes, said, there was no disguising the fact, that much, if not all, of the business of the calendar was the result of strong drink.

Mr. Justice Lush, at the Spring Liverpool Assizes, said, "the two prisoners, (charged with wounding) were in a state of drunkenness, which, unhappily, seems to be the condition of the great proportion of the criminals mentioned in this calendar."

Mr. Justice Hannen, in addressing the Liverpool grand jury, said, "You know it has become a commonplace with judges to comment upon the enormous proportion which crimes resulting directly or indirectly from drunkenness bear to the crimes resulting from other causes. I trust that the recent legislation upon the subject of beer houses may not disappoint you or those who have been the authors of this act which I now have before me. There are, certainly, some points in it which seem to me to be of good promise."

At the Staffordshire Assizes, Mr. Justice Hannen referred "to the great number of offences which arise out of or indirectly from drunkenness. This is a subject which is just now pressing itself upon the attention of all thinking men, and it must press upon yourselves."

At the Monmouth Summer Assizes, Mr. Baron Piggott, dwelt forcibly upon the evils arising from drunkenness, and urged the suppression of houses which habitually turned out drunkards and consequently contributed to vice and immorality of every kind.

Mr. R. A. Cross, M.P., chairman of the Lancaster Quarter Sessions, said in January, "one great difficulty in regard to licensing public-houses is that, what ever body of men you may fix upon for granting licences, you will generally find one set of men strongly impressed (as I hope we all are) with the great evils resulting from drunkenness, and who are disposed to put down all public-houses as far as it lies in their power; whilst the other portion think that the best plan is to throw open houses for the sale of liquor in the same way as those for the sale of bread."

Mr. Alfred Milne, chairman of the Salford Hundred Quarter Sessions, said to the grand jury, "He had no doubt that in going through the cases they would find, as, he was sorry to say, all other grand juries found, that a great many of them arose from drunkenness. They might, in fact, say that the beerhouse and the spirit vault were the beginning and the end of all crime."

Mr. W. H. Higgin, Q.C., subsequently elected chairman of the Salford Quarter Sessions, called the attention of the grand jury to the New Beer House Act and described drunkenness as "one of the most fruitful sources of crime, especially the crime of murder."

At Oswestry, the Recorder; at the Flintshire Quarter Sessions, the chairman; at the Cornwall, the chairman; at the Longford, the chairman; at the Durham, the chairman; at the Huntingdonshire, the chairman; at the Northumberland, the presiding magistrate; at Bolton, the Recorder; and at Exeter, the Recorder, have, during the year, made allusions in their courts to the intimate connexion of drink and crime.

Presentments by grand juries were made, at the South Lancashire Assizes, to Mr. Justice Brett on the better mode of licensing beer houses; at the Bucks Assizes, on the tendency of beer houses to the creation of much crime.

IRELAND.

The Lord Chief Justice at the Leitrim Assizes, remarked, "That the constabulary returns showed that serious assaults were the offences most frequently committed in that county. Intoxication was the stimulating cause in most of these cases, and he expressed a hope that the gentry and clergy would exert themselves to put down this disgraceful vice, the parent of crime."

Mr. Justice Morris, at the Monaghan Spring Assizes, said, "It is a matter which requires your serious consideration as magistrates at the Quarter Sessions, whether, by more active supervision, you could not lessen the temptation at all events to those parties indulging in drink. The causes of some of the most serious offences often take place when persons have not drunk enough to make them incapable. In some of the more serious cases I have read over the informations, and it appears that the parties on both sides were in a state of intoxication."

Mr. Justice Lawson, at the Armagh Spring Assizes, said to the grand jury, "It appears that there have been no less than 1,821 convictions for drunkenness in this county since last assizes. Now, when we consider the population of the county and when we consider the small proportion which the convictions for drunkenness must necessarily bear to the actual amount of intemperance in the county, that certainly presents a picture by no means favourable, and our experience leads us to the conclusion that all the crimes we meet with on circuit are, more or less, directly or indirectly, caused by drunkenness."

Judge George, at Derry, March 9th, in addressing the grand jury, referred to the increase of the evil of intoxication, and suggested to them to consider what steps should be taken to check the crime.

A TERRESTRIAL PARADISE.—RESULTS OF LIQUOR PROHIBITION.

The thriving young community known as Vineland, in West Jersey, was founded on two fundamental principles:—1. That no land should be sold except in small tracts to actual settlers, under stipulations which oblige the purchasers to enter at once upon its improvement. 2. That there shall be no grog-shop, lagar-beer saloon, or other place licenced or permitted to sell alcoholic liquors, unless the people, at a regular election, shall otherwise decree (as they never do or will.) The settlement is now some twelve years old, and has about ten thousand inhabitants—all of them, but some half-dozen families, emigrants in moderate circumstances, including widows with young children, and the usual proportion of disabled or infirm persons. Aside from the founder, Mr. C. K. Landis, we believe no one of them could be considered rich, and not twenty would be termed "fore handed" in New England. Most of them live by tilling the soil, which is a part of the well-known "Jersey barrens," formerly devoted to the production of charcoal, and covered, from time immemorial, with a thin growth mainly of stunted pitch pines and scrub oaks. Naturally, many were utterly without experience in agriculture, and not well adapted to the new career on which they entered late in life. Surely, if there should be pauperism anywhere, we might reasonably expect it to be developed among the pioneers of Vineland, many of whom brought no more means than sufficed to pay for their land, and had to clear, build, fertilize, and plant, from the proceeds of their daily labour. Yet the Overseer of the Poor (Mr. T. C. Curtis) reports as follows:—"Though we have a population of 10,000 people, for the period of six months no settler or citizen of Vineland has required relief at my hands as Overseer of the Poor. Within 70 days there has been one case among what we call a floating population, at an expense of 4 dols.—During the entire year, there has only been one indictment, and that a trifling case of assault and battery among our coloured population.—So few are the fires in Vineland that we have no need of a fire department. There has only been one house burnt down in a year and two slight fires, which were soon put out.—We practically have no debt, and our taxes are only 1 per cent. on the valuation.—The police expenses of Vineland amount to 75 dollars per year, the sum paid to me; and our poor expenses a mere trifle.—I ascribe this remarkable state of things, so nearly approaching the golden age, to the industry of our people and the absence of king alcohol.—Let me give you, in contrast to this, the state of things in the town from which I came, in New England. The population of the town was 9,500—a little less than that of Vineland. It maintained forty liquor shops. These kept busy a police judge, city marshal, assistant marshal, four night watchmen, six policemen. Fires were almost continual. That small place maintained a paid fire department of four companies of 40 men each, at an expense of 3,000 dollars per annum. I belonged to this department for six years, and the fires averaged about one every two weeks, and mostly incendiary. The support of the poor cost 2,500 dollars per annum. The debt of the township was 120,000 dollars. The condition of things in this New England town is as favourable in that country as that of many other places where liquor is sold."—We challenge those journals which uphold liquor licences and the liquor traffic to set these facts before their readers and then argue them down if they can.

JUDICIAL DECISIONS.

1.—THE SUNDAY SALE OF LIQUOR.

Feb. 12, 1869, in the Common Pleas, before Justices Keating, Smith, and Betts, the case of Davis (appellant) and Scarse (respondents), judgment was given. The landlord of the Pegasus Tavern, in the Green-lanes, Stoke Newington, was fined by Mr. Cooke, the Clerkenwell police magistrate, for supplying refreshment to a number of persons before the legal hour for opening taverns on Sunday. These persons stated that they lived some distance from the house, and had been for a drive in the country. None of them were known to the police who lodged the complaint against the publican, and the latter appealed against the decision of the magistrate on the ground that the burden of proof that the people who came to his house were not travellers rested with the police. The court decided that the appellant was right, and quashed the conviction. A contrary decision, Mr. Justice Keating said, would cast upon an innkeeper a burden that it would be almost impossible for him to bear, for he could not on the one hand serve anybody whom he did not know to be a traveller, and if on the other hand he refused to serve anybody who was a traveller he might have an action brought against him for such refusal.

2.—THE PUBLIC-HOUSE CLOSING ACT.

A Liverpool publican, convicted under the Public-house Closing Act, which prohibits the sale of liquor between the hours of one and four, appealed to the Court of Queen's Bench, against the decision of the magistrates. The conviction was confirmed, and the case thus determined a point sometimes raised before other benches. It had been argued that, unless the sale of liquor could be proved, the presence of persons in a public-house did not justify a conviction. The decision now given rendered this argument untenable.

3.—SKITTLE PLAYING FOR BEER.

In the Court of Queen's Bench, an appeal was entered by a beerhouse keeper of Halesworth, Suffolk, against the decision of local magistrates who convicted the appellant of the offence of knowingly and wilfully allowing the playing of skittles upon his premises for beer. He was fined £1, and costs £1 2s. The case was as follows:—Four men were playing at skittles for a pint of beer each game, and the games went on till 20 or more pints of beer had been lost and won. Each of the players had his share of the beer, but instead of each paying his portion of the price, they agreed by playing these games to determine who, as losers, should pay for those who won. "This," Chief Justice Cockburn said, "is simply gambling." The other judges concurred, and the justices' decision was unanimously affirmed.

4.—BEER HOUSE LICENCES.

The Sheffield bench decided a case arising out of the 26th and 27th Vic., chap. 23, sec. 4, empowering holders of excise licences to sell beer wholesale on their premises, to take out an additional licence which authorises the holder to sell beer "in any less quantity, and in any other manner than as aforesaid, but not to be drunk or consumed on the premises where sold." It was contended that this second licence enabled the holder to sell beer during any hours of the day and night either on week-days or Sundays, the words "in any other manner than as aforesaid," overriding entirely the 16th and 17th Vic., which compelled the owners of the ordinary licence to close their houses during the hours of divine service. The bench held that the possession of such licences did not give the power claimed, and inflicted a fine in each case.

THE LICENSING SYSTEM AND ITS AMENDMENT.

The magisterial movement for a reform of the licensing system described in this GUIDE for 1869, was followed up on December 30th, by a meeting of the Liverpool magistrates, who adopted a memorial to the Home Secretary in favour of improved legislation on the licensing system. January 4th, similar action was taken by the magistrates of the West Riding of Yorkshire, and on the 5th by the North Riding magistrates, and the Manchester city magistrates. The magistrates of other counties, such as Shropshire, Cornwall, Cumberland, and Staffordshire—together with the magistrates of various cities and boroughs—as also the East Kent Chamber of Agriculture took part in this movement, and besides an aggregate deputation to the Home Secretary, March 9th, 1869, they strongly supported the bill brought in by Sir H. Selwin Ibbetson for stopping the issue of fresh beer licences without magistrates' certificates. [See "Proceedings in Parliament."] In this work considerable assistance was rendered by the "Beerhouse Amendment Association." [See Auxiliary Institutions—Political.] Neither were the Licensed Victuallers' Associations inactive in a cause which promised to cripple their old antagonists, the beersellers. Distinct from these operations were those of the "Association for promoting the Amendment of the Licensing System," of which Dr. Martin of Warrington, the Hon. Secretary was the chief promoter. [See Auxiliary Institutions—Political.] In connection with this Association, important conferences were held in Leeds and other places, and resolutions adopted in favour of the scheme of legislation proposed.

Different from the foregoing, but seeking the same general end, is the "National Association for promoting amendment in the laws relating to the Liquor Traffic," formed in Dec. 1868. By the committee of this body a conference was held on June 7th and 8th, in the Society of Arts' Rooms, Adelphi,—the four sessions of which were presided over by the Archbishop of York, Lord Lyttelton, Sir H. Johnstone, M.P., and Lord Sidmouth. Among the resolutions adopted, were the following:—"That in any measure which shall be introduced into parliament, whatever the licensing system may be, it be accompanied by some direct controlling power on the part of owners and occupiers of property." "That the licensing power shall be committed to a licensing body specially elected every year by the ratepayers in each district, which shall represent the public opinion of those directly interested in the question." "That one uniform licence be adopted." "That no legislation with regard to the liquor traffic will be satisfactory unless it includes a provision for much further restricting or wholly closing the drinking in public-houses and beershops on Saturday night and Sunday." "That, in the deliberate judgment of this conference, it is highly desirable that benefit clubs at public-houses should be illegal, and that music-halls, theatres, and similar places of amusement should not be licensed for the sale of intoxicating drinks, because it promotes a vast amount of disorder, juvenile profligacy, domestic misery, and personal immorality." [See Auxiliary Institutions—Political.]

SCOTLAND.

April 12th.—Deputations were received by the Lord Provost of magistrates of Glasgow in favour of a reduction in the number of public-houses. Memorials were presented from 102 ministers of Glasgow, 1,500 Sunday School Teachers, from town missionaries, from five large district city meetings, and from directors of the Scottish Temperance League. Out of 1,830 applications, old and new, 124 were refused; but the result of appeals reduced the refusals to 105, leaving the total number of licences 1,725 as compared with 1,741 in 1868.

STERLING.—A large and respectable deputation waited upon the magistrates, by whom a considerable number of new applications were refused.

INVERNESS.—A memorial signed by 400 persons was presented to the magistrates who unanimously passed the following resolution:—"That the number of licensed premises for the sale of intoxicating liquors within the Parliamentary boundaries is excessive, and it is highly expedient that the magistrates, in the exercise of their discretionary power, should gradually and judiciously restrict the number of such premises, and attach licences to houses of a suitable class only, and enforce strictly the Acts anent the regulation of public-houses."

AN ATHLETIC CHAMPION AND TEMPERANCE.

Mr. W. L. Clague is the master of the Sneyd schools, Burslem, and has obtained certificates which prove his success in his vocation. The following is extracted from the Staffordshire Sentinel:—"In a handicap race of 120 yards, and against 21 competitors, giving them six and seven yards start, Clague was second, being the swiftest heat of the five; then he slightly lost start while the others were promptly off—at the finish "dead heat" was the cry. The hop, skip, and jump prize was competed for in a shower of rain by 12 competitors; but all others were outstripped by Clague, who made 37ft 6in. Pole leaping followed, Clague having, amid general applause, gracefully and easily gone over a bar 8ft. 3in., was announced the winner. A 440 yards' flat race, for gold, silver, and bronze medals; 13 entries. W. L. Clague was again heavily handicapped, having to give 30 yards to three, and 40 yards to two; Clague was second. In a handicap flat race of 220 yards the second heat was won by a yard, by W. L. Clague, despite a present of 12 yards to the second, G. Torole. The running high jump brought out Clague and Bawn only. Clague secured the prize, a silver medal. A mile race for the president's prize, a gold medal. Early in the fourth lap, Clague wrested the lead from Kriapper; Clague then put on his strength, but there was less of that than in the afternoon, for he had been lavish in the use of it, and, after a slight spur, he succumbed, and walked in for the second prize. Mapplebeck having done the mile in four minutes thirty-seven seconds secured the gold medal." [It is not stated in the Sentinel what was a fact, that Clague, yielding to the importunities of his friends, drank a glass of sherry before running this race. He thus described his feelings to the writer:—"I never remember the taste of wines before, and its effect on me was depressing in the extreme; during the time I was running I felt it like a lump of lead, and I was forced to give in."] "Another item was a splendid three quarters mile steeple-chase. The hurdles were taken splendidly; Clague, although he had to give distance to all but one, 100 yards, in splendid style won the gold medal."

A blacksmith in Eyrie county was requested by a wealthy distiller to put up a lightning-rod on his distillery. The honest son of Vulcan instantly refused, remarking to the whiskey-maker, "If it is the Lord's will to send a streak of lightning through your distillery, I am not the man who would do anything to avert it." The blacksmith is a member of the Ohio Legislature.

3.—BEER MADE AND USED IN THE UNITED KINGDOM.

With regard to the beer made and used in 1868, the 48,119,033 bushels of malt used for beer would, on the Excise estimate of two bushels to a barrel, produce 24,059,516 barrels; and as a hundredweight of sugar yields as much alcohol as about five bushels of malt (four and four-fifths), the barrels of beer made from the 351,742 cwts. of sugar in 1868 would be 844,190 barrels, a total of 24,903,706 barrels, equal to 896,533,416 gallons.

4.—FOREIGN WINES.

The quantities entered and charged duty for home consumption were—1865, 11,993,860 gallons; 1866, 13,224,864 gallons; 1867, 13,675,793 gallons; 1868, 15,064,628 gallons.

5.—BRITISH WINES, CIDER, PERRY.

No statistics of these liquors are published, but the consumption of British wines cannot amount to less than a million gallons annually, while the quantity of cider produced yearly depends on the character of the apple-crop. The custom in some counties of paying the labourer partly in cider has very injurious results—physical, moral, and economic.

III.—Consumption of Corn in the Production of Intoxicating Drinks in 1868.

The malt officially reported as used in brewing and distilling in 1868 was 54,337,583 bushels, which may be treated as equivalent to as many bushels of barley; for though eight bushels of barley make (by the swelling of the grain) nine of malt, yet the Excise officers grant an allowance which brings down the quantity of malt rated to nearly the bulk of barley used.* Of this malt the amount consumed in making spirits was 4,549,813 bushels which produced (reckoning 18 gallons to eight bushels) 10,237,073 gallons; but the spirits produced, excluding the methylated sort, amounted to 22,664,575 gallons: so that in the manufacture of the remaining 12,427,502 gallons, the unmalted corn consumed was 5,523,328 bushels. The bushels of grain thus consumed were, therefore, in the aggregate, 59,860,911, and if an estimate is made for the probable growth of grain on land such in hop-planting (64,386 acres, producing 2,317,896 bushels)—and for the grain substituted by sugar in brewing (351,742 cwts., equal to 1,500,768 bushels)—we have from these calculations the following result:—

Corn used in brewing	..	..	..	bushels 49,787,770
Corn used in distilling	..	..	..	„ 10,073,141
Hop land might have produced	..	..	..	„ 2,317,896
Sugar used in brewing, equal to	..	..	..	„ 1,500,768

Loss of corn in brewing and distilling ..... „ 63,679,575

This result, it will be seen, is irrespective of the waste of fruit in the manufacture of cider, perry, and British wines; nor does it touch upon the waste of grapes, sugar, and other nutritious substances used in the manufacture of intoxicating drinks (rum, brandy, Geneva, and wines) imported into the British islands in 1868.

The amount of food represented by 63,679,575 bushels of grain is extraordinary. In bulk it is as much as the annual corn produce of Scotland (excluding the seed reserved). If this enormous quantity of corn was divided among the whole population, in families of five persons, it would allow 10 bushels of corn for every * Mr. T. Dunachie has drawn attention to this fact, one which would increase the estimate given in previous Nos. of this GUIDE of the waste of grain in the production of alcoholic drinks.

GRAHAM'S TEMPERANCE GUIDE.

family. A bushel is calculated to yield wholesome food equal to 15 four-pound loaves; so that the 4lb. loaves produced would, in the total, amount to nearly a thousand million (955,193,625), or 150 loaves to every family in the United Kingdom. If the distribution were confined to one family in four, 600 loaves would be assigned to each such family—no inconsiderable yearly allowance in itself of the staff of life. It may be said that much of the grain used in brewing and distilling would not be available for consumption as bread because not palatable to the people of this country. Though this may be true, the fact as to the destruction of so much nutritious grain is not affected; and the land on which this corn grows would certainly be available for the growth of varieties of food which would enter, directly or indirectly, into the household consumption of the population at large.

Or, it would form a fund to buy up all the Railways in the United Kingdom in less than three years; the net receipts of which in 1866 were £19,352,681, which could then be devoted to the public service.

VII.—Statistics of Crime, Drunkenness, Inquests, &c.

1.—JUDICIAL STATISTICS FOR THE YEAR ENDING SEP. 29, 1868.

The “Judicial Statistics of England and Wales for 1868” really refer to the year ending September 29th, 1868. The police employed numbered 25,832 (an increase of 1,759 in the year), at a cost, all expenses included, of £2,084,596 11s. 5d. The persons known to belong to the criminal classes, including tramps and vagrants, prostitutes, and “suspected persons,” were 118,390, of whom 16,074 were under 16 years of age; the males were 69,190, and the females 49,200. The total number for 1866-7 was 112,403. The houses of bad character are returned as 20,080. Of these 5,730 are stated to be “the resort of thieves and prostitutes;” and in this number are found 2,037 public-houses and 2,117 beer-shops. The public-houses with this black brand are 3 per cent. of the licensed houses, all of whom are legally supposed to be in the hands of fit and proper owners. The indictable crimes known to have been committed in the year were 59,080, but the persons apprehended were only 29,529; males 22,317, females 6,712. Of the whole number, 20,108 were committed for trial. The cases of murder were 129, and attempts to murder 61. The cases of manslaughter were 245. The number of cases proceeded against summarily, i. e. before local magistrates, were 490,752, and the convictions were 347,458; of males 288,177, of females 59,341. The cases proceeded against were more by 16,087 than those of 1866-7, and the convictions were 12,099 more, and the proportion of female cases was greater. The convictions were followed by 215,174 fines, and 87,364 terms of imprisonment, varying from fourteen days to above six months. The cases of assault were 92,978, of which 2,690 were "aggravated assaults on women and children." The cases of drunk and disorderly conduct were 111,465, making, with the assaults, a total of 204,443, or 42 per cent. of the whole number, in almost the whole of which strong drink was the instigating cause of the offence. The cases of drunk and disorderly for several years are given below, with their percentage of the total summary charges:—

1863-4 . . . . .	100,067 . . . . .	23 per cent.
1864-5 . . . . .	105,310 . . . . .	23 "
1865-6 . . . . .	104,368 . . . . .	22 "
1866-7 . . . . .	100,357 . . . . .	21 "
1867-8 . . . . .	111,465 . . . . .	23 "

In the classification of "character," 577 habitual drunkards (475 males, 102 females) are returned as apprehended for indictable offences, and 33,902 (25,573 males, 8,329 females) as proceeded against summarily; but it is explained that these "habitual drunkards" are not among those otherwise classed as known "thieves," "prostitutes," "vagrants," "suspicious characters," "previous good character," "character unknown." It is a notable fact that of the indictable offences, 6,756, 24 per cent. and of the summary cases, 187,694, 38 per cent. were charged against persons of "previous good character," besides nearly an equal number ascribed to persons of "character unknown;" and putting these together we have a total of 371,144 cases out of 520,281 arising from the misconduct of men and women who might have been supposed as unlikely to commit crime as the rest of the community. Why they did commit it, is explained in five cases out of six by the public-house and beershop. The inquests of the year were 24,774 (on males 17,476, on females 7,298), and in 320 cases, 13 in the 1,000, the verdict of "excessive drinking" was returned. Among the other verdicts were 261 of murder, 235 of manslaughter, 1,546 of suicide, 11,033 of accidental death, 2,824 of found dead, while 8,094 are ascribed to causes unnamed. But for the action of intoxicating drink, it may be safely concluded that these nearly 25,000 inquests would have dropped to one half. The inquests for 1866-7 were 24,648. Among the inquests for 1867-8, no fewer than 6,796 were on children of seven years and under, and of these children 1,348 were illegitimate. The costs of the inquests were £76,520 2s. 7d., an average of £3 1s. 9d. a case. The number of prisoners was 158,480 (males 121,086, females 37,394), of whom 1,800 were under twelve years of age. The daily average of persons imprisoned was 18,677, and the highest number in prison at one time was 23,098. The deaths were 200—no discredit to the abstinence regimen imposed upon the prisoners, whatever have been their previous habits. The prison officers of all grades were 2,509, and the prison expenses of all kinds for the year were £691,378 19s. 7d., of which only £49,180 10s. 6d. were repaid by profits of prisoners labour, &c. The convict prisons, which are separately grouped, contained 9,906 during the year, who were under the supervision of 1,362 officers, in establishments that cost £257,307 5s. 7d. The offenders in custody in reformatories during the year were 5,437, supported at a cost to the nation of £62,309, in addition to which there is an industrial school at Feltham, Middlesex, which had 591 in detention, and 52 other certified industrial schools, with 3,684 children. There were also 953 criminal lunatics under detention during the year, at a cost of £35,753 1s. 8d. It may be interesting to present some of the statistics in regard to apprehensions of persons drunk, or drunk and disorderly, the total number of which in the year ending September 29, 1868, was 111,465. The selections have respect to places having a population according to the census of 1861, of 20,000 and upwards. One caution, and it is of the greatest importance, must first be given—that the returns do not offer a means of strict comparison between the various cities and boroughs, as there is no uniform police rule relative to apprehending drunken persons, or their registration as such. Of course only a small proportion of drunk and drunk and disorderly persons are ever apprehended:—

ed with drunkenness has been classed among common assaults. Some towns of less than 10,000 inhabitants in 1861 are returned as having more police-charged drunkards among them than towns with seven times their population. That they are seven times as drunken as the others is out of the question.

In the year ending September, 1869, 12,197 publicans and beersellers were proceeded against for violations of the express conditions under which they carry on their trade. In this number of law-breakers it appears that there were 8,222 beersellers represented, and 3,975 publicans. The same persons were, in not a few cases, proceeded against more than once; but, as many more escaped legal process altogether, it may be assumed that at least that number of individuals were charged offences, the proof of which ought to have disqualified them for a renewal of the confidence reposed in them when their licences were first granted. But it is matter of universal notoriety, that the forfeiture of a public-house or beerhouse licence rarely occurs. How the magisterial jurisdiction conferred by the new Act will fully operate has yet to be seen.

2. THE LIQUOR TRAFFIC IN SEVENTEEN COUNTIES.

A parliamentary return has been issued, showing the number of public-houses and beershops in the counties of Beds, Bucks, Cambridge, Essex, Herts, Hunts, Leicester, Lincoln, Norfolk, Northampton, Oxford, Rutland, Salop, Stafford, Suffolk, Warwick, and Worcester, in the year ending September 29, 1866-7-8; the number proceeded against and fined; the number of licences withdrawn; and the number of persons proceeded against and fined or committed for drunkenness. The aggregate population (excluding the towns having their own police not included in this return) in 1861 was 3,545,267, and the average for the three years was as follows:—No. of public-houses, 10,162; No. of beershops, 7,973; public-houses proceeded against, 562; ditto beershops, 886; public-houses fined, 464; beershops, 700; public-houses deprived of licence, 29; ditto beershops, 5; persons proceeded against for drunkenness, 9,129; fined, 6,639; committed, 1,018.

4. THE LIQUOR TRAFFIC IN LIVERPOOL.

The report of Major Greig, Head Constable of Liverpool, gives the number of public-houses, bee-houses, &c., 29th September, 1868:—Public-houses, 1874; beer-houses, 652; refreshment-houses having beer licences, 71; total number of licensed houses, 2,598. As many as 219 licensed houses, or 1 in 11, close their houses voluntarily on the Lord's Day.

	Males.	Females.	Total.
Drunk and disorderly	5,201	5,662	10,863
Drunk and incapable	2,134	844	2,978
Drunk and assulting the police	896	232	1,128
Drunk and other assaults	422	133	555
Drunk and other offences	747	499	1,246
	9,400	7,370	16,770

The persons who were more or less intoxicated when brought to the Detective-office, or Bridewell, but were not locked up, were 3,010, thus making the total number of persons apprehended for drunkenness by the police very little short of 20,000 in the year. As the police do not notice ordinary cases of drunkenness, when the person is able to walk quietly to his home, the 20,000 cases given above represent but a small proportion of the actual amount of drunkenness in the town.

Number of times apprehended for drunkenness	Males.	Females.	Total.
Once	6,240	3,178	9,418
Twice	508	607	1,115
Thrice	83	276	359
Four	26	148	174
Five	15	56	71
Six	3	33	36
Seven	—	22	22
More than seven times	—	31	31

Two females were apprehended 16 times last year. One case is reported of a female being committed for drunkenness 119 times. Amongst those apprehended we find architects and builders, 3; artists, 9; attorneys, 4; clerks, and agents, 188; surgeons, 17.

In the three classes of offences, drunkenness, assaults on the police, and common assaults, which appear linked to each other, the aggregate increase over last year is 2,460; drunkenness is, however, the highest ever recorded, being an increase over the preceding year of 2,519 cases. For this I am quite unable to account. My conviction is that the blackest hours in the week for producing drunkenness are from ten to twelve on Saturday night.

The total cost of maintaining the poor, the police, the jails, &c., in Liverpool is, in round numbers, £500,000; of this, three-fourths at least is caused by drunkenness, say £375,000; number of public-houses, &c., say 2,500; number of paupers, 25,000; number of apprehensions for drunkenness, 20,000; number of policemen, 1,100. Therefore—1. Every public-house in Liverpool makes 10 paupers. 2. Every two public-houses keeps a policeman employed. 3. Every public-house sends eight persons to the police-court in the year. 4. Every public-house imposes a tax of about £160 a year on the ratepayers. The drink tax would supply the people of Liverpool with a Sefton Park every year.

5. CAUSE AND COST OF CRIME.

The Chaplain of the Pentonville Model Prison, in an official report, states:—Number of prisoners at the present time, 646, of whom 348 are confirmed drunkards, having 234 wives and 470 children, who, with their mothers, are maintained by the parishes to which they belong.

The account with the public will stand thus:—348 prisoners, at £20 per head, which is far below the actual cost (as shown by the Blue Book for the year to be £36 10s. 4d. in England and Wales for 1867 and 1868), £6,960; 234 wives, at 2s. per week, £1,216; 470 children, at 1s. 6d. per week, £1,833; total, £10,009.

6. ANTECEDENTS OF CRIMINALS IN LANCASHIRE.

The Chaplain of New Bailey Prison, Salford, (Rev. W. Caine, M.A.) states: "Out of 649 Protestant prisoners 563 had attended Sunday-schools six or seven years each on an average; of these 30 had been Sunday-school teachers. The prisoners themselves gave me an account of their past lives, and in order to get at the truth I put the same questions to many of them after intervals of several months, when they had even forgotten that I had ever spoken to them on the subject."

7. CRIME AND DRINKING IN SCOTLAND.

Mr. John Walsh, superintendent of police, Perth, in a careful pamphlet, full of statistics, on the inadequacy of existing Acts of Parliament against drunkenness in Scotland, states that the average daily number of prisoners through Scotland was, in 1868, 1,533 males and 1,019 females—total, 2,557; against a total of 1,940 (males, 1,264; females, 676) in 1841. The total number of prisoners under 21 years of age through Scotland in 1868, was 4,017 males, 1,761 females—total, 5,778; being about a fifth of the whole number of prisoners in the year, which is 26,843. Mr. Walsh attributes most of this crime and ignorance to the public-houses, and he urges further legislation 1, to prohibit publicans from selling drink to be consumed on the premises to persons under 21 years of age; 2, to deny to grocers licensed to sell drink the power of selling a less quantity than a quart; 3, to prevent the granting of licences to men engaged as workmen who entice fellow working men to their houses, and cannot properly look after them; 4, to deny licences to females; and 5, to increase the severity of the law against unlicensed houses, or (as they are called) "shebeens," making owners as well as occupants liable to penalties.

8. CRIME IN THE ARMY.

The Royal Commission on Courts Martial have obtained returns for the years 1865, 1866, and 1867, showing the amount of crime in the army. The number of soldiers tried by court-martial on charges of habitual drunkenness or drunkenness on duty was 8,656 in 1865, 10,857 in 1866, and 10,823 in 1867; but it must be remembered that since 1866 the charge for habitual drunkenness has been made imperative on the commission of the fourth offence. The trials for insubordination were 6.4 per 1,000 of strength in 1865, 6.1 in 1866; 6.0 in 1867; but 7.4 in 1868. The returns, so far as they are complete, show that in 1865 198,048 men were imprisoned by sentence of courts-martial for an aggregate of 1,144,745 days; in 1866, 190,919 for 1,121,757 days; in 1867, 189,781 men for

GRAHAM'S TEMPERANCE GUIDE.

1,134,058 days. It is to be hoped this serious loss of service may be lessened by stricter prison discipline and the new system of fines for drunkenness. 601 soldiers were flogged in 1865, 510 in 1866, 150 in 1867. The amount accruing from the fines will be formed into a general fund, to be applied, under the direction of the Secretary of State for War, to objects tending to the benefit of the soldiers of the army generally.

9. STATISTICS OF INTemperance.

How many persons die annually in England from intemperance is a question which it is impossible for the register-books reveal. The number of deaths directly [officially] referred to this cause is known; but in how many cases drunkenness was the means of setting up disease, or in other words, what proportion of the deaths by different diseases is indirectly the result of intemperance, cannot be determined. When the system has been impaired by excessive drinking it becomes susceptible to complaints which a sound constitution is enabled to resist. The debilitated and unhappy victims of this besettlement often fall beneath the first chilling breath of winter, and die of bronchitis or pneumonia. In many instances the record of the last illness which sealed the drunkard's fate is consumption, brain disease, or liver complaints, &c. According to the latest returns it appears that the number of deaths in England in 1867 directly ascribed to alcoholism was 743. In 1858, or nine years previously, the number was 712; in 1864 it reached 1,059, and in 1865 the deaths were 1,049. Of the 743 lives destroyed in 1867, 374 were expressly referred to intemperance, and 369 more vaguely to delirium tremens. The deaths from the two forms of disease in the ten years 1857-67 averaged 837 per annum. The fatal effect of the pernicious habit of excessive drinking begins to show itself at the age of 20-25, and continues to increase until the age 45-55, when it begins gradually to decline. It is lamentable to note that out of 3,041 deaths in the three years, 1864-6, no less than 626, or one-fifth, were those of female. The proportional number of deaths from alcoholism in each of the years 1858-67 to 1,000,000 of population was 37, 46, 39, 33, 35, 41, 52, 50, 44, and 35 respectively. In these ten years the deaths registered amounted to 8,370—viz., from intemperance 3,527; and from delirium tremens, 4,843.—Times. [In this Guide for 1869, there appeared a paper (page 84) on the "Annual Mortality from Drinking and Drunkenness," in which it is stated that at least 27,000 deaths arise directly from drink every year, and an equal number from the effects of drink on the social condition of children and others.]

VIII.—Pauperism in the United Kingdom.

On the 1st January, 1869, the number of adult able-bodied paupers were—indoor, 29,826; outdoor, 153,336; total, 183,162. All other paupers (except vagrants) were—indoor, 133,245; outdoor, 723,142; total, 856,389. Total—indoor, 163,071; outdoor, 876,478; in all, 1,039,549. On January 1, 1867, the total was 958,824; January 1, 1868, it was 1,034,823. In Scotland, on May 14, 1868, the paupers were returned at 80,032, and dependants, 48,944, a total of 128,926. The casual paupers raised this number to 350,000. In Ireland the indoor paupers in the first week in January, 1869, were 56,934; outdoor, 17,320; in asylums, 489; total, 74,743. The returns moved for in the House of Commons by Mr. Keblewich show the total number of paupers in the whole of England and Wales to have increased from 865,446 in 1859 to 992,640 in 1868; and of these, 16,557 in the former year were lunatics, and in the latter, 25,645. In the metropolis the total number of paupers has increased within the same period from 68,326 to 144,469, more than double; and the number of lunatic paupers from 3,216 to

GRAHAM'S TEMPERANCE GUIDE.

4,856. In the year ending Lady Day, 1868, the total expenditure from poor-rates for England and Wales was £11,380,593, and of this, £7,498,059 alone was devoted to the relief of the poor; the rest being absorbed in county, borough, police, highway, and other rates. In London, for the same period, the total expenditure from the poor-rate was £3,246,466, of which, £1,316,759 was paid for the relief of the poor. In Scotland, the expenditure, which was £295,000 in 1845, was £863,000 in 1868. Much of this filters into the drink-shop.

The Edinburgh Daily Review, referring to the pauperism of that city, writes—“After having consulted city missionaries, police-constables, and other reliable parties to whom their habits are well known, including a few keepers of public-houses in the more neglected districts of the city, we feel compelled to believe that more than one-third, or nearly one-half of the £18,000 which the ratepayers are compelled to contribute as outdoor relief, is expended upon intoxicating liquors by those drunken and degraded creatures.”

IX.—Temperance Insurance, and Hospital Treatment.

The United Kingdom Temperance and General Provident Institution was formed in 1840, and for nearly ten years no lives but those of abstainers were insured. Throughout those years the rate of mortality was exceedingly low. In 1850, a distinct section was opened for the insurance of lives of non-abstainers, every precaution being taken to exclude intemperate persons and free-livers. Since 1850 three bonuses have been declared—1855, 1860, 1865. The surpluses which had occurred to the Whole Life Department of the Temperance Section gave reversionary bonuses, ranging according to the age of the assured, from 35 to 75 per cent. on the premiums paid in 1855; from 35 to 86 per cent. in 1860; and from 23 to 56 per cent. in 1865. In the General Section the bonuses ranged from 23 to 50 per cent. in 1855; from 24 to 59 per cent. in 1860; and from 17 to 52 per cent. in 1865. In the report for 1868 the following paragraph appeared: The Actuary, Mr. Samuel Brown, reports that the mortality on the Whole Life Policies has been as follows, viz.: Expected Claims in the Temperance Section, 109 for £20,024; actual claims, 95 for £16,526. In the General Section, 201 claims for £39,515 were expected; the actual have been 179 for £51,055, less £15,000 received from re-assurance. Hence the net claims in this department have been £36,055. The net result for the three years which have elapsed since the last division of profits, is as follows, viz.: 314 claims expected for £56,974 in the Temperance Section, the actual have been 251 for £40,776; 572 claims expected in the General Section for £111,250, the actual have been 534 for £107,384.”—Extracts from Mr. Vivan's paper in Devon and Cornwall Journal, October.

The Whittington Assurance Company in declaring a triennial bonus for the three years ending April 30, 1869, assigned £2 8s. to its Temperance policy-holders, and £2 5s. to its other members.

The district comprised in these several electoral divisions contains about 9,500 inhabitants, many of whom are six, seven, and eight miles removed from the influences of a place for the sale of drink. The territory covers the three great roads leading west from the town of Dungannon, viz. :—From Dungannon to Caledon 12 miles ; from Dungannon to Ballygawley 9 miles ; from Dungannon to Aghnacloy 9 miles.

As to the Poor rates the following document will speak :—

In the above list the prohibitory divisions are italicised, and the one fact plain and incontrovertible is, that where the liquor traffic has been exorcised, the poor rates are very much lower than in the surrounding districts where it exists.

The next noticable feature in this district is, the total absence of crime within its borders. This could not have been written of it ten years ago, when the small village of Carnteel in one of the divisions sheltered six licensed public-houses, and enjoyed the protection of a police barracks with the ordinary number of policemen. But with the clearing-out of the liquor traffic, all necessity for the guardians of a peace that is never broken ceased, and the policemen were removed to a more suitable sphere for the exercise of their abilities.

XI.—Statistical Abstract of Prohibitory Parishes, &c., in the Province of Canterbury.

[For a complete List of Parishes, &c., see under the Temperance Movement in 1870.]

The Ecclesiastical Province of Canterbury comprised in 1861 a population of 14,071,164, residing in 33 English counties, the Principality of Wales 12 counties, and the Channel Islands.

The following table shows the number of parishes, &c. without a drink-shop in such counties with the population of each county, and the agregate population of the prohibitory parishes:—

It appears from the foregoing that one person in every 65 of the entire population of the Province of Canterbury lives in a prohibitory parish. If the counties, &c., in which there are no such parish are excluded, the proportion will be one person in every 54. Excluding the whole of the Metropolis, the proportion will be one in every 50.

Mr. John Bullock, of Bristol, Rhode Island, U.S., one hundred years old, on the 2nd day of June last, never drank a glass of alcoholic liquors in his life, and never had any need of or used spectacles. The old gentleman can see to pick up a pin or needle from the floor as well as any young person.

Dr. Tyng met an emigrant family going west. On one of the waggons there hung a jug with the bottom knocked out.—“What is that?” asked the doctor. “Why, it is my Taylor jug!” “And what is a Taylor jug?” asked the doctor again. “I had a son in General Taylor’s army in Mexico, and the General always told him to carry his whiskey-jug with a hole in the bottom, and that’s it. It is the best invention I ever met with for hard drinkers.”

THE UNITED KINGDOM ALLIANCE

President, Sir W. C. Trevelyan, Bart.; Vice-Presidents, Sir Wilfrid Lawson, M.P., and many others; Treasurer, Wm. Armitage, Esq.; Honorary Secretary, Samuel Pope, Esq., Q.C.; Secretary, T. H. Barker, Esq.; Parliamentary Agent, J. H. Raper, Esq.; Official Organ, "The Alliance News," weekly 1d. Offices, 41, John Dalton-street, Manchester, and 28, King William-street, Strand, London, W.C.

The United Kingdom Alliance was inaugurated June 1st, 1853, for the legislative suppression of the Liquor Traffic, which it seeks by means of a Permissive Law to permit the inhabitants of any district to veto the issue of all licences for the sale of intoxicating drinks therein, by two-thirds of the whole number of votes polled. An extensive district agency covering England, Wales, Scotland, and Ireland has continued in active operation; and the powerful agitation in support of Sir W. Lawson's Permissive Bill, and the increased support given to that measure in Parliament, as compared with 1864, have plainly marked the growing political strength of the Alliance. Its weekly organ "The Alliance News," is the most widely circulated of temperance publications, and "Meliora," a quarterly journal of Social Science, is likewise ably conducted. The annual meeting of the General Council took place on Tuesday, October, 19th, and was presided over by J. G. Richardson, Esq., of Bessbrook. In the evening an immense meeting was held in the Free Trade Hall, Dr. Temple, of Rugby, in the chair. The receipts from October 1st, 1868, to September 30th, 1869, were £13,586 5s. 10d.; expenditure £13,885 8s. 2d.; balance in hand (including balance last year) £1404 8s. 2d.

THE BRITISH TEMPERANCE LEAGUE

President, Joseph Thorp, Esq., J.P., Halifax; Treasurer, James Barlow, Esq., Mayor of Bolton; Hon. Secretary, Edward B. Dawson, Esq., LL.B., Lancaster; Chairman of Executive Committee, David Crossley, Esq., Farnworth; Financial and Corresponding Secretary, the Rev. E. F. Quant, Bolton; Official Organ, "The British Temperance Advocate," monthly 1d.; Office of the League, Manchester-road, Bolton.

The British Temperance League, the oldest of all temperance organisations in the United Kingdom, was established 15th September, 1835, in Manchester, and was originally called the British Association for the Promotion of Temperance. The 35th anniversary was held in the Temperance Hall, Bolton, on the 7th and 8th of July, 1869. A public meeting was held in the Hall, on each evening. In the general department the receipts were £1706 5s. 10d.; publication ditto, £311 11s. 2d.; "Advocate," £170 4s. 11d.; balance due to treasurer, £10 7s. 7d. The staff of agents numbered six, including two temperance missionaries. These, during the year, had visited 136 affiliated societies, besides extending their labours over nearly all parts of the country. They had delivered 1034 lectures, for which £572 13s. 1d. had been received; they had also delivered 227 free lectures and Band of Hope addresses. The "British Temperance Advocate," monthly 1d., is the organ of the League, which also publishes an Annual Register and a monthly Pictorial Tract. For above twenty years the Sunday drink traffic has been opposed by the League, and oft-repeated efforts have been made to put an end to it. The present restrictions upon the sale of drink during the former part of the Sunday are largely to be attributed to the agency of the League, and in all subsequent efforts in seeking further restrictions and the entire prohibition of the traffic on the Sunday, the Auxiliaries of the League, encouraged by the Executive, have taken an active part. The League has a members' list of 1,600 persons, who subscribe 2s. 6d. and upwards annually to the funds—this sum from total abstainers constituting membership irrespective of locality. On the Sunday previous to the last conference, sermons on the claims of the temperance cause were preached at the request of the executive of the League in and near Preston, and in other parts in different parts of the country, numbering in all above 140.

NATIONAL TEMPERANCE LEAGUE.

The League holds special meetings in London and the provinces, including drawing-room conferences, to which ladies and gentlemen of influence are invited. It also acts upon the various religious bodies of the country by means of sermons, conferences, &c. It commenced in October the issue of a "Medical Temperance Journal." It has an active paid agency, and various friends who assist as honorary deputations. Its annual fete at the Crystal Palace is an interesting feature in its operations; the number of visitors on the 31st of August last was 53,780. Its receipts from April, 1868, to April, 1869 were £4,000 5s. 1d.

This literature is circulated very extensively in Scotland, England, Ireland, and the colonies. The Register for 1869 contained the names of 6894 adult members, 1648 juvenile members, and 400 affiliated societies. ## GRAHAM'S TEMPERANCE GUIDE.

Chairman of Executive, James Torrens, Esq.; Vice-Chairman, Councillor R. Simpson; Honorary Secretary, J. L. Selkirk, Esq.; Secretary, Mr. Robert Mackay; Official Organ, "The Social Reformer," monthly, 1d.; Offices, 30, Hope-street, Glasgow. This association has just entered the twelfth year of its operations. The year ending 20th September, 1869, has been the most remarkable and successful in its history. Besides taking a prominent part in the general election it promoted a petitioning effort in favour of Sir W. Lawson's Permissive Prohibitory Liquor Bill, and in consequence, nearly 400 petitions were sent from Scotland in its favour, containing upwards of 125,000 signatures. The petition from Glasgow was the largest petition sent from any part of the United Kingdom, numbering 34,874 signatures. During the year 845 meetings have been held, 170 of them deputations, and many of them large demonstrations. The annual meeting of 1869, notwithstanding great rain, crowded the Great and Lesser City Halls of Glasgow. The Association has been fortunate too as regards its funds, the income being £1,525 3s. 10½d. as against £1,263 8s. 10½d. last year. The Guarantee Fund is progressing and will, it is hoped, be completed next year. "The Social Reformer" continues to be appreciated and has a growing circulation. At last annual meeting a proposal for asking a Permissive Bill for Scotland of a thorough-going character was submitted and enthusiastically carried. The staff of agents numbers seven, and their labours are highly approved and valued by a large and increasing circle of members and friends.

entitles an abstainer to membership. There are 121 societies affiliated with this association. The affiliation fee is 10s. per annum, which entitles them to visits from the agents and honorary deputations. The eleventh annual meeting was held in Belfast on the 30th and 31st of March, 1869. The report referred to many signs of progress, both as regards the efforts used to persuade men to become abstainers, and the spread of prohibition sentiments throughout the country. The balance in hand was £51 2s. 2d.

The twenty-third movable conference of this order commenced its sittings on Tuesday, 3rd August, in the Temperance Hall, Bradford. The order was established in Salford in 1835. It embraces all the advantages of sick and benefit societies, with this difference, that none of its meetings are held at public-houses, and a sine qua non of membership is pledge of abstinence from intoxicating drinks. Since the last conference more than 2,000 members have been initiated, the number now on the rolls being 13,844, included in 30 districts and 140 "tents." According to eminent actuaries, the average mortality among friendly societies was one in ninety-seven, or more than ten in a thousand; while in the Rechabite Society the mortality was only seven and a-half per thousand. Mr. Tidd Pratt's report of 1866 showed that in Lancashire the funds of the Odd-Fellows averaged £2 15s. per member, while the funds of the Rechabites averaged £4 18s. per member.

THE BRITISH NATIONAL DIVISION OF THE SONS OF TEMPERANCE.

This is a benefit society, formed on strict total abstinence principles, and all the branches in this country are registered under the Friendly Societies
Act. The order was originally established by a few earnest Washingtonians in the city of New York, U.S., on the 29th of September, 1842. It was introduced into England in 1853, and branches are now established all over the country. The last meeting of the National Division was held May 17-19 in London, and its position was reported to be as follows: Number of financial members, 7922; half ditto, 187;
honorary members, 187; cadets, 1360;
lady visitors 77; daughters of tem-

Most Worthy Treasurer, John T. W.
Mitchell, 15 John-street, Rochdale.

INDEPENDENT ORDER OF GOOD TEM-

This Order is not a sick club or bene-ted who are willing to take the pledge for life. The members are bound to respect and help each other, and, if desired, to watch by the bedside of any who are sick. Not being a benefit club, the subscriptions necessary to defray the expenses are very small. With the exceptions of recognition signs and passwords there are no secrets. The order is open to old and young, women as well as men. In the United States and Canada it numbers many thousand members. Five lodges have been opened in England, four of them at Birmingham, and one at Peckham, London. Others are in course of formation in several towns. ### District Collegiate Temperance Societies.

"The United Colleges Total Abstinence Union of London," consists of students connected with the following Colleges in the metropolis: New Coll. St. John's Wood (Independent); Regent's Park Coll. (Baptist); Hackney Coll. (Independent); Metropolitan Tab. Coll. (Baptist); Queen-Square Coll. (Presbyterian); Cheshunt Coll. (Countess Huntington's Connection). At the 12th anniversary, held 12th Feb., in the New College, St. John's Wood. Mr. Jackson, sec., read the annual report which stated that of 232 students last year in the different colleges training for the ministry, 108 were abstainers. This year, out of 251 only 81 are abstainers, or one-third of the whole number. This fact is attributable, not to the abandonment of teetotalism by students, but, in a great degree to the large number of abstaining students who have gone to undertake the charge of churches.

There is a Temperance Association connected with the Church Missionary College, Islington, London.

The Rev. James Towers, of Birkenhead, moderator of the English Synod of the United Presbyterian Church, paid a visit in April, at the request of the committee of the National Temperance League, to several colleges in North Wales. The Normal Training College was visited on the 27th, when the students, about 35 in number met Mr. Towers, and listened with deep attention to his address. The Rev. Daniel Rowland, the principal of the college was also present; like many of the students, he is an earnest total abstainer. On the 28th, Mr. Towers attended a united meeting of two colleges at Bala—one connected with the Calvinistic Methodist body, and the other with the Independents. Four professors and forty-two students were present, all of whom seemed deeply in earnest in regard to the subject brought before them, a very large proportion being already total abstainers.

A Students' Temperance Society exists in connection with the St. Andrew's University.

Of the students in connection with the Free Church College, Edinburgh a considerable portion are abstainers.

Professor Cairns is the President of the Students' Society in connection with the United Presbyterian Divinity Hall, Edinburgh.

AN EARLY TEMPERANCE PLEDGE.

The earliest temperance pledge which we have ever met with was found in a very old copy of the "Methodist Hymn Book," which recently came into possession of Mr. Robert Garnett, jun., of Warrington, and has by him been kindly forwarded for publication in this (the "Methodist Temperance") Magazine. We have great pleasure in giving publicity to these interesting documents, which explain themselves. — (Copy.) "June 10, 1761. Lord! this day I would renew my covenant, that through Thy Divine aid, I purpose and resolve, through Thy strength, and would exert all the powers Thou has given me, never to drink strong liquors during my natural life; and take thou my God to witness this as solemnly transacted in Thy sight, and signed my hand, JOHN WATSON." — "Lord! I have the greatest reason for gratitude and thankfulness to Thee, for enabling me so far to keep the covenant which I made with Thee, and I am thankful to Thee for Thy miraculous and restraining grace; and this being the 10th June, 1763, would I renew the same covenant, and beg Thy Divine assistance to help me in the performance of the same, and as far as Thou givest me I intend to execute the same; all which I promise through the supplies of Thy grace, and signed my hand, JOHN WATSON."

HOPS.—The acreage of land in Great Britain under hops in 1869 was 61,784, against 64,488 in 1868, and 64,284 in 1887.

The question why printers do not succeed as well as brewers is thus answered: Because printers work for the head, and brewers for the stomach,—and where twenty men have stomachs, but one has brains.

In a recent seizure of a champagne-making establishment in New York, the articles found on hand were four barrels of common white wine, one barrel of molasses, and one barrel of vitrol.

THE CENTRAL ASSOCIATION FOR STOPPING THE SALE OF INTOXICATING LIQUORS ON SUNDAY.

"A COW IN A RUM-JUG."

"A cow in a rum-jug!" ejaculated a toper, on reading the caption of this paragraph. "How will you make that out, Mr. Editor? Toads are found in solid rocks sometimes, I know, for I have seen 'em, but I never found a cow in a rum or any other jug, and I've looked into a great many." "That all may be: but, friend, if you never found a cow in a rum-jug, did you never lose one there? Now just take that jug down from the cupboard—empty it of rum—rinse it well with pure water—replace it on the shelf—and drop into it daily the six cent and ten cent pieces that were formerly dropped into the rumseller's till, for that good 'creature,' (very different from it though) that has so often filled it, and in the course of four or five months, will be found in it as good a cow as ever came to a man's house for thirty dollars."

TEMPERANCE ADVOCATES, AGENTS, MISSIONARIES, &amp;c.

[The following list does not include the names of local speakers, however popular and useful, but is intended to comprehend (1) The recognised Agents and Missionaries of Temperance Associations of all kinds; (2) Travelling Lecturers of good reputation, not officially connected with any society; (3) Other advocates accustomed to attend temperance meetings in various parts of the kingdom. The numerals (1, 2, or 3) attached to each name indicates the class. This list is doubtless incomplete, but care has been taken to make it correct up to the end of October, 1869. In the case of agents, the private address is placed between brackets; otherwise the address of the society is to be understood. Those marked with a star (*) are not engaged by a Temperance Society.

THINKING AND DOING.—It is not what people eat but what they digest that makes them strong. It is not what they gain but what they save that makes them rich. It is not what they read but what they remember that makes them learned. It is not what they profess but what they practice that makes them righteous.

WORK WITHOUT STRONG DRINK.—The enormous amount of labour performed without intoxicating drinks is something fabulous. There are men, such as Jessie Smith, at Kildgrove, and the several speakers at the Town Hall, Hanley, on April 24th, whose experience of abstinence from intoxicants before an intense heat, and with red hot iron to carry through the hottest days of summer, would to ordinary common sense seem to burn up all the sophistry of 'the Doctors order it.' The following case of John Corfield, at the Norton iron works, is not given as surpassing the previous examples, but showing a calculation of the prodigious weight removed of a difficult material to handle, and under disadvantageous circumstances. Before Mr. Corfield became an abstainer, he had often spent one pound per day in whiskey. John Corfield passes a bar of hot iron through a roller forwards and backwards ten times; the bar measures 18 feet; thirty-four bars make one ton, and he has made 18 tons per diem, and the space traversed is 3,386 yards, and this work he continues five days per week. Again, if we reckon the 18 tons per day, passed over 18 feet space ten times, equals 180 feet, or a lift of 900 tons of hot iron over a space of 18 feet in a week. Fancy one man doing work equal to removing a vessel of 900 tons, a distance of 18 feet every week.—Alliance News, May 9th.

AGRICULTURAL RETURNS.—From a variety of returns relating to the acreage of land in the United Kingdom during 1868 the following particulars are gleaned: England has a total area of 32;590,397 statute acres. Of these 7,400,170 are under corn crops, 2,750,008 under green crops, 760,979 under bare fallow, 2,298,087 under clover and artificial and other grasses under rotation, and 8,998,027 of permanent pasture exclusive of hill pastures. The total of estimated ordinary stock of cattle was 3,420,044, and of sheep 15,124,541. The total area in Ireland in statute acres is 20,322,641. Of these 2,173,433 are under corn crops, 1,482,091 under green crops, 28,060 under bare fallow, 1,600,495 under clover and artificial grass, and 10,002,058 under permanent pasture. In the latter item, however, lull pastures are included. The cattle were estimated at 3,742,932, and the sheep at 4,270,427.

Why is a drunkard hesitating to sign the pledge, like a half converted Hindoo? Because he is in doubt whether to give up the worship of the Jug-or-not, (Jugernaut).

In Cherrington, Gloucestershire, there is (or was) an inn bearing the significant name of "Trouble House."

"When a fellow is too lazy to work," says Sam Slick, "he paints his name over the door and calls it a tavern, and makes the whole neighbourhood as lazy as himself."

AMERICAN PRESIDENTIAL DECLARATION.

Being satisfied from observation and experience, as well as from medical testimony, that Ardent Spirit, as a drink, is not only needless but hurtful, and that the entire disuse of it would tend to promote the health, the virtue, and the happiness of the community, we hereby express our conviction, that should the citizens of the United States, and especially the young men, discontinue entirely the use of it, they would not only promote their own personal benefit, but the good of our country and the world.

U. S. GRANT.

In reference to the above, Mr. Delavan writes to Mr. J. N. Stearns, of New York.—“In 1833, I visited Presidents Madison, Adams, and Jackson, who signed the above. The document is on parchment, and has been presented to each succeeding President, and cheerfully signed, with the exception of President Harrison; he died before it was sent on. He, however, before he died, abandoned an interest in a distillery, to indicate his testimony, and would doubtless have signed the declaration if it had been presented to him. The early signatures were obtained before total abstinence was fully established, as the only platform on which the reform could rest with hope, as it was found, beyond cavil, that alcohol was the same fatal poison, when used as a drink in fermented ardent spirits, as in distilled. The Presidential Declaration was handed to our present Chief Magistrate a day or two after his inauguration, which he promptly signed, making thirteen signers.”

JAMES TEARE PRIZE ESSAYS.

The executors of Mr. James Teare, in accordance with his testamentary instructions, have offered two prizes of seventy and twenty-five guineas to the writers of the first and second best essays, sustaining the subjoining ten propositions. The essays are not to exceed each 160 pages 8vo., in minion type; and are to be written in a legible hand, on one side of the paper only, with marginal space for alterations. Each essay sent in for competition is to have a distinctive motto; and to be accompanied with a sealed letter, giving the name and address of the writer, with the motto of the essay, for identification, but which will not be opened until after the adjudication. The unsuccessful essays will be returned to the writers if required. The others will be retained as the property of the trustees of the late James Teare. Essays intended for this competition must be sent in on or before the 31st March, 1870, addressed to the James Teare Prize Essay Committee, the Trevelyn Hotel, Manchester. James Teare's definitions of the fundamental principles of teetotalism were:—1. That the drinking system, including the manufacture, sale, and use of alcoholic liquors, as beverages, is the greatest evil in our land. 2. That all intoxicating liquors are perfectly useless, for every purpose of life, as articles of diet. 3. That social moderate drinking creates the unnatural demand for the poison, which is the principal cause of the wide-spread scourge of intemperance. 4. That all alcoholic drinks are injurious to the health of the body and the mind, even when taken in great moderation, as it is called. 5. That it is contrary to the will of God, and consequently sinful and immoral, to convert the food of the people into liquid poison, and naturally destroys the bodies and souls of men. 6. That intoxicating wines or alcoholic drinks are nowhere recommended, sanctioned, or commanded in Scripture to be used as beverages. 7. That it is the supply of alcoholic liquors, furnished by the manufactures and vendors of the poison, that creates the unnatural demand, but not the demand the supply. 8. That as the traffic in alcoholic liquors is injurious to trade and commerce, and is the principal cause of poverty and crime, it is the duty of the government to put it down by legislative enactment. 9. That total and universal abstinence from making, selling, and drinking intoxicating liquors, is God's remedy for the intemperance of which we complain. 10. That teetotalism is not a mere matter of expediency, but is a scientific fact, based on chemistry, physiology, and Christian morality.

Woodford—A. Longford, Woodford; Tues. 7.

ALCOHOL.—“It would seem that this treacherous friend is ever to produce a momentary pleasure as a poor compensation for its lasting pains.”—J. Fenimore Cooper, in Homeward Bound.

A SIGNIFICANT VOTE.—The Rev. S. W. Hanks recently made a speech to the prisoners confined in the Maine State Prison, on the subject of temperance, and at the close of his remarks proposed a vote, requesting all who wanted to have the liquor shops open when their terms of service expired, to signify it by raising their hands. A moment of silence ensued, but not a hand appeared. He asked them if they were in favour of a prohibitory law, but the hands could not be counted. There was an unanimous vote in favour of closing the drinking shops. These men know full well that strong dring is the great cause of all their woe.

ONE OF THE KINGS OF PERSIA sent a very eminent physician to Mohammed, who, remaining a long time in Arabia without practice, at last grew weary, and presenting himself before the prophet, he thus addressed him: “Those who had a right to command me sent me here to practise physic; but since I came I have had no opportunity of showing my eminence in this profession, as no one seems to have any occasion for me.” Mahommed replied, “The custom of our country is this: we eat but when we are hungry, and always leave off while we have an appetite for more.” The physician answered, “That is the way to be always in health, and to render the physician useless;” and so saying, he took his leave and returned to Persia.

THE PEOPLE OF BROEK live in a state of proud seclusion from the rest of mankind, and being industrious, are able to banish the appearance of poverty, at least from their cottages. We walked for about an hour through the narrow streets, which were moated on a small scale. There were a great number of inferior houses, but not a single poor one—all were adorned more or less. One surgeon's house had an announcement that wine and strong liquors were to be had, as if these were still, in this Dutch Arcadia, articles of medicine only. It is said that there is no public-houses in Broek. We saw one, but did not go in. It did not look like the rest of the houses.” [It may not have been a drinking-shop.]—H. C. Robinson's Diary, 1815.

WORSER THAN WASTED. In 1868, 152,669,089 bushels of malted barley were used in brewing and distilling, besides the loss we sustain from the importation of all other kinds of intoxicating liquors. This would make at least 1,000,000,000 4lb. loaves, or nearly four loaves per week for every family in the United Kingdom. Or it would make bread for six millions of people. This is a most pernicious, sinful, and destructive way of using good grain which was intended by the Almighty as food for man and beast.

Since the above was in the printer's hands, the following particulars, not supplied by the Census Returns, have been received in relation to the population of the districts in Merionethshire without a drinking shop:—Bettws, 208; Cyffty, 250; Cylas, 175; Cynllwyd, 262; Doldrewn, 251; Garn, 409; Ismy-nydd, 486; Llangar, 211; Pennaen, 255; Pennantlliw, 424; Rhiwaeodog, 435; Selwrn, 145; Uchafon, 178; a total of 3,689. This number will have to be added to the Summary of Prohibitory Parishes given in Statistical Section of this GUIDE. The return for Merionethshire will then stand:—Prohibitory parishes, 15; population, 4,511; places, population of which is not known, 0. The general totals will have to be corrected as follows:—Prohibitory parishes, &c. 1,397; known population of such places, 222,258; places, of which the population is not known, 79.

ERRATA.

Despite the utmost care in revising the proofs of this GUIDE, a few errors have escaped correction. The following are the most prominent discovered previous to publication, but too late for revision in the body of the work:—Page 16, for "Bayley, Mrs. Mary," read "Bayly, Mrs. Mary." Page 17, for "Breary, Rev. T. H." read "Breay, Rev. T. H." Page 34, for "The proceeds were upwards of £," read "The proceeds were upwards of £940." Page 46, for "The Rev. Mr. Scheltema has persecuted," read "The Rev. Mr. Scheltema has prosecuted." Page 56, for "Rev. W. Keare of Whitby," read "Rev. W. Keane, of Whitby." Page 64, for "North Cheshire" (election), read "East Cheshire." Page 96, (Kent County Association), for "Formed at Cheetham, on Oct. 1, 1864," read "Formed at Chatham, Oct. 1, 1869."

A CURE FOR BAD TIMES. The remedy for our bad trade lies entirely with ourselves. If we think we can continue to squander one hundred millions yearly on drink, and also materially increase our local taxation, and sap the foundations of industry, virtue, and morality, we shall be greatly mistaken. We may have an abundant and profitable trade, we may have a contented, virtuous, and happy people; but if we are ever to secure this, we must remove the temptations to intemperance which are planted broad-cast over the land; and, in addition to this, if we would be safe, we must ourselves abstain from the drink, for the teachings of science and experience abundantly prove that intoxicating drinks are not only useless, but seductive and hurtful. And if there were none of the terrible evils which arise from intemperance, there are abundant reasons why we should abstain. But when the evils which arise from their use are so deplorable, it behoves all classes not only to abstain, but to do all they can to reclaim and save others.

GRAHAM'S TEMPERANCE GUIDE, HANDBOOK, AND ALMANACK FOR 1870,

EDITED BY REV. DAWSON BURNS, A.M.

This important work is now become the Teetotaler's Book of reference upon all matters affecting the interest of the Temperance Movement. The contents have now become so varied as to make it impossible to describe them in an advertisement.

Hundreds of unsolicited testimonials have been received from persons who have purchased the Guide. But, the following opinions of the Press, selected from many of similar kind, will show the value of this useful Manual :—

"Graham's Temperance Guide and Handbook is a complete cyclopædia of intelligence for all persons seeking information on temperance subjects. It is full of general statistics of the various societies, institutions, and persons connected with this question, and takes in all phases of the temperance movement. It is well got up, and cheap."—Morning Star.

"There is not, and never has been, any annual temperance handbook that could or can for a moment be compared with Graham's. In short, the Guide is indispensably the vade mecum of every temperance advocate."—Alliance News.

"This Guide contains a vast body of useful information, which may be relied on as correct."—British Temperance Advocate.

"We cordially commend the volume to temperance reformers in general, but, above all, to temperance workers, as an invaluable magazine of temperance ammunition."—Scottish League Journal.

"A complete Temperance Guide containing a large amount of temperance and general information not usually met with."—Western Temperance Herald.

"No Temperance Guide, Yearbook, or Almanack approaches Graham's in completeness of reliable information, fullness of detail, and abundance of interesting matter."—Temperance Times.

"To all the active part of the temperance public, we hold this Guide to be quite indispensable."—Meliora.

"Graham's Guide is an admirable book, and has an use and interest beyond the year it professes to serve. Its price is a trifle, yet it embodies information cheap at twenty times its cost."—Social Reformer.

The Guide will be supplied in quantities on the following low terms :—

YOUR ENCOURAGING SUPPORT IS RESPECTFULLY SOLICITED FOR

GRAHAM'S NATIONAL TEMPERANCE HARMONIST,

EDITED BY THE REV. JOHN COMPSTON.

ARRANGED FOR FOUR VOICES AND THE PIANOFORTE.

This unique and comprehensive work, which has been three years in preparation, is now finished, and is issued, neatly done up in cloth, red edges, at 3s., strongly bound at 4s., superior binding, gilt edges, 5s.

PRINCIPAL CHARACTERISTICS.

1st, COMPREHENSIVENESS.—It is by far the largest, and is acknowledged to be the best, volume of Temperance Song which has ever appeared. It contains 550 hymns and songs, old and new; the best productions of more than 150 authors, living and departed, carefully set to music of the highest character and suitable in style.

2nd, VARIETY.—So far from being a mere issue of the Editor's own compositions and adaptations, with a small number from other sources, it gives the ripest gatherings from the fields of Temperance verse, in both hemispheres, including the stirring strains of the earliest Temperance bards; the rousing songs in which our fathers poured forth their souls; and the progressive contributions of earnest and talented spirits up to the present hour.

No known author has been overlooked, and no eligible hymn, the use of which could be obtained, has been omitted, except in some regretted instances, necessitated by the exigencies of space.

Every phase of the great cause committed to the trust of Temperance men finds its place in the work; and yet taste has not been heedlessly sacrificed to the desire for variety. Barring the case of a few popular favourites, no hymn or song falling below a fair standard of merit has been inserted, and it is believed that the tendency of the Book will be to elevate and recommend the Temperance "Service of Song."

It has 388 Hymns for Temperance Meetings; 213 for Bands of Hope; 80 for Demonstrations and Anniversaries; nearly 100 for Prohibition and Alliance Auxiliaries; 164 for Evening Entertainments, the Home-circle, the Drawing-room, &c., and a large number specially suitable for Temperance Singing Classes.

Nor is there less variety in the musical department, which is arranged for four voices and the pianoforte. The hymn tunes, which are of the highest excellence, and of almost every conceivable metre, are over one-third of the whole; the part songs, one-fifth; the rounds, 30; and solos, one-sixth; temperance glees, catches, special part-songs, and anthems, one-seventh; national airs and original pieces, one-eighth; making a total of 340 musical gems, from nearly 300 composers. Great attention has been paid to the harmonies, which, it will be found, are equally removed from bald sameness, and pedantic intricacy.

3rd, UTILITY.—To have a Tune Book and Hymn Book in one is a convenience which will be greatly appreciated by many, and to have in one volume so much valuable material for use in Temperance Meetings, Band of Hope Meetings, Demonstrations, Social Parties, the Family Circle, and all the purposes of Temperance minstrelsy, will be regarded by thousands as a desideratum supplied.

An additional advantage is also provided in the separate issue of the whole of the words from the Harmonist, in "GRAHAM'S NATIONAL TEMPERANCE HYMN BOOK, containing 550 hymns, price 3d.

A Selection for Bands of Hope, containing all the suitable hymns (numbering more than 200), is also issued in "Graham's National Band of Hope Hymn Book," price 1d.

4th, SOUNDNESS OF SENTIMENT.—As a Christian Minister, and a teetotaler of thirty years' standing, the Editor has been solicitous and careful on this point, and believes the work will be found faithful to truth and taste.

5th, CHEAPNESS.—Never before has a work so comprehensive and complete been offered to the friends of the Temperance cause, at any price; and, now that a Handbook of Temperance Music and Poetry is provided, containing in itself the sum of nearly all the standard works of its class previously issued, it can be had at a price much below some, and scarcely higher than that of others hardly one-third its size.

Orders sent to the Publisher, G. H. GRAHAM, 35, Kingsley-road, Maidstone, or to the Editor, will be promptly attended to. May be had of all Booksellers, or from F. PITMAN, 20, Paternoster-row, London.

Societies taking quantities of the Harmonist or the Hymn Books will be supplied at reduced prices by applying direct to the Publisher.

550 Temperance Hymns and Songs adapted to Music, price 3d. each ; per 100, 18s. ; neat cloth binding, price 4d. ; leather, 6d. ; superior gilt, 1s.

GRAHAM'S NATIONAL TEMPERANCE HYMN BOOK,

Under the title of "The National Band of Hope Melodist," the first portion of this work was issued in 1864, and having during five years passed through several editions, it was deemed necessary greatly to enlarge its scope, and also to prepare and publish a suitable Tune Book for the entire words. This has been done in "GRAHAM'S NATIONAL TEMPERANCE HARMONIST," a work containing 340 Tunes, arranged for Four Voices and the Pianoforte, with the whole of the words underneath the music.

And now the Hymn Book is sent forth, neatly printed, at the low price of Three-pence containing 550 Hymns and Songs, old and new, the best productions of 150 Authors living and departed, giving the ripest gatherings from the fields of Temperance verse in this country and America, including the stirring strains of the early Temperance bards, the rousing songs in which our fathers poured forth their souls ; and the progressive contributions of earnest and talented spirit up to the present hour. As every phase of the great cause committed to the trust of Temperance Men finds its place in this national work, its variety is such as to make it a vade mecum for Temperance and Band of Hope Meetings, Demonstrations, Social Gathering, the Family Circle ; and while its low price will enable Societies generally to adopt it, they can do so with the confidence that no further change or expense will be necessary.

It has 338 Hymns for Temperance Meetings ; 213 for Bands of Hope ; 80 for Demonstrations and Anniversaries ; nearly 100 for Prohibition and Alliance Auxiliaries ; 164 for Evening Entertainments, the Home-circle, the Drawing-room, &c. ; and a large number specially suitable for Temperance Singing Classes.

213 HYMNS AND SONGS FOR ONE PENNY!

GRAHAM'S NATIONAL Band of Hope Hymn Book.

The Hymns and Songs in this work, which have been carefully selected from the larger book advertised above, will be found to comprise all the really Band of Hope Hymns from the original "MELODIST," together with nearly a hundred new ones, and to be specially suitable for juvenile abstainers, and for Band of Hope Gatherings.

A considerable number of the pieces have been written for this Publication, but the fact that its pages present the contributions of 112 Authors, shows that no single writer monopolizes an undue share of space.

With each hymn, references are given to the hymn-number in the larger work, and also to the proper music in GRAHAM'S NATIONAL TEMPERANCE HARMONIST ; so that while the book can be used as a complete work by itself, it will be of equal service in United Meetings.

Containing nearly as many hymns as the former Melodist, which was published at 2d., it is believed this will be the best and cheapest Penny Hymn Book ever offered to the friends of the Band of Hope movement.

It will be supplied to Societies, in paper covers, at 7s. per 100 ; or 500 for 30s. ; in neat cloth binding at 2d. each. per 100 14s. To ensure them at these terms orders with a remittance should be sent direct to the Publisher,

G. H. GRAHAM, 35, Kingsley-road, Maidstone.

EXTRACTS FROM REVIEWS OF THE FIRST EDITION.

"I have been reading the book you have sent me. It is the best of the kind I have seen. Regarded simply as a Biblical treatise, having no reference to a much disputed moral question, it would be pronounced by scholars a work of high philological value. It offers the most thorough analysis of a certain class of words that has been given to the public."—From Professor Taylor Lewis, Greek Professor, Union College, New York, United States.

"This handsome volume of 456 pages and 48 of introductory matter, will doubtless be a great boon to the advocates and friends generally of total abstinence societies. The writers are well known as taking very high ground on this subject, and no doubt this work will have a world-wide circulation. It is very handsomely got up."—Morning Star.

"It fully bears out the promise of its title-page. Well written, erudite, and comprehensive, this work provides the advocates of the temperance cause with sufficient reason for their faith, and abundant argument wherewith to put down doubters."—Colonial Mail.

"The Temperance reformer who is sometimes puzzled with a translation from not knowing the meaning of the original, will find here the answer to every argument. In short, this work is exhaustive of the subject, and will for that reason have a permanent value. The authors have employed their learning and research to a good purpose. It is no inconsiderable service to have rescued the Bible from the false glosses of prejudice and ignorance."—Northern Express.

"The authors adopt as their motto the words of St. Paul, 'rightly dividing the word of truth'; and no less than 493 passages of Holy Scripture are explained in the goodly volume before us."—Methodist Recorder.

"We recommend all parties to read this book, and involving as it does the question of the frown or approbation of Holy Scripture on our social drinking usages, it cannot be too gravely read or too devoutly pondered."—Baptist Messenger.

"The reader will find in this Commentary much information and suggestive matter."—Literary World.

"This volume is not a vapid and evanescent production. It is full of learned comment and criticism, the like of which can be found nowhere else. With all intelligent friends of the Temperance movement this Commentary will become a standard work."—General Baptist Magazine.

"Such a book or reference has long been needed. We consider it all but exhaustive on the subject. Every temperance speaker and debater, if not every abstainer, should possess this valuable volume."—Christian Times.

"An invaluable book. It is manifest that the authors' labours have been conducted in the spirit of able and eminently qualified investigators . . . ample, carefully attested, carefully culled, and carefully sifted materials, out of which an independent judgment may be formed. We heartily commend the Commentary to our readers as at once a Treasury and a Treasure."—Christian News.

"This book must henceforward have a place of its own, and that no obscure or mean place, in the library, not only of every temperance advocate, but of every one who really desires to learn the true bearings of the Scripture drink question. It is, in some respects, by far the most important contribution ever made at any one time to Temperance literature."—Alliance News.

PROPRIETORSHIP SECURED BY REGISTRATION.

LAMPOUGH'S EFFERVESCENT PYRETIC SALINE.

Important to all, more especially those who have charge of others, to Travellers, English Ministers, British Consuls, and Europeans seeking to reside in safety in tropical and foreign climates.

Half a teaspoonful, taken in a tumbler of water, contributes more to the refreshment of the body than any known beverage. Invigorating and vitalizing the blood, it alleviates thirst in a most agreeable manner, and furnishes the system with those saline principles that are essential to health.

Her Majesty's Representative, the Governor of Sierra Leone, in a Letter of Request for additional supply of the PYRETIC SALINE, states:—"It is of GREAT VALUE, and I shall rejoice to hear it is in the hands of all Europeans visiting the tropics."

The Public, and invalids especially, are informed that the late distinguished and learned Dr. Prout characterized its discovery as unfolding germs of immense benefit to mankind. Thirty years' experience confirms his opinion. Numbers who have previously suffered from Climates unsuited to the constitution, or the injuries of mercury, inducing disease in its Protean form, who had visited our native Bethesdian waters and pools in vain, have, by the daily taking of the PYRETIC SALINE, recovered their wonted health and vigour.

SICKNESS, HEADACHE, and NAUSEA are in most cases immediately relieved by taking a teaspoonful in a tumbler of cold water.

SEA VOYAGES.—It is a very valuable accompaniment, and should on no account be omitted. It instantly allays the sickness.

For BILLIOUS CONSTITUTIONS, giving rise to vitiated Secretions, Indigestion, and the Skin, a teaspoonful should be taken daily with the dinner in a tumbler of water, and the same quantity on going to bed.

In cases of DIARRHOEA, put as much Magnesia as will lie on a shilling into half-a-tumbler of water; let this fall to the bottom of the glass, and then stir into it a teaspoonful of the Saline, and drink during effervescence.

MAY BE OBTAINED OF THE PROPRIETOR,

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"This elegant preparation, which has been introduced as a substitute for Orange Quinine Wine, is likely to become a popular remedy. It is free of the bad some personal remedy, and has the effect of doubt the statement of its inventor, that each fluid ounce contains two grains of Howard's Quinine."
—CHEMIST & DRUGGIST
"This is a very agreeable compound if diluted to the proper pitch by water, and being very palatable will be a convenient mode of exhibiting the remedy to Children."

THE SOCIAL REFORMER: THE ORGAN OF THE SCOTTISH PERMISSIVE BILL ASSOCIATION.

This Magazine, now in its fourth volume, is the exponent and defender of an advanced temperance and prohibitory sentiment. It contains leading articles on all phases of the movement, and, while strongly enforcing the suppression of the Liquor Traffic, regards whatever is fitted to ameliorate the social condition of the people with active sympathy. Tales, poetry, varieties, and intelligence enliven its pages and increase the interest of its readers. In get up in size, and general excellence, it can fairly claim the first rank in Temperance Literature.

PRESENTATION BIBLES.

Admirably adapted for Marriage Gifts. Finished with great taste. Illustrations most beautiful. Prices from 30s. to £6, according to style of binding.

"Mr. M'Phun has evidently acted on the idea that presentations of merely ornamental articles are constantly being made on such important occasions as marriage, birth-days, &c., and that if he could produce a really beautiful book at a remarkably low price, the Holy Scriptures might thus, in the way of presentations, divide with bijouterie and other ornamental nic-nacs, the liberality of the donors. All we have to say is, that the Publisher has done his part nobly. It now remains for the Public to do theirs.—Glasgow Herald,"

CASTOR OIL PILLS,

FOR COSTIVENESS, LIVER COMPLAINT, PILES, OR WHENEVER A GENTLE BUT EFFECTUAL OPENING MEDICINE IS REQUIRED.

The beautiful production of nature, known familiarly as Castor Oil, is imported into this country in enormous quantities from the East Indies. The plant, however, which furnishes the Medicine, will grow in any warm climate, and is found abundantly upon the rock of Gibraltar.

From the earliest period, the virtues of Castor Oil have been known to the medical world, and to thousands of individuals whose delicate habit of body will not allow of strong purgative medicine, it has afforded the greatest relief.

How many, however, are utterly incapable of taking the Castor Oil in a fluid state? it is so thick and greasy on the tongue, that the utmost difficulty is often experienced in swallowing it, and still greater difficulty is felt by weakly persons in keeping it on the stomach, when by a great effort they have taken it.

Ladies, after confinement, often hear with a shudder, the nurse remark in a low voice, "The doctor left word that I was to give you a large tablespoonful of Castor Oil, ma'am."

FARDON'S CASTOR OIL PILLS will in such cases be welcome indeed; one of them taken fasting, and washed down with a cup of warm tea will act exactly like the Oil itself: easily and quickly, without inconveniencing the baby at the breast in any way.

Strong purgative medicines ought at all times to be avoided, as they are liable to occasion much "bearing down," as it is termed, and in many cases bring on that most distressing complaint hemorrhoids or piles. Fardon's Castor Oil Pills will be found most valuable, as their operation is unattended with griping pains, or an undue forcing of the lower bowel.

If at any time a little uneasiness has been experienced in their operation, it has invariably proved that a peculiar state of the stomach has been the occasion of it, although such may have been unjustly attributed to the Pills.

The Proprietor of the Castor Oil Pills assures all who may give them a trial, that they really are prepared with Castor Oil, and of the finest quality imported into England. One or two may be taken at a time.

The Castor Oil Pills are extremely serviceable in cases of Sick Headache, Flatulence, Indigestion, &c.; and are highly approved by all who have a dislike to any medicine containing mercury, or any of its preparations. Castor Oil, of course, being purely vegetable, no one is ever likely to take cold after these Pills.

Chemists will supply the Pills if ordered so to do, but they are prepared only by

IN BOXES AT 1s. 1d. EACH.

\* Do not be persuaded to purchase any Pills called "Castor Oil Pills," unless the name of FARDON, CHEMIST, MAIDSTONE, be on the Label and Wrapper.*

Ladies both before and after confinement have repeatedly declared that they would not be without the CASTOR OIL PILLS on any account whatever. Monthly Nurses also often recommend them, and as they are sent by post, any lady will receive a box (Free) by enclosing 15 Penny Stamps in an envelope, addressed to the Proprietor.
